One-Farm County Fair Display at Chamber Commerce

The Midland county fair opened Thursday.

It is a one-farm fair. Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Gwyn, at the request of the agricultural committee of the chamber of commerce, prepared an exhibit to represent what one farm can grow. Admission is free. This farm fair, Midland city and farm folk are invited to visit the exhibit at the office of the chamber of commerce and get any data available as to how Midland county farm folk can live at home.

The exhibit contains feed, cotton, grain, fruits, vegetables and flowers. The Gwyn family lives from the garden in the spring and summer, and part of the fall and from the cellar in the winter. The family now has more fruit and vegetables than can be consumed in a year.

Mrs. Gwyn won first prize on a hooked rug and first prize on a tailored dress in a state-wide contest at the Dallas State fair. She won a prize in a county-wide contest she made a dress with accessories to match from chicken feed sacks at a cost of 3 cents. Peaches, grapes, and vegetables raised on the Gwyn farm have won prizes in the past and third prizes at the Dallas and the West Texas fairs at Abilene. A peach now sold at a leading Texas nursery is named after S. H. Gwyn in recognition of his record as an orchardist.

Grid Special to Arrive Earlier

Authorization for selling low rate tickets Thursday, Nov. 10, to Fort Worth, where TCU and the University of Texas meet in an Armistice day game, has been made, according to Station Agent J. J. Hamlett of Texas and Pacific Railway company here.

Hamlett said the arrangement was made at the request of numerous persons who wish to make reservation for the trip. The railway company arrangements, the delegation that plans to ride the train would have reached Fort Worth only a few minutes before the opening kickoff of the game, whereas now persons may leave Midland Thursday evening on passenger train No. 6 and reach Fort Worth at 7:30 the next morning giving ample time for visiting with Fort Worth friends and seeing the game that afternoon.

The rate for the round trip is only $2.50, the lowest rate ever charged by the railway company. Tickets also will be sold on the 11th and 12th and will be good until the 15th.

To the interest in the game, the greatest football representation of West Texas is likely to go to Fort Worth. A sellout of tickets is expected.

Tournament Heads Greatly Confused

An interesting complexity has arisen in the country club handicap match tournament.

Some members suggest the matches be scored one way, other another. Sandy Auchterlonie, professional of the club, is in California and will not be back until the tournament is over, and therefore cannot untangle the situation.

In the meantime, all golfers are asked to keep their score cards, not as a basis for deciding the controversy, but for a permanent handicap ladder to be placed in the club.

Frank Day played D. H. Roeltzer Thursday afternoon, and the original posting gave Day the win, 9 and 7. The match will be replayed, however, after a scoring rule that can be adopted which will show where a match ends.

E. M. Miller won over the Rev. Winston F. Borum, 5 and 4, or 4 and 3, depending on how the matches ultimately will be scored.

