School System Leads Hogan's Writings Defends Schools Upon Astrology

By R. C. Hankins

There are few people in West Texas who have not heard at least indirectly of the Midland school system, but few people living in Midland know the school is more fully accredited with the state university than numerous systems of much greater West Texas towns.

Midland has 38 fully accredited units, San Angelo 37, Lubbock 36 1/2, Sweetwater 34, Big Spring 32, Colorado 32, Ballinger 30, Fort Stockton 29 1/2, Lamesa 29 1/2, Odessa 27, McCamey 26 1/2, Marfa 25 1/2, Pecos 25, Alpine 23, Stanton 22 1/2 and Wink 22 1/2.

When it is realized that there are 961 accredited high schools in the state, there are two significant matters found in the bulletin. Out of only four high schools in Texas, Midland is one school to boast of three units in music, the others being El Paso, San Antonio, and Fort Arthur high schools; and, out of only 20 high schools having four units in Spanish, Midland is listed along with Alamo Heights, San Antonio, Alice, Austin, Benches, Brownsville, Corpus Christi, Dallas, Eagle Pass, El Paso, Holding Institute (Laredo), Houston, Laredo, Lubbock, McKinney, Radford school for girls (El Paso), San Antonio, Victoria and Villa Maria (Brownsville).

With this issue, readers will find articles written by T. S. Hogan, financier, ex-senator from Montana, oil man and broker, as a regular feature of The Reporter-Telegram as long as Mr. Hogan remains in Washington. One of President-elect Roosevelt's right-hand men was associated with Mr. Hogan when the latter was a senator in Washington from Montana and other national leaders are strong friends of the Midland man.

Which calls to mind a letter to Mr. Hogan Saturday from Senator Wheeler of Montana, a copy of which was sent by Sen. Wheeler to the Reporter-Telegram, in which the Montana leader asks Mr. Hogan to enlist support of Texas to his bill to establish a bimetallic system of currency, employing the principle of fixing the relative value of gold and silver, to provide for free coinage of silver as well as gold, and for other purposes.

The Houston man is one of the outstanding chamber of commerce executives of the United States. He is a former vice president of the National Commercial Executive Association, is former manager and organizer of the East Texas chamber of commerce, and is considered one of the finest chamber of commerce speakers in the South. He is the highest paid chamber executive in the South.

The Midland chamber set its annual meeting date in accordance with the constitution adopted about ten years ago, but had hoped to change the date in order not to conflict with the scout council meeting at Big Spring; but due to the scout meeting having been previously announced for Jan. 24, and the change of dates being unknown, Blanton had been invited to Midland.

The program committee, composed of W. A. Yeager and R. M. Barr, plans a program to start at 7 p. m. and end about 9 p. m., as long-drawn-out programs have been banned for Midland chamber of commerce meetings.

WILL THE FREE STATE DIVE IN?

The people of the Emerald Isle have played such an important part in the history of both the Old and New Worlds that the eyes of all the nations are focused on the campaign which is to culminate in general elections throughout the Irish Free State on January 25.

Ireland is at present almost exclusively agricultural. It has gained its livelihood by selling its foodstuffs in England, buying manufactured goods with the proceeds.

The opposite policy means early reconciliation with Britain on the basis contained in membership in the British Commonwealth; concentration of effort on improving existing methods of farming instead of turning to new ones; abandonment of the new policy of industrialization.

While the country is hovering between two such widely differing systems, it is certain there can be no stability in the Irish Free State. The last ten months have shown this beyond possibility of dispute.

De Valera's new industries will get no one to finance them while there is the possibility that a fresh general election will remove the tariff, without which they cannot hope to show a profit.

If the Irish Free State wants to be self-sufficing, it must take a plunge. De Valera induced it to immerse first one toe when he removed the oath of allegiance to King George from the statute book last summer.

The Ba-a-a-ah Relief (what a relief) column yesterday said the state legislators would not favor the four year term of office for governor because too many legislators have their eyes on the governor's job and the additional two years per cent would double the chances against them.

The pessimists say the future of the league depends on how it handles the question of disarmament and the grave question of Japan's actions in Manchuria, with possibilities that either matter may bring serious results.

