

PLANNINGS SUBJECTS RELEASED

Institute of Business to Be Started Here on Monday

Here Three Days

A three-day Institute of Business will be presented in Midland, beginning Dec. 4 at 7:30 under the direction of Henry W. Stanley, nationally known authority on economics and business administration, according to an announcement issued by the Midland chamber of commerce retailers committee.

This business course which is being offered without charge to the local merchants and salespeople, is a new service being given by the trade extension division of the Dallas chamber of commerce. Through this unusual opportunity to study modern business methods, a new chapter in trade development of the Southwest is being written.

The institute will be held at the Crystal ball room of Hotel Scharbauer each evening beginning Monday, from 7:30 to 9:30 o'clock. Every man and woman in the business world here having selling or advertising problem will be interested in this series of lectures and will obtain valuable information on business administration and salesmanship. Stanley will deliver two lectures each night on subjects of salesmanship, merchandising and public contacts.

Each day will be spent by Stanley in visiting merchants and business men where individual store problems will be discussed and analyzed. For the last six years he has conducted similar institutes in the larger cities of the South and West and has gained an enviable reputation as an authority on business conditions in this part of the nation.

Commenting by letter on the course which is to be presented here, R. L. Thornton, president of the Mercantile Bank and Trust Company of Texas, and chairman of the trade extension committee of the Dallas chamber of commerce, has explained how it is possible for the Dallas wholesale market to originate such phenomenal services without cost to the local merchants.

"We realize Dallas, as a manufacturing and jobbing center, can grow only in proportion to its trade territory," said Thornton.

"It is our duty to the merchants of the Southwest and a pleasure to Dallas business interests to present this institute. Therefore, we make available the services of Stanley in the belief that his knowledge of retail merchandising will be invaluable to your merchants and that the Dallas market is presenting a service that will win it many friends.

"Stanley's services will be available as time permits in every section of the five states that find in Dallas a complete wholesale market. Within recent years the growth and development of the Dallas market has been phenomenal. Thousands of buyers throughout this territory now know they may purchase merchandise particularly adapted to the Southwest on a basis of price competitive with that of any other market and with the assurance of overnight delivery. In millinery and ready-to-wear lines, Dallas has become not only a Southwestern but a national market.

Within recent years the semi-annual style show presentation during the spring and fall market season have become an institution and the thousands of buyers who attend these events know they will gain authority in information on style-right merchandise."

The Midland chamber's retail committee invites merchants, business men and salespeople of this city to attend Stanley's institute without any charge or obligation.

MONTREAL (U.P.)—Canada regained her customary position as leading exporter of wheat to Switzerland during the July to September period, according to a report issued by the Canadian Trade Commissioner. Canada's wheat sales were 57,000 tons, or 40 per cent of the sales of Switzerland for the period. Argentina was in second position, and Hungary was third.

Planes Due for Sharp Marking Down of Price, Sloan Informed by Department

Belief that the salvation of civilian aviation lies in mass production, with the resultant manufacture of thousands of small, economically operating planes, apparently is not held only by aviators and airport managers, but by the department of commerce itself.

A form letter from the department to Harvey Sloan, manager of Sloan, Inc., Midland, not only gives Sloan his opinion, but goes so far as to ask whether he would be interested in buying a plane such as that generally described, specifications of which were partly listed in the letter.

The plane, according to Eugene L. Vidal, director of aeronautics, would be a product of volume production and consumption, retail for a popular price and give the proper impetus to an increase in the number of airports, flying schools, flying clubs and pilots who fly only for pleasure.

"It is a comparatively easy task to design and turn out on a volume-production scale a small airplane which will sell for around $700," Vidal wrote Sloan. "Such a craft would be a 2-place, low-wing monoplane, constructed of a new steel alloy, fitted with an 8-cylinder small-bore engine of about 4,000 r. p. m., and a geared propeller. The landing speed would be about 20 miles per hour, using air brakes."

"The plane would be rugged and durable and one that would require very little attention. In fact, it is entirely possible for it to be operated for the full span of its life without major overhauls. Rather than subject the airplane to a major overhaul after several years of service, it probably would be more economical to purchase a new one when that time arrived. Arrangements would be made for selling the plane on a credit basis."

"It occurs to the department that many pilots, student pilots and their friends would be interested in purchasing a plane of the general description and under the conditions mentioned above. However, before the aircraft industry undertakes volume production of such an airplane, it would need to know the extent of the market for such a product. If a favorable reaction follows, a first volume of 10,000 planes may be planned. Therefore, in an effort to assist the industry in this regard, and to limit all possible encouragement to the development, through production, of a popular priced, exceedingly safe and reliable airplane which will be easy to operate and economical to maintain, we are transmitting this communication to you for reaction."

