Teachers Of County Asking For Meeting

Oil Belt Educational Association To Convene In Breckenridge
"Let's go to Big Spring in 1934" is the phrase on the tongue tips of teachers and representatives of Big Spring and Howard county as they prepare to win the Oil Belt Teachers Association spring meeting for this city.

First Lady

Mrs. Roosevelt has more to do with things than you've heard. The president consults her at least once a day and sometimes oftener. She gets a tremendous amount of mail. Right now she is trying to answer 3,000 letters that have piled up on her. She answers all letters, those knocking as well as boosting. With the exception that she won't answer those with a political tinge. She wrote some during the campaign. The recipients published them and her husband was embarrassed.

Kitchen Will Be Equipped To Feed Needy Children

Mr. F. C. Scott, city-county welfare worker, is issuing an appeal to the public for a gas range, some cooking utensils and other articles she can use in outfitting a kitchen in the old City Hall building at Third and Scurry streets, where she has headquarters. Her work has shown her, she said, that needy children of the city can better be cared for and their needs for proper food protected by arranging a kitchen, where they can come and be fed. In this way charity funds can be used to better advantage in many cases than by simply allotting quantities of groceries to families. In some instances children do not receive sufficient food, while adults, particularly men and boys, oftentimes receive more than they require, she declared. It is her plan to open the kitchen and have various women whose children need food to help in preparing it.

Chevrolet Staff Home From Dallas Conference

Local representatives of the Carter Chevrolet company have returned from Dallas, where they attended a meeting of Chevrolet dealers at the Baker hotel Monday. There were over 900 representatives present, and one of the most enthusiastic meetings in history of the company, was held, according to Ben H. Carter, local head. Carter Chevrolet company, local distributors. "There were 35 members of 100-car club present, including E. N. Ivey of Big Spring and each was presented with five $10 gold pieces as tokens of appreciation for their salesmanship," said Mr. Carter. "It was a most enthusiastic meeting," he added.

Four Hidalgo Men Face Indictments

EDINBURG (UP)—Four men including Harry Ridgway, business manager of the Donna Independent District, were named in indictments returned by the county grand jury. The indictments accuse the four of payment of poll taxes with funds of the district. Sid Hardin, district attorney, said the indictments are a forerunner of a thorough investigation of that department. He has seized books of the irrigation district, the city of Donna and the Donna Independent School District. The others indicted are Manuel Mora and T. Moya, employees of the district, and Harry Clemens, former employee. Each made bond of $500 and was freed. Ridgway and Moya are named for four counts and with Clemens are indicted on two other counts. Eight counts are filed against Mora. Ridgway gained notoriety last fall when he was named as the victim of a purported murder plot which resulted in four men being found guilty in district courts. An appeal of that decision is pending at the courts of criminal appeals at Austin. Hardin said the investigation would cover all departments. He said 23 secret indictments have been returned by the grand jury.

County Commissioners Action For Protection Of Highway Bond Issue Sinking Funds Proves Fortunate

Levies Were Maintained To Handle Maturities After Passage Of State Bond Assumption Act
Fixing the tax rate for this year to care for outstanding road bond issues so as to provide the same amount of funds for the interest and sinking funds that were levied before passage of the state road bond assumption act was a wise action on the part of the Howard County Commissioners Court, developments have shown. Some counties are reported facing difficulties because they reduced or eliminated levies to care for county bond issue payments. County Judge H. R. Debenport has been informed by the Board of County and District Road Bond Indebtedness, which has charge of computing amounts of bonds to be paid for the counties, that the state will pay only one-third of that portion due this year on the Howard county $300,000 road bond issue that the state has already agreed to pay. The portion to be

Daniels May Head Merged U. S. Agency

L. C. C., Shipping Board, Aeronautics Division May Be Joined
WASHINGTON (AP)—It was understood in informed circles Thursday that Joseph Daniels of North Carolina, Secretary of the Navy in the Wilson administration, is slated for chairmanship of a new government group to include the Interstate Commerce Commission, the Shipping Board and the aeronautics branch of the Department of Commerce. Such a consolidation would bring together the major transportation agencies of the federal government. It has been intimated for some time that President Roosevelt contemplated something of the sort.