The Optimistic View The optimists, among them former General Jan Smuts of South Africa, predict for the league expanding power and influences.

The league has definitely and greatly grown in strength—that is to say, its hold on public opinion throughout the world and on governments and administrations thru which public opinion acts.

Looking at the matter without prejudice, it probably would be nearer the truth to say that the great powers use the league when it is convenient, while the small powers cling to it desperately in the hope that it may evolve into something like the dream of its founders. As it stands today, the league membership includes all of Europe except Russia; all of Latin-America except Brazil, Costa Rica and Ecuador (with Argentina apparently half in and half out); all of Asia except Afghanistan and the Hedjaz and all of Africa except Egypt.

The executive council is composed of 14 members, five of whom represent the great powers and have permanent memberships. One permanent seat was reserved originally for the United States. The council now has as permanent members the British empire, France, Germany, Italy and Japan. The other nine members of the council are elected by the assembly. In the assembly, every member nation is represented by three delegates, but each nation has only one vote.

Rules for the formation, scope and conduct of the organization all were laid down in President Wilson's Covenant, which was made an integral part of the Treaty of Versailles.

The league has a vast secretariat or permanent staff of more than 500 persons. In addition to peace measures, it deals with humanitarian and health measures on a world-wide basis. Its permanent seat is in Geneva, where it is to be housed soon in a fine series of new buildings, some of the money for which was supplied by John D. Rockefeller, Jr.

Since its beginning the league has spent some $40,000,000. Each nation is allocated a share of the annual budget on the basis of units. The British empire is taxed the highest, 105 units or about $600,000 a year, and has always paid up. France and Germany pay about $480,000 each, while Japan, Italy and India average about $370,000. At the stands to lose Mexico, which has announced notice of withdrawal because of lack of funds. Italy at one time threatened to quit, but Mussolini has since declared his intention to remain. Financially, the league is weak for the reason that a third of the member nations are behind in their dues. For example, recent reports showed that China and Peru had not paid a cent to the league in eight years; that China owed nearly $2,000,000. Nevertheless, the league enters 1933 with an increased budget.

Under the Dome Of the Capital

AUSTIN, (UP).—Membership of the Forty-third Texas legislature furnishes a cross section of the state, perhaps more nearly complete than ever before.

As usual lawyers predominate. There are 66 in the house and in the senate 20 of the 31 members are lawyers.

Farmers come next to the lawyers numerically. A farm bloc of 24, composed only of those with farming as their chief vocation could be assembled in the house.

House membership includes ten merchants; six students, five of them taking law; five insurance men; four real estate men; four salesmen; three editors and publishers; three oil men; three druggists; two ranchmen; two bankers; two ministers; a printer; a musician; a music dealer; a dentist; a case broker; an abstracter; an advertising man; a decorator; a funeral director; a railroad engineer, and two men who have retired from business.

Several members list more than one vocation so the totals are seemingly at variance with the total membership.

Rep. O. F. Chastain of Eastland offsets one of the double business members. He lists no occupation. Blanks are left also for Ben Cathey of Quilman and E. B. Barrett of Leonard.

There are but two women legislators. One is Rep. Sarah T. Hughes of Dallas and the other Senator Margie Neal of Carthage.

Other statistics disclosed by Chief Clerk Finney's compilation show Frank C. Weinert of Seguin is the oldest house member. He and Rep. T. H. McGregor have both served in the state senate, serving the rule by which house members frequently go to the senate.

R. B. Anderson of Godley and Dero D. Cowley of Hillsboro will have to compete for the baby member determine who is the baby member bottom of the scale are nations like Liberia and Honduras, assessed one unit each, or about $6000 a year. The league claims the world as its field, with its special job of furthering disarmament and preventing the danger of wars. But the fact remains that some of the biggest accomplishments in this line have been made independently, showing that the great powers, when they set their wills to do it—can accomplish anything the league can do.

Another important independent step was the Kellogg-Briand pact of 1928, which came of American initiative. By it, 59 signatory nations agreed to renounce war.

