THE VICTOR'S RESPONSIBILITY The overwhelming victory scored by Governor Roosevelt gives to that gentleman one of the heaviest responsibilities any American could be asked to shoulder.

By the very size of the vote they gave him, the American people have indicated that they want him to find a solution for a puzzle which has always, heretofore, looked insoluble.

They have declared that they want no more of the dips of the business cycle. They have demonstrated that no administration can stay in power if it permits a severe business depression to occur during its term of office.

Somehow, they have asserted, the government at Washington must find a way of ironing out the ups and downs of the economic machine.

And yet, at the same time, they have most emphatically reaffirmed their faith in the existing governmental and economic machine. They have not espoused Socialist or Communist. They have been content to voice their protest through the old channels.

Now a government which undertakes to restrain booms and check deflationary processes is going to tread in some paths which make strange going for a capitalistic nation. It is going to have to do things within the capitalistic structure which never before looked possible.

It is going to have to do some very extensive overhauling, and do it in such a way as to leave the major features of the old machinery intact.

Here is a man-sized job. We have never before—despite all the outworn campaign slogans—really believed that the government had much to do with the prosperity or otherwise of the nation.

We have believed that business was in one compartment and government in another, and that the division between them was about water-tight.

But the election says, unmistakably, that no government which permits a depression to occur can endure. Governor Roosevelt is given the task of finding out how to do the seemingly impossible. It will take every bit of wisdom and foresight that he can possibly bring to it.

A COMFORTING MYSTERY Not the least entertaining bit of recent news, surely, is the revelation that Sarah Ann island has vanished from its accustomed place in the Pacific ocean.

To begin with, it is nice to know that there is, or was, an island with such a name. Sarah Ann island—what a sentimental captain of what 18th century whaling bark or down-east trading brig first ran across that dot of coral, sand and palm trees, and what girl was he thinking of when he gave it that name?

There is a fine little story there, somewhere, hidden under that name on the charts.

But the real news of the whole business, or course, is that Sarah Ann island has vanished; and an ocean in which solid, long-established islands can disappear from the sight and knowledge of men is an ocean from which the old-time mystery and wonder have not yet departed.

The far seas do tricks like that, now and then, and provide master mariners with tales that landlubbers do not usually believe. A skipper will be driving his ship along in waters where, according to the charts, he has nothing at all to fear; and suddenly an island will loom up in his path, and an outlying reef will open his ship's bottom, and all hands will make for the boats. And then, later, when he reports the accident, a warship will cruise to the spot indicated and will find a hundred fathoms or so of water where the skipper's island was, and the skipper will get credit for having been drunk.

And we stay-at-homes, reading of such marvels, conclude usually that the verdict against the luckless skipper was quite proper; and it is not until we pore over the old books which the daring navigators of long ago wrote for us that we realize that the wide eastern seas are indeed places where peculiar things can happen.

So now comes this story of Sarah Ann island, to indicate that the old-timers were right; and it is comforting, somehow, to know that the storied queerness of the Pacific is still what it used to be. Sarah Ann will very likely pop up again some day, a few hundred miles out of its location. Meanwhile its disappearance has made a good story for us.

Side Glances By Clark

"Miss Hazel Roe, Forest Hill, Md. Dear Miss Roe: The egg on which your name was written was bought with others from (a store) here in Baltimore. I am rather curious to know when you sent it away because we buy eggs here as 'strictly fresh' that sometimes have been in cold storage a long time.

Nevertheless, the egg was eaten, and I am sending this to let you know that it finished its journey at my home. Yours truly, Edgar R. Dobson, 1714 Ellamont St., Baltimore, Md.

The village postmaster in Forest Hill recalled that little Hazel Roe had married and moved to Belair.

The Town Quack

(Reserves the right to "quack" about everything without taking a stand on anything.)

There's an old quotation saying "Hell hath no fury like a woman scorned," but I never saw a woman look so highly pleased when she was handed an undressed duck by the sportsman's wife next door.

A Midland man who has put several sons through college says that whenever a boy is short he writes a long letter.

A big league shortstop got shot in the leg while out hunting the other day. Just couldn't let a last one get by him.

Our circulation man was asked to solicit all the neighbors of a subscriber out in the northwest part of town, in order to have all of them taking the paper the same time. He gets his paper and sometimes he doesn't. If he gets home late on week days or gets up late on Sundays, he dets without his paper.

The Tulsa rancher who ate so much turkey that he had to take off his money belt to take a nap, and then had his $97,000 stolen, ought to know by now not to be such a glutton.

Two Midland men who returned from a hunt without a deer or a turkey, said it was a case of the birds and beasts being smarter than they.

I heard of a Midland man who is so henpecked that he gets in bed first, warns one side of the bed, then moves to the other side, and lets his wife have the warm spot.

This is the time of year when mothers and children begin to figure out what to have for Christmas with Christmas day.

Which reminds me that its only 29 days until Christmas.

The holidays may or may not bring a lot of additional business to the paper, but, if Christmas is like Armistice and Thanksgiving, it should give us a long list of personal items about, who goes where.

When the truck left here yesterday morning filled with horses, O'fle Walker and Paul Barron were disappointed that there was no room for their ponies to be loaded in.

So Mrs. Hazel Roe Walker finally received the letter, and hastened forthwith to her old home town. Out at the Pyle farm she found 13-year-old Henry Pyle, Jr., feeding the chickens and four other youngsters scampering about under the maternal eye of her old friend and egg-packing companion, Mrs. Bessie Walbeck Pyle.

A STRANGE WORLD It did beat all, they agreed, the way things happen—even to an awful Bessie and Hazel had waited for those eggs to bring them romance? And wasn't it funny about this poor Mr. Dobson, who he did in several states by soundly defeating certain of the ambitious "outs."

Apparently there is nothing that can be done about the voters of New York city. About three hundred thousand of them were sufficiently independent to scratch Tammany's mayoral candidate, John P. O'Brien. But he won by a huge majority.

Uncle Sam Handicapped The Federal Department of Agriculture do anything. Indeed, it maintained a rigid no way of defining "fresh" as applied to an egg. For an egg four days old, if kept under unfavorable conditions, will not "candle out" as satisfactorily as a storage egg that is much, much older.

