THE BRIGHT LAND OF MAKE-BELIEVE

Not least interesting of recent newspaper stories is the one telling how two 4-year-old Brooklyn children got lost for an afternoon in a city park, and what befell them there.

The youngsters turned up safe and sound, at last, in the care of a kindly policeman. One of them, a boy, told of the perils from which he had defended his companion, who was a girl.

With a stray fence picket which he had providentially found, he explained, he had slain a menacing host—a man with a black beard, a leopard, and a wildcat. One blow had sufficed for each antagonist; and he pointed out that the bodies of his victims would be found "right under an elm tree."

And the little girl substantiated his statement, remarking that he had been a considerate defender and had done all of his killing behind a tree, where she would not have to watch it.

One is moved to hope that when these youngsters were delivered to their parents they didn't get paddled for telling tall tales.

Adults very seldom really understand the motives that prompt children to spin such yarns as these. They give the children credit—or discredit, rather—for being untruthful, deceitful and boastful, whereas the truth of the matter is that a child who tells such a story is seldom in the least conscious that he is relating anything but an accurate description of actual facts.

The dream world into which imagination can conduct one can be, to children, quite as real as the regular world of every day. The borderland between the two worlds is not plainly marked. It is possible to slip from one to the other almost without knowing it; and it is because grown-ups seldom understand this that some children get chided for fibbing.

This child, who slew a man with a black beard and three carnivorous felines beneath a tree in a Brooklyn park, is a little lad to be envied. The shadows of the prison-house haven't yet lengthened about him.

SISTERS UNDER THE SMOKE

When Gov. Herbert Lehman of New York revealed recently that he had quit smoking, he made a little explanation which reveals that governors, after all, are very much like lesser folk.

"My wife got after me," he said. "In fact, Mrs. Lehman quit smoking for me. And I must admit she was right. I do feel a lot better."

It is one of the inalienable rights of all women to feel that their husbands are smoking too much. As the late Bert Leston Taylor once remarked, even if a man was cut down to one cigar a week by his doctor's orders, his wife would be sure to say, after a while, "It seems to me you're smoking more than you used to"; and this, after all, is much as it should be. A world in which wives never worried for fear that their husbands were smoking themselves to death would be a flat and unexciting place indeed.

THE SIX-YEAR PRESIDENCY

Senator Pittman suggests that the next bit of governmental reform, following on the lame duck amendment, might well be a new amendment limiting presidents to one term of six years each; and it is quite possible that a lot of his fellow-countrymen will agree with him.

"A president serving his first term," says the senator, "no sooner gets his policies into operation than he is faced with the need of beginning to plan a campaign for re-election, in order to gain another four-year term in which to carry them to completion."

As a result, he points out, the first term is very often only a period of preparation during which little of a permanent nature can be done.

This is a point worth extended consideration. The president would be relieved of a great strain and he would be at least partly removed from the field of partisan politics. The change might be extremely desirable.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES
"Spirit" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, February 5.

The Golden Text is from John 4: "God is a Spirit; and they that worship him must worship him in spirit and in truth."
Included with other passages to be read from the Bible will be the following from Galatians 5: "This I say then, Walk in the Spirit, and ye shall not fulfill the lust of the flesh. For the flesh lusteth against the Spirit, and the Spirit against the one to the other: so that ye cannot do the things that ye would."

"The flesh lusteth against the Spirit." The flesh and Spirit can no more unite in action, than God can coincide with evil. It is not wise to take a halting and half-way position or to expect to work equally with Spirit and matter, Truth and error. There is but one way—namely, God and His idea—which leads to spiritual being" (p. 167).

The Whisky Rebellion of 1794 was the climax to the first instance of bootlegging in this country.

But if ye be led of the Spirit, ye are not under the law. If ye live in the Spirit, let us also walk in the Spirit. The Lesson-Sermon will also include citations from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy; among these will be the following: "To have one God and avail yourself of the power of Spirit, you must love God supremely."

"The flesh lusteth against the Spirit." The flesh and Spirit can no more unite in action, than God can coincide with evil. It is not wise to take a halting and half-way position or to expect to work equally with Spirit and matter, Truth and error. There is but one way—namely, God and His idea—which leads to spiritual being" (p. 167).

Rodeo Horses Not Trained

RAPID CITY, S. D. (UP).—Bucking horses used in rodeos and wild west shows, contrary to public opinion, are not trained, but "spoiled," according to Russ Madison, South Canyon rancher, who has handled many rodeos in the Black Hills.

Midnight, Five Minutes to Midnight, and Steamboat, who have held their own with the best cowboys in the west are "spoiled," he said. In other words, the horses are fearful of riders and men. They fight saddles and bridles. They are not to be broken unless the person in charge knows what he is doing.