Despite these independent achievements, the league has been an important factor in international affairs and in furthering peace. Many times it has played the part of an international fire department in quenching outbreaks in Europe before the flames could spread to dangerous proportions.

DOG SAVES HIM

MEDFORD, Okla.—James Armstrong will forever be thankful to a dog for his life. Armstrong was walking recently and, in avoiding an approaching auto, stepped into an abandoned city well. He plunged down 16 feet into two feet of water where he was forced to stay the remainder of the day. It was pure luck that D. J. Buroff passed with his dog. The dog's barking at the well opening caused Buroff to find and free Armstrong.

Experts unfamiliar with Texas political history must have written a first draft of the recent report of the joint legislative committee on reorganization of state government. This first draft, changed before issuance, advocated appointment of the attorney general. The report suggests it, but the first draft declared the only reason the office was made elective was in order that the attorney general might be a check on the governor's office. The report points out as they are elected on the same ticket, this could not.

Net result of the adoption of the recommendations, as pointed out by one cynic, would be to make all officers not now appointed by the governor, appointive by him and release the state auditor, one of the few now appointed by the governor, from such appointment.

Another criticism heard is the report outlining reorganization and rearrangements but nowhere says how many workers can be dropped by the new arrangement nor what saving can be effected.

HEALTH QUESTIONS
By M. Elizabeth Wilson, County Health Nurse

Question: Will you give me your opinion of baby pacifiers—do they really cause adenoids?

Answer: I find no scientific confirmation of the statement that "mouth pacifiers"—if that is what you mean—produce adenoids but pacifiers are not recommended to stop the crying of infants. Anything continually sucked or chewed by a baby has a tendency to deform the budding teeth or the upper or lower jaw.

Question: That my little girl three years old is unusually backward in talking is quite a worry to me. Such few words as she uses are poorly pronounced. Is this any sign that she has poor mental powers?

Answer: The popular belief that children who do not learn to talk at the normal age are mentally defective is responsible for much unwarranted anxiety. While it is true that disordered speech may be an early symptom of mental defect, speech development may be delayed as late as 9 years of age in children otherwise perfectly normal.

Partial deafness may sometimes be the cause of speech defect. Most deaf mutes have perfectly normal speech organs but do not exercise them because of their inability to hear.

Question: What is the use of a flaxseed poultice?

Answer: A flaxseed poultice was used in early days to obtain moist heat for seats of pains. Such poultice retained the heat for a long period—but a cloth wrung out of hot water and applied with a hot water bag over it, has the same effect and is a much easier and cleaner method of relieving pain than the flaxseed poultice of former times.

Magazine Made Him Star Gazer

BERKELEY, Calif. (UP)—A photograph in a magazine changed George F. Tauchman from an average man—working six days a week and putting around his workshop in his back yard—to a full-fledged astronomer in four years.

In 1928, Thor Soderland, a friend, showed Tauchman a photograph of a telescope in a scientific magazine. "I'll build one of those," Tauchman said.

Today he has his observatory in his back yard, constructed entirely by himself and a large telescope, also built by himself. Although it took him two years to make good his promise, Tauchman now has won the recognition of world-famous astronomers who visit him.

He has become a member of the Astronomical society of the Pacific, photographed moon, eclipses, and applied for patents on various types of his home-made equipment.

When Tauchman started his telescope he made his lenses from discarded ship porthole glasses. They were ground down, polished, and mounted in brass.

He has spoken words. You had better consult a specialist before your child becomes permanently handicapped.

MEXIA, (UP)—Westminster Junior college at Tehuacana, near here, will retain its rating as an improved junior college of the first class, Dean Wayland P. Moody has been informed.

Slight change in the present routine of entrance examinations and adding of more equipment, which possibly would mean the offering of a second-year chemistry course, are the only recommendations made by W. E. Gattis, examiner for the state department.

HELEN HAYES AND RAMON NOVARRO CO-STARRED IN OFFERING AT YUCCA

"The Son-Daughter," colorful drama of San Francisco's Chinatown, with Helen Hayes and Ramon Novarro in the principle roles, is the talk attraction opening today at the Yucca theatre. The picture, a dramatic romance of the struggle of Chinese revolutionists and royalists in America, is based on the well-known David Belasco stage hit in which Lenore Ulric created one of her most successful roles.