Of course, the Federal Trade Commission can prosecute under the Unfair Practices Act anyone selling eggs with a "strictly fresh" label when the eggs show deterioration.

Repudiates "Variety" Statement NEW YORK—A recent front page article in "Variety," one of the leading theatrical and radio publications, asserting that radio dramatizations of crime and crime cases have a bad effect on children listening in at the time, was repudiated in a statement made today by the sponsor of the Magic City pet programs which now dramatize famous federal criminal cases based on records in the files in Washington, D. C., every Tuesday evening at 10 o'clock over a nation wide NBC network.

"In presenting this program," they said, "we feel that, instead of unduly dramatizing the moral standards of American youth, as we have been charged, we are publicizing the efficiency and effectiveness of the modern police system and crime detection methods and the futility of trying to escape retribution for criminal deeds."

"Years ago, parents assumed a similar stand and with a justifiable reason on the matter of dime novels that tended to glorify the ruthless train robber and bandit, although it is doubtful whether or not these books ever were responsible for modern 'Dead-Eye Dicks' or 'Jesse James'."

"It is purely a matter of treatment. Instead of glorifying any criminal or the criminal element, we have depicted his helplessness in attempting to escape that which completely overcomes him. In every single dramatization we have emphasized the fact that the criminal can't win, that retribution is inevitable and that the millions of the law, through the use of modern scientific and crime detection methods, are prepared to combat effectively the law-breaker at all times. This has been brought home the more strongly through dramatizations of actual cases from the files of both the N. Y. police department in the past, and of the bureau of investigation of the department of justice in Washington, D. C., which are now being presented."

Never rub an eye that has something in it. Wash it in a boracic acid solution with an eye cup.

Los Angeles citizens finally persuaded the radio commission to take away his broadcasting station license but, like Brinkley, he had a large following and won more primary votes than any other candidate because he ran in three primaries. He ran in the election as an independent prohibitionist.

Death Hovers In Race Crackup

Death hovered over the Oakland, Calif., speedway as the camera clicked on this scene. Angeloans Get Only 11 Bucks SAN ANGELO—Many West Texas deer hunters continued to roam the woods of the hill country and the barren wilds of the Big Bend at the end of the week while others "brought home the venison."

Although most of the returning nimrods were successful on their hunt, many of the party broke up as members determinedly stayed on at the ranches hoping to get something to show for their efforts.

Only 11 deer were on cold storage at night. Last year one firm had about twice as many on storage at this stage of the season. Cool weather and home refrigerators explain part of the dearth of cold storage deer meat, it was said.

13-Pointer Killed Sid Martin, county mechanic, apparently was the "high-point" hunter. He bagged a 13-point buck while hunting with a party of county officials in Bexar county. Rubie Hanis, county tax collector, Jake Harper of Water Valley, county commissioner, and John Hudson of Borden at the party returned Friday night, while George F. Jones, county judge, H. C. Daniel, county commissioner, W. T. Marshall, county agent, and Martin returned to Bexar county over the week end. Harper, Johnson, Marshall and Martin had killed a buck each when the party divided.

Preston G. Northrup of Northrup & Carr, field representatives of Rumsey, Abrams, Fraser, and J. C. Peck, Cunningham, land man and county agent for Humble Oil & Refining company, each got a deer. Robert G. Carr of Northrup & Carr had not killed a deer when the others left, and he remained.

H. H. Prager of San Angelo and E. J. Strong of Dallas came in Saturday noon from Mason county, where each killed a deer. They were members of a party of 12, the majority from Navasota and Bryan, that killed 18 deer.

Ben Buvard got a 10-point buck and Sam Kistler got a 3-point buck in the Davis mountains between Fort Davis and Valentine. They left Tuesday morning and returned yesterday afternoon. Others in their party were Vosberg, Paul Claude Aikman and Alvin Williams.

E. W. Bode, Wilkes Bode of Mason, and Jean Cornelison each got a deer and a turkey in Gillespie county. They left Tuesday noon and returned Friday evening. The game was killed on the first day out.

Swapping Yarns with Col. True

Col. True maintains a standing invitation to others to write to him and tell of their own extraordinary experiences. No holds barred. Address Col. True, in care of The Reporter-Telegram.

Recently Bob Patterson wrote you about some of his experiences while working cattle with Abram, Lot, and others. He wound up by slandering Jacob. I was there and working for Jacob. I believe it my duty to defend him.

While I'll admit Jake was still a little sore because Labon palmed off Leah on him when he traded for Rachel, but he did not steal Labon's cattle. He just managed for them.

It was this way: Ralph Barron was running a bank serving the territory around Haran and Padan-aram and made Labon buy off his note. He was out of money and made a fair and square trade with Jake to be his range boss and pay him in motley-faced cattle.

While the story got out that he worked some kind of hokus-pokus, the facts are Jake imported two Durham bulls from South America and just bred up a lot of money for the estate which all belonged to him, of course.

Labon's boys didn't like the way he was getting along and to avoid trouble Jake just rounded up and made a fair trade with Labon. There was going to be trouble when Labon got the sheriff and about 20 deputies and caught him, but Jake out-talked him and put up some rock piles to make the division of their range. Then he told Labon to stay on his side. However, they did not agree absolutely until they had called upon a host of witnesses for that when they were out of sight of each other.

CHUNKY COWDEN. Sir: Any erroneous reflection upon the character, standing or reputation of any person, firm or corporation, which may appear in this department will always be gladly corrected upon due notice of same being given to me.

It seems that Jacob got along all right after he got his start, and no doubt there are other cattlemen who got their starts in some equally questionable way. After all, it is not a matter to be inquired into too deeply. As it happens, I remember the incident very well. I was police reporter on the Padan-Aram Chronicle at the time. The managing editor heard that they were going to hang a man for cattle stealing and sent me out to cover the story. The man referred to was Jacob and since the hanging didn't take place I failed to get the story. When I got back to the office the managing editor fired me. I got a job in a boiler factory down on the Nile and so didn't hear anything more about the hanging. Meyer said he couldn't recall the exact number of men around whose neck he has placed his noose "because I never keep any records." But he recalled how he credited him with three dozen executions, one a woman.

GLASSCOCK SENDS First Man on Road STANTON—Glasscock county, organized 39 years ago, sent its first man to the penitentiary for murder Friday.