Texas Farm Income For Two Months Is Equal To Last Year

DALLAS (UP)—Farm income in Texas during the first two months of 1933, was $24,582,520, and was about the same as for the same period of 1932, the Dallas News said. Closing of banks in accordance with the state and national holidays greatly inconvenienced ranchmen and operators of irrigated farms in South Texas, the review said. Ranchmen had just started sheep and goat shearing and the truck farmers need ready cash for cultivating and harvesting early crops. Corn and cotton planting has started in some South Texas counties with demand for seed greater than in several years, the News survey showed. Part of the demand was credited to replanting due to February frosts, but principally to farmers' preparations to raise sufficient foodstuffs for themselves and their livestock. Increases in feed acreage will be limited to South, Southeast and Northern Panhandle areas.

Authority To Open Sound Banks, Reorganize Others, Expand Currency Sought

Both Houses Aim To Get New Banking Bill To White House Thursday Night; Protection Of Depositors Is Urged
WASHINGTON (AP)—The house at 4:05 p. m. passed the Roosevelt banking bill and sent it to the senate. A short time later the senate banking committee favorably reported the administration's bank bill. WASHINGTON (AP)—A few words President Roosevelt urged the specially convened congress Thursday to empower him immediately to open "sound" banks, to reorganize other banks, and to provide currency expansion. The senate and house rushed arrangements to do his bidding after formal organization was completed. The president asked of congress immediate enactment of legislation giving the executive branch control over banks for protection of depositors; authority forthwith to open such banks as have already been ascertained to be in sound condition, and authority to open other such "sound" banks as rapidly as possible; authority to reorganize and reopen such banks as may be found to require reorganization and put them on a sound basis. He asked amendment of the federal reserve act to provide for such additional currency, adequately secured, as may become necessary to issue to meet all currency demands, and at the same time achieve this end without increasing the unsecured indebtedness of the government. The president called those recommendations "essential preliminary to subsequent legislation directed against speculation with funds of depositors." The president revealed also he soon will request congress to enact other measure of "immediate urgency." The proposals were believed in Democratic capital circles to be power to reduce government costs, including veterans funds, and to provide for a half billion dollars or so for public projects to spur employment. Democratic leaders were blaming it possible to get the banking bill to the White House Thursday night.

Crowds Grow At Truett Revival Meeting At First Baptist Church; Special Service Set For Sunday

With visitors from several neighboring towns joining more than 1,000 local people the Wednesday night crowd at the revival meeting being held at the First Baptist church (last seating capacity of the large auditorium, where a public address system has been installed to make certain every person will hear every word of the speaker, Dr. George W. Truett of Dallas. It was announced Thursday that Dr. Truett would deliver a special sermon Sunday afternoon at a service for men only to be started at 3 p. m. "Let us study the age-old story of a man who went out and found a man and brought him back to Christ," said Dr. Truett as he opened his Wednesday evening discourse. The scripture lesson was John 1:35-42, emphasizing "He said unto them 'Come ye' sa' a text." Dr. Truett spoke, in part, as follows: "He is wise who winneth souls. Andrew calls us back to first and supreme task of every Christian in the world. Christ said, 'Ye go and tell others about me. The watchword of Christ is 'Go and tell.' Christ is the only adequate help for our sinning world. Andrew calls us back to introducing souls to Him. Go and find someone in need and introduce him to the Divine Savior. There is no substitute for Him. We must come back to this method. What if every Christian sought faithfully for a year to bring every one to Christ? In this stressful civilization we are thrown back on the Divine

Registrations Of Deaths Above Births - Due To Long Delays

Births 20; deaths 22. Howard county's death and birth for February as reported to County Clerk J. I. Prichard by physicians. Girls led boys in the number of new residents of this section.

