All-Star Eleven Hopes Are Dashed

Improbability of organizing a football team of ex-college and high school players appeared today, when it became apparent such a club could not easily be organized.

A committee conferred with school authorities, hoping discarded muleskins and other equipment might be borrowed, but found that grid paraphernalia not used by the first and second string of the high school had been given to the junior high school club. There is not sufficient equipment to put one ex-star eleven on the field, it was explained.

Merchants Donate Apples to Studes

The four prize winning rooms in the last two grid ticket drives have received a box of apples each, donated by grocery firms of the city. In the drive for the Big Lake game first prize in the high school was won by 11-B grade, L. K. Barry's room. The box of apples for this room was donated by the Midland Mercantile company. In this same drive first prize in the junior high school was won by Mrs. George Philipppus' room. The prize box of apples for this room was donated by the "M" System store.

Are We Down-Hearted?

—An Editorial—

Midland people, as hard hit by drought as we are, have several reasons for not feeling demoralized.

1. Oil is selling higher now than at any time since the first well was drilled in the Permian basin.
2. The pink boll worm bill was signed Monday.
3. Midland has been permanently allowed common point freight rates.
4. The Midland situation is appreciably improving, and the reflection, naturally, will be felt here.
5. School finances are in A-1 condition and the city and county finances are in excellent comparative condition.
6. Crime is well controlled.
7. While a few businesses have failed, not a church in Midland has quit.

Catoico's Emphasis To Be Laid on Oil

Scenes of oil fields and oil operators in the Permian basin likely will be a feature of the 1933-34 edition of "Catoico," Midland high school annual now in course of preparation. The name itself stands for Midland's main industries, cattle, oil and cotton, and this year, as oil is now the best paying industry at Midland, the book is to emphasize the petroleum industry.

Bright Lights of New York Flash Dazzling Picture

Millions of lights flare out against the darkness when nightfall comes to New York. A panorama of beauty that leaves the observer gasping is outspread from Rockefeller Center, looking south, as is this striking photo. Ribbons of lights mark the bridges across East river to Brooklyn, upper left. Lights glow from towers that seem to pierce the sky, and rainbow-hued beams flash and vanish from tens of thousands of electric signs. The skyscraper in the center with lighted shaft is the Empire State building. Far in the distance, upper right, like a sentinel guarding the metropolis, the Statue of Liberty sheds its beacon rays over the harbor.

The chamber voted 329 to 241 against a compromise proposal submitted by Daladier in his fight to balance the budget, providing for wage cuts of government functionaries.

The ministers, headed by Daladier, presented their resignations directly to President Lebrun who accepted them and thanked them personally for their services. The president asked that they continue at their posts temporarily.

Premier Daladier resigned after the chamber of deputies defeated a proposal to cut civil service pay.

The chamber session ended in a hubbub which was reflected on the streets of Paris where the heaviest guards in many years patrolled.

out of the SCRUGGS DAIRY MILK BOTTLE

COMES FOOD VALUE

The United States Labor Department suggests that if the food budget is limited twenty-five to thirty cents out of every dollar expended should go for milk or its equivalent. That is because milk contains practically every element necessary for health. And the milk should, for greatest return, be of the fine, unvarying quality in Scruggs Dairy milk.

Banking Interests Flayed in Picture At the Ritz Theatre

Out of the maze of newspaper headlines screaming the indictments of big bankers, who chiseled and stole from an unenlightened public comes "The World Gone Mad," a Majestic Picture, showing today and tomorrow at the Ritz. True to its title, it tells a story of the hundreds of thousands of trusting people who, with the hope of turning one dollar into ten, sank all their funds into seemingly secure, yet thoroughly rotten investments.

Buoyed up by the spirit of big business that permeated the country in the last twelve years, the poor trusting souls who put their money into stocks and bonds and bought their radios and automobiles on the installment plan, were one day awakened by a terrific crash. A crash that took the bottom out of things and swallowed up all available money, leaving nothing but a shocked and gasping people. "The World Gone Mad" is a splendid story with an impressive cast headed by Pat O'Brien, Evelyn Brent, Neil Hamilton, Mary Brian, Louis Calhern and J. Carol Naish. Here is a film that explains the mistakes of investors but lays the blame for their mistakes on the proper persons . . . the glib talkers, the bankers. "The World Gone Mad" is a clear, understandable set of charges against big business—finance, investment trusts and stock manipulations. Cleverly directed by Christy Cabanne, "The World Gone Mad" is one of the pictures that you must add to your list of pictures that should be seen.