The plot of "The Son-Daughter" deals with a Chinese girl in love with a Chinese prince who is in America incognito, as a result of political intrigue, she is auctioned into marriage in order to raise the funds for the Chinese revolution. Royalist spies learn of the proceedings, and the highlander to whom the girl is sold kills her father and wounds her lover. She, however, proves herself more than a match for the plotters, and an ingenious twist in the drama enables her to slay the highlander and to rescue the prince. In the end they make their escape together to China.

A distinguished supporting cast includes Lewis Stone, Warner Oland, Ralph Morgan, Louise Closser Hale and Frederick Burt, William Burress, Dell Henderson and Sumner Getchell. The film was directed by Clarence Brown, who was responsible for many of Greta Garbo's hits, and whose last production was the Crawford-Gable co-starring success, "Letty Lynton."

Oriental celebrations and the nefarious long wars. Listed as "high spots" of the picture are the dramatic sacrifice of the Chinese girl for her country; the auctioning of the bride; the wedding ceremony with the great Chinese dragon carried on the shoulders of a hundred bearers; the oath of vengeance before the Joss; the episode in which Miss Hayes strangles the highlander with his own queue, and the escape of the lovers to their native land.

Three Chevrolet Vehicles Shown

Chevrolet's 1933 commercial vehicles, which goes on view today at dealers' truck salesrooms all over the country, include three distinct lines: the half-ton, with a wheelbase of 109 inches; a 1 1/2-ton wheelbase truck; and a 157-inch 1 1/2-ton wheelbase truck. Prices are greatly reduced, and on the half-ton line, range from $330 list for the standard chassis and $345 for the special chassis up to $559 for the Special Canopy model, with screen sides. Range for the 1 1/2-ton wheelbase truck line is from $480 for the chassis ($570 with cab) to $670 for the Van Panel model. Chassis price for the 157-inch wheelbase truck line is $510 ($600 with cab) and prices for a variety of models range up to $950 for the van panel job, which has dimensions of 142 1/2 x 81 1/2 x 69. In the panel bodies on the half-ton and on the 1 1/2-ton wheelbase truck, the roof is of the "French" type. Paint finish of the entire

STAR-STUDED COMEDY; "THE BIG BROADCAST," OPENS AT THE RITZ

Bing Crosby, Kate Smith, the Boswell Sisters, the Mills Brothers, Cab Calloway and his band, Burns and Allen, Arthur Tracy, the Street Singer, and Vincent Lopez—all on one bill! Is that entertainment? That's the line-up which Paramount has assembled for "The Big Broadcast," a screen version of the play "Wild Waves," which opened with a preview showing last night at the Ritz theatre, before a delighted and warmly appreciative audience.

It is not to be supposed, however, that "The Big Broadcast" is merely a glorification of the personalities of the various radio stars for their songs and nonsense are all incidental to a straight-forward, believable and amusing story, which featured Stuart Erwin and Lella Hyams, of the films, along with the kings and queens of radio. But with Bing Crosby as more-or-less himself, the Boswell Sisters as telephone operators in the radio station, George Burns as the president of the station and Grace Allen as the reception clerk—well, the authors of the script, haven't overlooked the possibilities of such a cast.

There are two new songs in the picture, introduced by Crosby and Arthur Tracy, and both have the earmarks of hits. "Here Lies Love" is another one of these things—low and mean and old, so sad—while "Please," on the other hand, is a light and captivating dance rhythm. The whole film is paced fast and furious and amusing. Not for an instant does the interest lag, and if you're not laughing you're listening to sweet music or sparkling dialogue. It's a big treat and a big entertainment. You'll like it.

Consolidations Not Favored by Studes

DENTON—Twelve hundred girls, between the ages of 16 and 22, demanded a square deal from the state of Texas when they recently met in mass assembly and adopted resolutions opposing consolidation of the Texas State College for Women (CIA) with any other institution.