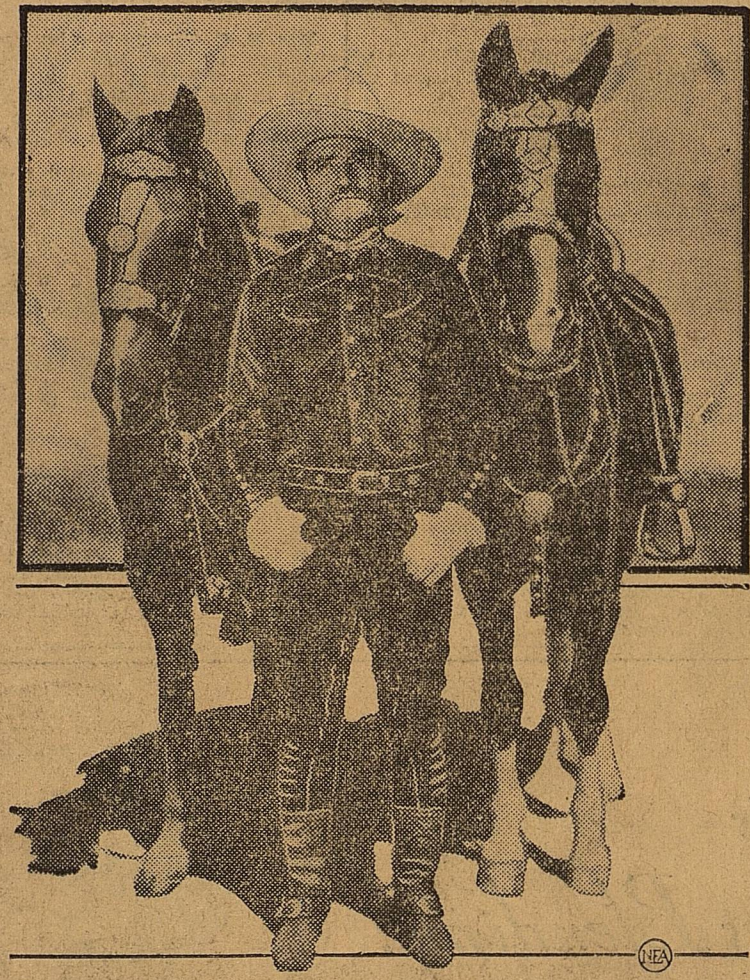

C. L. Jackson won his match over A. Wadley 3 and 2, according to a re-check.

Harry Adams played nine holes with W. E. Collier, the remainder of the match being scheduled for today. Adams was three up at the turn, according to first posting.

Under the terms of the handicap match play every golfer has the same chance to win the Ellis Cowden trophy, players in the high stroke classification getting a heavy handicap.

Canadian Convicts Die In Raging Prison Fire

Through With Movie Career

Tony, Tom Mix's famous horse, is all through with the movies. Old age and a fall have combined to make it impossible for the star actor to have a hard time telling the difference between Tony, at the left, and his successor, Tony, Jr., at the right. Tony, above, paid only $12.50 for Tony, 23 years ago.

MONTREAL, Nov. 4. (UP)—Fire was reported to have broken out in St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary near here today, first advices saying that an undetermined number of convicts died in flames. The blaze was said to have started in the tailor shop, with convicts cutting the fire hose. It was unconfirmably reported that eight convicts and two guards in the shop perished. The clerk in the warden's office telephoned, however, that there were no deaths.

BONUS POLITICAL FOOTBALL YET IT IS UNIMPORTANT

By RODNEY DUTCHER, NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON.—The cash bonus, bugbear of the last two congresses, has become for the time a mere political football.

President Hoover kicked it into Governor Roosevelt's territory and the democratic candidate kicked it back—a weak, offside kick, if you ask me Republicans.

Neither of the candidates and neither of the parties wish to espouse it, although it figures in various congressional contests where members are capitalizing on bending their vote in the question at the last session.

The bill to pay off $2,300,000,000 on the soldiers' adjusted compensation certificate failed to pass the present congress and it is inconceivable that it can pass the same congress at its forthcoming short session. It is little more than a dead letter, with a presidential veto in the next congress.

Forced Roosevelt Statement. The situation in the presidential campaign is such that Hoover, through his emphatic denunciation of the proposal and his administration's evocation of the bonus army from Washington, has lost most of the veteran vote. The democrats were willing enough to benefit by the acquisition, but they found Hoover and his orators reminding the country that a democratic house had the money and continually prodding Roosevelt for a statement of his position. If he kept silent, they could continue fighting the conservative business interests and the overburdened taxpayers. If he spoke up and oppose cash payment—as he was certain to do if he ever passed the bill—it would antagonize the veterans.

Roosevelt finally declared himself, briefly, and as shrewdly as possible: do not see how, as a Democrat, he could support an administration running behind two billion dollars annually can consider the participation of a bonus payment. It has an unbalanced budget, not only on paper, but with a surplus in the treasury.

That statement sent few veterans scurrying back into the arms of Hoover. It still leaves the republicans able to declare that Roosevelt is evasive and to suggest that he may yet be willing to pay out the $2,300,000,000. Nobody can see when the bill will be a treasury surplus again.

