Hunter Gets CloseUp of Sea Serpent

VICTORIA, B. C.—A view of "Amy Cadborosaurus," Vancouver island's famed sea serpent, from only 10 feet away was almost too much for a young duck hunterbut he lived to write about it.

His view of the creature (whatcver it is) was the closest of the upwards of 30 or 40 reputable citizens who have reported seeing it in the last three months. Among them were Capt. W. N. Prengel and First Officer A. E. Richards, of the liner Santa Lucia, who reported sighting it in the Gulf of Georgia. In a letter to a Victoria newspaper, Cyril B. Andrews, 21, of Pender Harbor, related that while he and Norman Georgeson were duck hunting last Sunday the sea monster serpent appeared beside their boat and seized a duck they had shot down.

"I was still only 10 feet away,"

"It was still only 10 feet away,"

"Its legnth when I first saw it lying in the bay was fully 40 feet, and from head to tail I would say it was all of that length as it appeared in front of me.

"Its thickness was between two and a half and three feet at the thickest part, gradually tapering to the tail, like a snake. In color it was a brownish grey, the skin smooth, with no spikes or fins whatever to be seen. It swam with its head breaking water."