Attached to the letter was a question blank, which Sloan was asked to fill out and return to the department. This, signifying he would be glad to buy such a plane and that several of his friends likely would be interested also.

"There is no reason, except for lack of mass production and buying parties which will be easy to operate and economical to maintain, Sloan said. "A plane has many less parts than automobiles, and can be constructed much cheaper by mass production than can automobiles. A company makes expensive machinery to build planes, but gets so few orders, comparatively, that the machinery soon is outmoded and new machinery is necessary. Progress of aviation models has outstripped demand for planes. That has kept the price to the skies. Aviation leaders hope to see this condition reversed."

The following story by an 18-year-old boy who claimed he was the leader of the Holmes-Thurmond lynching mob was told to Robert C. Elliott, Special United Press Correspondent, one of a staff of men on duty at San Jose.

BY ANTHONY CATALBU (Copyright 1933 By United Press) SAN JOSE, Calif., (U.P.)—I was the first one of the gang to break into the jail.

I came to town in the afternoon and saw the crowd around the jail and heard that Brooke Hart's body had been found. I decided to organize a necktie party. I went out to my father's ranch on Capital Avenue and got some rope for the hanging.

Then I went all over town in my flannel roaster and passed out the word. "We're going to have a lynching at the jail at 11 o'clock tonight."

Eleven o'clock was the dead line. I told everyone. Mostly I went to the speakeasies and rounded up the gang there. That is why so many of the mob were drunk.

We had the word passed over all the streets of San Jose. So that night the mob ran streaming around the jail. We made three attempts to batter the door. The tear gas poured out and got some of the boys' down.

But it was worse on the officers inside. One of our fellows picked up a tear bomb and threw it in the jail. But when we broke into the jail I was scared stiff.

I was ready to back out. The thing that scared me was seeing the screen to the cell block torn down. I thought, "They'll get us inside there and lock us up for good."

But once the screen crashed, I dashed in and ran up the stairs after some deputy sheriffs. I was the first one of the gang to get on the second floor, where Thurmond was located.

Four or five of us made the first rush for the cell. The deputies pleaded with us not to take the prisoners.

Deputy Buffington, the jailer, with tears, streaming down his face said: "Boys let us kneel in prayer and pray to God in heaven that you take the right man."

One fellow dropped down on his knees at once in the aisle and all the rest of us fellows of the gang all knelt in silent prayer. Then the prayer was broken up when a drunk guy yelled, "Amen, Brother Ben!"

We took the keys away from the deputies and broke into Thurmond's cell on the second floor. We missed seeing him the first time that we looked. He was hiding up on top of the closet.

When we found him, one of the guys took him down and he fell, struck his head on the floor. Thurmond never said a word from the time we seized him until he was dead. I think he was faking unconsciousness.

Two officers identified him for us. We dragged him to the park and tried to make him talk. I lifted his eyelids, and his eyes flickered, and he showed very plainly that he knew everything that was happening. There was just playing dead or something.

Part of the gang rushed Holmes' cell and he told us he was Pierce. But we had the goods on him. There was a fellow in the party who knew him and a deputy sheriff also whispered: "Boys, you've got the right fellow."

He said afterwards his name was Johnson, but finally admitted he was Holmes. The tear gas didn't seem to bother me very much. The word spread around that it was going to be Santa Clara University student lynching. But I'm not a Santa Clara student. I didn't go to college. Probably some of the college boys joined us, but I think we got most of our recruits from speakeasies.

I knew Brooke Hart by sight, but never had spoken to him. I missed seeing his terrible murder should be avenged. I found that several hundred others thought the same thing.

1621 — Thanksgiving — 1933

They went to church, that day, in Plymouth town, To thank God for His goodness. For they had known hunger, pain and want, gone thinly clad through iron winter, through the gauntlet down to death himself, and let him take his toll, And now they had won through. And so they prayed Their word of thanks, and stood up unafraid And faced the future with undaunted soul.

Good Attendance At Union Service

A good attendance marked the union Thanksgiving program at the First Methodist church last night, in which pastors of several churches participated.

The program followed: Professional, the Rev. E. B. Chancellor, Hymn, page 146, "Faith of Our Fathers"; Prayer, the Rev. W. J. Coleman, Hymn, page 238, "America"; Offering, offertory to be played by Mrs. Holt, Lowell.

Mrs. Peck's Ducks Escape from Pen

A pen break here two days ago has occasioned much worry for Mrs. Hal Peck, West Texas game commissioner who is visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Parks, 202 South G.

Mrs. Peck told a reporter that the green headed mallard and three brown heads escaped from a pen. All have clipped wings, and were given her as a present by fish hatchery employes at Kerrville, where she hunted recently. Several reported they had seen the ducks, but none had been captured early this afternoon.