One Big Objection. Neither Roosevelt nor any other orator of the past few weeks has been dwelling on the merits of the fact that it would be likely to wreck the national credit. Even against the attitude of the veterans that "it's our back pay and we need it now," there is the fact that the government has no more obligation to cash the veterans' certificates before 1945 than an insurance company would have to pay the maturity value of a semi-matured endowment policy. Each certificate is a sort of 20-year-endowment policy. The face value averaging $1000, which is to be sharply distinguished from the "present" value, will be attained in 1945 through the method adopted by congress in 1924 of crediting each veteran with $1 a day for home service and $1.25 a day for overseas service, adding 25 percent for that sum to compensate for the wait, until 1945 and compounding annual interest at 4 percent for the 20 years. Congress appropriates $112,000,000 annually, which, with interest, will have created the necessary fund for payment in 1945. Prepayment now, the administration holds, would give the veterans $1,600,000 more than contemplated in the bonus act.

No Definite Results. Among members defeated in the primaries, the proportion of those who voted for the bonus is even higher than of those who opposed it.

Of 211 house members who voted for the bill 24 have been defeated by the voters and nine voluntarily retired from congress. Of the 173 who voted nay 14 were defeated in the primaries and 13 were not candidates for either house. Of course some of those who retired felt they couldn't be renominated and re-elected; the combined group includes 33 years and 27 days and to the latter group might be added five whose votes were not recorded.

The election results will show larger mortality figures in both groups, but there are so many other factors serving to defeat "ins" this year that there will be a few congressmen who can be said definitely to have been defeated by their anti-bonus vote.

41 STATES VOTE FOR ROOSEVELT, POLL INDICATES

Demo Nominee Rides A 3 to 2 Wave Margin

Roosevelt leads in forty-one states with a total popular vote of approximately 3 to 2 over Hoover in the final returns of The Literary Digest's nation-wide poll, which is said to represent the largest number of votes in any presidential poll ever conducted, according to tomorrow's issue of the magazine.

A grand total of 3,064,497 ballots were returned and tabulated. Of these 1,715,789, or 55.99 percent are for Roosevelt, 1,150,398, or 37.53 percent voted for Hoover and 148,079, or 4.84 percent registered their sentiments for Thomas.

H. C. Gwyn shows a slight gain from the 37.33 percent of the total vote which he had in the semifinal returns and the 37.19 percent for him in the quarter-final returns, which latter tabulation was the first to contain balloting from all forty-eight states.

The final vote gives Hoover a lead in the seven states of Maine, Vermont, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut and New Jersey.

Roosevelt leads his republican rival in all of the other forty-one states.

A division of the vote by an electoral college apportionment would give Roosevelt 474 votes to Hoover's 57.

The Literary Digest editorially concedes the possibility that Roosevelt may carry five of the states in which Hoover leads in the final poll returns. An analysis of the present vote, it is shown, reveals that ballots have not been voted in adequate quantity by democratic voters in these states.

At the same time points out also that the same situation obtains in Connecticut, New Hampshire and New Jersey, where the declared republican majority in the poll outnumbered the declared democratic considerably in excess of the actual relative party-strength in these states, and the magazine, therefore, notes the possibility that Roosevelt may carry them.

In no state showing a Roosevelt lead is the possibility of a switch mentioned, although it is pointed out that the vote in New York, Kansas, Colorado and Delaware are close.

The Literary Digest editorializes that although there are many practical reasons why the republican will vote republican, no such forecast can be deduced from the poll returns from the Keystone state.

Lumber Yards Close for Game

Lumber yards closed for the football game Friday afternoon, and most of the managers were among the rosters when the whistle blew.

Many employees of other business establishments were among the rosters as business men let many employes go. There was considerable sentiment for closing, but the majority of business men said that though they personally wished to attend the game, closing worked a hardship on farmers who came to town and found stores closed.

Mechanics said the fact that cotton farmers are so busy now and want to do their buying when they bring cotton to the gins, make it harder to close stores.

All merchants plan to close on Nov. 11 and on Nov. 24, a survey showed. Many will attend the Midland-Big Spring game Nov. 11 and nearly all will see the Thanksgiving game here with McCamey.