In all the years that Madison has handled horses, he said, he has not known a horse that could not be broken if the rider finally brought it under subjugation.

Naturally "Ornery"

According to Madison most of the horses used in rodeos come from the range and are just naturally "ornery." Bucking horses have good blood, or they would not have the fire and ginger needed in the exhibition arena.

The show horses are allowed to run wild on the range. They usually are a part of the stock of the breeder of bucking horses, who takes no consideration of their worth as broken animals.

The bucker tries in every possible way to conquer the man who is attempting to ride it. When ridden once, it becomes easy for the next man.

Thrown Every Man

Midnight, famous bucker of the McCarty and Elliot string of Chugwater, Wyoming, has thrown every man who has attempted to ride him and crippled several. He probably never will be ridden. Madison said until he is much older and quieter. One of the best horses in South Dakota was killed last summer at Custer when it suffered a broken blood vessel.

Rodeo associations in the Black Hills prohibit the use of artificial means of stimulating buckers as they come out of the chutes. Madison said. On a few occasions electricity was used but it was prohibited.

NOVEL METHOD

WACO. (UP).—Gibson Gayle, McLennan county tax collector, found a novel way to prevent the decline in poll tax payments—and in his fees—which normally would have resulted from the fact 1933 is an off-year for elections.

Taking counsel with himself when the payments fell far behind, Gayle issued a statement. He called attention to the fact there is a bill before the legislature proposing a local option amendment and suggested purchase of a poll tax would insure the buyer a vote if the amendment were submitted this year.

Poll tax payments spurted and so did Gayle's fees.

WHY A GYM?

Colorado, Odessa, San Angelo, McCombe, and Big Springs have been or are going to be hosts to all the basketball teams in this section before the season is finished. The above named schools have modern gyms in which the authorities are capable of conducting a tournament of basketball games for visiting teams of a large section. Midland high school should complete her modern athletic plant by adding a gymnasium suitable for all the physical education classes and indoor sports.

Our physical education pupils are handicapped by the lack of a gym in fact, they must resort to outdoor free play and games as means of supervised physical exercise and training.

From the close of the football season until spring, when track is taken up, the athletically inclined students, both boys and girls, are without the facilities for any competitive sport whatsoever. What advantage would accrue to the students, school, and training if we should have a modern gym? We have but to look to the schools that have a gym to immediately see the departments in which they surpass Midland. Although the biggest argument for the gym is the basketball court upon which a regular schedule can be played, a gym is not for basketball alone. Our physical education requirements are already demanding some provision for the advancement of the course from its present archaic stage. In order to keep pace with the neighboring schools and the state requirement along these lines, it is desirable that some form of aid be given.

Midland high school should not be without basketball. The training the player receives aids materially in developing him for another major sport. Good football players are better by participating in basketball. Coaches agree that basketball has not only developed men during the time between the end and the beginning of football season but has often uncovered valuable football material, especially men who have developed, to a high degree of success, the art of catching passes.

The best argument in favor of a gym is that it affords opportunity for supervised and a more efficient plan of physical education. Every pupil's being able to take part in our P. E. program would create a constructive interest that would detract from the means now used by the student in his leisure time.

RELATES OLD STORIES

Judge Knowles, one of Midland's most noted citizens, revealed in memories of 1858 and 1859 as he lectured to the student body Friday morning in connection with the showing of a painting of Castle Gap by Mrs. Oliver. Castle Gap is one of the most noted of the historic spots of Texas. The painting is the first of a series of 14 pictures of historic scenes to be painted.

The speaker was introduced by Theophilus Flitz who sang "Rounded up in Glory" after the lecture. Judge Knowles told of his experiences in Castle mountains and around the gap. His first visit was in 1858 when he was but a boy. In those days every one looked out for himself. He wore a gun and played the part of a man.

SPRING TRAINING

Spring training for football will begin Monday, according to a statement made by coach Barry. Training is starting early this year since track starts on the first of March. Coaches Barry and Henderson and two of the last year lettermen, Sherrod and Collins, chose teams Wednesday. The teams will be separately coached with different signals for each team. Very few fundamentals will be taught. The training is mainly to develop the players physically. Barry expects to have the first game Friday. The teams to play will be selected later.

