KATHRYN KELLY MYSTERIOUSLY MOVED TODAY

Startling Theory Is Advanced as Cause In New Move

CINCINNATI, Nov. 14. (UP).—Federal agents today mysteriously removed Kathryn Kelly from the Cincinnati workhouse where she was serving her life sentence for conviction in the Urschel kidnaping case.

EPISCOPALS IN SERVICE SERIES

The following release was prepared on services starting at the Episcopal church of Midland:

"The Rev. William H. Martin, Protestant Episcopal vicar in charge of Trinity church, Midland, began a series of mission sermons and services last night.

"Those who missed the services last night failed to get a great inspiration and an aid to decision in Christian life.

"The sermon, which was brief and to the point, was based on the text: 'See, I have set before thee this day life and good; death and evil; in that the blessing of God is with thee, and the curse of God is against thee; if thou choosest life, then thou shalt love the Lord thy God, and shalt love thy neighbor as thyself; only in this shall thou live.'

"The minister said: 'Of all the gifts God has lavished upon man, no gift is greater than free will, the right of every soul to decide whether it will choose life and good, or death and evil. The possession of this gift of free will makes victory possible in man.'

"When God made the world, He could have peopled it with nations that would have walked forever in His ways. But He desired something nobler than that; He wished to be loved, to be freely chosen, to be obeyed by intelligent beings. He wanted a creature that would help; that He could seek and save; that He could bless. He wanted us to be sons of God.

"Happiness is the natural state of man; and it has never been found in wickedness, in sin, or in looking on wandering away from God.

"Every day is Judgment Day in your life, and in mine; and the decisions you make determine your eternal destiny. When this life ends we will each find that we will have things that we have chosen again and again.

"He that has chosen to choose sin and death will enter into that eternal death.

"He that has chosen life and good will enter and enjoy God's presence forever.

"See, I have placed before you this day life and good, death and evil.

"To my soul, choose well; Thy choice is brief, yet endless." The services will continue at Trinity church tonight at 7:30. Holy communion 10 a. m. Wednesday. Visitors are welcome at all services.

New Flood Lamp Will Be Aid to Photography EAST PITTSBURGH, Pa. (UP).—A new photo flood lamp, designed to improve color photography by increasing the blue rays in light, has been developed by the Westinghouse Lamp Company in Bloomfield, N. J., it was announced at Westinghouse offices here.

The new lamp increases the blue rays by five times while the reds and yellows are increased only three times, E. W. Boggs, engineer, explained.

The characteristic of tungsten to produce bluer light as it gets hotter is the principle on which the new bulb is based. The filament reaches a temperature of 5,940 degrees Fahrenheit, or 360 degrees below the melting point. The new lamp has a life of 1,000 hours as compared with 100 hours for the normal type flood-light.

LECTURER HERE WEDNESDAY RECENTLY PRAISED BY WIFE OF THE PRESIDENT

Midland people will have an opportunity Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock to hear a famous New York woman speak. She is Miss Evelyn K. Davis, national executive director of public health work.

Types of people who will be particularly interested, according to local health board officials, are parents of growing children, city and county officials, students of sociology, and all persons interested in any phase of public health work.

The meeting will be in the county court room and is free to everyone. Following the address, a buffet supper will be served by the Parent-Teachers association. This supper is 50 cents per plate and is optional.

Those who plan to attend the supper are expected to make reservations by 8 o'clock tonight by calling Mrs. R. E. Witty, Mrs. Harvey Sloan or Mrs. L. C. Link.

Word was received Monday that persons were coming from Abilene and Ballinger. Word has also been received that 22 towns would have delegates here. Midland will be Miss Davis' only West Texas appearance, and this city is considered to be specially honored. The national director was brought to Midland through efforts of Mrs. Harvey Sloan, the chief fosterer of public health work in Midland.

MRS. ROOSEVELT WROTE PRAISE FOR MISS DAVIS Miss Davis' recognition, which for years has been "national," became focused in an extraordinary glare of publicity recently, when, in the October number of Good Housekeeping, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt wrote of her work as follows: "Last June at the national conference of social workers at Detroit, permanent national committee volunteers were formed, to be headed by Miss Evelyn K. Davis, who has done a grand job in helping volunteers of her own organization, to become some of the best trained in the social service world." The article continues by praising the work of Miss Davis in the Women's Crusade, a national social service organization headed actively by Mrs. Roosevelt.

