Wichita Falls Man Favored For Net Title

Pair Of Big Spring Teams Play To Decide Wichita Opponent

The West Texas Tennis tournament belonged to Big Spring and Wichita Falls as the first day and a half of play saw smiling, hard-hitting Tom McCarty well on the road to his second consecutive singles championship...

In the feature match of the first day McCarty and Anderson shared the quarterfinals of the tournament...

Ralph Anderson survived a second round thriller with James Thruent of Roscoe 5-6, 2-6, 6-1 and then beat Bill Kirby of Bowling Green, Kentucky, 6-3, 6-2 in the quarterfinals...

Showing of local players, particularly Dunagan and Dabney, have caused a small drop in Wichita Falls stock as Anderson failed to exhibit the expected power and McCarty showed signs of weakness under Dunagan's savage volleying...

Number of visitors here Thursday night because of the Carnival of Values was larger than was expected for the first day. It was a good omen for a great crowd Saturday.

Big Spring has gotten a lot more out of the program already than she put into it in money or effort; the psychological impression conveyed to people of neighboring counties and the traveling public alone is due to the city manager.

"Well, ain't that something? They must not be completely discouraged about this depression, for the most frequent expression heard in towns visited by the good will motorcades advertising the Carnival of Values when the gang hit town with plenty of pep."

Usually an affair of this type, tied up with the expense fund for the affair will be satisfied when it is given, provided they did not go into it with their heads set that they would not be satisfied.

In every community, especially in a time like this when most everybody is seeking to excuse himself for his own shortcomings by blaming it on the depression, which is usually charged up to "the government," a comparatively few individuals...

'Mud-Slinging' Missing In Talks Of Candidates

Tom F. Hunter, Candidate For Governor, Heads List Of Speakers This Evening; Joe Bailey, Jr., On Program At Court House

Absence of "mud-slinging" marked the first evening's political rally of the "Carnival of Values" held on the courthouse lawn. Seven candidates for state offices reviewed their platforms briefly before an interested crowd.

Friday evening at seven o'clock one of the most talented orators in the congressional race will address a carnival audience, Joseph W. Bailey, Dallas, is seeking to take the first stride in his illustrious father's footsteps.

Dan Jackson Offers Case For Congress

Dan M. Jackson, seeking to replace R. E. Thompson in congress from this district opened the first night rally. Starting much later than the schedule, Jackson had only a small crowd on hand when he began, but numbers rapidly flowed in before he closed his brief address.

Answering charges that he was making the race while holding an office, Jackson pointed out that Thompson made the race while mayor of El Paso, and remained so until sworn into congress.

"If anyone can show where I have performed an act of citizenship elsewhere than Texas, I will withdraw from this race," he shouted.

"This talk of being a citizen of some other state is a lot of chaff running around. It does not answer the issue, and this is no time for pussy footing politicians," he declared.

He vehemently rapped the Harding administration and Attorney General Harry Daugherty, under whom he declared Jackson first served, branding them as a part of the "dirtiest and blackest administration this country has ever known."

Thompson has worked diligently for Howard county, he declared. The incumbent congressman favored economy, but once the construction measure went through, he obtained for Big Spring a federal administration building.

More Visitors Attracted By Free Program

Carnival Of Values Draws Wide Attention; Ends Saturday Night

The Big Spring Carnival of Values, which by the opening of its second day had begun to attract state-wide attention for its value as a trade-getter and good-will builder, also attracted a larger number of visitors to the city Friday.

At 4 p. m. the second Terrapin Derby will be held in the Settles hotel, main lobby.

Waxing statistical, Duggan pointed out it took $46,000,000 a day to run the national government. He said it took five billions a year to operate the federal system, two billions to run states and seven billions of each dollar went for taxes.

Each family has to account for five to six hundred dollars in taxes yearly," he estimated. "Taxes are too high, but we are going to face it like men and women and force it down."

During the day Saturday motorcycle polo will be offered on the West Highway diamond the semi-final games of the baseball tournament will be played beginning at 2:45 and 5:45 p. m.

The final game of the baseball series will be played Sunday afternoon on the West Highway field.

GOVERNOR ROSS S. STERLING (left) and ATTORNEY GENERAL JAMES V. ALLRED (right) both campaigning for second terms, will be here Saturday for addresses on the court house lawn at the final session for candidates' appearances on the Carnival of Values program.