Guillermo Jaso, a Mexican, was convicted on a charge growing out of a fatal shooting of another Mexican, Manuel Gonzales, at a dance last Sunday morning on the Grady Cross ranch. He was given a 5-year sentence.

Jaso shot Gonzales six times, two piercing the heart, four plunging through the brain. Any one of the wounds would have caused death, physicians said.

The Mexican was indicted within 24 hours after the shooting and his sentence passed four days later. Jaso was lodged in the Stanton jail immediately following the shooting, he having a severe knife wound on the throat.

Official Hangman Likes His Position NEW ORLEANS, (UP)—New Orleans' official hangman, Henry Meyer, 55, likes his job but resents the critical attitude which his neighbors take toward him. Formerly a carpenter, Meyer became the official hangman for Orleans parish in 1917. Since then he has sent three dozen murderers to their deaths. Four others, all negroes, await execution in parish prison.

"If people want to think what they think, let them think," said Meyer, who lives alone in a room in the almost empty of furnishings. "I do most of what I'm commissioned to by the judge and jury. If your

FISH TACKLES UP McALLEN, (UP)—He may have been the "kingfish" of garfish, but when he tackled the giant centricidal pumps of the Pharr water district at Hidalgo, he met far more than his match. And that's why this particular gas was displayed from a truck in McAllen today. The pumps of the water plant became clogged. Workmen seeking to clear the turbines found the gas caught between the sides of the intake pipe and the turbine blades. He weighed 250 pounds and was seven feet, four inches in length, one of the largest of his kind ever caught in this vicinity.

Commonly known as an "alligator gar" because of the shape of his jaws and his many big teeth, the fish thrives in the muddy waters of valley canals. Seldom, however, do they attain this size.

"STILLS" IN COURT TYLER, (UP)—E. W. Bart, deputy oil and gas supervisor for the state railroad commission, has begun use of a motion picture camera in obtaining visual evidence of disrepair to commission orders in the most empty of furnishings. "I only do what I'm commissioned to by the judge and jury. If your QUESTIONS—ANSWERS A recent survey of Magic Carpet fans mail disclosed the fact that the following questions have been the most frequently asked during the past month. We list them with their answers in the order of their frequency.

Q. Is the signature played by an orchestra on each broadcast or is it a record? A.—It is played at the start and conclusion of each program by Louis Katzman and his orchestra.

Q. Who sings the signature song "Happy Days Are Here Again"? A.—Theo Alban.

Q. Who is the straight man for Jack Pearl? A.—Cliff Hall.

Q. Does Pearl play both parts himself? A.—No.

Q. What does Walter O'Keefe look like? A.—32 years old, 5 feet 11 inches tall, brown hair, brown eyes, contagious smile, generally considered handsome.

Q. In introducing the Magic Carpet dramatizations does the buzzer really spell anything in code? A.—No.

Q. Are all the sound effects used in the dramatizations produced in the studio? A.—The only sound effect brought from outside the studio is that where street noises are required. This is picked up by a microphone suspended over Times Square, the busiest spot in New York, and transmitted to the studio.

The rich black fruit cake is a Yuletide favorite—best if made several weeks before it goes to grace the table. Thorough baking, chocolate and the use of strong coffee or fruit juice in the place of milk will keep the cake moist for weeks and produce a delicious flavor.

Black Fruit Cake Two cups shortening (butter and lard mixed), 1 cup light brown sugar, 10 eggs, 1 cup molasses, 1 cup orange juice, 4 cups flour, 1 teaspoon soda, 1 tablespoon powdered cinnamon, 1 tablespoon powdered allspice, 1 teaspoon powdered cloves, 2 teaspoons nutmeg, 3/4 cake butter, 2 tablespoons vanilla, 1 teaspoon salt. Prepare fruit and almonds. Cut cherries in halves and pineapple in thin slices. If citron and candied sores must be sliced and shredded, warm well before cutting. Mix prepared fruits and sift 1 cup flour over them. Mix well with a fork until perfectly blended. Cream shortening and sugar in a bowl. Add prepared fruit and mix well. Add eggs well beaten and beat this mixture hard.

Now Add Chocolate Add 1/2 pound chocolate melted over hot water and the liquid. Mix well. Mix and sift remaining flour, soda and spices. Sift these ingredients several times to be sure the cocoa is well mixed with the flour. Add to batter with nuts and vanilla and beat until smooth and perfectly blended. Turn into prepared cake pans, cover with paper as in preceding recipe and steam three hours. Remove from steamer and bake 45 minutes in a slow oven. This rule makes four loaves of cake. Half the recipe can be used if only two loaves are wanted. Keep in mind that each ingredient is reduced one-half. When cake is removed from the oven, place in clean bowl or a cake cooler. Pull cloth over pan to cover it completely. Let stand until cool. Then wrap closely in heavy waxed paper and store in a light tin box until wanted.

Helpful Health Suggestions By M. Elizabeth Wilson County Health Nurse

THAT AWFUL COUGH Do you cough a little hacking, persistent cough that makes you a real nuisance to the persons who sit near you in school or at the office or do you have a cough so deep and tragic-sounding that it awakens you—for your hearers suspect tuberculosis? No matter what kind, your cough is unpleasant to you and unpleasant to others. Cough is not a disease but a symptom. Cough is usually the response to the irritation of some substance in the respiratory tract. Any sort of cough should have attention and a cough which lasts longer than six weeks should have a thorough examination by a physician.

Chronic cough in children should have particular attention for the child's respiratory tract is especially liable to disease. Coughs or colds in infants may lead to serious and fatal lung diseases.

There are a number of types of cough, including among others: The useful cough, which frees sputum from the bronchi. The nervous cough caused by embarrassment or power of suggestion. The croupy cough found in diphtheria, pneumonia, etc.

The metallic or brassy cough, found in lung disorders. The postural cough, caused by lying on the right or left side. The emetic cough which ends in vomiting.

Coughing occasionally indicates trouble with the heart or great blood vessels. The sinus cough in children is a moist cough, more severe at night. Avoid coughing by avoiding all association with coughers, smoky or dusty rooms, irritating gases, dusty occupations, intoxicants and excessive smoking.

How to control a cough: A glass of water will sometimes check a cough. Hot milk frequently will loosen expectoration which is stubborn and hard to raise. Consult a physician for any continued cough.