A reward is offered for their return.

Midlanders Talk To Rural Studes

Visits to two of the county schools, Prairie Lee and Pleasant View, were made Wednesday by the county schools superintendent, Principals Raggat and Fleming called the board of education and the county judge made brief talks. The Midland chamber of commerce secretary made brief Thanksgiving talks.

Under plans of the county commissioners court, sanitary improvements are to be made soon at these and the other schools in the county. The Pleasant View campus is especially well improved, having been leveled. Several of the schools are already planning to have Christmas trees.

PILOT BALLOON SETS RECORD

HAVRE, Mont. (U.P.)—A pilot balloon, used for weather observation purposes, has set a new mileage record. The Havre weather bureau released the balloon Oct. 22. Two days later it had landed at Malcolm, Iowa, 930 miles away. The previous long flight record was 290 miles, from Havre to Ray, N. D.

WUGS PUMPKIN GROWN

EMPEROR GOOSE KILLED

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore. (U.P.)—An emperor goose ventured from its Asiatic haunts recently and was shot on Tule lake, near here, by J. E. Carlson, Los Angeles. The bird is of rare species, seldom seen far south of the Canadian border.

DEMAND POLL TAX PROOF

CONCORD, N. H. (U.P.)—The New Hampshire resident must show proof that his poll tax has been paid for the year before he can register a motor vehicle, or get a license to fish and hunt.

AH! A LADY IS NOW GRANDPA IN ANGELO

SAN ANGELO.—There's a "lady" in San Angelo who's also a "grandpa" and this is something that's new under the sun.

EASTERN SHORE JUBILANT WHEN NEWS ANNOUNCED

Crowds Greet 4 Men As Heroes After Their Release

PRINCESSANNE, Md., Nov. 29. (U.P.)—The eastern shore celebrated jubilantly this afternoon as local authorities released four suspects arrested by state troops and charged with participating in the lynching of George Armwood, negro.

Two circuit judges, sitting jointly, dismissed the charges on grounds of insufficient evidence. In effect, this was in defiance to Governor Ritchie, who asked for their prosecution.

The men, after being returned from Baltimore, where they were taken yesterday by 300 troops, were greeted as heroes by happy crowds.

No evidence was likely to be prepared against them. Three hundred negroes were "asked" to leave the town for the night.

They did.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Nov. 29. (U.P.)—Missouri tonight started an investigation into the lynching and burning of a confessed negro attacker by a mob last night.

Assistant Governor Guy Park will do everything to apprehend leaders of the mob which killed Lloyd Warner.

Indications are, however, city authorities will take no action.

New Music Makes Good Headway With Music

NEW YORK. (U.P.)—Music is making good progress in Russia under the Soviet regime, along with other arts, in the opinion of Sergei Ramasky, who has just come to the United States with his wife, Marie Williams, soprano after six years of singing in many parts of Russia.

"He vigorously disputed the impression prevailing here that opera, for instance, has been distorted and twisted in Russia into Soviet propaganda. The operas are, however, presented with a change to bring their interest more in line with the Russian temperament."

"Naturally enough," he said, "there is often a shifting of emphasis. In the 'Barber of Seville' and 'The Marriage of Figaro,' for example, the satirical elements are stressed, and when 'Romeo and Juliet' is staged, whether as an opera or a play, the individual woes of hero and heroine are subordinated to the revolt of youth against crabbled age."

"In 'Tosca,' Scarpia is shown not merely as an infatuated police chief, but as the heartless toll of government, and much is made of Scarpia's relentless pursuit of Angelotti, the political refugee."

The Radamsky will return to Russia for further appearances after singing in this country for six weeks.

CARRIES NOSE TO HOSPITAL

NEWPORT, Vt. (U.P.)—Melvin Willey, who was in an automobile accident recently, walked into the Orleans County hospital with a piece of his nose in his hand. It took 18 stitches to replace the part that had been cut off, but doctors said that it will be as good as ever.

MISSOURI BANS PADDLING

COLUMBIA (U.P.)—If new students do not favor paddling they should attend the University of Missouri. Paddling of freshmen "in any shape or form" has been abolished by the student body of the school.

SPECIAL PROGRAM

A special program for children will be presented under auspices of the Fine Arts Teachers association of Midland at 2:30 Friday afternoon, Dec. 8, at the library.

Wide attendance is expected to include children from rural communities.

THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION

I, Franklin D. Roosevelt, president of the United States of America, do set aside and appoint Thursday, the 30th day of November, 1933, to be a day of thanksgiving for all our people. May we on that day in our churches and in our homes give humble thanks for the blessings bestowed upon us during the year past by Almighty God. May we recall the courage of those who founded the nation, the steadfastness of those who in every succeeding generation have fought to keep pure the ideal of equality and opportunity and hold clear the goal of mutual help in time of prosperity as in time of adversity.