West Texas was given a cut of 2,360 barrels to 119,848. The Yates pool was cut 1,000 barrels daily. The Gulf coast area was reduced 1,938 to 142,056. Southwest Texas was down 626 barrels to 45,097. Others were not changed.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14. (UP).—Senate investigators today traced the mysterious payment of $300,000 from profits of the Sinclair oil stock deal to William S. Fitzpatrick, Sinclair competitor, to Blair & Co., Wall street brokers.

Previously it had been revealed that Sinclair made a profit of $6,300,000 in a Sinclair Consolidated deal October 24, 1932.

SANTIAGO, Chile, Nov. 14. (UP).—A violent earthquake shook the city today. The tremor was felt in Central Chile.

ST. PAUL, Nov. 14. (UP).—Daniel Rush, window trimmer, testified today that he saw two men kidnap William Hamm Jr. at Hamm's brewery July 15. The government hoped to obtain identification of Roger Touhy and three henchmen on trial as the kidnapers.

MAN TESTIFIES SAW HAMM KIDNAPED Two cases against the Southland Greyhound lines and the American Fidelity Casualty company have been transferred to federal court at Pecos, upon granting of a motion for counsel for the casualty company, Frank Stubbeman. The attorney pled that the casualty company is an out-of-state corporation and therefore under the jurisdiction of a federal court.

The cases resulted from an accident here in September, 1932, in which Charles King and Mrs. Buck King were injured in a collision between a Southland Greyhound bus and Charles King's automobile.

J. M. Caldwell of Midland and Ed M. Whitaker of El Paso represent the plaintiffs, and Stubbeman is on the staff of defense counsel.

Debnam Here as Co. Farm Agent S. A. Debnam moved to Midland today to assume duties conforming with his assumption of the county farm agency of Midland county. He is married and has one child. His family was arranging this afternoon for a home here.

Debnam, graduate of the class of '26 at Texas A&M, lived in Dawson county most of the time 1903 and has been county agent of Stonewall and Hockley counties. He was secretary-manager of the Arkansas Farm Bureau Federation. He was county agent for three months, beginning last July.

INSPECTS SHEEP TISSUE SAN ANGELO—Dr. J. J. Reid of the Livestock Sanitary commission took back to Fort Worth recently samples of blood and tissues from sheep infected with the new disease that has caused the death of several hundred adult sheep in this area. After the commission has sent these samples through the laboratory, it will come to some decision as to its course of action.

Dr. L. Lewis, resident veterinarian for the commission, dispensed about 20 doses of sleeping sickness vaccine to W. W. Brunson, Midland member, in an appeal for additional memberships.

Brunson said, though he has been a member for some years, he was surprised to learn some of the work done in an effort to increase the prices for beef cattle, especially the move to increase the price for old cows through the purchase by the government of canned meat. The letter to Brunson was:

"There are two ways in which to overcome the periodic depression in which we find ourselves: one, the old way of deflation, forced liquidation of debts, with consequent natural reduction in production, the using-up of created surpluses, etc., all leading to a fresh start on a new basis of low values; the other, which the present administration has followed that of controlled inflation and controlled production, bringing with it increases in production costs, and in the prices of the products of both agriculture and industry.

"It is to be argued which method is the better. We are in the midst of an effort to meet the depression in fixed combat, and everyone is hoping that the result will be favorable.

"The one great lesson of the struggle to date is that we must sink or swim together; that there is no place in the New Deal for the rugged individualism which played such an important part in the progress of the two preceding generations, and of which the cattlemen of the West were perhaps the most notable exponent.

"The American National Live Stock association has never been more active than during the past ten months. We have sought in every way possible to protect your interests. We secured a substantial reduction in forest grazing fees. We pleaded for a reduction in freight rates, denied by a majority of the interstate commerce commission over the protests of the three wool commission holders who actually heard the case. We have devoted much effort to the task of restoring the sale-in-transit privilege at the Missouri river markets, and to preserving it at the western markets. The examination of the cattle market.