FROGS WIN CHAMPIONSHIP IN HARD 8-0 GAME WITH MUSTANGS

STUBBORN RED AND BLUE WALL IS INFLEXIBLE, BUT FROGS EMPLOY A PASS AND SCORE DECISIVE SAFETY

Texas Christian university won its second Southwest conference championship of history Saturday afternoon, edging out the rejuvenated SMU Mustangs for an 8-0 victory.

With the single exception of the game played by Rice institute, the big white club was never assailed by a more furiously fighting opposition, and up to the half the champions suffered the worst of the going despite a lead of six points.

FOOTBALL SKETCHES

By R. C. HANKINS

In brief, here are several statistics of the Thursday game with McCamey. McCamey gained from scrimmage a total of 134 yards, Midland 107 1/2. Contrary to what this column said Friday, Midland outgained McCamey during the first half, when 63 1/2 yards were measured to 59 for McCamey. Back to back coming back in the third and fourth periods, however, to step off 122 yards against 44 for Midland; Midland lost 11 yards from scrimmage, McCamey 12. Midland attempted 12 passes, completing four for 89 yards, McCamey 11 and completed four for 40 yards, and neither club had a heavy intercepted. Midland was given six penalties aggregating 35 yards, McCamey three for 30 yards, both clubs having been assessed the same number of backward yardage at the half, both clubs tumbled once each. McCamey recovered Midland's slip and its own, as well; Sherrod for Midland kicked six times for an average of 24 1/2 yards, McCamey's boater eight times for an average of 39. Midland returned seven punts (one was a fair catch) for a total of 94 yards, McCamey six for 53 yards. First downs, you no no no remember, stood 13 to 7 for McCamey.

Midland is singularly lacking in some of the finer points of gridiron tactics. Some McCamey men were talking after the game. One, a strapping young fellow with two black eyes and assorted bruises of the face and hands, was spokesman. "That such and such Hallman like to 'a' killed me," he said, grinning as though he had genuinely enjoyed the personal encounter. Yet had a lot of respect for the bone-crushing blocking and tackling and ramming of the Midland captain. "That bird," he went on to say, "hits harder than anybody I ever tried to tackle. He bruised every man on the McCamey squad, including a few sitting on the bench!"

Another man who got credit for doing some hard blocking and tackling was Tom Collins. The powerful linesman and Hallman, make up the only suggestions Midland has to offer for all district—and the showing of the club as a whole naturally cuts down their chances. Bull McCall and Loyd Burris made the mythical selection last season, with Ham Pinnell almost landing a berth. It was recognized by several that Pinnell's value to the club was as great as either of the two selections. Two coaches and three sportswriters of the district got a halfback role to Hallman, but Burris' triple threat ability and his flashy runs behind the solid interference of Hallman gave him a slight edge.

Why doesn't some school authority suggest to Band Director Shradner that he could attain to heights of great utility by writing out the high school an official song? There's no better musical director in the area. There's nothing like the old strains of the alma mater for giving the stands a chance to pull off their hats and catch head colds. McCamey had such a song and we were embarrassed because he had no worth. Chances are that the song that Sweetwater's school song is a beauty. They went wild when Texas played her famous song. In our great inter-sectional clash here Friday with the Red Raiders (or are they the Black Bears?) of Pyote we'd feel funny if a four-piece band introduced a rousing school song for that institution.

Now that we've solved the problem of who'd write the music, it remains only to find the poet to do the words. In that connection, we'd suggest Will Midkiff, who not only would be glad to juggle together the doggerel, but actually might be the school for the privilege. You're quite welcome.

Sam Warren, who once played a mighty game of football himself under the McCamey banner, has a distinguishing style of watching games. At the Turkey day clash, Mrs. Sam came home with several sore ribs and one arm almost dislocated. Sam leans the way the runner does, jumping when he does, and doing a fancy bit of blocking when necessary. He shouted himself hoarse and, on the way home, remarked that one of toes hurt. "That happened on your last end run," his wife told him, "but you stayed in the game."

Colorful drills came between halves. In case you'd like to know a few names, that was Florence Jones as McCamey's bang sweetheart, Wilma Helen Martin and Christine Taylor as leaders of the 20 pep girls and Roy Clark as drum major. We talked with Band Director al touchdowns to Tech, won 13-12. When a team gets cocky that sort of thing generally happens.

Cofseana won its third district championship in a row by beating Cleburne 6-0, and Temple put the skids under Waco 14-6. Lubbock took a dry cleaning at the hands of Amarillo, 14-0, and lost the championship. Ten thousand saw the melee, which was played at Amarillo.

To pay tribute to a great ball team, Texas university ripped through the Aggies to score 21 points in the second period yesterday and preserve tradition that no A. & M. team has ever bested Texas in Memorial stadium. It was a combination of an alert Texas line, the twisting brilliance of Bohm Hilliard, most sensational back in the conference, the bone-crushing blocking and impossible pass snaring of Harrison Stafford, the best of them in the Southwest conference, and the highly power of Key, Texas earned at least a tie for second place in the conference through the win.

What do you think about Arkansas? Certainly, to a soccer tie? Murd six inches thick was blamed. It afforded a no defeat, no tie record of the Gents and bumped them back from inter-sectional claim. The games, averaging 70 yards per game, failed to preserve their great string of wins, but got by with a slim 9-6 won over the Washington Huskies. This win gives the Trojans their eighth straight in the Rose Bowl classic for the fourth time, having beaten Syracuse, Pittsburgh and Tulane in order, Michigan, Colgate, Alabama Poly (Auburn) or Pittsburgh are the most likely among the contenders this year.

Vanderbilt finally lost one, and how! The great red line Alabama charged for a 20-0 victory.

And Missouri played in its usual luck, losing to Nebraska, 21-6.

From other writers: The Purdue backfield lugged the leather well over a mile on running plays from scrimmage alone in its first seven games, averaging 4.84 yards per attempt. Roy Horstmann toted it 105 times for a gain of 458 yards.

Gus Dorais, Detroit club, has two sons, seven and nine, who play no less, the Monica Street Invincibles.

That saying, "they never come back," doesn't apply to football. Zuppke is well on the way back this year. . . . and watch his team next year! . . . another is Auburn, otherwise Alabama Poly, brought back to its old place in the firmament by Chet Wynne and Roger Kiley, a couple of boys from Notre Dame. . . . between 1912 and 1920 Auburn won four Southern Conference championships. . . . for another, and never was worse than fourth.