Some births reported by doctors were for November and no few were for December. It is a violation of the state law, Prichard said, for attending physicians not to report births or deaths within thirty days after the event.

Yet several births listed in the February report were more than thirty and some sixty days overdue. W. A. Davis, in charge of vital statistics for Texas, has written to different officials of the county deploring the record this county has in reporting vital statistics.

Beacons On Route Of Old Air Line Being Dismantled

Dismantling of seven beacon posts on the Elgin Spring-San Antonio airway was started Thursday under direction of D. A. Slater, assisted by J. B. Beauchamp, of the American Airways mechanical department. The equipment will be concentrated at Elgin and shipped to Buffalo, N. Y., to be installed on the route between Buffalo and Newark, N. Y., along which American Airways maintains night schedules.

Slater and Beauchamp arrived here Wednesday night on the westbound transcontinental ship. They expect to finish their work in several days. The Elgin Spring-San Antonio air mail line was discontinued recently by order of former Postmaster General Brown.

School Taxes May Be Paid Separately From Other Levies

School taxes may be paid separately from other taxes, Tax Collector Loy A. Acuff reminded taxpayers of Howard county Thursday. Unless several of the rural districts receive additional tax revenue soon, they face the prospect of raising money before a schedule, he said.

Legislation recently enacted and signed by Governor Ferguson permits payment of school taxes because that of county, state and city. The same holds true in independent school districts, he said. Acuff also called attention of automobile owners to the deadline for paying automobile license fees before midnight March 31. A two months extension of the date was granted by the Texas legislature in January.

Greer's Bill Goes To House

Different Redistricting Plan Expected In Lower Branch

AUSTIN, (UP)—Action in the House is expected on a measure by Sen. Julian P. Greer passed by the senate to redistrict Texas to allow for the three additional congressmen given the state in the new allotment measure passed last year. The house is expected to make some changes in the bill or substitute its own. Greer's bill is the only redistricting bill offered in the senate, but others have been introduced in the house. It is almost certain some changes will be made in the final act for Greer's bill.

The districts, under Greer's bill, would be comprised as follows: 1—Lamar county, Delta, Red River, Hopkins, Franklin, Texas Camp, Wood, Marion, Cass, Bowie, and Morris. 2—Jefferson, Orange, Hardin,

Tyler, Newton, Jasper, Sabine, Anderson, and San Augustine. 3—Trinity, Madison, Houston, Leon, Cherokee, Anderson, Henderson, Van Zandt and Kaufman. 4—Rains, Hunt, Rockwall, Collins, Fannin and Grayson. 5—Dallas. 6—Robertson, Limestone, Freestone, Navarro, Hill, Ellis, Johnson. 7—Fort Bend, Brazoria, Galveston, Chambers, Liberty, Montgomery, San Jacinto, Walker, Grimes, Brazos and Folk. 8—Harris. 9—Aransas, Refugio, Calhoun, Matagorda, Wharton, Jackson, Victoria, Goliad, Bee, DeWitt, Lavaca, San Patricio, Fayette, Colorado, Austin and Waller. 10—Washington, Burleson, Lee, Bastrop, Caldwell, Travis, Williamson, Maya, Blanco, Llano, Lampasas and San Saba. 11—Milam, Falls, Bell, McLennan, Coryell, Bosque and Ham-

One I Love

BEGIN HERE TODAY
JANET HILL is engaged to ROLF CARLYLE but they do not have enough money to marry. Janet is secretary to BRUCE HAMILTON, advertising manager of Every Home Magazine, and Rolf works for the Atlas Advertising Co. Janet insists they must have $300 in a savings account before they can be married.

HOWARD CRESSY, another employee of the magazine, tries to make dates with Janet but she discourages him.