SLAIN WOMAN'S CLEWS VANISH

EL PASO.—The sister of an El Paso woman will arrive today from San Antonio in effort to identify a woman whose nude body was found near Van Horn last Tuesday as that of a "lost" cousin, a Hollywood Calif. dancer, said Roy Chitwood, district attorney's investigator.

The El Paso woman, who refused to give her name, told Mr. Chitwood that the slain woman resembles her cousin.

She sent for her sister in San Antonio to make certain of her identification.

Mr. Chitwood said the women have not seen their cousin for three years.

Officers Monday gave up the theory that the slain woman is Ramona Warren, Ft. Worth dancer, after they received word that Ramona Warren was in California the day of the slaying.

Still on Coast United Press dispatches from Ft. Worth said Police Chief A. C. Howerton received word from a rooming house landlord that Ramona Warren still is on the coast.

"Unless the San Antonio woman identifies the slain woman, we will be right back where we started when the nude body was found on the desert near Van Horn," said Sheriff Chris P. Fox.

Sheriff Fox said Deputy Sheriff H. W. Lynn, Douglas Ariz., advised him that two men and a woman, who acted suspiciously, attempted to pay hotel room rent there last Thursday with a large diamond ring.

Offered Ring for $10 The men offered to sell the ring for $10.

"This tip may fit our information from Las Cruces, N. M., that the slain woman was fleeing from jewel thieves," Sheriff Fox said.

"The persons who stopped in Douglas after the murder had several large diamonds in their possession."

"They were offered to sell the ring for $10."

"The ring was too large to fit the woman with the two men."

Told of Jewels Sheriff Fox first obtained the jewel robbery theory when Victor Douglas of the county health department, recently there about 10 cases of chicken pox, but quarantine has prevented the spread of the epidemic. One case of scarlet fever is still under quarantine and no danger of spread is anticipated. The season most adaptive for contracting of typhoid fever is specifically over, and physicians here do not believe there is no epidemic of that malady for many years, except for a brief period in the Mexican and negro quarters about three years ago.

Several patients are improving at Midland hospitals.

Mrs. Widdle of Crane, admitted to a hospital Sunday for surgery, will return to her home Sunday.

A child was born last night to Mr. and Mrs. W. W. English, a girl. Condition of mother and child is satisfactory.

Mrs. Harry Hedges is receiving treatment here today for an operation likely to be performed this week.

Mrs. Joe Welson will return to her home this week, following an operation.

George Bennett was admitted to a hospital for treatment Monday.

D. W. Brunson Jr. underwent an appendicitis operation Monday. He was recovering satisfactorily today.

Harvard Granddaddy of America's Grid Game CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UP).—Harvard is the "Granddaddy" of American college football teams.

Regarding the founding of the game in the United States, one of the standard encyclopedias declares:

From colonial times until 1871 Rules of Association Football was played by the colleges in the United States of America. In 1871 a code of rules founded on English Rugby was imported from Canada and played under it, first, by Harvard University. The laws were not very satisfactory, however, and in 1876, after a match had been played with Yale under mixed rules, the Harvard Union laws were adopted generally. An annual convention was appointed to modify the rules as required, but the roughness of the game continued, until, a few years ago, Percy Houghton called a meeting which resulted in several modifications.

DEFENSE ATTACKS VERACITY OF THE STATE'S CHARGES

Girl Testifies Concerning Alleged Offenses

A deposition involving the question of veracity of the complaining witness was read in court today by G. W. Dunaway, attorney for the state in the case of the state against Marjorie Watkins, charged with statutory assault as the second day of the trial proceeded.

The deposition, executed before L. P. Boone, court reporter, last April was signed by Mrs. T. B. Starnes, who, according to testimony of her husband, died the following August. Mrs. Starnes, from her sick bed, was questioned in the deposition by Dunaway and cross questioned by Former District Attorney W. R. Smith. She related the story told to her by Marjorie Ustry, complaining witness, with reference to alleged attacks by the defendant, also of conversations in which the girl said she had been under treatment of a Big Spring physician and the alleged performance of an abortion as result of the alleged attacks.