YOUR INCOME TAX

Normal Tax and Surtax Rates The normal tax rate is 4 per cent on the first $4,000 of net income in excess of the personal exemption credit for dependents, etc., and 8 per cent on the remainder of such excess amount. The surtax rates—in computing which many taxpayers make mistakes, usually to their own disadvantage—begin on net incomes in excess of $6,000. The rates increase in accordance with the amount of net income included in varying so-called income-tax brackets. On a net income of $6,000 or less there is no surtax. On a net income in excess of $6,000 and not in excess of $10,000 the rate is 1 per cent of such excess. The surtax upon a net income of $10,000 is $40 and upon a net income in excess of $10,000 and not in excess of $12,000, the rate is 2 per cent in addition of such excess. The surtax on a net income of $12,000 is $49.40, and upon a net income in excess of $12,000, in addition 50 per cent of such excess, the maximum rate. Many taxpayers make the error of applying the maximum rate instead of the rate provided for in the bracket in which their net income is included.

Following is an example of how to compute the tax on a net income of $14,500, the taxpayer being single and without dependents:

Table with 2 columns: Description and Amount. Includes Net income ($14,500), Less personal exemption (1,000), Balance taxable (13,500), 4 per cent normal tax on first $4,000 (160), 8 per cent normal tax on balance of $9,500 (760), Total normal tax and surtax (1,080), Earned-income credit (1,080), Total tax (0).

The earned-income credit allowed individuals under the revenue act of 1928 is entirely omitted from the revenue act of 1932. Therefore, no earned-income credit may be taken for the calendar year 1932 or succeeding taxable years. Taxpayers are advised to read carefully the instructions on Form 1040 relating to the surtax, as well as all instructions thereon, before preparing their returns.

Healthtone Milk Firm's New Product

Announcement is being made today by the Southwest Dairy Products Co. of this city of their new product, "Healthtone" buttermilk. The Dairyland people have added special machinery to their $80,000 plant here for the purpose of producing and marketing this high-grade buttermilk according to G. A. Tracht, district manager.

"Healthtone" buttermilk is the old-fashioned buttermilk improved by the addition of butyrol, says the manager, with the ever constant protection that pasteurizing gives. Only specially tested milk will be used in the production of this new buttermilk in order to obtain the best and insure the public of a uniform flavor, and it will be sold locally.

The Dairyland plant spends $15,000 annually in Midland for labor, material, milk purchases and other operating items, figures have revealed.

LOOK OUT FOR THESE SYMPTOMS OF CONSTIPATION

Headaches, loss of appetite and energy, sallow complexions, and sleeplessness are often warning signs of common constipation. Unless checked, constipation may impair health.

Today, you can get rid of common constipation by simply eating a delicious cereal. Laboratory tests show that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to further aid regularity. ALL-BRAN is also a good source of blood-building iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, it clears the intestines of wastes. How much better than taking patent medicines.

Two tablespoonfuls daily will overcome most types of constipation. Serious cases, with every meal. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Enjoy ALL-BRAN as a cereal, or use in cooking. Appetizing recipes on the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

"I Am a Fugitive From Chain Gang" Opens at the Ritz

One of the most heralded motion pictures to be presented in Midland in many a moon, opens tomorrow at the Ritz theatre. The film will also be shown for three days following on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. It is "I Am a Fugitive From a Chain Gang," starring Paul Muni, with Helen Vinson, Glenda Farrell, Preston Foster, David Landau, Sally Blane, Noel Francis, 37 other important roles, 58 "bit" players and more than 2,000 extras.

Not only is "I Am a Fugitive From a Chain Gang," said to carry more thrilling and sensational episodes than any other picture made this year but it presents a triple romance of strange and glamorous love, against a background of incredible prison chain gang brutalities.

The story, which was authored by Robert E. Burns, who is still in hiding from chain gang police, shows men driven to desperation by the tortures of the whipping post, poor food, excessive labors in broiling heat and other cruelties. Paul Muni, as the fugitive, makes a sensational escape and crosses into another state. After years of struggle, he makes good under an assumed name, but a woman who discovers his past, betrays him. He is returned to the chain gang only to escape again in one of the most breath-taking episodes of the current season.

There is no more touching figure than this fugitive, a man yearning for love and home, an ex-convict man skulking from place to place, not daring to show his face, unable to marry the girl he loves devotedly. Truly, a man without a country. He is the story of a man who left the New York stage success "Counsellor at Law" to make "I Am a Fugitive From a Chain Gang" for Warner Bros.

Notorious Retreat Gives Picture Name

The notorious retreat of the Daltons and other bandits in the exciting days of the Southwest gives its name to "Robbers' Roost," the Fox Films feature opening at the Yucca theatre today and Saturday. It is a cliff-rimmed basin high in the Arizona mountains.

George O'Brien and Maureen O'Sullivan have the leading roles in the offering, based on Zane Grey's novel of the same name. The supporting cast includes Maude Egan, Reginald Owen, William Pawley, Robert Greig, Walter McGrail and Doris Lloyd. Louis King directed the picture.

