

77 Cents Per Barrel Offered For Crude Oil

Home Town Talk

Well, we've got martial law now; a lot of us ought to begin being more satisfied. Only thing, the tax was spoiled, for some folks when W. S. Parish of the Humble said he favored the martial law order; if Bill, being with the Humble of all things, is for it, how can they be for it, even if they favored it until now?

If East Texas remains shut down long enough larger purchasers will find themselves unable to get enough crude to meet demands and, therefore, will have to raise the price.

That is the whole thing; it shifts the matter to a basis where supply and demand will have direct influence to boost the price.

Until now, with East Texas flowing three-quarters of a million barrels a day, the law of supply and demand tended to shove the price downward.

Until the past six or seven days, when East Texas got beyond 500,000 barrels a day there was some question in the minds of many who had actual over-production existed. There seems to be little doubt of that now in the minds of either small or larger operators.

Theory of prorating oil in some respects is fundamentally unsound. It reduces actual production but cannot erase knowledge of the underground supply—the surplus. The same applies, after all, to control of cotton production. After cotton has matured there is no way to prevent it being a bearish influence on the market. Even if part or all of a crop is stored as soon and not sold, the commodity still exists and represents a surplus, just as the oil underground does.

The most sure way, therefore, is not to drill oil wells or plant cotton until the surplus has been absorbed.

A bright spot in the oil situation insofar as Big Spring is concerned, is improvement in the gasoline market. Whereas local refineries were able to get but two or 2-1/4 cents per gallon a few weeks ago they now are receiving as much as 2-5/8 cents which is quite a difference under the condition. The Cosden plant here now is running about 9,000 barrels per day. Great West is stepping along. The Big

County Fair Matter Delayed Until Next Regular Meeting

Members of the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce, in a regular meeting Monday evening, voted to delay any appeal for new members.

The special committee named to determine whether sufficient funds to guarantee premiums for a county agricultural fair could be obtained was directed to make its final report at the next meeting.

It was voted to hold a meeting of the railroad committee not later than November 1, or earlier, if conditions justify.

Minutes of a previous meeting were amended to form a motion which was adopted, that the city commission be asked to make an investigation of utility rates.

Carl Blomfield was named contact man to the Junior Chamber of Commerce board.

Shut Down Of Kansas Fields Is In Prospect

Complaint Filed With Public Service Commission Members

TOPEKA, Aug. 18 (UP)—Filing of a complaint with the Kansas public service commission seeking a shutdown of oil wells in the state as a retaliatory measure against current low prices was predicted late yesterday in official circles.

Thurman Hill, member of the public service commission, said a complaint "will be filed within the next 24 hours," and said it would seek a hearing on the extent of the proposed shutdown, "if any."

Increase Forecast

Commissioner Hill said the expected complaint would be set for hearing even though increased prices for Kansas crude are announced meanwhile. He predicted increases would be announced by additional purchasers by tomorrow noon.

"We don't want producers to believe," he said, "that because of the Texas and Oklahoma shut down they can come into Kansas and open up new production."

Without attempting to fix a price which should be paid for Kansas crude, the commission, Hill said today, had expressed belief that producers in the state should be paid on a basis of prices in the Texas field, plus cost of transportation and minus the difference in expense of gathering. This, he said, would be between 60 and 70 cents a barrel, on a basis of current prices.

Conference Planned

Commissioner Hill announced tonight the Texas railroad commission had, through its chairman, C. V. Terrell, joined with the Oklahoma corporation commission in promising to be represented at a conference suggested by the Kansas commissioner for the purpose of working out uniform curtailment.

The conference, Hill said, would be at Oklahoma City September 11.

The American embassy asked permission for the pair to fly to Samushiro Beach to start a non-stop flight to Seattle. The home foreign office and communications officials were to confer on the request soon. It was understood the foreign office favors granting the permit.

Pennies Behind Fuse Plugs Lead To Fire Damage

Fire Marshal Jess Heffernan is issuing another warning Tuesday against placing pennies under plugs in electric fuse boxes.

