Why, the Son-of-a-Gun!

HOUSTON. (UP)—The celebrated desire of the poet, Robert Burns—to see ourselves as others see us—has been attained by Deputy Prohibition Administrator C. H. Kellogg. Carrying a load of confiscated beer and whiskey, Kellogg halted his car at a red light. A young man in another machine drew up and halted his car at a red light. Kellogg's bottles rattled loudly. "What you got there?" asked the youth. "Just a little beer and whiskey," replied Kellogg. "You'd better watch out," warned the other, "or old man Kellogg will get you and take your car and everything." "He wouldn't take my car, would he?" "Take your car!" said the youth. "Why, that son-of-a-gun would take his grandmother's car."

Backward Walker Around World Is Here on Thursday

Plennie L. Wingo, former Abletman, who set out from Fort Worth April 15, 1931 to walk around the world in reverse, that is to say backward, reached Midland Thursday afternoon.

Delma Ausmus of Big Spring met Wingo on the highway near Odessa Thursday morning and found they were old acquaintances. Wingo expected to say in Midland Thursday night, but kept putting his best foot backward and continued to Stanton, from Hamburg, Germany to Constantinople, and from the Pacific coast back to his native West Texas. He was reported by Ausmus to be anxious to get back to Abilene. He has paid expenses by doing street stunts for theatres and other advertisers, and has even walked backward along tops of high buildings. He was barred from crossing Asia but worked his way on ships to resume his round-the-globe journey after skipping that continent. He could say little about his journey, probably having seen everything backward.

36,000 Minnows Available Free

Thirty-six thousand "head" of fish will be distributed at Midland Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. The chamber of commerce Friday was notifying the 36 ranchers and farmers who ordered fish to be on the south side of the court house Sunday morning to receive their supplies. T. E. Sammons, state game warden, was in San Angelo this week to learn when the Midland quota of fish ordered through the chamber of commerce would arrive in Midland. A truck from the fish hatchery will arrive at 10 a. m. Oct. 9, and all persons who filled out orders for fish must get them, deliver the fish immediately to their tanks and immediately return the cans. Those who will not return the cans immediately, must bring their own cans. This is the third distribution of fish by the state at Midland in the past three years.

ROOSEVELT GAINS OVER HOOVER AS POLL CONTINUES

Roosevelt increases his lead over Hoover in the third week's returns from twenty states in The Literary Digest's presidential poll of 20,000,000 ballots, gaining a clear majority of the 798,089 ballots tabulated in this week's issue of the magazine. Roosevelt has 404,939 votes, or 50.75 per cent, and Hoover has 225,845 or 40.82 per cent of the total tabulated. Norman Thomas, the socialist candidate, is receiving 655 per cent of the ballots with the other five minor candidates dividing the balance of 1.78 per cent of the total vote.

Hoover is leading in the six states of Connecticut, Maine, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New Jersey and Rhode Island, which have a combined electoral college vote of 54. Roosevelt is leading in Alabama, California, Colorado, Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, Mississippi, Montana, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, West Virginia and Wisconsin, which states poll 244 votes in the electoral college. In an analysis of "how the same voters voted in 1928," Roosevelt is shown gaining less strength from the republican ranks than he did last week while the Hoover invader into the democratic vote of four years ago remain about the same. Roosevelt gains the lead in the voting in New York, which was carried by Hoover in the two previous weekly returns of the poll. Roosevelt has 117,282 votes to Hoover's 106,708 in the Empire state.

In Pennsylvania, Roosevelt has 33,872 votes to Hoover's 28,402 state vote from 50.11 to 53.34 during the week, gaining most of his strength from former republicans there.

Roosevelt also continues to maintain more than 2 to 1 lead over Hoover in the president's home state of California. Roosevelt is obtaining over one-half of his total vote in California from those who stated they voted for Hoover four years ago, the largest ratio the democratic candidate gets from former republican ranks in any state. Roosevelt has 33,872 votes to Hoover's 16,402 this week in the state.