33 Civic Music Tickets Are Sold

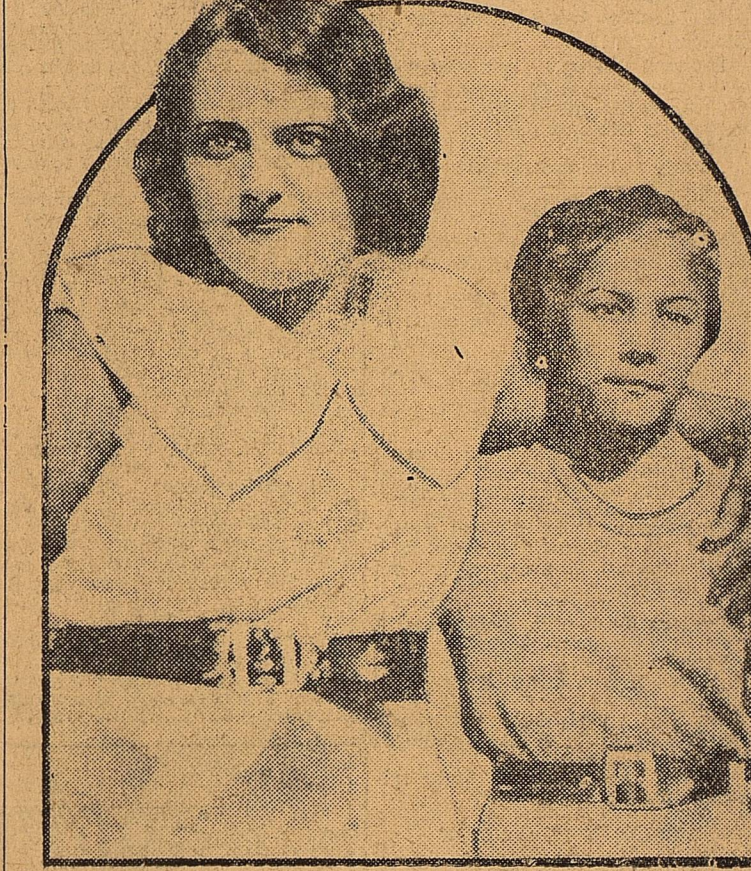

The campaign in Midland to sell memberships to the Midwest Texas Civic Music association has closed with a total of 33 adult season tickets bought, according to the Rev. Winston F. Borum, Midland drive chairman.

The total membership of the area stretching from Forsan to the south, Lamesa to the north, Colorado to the east and Odessa to the west, was 350, a report from Big Spring, where the three Civic Music programs will be given, showed.

Towns in the drive include Odessa, Midland, Stanton, Coahoma, Big Spring, Lamesa, Colorado and Forsan.

While definite dates for the concert have not been established, it is expected that the first will be shortly before Christmas, the second toward the latter part of January and the third in late February or early March.

ARRANGEMENTS NOT MADE FOR CRIER FUNERAL

Funeral arrangements for Mrs. Emily E. Crier, 60, who died early Thursday at her home on south Big Spring street, had not been definitely made today, although it was thought burial would be at the local cemetery Sunday afternoon, with services at the Ellis mortuary.

Two brothers, H. O. Nations of Midland and O. C. Nations of Abilene, and a sister, Mrs. W. C. Looney of Manart, were here today. A son, Nolan Bloom, was expected to arrive tomorrow from Kansas. Another sister, Mrs. Virginia Shirk of Los Angeles, survives.

Burglary Foiled In Produce Try

Burglars who forcibly entered the Midland Produce store Thursday night were foiled in efforts to obtain money, a check up today showed.

Entry was gained by prying screen doors from the back and pushing in the heavy frame doors, breaking the lock. No money had been left in the cash register and there was evidence that it had been tampered with. Merchandise, including fruits, produce and meats, apparently were not wanted.

Night watchmen discovered the open doors at about 1:30 this morning.

CONSERVATION OF RESOURCES THUS INSURED

So Says Sterling as Quorums Mustered By Houses

AUSTIN, Nov. 4. (UP)—Both houses and the senate mustered quorums this morning, convening at 10 o'clock.

Governor Sterling's message quoted the one he sent to the special oil session, saying that this one was called because two federal court decisions have changed the situation.

The first decision cited was that of the United States supreme court in upholding the Oklahoma market demand statute as not price fixing. The other was the three judge court decision in the case of the Peoples Petroleum company vs. the state railroad commission saying the commission had exceeded its authority in issuing prorations orders since the legislature had not allowed consideration of market demand in the new law.