The fire department answered an alarm to 1700 State street at 1:25 p. m. Monday. Pennies under both plugs had destroyed the entire wiring system of the dwelling, although no other damage was inflicted. In this instance, Heffernan said many dwellings had been destroyed because of this practice.

Midland All-Stars To Meet Refiners

Cosden Refinery is scheduled to meet a picked team from Midland Wednesday afternoon on the Cosden diamond at five o'clock, according to an announcement from "Spikie" Henninger, skipper of the Cosden crew.

Cosden plans to have a strong line-up ready. The same line-up which Sunday defeated a Ft. Worth Mexican team 3-4 in less than six innings will not be used, because it could not hope to cope with formidable opposition, Henninger said. Midland boasts of a strong sand lot baseball team, advises from that city state.

Girl Strums Ukelele As She Tells Officers of Killing

CAPTINA, Ohio, Aug. 18 (UP)—Ottie Morris, 16-year-old hill girl, strummed the strings of a ukelele while her stepfather's body, battered and blood-stained, stretched out on the ground in front of her, testified to murder that had been committed because "he hung around too much."

Ottie, her mother, Mrs. Laura Van Dyne, and her two uncles, Jess and Alvin Morris, were arrested today, the brothers as they read a week-old newspaper on the lean-to porch of their cabin a mile away.

They readily confessed, Sheriff Howard Duff said, to killing Elmer Van Dyne, 38, because "he hung around" his estranged wife "too much."

The victim's body was discovered by neighbors three hours after the brothers had taken it from their cabin and tossed it in the scrubby yard of the widow's home. There it lay while Mrs. Van Dyne and her daughter went about their tasks. Ottie to strum the ukelele and the mother to perform the chores.

Ottie said she and her mother were visiting at her uncles' cabin when her stepfather appeared.

"Well, Uncle Jess and Uncle Alvin just looked at each other and nodded," she told authorities. "Uncle Alvin picked up a piece of firewood and started out, mother said we had better get supper, so I did not see the fight."

Co-Op To Hold Meeting Here

The Texas Cotton Cooperation Association will hold a meeting in the court house here Tuesday, September 1, at 2 p. m. It was announced Tuesday.

P. C. Leatherwood, J. W. Woolen and W. C. Rogers are local council men in charge of the meeting. It is likely R. J. Murray, general manager of the organization, will be the principal speaker.

Three objects are in view by the organization, which is holding meetings in many counties. They are: (1) establishment of a system whereby growers would be paid on basis of quality of lint; (2) obtaining more profit for the grower by a system that would carry the cotton from grower to consumer at minimum cost; (3) establishment of a marketing system owned and controlled by growers and powerful enough to influence more effectively the merchandising of the American cotton supply.

Rotarians At Ice Plant For Weekly Meet

Mrs. Delbridge Principal Speaker; Processes Are Reviewed

The members of the Rotary Club and the Rotary Anna were the guests of Edwin E. Kelley, Rotarian, and the Southern Ice and Utilities Company at the regular weekly luncheon today.

The meal was served in the boiler room at the plant, the guests being seated at a long table over the brine tank. They were afterwards shown through the ice vaults and the present-day system of ice manufacture explained to them.

E. L. Gibson was chairman for the day.

Mrs. J. B. Delbridge, head of the public service department, was the hostess. She served the meal, assisted by members of the force, including Mrs. H. E. Dunning, cashier, M. A. Cook, chief clerk, and Mrs. Cook; Ben Cole, sales manager, and Mrs. Cole; J. F. Hall, chief engineer, and Mrs. Hall.

The guests were served an orange punch from punch bowls made of ice whose freezing process Mr. Kelley explained after the luncheon.

The menu consisted of jellied meat loaf and fancy sandwiches, with an ice-box pudding dessert, all of which was prepared at the plant. The recipes were indicated in recipe books which were given away as souvenirs in addition to ice picks.

Out of town guests included Mr. Mosher, of the Mosher Structural Steel Works, a Dallas and Mr. Mitchell, manager of the Midland ice plant.