May we ask guidance in more surely learning the ancient truth that greed and selfishness and striving for undue riches can never bring lasting happiness or good to the individual or to his neighbor.

May we be grateful for the passing of dark days; for the new spirit of dependence on one another; for the closer unity of all parts of our wide land; for the greater friendship between employers and those who toil; for a clearer knowledge by all nations that we seek no conquests and ask only honorable engagement by all peoples to respect the lands and rights of their neighbors; for the brighter day to which we can win through by seeking the help of God in a more unselfish striving for the common bettering of mankind.

In witness hereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Seal of the United States to be affixed.

(Signed) FRANKLIN ROOSEVELT.

Tells of Thrills of Whaling

Whaling, one of the most thrilling and adventurous of careers, is fraught with danger according to Captain Mike Dolan, who is in charge of "Colossus" the gigantic mammal which will be exhibited at the T. and P. depot next Saturday.

Captain Dolan explains: Even with modern equipment, one who has been discovered that precludes sending men out in small boats to fasten chains and other rigging devices on the whale.

"Many times whales thought to be dead, give a diving sweep of those power tails that can break the strongest of small boats into bits. However, firms like the Pacific Whaling company, sponsors of the exhibit here, have instructed captains to wait several hours to make sure the whale is dead before they proceed with the loading operations.

"Danger is very real, however, but not nearly as great today as in the early days. Once on a long voyage our ship came upon a crew of sixteen whales in one of the lagoons of Madalen bay. Nine boats were launched and sent into the center of the school. Five harpoons landed and then started one of the most savage and prolonged combats in my varied experience as a whale hunter. Two boats were smashed and sent down, while the crew swam safely to escape the lashing tails. Five others were stove in so badly that constant bailing was necessary to keep them afloat long enough to get back to the mother ship.

A corps of experienced whalers are always on duty during the exhibition to tell the visitors interesting and educational facts concerning the sea monsters in addition to some of their own experiences in hunting them.

The pennant-winged night jar wears long streamers from each of its wings.

Showing at Yucca

Spencer Tracy and Loretta Young in "Man's Castle," a Columbia Picture at the Yucca preview tonight at 11:15 and on Thanksgiving day.

"Man's Castle" coming to the screen at the Yucca theatre, has been called "The Seventh Heaven" of talking pictures. "Seventh Heaven," as you may remember was, and still is, hailed as the greatest production of the silent screen. It was directed by Frank Borzage, made immortal stars out of Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell, and was counted by the country's critics as one of the ten best productions of 1924.

"Man's Castle" features Spencer

Tracy and Loretta Young, already listed among the finest players of the screen. They are not unknown, as were Miss Gaynor and Farrell at the time of "Seventh Heaven." In addition, Mr. Borzage has had years more of experience since he made the silent picture. It is safe to predict that "Man's Castle" will do for talking pictures what "Seventh Heaven" did for the silent screen.

In addition to the stellar pair, the cast includes such capable players as Marjorie Rameau, Glenda Farrell and Walter Connolly.

REMARKABLE IMPROVEMENT WASHINGTON, D. C.—That N. R. A. has been instrumental in a "remarkable record of business improvement," is the gist of a special letter just sent by Roger Babson, noted economist, to his clients, according to published statements made here today.

As an answer to those who have been foretelling the collapse and failure of N. R. A., Babson pointed out in his letter, which was entitled "The Truth About N. R. A.," that quite the opposite was taking place. Instead of approaching a breakdown, the economist said that N. R. A. has been the cause of great business improvement during recent months. If non-compliance or hostility weakened the effectiveness of N. R. A., "we are going to be in very serious trouble," Babson warned. He particularly inveighed against "reluctance to help" and "lack of confidence" according to published quotations from his special letter.

HIGH SPOTS IN BUSINESS

The Dun and Bradstreet Weekly Trade Review said: "The entire trade picture has been changed almost completely by the momentum gained in retail distribution, following the vigorous movement which started a week earlier." In many of the cities from which reports were received, the review asserted, the largest sales for the season were recorded and stocks started to move at an accelerated pace.

A 30 per cent increase in lumber production this year over 1932 was predicted by the National Lumber Manufacturers' association. The estimate was based on the first 44 weeks.

New York City members banks have increased commercial loans by $162,000,000 during the past 4 weeks, while loans on securities were reduced $223,000,000 during the same period.

Sales of department stores in the metropolitan area of New York in the first 13 months of the year of November were 2.2 larger than in the same part of 1932, the Federal Reserve Bank of New York estimated.