She hurries home from the office one Saturday to prepare a surprise birthday dinner for Rolf. On the way she sees a couple entering the fashionable Brewer Hotel Coffee Shop and at first thinks the young man is Rolf. Afterward she decides she was mistaken.

The dinner party is a success. Janet and Rolf are at the table when he says, "There's something I want to talk to you about."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER III
 Rolf said slowly, "There's something I want to talk to you about." The girl looked up. "Something you want to talk to me about?" "Of course—what is it?"

He touched the lapel of his coat, an impatient little gesture of which he was entirely unaware. The motion flipped his coat back, revealing a vest pocket. It caught sudden remembrance to the girl.

"Why, I forgot!" she exclaimed. "It's your birthday and I forgot the most important part. I was so busy getting dinner ready and on the table that I didn't even think about it."

She was on her feet, crumpled the room and returned with a slim package in white.

"It's your present," Janet said smiling. "Your birthday present."

The slim white package emerged from its wrappings to become an oblong box. Rolf raised the lid. Within, side by side, resting in ridges of black satin lay a pale green pencil and a pale green pen.

"Why, Janet!"

"I hope you like them—you can change them if you don't. They came from Hayslip's—"

Rolf was fingering the fountain pen. "You know I lost my pen, didn't you?" he said. "It's a swell present, Janet. Thanks a lot." He slipped the pen and pencil into his vest pocket. "Just what I wanted. It's swell of you to go to so much bother—cooking dinner and everything—"

"It wasn't bother. It was fun."

"Maybe, but it was a lot of work. You—well, it was darned nice of you."

"But I wanted to do it! I've planned for weeks. Oh—but what was it you were going to tell me?"

She said there was something you wanted to talk about.

"Oh! Carlyle's voice broke off vaguely. 'I—oh, it wasn't anything important. It wasn't anything at all.' He hesitated, suddenly smiling that quick, winning smile. 'Listen, we'll have to hurry if we make the 8:15 show! It's almost eight now. Come on—I'll help with the dishes. Let's get at them—'

They didn't wash the dishes. Janet let him help clear them from the table. She put away the food and stacked the dishes on the kitchen shelf. They didn't want to miss the 8:15 show! It wasn't any fun if you came in after the opening of the picture.

The Neighborhood Theater was only two blocks away. At the Neighborhood feature pictures that had been shown six weeks before at the big downtown theaters were exhibited—with prices correspondingly reduced.

Walking beside Rolf, glancing up at him now and then, hurrying a little to keep up with his swinging stride, Janet Hill thought, as she had innumerable times before, that he was certainly handsome. She was always proud to be seen with Rolf. Janet, of course, hadn't had time to do much about her own appearance. She had just pulled on her wraps and come as she was.

They made the two blocks almost in silence. Janet was tired—pleasantly tired for it had been a full day. She was glad Rolf didn't want to talk. Glad to talk into the comfortable seat in the darkened theater and glad that the music a screen over-head was playing was a soothing, melodic waltz.

At first she paid little attention to the picture. It was a romance of a girl who worked for her living and a wealthy young aristocrat. From time to time the pretty blond heroine sang the waltz song. The plot became complicated, the hero and heroine had a misunderstanding and parted. The hero (whose fan mail was so great that he employed three secretaries to answer it) was not nearly so handsome as Rolf. He did, of course, have personality, an air or a manner that made all those women write to him.

Janet, sitting beside Rolf, listening to the music, pictured herself in the heroine's role and Rolf as the hero. She grew interested. When at last the screen actor took the leading lady into his arms, when all their difficulties had been swept away and a long life of happiness stretched before them she felt that it was her own future that was thus assured. Her future and Rolf's.

"I loved it!" she told him as they left the theater. "I thought it was a wonderful picture!"

"Not bad."

It did occur to Janet, as they walked home that Rolf was unusually quiet. Generally she was the quiet one and he did the talking. Generally he had plans for the next day.