Mrs. Delbridge was the chief speaker on the program. With a glass-backed refrigerator, for demonstration, she explained the principles of refrigeration. The refrigerator contained a pin wheel which showed the circulation of air.

Mrs. Delbridge told the correct location of foods in a refrigerator, gave a short history of refrigeration and rules for the protection of ice.

When the meeting was closed, Mr. Kelley showed the members the amount of ice required to ice 400 cars of cantaloupes. He explained the difference in manufacture between white and clear ice and the basic principles of modern ice manufacture.

Award Fund For Officer's Family Gets Additions

The Junior Chamber of Commerce Tuesday renewed its appeal for contributions to an award fund to be presented to the widow of Henry F. Howie, local policeman who was slain Monday of last week.

Employees at the city hall this afternoon were contributing to a fund to be added to this one. The Big Spring Herald made a contribution.

Officials of the organization, which launched the movement the day following Mr. Howie's death, said they would meet this evening and put a time limit on the campaign.

"We inaugurated this movement in the belief that the people of Big Spring have respect for the law and appreciation for men who sacrifice their lives in performance of their duty as peace officers," said one of the Junior chamber directors. "Mr. Howie's family, we believe, should be provided this award fund to enable the mother and five children to more readily adjust themselves to earning a livelihood without the father. If he had performed some meritorious deed without losing his life he would have received a cash reward. Certainly his family should be remembered, since he made the supreme sacrifice while performing his duties as an officer."

Mrs. Howie and children asked the Herald today to express their thanks for the many kindneses shown them in their bereavement.

The award fund campaign was inaugurated without their knowledge.

New Tuition Law Passed

All High School Pupils In Taxing Districts May Attend Free

Benefits of the high school tuition law to all students who reside in districts that levy a local maintenance tax for their public schools are restored by a bill passed in the recent special session of the 42nd legislature.

This new law takes care of all students who live as well as taxing districts who are not eligible to be transferred as well as those who are eligible. Children eighteen, nineteen and twenty years old can attend school free of tuition in their home districts if a local tax is levied and can have their tuition paid in any public high school if their home districts do not offer their high school grade.

In short, this new law takes care of all high school children in the high school grades of each district that levies a local maintenance tax. The supreme court has ruled that students who live in a non-taxing district must pay their tuition regardless of where they attend school.

This information has been received by local school authorities and it answered questions being asked them every day by parents and guardians.

304 Transfers Of Pupils Made

Three hundred and four transfers were registered at the office of the county superintendent by August 1, figures recently released by Mrs. Pauline Cantrell Brigham, county superintendent, reveal. The largest single class of transfers was from common school district to common school district, a total of 103.

Eighty-one students transferred to Big Spring, while 65 transferred to districts out of the county, and 23 came into the county by the same manner. There were ten pupils to transfer from an independent school district to a common school district within the county.

Oklahoma City Operator Issues Overture; Cavalymen Search Over East Texas Field For Violators

Higher Price For Crude Expected By Gov. Sterling

AUSTIN, Aug. 18 (UP)—Gov. Ross Sterling, seated at a desk covered with belated petitions for martial law in East Texas and congratulatory messages on his shut down of the oil field there, expressed satisfaction today with progress of his efforts to control the high field.

"I haven't the least doubt that the purchasing companies themselves will say that the price of oil will be increased," he said, when asked if he thought an increase in the price of crude oil would follow the shut-down.

Gov. Sterling said he was advised by Lieut. Chan Perlitz, aide to Brig. Gen. Jacob F. Wolters, in command in East Texas, that the entire field would be shut down by tonight. Lieut. Perlitz reported, the governor said, that many operators shut down their wells at 6 a. m. today without waiting for orders. He said that when troops reached East Texas they found that several independent operators, anticipating the order, shut down Sunday.

To Keep Employes

Oil companies began advising the governor at noon that they will continue their employes on payroll until cessation of the shutdown.

"I commend them for that," Gov. Sterling said. "Oil field workers are not interested in the price of oil but do want something to live on."