EXPERTS PLAY WITH FIGURES ON BLUEBIRD II

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UP).—The mathematicians have had a lot of fun playing with velocities, horsepower, air resistance and other factors in connection with attempts of Sir Malcolm Campbell to drive his Bluebird II at 300 miles per hour on the beach here.

Compare the 2,400 horsepower, 9,000-pound, 27-foot Bluebird II, which established a world's record at 253.9 m.p.h. last year when it had only 1,500 horsepower, with the average stock-model automobile of today—75 horsepower, 3,000 pounds, 100 inches wheel base.

The Bluebird, using its maximum efficiency, can increase its speed from five miles per hour to 150 miles per hour in five seconds in the small span of one city block.

Average Auto's Speed The average automobile today can increase its speed from five miles per hour to 30 miles per hour in 15 seconds in the same distance.

The Bluebird, at 300 miles an hour, will have a kinetic energy of 27,000,000 foot pounds per second—or would require a force equal to 8,100 horsepower, more than three times its own horsepower, to stop it in one minute.

Sir Malcolm must exert a total energy of 2,700 horsepower in order to stop the racing car in the five miles allotted him in traveling in one direction along the course. But he will have the assistance of air resistance, the backward energy generated by his motor as it is decelerating, and the multiplied pressure on the four wheel brakes provided by leverage. Only 2.7 horsepower is needed to stop an average automobile traveling at the average speed of 30 miles an hour.

Air Resistance will assist him about 10 per cent at a speed of 300 miles per hour, since its pressure is equal to 270 horsepower, but this decreases as the square of the velocity.

In connection with this air resistance, which the Bluebird's streamlined body is designed to reduce drastically, it is said that at 300 miles an hour, air resistance is 60 times as great as at 40 miles an hour, where measured air resistance begins.

Traveling at 300 miles an hour, five miles per minute, or 440 feet per second, the Bluebird will travel a distance equal to one and one-half city blocks per second.

The game of Seven Up is the card sharp's favorite since it is the easiest at which to cheat.

Outlaw's Ghost in Mexican Program

It is said that the ghostly voice of Billy the Kid, one of the most dreaded characters in the history of the old southwest, will be heard next Wednesday night over 25 N. B. C. stations when Garret, Wells, Continental Oil Company radio entertainer, goes exploring into New Mexico's past and present.

Wells begins the broadcast with an interesting description of many of the state's scenic highlights. One apartment in Carlsbad, Cavert's would provide standing room for the entire population of Detroit, says this famous teller of tall but true tales. Then comes the scene in which Wells meets the shade of Billy the Kid in a moonlit graveyard at Ft. Stanton, and hears how the bandit met his death at the hands of Sheriff Pat Garrett.

The Gonzo program may be heard by local listeners who tune in on station WFAA, Dallas, Wednesday night at 9:30 o'clock.

Work Praised--

One point of difficulty was raised in some of the comment upon the project—that it might increase the already existing agricultural surplus.

"Of course, we can't prove that it won't until we try," conceded Mr. Roosevelt, "but the best thought is that this movement actually will not increase agricultural surplus.

"You see, we will be removing some agricultural lands from operation—the non-profitable marginal lands. Then, I have found that the people who go back to the country eat much more than when they are in the city. This also will release large sums now being spent for unemployment relief in the cities to be used for the purchase of food-stuffs."

Pops Question With Sandals

CLEVELAND, (UP).—Love making among the Hottentots in Southwest Africa is no "hot-so-totsy" affair, according to Rev. F. Wenceslaus Rehner, Catholic missionary who has lived among them for 11 years. Rev. Rehner described their customs and superstitions during a visit here.

When a young Hottentot wishes to marry the choice of his heart, he throws his goat skin sandals at her, Rev. Rehner said. If she survives the force of his throw, they break a stick together and each takes a half. After that they do not communicate with each other until the wedding ceremony of eight days is over. They speak only through a third person.

The groom, in preparation for the wedding, kills one of his best cattle. That meat is eaten at the feast by only the bride's relatives. To even matters, the bride's family kills one of its fattest cows, and the groom's relations feast on the meat.

The bride must have a dowry. If she is poor, she brings her husband perhaps 12 or 20 goats. If she is wealthy, the dowry might be as high as 300 goats and 10 cows.

In spite of the gradual Christianization of the natives," Dr. Rehner said, "the Hottentots persist in following their ancient superstitions and customs. It is hard for them to believe in a personal god."

THE ECONOMY AX

FORT WORTH, (UP).—The "economy ax" of City Manager G. D. Fairbairn fell on the nests of 11 privately-owned teams of horses in its latest downward sweep. The discharge of teams and teamsters, hired ed or "rented" by the city, represented a saving of $5,000 for the rest of the fiscal year. Tax collections are nearly $300,000 behind those for the same period last year, and further retrenchments in city government are planned.