She then related conversations in which the Ustry girl asked what would be the penalty against her if she were to admit that the charges against Watkins were false. Mrs. Starnes, in the deposition, made the statement that she doubted if Marjorie Ustry's statements could be relied upon.

G. W. Dunaway, attorney for the defense, introduced his first witness, Grandma Watkins, mother of the defendant and of the complaining witness's mother, Mrs. Ustry, last yesterday and she occupied the stand for some time, when she opened at nine o'clock this morning. She denied testimony concerning unfriendly relations between the Ustry girl and her family, testifying that she had at all times sought the best interests of the girl.

T. B. Starnes and his daughter and Mrs. J. A. Baldwin were defense witnesses this morning. Another principal defense witness was the fourteen year old brother of Marjorie Ustry, Walter, who gave information substantiating that of Grandma Watkins as to sleeping arrangements of the defendant in the home where all were living.

Frequent objections of attorneys were made during questioning and cross-questioning of witnesses and it was necessary for Judge Klapp to forbid the repetition of many conversations in which the complaining witness had not participated.

The case had been tried previously in Martin county district court, resulting in a hung jury.

The complaining witness, Miss Marjorie Ustry, questioned by District Attorney Bob Hamilton, gave a brief story of her life prior to the alleged offense with which Watkins is charged. She told of leaving her parents when a small child on account of their separation, subsequently living in an orphanage and then in homes of other families.

It was in the Ustry home in Martin county, to which she had been adopted, that the offenses were alleged to have occurred. Watkins was a brother to Mrs. Ustry. Their mother, referred to in court as Grandma Watkins, also was said to have lived in the home, as did the complaining witness's younger brother, Walter. Details of three alleged offenses were given, indicating that the Ustry girl's protests were not heeded and that she was afraid to call on others for help for fear that she would again be sent to some institution. She said the defendant told her that if she "told," she would go to the reformatory or he would go to the penitentiary. The charge was filed in August 1932, she alleged, that the third offense was in the preceding month, the first on July 4 of the previous year and the second about two months after the first.

The girl testified that she made her home with various friends after she filed the charge.

IN THE PUBLIC CAUSE

Madame Ernestine Schumann-Heink fell ill in San Diego the other day, and the news story which told about it added that "she was near exhaustion from work in the NRA campaign."

And you might know, somehow, that if this gallant old lady suffered from over-work it would be because she had been exerting herself in a public cause. That's the kind of person Mme. Schumann-Heink is.

Americans still can remember how she threw herself into war work. Up and down the land she went, using her magnificent voice and her marvelous personality to weld public sentiment into a royal unit.

This year she has been doing the same sort of thing—giving of herself, without stint, at the call of her country.

That she may have the speediest sort of recovery will be the hope of every American. This land holds few finer or more lovable characters than Mme. Schumann-Heink.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Enthusiasts who have radio sets in their cars as well as their homes will be glad to know that municipal permission has been granted in New York for installation of radio sets in taxicabs. Yet others will continue to wonder whether anybody would have thought of having a radio set in a motorcar for pleasure if somebody hadn't first thought of putting it there for profit.

Authors of mystery and detective fiction will no doubt take note that New York policemen are hereafter to be regularly instructed by college professors in the correct use of spoken and written English. When presenting a New York policeman or detective, instead of making him talk like a criminal these authors will make him talk like a college professor.

Knitting Replaced With Volley Ball

HOUSTON, Tex. (UP).—Grandmother has laid aside her knitting and picked up a volley ball and mother has swapped her dust pan for a tennis racket, according to Miss Ethel M. Bowers, field secretary of the National Recreation Association.

Miss Bowers, who travels out of New York, said this state of affairs was due principally to fewer clothes and to a nation-wide movement to educate older women to exercise recreational advantages. "They come to reduce, all right," she said, "but they remain to play. It is a little difficult, at first, because they are a little shy and self-conscious about such things."

"When they finally catch the spirit, however, they have the times of their lives especially the grandmothers."

Miss Bowers advocates dancing—especially in the schools—as a preventive of juvenile delinquency and predicted that repeal of prohibition will send children to playgrounds instead of saloons.

Midland Club Women Show More Interest In State Federation Affairs This Year

Representatives of the federated clubs in Midland are at Austin to-day attending the State Federation convention.