He refused to say how long he expected to enforce the shutdown, but said the railroad commission would have its first funds to enforce the new conservation law on Sept. 1—if the shut down has not deprived them of all the anticipated tax on production.

"Will the shut down last 30 days?" the governor was asked.

"I hesitate to predict," he replied.

Panhandle Producers Expect Prices To Be Increased

KILGORE, Aug. 18 (UP)—Four hundred cavalrymen rode through the East Texas oil belt hunting wells that might violate the government's shut-down order, which became effective at noon today.

Brigadier General Wolters said he doubted much unemployment would result from the shutdown, as most companies were keeping men on the payroll. He scouted the report that communists were attempting to cause dissension. The national guard band will play concerts in the oil towns, he said.

Crosses Bridges As They Come

AUSTIN, Aug. 18 (UP)—Ross Sterling, multi-millionaire governor of Texas who "crosses bridges only when he comes to them," does things according to the strict letter of the law. His martial law proclamation and shutdown order for the East Texas oil field was issued after long and careful deliberation.

A big man, weighing 260 pounds, Gov. Sterling is slow of motion and cautious of speech. He called four assistant attorneys general into conference yesterday to help him write his martial law proclamation.

When it was written and correspondence papers called in to receive advance copies, the ruddy, bespectacled executive would answer no questions.

"You've got a complete document right there. It's all in there," he said. Farmer, sailor and country storekeeper before oil made him rich, Sterling still retains his native prudence and dislike for publicity at 56.

To Newspapers

"He gives everything to the newspapers doesn't he?" remarked Gov. W. H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray when Murray was sending telegrams to Austin before he issued martial law orders for Oklahoma.

Yet the governor is publisher of the Houston Post-Dispatch, one of the state's most widely circulated morning papers.

Depression War Is Its Name

KILGORE, Aug. 18 (UP)—A remark shouted by a high school boy to a grocer's daughter as he rode in uniform on a National Guard truck rumbled away to the oil fields echoed today from camp to camp as a slogan of the troops mobilized to enforce Gov. Ross Sterling's order to close in all wells in the flush East Texas region.

"We're here to fight the business depression," called out the beardless soldier as he went, laughing and singing, to the "battlefield."

The remark was caught up by other soldiers. It was shouted from truck to truck and the Texans who gathered along the way to watch their youths go away to the "war."

All in all, it was a happy army that was given the job of closing the oil fields until the price of crude oil reached $1 a barrel or the state gets new rules for conserving its natural resources. The only casualty was a youth who bounced out of a truck and lost a couple of teeth.

Legion Assailed As Subsidy-Seeking Group Of Lobbyists; Tax Exemption For College Football Is Attacked

NEW YORK, Aug. 18 (UP)—The American Legion is assailed as a subsidy-seeking group of lobbyists, and exemption of college football from taxation is attacked by the Carnegie Foundation.

Dr. Henry S. Pritchett, retiring president, in the annual report of the foundation, published today, said: "The claim that the country owes a subsidy to every citizen who has served sixty or ninety days in its military service is as impudent and unwarranted claim. To admit it would strike at the very roots of patriotism itself. The moment a citizen calls on the government for a subsidy, whether in the form of bonus or old-age pension, for a service that has neither affected unfavorably his health nor his ability to earn a living, he abandons his position as a patriot."

Dr. Pritchett accused leaders of the legion of imitating the G. A. R. in raiding the United States treasury and warned that giving every former soldier a bonus would place staggering and intolerable burden on the nation.

"The commercializing of football and its transformation from a game into a public show for money raises an interesting question concerning taxation," Dr. Pritchett said. He suggested that colleges and universities which have tremendous incomes from football "carry their share of the burden of government."

"An agency that takes in $400,000 at a single show," he said, "is in no position to ask for the exemption of this money earned from taxation. Why should a university ask for exemption from duties common to all other agencies of the social order?"

He cited specifically the case of Harvard University which derived $1,250,000 of its $12,000,000 income last year from athletics, almost wholly from football.