Governor Sterling said it is apparent that to conserve the greatest natural resource and prevent conditions existing prior to enactment of the new law, the present law must be changed to allow consideration of market demand.

Being offered a new hour after convening, a new conservation act, including the market demand feature, was offered both branches of the legislature and was submitted to committees.

Thomas Pollard of Tyler offered the bill to the senate and R. M. Wagstaff of Abilene to the house. The house adjourned until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning, the senate remaining in session to elect officers.

Both branches invited John Garner to speak when en route home. In the meantime, W. E. Pope of Corpus Christi announced that he will contend that the legislature has no right to sit after midnight, insisting that the constitution says members have terms extending only two years from the day they were elected, which was on November 4, 1900. He will raise the point when the house convenes tomorrow.

STERLING SUMMONS ON CHARGE TALKED

PALESTINE, Nov. 4. (UP)—District Attorney Ben Greenwood announced today that he will summon Governor Sterling before the Anderson county grand jury in December to substantiate allegations of illegal voting made yesterday unless they are withdrawn.

Cotton Ginnings Here 4,100 Bales

Cotton ginnings in Midland had amounted to 4,100 bales for the 1932 season, a check up this morning showed.

Gins have operated night and day recently on account of the rapidly being picked.

This Midland's ginning compares favorably with that of the accepted cotton belt east of here. Sweetwater's report Thursday reading 4,462 bales. Until the past 10 days, Midland had led Nolan county. This morning, Martin county has ginned 3,009.

Entry was gained by prying screen doors from the back and pushing in the heavy frame doors, breaking the lock. No money had been left in the cash register and there was evidence that it had been tampered with. Merchandise, including fruits, produce and meats, apparently were not wanted.

Swapping Yarns with Col. True

Col. True maintains a standing invitation to others to write to him and tell of their own extraordinary experiences. He holds barred. Address Col. True, in care of The Reporter-Telegram.

Dear Colonel:

A good many years ago, when buffalo still roamed the west, I was out hunting. My horse fell and broke his leg, putting me about many miles from camp. The worst part of it was that the only thing I had to eat was a pocket full of acorns.

I got along all right for the first day or two, but things had come to look pretty bad for me. I was down to my last acorn, and my powder gone, and I was getting mighty footsore.

Then on top of all that I suddenly found myself in front of a monster buffalo stampede. I ran frantically and reached the edge of the herd just as it swept by, but one big bull buffalo saw me and started after me, leaving the herd.

I ran for what seemed like hours, with that buffalo right in behind me. It looked like I was done for. Then an idea came to me. I threw down that last acorn, then started in a big circle. When I came back around to the spot, the acorn was a big oak tree. With my last strength I shinned up the tree and the buffalo butted his brains out against its massive trunk.

BROOKS LEE.

Sir: I know from my own experience that being caught in front of a buffalo stampede is no joke. Those buffaloes had just as soon step on you as not; no discretion whatever. I had just swam my horse across a river once, up in Montana, when I saw a big herd coming. I spurred my horse and raced for a big tree, which I got behind just as the herd split to go around the tree. Well, I sat there in the "safety zone" for 21 days and nights, with a sea of buffalo backs around me as far as I could see in every direction. But finally they all passed by, and I rode wearily on my way. In a few hours' ride I reached the top of a little hill to the west, and it's a good thing I made as good time as I did because just as I topped this hill and turned to look back, the main herd of buffaloes came along.

What is Cross Blending?

an Artist might explain it this way...

"Let's say you're painting clouds. You've got your primary colors here on the palette. But you haven't the clouds until you blend certain colors into the special tone you want. "This is very much what happens in making a good cigarette. And I gather that what Chesterfield means by Cross-Blending is what an artist does with colors. Their Domestic and Turkish tobaccos—many varieties of each—are the primary colors. They blend and cross-blend these tobaccos until they get the special tone they want—in other words, the Chesterfield flavor. "And just as each color you use acts on the others to change and enrich them, so each Chesterfield tobacco partakes of the fine qualities of every other. "You 'weld' different kinds to get a better kind. That's Cross-Blending!"