Big Spring And Odessa Girls Win Carnival Of Value Revue

Dozen, Charming Maidens Cheered By Large Crowd At Settles Thursday Evening, Winner Get Mineral Wells Trip

Natal Barnes of Odessa and Pauline Hubbard of Big Spring won the right to represent this section of Texas in a state-wide Bathing Girl revue to be held soon in Mineral Wells when judges of the Carnival of Values revue at the Settles hotel Thursday evening chose them as the most beautiful of a dozen entrants representing their towns.

Both winners are blondes. Lela Latham, the second Big Spring entrant, and Margaret Jenkins, Colorado, ranked very near the winners in the estimation of both the crowd and the judges.

Democratic Repeal Plank Is Thrilling News To Women Who Worked For Prohibition Reform

By MAXINE DAVIS United Press Correspondent CHICAGO—Women in the vanguard of the repeal ranks were wholly delighted with democratic platform's repeal plank.

"I don't care if I am robbed with a gun or robbed legally, I am robbed," he cried, blaming the administration for "Hoover" times.

Roosevelt Is 84 Votes Shy Of Two-Thirds

Convention Adjourns Until This Evening After All-Night Grind

CHICAGO (AP)—After a tumultuous night-long session the democratic national convention went into the tightening grip of a deadlock at dawn Friday.

Roosevelt, far ahead of his nearest rival, mustered a slowly rising majority on succeeding ballots but was unable to make real progress his managers had predicted toward the two-thirds needed to nominate.

The official count on the third ballot was: Roosevelt, 682; Smith, 190; Garner, 104 1/4; White, 52; Traylor, 40; Reed, 27; Byrd, 24; Ritchie, 23; Baker, 8.

NEWS OF THE DAY IN PICTURES

DEMOCRATIC CHIEFTAINS CONFER

As soon as John J. Raskob (right) reached Chicago for conference preliminary to the democratic national convention he talked things over with Joust Shouse (left), whom Raskob favors as permanent chairman of the convention.

DEMOCRATS OPEN CHICAGO CONVENTION WITH A FLOURISH

The democrats lived up to all expectations at the opening of their national convention in Chicago. It was a seething convention in old time style. It almost started parading and demonstrating before it came officially into being. Arrow shows Chairman John J. Raskob who called the convention to order.

CHEER

LINDY AND NURSE LEAVE COURT

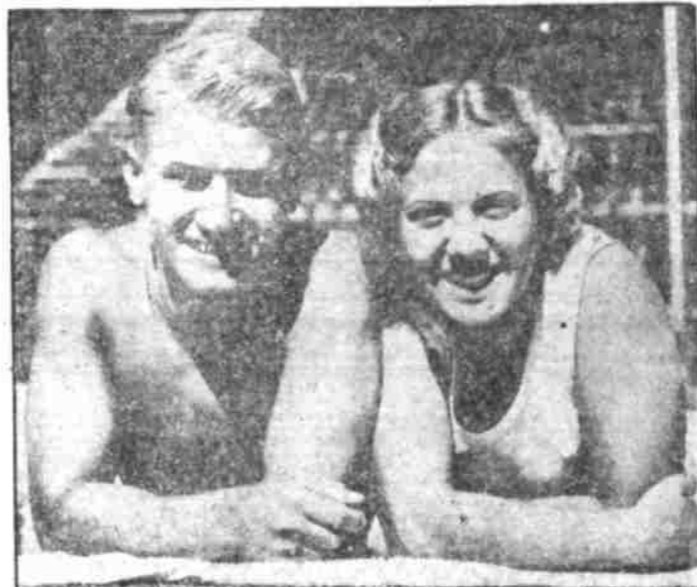

The Associated Press telephoto shows Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and Betty Gow, nurse in the Lindbergh household, as they left the house at Flemington, N. J., after testifying in the trial of John J. Curtis, shipbuilder charged with hoaxing in the Lindbergh kidnap case.

DEMOCRATIC WOMEN LEADERS

Mrs. Nellie Taylor Ross (left), former governor of Wyoming and now vice chairman of the democratic national committee in charge of women's activities, is shown in a pre-convention conference with Mrs. Elizabeth A. Conkey, democratic national committee-woman from Illinois.

WEDDING BELLS FOR THEM

Mickey Riley and Georgia Coleman, two of America's premier divers, are to marry immediately after the Olympic games in Los Angeles. Both are members of the Los Angeles Athletic club and are expected to star in Olympic diving events.

Roosevelt Backer

Arthur F. Mullen (above), Nebraska national committeeman, will be the floor leader for Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt at the democratic national convention.