M-K-T Reduces Salaries Of 1500

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 18 (UP)—The Missouri-Kansas-Texas Railroad announced general salary reductions today, citing the low price of wheat as one reason for the cuts. Between 1,000 and 1,500 employees are affected. Officers and supervisors earning salaries of more than $5,000 a year get decreases to 20 percent and other reductions are 10 percent.

The low wheat price, a statement said, "is one of the causes of the new policy as the low price is having a tendency to hold up a large part of the grain movement, which had been counted on to offset much of the loss in freight tonnage due to general conditions."

North Texas Wells Not To Be Opened

WICHITA FALLS, Texas, Aug. 18 (UP)—No increase in the allowable of prorated wells in North Texas will be made soon, members of the advisory board had decided today after a session called by L. V. Hull, proration umpire.

Local refiners had reported it was almost impossible to secure enough crude to meet their daily requirements. Prevailing prices have caused many producers to shut down their leases.

Nine counties of this district are allowed 63,000 barrels daily. Last week's run of crude averaged but 54,852 barrels daily.

Knott Family Reports Good Trip

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Shortes of Knott and children, James, Darrell and Castle, recently returned from Carlsbad, N. M., where they visited Mr. and Mrs. Henry Page.

When they reached Carlsbad Mr. and Mrs. Page had a 7-passenger car ready and waiting to go. They left Carlsbad Monday, proceeded to Cloudero via a hut in which "Billy the Kid" murdered two men.

They found fine vegetation, many sheep ranches, fine fruit and orchards, alfalfa fields and cow ranches. Tuesday morning they went to Alamogordo, near the big white sands, always visible about 15 miles away. They run far up the mountain side. The party stopped under the big trees at Ruidosa for lunch. From there the route led through the Indian reservation, thence to Lincoln county, where the two-story dwelling in which Billy the Kid was killed still stands. The route then led via Roswell back to Carlsbad. A visit was made to 'Sitting Bull Falls,' in the mountains 50 miles from Carlsbad. There is a beautiful cave there, only two rooms having been discovered thus far. A picnic and fish fry was prepared at Carlsbad in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Shortes.

PIE-THROWING BURGLAR

DETROIT, Aug. 17 (INS)—Police have been ordered to be on the lookout for a burglar who expresses his disgust by throwing pies. Stanley Markies, owner of a lunch wagon, reported the burglar broke into his perambulating restaurant during the night and took 40 cents from the cash register and a bunch of keys. After noting the change drawer, the prowler evidently discovered an apple pie. He took one bite and then threw the pie against a window and left.

Child Lost Through Night In Pine Forest

TYLER, Aug. 18 (UP)—Alarmed by eerie sounds of the woods at night approached, Billy Sewell, 9, was found by searchers in heavy timber near here late yesterday. In all-night hunt had been made for him following his disappearance Saturday afternoon.

Searchers were preparing to drag Burlington's Lake when the boy was found. He was not injured except for cuts and bruises sustained as he scrambled through the undergrowth.

Billy came from California to visit his uncle, B. R. Burlington.

Somewhere Under The Earth

Important If True

"Why not place a sign on our door 'No more customers wanted'," suggested the manager of the store smilingly to one of its owners, after he had been warned "to keep down advertising expense."

"Or, we might stand out in front and direct our customers across the street to our competitors, Dow and Dow."

An absurd suggestion, wasn't it? But it changed the policy of that establishment from fear into courage. The owners saw the point immediately. It brought forth startlingly the fact that in relaxing advertising effort they were, in fact, actually turning customers away.

Think this over: There never has been a time when you have had better values to offer; there never has been a time when you had more compelling news to put into your copy. Customers are beginning now to buy the things they have denied themselves for the past year: necessities, luxuries, everything that has worn out or depreciated during the year 1930. Buying habits of long standing will be changed during this period; patronage will be diverted to new channels. The alert, the courageous see the opportunity and will take advantage of it.

Advertising is the greatest single influence in keeping old customers and making new ones. Its power never has been greater than at the present moment.