Mrs. John Haley, president of the city federation, Mrs. Creola Vickers, representative of the Fine Arts club, and Miss Mabel Gambel left early this morning and will arrive there in the afternoon.

George T. Abell of the Fine Arts club left Sunday with her sons and her mother, Mrs. L. B. Lancaster of San Antonio, to attend.

Realizing that matters of vital importance to the life of the federation are to arise, club-women here evidenced more interest in this state convention than has been shown in many years. There is the matter of the Permanent Headquarters Building to be decided on, this question having been brought to the forefront with the filing in Dallas district court Wednesday of a suit for $10,000 against the Federation by the construction company. Then, too, there is the election of officers. Two candidates are presenting themselves, Frank B. Slater of Dallas and Mrs. Volney W. Taylor of Brownsville.

Mrs. Leon Goodman, scheduled to sing this afternoon at the opening of the program Wednesday afternoon given by Theophilus Pliz, was not able to attend. Mrs. J. W. Day and Mrs. R. C. Crabb of the Mothers Self Culture club also were unable to go.

Musical Program Heard by Belle Bennett Circle

Mrs. Paul Moore who for several years has collected records of classical music by her favorite composers, gave an instructive talk of Liz at a meeting of the Methodist auxiliary Monday afternoon and played two of his best known compositions, "Liebstrraum" and "Second Hungarian Rhapsody."

Other musical numbers on the program were a piano solo, "Lillian Love Song," played by Miss Mary Bell Pratt, who played the accompaniment for Mrs. Johnnie Ratliff, who sang "Sometime, Somewhere," a sacred composition.

Mrs. J. S. Noland was leader of a program on "The Days of Popular Favor," a continuation of a series of studies on the life of Christ. She was assisted by Mmes. E. J. Voliva, Moore, Terry Elkin, Smith, L. E. Hankins, Fletcher Curry, C. L. Hatter, Jess Prothro, J. M. Speed, the hostess, A. P. Baker and W. I. Pratt. Eighteen members and two visitors, Mrs. D. E. Holster and Miss Pratt, were present.

Presbyterian Circles Announce Future Projects

Circle B of the Presbyterian auxiliary will sponsor a benefit show, "Voltaire," starring George Arliss, Wednesday and Thursday at the Ritz theatre. Funds will go to aid work being done by the organization.

Chapter X DESERT LOVER.

Lola stole sly glances at her rescuer as they rode along, impressed by his poise, evident gentlemanly breeding and his proud position in the saddle.

"Queer place, California," he said in a manner that proclaimed his interest in her without thrusting himself forward. "Insane chaps running around the desert, and all that."

"It's ery . . . nerve-wrecking," responded Lola.

"Nothing like Hollywood though. Have you ever been up there?"

"Why, I—." She hesitated, and Middleton continued quickly. "I stayed it about a week. Then the noisy movie crowd began to get under my hide a bit. Frightful people."

"Don't . . . don't you like the movies?" she ventured to ask.

"I never was inside a movie theatre in my life."

"Oh! It was more of a gasp than an exclamation.

"Look here—you haven't told me your name. Let's go the whole hog."

COMPENSATION

By HELEN WELSHIMER

THEY stand at doors and wait, those quiet women who have few tasks beyond the rooms they keep. They watch the road for one man's eager coming and in their eyes, unfathomed, strangely deep Sid dreams that Eve perchance surprised in Eden, When first she learned through self-inflicted fate, That men ride out at dawn to win new battles, While women keep the hearths bright, clean—and wait.

SO often I have seen them silhouetted, Deep-breasted, eager-eyed, serenely gay, While back of them the rhythm of the freight Throws tapestry on rooms where children play. Strange how a man outlines a woman's pattern, How all her tasks are journeyings to meet The one she loves, when it is dusk and evening Hangs yellow lamps along the waiting street.

Lola.

"Pardon me," said Space. "I'll keep going around the block until my number is flashed."

"Who is he?" asked Gifford, starting after Space. "I mean—he seems to know your name."

"I might as well tell you now," responded Lola, in a small voice. "He was the publicity man in the studio I worked for."