Drafts Plan White Picnic

Gilbert M. Hitchcock of Omaha, Neb., heads the democratic platform committee at Chicago.

Ozark Smile Girl

Associated Press Photo: Geraldine Fitzgerald, 18, of Joplin, Mo., has been chosen the most winsome girl in the Ozarks and will be this year's official "Ozark smile girl."

Seconds White

Mrs. Josephine McGowan of Canton, Ohio, delegate at large to the democratic national convention in Chicago, was chosen to second the nomination of Gov. George White of Ohio.

'24 For Roosevelt'

It will be "24 votes for Roosevelt" when former Gov. W. W. Brandon, chairman of the state delegation, responds for Alabama to the roll call at the democratic convention in Chicago. Brandon won fame in the 1924 convention by shouting "24 votes for Underwood" through 103 ballots.

BRYANS HOLD REUNION IN CHICAGO

'The Fox' Held

Norman Whitaker, known as "the Fox," and through whom, the police say, Gaston B. Means pretended he could effect the return of the kidnaped Lindbergh baby, was arrested in Brooklyn, N. Y., and held for Washington police.

CANNON FACE TO FACE WITH

Bishop James Cannon Jr. almost received an unwelcome present—a bottle of bay rum—from Judge Lucius J. Malm, alternate delegate from the Virgin Islands to the democratic convention. "I'll smash that!" shouted the bishop when it was offered him as he listened to wets dead before the resolutions committee.

PLATINUM BLOND TO MARRY

Jean Harlow, platinum blond screen actress, is shown with her fiancé, Paul Bern, movie executive, when they applied for a license to wed.

Curtis On Trial

John Hughes Curtis, the shipbuilder from Norfolk, Va., is shown as he went on trial in Flemington, N. J., on a charge of hoaxing authorities in the Lindbergh kidnaping case.

FAMOUS TRIO AT CONVENTION

Sues Aimee's Hubby

Myrtle Joan St. Pierre (at Hollywood nurse, brought suit against her husband.

HULL BACKED FOR PLATFORM JOB

Sen. Cordell Hull (center) of Tennessee was the choice of Roosevelt backers for chairman of the resolutions committee at the democratic national convention in Chicago. With him are Joseph F. Gurnea, Roosevelt forerun in Pennsylvania, and another democratic national committeeman.

THE RED

BRIDE

Cherry told him she was not surprised. "How did you know?" she asked. "I don't know," he said. "I just felt it."

"But you're going to marry me?" he asked. "Yes, I am," she said. "I'm not surprised. I don't mean anything happened to change your plans."

Her father shook his head. "Nothing's happened. But I came to see you again if you wouldn't mind."

"I can't," she said. "I'm busy."

"What are you doing?" he asked. "I'm in the shadows of the room," she said. "I'm not there."

"You didn't say anything about this," he said. "I didn't know anything about going anywhere," she said. "I don't want to go."

"You're really mean that," she said. "Of course I mean it."

Dan dropped to the window seat. He leaned forward, resting his hands on his knees. "Cherry," he said. "I've been a sinner. I thought I was going to get half a dozen raises and sell a lot of stories in no time. I thought we'd be moving into a better apartment, buy a car—oh, I had all sorts of plans! It's decent of you to be a sport about all this but we might as well face it. I'm a dud and that's all I'll ever be."

"But that's not true, Dan! Please don't let yourself be discouraged. There's lots of time ahead. You haven't any reason to feel this way."

"Haven't I look?" he asked. "You went to the davenport, picked up his coat and drew an envelope from a pocket. Without another word he handed the envelope to Cherry."

"She drew out the bulky, folded papers. As she did so a small, rectangular bit of paper fell into her lap. She picked it up and read. 'We are sorry that we are unable to make use of the enclosed manuscript. Thank you for submitting it.'"

The name printed on the slip was that of a famous magazine. Cherry unfolded the paper. It was Dan's story about Gus, the taxicab driver, the story he had started on the rainy Sunday so long ago.

"I finished it," he told her, "while your mother was sick and you were saying with her. I didn't mean to say anything about it unless they took it. Wanted to surprise you! I had another one ready to send if they took this. Well that can go into the wastebasket!"

He reached for the manuscript.

Cherry drew back. "Please!" she begged. "Let me keep it, Dan. I want to read it. Oh, I'm sorry that old editor didn't like it but you mustn't be discouraged! Maybe the next one will be different."

But Dan was not to be shaken from his gloomy mood. Later when Cherry had finished reading the manuscript and was glowingly enthusiastic about it he was only half convinced. He got the second story, an account of two urchins called by one juvenile court from the deck of a ship and she read that.