In one of the most spirited meetings in the history of the college, class officers and ex-students reviewed the history of CIA, its purpose of establishment, achievement in the 30 years of organization, continued maintenance of high ideals and standards of scholarship, and the right of women today for equal and fair opportunities of education. High points in the formal resolutions which are to be sent to the governor, lieutenant-governor and the house of representatives include unanimous favor for the maintenance of the College of Industrial Arts as independent senior state college for women; belief that the proposed consolidation would be subversive of the best interests of the womanhood of Texas, as demonstrated by educational system of Texas and as a grievous injustice to the people of Texas. Much of the sentiment of the meeting was based on the fact that CIA, as the only state-supported women's college in Texas, is in no sense of the word a local institution nor does the college belong to any particular locality or economic class. Students from every section of the state, more than 200 Texas counties, are in attendance. They came from the homes of the poor and the rich; and their parents are connected with every worth-while vocational interest in the state. A pep rally by students, ex-students and friends of the college concluded the assembly.

Alleged Bond Jumper Jailed

BRECKENRIDGE—Miss Pickering, whom sheriff's officials "sa-jumped" a bond in Breckenridge 1928 on a charge of theft of more than $50 as back in the Stephen county jail today.

Pickering was arrested Saturday in Ranger by officers there, in Deputy Sheriff P. L. Friesland went for him and brought him to jail here. Pickering was indicted by the Stephens county grand jury in 1927 for stripping a truck and was released on a magistrate's bond. It is said to have forfeited this bond and was later arrested and made another bond, which he also forfeited when he failed to appear for trial. Pickering will be tried on the charge of theft of more than $50 value.

Again Chevrolet leads the way to economical transportation! Chevrolet announces a greatly improved line of Chevrolet six-cylinder trucks—featuring a new engine. A new rear axle. A new frame. Many progressive changes in design and construction. And selling at new, greatly reduced prices that only the world's largest builder of cars and trucks could achieve.

- REDUCTIONS AS MUCH AS $70
- Half-ton Pick-up $440
 - Sedan Delivery $545
 - Half-ton Panel $530
 - 131" Stake $655
 - 157" Stake $715

Chevrolet has also introduced an entirely new type of rear axle with the outstanding mechanical advantages of a four-pinion differential and a straddle-mounted pinion with bearing support on both sides.

In addition, the Chevrolet 131-inch truck now has a much stronger frame, with deeper, heavier side members. The 1 1/2-ton models have a sturdier universal joint, as well as larger brakes, improved springs, and a new 15-gallon fuel tank.

Nothing that Chevrolet has ever done before in trucks can equal the importance of this announcement: A stronger, more powerful, more durable six-cylinder line. Even more economical than last year. And priced as low as $440!

should not be called upon to pay the entire bill for blunders of big business and the extravagance of our people.

What are some of the facts? An examination of the state comptroller's report for 1932 and the state auditor's report for 1932 shows that the total state revenue was $107,789,986.91. Deducting from this amount the gasoline tax of $32,221,623.85, there remains a total sum of $75,568,373.06 to be appropriated by the legislature for the various items of state government.

Of this $75,568,373.06, one-third is ad valorem taxes, or approximately $25,000,000. Assuming the last state ad valorem tax of 69 cents, one-third of the 8 per cent would be saved to the ad valorem fund. It is therefore apparent that if all the institutions of higher learning were abolished, the tax payer whose property is valued at $50,000 would save a total on all taxes of $8.97; the tax payer whose property is valued at $10,000 would save $1.79; while the tax payer whose property is valued at $5,000 would save 89 cents.

Perhaps $2,500 is close to the mean of all the tax-paying citizens of Texas. If all the institutions of higher learning in Texas were abolished, the average citizen would then save a total of $4 1/2 cents a year in taxes. With the contemplated reduction of 20 per cent to 25 per cent, all these totals would be reduced in proportion.

Texas must be rechecked, but any detailed and accurate study of taxes in Texas, both as to the amounts levied and the application of these taxes, will reveal that the burden of taxes cannot in any appreciable degree be charged to the institutions of higher learning. Moreover, Research Bulletin Vol. VII, "Can the State Afford to Maintain Its 'Higher Learning'?" No. 1, January, 1933, shows that Texas is below the average of progressive states in the amount spent upon higher education.