MOON OF DELIGHT by Margaret Bell Houston

SYNOPSIS. Because Jason Divitt knows she was a stow-away on the ship where Umberto's employe had found her, Juanita Basaria's feat of exposure leaves her a prisoner in his New Orleans gambling house. Divitt and his wife, Molly, are kind to her, and the dwarf, Gabreau, Conchita's son, nearly kills Umberto when he forces his embraces on Juanita. The Turkish disguise she wears as she sells cigarettes has intrigued Adrian Fouché, who persuades his friend Eric Ledbetter, who had lived in Turkey, to speak to her in Turkish. In their party are Kirk Stansard and his grand-mother, Mrs. Belaise. As Ledbetter jests with the veiled Juanita, a newcomer, Senor Basaria, of Mexico City, joins the group. Juanita, frightened, is about to run.

Chapter 8. THE man beside Adrian Fouché caught Juanita's hand, babbling softly in the strange tongue. He turned to the newcomer.

"I was just saying, Senor," he observed, "that she is beautiful as an hour, and fragrant as the peonies in flower, and in spite of loyalty to the noblest sheik in New Orleans, she'll love her to distraction."

Senor Basaria smiled, his glance leaving Juanita an instant and traveling about the room. Juanita lowered her face, closing her eyes. Ledbetter began again his soft jargon. Adrian spoke now in a fiery tone.

"I don't bring you here to hold her hand and make love. I brought you to make a date for me. You said you could pull off her veil in a way that looked accidental. Now do it."

Illness shut through Juanita. Ledbetter had released her hand and she drew from him, her eyes encountering Kirk Stansard's. Stansard had been dividing his interest between their by-play and Mrs. Belaise's game. He was looking at Juanita now, smiling friendly. The exchange of glances lasted only an instant, yet a swift courage had entered Juanita when she looked again at Ledbetter. She had felt that she would fall if she tried to move. She knew now that she could not fall before those friendly smiling eyes. She could move now—she could get away. But there was Divitt watching her. . . .

Quickly her hand moved over her eye. She selected a rose and, bending over Ledbetter, thrust it through his buttonhole, then lighted, swiftly, left a kiss upon his astonished cheek—a kiss through the mesh and spangles of her veil, yet nevertheless, a kiss. She was gone. Molly was smiling at her where she stood in front of the cashier's stage. "Honey, that was great. Eric Ledbetter's got a million, and this is his first look-in. I thought for a minute you were going to frost him. What's the matter?" "I'm ill. I can't stay."

Divitt's game is under the roulette table—a strange game, too, perplexed Juanita decides tomorrow.

Gov. Sterling said that curtailment of oil production by 700,000 barrels daily in Texas and 300,000 barrels daily in Oklahoma would certainly have a tendency to increase prices.

"Soon the major companies will have to draw on their storage," he said. "They don't want to use high priced stored oil to make cheap gasoline."

"I shut down the fields so when the railroad commission starts enforcing its new law it can do it on a more orderly basis. It is a lot easier to control something when you start from a stationary position than when you take it over out of control."

All Included Marginal, stripper and other wells were included in the general shut down, the governor said, because he wanted to show favoritism for no operators.

A practical oil man himself, he had prepared figures to justify his shutdown order and read them to correspondents. He had them verified by R. D. Parker, chief supervisor of the oil and gas division of the railroad commission.

"I find that one billion five hundred million cubic feet of gas were being burned every day," the governor said. "Oil company chemists say the gas will produce from 7 to 10 gallons of casinghead gasoline per 1,000 cubic feet.

"Calculating the yield at five gallons, for the sake of being conservative, the price at three cents per gallon, that gas would yield a daily income of $225,000. The 700,000 barrels of oil produced per day, at 15 cents per barrel, is worth only $105,000."

(CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1) who put something in it I asked him not to put in," he told correspondents when he was considering martial law requests.

He is mild and frugal of emotion. When he was grilled and well-nigh heckled by members of the house of representatives during its oil investigation, Gov. Sterling retained his composure and his temper.