Coach Howard Jones of the University of Southern California, has no line coach, and the team is without a trainer.

Texas and Nebraska have signed for an inter-sectional football game next year. It will be played Oct. 7 at Lincoln, Neb.

Philip J. Glazer, veteran right tackle of Dartmouth's Big Green football squad, will head the team from Hanover, N. H., next year. The new captain hails from Memphis, Tenn.

Max Nisonger has played end, tackle and guard on this season's Brigham Young University football squad.

Red Grange classes La Vern Dilweg, who played with the 1924 Marquette University football eleven, as the greatest wingman he ever faced.

Iowa has a sophomore quarterback in George Teyro who promises to be a classy punter next year. In the recent game with Purdue the lad stood on his own goal line and punted to the Boiler-makers' 15-yard stripe. He consistently boots 'em 60 yards.

Captain Ivan Williamson and Pedrosky, his running mate at end on the University of Michigan football squad this season, are both lettermen available for basketball at the Wolverine institution this year.

The winter race meeting at Hialeah Park, Miami, opens Jan. 19, and closes March 7. Purses and stakes will total more than $300,000.

Coach Curly Lambeau, of the Green Bay Packers professional football team, likes his players when lots of feet—and that probably why they're perennial champs of the circuit.

Here's the way the Packers stack up in weight: Claude Perry, tackle, Alabama, 201; La Vern Dilweg, end, Marquette, 192; Johnny Blood, halfback, Minnesota, 195; Hurdus, McCary, fullback, Georgia, 192; Llewellyn, halfback, Nebraska, 178; Wengertmann, halfback, South Dakota, 195; August, Michalske, guard, Penn State, 215; Tom Nash, end, Georgia, 204; Jugger Earpe, tackle, Monmouth, 257; Carl Hubbard, end, Centenary, 225; Roger Grove, quarterback, Michigan State, 180; Hank Bruder, halfback, Northwestern, 199; Mill Gantenben, end, Wisconsin, 210; Dick Stahman, tackle, Chicago, 215; Nat Barranger, center, Southern California, 212; and Harry O'Boyle, quarterback, Notre Dame, 180.

They have an Erlen and a McDonnell playing football for Haskell, but those names don't mean anything. The Haskell squad is made up of real Indians who have the help of 15 tribes running through their veins.

While most of the players have dropped their tribal names in favor of modern English ones, three of the players stick to their old family call letters.

These three are Dick Falstaff, Donald Eagleman and Fred Catfish. The coach of the team is Lone Star Dietz, who played with Carlisle under Pop Warner.

Other Sport Scribes

By WILLIAM BRAUCHER

It is going to be such a tough job for All-America selectors to think up a better halfback than Warren Heller of Pitt that maybe they won't try.

All-America pickers seldom choose two linemen from one team, but they can select Ernie Smith and Tay Brown, the Southern California tackles, and will not thereby offend me.

Beep-Boop Purdue With Koken and Heller chosen in the backfield what are you going to do about those splendid Purdue backs, Horstmann and Purvis?

You couldn't go wrong in picking Johnny Oehler of Purdue at center. Neither could you arrest you for naming Art Krueger of Marquette. But the man who probably will get the call is Jack Robinson of Notre Dame and that guess is just as good as any.

The south seems to have four pretty good backs this semester in the persons of Beattie Feathers of Tennessee, John Cain of Alabama, Hitchcock of Auburn and Don Zimmerman of Tulane. By the way, the south this year offers some pretty good examples of the text that a winning team is a great help to a young man in acquiring All-America honors.

Good Line Does Help Ernest "Pug" Rentner of Northwestern has had a hard year, and may be omitted from the first All-America team even though he has played harder and more effectively than he did last year. The trouble this year has been his line, and it is the fact that Northwestern's line isn't up to the gaff, which is another example of a text, viz., that a good strong line helps many a back to an All-America appointment.

If Mr. Newman of Michigan is regulars on the team.

Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons, greatest horse trainer of the day, says that "there are 200 ways in which a horse race can be lost, honestly, and after the figures have indicated the horse cannot lose."

Michigan's famous "point-a-minute" has been selected golf as part of their football players' training at Davidson university. Once a week the boys shoot a round of golf.

Not since Pop Warner developed the single and double wingback has a football formation caused so much sensation as the triple wingback introduced at Brown university this year by Coach "Tuc" McLaughry.

This type of offense has bowled over such teams as Yale, Harvard, Holy Cross and Columbia—each of them by a young man eleven before bumping into Brown.

Until losing Tuesday day to Colgate the Browns were "on top."

Brown's success with this formation has caused concern to many smart coaches. Until its successful debut, the trend had been away from the double wingback as an exclusive formation. Coaches were coming to the conclusion that an attack with two wingbacks must be fashioned so that the formation could easily drop back into a single wingback, for inside the 20-yard line two ball carriers flanking the ends left the team with insufficient drive against a massed defense.

In the Harvard game, using the triple wingback, the shades of the famous Brown 1915 team of 1926 were recalled. Brown drove 80 yards in five plays for its first touchdown.

The second touchdown came in much the same manner. After three first downs were made in four plays four more plays put the ball over. A total of 13 plays for two touchdowns is not so bad!

Against Holy Cross the 1932 edition of the Iron Men drove 85 yards not chosen as first string All-America quarterback, it will be a strange All-America club.

The two greatest football players, on a given day, that I have seen this year were Heller of Pitt against Notre Dame and Rentner of Northwestern against Purdue.

What's in a Name? A young man named "Gump" Ariall of Auburn is one of the year's best ends. And if they had made his nickname "Airmail" he probably would be All-America stuff. Maybe he will be, anyway!

Our choice for All-America fullback will not be named. He is Broncho Nagurski of the professional Chicago Bears.

There are two brilliant sophomores in the Big Ten who will bear watching for future All-American reference purposes. One is Frank Froeschauer, the boy from Lincoln, Ill. (my old home town!), who has been playing such a snappy backfield for Zuppke's Illini, and showing Newman of Michigan in back for scoring honors. The other is Duane Purvis of Purdue, a young man from Mattoon, Ill.