Nineteen ships will be added soon to the fleets of the American Smelting and American Export lines to handle the freight which is expected to be developed as a result of the recognition of Russia by the United States. Moving contrary to the usual seasonal trend, steel operations last week were higher and the adjusted index moved to 40.6 from 38 in the previous week. For the corresponding week last year the index was 27.4.

DEPRESSION LOSS ESTIMATED

MONTREAL (UP)—It is estimated by one source here that the economic loss to Canada due to the depression totals $11,000,000 in terms of money, or about $9,000,000 in terms of purchasing power after allowance has been made for changes in the cost of living. The estimate is made on the assumption that the country might have continued its progress after 1928 at a rate equal to the natural increase in population, about 1.5 per cent annually under ordinary conditions.

DECORATES DECORATOR

PARIS (UP)—M. Messier, has been given the Legion of Honor, for which he waited all of his life. For more than half a century his name has been associated with Paris theatrical life as a decorator. A short while ago he amused himself by sending a picture to the Paris salon and to his great delight it was refused with the notation "too immature." Messier began his career by decorating a dance hall. Since then he

Most of us still have the gas, lights and water on and are getting something to eat. Too many of us are talking about hard times just because we are still driving cars which are two or three models out of date. Boiling down our troubles, they seem much worse than they are. People are going back to work all over the country. We are having to make sacrifices in order for this to be possible but we should be glad we are able to do so. ## Turkey Goes into Background and Blue Eagle Is Bird We Are Thankful for Now

Are we approaching a new kind of Thanksgiving?

This year we have two birds to be thankful for on this great American holiday. Beside the turkey—emblem of the Pilgrim Fathers—we have the blue eagle of the national recovery act. To this blue eagle the whole world is looking for a "balanced abundance" for all alike.

Today, in 1933, we live in the midst of an abundance never dreamed of by the early Pilgrims, but we do not balance production and distribution. Crops are destroyed while bread lines form on the sidewalks.

The Puritans of the first Thanksgiving rejoiced over a little corn and a few turkeys. They never dreamed of the abundance we possess today. But, whether we like it or not, we find that forces flowing out of the World war and scientific methods of mass production have pushed us so far out of balance that we must plan together to attain a second Thanksgiving when there will be a balanced abundance for all.

Already over four million people have found jobs under the blue eagle, but President Roosevelt has declared that it will depend largely on "organized womanhood" to meet the crisis this winter.

At this season of the year, it is interesting to think of that first Thanksgiving three hundred and twelve years ago. The rugged God-fearing individuals of that early Puritan colony were tremendously thankful to God for what seems to us slender enough blessings. They met nature and nature's God face to face.

These hardy people were in an utterly unfriendly country. They had rude cabins, unfitted to shut out the extreme cold. Their clothes were worn and the means of making new ones were almost as limited as the food. They had hunger throughout the winter, many of them starving to death and many more dying of disease. The Indians were bitterly hostile and a constant menace. Yet these pious ancestors of ours, after gathering one good crop, had the courage to thank God for the blessings heaped upon them.

The example of the Pilgrims is glorious in more ways than one, but their faith in a Supreme Power to the point of offering thanks for the first harvest, is something we may well emulate in our own generation.

It was through the influence of a woman, Sarah Josepha Hale, editor of Godey's Lady's Book, that President Lincoln set aside the fourth Thursday in November as a national holiday, although it had been observed by many states since the first public and solemn celebration by the Pilgrim Fathers in 1621.

How differently we observe this autumn festival today. For many Thanksgiving day means going to a football game with a turkey dinner afterward. It is a time for family reunions and family dinners with turkey and all the accompanying culinary delicacies; students return home from college to spend the holidays and enliven the social calendar with dances and parties.

We heartily endorse that program and are putting our every effort back of it.

And let us not be unmindful of the Legend of this Day—let us pay tribute to the valor of the Pilgrim fathers and mothers. Theirs were lives of tragedy and heartaches, and let us pause today long enough to reverently pay tribute to our forefathers.

CRANE PROMISES TO SHOW PLENTY OF STUFF TODAY

MIDLAND HOPES TO OPPOSE HEAVY CLUB WITH VERSATILE OFFENSE AND AN AIR-TIGHT ZONE PASS DEFENSE

The first invasion of Lackey field by the crack high school football team of Crane will be met by a Bulldog squad that has had plenty of time to iron out a stout defense and a deceptive offense.

The club meets this afternoon at 2:30. A record holiday crowd is expected, despite the fact that large numbers will be away at traditional and colorful college and university thrills. For Crane has a flair for showing the turnstile customers a sensational brand of ball, in which there is intermixed power, deception and a score-blasting air attack.