Unlike his tobacco chewing, stoop-shouldered, cotton-clad com- temporary in Oklahoma, Gov. Sterling does not use tobacco in any form. He will not drink intoxicating liquor. He wears expensive clothes, but removes his coat and vest when at work. When he is particularly busy he receives delegations in his shirtwaives.

In Shadows His desk is in the darkest corner of his office and the governor sits in shadow, his face illuminated by the glow from a desk lamp. His speech, like that of "Alfalfa Bill" Snacks of the common people.

Sterling addresses callers as "you boys" and sometimes lapses into the use of "nones" when "nones" is called for by strict rules of grammar. He used to run a freight board on Galveston Bay, ferrying hay and grain for his neighbors. He comes from a family of seven brothers and four sisters.

He married when 23 years old, borrowed $2,000 and bought a feed store, paid the money back in a year; opened more stores in the new Humble and Sour Lake oil fields near the Gulf of Mexico.

Sterling did not gamble in oil holdings. His first "plunge" was a purchase of two producing wells. Within a year he had organized the Humble Oil Co. When his youngest son, Ross Shaw Jr., died in 1921, Sterling was able to give the Y. M. C. A. of South Texas a beautiful wooden camp on Galveston Bay as a memorial.

$17,000,000 When he retired as president of the Humble company in 1925, he is said to have received a fabulous price for his holdings. He told the legislature last month that when he sold half his interest in 1917, he received $17,000,000 for it.

He had never "run for office" until last year when he was persuaded to offer himself for governor. At that time he was chairman of the state highway commission, under appointment of Gov. Dan Moody.

Sterling lives with Mrs. Sterling and their daughter Norma in the old executive mansion built for Sam Houston, first president of the Republic of Texas. Before he was elected governor, he lived in a mansion near Houston, equipped with 22 bathrooms.

Sterling eats at home, but he does not discuss his diet. He is very fond of hogs, raises them as a hobby, and sends usually fine animals to his friends when he wants to remember them with something special.

Shortage Of Material Faces Steer Coach With First Game Only 3 Weeks Ahead; 4 Letter Men Back

Dull thump of the foot against inflated leather, the staccato bark of signals, the sound of clogs, edging into solid ground each evening, forestell the approaching football season. Oble Bristow, mentor of the high school Steers, each afternoon is giving more than a score of men the first principals of football.

However, the drills have not come around to basic fundamentals. The training season is yet too young for that. Blocking, tackling, and charging on the first two or three days would be an open attempt to cripple an entire squad. That part of the work is pending announcement of whether the proposed training camp will be held on the Conoco river, southwest of Carlsbad. A definite statement regarding the camp should be given out later today by officials in charge of arrangements.

As far as material goes Bristow is sadly handicapped. He has four letter men returning, and very few who have had previous football experience. Some of those who lay claim to having had experience only saw service in second string and non-conference games.

Lamesa came close to winning a lone match as Willie Bryant and Allen took the second set of a doubles encounter from Midland, only to lose the last set. The score was 6-0, 4-6, 6-3. Lamesa will be host to a meet August 23.

With the first game barely three weeks ahead, it will take some earnest work on the part of both the mentor and the men to whip into fair shape for the contest with Lamesa. Furthermore it is a well known fact that Lamesa had rather beat this city in athletics than to win a bi-district championship.

Coach McCollum of that city already has his men working hard and is bent on catching the Steers half prepared, reports from the northern neighbor would indicate. Lest it be forgotten it should be called to mind that Lamesa won in her district with ease last year and was seeded out in the bi-district competition by only six points after outplaying Hereford. Many of the veterans are back.

However, if Big Spring people make it possible for the Steers to take the training camp session away from the temptations of breaking conditioning rules, Big Spring will have a well-primed team ready to go September 11, said Coach Bristow.

Big Spring Wins In Tennis Meet

Big Spring Sunday retained the right to be called the outstanding tennis city in the Sand Belt by taking first honors in a triangular meet held in Midland. Although Midland won more matches than the local netters, they were not as good defensively and dropped two more encounters than did this city.