There will be numerous compromises in this formation of tackles. Joe Kurth and Ed Krause of Notre Dame will be written on some of the tickets. Fred Crawford of Duke will get lots of votes.

All-America Hook Lew Hinchman of Ohio State is some place in the running. His performance with passes against Penn was inspiring. He also has a wonderful left hook, as Burnett, Penn end, will testify.

Matal of Columbia and Moss of Southern California are also anybody's selection. Operatives also send in glowing words about Skladan, the Pitt end; Hal Moe, Oregon State back, and Jack Manders, Minnesota back. But then, this is just gossip, remember.

of their only touchdown, the other score resulting from a place kick. Brown's triple wingback, unlike single and double wingback formations, uses a balanced line. Two backs outflank one end of the line, a third back flanks the other extremity of the line. The fourth back is in a position to take the direct pass from center.

Under this formation, Brown offers all plays except kicks, using an assortment of plays that call for double and triple passes, reverses and fake reverses and end sweeps. Plays can be sent into any hole in the line in three different ways.

Anybody is likely to carry the ball, and Brown's touchdown record shows that anybody does. Fullback Bill Gilbane with the scoring with four touchdowns. Next come Halfbacks Gammino and Buonama, with three apiece. Quarterback Chase, whose two field goals and seven points after touchdown have aided materially in running up the string of victories, has scored but one touchdown.

The danger a defense faces is that of overshifting. Andy Kerr of Colgate already worked out the answer to McLaughry's fancy attack. Thanksgivng day told the story.

START BASKETBALL C A N Y O N.—Basketball practice for the Buffs will start Monday. The schedule will not be complete until about December 10, but it is expected that the Buffs this year will play a better schedule than ever before. The Terrible Swedes, a traveling team which is probably the strongest traveling independent basketball team in the world, has been booked for Canyon the nights of December 21 and 22. This team played a total of 118 games in the 1932 season and won 110 of them. "We'll give them Swedes a trimming," declared Captain Fortenberry when asked about the approaching games.

"Bird of Paradise" is probably one of the best known plays ever produced.

For a whole decade Richard Walton Tully's "Bird of Paradise" was the outstanding stage attraction of the Western continent and Great Britain. Its metropolitan and provincial success rivaled that of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" which held all records. "Bird of Paradise" was a play of such intense appeal that it drew repeat audiences year after year. Ten road companies at a time played it throughout the United States. It ran a year in London. It earned its author $500,000. It made star after star in its legitimate dramatic career.

Love is the big theme in "Bird of Paradise"—Love in its tenderest and most thrilling aspects alike, with a suspenseful conflict in every episode. Love which surmounted a tragic dilemma with a sacrifice dwarfing all other human heroism.

The lovely Dolores Del Rio will be seen in the exotic role of "Luana," created on the stage by Leonard Ulric. Joel McCrea, handsome hero of several of Constance Bennett's recent pictures, heads the supporting cast.

In case of sickness a single call may be priceless

"Brings firemen rushing . . ."

"Tell them to come to work . . ."

"I have more time . . ."

Meeting emergencies . . . please hurry! . . . 178 Elm Street. When there is a fire . . . or burglars . . . a telephone call brings firemen or police rushing to your aid. At such a time, not having a telephone may prove costly.

Finding a job . . . EMPLOYER: "Telephone three men on this list. Tell them to come to work tomorrow." When there is a job to be filled, employers and agencies want to get in touch with you quickly. Not having a telephone may mean fewer opportunities for work.

Getting things done . . . "Seems I have more time since we got the telephone. This morning I ordered the groceries, had the man call for your suit and got most of the housework done. This afternoon I had the drug store send out some dye. You won't recognize that old white dress now." A telephone saves time and strength for the jobs you have to do in person.

The cost of having a telephone is reasonable . . . Not having one may prove expensive . . . Call the business office . . . Say "I want a telephone."

Production Loans Maturing Nov. 30

DALLAS.—A last minute rush to pay crop production loans by maturity date, November 30, is expected by Owen W. Sherrill, regional director of the crop production loan office in Dallas.

About 25,000 bales of cotton have been collateralized at 9 cents a pound, or $45.00 a bale, totalling $1,125,000. Total loans to 34,691 Texas farmers this spring amounted to $3,224,993.

"Cotton is being collateralized against crop production loans on a basis of 9 cents a pound 7-8 middling," said Sherrill, "but the loans are not paid until cotton is later sold, either by the borrower before March 1, 1933, or by the secretary of agriculture after that date. The farmer borrower who collateralizes his loan secures a release on his remaining crops."

"The Texas regional office, in addition to establishing a good record on collateralized cotton, is leading in percentage of collection on loans made. More than $1,500,000 cash has been collected to date, the loan maturity date being November 30."

ANNUAL HIKE By Scout Reporter Featuring the best campfire in the history of scout work here, the annual Thanksgiving hike, which took place Friday night at the Schabarner No. 2 place at the sand hills eight miles southwest of town, was a success.

On the hike were: James Day, Coen Stephenson, Dewitt Carr, James Connor, Charles Patterson, Bill Patrick, Malcolm Breneman, Billy Day, J. W. Jones, Bob Reeves, Locksley Hall, Robert Howe, Harold Reid, Bush Reid, Raymond Morelan, Robert Payne, Wallace Blankenship, Pat McMillan, Eugene Richman, Alvin Parker, Ralph Lamar, Billy Hiett, Felix Halton, W. B. Osborn and Rubin Osborn. Leaders in charge were C. C. Day, and L. H. Thiffin. Visitors were Wallace Wimberly, Earle Payne and Mr. and Mrs. Guy Breneman.

Through the courtesy of J. B. Ford owner of the Rosebud Transfer company, transportation was afforded all troops. Ford sent the truck back for the return to town. Scoutmaster, Howard, Wimberly, and Day and the various troops said appreciation to Ford for the courtesy.

my part, as a public speaker, to kill me. Hence the lecture, 'Twentieth Century Fallacies,' which I usually make part of my dogmatic missions."

An Able Speaker "Father McGrath is a clear and logical speaker," Father Siros says, "and no one will have any difficulty in firmly grasping his message. He has a strong, yet pleasant voice, softened in timbre and improved in tone by a course in voice culture at the American Academy of Dramatic Arts, under the tutelage of Wellington Putnam, well-known in this field. His language is simple and replete with scriptural allusions and quotations. His sermons and lectures abound in examples and illustrations that make his meaning clear and hold the attention of the audience."