Midland coaches have been drilling an aerial defense into their charges all week and checking up on offense. Defense against passes has been the Bulldog club's weakest department of play of late, tackling and blocking have improved considerably. The fact that bullet heavens into the ozone have proved Crane's most effective gaining play may mean that the invaders will toss the pigskin about all afternoon. If so the crowd will be well repaid for gate toll, no matter how the score results.

On the completion ends of these passes are generally to be found Shackleford and Tomason, a couple of rangy ends, or Brannon, a youngster who goes in to relieve either.

Tomason and Shackleford are not the only men in the line who rate high praise. At tackles are B. Chaffin and Virdell, at guards H. Stanford and Butler, at center Smith. All are big and powerful. White, quarterback, is cool and a good field general. The halves, Padgett and Ham are not so big, but they tackle with such force that Wink runners were repeatedly spilled by them last week. Halfback Simpson, ace passer, hits a line like Taurus, scouts report.

Opposed to this heavy club is the light assortment of Midland players, but the Bulldogs hint they may show Crane a thing or two in speed and versatility.

PAJAMAS MAKE DICTIONARY

PASIS (UP)—The 40 immortals of the French Academy, after serious and lengthy consideration, have decided to incorporate in their new and forthcoming dictionary the words "pajama" and "quatre-saisons," or "four seasons." This is considered a step forward, and each revision of the national dictionary evidences a tendency toward modernism which is definitely frowned upon by many and cheered by others.

TRANSPORT POLICY GAINS

MONTREAL (UP)—Canada's policy of carrying on his trade via Canadian transport and port channels has gained considerable ground during the depression. In the fiscal year 1933 only 14 per cent of Canada's exports to European countries passed through the United States, compared with 40 to 50 per cent of more six or seven years ago.

FOLLOWING THE FAITH

The American nation was founded on Faith . . . a Faith in the future . . . a Faith in man to man . . . an undying Faith in the Creator of the world. In this day of strife and effort to bring about harmony and prosperity, we should pause in our activities and give praise to the Faith exemplified by our Pioneer Americans, who set the foundation for a nation that would not tolerate intolerance, a nation of liberty, a nation of peace.

TECH READY FOR KANSAS ELEVEN

LUBBOCK.—Two teams with only one defeat each to mar their season's record will wind up the year here this afternoon in the Kansas State-Texas Tech clash. The Texas eleven has split even in its games with Southwest's conference member teams this year. The Matadors lost to Southern Methodist by a 14 to 0 score early this year but walloped Baylor 13 to 0.

FROGS, MUSTANGS BATTLE ON SAT.

FORT WORTH.—It has been six years since a Southern Methodist football eleven tasted victory over a Texas Christian team. It has been four years since the Methodists scored on the Christians. Frog fans are fearful lest the Mustangs pick next Saturday for their day of revenge. Stranger things have happened, for when these traditional foes meet, past showings go for naught. The two schools have met on the gridiron 15 times, in a series inaugurated back in 1915. Seven vertisements, sales solicitations or otherwise, by the dealer, his salesmen or employees.

Price and Terms The code absolutely prevents any manipulation of price, and provides that the price of any new car shall be the manufacturer's list price. Additional charges added to f. o. b. cost must be covered by detailed specifications. Transportation charges shall be the average cost of transportation from factory to dealer figured on all shipments received by dealer during a 60-day period as shown by dealer's sworn statement. Exorbitant charges on obsolete models and open cars which have a seasonal market only.

Installation Plan Sales The code provides that no dealer shall charge a higher rate than the highest rate, or a lower rate than the lowest rate charged by regularly established finance companies operating in the same district. Thus exorbitant charges on installment plan sales are made impossible.

Delivery of Car The code absolutely protects the car buyer against any secret tampering with the car or use of the car, or adjustment of the speedometer before delivery. The purpose and effect of this code provision is to assure to the customer full knowledge of the condition of the car and the mileage covered by the motor vehicle which is offered for sale.

Used Car Allowances and Sales The code establishes a fair, sound and simple method of determining trading allowances. The allowance to be given for a car offered as part payment will be established by the average of prices recently paid, in definitely established trading areas. Thus the trade allowance will be the market price of current value of the vehicle as determined by the natural law of supply and demand, and thus both trade allowance and sale price for used cars are automatically controlled by the natural forces of the local market.

Under the retail automobile dealers' code the public, the dealer and his employees are assured of a fair deal in every detail. There is no need for sharp dealing in purchase, sale or service. The dealer is more permanently and solidly established and insured against losses and abuses which in the past have been reflected adversely upon the car buyer and owner. Honesty in workmanship in merchandising, in salesmanship are assured to the public by the government. The capricious, conscientious dealer is protected by the government, and enabled

New Mex. Animal Trainer

Trains Lions for Boxing

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (UP)—E. Wilson, animal trainer who taught tricks to Leo, familiar movie trade-mark lion, has five promising cubs under his tutelage at the zoo here, and he hopes to make wrestlers of two of them and boxers of two others.