Institutions of higher learning stimulate college attendance and set academic and culture standards in sections where they are located. The Big Bend of Texas is a first-class college west of the Pecos. Sul Ross is 413 miles by rail from Lubbock, 430 from San Marcos and 227 from El Paso. It has an A-1 rating in the leading standardizing agencies of the country, and has the most unique location of any college in Texas.

A recent authoritative study shows that its per capita cost on a 12-month basis was lower than the per capita cost at three other state teachers colleges in Texas and lower than seven state institutions of higher learning all told.

For the current session the records in the registrar's office show that 13 students are enrolled at Sul Ross, from Ft. Stockton, 12 from Rankin, 7 from Midland, 8 from Maria, 6 from Del Rio, 6 from Uvalde, 5 from Edorado, 6 from Lamesa, 6 from McCombs, 6 from Pecos, 5 from El Paso, 4 from Marathon, and 1 to 3 from practically every town in this extensive section. Incidentally, the enrollment for the present long session is the largest in the history of the institution. Moreover, 14 Sul Ross ex-students are teaching in the public schools at Maria, 7 at Del Rio, 8 at Pecos, 6 at Midland, 3 at Texon, 10 at Rankin, 5 at Ft. Davis, 9 at Marathon, 10 at Sanderson, 10 at Faber, 6 at Odessa, 23 at San Angelo, 15 at Iran and 6 at Ft. Stockton.

The records show, further, that 36 Sul Ross ex-students are teaching in the San Antonio public school system, 37 in the Houston city schools, and 21 in the Corpus Christi schools. The superintendent of schools at San Antonio, Corpus Christi, and many other good sized towns over the state are graduates of Sul Ross. Evidently there is something in the quality of the work at Sul Ross, something in the college atmosphere, something in its picturesque environment, something in the freedom and hospitality of the west which enables this college to draw students from all sections of the state.

The Texas Almanac for 1931 shows that Texas had in 1930 a population of 5,824,715. The total appropriation for Sul Ross during the present year on a 12-month basis and including the summer school is $103,150.00. It would therefore cost every man, woman and child in Texas less than a two-cent postage stamp each annually to maintain this institution of its present basis. With the probable reduction in all state expenditures it would be reduced to a 1 1/2 cent something like 25 per cent, the cost postage stamp for each citizen of Texas. In my judgment it is worth this investment to maintain Sul Ross, located as it is in a territory of vast distances and a great future, at its present level of efficiency and economy.

Carving the face of a great cliff for the Confederate memorial on Stone Mountain, Ga., is taking Gutzon Borglum, famous sculptor, an average of 60 days for moving 10,000 to 12,000 yards of granite, more than the Egyptian workmen of the pyramid days could have done in three years, and at approximately one-sixth the cost. The work is being done by dynamite, and workmen have learned to carve out the most delicate sections with the powder, even to scaling no deeper than six inches.

Evangeline Adams' death at 60, the age she predicted her death, recalls the $50,000 she made usually through her astrological predictions. Women were her chief customers. Astronomy, offspring of astrology, is ashamed of its parent, to judge by the editorials following Miss Adams' passing.

pelled to think of the larger problems which affect mankind. The importance of this changed mental attitude can not be over-estimated for presently the people must sit in final judgment, as both judge and jury, on issues that will either make or break this nation.

That is why the happenings in congress take on a new significance. Judgments based on half truths and incomplete information are likely to be disastrous. The ill-informed and the stupid as well as the wise make up that blusive, intangible, but powerful thing called public opinion which finally shapes our destinies.

The primary source of news and information on these subjects is now that great national arena—the congress of the United States.

Let us try to get that news and that atmosphere as nearly accurate as we can.

Another article, "A New Standard of Living," will appear in The Reporter-Telegram Monday. Other articles will be forthcoming as often as received.

"Rind" Shot Brings Fine

PECOS—"Bacon rind" wadded in to a shotgun got a young Balmorhea man into trouble last week.

The young man had been trapping near Hoban on the Pecos-Balmorhea road. He had been losing several traps and decided to catch the thief. So he "planted" a trap in the road and hid behind a bush, meanwhile loading his gun with bacon rind.