PECOS GAME AT 3:30 BRINGS TOGETHER CLUBS OF SAME WEIGHT

GAME MAY PULL MIDLAND TOGETHER IN PREPARATION FOR AFFAIRS WITH BIG SPRING AND McCAMEY LATER ON

This afternoon's game with the Pecos high school Eagles offered one real significance—that of allowing the Midland Bulldogs to go through a brisk workout in a non-counting game that was expected to take little further toll in injuries.

At the same time, it offered the hard-riden squad a chance to pull together remnants of its scattered power so as to throw its total strength against Big Spring at Big Spring Nov. 11 and against McCamey here Nov. 24.

The two squads are of practically the same weight, Pecos listed as out-weighting the Midland starting lineup approximately 2 pounds, Pecos averaging 156, Midland 154.

Midland expects to realize additional power from adding to the speed of its backfield and the power of its wings. Allen Sherrod, a slow back, has been shifted to end, where his size and tackling power is expected to be of great value. Bill Hogsett, light but an excellent defensive man, is on the other extreme. Allen Dancy and Conrad Boyer, first-year men who have been on the ends, have been placed in the line, where they are expected to show more power. Welch and Parr are two big, powerful men who can easily handle the tackles and Collins and Bonner will play at guard. Collins is one of the best linemen Midland ever turned out. Dorsey at center should be in the right position. He has large hands and is strong.

In the backfield there is speed for the first time this season. The interference should be able to screen the ball carrier without lagging in his path. Sherrod's weight is missing, however, and ball carrying backs will have to be shaken loose with speed rather than mass.

The game was scheduled for 3:30 and advance sale of tickets was exceptionally good, school authorities reported early today.

"American Madness" has a superb supporting cast, headed by Constance Cummings, one of the most talented and charming of the young-screen actresses. Pat O'Brien, who made the role of Hildy Johnson in "The Front Page" an unforgettable one, plays the part of an ex-convict whom Huston has given a chance to make good in his bank. Kay Johnson, noted for years as one of the most popular actresses on the West Coast, and remembered for her great performance in "Dynamite," is cast as Huston's wife. Popular, talented Gavin Gordon is the heavy.

Critics all over the country have praised "American Madness" for the timeliness of its plot, bringing to the screen, as it does, the dramatic situation that has touched the lives of everyone in the world in the last few years or more.

Robert Riskin, the author of the original story, is considered to have done a superb job of weaving against the complicated background of a man who forestalls the ruin of his bank and of his home, by his definite, courageous vision.

The picture was directed by Frank Capra, known to the movie public for his directorial work in such popular successes as "Dirigible," "Flight," "Submarine," "Ladies of Leisure," "Forbidden," and "Rain or Shine." The entire picture reflects the movement and power that always stamp a picture of Capra's talented efforts.

Not to be ignored is the fact that "American Madness" is mounted in a spectacular fashion, with the largest sets ever built at the Columbia studios and the largest number of extras ever used on the lot at one time. More than 1000 "extras" participated in the stirring scenes of the bank run. Columbia officials consider this picture the greatest dramatic spectacle they have ever made.

American Madness Is Great Picture

One of the most compelling screen dramas of the 1932 season will make its bow to Midland audiences when "American Madness" opens a two-day run at the Ritz theatre, beginning with Saturday night preview and showing also on Sunday and Monday.

Considered tremendous in scope and of sweeping power, "American Madness" is a film that strikes at the vitals of present-day America.

Walter Huston, whose reputation as one of the greatest actors on the American screen is unquestioned, has the feature role of a strong, clear-thinking banker whose courage and faith in people leads him successfully through a run on his bank and an attempt to break up his

Bang-up Western, Murder at Yucca

The western picture is indeed coming into its own when such famous talent can be engaged for these pictures as Ken Maynard has in his supporting cast in "Dynamite Ranch," his latest World Wide picture.

Starting with Ruth Hall, the leading lady, and running through a list of names that includes Alan Roscoe, Martha Mattox, Arthur Hoyt, Al Smith, and George Peppard, the roster reads like a feature picture assemblage of players.

Add to this talented cast, beautiful sets and the gorgeous Southern California scenery "Dynamite Ranch," playing at the Yucca Saturday is attracting more than the usual amount of interest for these western pictures.

The story, written by Barry Barrington, Forrest Sheldon, author of many western stories, directed Ken Maynard in "Dynamite Ranch."