The southern states reporting this week give Roosevelt tremendous pluralities: 79.24 per cent, in Alabama; 83.52 per cent, in Georgia; 89.46 per cent, in Mississippi, and 88.61 per cent, in South Carolina. New Hampshire gives Hoover 56.62 per cent of its total vote, leading the republican side column in the state while Massachusetts gives the president 56.14 per cent, Connecticut 54.51 per cent and Maine 53.51 per cent of the current ballot cast in the republican stronghold.

Roosevelt is obtaining over a majority of the votes—over all of the six other presidential candidates—in 13 of the twenty states reported this week. A state by state tabulation shows Alabama voting Hoover 1.581, Roosevelt 9.930; California: Hoover 16.402, Roosevelt 35.873; Colorado: Hoover 5.798, Roosevelt 7.443; Connecticut: Hoover 15.217, Roosevelt 9.857; Georgia: Hoover 389, Roosevelt 2,317; Illinois: Hoover 13,901, Roosevelt 23,181; Indiana: Hoover 9,533, Roosevelt 15,088; Maine: Hoover 4,795, Roosevelt 3,818; Massachusetts: Hoover 25,299, Roosevelt 15,800; Mississippi: Hoover 3,395, Roosevelt 2,199; Montana: Hoover 4,220, Roosevelt 3,269; New Hampshire: Hoover 3,011, Roosevelt 2,086; New Jersey: Hoover 43,864, Roosevelt 37,711; New York: Hoover 106,708, Roosevelt 117,282; Ohio: Hoover 14,976, Roosevelt 22,854; Pennsylvania: Hoover 46,173, Roosevelt 69,969; Rhode Island: Hoover 2,395, Roosevelt 2,893; South Carolina: Hoover 805, Roosevelt 7,597; West Virginia: Hoover 7,004, Roosevelt 11,742 and Wisconsin: Hoover 4,750, Roosevelt 10,944.

RENOVATION MAKES BEAUTIFUL THE METHODIST CHURCH AND PARSONAGE

Those who dash the sleep out of their eyes early enough Sunday morning to go to the First Methodist church likely will have to rub their eyes again to see that they're awake. For they will find renovation inside and out at the church. The interior likely will be completed and the exterior will have several days' work yet to be done. The program of work is the first complete one that has been undertaken by the church in 25 years, according to the Rev. Edwin C. Calhoun, who said the church was well built and had required little repair work since its completion. Not only has work been in progress on the church, but the minister's home has been repaired, the floors re-done and the outer walls painted. The interior of the church has been retouched by painters, a new color scheme resulting. The rostrum has been extended to allow the choir to sit behind the pulpit, allowing for an increase of 50 in the auditorium's seating capacity, paint work will result on the outside of the building, a new asbestos roof is being laid, and the belfry has been strengthened and the big bell re-mounted. The bell is about six feet higher than it was, which allows it to ring through openings instead of against the belfry tower as before. The work has already improved the church considerably and several heads of families have been afforded work. When completed the church will be one of the finest in Midland.

Helene Fights King for Son

A mother's determination to see her son is responsible for the bitter quarrel between Princess Helene and her divorced husband, King Carol of Rumania, over the repudiated son, Prince Michael. Princess Helene, in a public appeal for the moral support of the British people declared that Carol would not permit her to see the boy when he was ill, and that Michael's visit to her in London has been curtailed because of sympathy given her there. Carol, she said, sent an aide to take the boy away, although he was supposed to have remained with her for six weeks. This picture of Helene and her son was taken in London during the boy's visit. Princess Helene has intimated she may keep Michael with her on British soil despite Carol's orders, until her ex-husband permits her to see the boy when she wishes.