As it turned out, Rolf did have plans. They had almost reached her door when he said casually, "By the way, Janet, I may not be able to come around tomorrow. Fellow I used to know in school is going to be in town. I promised I'd look him up—don't know what he'll want to do. Of course if I can break away early I'll give you a ring—"

Janet said she didn't mind. It wasn't true but she knew it was what Rolf expected her to say. And of course if he could break away from this friend he'd give her a ring.

"Thanks for the swell birthday party," he told her with that careless smile. "And the present! You're sure you don't mind about tomorrow, honey?"

"Of course not. Only I hope you'll call."

"I'll try. Well—take care of yourself."

That was Rolf's good-night. He always said it. "Take care of yourself." Janet had heard it so many hundreds of times. It was a joke because Rolf always said it with a grin that made it one.

A lousy kiss—they stood in the entrance of the rooming house and of course it had to be a hasty one—and then he was gone.

Janet went upstairs. She entered her room, switched on the light. There was the table just as they had left it. Already the roadsters were beginning to vibrate. A dark smudge in the little pottery tray. The dishes, stacked unwashed, looked drearily untidy.

Should she wash them tonight or leave them until tomorrow? Janet considered—and her housewife instinct won. As easy to do them now as in the morning. She tied the blue and white apron about her waist and set to work.

She was rinsing glassware in a pan of steaming water when there was a knock at the door.

"Who is it?" Janet called.

A ruffled yellow head appeared in the doorway. "It's me—Mollie," said a husky voice. "Mind if I come in?"

"Of course not."

The girl who entered wore an orange colored flannel bathrobe, pink pajamas and bright red headless slippers. She held the collar of the bathrobe tightly about her throat and just as she was about to speak again she was overwhelmed by an enormous sneeze.

"Heavens, Mollie—what a dreadful cold!"

The other girl sank into a chair. "It's awful!" she moaned. "I wonder if you could let me have a couple of aspirins? Mine are all gone. I've taken so many different cold cures in the last three days it's a wonder I'm alive. My head feels as big as a tub and it aches and my nose—"

Janet interrupted. "Here's the aspirin," she said. "Wait—I'll get you some water. But you ought to be in bed, Mollie. You ought to stay there all day tomorrow."

Mollie Lambert occupied the room across the hall from Janet's. She was a bookkeeper in an office on Center street. The two girls were not particularly friendly but occasionally one of them would drop into the other's room to borrow matches, coffee for breakfast, a nickel for a phone call or perhaps to loan a new magazine.

Having taken the aspirin tablet, Mollie leaned back in her chair. "Been stepping out with the boy friend?" she asked.

"We went to the Neighborhood. There's an awfully good picture there."

"Yeah, I know. Saw it at the Century. Oh, say—have you met the new man?"

"I saw him talking to Mrs. Snyder. Name's Grant. He's a big fellow, sort of good-looking, too. Going to have that front room on the next floor."

Janet said she had not met the new roomer. She was not interested. Newcomers came and went frequently at Mrs. Snyder's. She told Mollie her own way of curing a cold, urged her again to spend the next day in bed and promised to bring in her breakfast. A few minutes more and Mollie, grateful, had gone.

Janet washed the dishes and put them away. She addressed, got out a pink bathrobe, towels and soap and went down the hall to the bathroom. The price she paid Mrs. Snyder each month did not include the luxury of a private bath.

Half an hour later Janet slipped between the covers of her bed. She should have been happy; the birthday party had been a complete success. And yet somehow Janet wasn't happy! She was thinking that tomorrow would be a long day. Rolf wouldn't be there—unless he could escape his unwelcome friend.

"I wonder," Janet thought just before she dropped to sleep, "what it was Rolf was going to tell me. It seemed to be important—and then he said it wasn't. I wonder—"

Janet slept. Better for her that she did not know the answer to that unspoken question. She was to know soon enough.