Program of Lectures The complete program of dogmatic lectures is as follows: Sunday, Nov. 27, at 10 o'clock mass: "What Is Religion Good For?" Sunday, Nov. 27, at 7:30 p. m.: "Twentieth Century Fallacies." Monday, Nov. 28, at 7:30 p. m.: "Why I Am a Catholic." Tuesday, Nov. 29, at 7:30 p. m.: "Why Catholics Do Not Believe." Wednesday, Nov. 30, at 7:30 p. m.: "Why Catholics Do Not Change Their Religion." Thursday, Dec. 1, at 7:30 p. m.: "Why Catholics Obey the Pope." Friday, Dec. 2, at 7:30 p. m.: "Can Priests Forgive Sins?" Saturday, Dec. 3, at 7:30 p. m.: "The Peerless Woman." Sunday, Dec. 4, at 10 o'clock mass: "The Mass Explained." Sunday, Dec. 4, at 7:30 p. m.: "America's Sovereign Ruler."

Crawford Manager Firestone Stores

M. H. Crawford has assumed the duties of manager of the Firestone Service Stores, Inc., 624 West Wall, it was announced Saturday, succeeding W. F. Heil, who resigned. Crawford was formerly manager of the Williams Auto Supply company here, later buying the business and changing the name to Midland Auto Supply. A few months ago he sold the business to M. D. Cox. The new Firestone manager said he was highly pleased to become associated with the company and to handle the Firestone product. Heil, Saturday, had not announced his immediate plans. He had been actively in charge of the business since it was established here under the firm name of Heil & Heil and was in charge of building the present large building.

Sharp Murder Trial Resumed

DEL RIO, Nov. 26. (UP)—The defense resumed testimony today in the trial of Mrs. Bessie Sharp on an indictment that she murdered her husband to marry a cowboy lover. Relatives and friends were put on the stand in an effort to prove that she was of unsound mind. The prosecution, however, elicited from her stepfather the admission that he believed she was of sound mind when she poisoned Sharp.

Rug-Cleaning Machine Added

New equipment for cleaning rugs has been installed by the Midland Steam Laundry, it was announced yesterday by Paul Brown, manager. Brown says that under the new process rugs may be rid of dirt and sediment that often is not removed by vacuum cleaning, and that the natural color is restored. The company's advertisement appears in this issue.

De Zita, Blindfolded, Drives in Traffic

Dr. de Zita, appearing on the added program of the Ritz theatre, drove under complete visual wrap Saturday, sending a new Ford in and out of traffic with no hesitation. A police officer sat with him part of the time and reported that de Zita drove with sureness all the way and without any help, observing all traffic regulations and otherwise handling the car as well as the best driver would under normal circumstances.

De Zita will hypnotize a young woman at 9 o'clock Tuesday afternoon on the Ritz stage. She will remain under the hypnotic influence for 24 hours, sleeping in a window of the Midland Hardware and Furniture company. An Ellis mortuary ambulance will be used to transport the woman.

Ramblers and Pitt Down Their Rivals

In one of the principal sectional tilts of Saturday, Notre Dame completely mastered the Army, 21-0 scoring three touchdowns with comparative ease and tossing away chances for additional markers. The Ramblers camped all afternoon on Army's goal line. The win "showed up" several strong eleven's beaten by Army earlier in the season. In the other important game, Pitt held Stanford helpless, winning 7-0. The California institution was able to make only 12 yards at rushing tactics and 50 through the air, completing three passes and having 13 grounded.

Under the Dome Of the Capital

By GORDON K. SHEARER United Press Staff Correspondent AUSTIN, (UP)—Governor Ross S. Sterling's recent automobile accident in which he received lacerations about the head focuses attention on the fact that Texas governors are lucky in travel. Dan Moody, as candidate for governor, drove all over the state, mostly in cars with other persons, and had no accidents. Once a flooded road made him abandon one car, wade the water and take another but there were no accidents. When Moody began flying as a means of quicker transportation, both private and public protests were made. He finally yielded to the public clamor but a forced landing in a storm was the nearest he came to accident in that type of travel.

Governor Sterling never uses an airplane. He has a record, however, for fast automobile trips. During his last campaign he spoke at Amarillo one night and in Austin for a noon engagement the next day. Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, governor-elect, was in a train accident near Brownwood during her first campaign against Dan Moody. She was unhurt.

John Boyle, noted San Antonio attorney, tells me it is a mistake that he is drafting a "beer bill" to be presented to the next session of the Texas legislature. "I think one should be passed," said Boyle, "but I am not certain about this. Boyle favors the Quebec system and believes it would be a good one for Texas. While he advocates light wine and beer, Boyle declares that whiskey was never intended for beverage. He says it should be salable only on a physician's prescription and under strict restriction then."

Many inquiries come to the state capital about the previous record of the state in prohibition contests. A review of the records in the office of the secretary of state shows a statewide prohibition amendment has been voted upon three times.

In 1927 the vote was nearly two to one against prohibition. It received only 129,270 votes and there were 220,627 against it. In 1911 the drys had gained in strength and polled 291,096 for state-wide prohibition. The vote apparently had lost on early returns but when the count was completed they were found to have defeated prohibition, casting 237,993 votes against it.

In 1919 when the state went dry by constitutional amendment the vote was 150,725 for and 140,099 against. War time had cut down the voting strength.

Beside these statewide elections there were numerous tests of wet and dry strength in counties and communities under the local option law. Under that law an election to declare a political subdivision dry could be called. Dry zones spread about army camps sent wet places like San Antonio dry before statewide prohibition took effect.

Digest "Hits" on Straw Vote Poll

The effective bull's-eye record scored by the greatest of Literary Digest presidential straw votes is more than acknowledged by a nation-wide chorus of congratulations spiced with exclamations of astonishment.

Here we insert a tentative summary of the poll's score card, figured from the latest election returns at this writing—and these percentages are probably final: Accuracy in definitely forecasting the "landslide" election of Roosevelt—100 per cent. Accuracy in forecasting the electoral vote at 474 to 57 (the election result was 472 to 59)—99.6 per cent. Accuracy in forecasting Roosevelt's proportion of the popular vote—98.89 per cent.