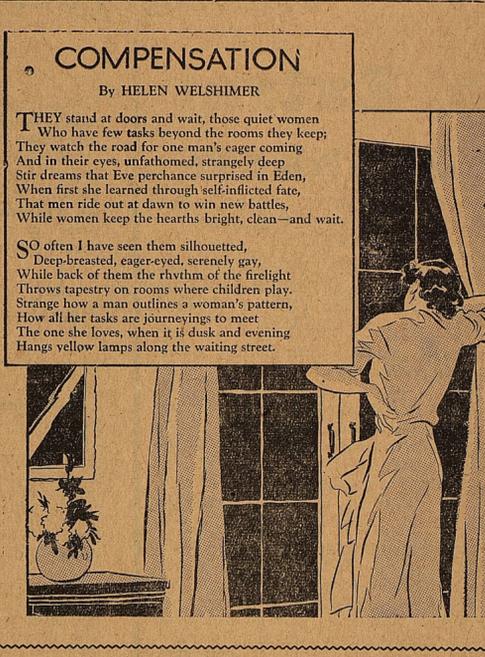

"Studio?" said the puzzled Gifford. "I don't quite . . ."

"Lola Burns is a movie star. Gifford. Most everybody else seems to know it except you. I'm sorry you have to know it now."

"Oh . . ." said the cultured, somewhat embarrassed voice of the Bostonian Gifford.

"I didn't mean to hurt you, Gifford."

The gentleman of culture and refinement awoke in Gifford. "I won't even think about it," he protested.

asked Lola.

"Round the universe! To the moon! I'll put the rings of Saturn on your finger. We'll sleep on Venus. And the Milky Way will be our coverlet!"

"Not even Norma Shearer, or Helen Hayes, in their nicest pictures ever were spoken to like this," breathed Lola, almost with a sob of ecstasy.

"My adored . . ." breathed Gifford, but Lola stopped him and indicated the bungalow which they had approached.

"This is my bungalow, Gifford." He clasped her passionately, pleading. "Lola, May I . . ." Then he regained control of his emotions, spoke rapidly, tensely. "No! We mustn't spoil this! Father and Mother will be here tomorrow, dearest. You'll meet them, and they'll know you and love you as I adore you. I'd better go now." He raised her face gently. "Good night, dearest."

Lola raised her lips to meet his. "Good night," she murmured.

Starry-eyed, she watched him disappear, looked up at the moon and sighed.

She had just gone inside when there came a gentle knock at the door. With a little cry of happiness she ran to open it.

"Listen, Lola," said Space Hanlon, starting to step into the bungalow. "I just thought—He got no farther. She slammed the door shut in his face, sat down on a couch.

Silence. Then the window blind over the couch upon which she rested, was pushed in and Space's head appeared.

"Say, who is that adagio dancer?"

Precious stones are composed of very simple elements. An opal, for instance, is flint and water, while the blue of the sapphire is the chemical action of one grain of iron on 100 of alumina.

tion will be taken to enforce the fence-removal order until after congress has had an opportunity to consider legislative proposals dealing with the public domain. We have taken the lead in urging quick enactment of the packer marketing agreement, under which much can be done to remedy conditions and improve prices. Last, but not least, your secretary has spent weeks in Washington pushing for early action on beef-buying by government agencies to lift the surplus from the markets. The bids on the first 15,000,000-pound order of canned beef were due November 6, and similar lots will be purchased every two or three weeks thereafter for several months to come. It should raise the price of old cows immediately, and, I hope, be reflected in other grades.

Assault Case

Monday was Dr. J. E. Moffett of Stanton whose testimony concerning the girl's physical condition indicated that the offense was possible.

Scores of Martin county residents, including numerous character witnesses for the opposing sides, thronged the court room and corridors. Judge Klapproth placed all except the character witnesses under the rule, requiring to stay out of the court room except when called for testimony.

The Watkins case is the only criminal case for the week until Thursday mornin', when murder charges against Arch Morgan and E. Hallmark are docketed. The Morgan case will be called first, it was indicated.

Clean-up Week to Be Observed Here

Mama, you'd better put little Joannie to work after school today picking up trash around the house!

You, Mr. Citizen, pick up the trash in and around your house and put it in sacks or boxes in your alley, and the relief work administration aided by the city with trucks will haul it off for you without cost.