The editor did not see Miss Black's editorial and Miss Black did not see his until the paper was printed. Later Miss Black covered legislative sessions in Austin, and Madison, Wis. She taught journalism in the University of Wisconsin from 1921 until 1923, during which period she met and married Mr. Little, who was then in charge of the Madison bureau of the United Press.

From Madison the two went to St. Louis, Mo., where Mr. Little was in charge of the United Press Bureau and Miss Black was labor editor and general reporter on the St. Louis Times.

When Mr. Little was transferred, following the 1924 election, to the Washington bureau, Miss Black did magazine and newspaper work and occasional temporary newspaper jobs for a year until she obtained a permanent position with a large Washington news bureau. After working there three years, she established her own bureau in October, 1928, with one newspaper, the Portland (Me.) Evening News.

Miss Black was also for several years managing editor of Equal Rights, the weekly feminist paper published by the National Woman's Party. During this period the Woman's party, on her application for a passport, won the ruling from the Department of State that a woman who has not changed her name upon marriage may obtain a passport in her own name.

Miss Black went to New York to cover Mrs. Roosevelt three weeks before inauguration and has traveled with her, obtained several exclusive stories about her, and followed her varied activities daily and nightly. She finds Mrs. Roosevelt very friendly and accessible, as a news source, and very refreshing and stimulating as mistress of the White House.

women in journalism, for eight years and was national president of the fraternity from 1929 until 1931.

Miss Black's first newspaper job was on the weekly Hustler at Thornton, on which she set type by hand, sold advertising, met the train, wrote news and editorials, addressed the wrappers and folded and mailed the papers.

There, too, she gained her first experience in political reporting during the campaign in which William P. Hobby was elected governor. Her editor supported James E. Ferguson, while Miss Black supported Hobby. Each issue of the paper contained an editorial on opposite sides of the controversy.

Mortgages

The plan to form a cooperative corporation to relieve the mortgage guarantee companies has struck another snag but the chances are still good that the measure will arrive in time. Meanwhile individual mortgage companies are feeling out their bondholders on a reduction-of-interest proposition and seem to be getting somewhere.

Texas Girl New Member Of U. P. Washington Staff

WASHINGTON, (UP)—Ruby A. Black, native of Limestone county, Tex., and a graduate of the University of Texas, has joined the Washington bureau of the United Press.

She will "cover" the press conference of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, the first "First Lady" to hold regular conferences with newspaper reporters.

She is also assigned to "cover" the Secretary of Labor, Miss Francis Perkins, who like Miss Black, uses her own name, although she is married to Paul C. Wilson and has an 18-year old daughter. Miss Black has been married since 1922 to Herbert Little, formerly of the United Press, now managing editor of the Scripps-Howard Newspaper Alliance in Washington. They have a daughter, Cornelia Jane Herbert Little, born Jan. 2, 1932.

Miss Black is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Black of Thornton. Her father was formerly a member of the Texas House of Representatives. She attended school at Pleasant Grove, near Thornton, public schools at Thornton, and high school at Sweetwater and was graduated from the University of Texas in 1921. After her graduation she did publicity work in Dallas for the Dallas Conference on Social Work.

Walsh

New York's sincere regret at the death of Senator Walsh was tempered by a feeling of relief on the part of certain corporations—especially utilities. They do not believe his successor will be so doctrinaire in the matter of strict enforcement of corporation laws.

Cummings

New York remembers Homer Cummings best for an incident of the 1924 convention. Cummings was chairman of the committee on resolutions which staged a bitter private war on a proposition to condemn the Ku Klux Klan. Cummings was the only member of the committee to emerge from the battle cool, unruffled and still on speaking terms with both sides. His friends say he has never been known to get excited about anything.

Cummings was a member of the Roosevelt pre-convention inner circle and his advice was highly regarded. His pinch-hitting act will probably not be so brief as current reports make out. You will not go astray if you believe he was in reserve from the first had Senator Walsh declined.