Wilson is conducting a training school for the cubs.

The three youngest are Prince, Cleo, and Queenie. Their parents are Duke and Queen, long-time residents of the local animal park. Their older brother, Bozo, has missed considerable schooling because of a long seizure of rheumatism. His cage mate, Buddy, has been awaiting his partner with whom he will take lessons in wrestling.

Wilson plans to teach Prince and Queenie to box.

"Queenie would make a fine fighting lion," said Wilson, "she'll trade blow for blow."

And from the cage of Duke and Queen comes word that Wilson soon may have a kindergarten pupil—possibly a jiu jitsu prospect, for the birth of another lion cub is expected daily.

Old Mountain Cabins Offer Jobless Refuge

KALISPEL, Mont. (UP)—Seeking relief from rental worries, scores of hairy Montanans have "gone pioneer" near here to produce an acute education problem.

Inspired by depression conditions, many families from small towns scattered throughout the Rocky Mountain area have deserted urban homes to live in abandoned "prospectors' cabins in the forests.

Finding an empty hut, the new-day backwoodsmen chink up its cracks with mud and moss, repair fireplaces and broken windows, and "hole-in" for the winter, according to Lillian L. Peterson, school superintendent of Flathead county.

Miss Peterson admires the resourcefulness of the families, but said they were causing rural educators serious concern.

PROCLAMATION

Whereas, the advent of the holiday season with all of its prospective pleasure brings to mind the joy and satisfaction arising from the ability to make others happy, and whereas, for many years there has been conducted an annual national drive of Christmas seals by various tuberculosis associations, the proceeds of which in the past have furnished the financial means that aided and accelerated the triumphant endeavors of the medical profession and benevolent and charitable organizations to curb tuberculosis, and "Whereas, confronted as we are with the necessity of continuing this fight in our own community. "Now, therefore, I, Elliott H. Barron, Judge of the County of Midland, the State of Texas, do proclaim to all of the citizens of Midland County The Annual Sale of Christmas Seals to be conducted from this day to the beginning of the year of 1934, at the same time urging them to lend every support to this great humanitarian endeavor by purchasing these seals of surety thus insuring that the benevolent work of eradicating tuberculosis will be consummated. "Given under my hand and in the Seal of the County of Midland, the State of Texas, this the second day of December, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and thirty three. CLAIMS WORLD ALFALFA TITLE

MILE CITY, Mont. (UP)—"Alfalfa Seed Capital of the World" is the new title claimed for Mile City. More than 1,000,000 pounds of alfalfa seed already are in warehouses of the city, and an additional 4,000,000 to 5,000,000 pounds anticipated. An unusually heavy crop was obtained this year, due to favorable weather conditions.

Our domestic turkeys of today are not descendants of the wild turkeys which graced the tables of the Pilgrims. Sixteenth century Spanish explorers found the ancestors of our tame turkey in a zoological garden at Montezuma, Mexico, and took a few of the birds back to Spain, whence they spread to England and eventually back to America.

The losses of Great Britain and Ireland amounted to over $15,000,000 during the first four months of 1933.

The piano playing record is held by Mile. Gnanou, she played from Mendelssohn, 5595 notes in four minutes five seconds.

San Angelo Star Gazers Make Their Own Telescopes, and They Are Really Powerful

SAN ANGELO—Telescopes, more powerful than many sold commercially, have been, and are being made by star gazing amateurs of San Angelo and its territory. At least one such instrument is in service here which cost its builder about $65 for materials and which probably could not be replaced on the market for less than $500.

Moreover, in grinding their reflectors, these amateurs use a simple apparatus—consisting of a 15-cent oil lamp, a bit of tin and an old razor blade—which affords one of the most accurate measurements known to science. In fact a variance of one millionth of an inch may be detected by use of the combination.

And there are plenty of other interesting things about the little-known activities of those whose hobby is in the sky, and among whose ranks are found some prominent business and professional men. For instance the fact, that a year or so might be required to perfect a reflector is but a small item to most of them. Astronomy is a study in which time, as most folks count it, plays a minor role.

Takes Plenty of Time
What's more, perhaps a year will be spent (at odd times, of course) in grinding a reflector—only to find that it is not the exact shape required. And when the word "exact" is used it means just that. Variance of the slightest fraction means that the planets will not be reflected correctly. So, when the slightest fraction is found, there is nothing to do but to start over. But, the heavier searcher will tell you, that is a part of the game.

Some of the more actively interested persons in amateur telescopes and astronomy here include Frank Friend, surveyor for University of Texas lands; Jess A. Conklin, his chief assistant; Oscar Ruffini; W. C. Perkins, druggist; and LeRoy Ingraham. All of these are of San Angelo. There are more here and in this section. Mr. Ruffini, long interested in amateur astronomy as a hobby, was one of the first to start the idea of building the telescopes.