Poll fans do not need to be reminded that Roosevelt scored 84.6 per cent of the total Hoover-Roosevelt straw votes, not counting the minor candidates. The election figures give him 58.75 per cent of the Hoover-Roosevelt popular vote, so the Digest poll came within 1.11 per cent of the result!

With these achievements to its credit, it is perhaps not surprising that the Literary Digest recommended a poll should now be showered with bouquets and serenaded with the chorus of acclamation mentioned above. But the harmony is broken every now and then by a menacing sound, which grows louder with repetition, like the clumping of the giants in Wagner's "Rings" which this yearning note is the mysterious and baffling problem of Pennsylvania.

Why did the Digest poll, so amazingly right in so many particulars, miss apparently—in that important state? That poser, repeated on all sides, makes the haunting undertone in the chorus of praise, creating a feeling like that produced by Hamlet's exclamation "Something is rotten in the state of Denmark."

Editorial writers all over the country treat the unique reversal of Pennsylvania as a first-class political enigma which should be investigated and explained.

The Digest has no "diagnosis" to make in the case of Pennsylvania, and no "prescription" to suggest. "All we know is what we read in the papers," and some of the Philadelphia papers are quite outspoken in the reasons which they underline the amazing shift from the substantially Rooseveltian Pennsylvania of the Digest roll to the scantily Hooverian Pennsylvania of election day.

Chinese Report Caused Mix-up

GENEVA, (UP)—League circles consider there may be some danger in London of a misconception of the respective functions of the council and assembly in relation to the Sino-Japanese conflict. This position was taken following report that Lord Halsam, in reply to a debate in the House of Lords, said that the object of the British government here would be a frank discussion with other members of the council to unite on a policy to be submitted to the special assembly.

It is pointed out that the council can either immediately transfer the Lytton report to the assembly, or at most individual members of the council could comment on its findings. It is maintained that the council is not competent to make any kind of recommendation or take any action concerning the solution of the dispute, since the dispute has been referred to the assembly.

There is reason to believe that the Chinese are doing this since they transferred the matter to the assembly because the dispute affected the whole world. They did not, however, do so because they had any lack of confidence in the council.

Female Hoboes Are Common

CHICAGO, (UP)—Women hoboes are common, according to Edwina "Eddie" Johnson, 22, a veteran of the road with 13 years' experience. Police picked her up in the heart of hobotown because she wore men's clothes, an aviator's cap and goggles. "I've been doing this since I was nine," Eddie said. "There are hundreds of girls and women riding the blimps. I've been in jungles with as many as 25 women—and we have our own camps, funds, etc. We never bother with the men."

"The reason more of us aren't heard from is that most of the girls say they are over 21 and they don't let them along. This is the first time I've ever been arrested. I usually flip off somewhere before we pull into the yards."

She and her older brother took to the road when their father died in California. They headed for the South Dakota wheat fields. Since then she has covered most of the west.

Town Goes Dry. Detective Finds

GREENVILLE, S. C. (UP)—A situation, termed by Chief of Detectives L. W. Hammond as interesting and encouraging, has arisen here. Drinking seems declining. "I don't quite understand it," said Chief Hammond. The town seems to be drying up. There is apparently less interest in whiskey, less desire and subsequently less supply than at any other time in the past several years.

It's odd, but you can obtain a divorce in Nevada after six weeks' residence, but you have to live there six months before that issue you a resident's fishing license.

Woman Credited With Fixing Date

Pilgrims, dodging Redskins to bag turkeys in snow-covered hills, started the Thanksgiving day idea in America, but it was a woman who made the last Thursday in November an annual red letter day in the national calendar.

For many years there was nothing fixed or nation-wide about this day of pleasant aromas—this feast of roast fowl, mince meat and pumpkin pie. But along came Sarah Josepha Hale, author and editor of the "Ladies Magazine," first periodical published in America for women.

For 20 years she urged national celebration of Thanksgiving day. Finally—President Lincoln adopted her suggestion in 1864, proclaiming it a national day of grateful prayer. Other presidents followed his example.

Incidentally this author had other claims to distinction besides being a sort of "mother of Thanksgiving day." For example, she published a "School Song Book" which contained, among other things, "Mary Had a Little Lamb."

Time has wrought many changes in Thanksgiving day since Governor Bradford called for public praise to God after the first harvest in Plymouth Colony in 1621. President Washington recommended Thursday, Nov. 26, 1789, as a day of acknowledgement of "the many and signal favors of Almighty God." But the custom was not followed up every year. In 1933, Washington designated February 19 to mark the nation's gratefulness at the suppression of the whisky rebellion.

By 1898 the day was proclaimed in 25 states and two territories. The great American holiday—marked by family reunions, the table groaning with good things and prayers to divine Providence—was spreading from old New England to the whole land.

"Skeets" Shoots Now Popular

BOSTON, (UP)—American inventive genius has given the country and the world a large new shooting game which promises to attain the status of a major sport according to the National Skeet Shooting association.

The game is known as "Skeet," an old form of the word "shoot," and consists of shooting at clay targets thrown from traps in a manner to simulate the flight of winged wild game. Its rapidly growing popularity is attributed quite as much to the practice in the field shooting of game it affords as to the recreational value of the sport.

More than 800 Skeet clubs have been organized. While these are mainly in New England and the Middle West there is not a state in which there are not Skeet fields. Besides the club shoots, interstate and sectional tournaments are staged. Telegraphic shoots are being held with the competing clubs wiring their scores to each other. Among these long distance matches are those between a Detroit club and a Los Angeles club.

Numbers of private estates now have Skeet layouts for the entertainment of week-end and house party guests. Sportsmen in Europe are taking up this "made-in-America" game.

Toronto Co-Eds Set up Shops

TORONTO, Ont. (UP)—Co-eds at the University of Toronto, who have obtained employment in order to pay their college fees, to lessen the strain on the family budget, or to raise "pin money" for themselves, have formed a club and are calling themselves the "Free Lances."

In many of the women's dormitories, the "Free Lances" have set up wardrobe shops and beauty parlors and report that "business is good."

Other students have obtained employment as theatre ushers, check room clerks, stenographers and as nursemaids.

The coldest town on the British Isles is Braemar, which has an average yearly temperature of 11.3 degrees above zero.