Morgenthau

The appointment of Henry Morgenthau Jr. to head the enlarged farm board was warmly approved here. Few York is cordially in favor of the plan to abandon stabilization activities. The specula-

College Bill Is Killed By Senate Vote

Hours In Debate On Merits Of Measure Spent In Upper House

AUSTIN (AP)—The Texas senate refused to permit a bill proposing to abolish eight state colleges to be printed after the finance committee had reported it adversely. Refusal to print by a vote of 16 to 10 killed the bill, sponsored by Senator W. R. Poage of Waco.

The senate spent hours in debate on merits of the proposal before it finally acted. It previously had ordered the bill printed by a vote of 14 to 12, but Senator Will D. Pace of Tyler moved to reconsider, explaining he had misunderstood the question and did not mean to vote to print on minority report. The consideration prevailed and the final blow was delivered.

Judiciary Fund Bill
The house refused to concur in senate amendments to its bill making appropriations for support of the judiciary for the biennium beginning on September 1.

The senate and house state affairs committees met in joint session Wednesday night to consider bills recommended by a legislative committee on organization and economy, to reorganize the state governmental departments. If the plan submitted should be adopted the number of departments, boards, and commissions would be reduced from 129 to 19.

The Poage bill would have abolished four state teachers colleges, North Texas at Denton, Southwest Texas at San Marcos, Sul Ross at Alpine and Stephen F. Austin at Nacogdoches.

Others Also Killed
The College of Arts and Industries at Kingsville, College of Mines at El Paso, John Tarleton Junior Agricultural college at Stephenville and North Texas Junior Agricultural college at Arlington also would have been abolished.

Advocates of the Poage bill criticized Senator W. K. Hopkins of Gonzales for writing the 25 per cent expense reduction plank and then moving the previous question to assure the death of a bill which would have eliminated several state colleges.

Senator Tom Deberry of Bogota described Hopkins as the "senator who wrote the 25 per cent reduction into the democratic platform and who doesn't try to write it into the appropriations bills."

Asks Amendments
Poage asked the bill be sent back to the finance committee where he would have a chance to offer some amendments. He said he was willing for John Tarleton to be continued and for the College of Arts and Industries to be maintained as a teachers college.

He argued that the bill was entitled to consideration by the senate, even though that body should decide to make radical changes in it.

The senate reached consideration of the county home rule constitutional amendment which had been developed, and the resolution was placed back on the table subject to call.

A bill was introduced in the senate to provide for assessment of the death penalty for attempted assassination. It was offered by Senator Clint Small of Amarillo and Walter Wood of Houston. Under the existing statutes the maximum penalty for assault to murder is 15 years.

Penalty Inadequate
Senator Small said such a penalty was inadequate, especially in view of the recent attempt on the life of President Roosevelt.

A bill to prohibit the state highway commission from rerouting designated highways around small cities and towns was passed in the house. The rerouting of existing highways through the small cities and towns would be made subject to approval of the county commissioners courts.

The house passed a bill to reduce by approximately one third the existing fees for the registration of passenger motor vehicles and light trucks.

Final passage was given bills to accord manufacturers of mausoleums and cemetery markers a lien on the property and to give hospitals liens for services.

The house adopted a resolution requesting the federal government to consider Texas granite in preparing specifications for public buildings.

West Texas Land Bills
A preliminary skirmish over passage of the so-called "West Texas land bills" was had in the house when Representative W. E. Jones of Jourdanton moved to set the first of the bills for special order at 10 a. m. Friday. The motion lacked four votes of the two thirds necessary to set the bill for special order.