"They're good!" Cherry insisted fervently. "I don't care what that editor or anyone else says. These stories are interesting!"

Dan laughed at her enthusiasm, was pleased more than he would admit.

"I like the name of this second one, too," she told him. "Keep's Crime! How did you happen to think of that?" He had called the other story simply, "Night Life."

"Oh, I don't know. Saw some kids in court one day. About half of its true and the rest I imagined to suit myself."

"Laden, Dan," Cherry said seriously. "No matter what anyone else thinks, I know you're going to write great stories some day!"

"And in the meantime we'll go to the poor house!"

"We certainly will not! Don't you understand, dear, that I'd rather be here with you living just as we are than in the finest hotel in the world with all the money there is if you weren't there?"

He told her she was a very foolish girl and neither of them believed it.

The house at Briarport had been closed for a definite period. The cook and her husband were the only ones to remain there. Marthy and Sarah were both to visit relatives departing as soon as Mr. and Mrs. Dixon had gone. Marthy, the chauffeur was to take the car to the eastern resort and remain there.

Cherry rode with her parents to the station. They were making the trip by rail because Mrs. Dixon considered it more comfortable. Miss Egan, the nurse, looking almost like a stranger in her chic blue frock and hat, sat with Cherry and her mother in the rear seat.

The train was to leave at 10 o'clock but already the day was warm. Mrs. Dixon dressed in thin gray silk, appeared pale and delicate as she leaned back against the seat. Her hand, in its gray glove,

Mrs. Biles Honors Mrs. J. A. Collins With Nice Party

Mrs. John D. Biles was hostess Thursday afternoon complimenting Mrs. J. A. Collins, of Denton, twin sister of Mrs. R. Homer McNew, who is spending the week in Big Spring.

Summer flowers of Shasta daisies, ragged Robin, and orange dahlia sinias made attractive floral decorations for the cool, pleasant rooms.

Mrs. Collins was presented with a lovely deck of cards as guest prize and Mrs. Parsons also with a lovely deck for making high score.

A salad and ice course were served after the games with Mrs. McNew and Mrs. Parsons assisting the hostess.

The guests of the afternoon were: Misses Collins, McNew, Ira Thurman, R. C. Strain, Fred Keating, J. B. Young, Buck Richardson, C. W. Cunningham, Geo. Wilke, V. Van Gieson, Seth H. Parsons and Lee Hansen of Lamesa.

Echoes From Baby Show

Every woman in town who missed the Baby Show at the Settles Hotel Thursday morning was sorry of it, especially when she heard the comments of those who attended.

It's generally conceded that if the affair had been a beauty show the judges would have had as hard a time selecting the winners as the Democrats are having selecting a president, there were so many good looking babies.

In fact there were almost no ugly babies. What ever else the West may do in the way of crops, the baby crop is surely a good one to look at.

Because girls took so many of the prizes some of the people thought the doctors actually judge the babies for looks, instead of weight and measurement, etc. Just what was wrong with the boys, no one knows, maybe they were all too smart to win prizes.

Some babies had actually to be ruled out because they were too far along in development or had too many teeth for their age. The idea was to find, if possible, the baby approximating the nearest in weight and measurement, according to baby charts.

Two or three little redheads came in for the prizes and received a lot of cheering. Their popularity is starting early.

Most of the mothers whose children did not win anything, consoled themselves with the fact that nothing was wrong anyhow. An abnormal baby was an exception yesterday, except an abnormally smart or abnormally well developed child.

It was a never to be forgotten scene. Imagine 139 babies; 139 mamas; and almost that many fond relatives milling about on the mezzanine floor; There was a continuous undertone of fretted cries, although most of the youngsters took it good-natured enough.

The billiard room saw some unknown sights. Babies getting dressed on the tables, crawling over the green felt; trying to nap on them.

It was always necessary to look before one stepped. In the middle of a doorway, or anywhere else, if a kid so desired, he might stretch himself out for a nap. No casualties were reported.

And in the midst of it all, the three doctors weighed and measured as fast as they could; Mrs. McDonald rushed about unperturbed; and the Brooks Ambassadors tooted their horns with great unconcern.

Lucky 13 Members Go To Mrs. Latson's Home

Mrs. V. W. Latson was hostess to the members of the Lucky Thirteen Bridge Club Thursday afternoon for a very summery party. She used big white daisies very cleverly in her house decorations.