Spring won 5 and lost 1, Midland won 6 and lost 3, while Lamesa, the third entrant, won 0 and lost 4.

Joe Davis, among the top ranking players of this section, took premier honors of the day by topping Frank Stubbeman, Midland, in the finals 3-0, 6-4, and 7-3. Davis had previously won his way to the last round by sensational play which had pulled him from more than one perplexing situation. Davis won his semi-official match over Theo Ferguson, finalist in the West Texas Tennis Tourney, 6-4, 4-6, 8-6.

Lamesa came close to winning a lone match as Willie Bryant and Allen took the second set of a doubles encounter from Midland, only to lose the last set. The score was 6-0, 4-6, 6-3. Lamesa will be host to a meet August 23.

Ensembles In New Designs For Bathrooms

By MARGERY TAYLOR Interior Decoration Editor McCall's Magazine, Written for The Herald

The new bathroom fixtures are to be real ensembles.

The various pieces have always been made to look something like one another, but artists engaged now in creating more beautiful bathrooms have pointed out that the sets of previous years have not been in true harmony.

They were, of the same color, it is true, and that was usually white. But the lines were wrong, say the artists, and not designed to give a feeling of unity to the whole room.

Now the forms have been simplified—almost to what art critics call "classic severity." And the lines are repeated in the various fixtures.

Even the metal fixtures carry out the main design. If the various pieces show a beveled corner effect, the metal parts stress the same corner.

It isn't only a matter of new tricks of design—the whole form of the pieces has left the traditions behind.

Many of the new tubs are flat on the floor—no more legs. Lavatories are large and serviceable, with wide splash rims.

And the old rubber stopper, inspiration of much bad language, has given way to the waste stock.

But the ensemble isn't the only new bathroom development. In fact an architectural battle is being fought in it—and the result will be many new ideas of beauty and comfort.

Some designers believe that bathrooms, by nature utilitarian, should take up as little house space as possible. Others differ, contending that the bathroom should be a health room of many uses.

They favor what they call the "gymnasium" bathroom—and go in for a growing collection of furnishings and apparatus, a lounge, health lamp and exercise machines.

York and Chicago do not want it back. To say that prohibition killed the saloon, but created the bootlegger and speakeasy, is utterly false, for both flourished in competition with the old-time saloon.

After an experience over a century with every species of government liquor control, the American people turned to prohibition, and when asked what he thought of it, Lloyd George said, "In America you have no barrooms and working class children wear shoes, in England we have barrooms and working class children go barefoot."

Nooner or later the finest ship ever built and the best roof ever laid will leak, and no matter how strong a fence we build a certain percentage of predatory animals will sneak in. There is no such thing today as a "prohibition problem," except to those who wish to drink and to sell the stuff. The more the wets write and speak on this subject the worse they contradict themselves. Sam Houston, the grand old man of Texas, voted, wrote and spoke for prohibition a century ago.

Enforcement - Not Repeal

Henry Ford Writes of Wagons and Hitching Posts

Why I believe in prohibition? I believe in prohibition because I believe in the new industrial order that America is creating. Prose is as much out of the place in that new order as a horse and buggy in downtown Detroit—and a lot more dangerous.

The horse and buggy order is one and liquor had to go with it. Society could take chances back of a dashboard that it can't afford to take behind a steering wheel.

Perhaps you don't recall the old hitching post days. Well, a lot of folks seem to have forgotten them. They shouldn't. The streets on Saturday nights were lined with wagons and buggies and the saloons were filled with customers. At closing time a crowd of irresponsible men backed their rigs into the street, the horses were headed toward home, the reins dropped over the dash and forgotten. The horses were sober.

Well, if we want our streets lined again with shops that do that kind of business we shall have to put up our automobiles and go back to hitching posts. Automobiles won't go straight unless they are driven straight, and they don't know the way home.

A industrial order that has discarded the reins, dashboards and team—that knows the way home can't afford to line its highways with "regulated" liquor shops—not with a forty-horsepower motor under the toe of the drinking citizen—Henry Ford, in the Lincoln Journal.