The bills would provide for settlement of the amounts owing to the state from bonus and rentals on state-patented oil land in West Texas under the State supreme court ruling that the state was entitled to one-half the bonus and

East Texas Lad Stars As Athlete With Artificial Leg

Despite the handicap of playing on an artificial right leg from the knee down, J. W. Dale of the Pine Tree School team of Gregg county, Texas, three miles west of Longview, is making a mark for himself in athletics. He was voted the most valuable man on his team at the recent district tournament held in Jacksonville, where Pine Tree competed as Class B representative of Gregg county. In recognition of his spirit and fine play, he has been awarded an appropriately engraved silver basketball by Archie S. Underwood, Athens Sportsman.

Dale also plays football and is a lover of all sports. He lost his leg four years ago as a result of an accidental gunshot wound while squirrel hunting.

Efforts To Extinguish Refugio Well Fruitless

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP)—All efforts to extinguish a flaming well which caused extensive damage to residential property in Refugio county had been unsuccessful Thursday. The main crater of the well gradually was closing in but two new craters were forming.

Local Boy Wins Honors

Beverly Rockhold was one of seven Freshmen to be issued a track suit at the University of Texas recently. Beverly won first place in the Freshman 100-yard dash and second in the 175 yard, playing against the varsity team.

The Little Campus Dormitory basketball team on which Beverly plays forward, has won the club championship and has only two games between it and University championship.

Kidnaping Victim Tries To Strike Suspect In Case

DENVER—Police said Charles Boettcher, II, sought to throttle Arthur Youngberg, suspect in his abduction, in a dramatic meeting late Wednesday.

Chief of Police Albert T. Clark brought the two men together in his office after Youngberg had been removed here from the remote South Dakota ranch where police declare Boettcher was held captive for 16 days before $50,000 ransom was paid.

Highly Nervous
Boettcher, Clark said, was in a highly nervous state. He had just come from a hospital where his wife, Anna Lou Boettcher, had given birth to a child.

"About eight feet separated the men when they were brought to management to make such adjustments and to initiate such policies as many as necessary to provide employment for idle people and to return them to the wage-earning class, where they may exercise their maximum buying power and thus create a demand for marketable goods."

"First, the restoration of buying power through the establishment and maintenance of high wage standards. In the opinion of labor or the time has arrived when wage cutting should end and when corporations and humane employers should boldly and courageously lead in announcing increases in wages to all employes."

"Second, in order to take up the slack of unemployment and to deal constructively with the problem of mechanized industry, the five-day work week and the six-hour day should be generally and universally applied."

"Third, the creation of credit facilities so that both small and large employers may finance production. If credit were made available and more elastic and flexible there are many employers who would venture into the field of production and thus work opportunities for many of the unemployed would be created."

Direct Action Is Needed Says A.F.L. Leader

Three-Point Program Of Organized Labor Outlined

NEW YORK—Declaring the situation "calls for direct, immediate action," William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, outlined a three-point program sponsored by organized labor for leading the country out of the economic depression.

This problem, he said, calls for:

1. Restoration of the buying power of the country through establishment and maintenance of high wage standards.
2. Establishment of the five-day week and six-hour work day.
3. Creation of credit facilities to enable both large and small employers to finance production.

After declaring the present crisis had been brought about directly by the crumbling purchasing power of the people, as a result of wage slashes and widespread unemployment, Green, speaking at a luncheon of the New York Board of Trade, said:

"Suggestions for inflation of currency, for rejuvenation of our monetary standards and for the settlement of international debts and international problems, as remedies for unemployment, fall far short of the mark."

"The present situation calls for direct, immediate action. The clear call of the moment is to industrial rentals. One of the bills would provide for forfeiture and repurchase of the land by existing owners at a nominal price while the other would allow the land owners 20 years in which to pay the state its share of the past bonus and rentals.

The house also refused to set for special consideration a bill to establish a state public utilities commission to assume general rate supervision over all utilities.

A bill to remit the penalties and interest on all taxes that were delinquent on February 1, 1932, and to provide for payment in ten annual installments was set for special hearing in the house for 10 a. m. Friday.