Freshmen Again Defeat Juniors

The junior high school squad suffered its second defeat of the season when the freshmen, of the high school, led by Levinson, defeated it 14-0. The game was exciting from start to finish. The juniors opened the game marching to the frosh 20-yard line, where they lost the ball. The frosh, led by Bill Pratt and Pat Cope, started their 60-yard drive for their first touchdown. McGrew added the extra point, making the score 7-0. The teams battled on even terms the rest of the quarter. Neither team showed much in the second quarter. The squads seemed saved up and down the field. At the beginning of the second half, both teams returned to the field full of fight. The tackling and blocking exhibited by the juniors in this period was outstanding. The outstanding players for the frosh were Roy Skipper, McGrew, Bill Pratt and Levinson. Levinson made several spectacular end runs. For the juniors, Bill Day was the outstanding star. He played a nice game at center. On the offense he was a good performer. Ralph Lamar also played a good game. On the offense, "Ox" Truex was the main carrier. These teams meet again next week.

URGENCY IS FELT AND ALL EFFORTS ARE PUT FORWARD

Brief Hearing Held Today; Secretary Is Adherent

AUSTIN, Oct. 7. (UP)—The state supreme court today was awaiting submission of briefs from Sterling and Ferguson attorneys after a consolidation appeal of the governor's election contest against Ma and Ferguson's demand that Secretary of State Jane Y. McCallum be ordered to certify Mrs. Ferguson's nomination.

Chief Justice C. M. Cureton said consolidation of the two cases meant the court had decided that urgency matters that the duty of the court is under the summary election statute act without further oral arguments. Luther Nickels, attorney for the Fergusons, and M. C. Cree, attorney for Sterling, agreed upon omission of oral arguments. Two issues were before the court: the question certified from the third court of civil appeals asking whether District Judge Robertson erred in holding he did not have jurisdiction to try the election contest, and that of Mrs. Ferguson's asking immediate certification of her nomination. Mrs. McCallum says she considers it not right that she certify a name while an appeal is pending. Neither Mrs. Ferguson nor Sterling were present at the hearing. Jim Ferguson, two Texas rangers and attorneys for the two sides were the only ones present.

NOT ON THE DOCTOR'S BILL

We do a lot of talking about the self-sacrificing work that the doctor does. But we don't often realize that this self-sacrifice isn't just a matter of missing a night's sleep now and then or letting a poor man's bill go unpaid. Very frequently the doctor actually has to risk his own life.

This is made clear by the illness of Dr. Walter Blair Stewart, Jr., children's specialist of Atlantic City, N. J.

Dr. Stewart has been in charge of infantile paralysis cases at an Atlantic City municipal hospital. For weeks he has been working day and night in an effort to bring his child patients through the disease without the crippling after-effects so common among sufferers from that malady.

Overwork and physical weariness weakened his resistance, at last; and now Dr. Stewart himself has been stricken with infantile paralysis, and his own two children have contracted it.

We laymen always take care to give a very wide berth to any case of contagious disease. We have to. The diseases against which we can be protected by a serum are, unfortunately, few in number. Some of the deadliest of them can be avoided only by steering clear of people who suffer from them.

Quarantine laws and other health regulations help us in that regard. But we usually forget that the doctor can't avail himself of that protection.

We can stay at home and dodge germs; the doctor has to go right to the spot where the chances of infection are greatest, and do it over and over again. He has to give the most malignant organisms in existence a chance to attack him, and trust to his own physical sturdiness and such meager prophylactic measures as may be available that he will not be harmed.

Usually he gets away with it. But not always. Dr. Stewart, contracting infantile paralysis because of his devoted efforts to save a group of suffering children, shows what can happen to a doctor whose luck is out.

And that risk, by the way, is one item that never appears on your doctor's bill.

WAGE SCALES IN RETREAT

When Henry Ford announced that his factories would pay a minimum wage of $5 a day, nearly 20 years ago, it seemed as if a new day were about to dawn in industry. The announcement was greeted with delighted incredulity. Workers swarmed to Detroit. Other factories followed suit.