Bus from Buckeye State for Desert

CLEVELAND, O. (UP).—The task of conquering one of man's greatest transportation obstacles—the Syrian Desert—has been placed on the shoulders of a local company, which is building what is reputed to be the world's largest motorbus body.

The Bender Body company recently announced it had received a contract for building the huge vehicle for the Nairn Transportation company of Iraq. The bus is to be used in desert travel between Baghdad and Damascus.

The bus will be 69 feet long and mounted on 18 wheels. It will be powered with a 385-horsepower Diesel motor.

The body will accommodate 35 passengers, and will be insulated against desert heat. First and second class compartments will be provided.

The bus will carry provisions for five days in event of forced halts, and will have to ford the Euphrates and Tigris rivers. Tires would be changed every 24 hours, and a 10-inch clearance will be provided between tire and fender to take care of the wet sand which packs on the wheels.

The journey from Baghdad to Damascus, requiring about 24 days by the present roundabout water route, can be made in 24 hours driving time on the desert.

Germany Opens A Relief Drive

BERLIN (UP).—In the Reichstag building, in the rooms where formerly the Socialists and Communists did their parliamentary work and discussed their tactics, now sit 200 employees of the organization committee of the "Winter Relief."

From all parts of the country come hour by hour, telephone calls reporting to the committee how many and what foods have been donated. It is reported that the results of the campaign will run into immense figures, as follows:

- 15 to 18 millions hundredweight of potatoes
- 4 to 6 millions hundredweight of grains
- 1 to 2 millions hundredweight of flour
- Several millions hundredweight other foodstuffs
- 36 millions hundredweight of coal
- 350 to 400 million marks in cash

The collected foodstuff will be divided among six million needy. The final results of the collection will be announced personally over the radio by Chancellor Hitler.

Accurate Road Watch Wins Engineer's Case

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (UP).—Traditional accuracy of a railroad timepiece freed M. J. McGill, Denver & Rio Grande, Western Railroad engineer, of speeding charges.

Judge M. J. Bronson acquitted McGill after comparing the accuracy of a stopwatch in the hands of Timothy Murphy, complainant, against that of the train crew's watches.

Murphy timed McGill's train at 30 miles per hour past city intersections, a violation of city ordinances. The train crew, however, testified they had seven minutes to go from the crossing to the station, making their average speed 10.3 miles per hour.

COLLAR ATTACHED SHIRT—Pre-shrunk fast color broadcloth of long staple cotton yarn. Six-button front 1.25

This shirt, and tens of thousands like it, were made and sold just a few months ago when the country was not as sound as it is today.

The man that grew the cotton for it lost money. His cotton pickers were not paid with cash . . . they received canned goods and groceries so that they could eat and have strength to work. The workers in the mill where the cotton was spun into yarn and in the mill where the yarn was woven into fabric received starvation wages . . . $4 and $5 a week. The girls that fashioned it into a shirt tried to keep the wolf from the door with $5 a week, and in many instances, even less. Their employer lost money. Cut-throat competition, together with curtailed buying power, forced the retailer to sell it, too, at a price which would attract you to buy it, but which netted him a loss.

At 89 cents it was a bargain. A bargain built on misery . . . distress . . . losses . . . and suffering, all along the line. A bargain that threatened the very structure of this country.

Written and published in the interest of NRA and all it stands for by

Wadley's

"a better department store"

Here is another shirt . . . manufactured under the Code of the NRA. Looks just like the other one, but it's different.

True, the cotton is the same, the machine-made material is the same, BUT . . . the workers now receive at least $13 a week. The workmanship, however, is different. Girls that are now receiving a living wage do better work than they did with hungry stomachs and with fear in their hearts.