The clean-up week lasts from Thursday of this week through Wednesday of next week, Bob Taggart, relief administration for Midland, announced Tuesday. During these six days men and trucks will be furnished free of charge to assist householders in the removal of trash, debris and what have you that they want removed. The only requirement is that the trash or refuse be placed in alleys in sacks or boxes or some other container.

It's a great chance to get the kids to work for some Christmas money or help clean up just to prove they're good boys, or maybe just because it means a trip behind the woodshed and a peach tree switch for boys who refuse, if there were any woodsheds in Midland and any peach trees and, of course, any boys who don't enjoy work.

Oklahoma Starts Repeal Ratification Machinery

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (UP).—Oklahoma's machinery for a vote on ratification of the prohibition repeal amendment to the federal constitution is in movement.

The earliest date on which an election for delegates to a state repeal convention can be held however, will be about mid-December. County conventions to be followed by others in congressional districts, are in progress now.

Whether a statewide vote will be held before next July's regular primaries depends entirely on Gov. W. H. Murray, who has indicated he will call no special election.

Famous Drink of French Kings Has Been Revealed

NEW ORLEANS, La. (UP).—President Roosevelt's, embargo on foreign liquors aroused Miss Ruth Harrison to the extent that she decided to reveal the secret of her famous Punch Royale while there is still some foreign liquor available.

Miss Harrison, a singing teacher, got the recipe from her ancestors, who were friendly with some of the Kings of France. A royal chef is credited with concocting the drink.

It requires six bottles of white wine, one half bottle of white rum, two bottles of cognac, one bottle of Kirsch (wasser), one bottle of curacao, one-half bottle of very strong green tea.

The liquors are carefully mixed in a "jimmie-pohn" (no one called them demi-johns in the old days), and must not be touched for 24 hours. Then one-third of the concoction is poured into a five-gallon punch bowl. There is enough of it to make three five-gallon bowls of punch.

Then fruits and water are added in the following amounts: one bottle Sirop de Framboise (imported raspberry juice); four bottles of seltzer water; the grated skins of six lemons (but no lemon juice); six pounds of white sugar; one big pineapple and a dozen oranges, cut in cubes; one bottle of cerise maraschino cherries and enough ice to frappe the punch.

BUSINESS DECLINED

GARY, Ind.—The loss of his Blue Eagle meant a decline of 50 per cent in his business, Theodore Rohutus, restaurant proprietor, said today as the emblem was restored to him by the local compliance board after consultation with Washington. Rohutus' Blue Eagle was removed by N. R. A. authorities on October 6, he being the first employer to suffer forcible surrender of the insignia. Immediately so it is said, his business patronage began falling off. There were six Blue Eagles plastered about Rohutus' today. O. boy, am I glad to have 'em! he exclaimed, as he stood back and admired them.

DIVORCE WIFE

OAKLAND, Calif. (UP).—Mrs. Mabel McEchin's seven years of married life were literally severed by a pair of shears. Her successful divorce charges of cruelty against her husband, Robert, were based on an incident in which she lost her entire wardrobe, except a pair of pajamas, because of those scissors. She said her enraged husband methodically attacked her wardrobe from time to time, reducing it to pieces suitable only for a patchwork quilt.

Donald: "Mother, it is cold—nearly half of my class was not there yesterday." Mother: "Cold weather does interfere with school, Donald, but I'm glad you can get there—thanks to our car." Donald: "But, mother, nearly all the other boys who were absent could come in cars but their folks don't even try to use them in cold weather—'cause they can't get them started." Mother: "Maybe, dear, they don't use the right gas and oil—that's practically the only difference between our car and many others. Understand, Donald, people are careless—they fail to get penetrative oil—found only in Germ Processed Motor Oil made by Conoco. Cold oil, even winter grade, unless it is right, makes it hard for the starter to revolve the motor. Conoco Oil helps motors turn over easily and then the Conoco Bronze Gasoline acts at the first spark and the motor starts at once."

Donald: "Mother, I should think the school board would make all parents use Conoco." Mother: "They couldn't do that, Donald, but it would be a good idea if the parents themselves would find out why their cars wouldn't start and buy Conoco. And I imagine they would if they knew it would save them money also."