Now the Ford plant announces a new pay scale; and for the first time the $5 a day minimum is discarded. New rates for unskilled labor will begin at 50 cents an hour for an eight-hour day.

It is obvious, of course, that Mr. Ford has not abandoned his famous belief in high wages. What he has done he has done because economic conditions forced him to do it. But the incident is a measure of the way in which the depression has set back the clock of progress for the wage-earner.

FRESHMEN VS. SOPHOMORES

The arrival of autumn having brought the reopening of colleges and universities, stories and pictures of the perennial "flag rush" are beginning to appear in the newspapers once more; and an outside observer who begins to feel his years is moved to wonder anew just why it is that healthy young collegians feel that they cannot begin a new school year without engaging in an afternoon of slightly modified warfare.

College traditions die hard, of course, and the flag rush is one of the most enduring traditions on every campus. But the whole business is so much like an ordinary street riot, and the toll of battered heads and ruined clothing is invariably so high, that one would think the youngsters would get tired of it sooner or later.

Do the lads go in for it because they know it is expected of them? Probably not. Excess animal spirits demand an outlet, and a grand, free-for-all wrestling and boxing match is about as good an outlet probably, as any. But one whose years are increasing all too rapidly can only marvel at the eagerness with which college youth takes to it.

If you have seen the Odessa game prior to reading this column, I'm sure you know all about the famous Notre Dame shift.

A Midland man was telling an old friend that he had three grown daughters. "Living at home with you?" asked the friend. "Yes, they are all married now."

M. T. Hill went around to extend his sympathy to Barney Greathouse, telling him that Mrs. Hill had bought a new hat and was calling on Mrs. Greathouse in the afternoon.

The man who ran away from the altar just before the wedding, he was married didn't lose his nerve, he just suddenly found it.

Next week is fire prevention week. In a lot of old gas hose around the house, it wouldn't be a bad idea to have a pretty rigid inspection made even before fire prevention week opens. A fire is bad, any week.

Swapping Yarns with Col. True

Col. True maintains a standing invitation to others to write to him and tell of their own extraordinary experiences. No holds barred. Address Col. True, in care of The Reporter-Telegram.

Dear Colonel True: I once went on a fishing trip, and took along some cold medicine which proved too much for me late in the afternoon when the fish were not biting. I idly dunked a minnow in the fluid and threw him overboard. In a short time there was a great commotion and here came that minnow with a foam-puff heaving by the throat. While I watched, he dragged the bass up into the boat and dived back into the water after another.

BILL HEMBREE. Sir: Bad liquor in good people and good liquor in bad people have much the same effect, but when you put bad liquor in bad people you have something on your hands. I remember, back in Tennessee a long time ago, my brother Ossie and I went to town one Saturday. We bought a quart of some innocent-looking beverage and stepped into an alley to try it out. Well, I took one drink, rolled up Main street and carried it home on my shoulder. Ossie took a drink and disappeared. The next day he showed up with two live bobcats, their tails tied together, holding them by the ears and skipping the rope with their feet.

LETTERS to the EDITOR

Dear Sir: Since I have announced my candidacy for the governorship of the State of Texas, I have received many requests from taxpaying citizens as to what I propose, if elected, to do toward the constantly mounting cost of taxation. You, as one of those who have been selected to help reduce the cost of our governmental expenditures, are vitally interested in this. It is gratifying to know that more men and women of ability are interesting themselves in this work. They are realizing that it is of little avail to build up a profitable enterprise if political and financial conditions nullify such effort by crushing taxation, or even worse, to threaten confiscation because of this taxation. We know that the cost of operating our Texas government, with its different agencies, has been more than the total value of our cotton crop. Statistics show that in 1930 the value of our lint cotton was $192,700,000.00, while the total cost of operating our state government during the same year was more than One Hundred Million Dollars. This cost does not include the cost of our county and municipal governments, when totalled, would far exceed our net cotton value. The income in receipts and taxes to the State of Texas in 1915 was $18,724,000.00. In 1929 it had grown to $94,730,000.00, and during the fiscal year ending August 31, 1930, it had increased again to $109,227,851.04. Thus you can see that our total government expenditures are far more than the annual value of our cotton crop. As a nation, the cost of operating the government structure, national, state and local, has increased 375 per cent since 1913. During this time our population has increased only 29 per cent. The cost was 3 per cent of our national income in 1913, and in 1931 it had increased to 20 per cent. This means that one day's work or income of every man, woman or child out of every five must go to the cost of government. At the same time, between 1915 and 1931, the cost of operating our state government has equalization board, which results in centralized and bureaucratic government, and the other remedy is to abolish the state ad valorem tax altogether.