Yes, it's a different shirt. They will all tell you that . . . from the cotton picker to the one who sells it to you. Thanks to NRA it is different . . . and not a single child labored in its making.

At $1.25 it is a real bargain, a sound bargain, sound for your welfare and sound for the welfare of our country. Which one do you prefer to wear?

"Look John—A NEW IRON SKILLET, THE KIND MOTHER ALWAYS USED"

John: "It gives me an appetite just to look at it, Martha. Are you going to cook something now?" Martha: "No, John, I must 'cure' it before using it—you see, after it gets very hot, I grease it thoroughly, and the grease goes right into the metal, leaving an oily surface that further cooking and washing do not take away." John: "Why, that's much like the theory of Germ Processed—the motor oil we are using—only Conoco puts an extra oiliness in the mineral motor oil that gives it penetrativeness. How

JUST AS SOON AS I BURN IT OUT—

—AND ADD SOME GREASE IT WILL STAY OILY ALL THE TIME

REMEMBER THE CONOCO "HIDDEN QUART" STORY YOU WERE PUZZLED ABOUT?

WELL YOU HAVE JUST DEMONSTRATED IT—CONOCO PENETRATES THE METAL AND NEVER DRAINS AWAY

easily understood the 'Hidden Quart' is. Of course, our car starts easily and runs quietly! It must save wear, too." Martha: "Why don't other oil companies use that good method, John?" John: "It's patented and belongs only to Conoco in North America." Martha: "But does oil make our car start easily? I thought that was gasoline." John: "The oil helps, Martha, but quick starting is a feature of Conoco Bronze, so is pickup, power, mileage, and anti-knock. We can thank Conoco for saving us money this year. Let the weather get cold! With Germ Processed Winter Grade Oil and Conoco Bronze, we're all set. It's a great combination."

Full motor protection, especially in cold motor starting, can be found only in Conoco Germ Processed (Paraffin Base) Motor Oil because the penetrative oiliness, called "The Hidden Quart" stays up in your motor and never drains away. Conoco Germ Processed Oil is the highest grade motor oil obtainable. . . . the paraffin base crude oil sources, the scientific skill and the most modern refining combine to make it so. Then it's Germ Processed with an exclusive Conoco formula.

Instant Starting and Lightning Pick-up can best be obtained with Conoco Bronze Gasoline, and without sacrifice of Long Mileage, Greater Power and Anti-Knock advantages. For cold weather starting it cannot be excelled—all the possible fuel needs of modern cars have been fulfilled at no increase in price.

It can be easily identified by its bronze color but you must be sure it's Conoco Bronze Gasoline for only in this way can its advantages of unusual performance and greater economy be obtained.

When planning a trip for business or vacation, write the Conoco Travel Bureau, Denver, Colo., America's largest Free Travel Bureau.

English Actor Is "Alley-oop" Type

HOLLYWOOD (UP).—All about Cary Grant, the original "tall, dark and handsome" of Mademoiselle West.

An erstwhile acrobat and still walker, he has large, strong hands which instinctively cup, themselves in an "alley-oop" position, even while he is in a dramatic scene.

Of an inventive turn, Cary reads all magazines of mechanics and would sooner tinker his automobile than attend a concert, despite his fondness for music.

At the age of 12—he was Archie Leach, of Bristol, Eng. then—he invented a theatrical lighting effect which is still in use and pays him occasional royalties.

He only saves newspaper clippings of "roastings," explaining that they "keep the old head from swelling." He sings, dances, rides expertly, drives like Barney Oldfield—once at 118 miles an hour.

One of his woes is remembering people's names. Thus he calls all men "Steve," and just smiles at women. He owns a profitable haberdashery.

He doesn't look his 172 pounds, partly because he is six feet, one inch tall and partly because the weight is mostly muscle.

He is a blend of naivete and sophistication. He is shy, but when cornered he turns out to be witty.

He was Mae West's choice for her leading man in "She Done Him Wrong" and his work so appealed to her that he was stipulated for the male lead in "I'm No Angel."

Cary can cook, likes to, and of tan does. For luncheon he eats mussels and milk.

When irritated, he speaks right out in meeting. He has no intention of being imposed on. He seldom is.