Along came not the thief but an innocent but curious man. The passerby stooped to pick up the trap and—wham—the charge of meat plastered the rear part of his lap.

The self-designated enforcer of the law then stalked into the middle of the road and told his victim that he had the real article in the gun and that one more offense would call for buckshot in place of fat meat.

The innocent victim didn't take it as a joke, however. Instead he filed a charge of simple assault in Pecos.

The trial was held in justice court before a jury Tuesday. The jury returned a verdict of guilty and a fine of $25 and costs. The trapper being fined, funds, retired to the county bastille.

1927 Contribution To Church Found

COLORADO—A contribution envelope dated November 13, 1927, and containing a one dollar bill, was placed in the collection plate at First Methodist church on that date more than five years ago by Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Smith. They had forgotten the incident, accepting the money had found its way into the church treasury.

A few days ago Frank McCarver, janitor at the church, found an envelope while cleaning out a desk used by the Sunday school department. Noting that it carried the name of Mr. and Mrs. Smith, McCarver delivered it to Smith. The bill, one of the old large denomination issues, was found tucked away inside.

WALTER WOODUL NEW PRESIDENT OF THE SENATE

AUSTIN—Senator Walter F. Woodul of Houston, one of Texas' leading attorneys and a member of the senate for the past four years, Tuesday was elected president pro tempore of the senate.

Leaving home at the age of 15 years, Senator Woodul taught school in Oklahoma, worked in a restaurant in Wichita, Kansas, to learn shorthand, and later worked his way through the University of Texas.

He saw military service on the Mexican border and served as a captain in the World war. Later served as major of the cavalry in the national guard, and as a colonel on the personal staff of Governors Hobby and Moody.

Senator Woodul organized the Houston community chest in 1922. The first chest to be organized in the South, has been active in civic work, president of the Houston Salesmanship club and founder of its annual gridiron dinner, a statewide event. He served as director of the Houston Bar association. For several years he was assistant general solicitor of the International Great Northern railroad and during the reorganization thereof, at the age of 29, he was president of the company.

Garlic Cultivated By Hyman Farmer

COLORADO—Mitchell county was one of the principal garlic producing areas of the country.

That is to be in event cultivation of this highly odorous vegetable proves as profitable as H. L. Lockhart, of Dallas believes. Mr. Lockhart, owner of a large irrigated farm at Hyman, twenty-five miles southwest from Colorado, arrived in town last week to announce that he was planting 600 pounds of garlic seed on the place.

That amount of seed should produce not less than two solid cars of garlic, so Mr. Lockhart stated. He advanced statement that more money could be made from this crop than from some of the staple farm products, such as cotton and grain.

Last year Lockhart demonstrated that artichokes produce prolifically in this area. From some of the plants almost a bushel of the tubers were harvested.

Search Is Made For Assaulters

ARTESIA, N. M.—Officers are searching for two men, Ira Beck and Billy McDonald, who drugged or slugged Mrs. Anna Mae Carnley, Artesia resident, en route to Wichita Falls, Texas during the early part of December.

Details concerning the apparent mysterious injury of Mrs. Carnley, are lacking. From all information available, it seems that Mrs. Carnley had a letter from a step-cousin at Wichita Falls, telling her that if she came there, she might be able to secure employment and that two men were supposed to be visiting in Dexter at the time would furnish transportation in their automobile.

Mrs. Carnley left here on December 3rd and according to a letter received last week by Mrs. Welch, a step-sister here, Mrs. Carnley was found on the lawn of the step-cousin in Wichita Falls, in an unconscious condition. Attending physicians state that the effects of the blow or drug administered would likely be fatal to Mrs. Carnley, but that in the event of her recovery she would be demented for the remainder of her life.

To put variety into meals and make them healthfully balanced a housewife needs a big open shelf pantry so organized that she can look over the entire store at once, says Mrs. Ben McGregor, pantry demonstrator for the Thrall Home Demonstration Club in Grayson county. She arranged such a pantry with storage space for 1000 containers at a cost of $4 for shelving and curtain materials.