There are three chief elements to the telescope, reflector, prism, and eye piece. The reflector is the most important, and it is the main concern of the amateur. The prism simply turns the reflected light rays by a 90 degree angle so that it may be seen in the eye piece.

Telescope in Use Now
Friend, who has been interested in astronomy since about 1896 spent between a year and a half and two years, at odd times, in perfecting his reflector in the basement of his home in Glenmore Addition. He completed it about a year ago. The instrument magnifies 191 times, but the size of the reflection may be regulated by the eye piece. For instance, the moon can be brought out in such a size that only a part of it may be seen at a time and that it is necessary to move the instrument around to see other parts. Or, by changing the eye-piece, the entire moon may be seen in less detail. Incidentally the moon and its mountains are among the most frequently watched sights of the sky.

Other details seen only in the more powerful telescopes may also be easily seen through the instrument built by Mr. Friend.

Must Be a Parabola
The homemade reflector was shaped from a piece of glass one inch thick and six inches in diameter. The glass is ground, by using hand power only, in a concave shape known as a parabola. This exact shape must be obtained before the glass is polished and the silver coating applied—which in itself is a ticklish job.

Determining when the glass has been ground to a parabola is a promising—but highly precise—apparatus which includes the oil lamp, razor blade and piece of tin is employed.

The tin is rolled into a chimney placed on the oil lamp. A tiny hole is made in the tin. The ray which comes from the lamp is thrown on the glass. As it is reflected the razor blade is placed so it divides the ray in half. If and only if, the parabola has been ground, it will be so indicated on the glass.

To Make Larger Reflector
Friend plans next to build a 12-inch reflector and has already secured a special heat resisting glass to make it from.

The San Angeloans are eligible for membership in the Amateur Telescope Makers of America which has its headquarters in Vermont and which had an exhibit at A Century of Progress in Chicago which caused much comment.

Amateur telescope makers and astronomers are accredited with some of the more important discoveries of the heavens and with making latest advances in designing of reflector. Their experiments include use of various metals other than silver for surfacing the reflectors. Aluminum, gold, chromium, tin and bismuth copper were used on various of the reflectors shown at Chicago. Aluminum was the most promising as a substitute, experts said, because it reflects light of the stars better.

I AM THANKFUL

I am so thankful every day
For all the many things
And when I would enumerate
My thoughts fly as eagles.
They fly so fast from this to that
While each good thing confessing.
So do not chide if I omit
A small or greater blessing.

I'm thankful first there is a God—
He sent His Son that I
Might be redeemed through His own blood.

My soul shall never die,
I'm thankful for the little birds
That sing the lonely day through.
I'm thankful for the little brooks
With babbling noises, too.

I'm thankful for the many friends
Their kindness every day—
They fill my life with memories
That will not fade away.
And for the many kindly words
When I am feeling blue,
I'm thankful, too, for every smile,
They cheer and help me, too.

I'm thankful that the showers come
The gentle drops of rain,
They make the pretty flowers soon
Bloom out for me again.
And for the clouds of misty gray
That veil the precious sunshine
And then the glorious sunshine
That comes a peeping through.

I'm thankful, too, for Jesus' love,
That He my Judge will be;
That He deems it not to man
To be a judge for me.
And most of all I'm thankful that
A choice I have been given;
To spend my eternity
In either hell, or heaven!
—Emm. Allen Bailey.

Our Thanks This Day...
On this day of Thanksgiving, our sincere hope is that everyone imbued with the spirit of the Pilgrim Fathers, and that each one will find a few moments for reflection to pay tribute to the Faith exemplified by those sturdy pioneers... We have much to be thankful for, and we should not be unmindful of the happiness, liberty and opportunity that we have.

PIGGLY WIGGLY

ARE YOU WEARING THEM?
Mojud RINGLESS stockings Perfect-Sheer and Crystal-Clear
LOOK!! IT DOESN'T SHOW THE SLIGHTEST RING OR SHADOW!
I CAN HARDLY BELIEVE IT'S TRUE!
IT'S JUST WHAT I'VE BEEN WISHING FOR!
These are some of the things our customers said when we introduced MOJUD'S RINGLESS SHEER stockings. You see, they had been brought up on the idea that a very sheer stocking simply had to show some shadows. But MOJUD settled all that. These new ringless sheers are absolutely clear—not a vestige of a ring or streak—not even a shadow. And the result is—practically all the smart ankles in town are getting themselves encased in MOJUD'S RINGLESS STOCKINGS. If you haven't already discovered them, hurry up! You'll want them for yourself and for your dearest friends.