It will not be sufficient to supply the revenue needed by the state from other sources. A large percentage of property is escaping its proper share of taxes in this state or paying nothing whatever toward the support of the government. To illustrate: there are citizens of this state who own millions of dollars' worth of bonds, notes and other negotiable securities, who pay nothing whatever toward the support of any of our governmental institutions, while others who own nothing more than a small equity in a home are heavily tax burdened.

There are only two ways in which our tax burdens can be lightened. One is by reducing the expenses and the other is by fairly distributing the tax burden among all classes of property, as our constitution requires.

It is easy enough to advocate reduction of taxes or the reduction of expenses. You never heard a candidate in your life who was not in favor of both propositions, but the people have a right to know where the expenses are to be reduced, and how the tax burden is to be diminished; and no person is worthy of your attention if he simply criticizes conditions, says "taxes and expenses ought to be reduced," but is unable to tell how and where they can be reduced. You have a right to demand that I shall give you some of the plans I have in mind, which I shall do as briefly as possible.

To reduce our county expenses, I propose to consolidate all such offices as the tax assessor and tax collector and county and district clerks. I would abolish the office of county treasurer and require the county depository to perform the duties of that office without compensation, just as is now done in the case of many cities. The offices of constable and justice of the peace should be abolished and the duties performed by the sheriff and county judge. By electing county commissioners from the county at large instead of by precincts, the salaries could be abolished altogether or reduced to a minimum, and at the same time the services of the most competent business men in the county could be secured for advice in the county's fiscal affairs, just as is now the case in most cities.

Our constitution should be so amended as to give to counties the privilege of home rule, as is now enjoyed by most of our cities. The principle of local self government should be enjoyed by our counties as far as practicable. Each county's affairs should be audited at stated intervals by the state auditor or his deputies, chosen to do their work not because of political affiliations but because of their integrity and thorough knowledge of accounting. The salaries of these county officers and county employees should be reduced to an amount equal to what they would receive for similar work in civil life. There is no reason on earth why the taxpayers of our county should pay exorbitant salaries for the purpose of stimulating good hand-shakers to seek public office. We should pay what the work is worth and what is usually paid for such work, and no more.

The archaic and inefficient administration of our courts is one of the heaviest burdens borne by tax payers. Judges must interpret the law as it is written and, while they are not altogether free from blame, the greatest fault lies with the system which they are called upon to administer. State and national bar associations have for years recommended changes which would result in great savings to the tax payers and a few of these recommendations have been followed in Texas.

The expense of grand juries could be almost eliminated by funds on which they are called upon to administer. State and national bar associations have for years recommended changes which would result in great savings to the tax payers and a few of these recommendations have been followed in Texas.

Possibly some of the proposals which I have made may not meet with your entire approval, but certainly, if we all work toward the common goal, we know that we will materially reduce this disgraceful cost of operating our government. If elected, I pledge myself to work toward this end, and whether or not I am honored with the governorship of this state, I pledge you, as a citizen, that I shall continue to work along the plan outlined in every way possible.

Yours very truly, ORVILLE BULLINGTON.

NO NOISE RIVETS NEW YORK—The city folk who have been used to sleeping to the tune of noisy riveting machines, will be agreeably surprised if the noiseless rivet designed by Dr. T. H. DOG'S LIFE?—17 YEARS

KNOXVILLE.—Toodles may have led a dog's life in her 17 years, but during that time, thought to be a record age for one of her breed, the mixed collie and water spaniel has had a good time. The dog, property of Mrs. Millie E. Ridgeway, is still living, but she is stone deaf. Judged on the usual basis that one year of a dog's life is equivalent to five years of a human's, Tooodles is now 85 years old.

Remembering

By HELEN WELSHIMER
ALL summer long I have wished I knew Why I keep on Remembering you.
WHY candlelight And a ragged star, And a tall green path That runs too far,
OR a yellow lamp On a rain-blown street, And venders' blooms That are oversweet,
CAN make me start In expectancy— Do you have trouble Forgetting me?

Bread Foundation For Dozens of Delicious Dishes

If the only way you serve bread is with butter on the dining room table, then you have missed literally dozens of exciting dishes in which bread can be used in the kitchen, says Beulah V. Gillaspie, Foundation or base, garnish, thickener or extender—these are only a few of the many uses she suggests.

"White bread is always good for sandwiches and canapes, but by changing the bread I can use my favorite mixtures — anchovies, and shrimps, eggs, olives, cheese, salmon, meat—and have completely new dishes.

"Bread makes an economical base for creamed dishes. It may be cut into slices, points, or rounds, and then toasted. Or it makes first-rate patty cases, or croutades. To make them, cut dry bread into squares, remove centers to make a well, and brown in the oven. The following combinations are delicious: creamed mixed vegetables or tuna fish a la king on whole wheat toast; Welsh rarebit on rye toast; creamed shrimp in graham croutades; creamed crab or lobster Newburg in white bread croutades.

"Bread also forms the basis for a new and intriguing shortcake. Trim crusts from bread and line a buttered bowl with the slices; add a layer of fruit and cover with a layer of bread. Place a plate on top of the bread and weight it down. Put in the refrigerator for about 24 hours. Turn out and garnish with fruit and whipped cream.

pling up a record poll-vote for Hoover before many weeks are over. "The nine new states in this tabulation are Alabama, Colorado, Georgia, Mississippi, Montana, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, South Carolina and Wisconsin.

"The last name catches the eye because of the defeat of the La-Pollette organization in the Wisconsin primaries. That even was widely heralded as 'Wisconsin's belated return to the fold of conservative Hooverite republicanism.' But what do the Digest ballots from Wisconsin say? Only this: Hoover 4,750, Roosevelt 10,064.

"Only two of the nine newcomers prefer Hoover so far. These are New Hampshire and Rhode Island. "The seven which fall into the Roosevelt column are well scattered over the map: Alabama, Colorado, Mississippi, Montana, South Carolina and Wisconsin.

"Of last week's alignment of eleven, New York is the only one to have shifted candidates. The others are still going strong for their first choices.

"Massachusetts, for instance, is still piling up a majority for Hoover at about the same ratio as before, while Pennsylvania, Ohio, Illinois and the others, now joined by New York, are swelling the Roosevelt bag of ballots.

"As we have already suggested, many of these republican Rooseveltians may be simply Hoover democrats hopping over the fence again, but some political observers think the movement is too strong to be wholly explained in that way.

Brooms Made By Blind Men

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (UP).—Amid the steady clatter of machinery, rustle of broom corn and careless jesting of apparently happy laborers, the work goes on before sightless eyes in a shop here.

Blind men are making brooms. Through work they never see, the men are occupying their hands and their minds, supporting themselves, and in some cases their families.

The brooms fashioned entirely through the sense of touch compare favorably in quality with those of persons who work so largely by the visual method.

The establishment is known as the Blind Kraft Shop. It was made possible through the work of the Springfield Association for the Blind in co-operation with the state commission and through the help of a local civic club.

The coarse broom corn straw, handed in the preliminary stages by seeing employees, is apportioned each blind worker, who stands at his machine able to reach every bit of the material for making a broom.

The craftsmen are closely protected by heavy gloves and guards. Accidents are relatively few, perhaps no more than would result from the efforts of seeing persons.

PARIS. (UP).—Being made a count at 70 is the honor just bestowed on Maurice Maeterlinck, author of Pales of Melisande, by the First King of Belgium.

Maeterlinck left Nice, to journey to Belgium for the ceremony. He still is very active.

"I am very moved by the many expressions of congratulations I have received," he said. "I can recall the histories of a number of my ancestors, who were rewarded for their contributions to civilization, and am honored that I am able to carry on the tradition. One of them was Bailiff of Renaix and made a Chevalier in the 14th Century for having shifted a number of his fellow citizens from famine."

WHEW! NO WONDER

NEW YORK.—No wonder men perspire under the hot summer sun! They don't dress for hot weather, the Holland Institute of Air Conditioning has found. The Institute weighed the average men's summer garb and found it to be slightly under one pound. Then the male summer attire was weighed and found to be nearly six times as heavy.

Dogs are allowed to roam free and rats are chained up in French Indo-China. There the women wear trousers and men skirts; children are given numbers instead of names.

War Letter Is 14 Years Late

SHREVEPORT, La. (UP).—Worn and crumpled from 14 years of handling, a letter mailed by his son from an unnamed town in France just two weeks after the end of the World war, has reached F. W. Farrow, of New Orleans, who is visiting another son, George Farrow, here.

The letter was mailed on Nov. 25, 1918, by Cary Farrow, then a sergeant in the headquarters detachment, 36th division, A. E. F. The day was Father's day and the message bore greetings from a son who escaped death in the war, to the elder Farrow, who then lived in Victoria, Texas.

Cary Farrow is still alive, and now lives in Houston, is married, and has two children.

The letter, which came like a voice from the past, bore no indication of what caused the delay in delivering it. It was postmarked "U. S. Army Postoffice, 1 E. M., Nov. 25, M. P. E. S." and bore the censor's seal. "A. E. F. passed as censored, 2466."

Although the missive was addressed to "F. W. Farrow, Victoria, Tex. U. S. A." it was delivered to the son, George Farrow, here, while the elder Farrow was visiting him. The writing was plain and there were no more postmarks except one on the back reading "Shreveport, La., July 21, 12 m., 1932."

WHY, MR. ICEMAN?

LOS ANGELES.—The latest wrinkle in door delivery has been adopted by a local ice man—modern refrigerator truck. Each piece of ice is cut to fit the required space and wrapped in wax paper.

Pilsudski Will Quit Politics

WARSAW. (UP).—Marshal Josef Pilsudski is expected to retire soon from the active political life of Poland.

That is the interpretation put upon his reported plan for an extended journey abroad this fall and winter. The first indication that the 64-year-old stormy petrel of Poland's politics was turning of active participation in the government's direction came when he failed to attend the annual Congress of Polish Legionnaires (war veterans) and sent only a telegram of greeting to his old troops and fellow officers.

Pilsudski really began his withdrawal from active political life as far back as 1920, after he had supervised the parliamentary elections, confined the opposition leaders in fortress detention at Brest-Litovsk, and had assured a majority for his party in the Senate and Chamber.

He then turned to military problems and foreign affairs. Although as Minister of War he was a Cabinet member, he rarely attended cabinet meetings, and more and more frequently left Warsaw, sometimes for weeks or months' visits at one of his two country estates, Sulejowek near Warsaw, or Pkissilski near Vilna. He made three trips abroad during this time, to Madeira, Rumania and Egypt.

Now it is reported that he plans to become only an observer in the affairs of state. The Pilsudski regime will remain however.
