

MABRY WATKINS TRIALS BEGUN

INFORMATION ON MISSING BOY IS RECEIVED TODAY

Ransom Demand Sent In a Telegram to Boy's Family

SAN JOSE, Nov. 13. (UP)—A Sacramento telegram to the parents of Brooke Hart, missing youth, suggested a compromise of $20,000 as a ransom instead of $40,000 first asked.

This was apparently the first authentic word received from the abductors of the boy, who disappeared Thursday night.

KLUTAS CONFEDERATE KILLED IN GUN FIGHT

PEORIA, Ill., Nov. 13. (UP)—Russell Hughes, alleged confederate of the notorious Jack Klutas, university graduate and kidnaper, was killed today in a gun battle with detectives, two of whom were wounded.

PROHI METHOD IN TEXAS MOOT

AUSTIN, (UP)—Procedure for Texas to register its vote for repeal of national prohibition is in doubt, other than that the ratification convention delegates will meet in Austin Nov. 24.

The statute providing for the submission of the question and election of convention delegates sets out no procedure, though it is the general understanding a course similar to that followed in casting the state's electoral vote would be followed.

The place for gathering is not designated further than that it shall be in Austin. Following the electoral custom, the session probably will be held in the state senate chamber. The secretary of state calls the presidential electors to order, but the ratification act does not give him that power for the ratification convention.

In the absence of a provision, it is expected the delegates will elect their own chairman and secretary. The convention must certify its action to the secretary of state. He will then certify it to Washington.

Lacking any directing hand, fears have been expressed that enough delegates will not attend to make the ratification legal. Sixteen must attend. Secretary of State Heath has suggested each delegate get in touch with his alternate and notify the alternate if unable to attend. Alternates are expected to communicate with their principals, so one or the other may be present.

Certificates of election are being sent out to the governor to each of the 29 delegates and to the 30 alternates. Two delegates and one alternate have died since their election on Aug. 26.

Following is a list of the delegates and alternates. The number preceding the names indicates the district represented:

- (Each district first name listed is delegate, second alternate.)
- 1. J. A. Ward, M. Pleasant; W. A. McCartney, Sr., Exarkama.
- 2. Tom E. Foster, Kilgore; John C. Gray, Henderson.
- 3. E. M. Mosley, Rusk; Joe H. Kurth, Keltys.
- 4. E. B. Bickett, Liberty; A. C. McFarland, Orange.
- 5. L. A. Barnes, Huntsville; A. G. Gray, Loveland.
- 6. Adam Cone, Palestine; John Currington, Corsicana.
- 7. Alvin C. Flynn, (deceased); Nat Gentry, Sr., Tyler.
- 8. Paul Nunn, Sulphur Springs; W. J. Pollard, Paris.
- 9. R. T. Lipscomb, Bonham; R. S. Reed, Denison.

'You Just Dare'

Gun toting is no fad for Margaret Hise, University of Iowa student. She's in dead earnest, ready for the extortionist who has written several notes to her, one demanding $10,000. Miss Hise, a West Liberty, Ia., co-ed, is shown in her sorority house room, as she loads her revolver before leaving for the class room.

CHURCH JUBILANT; IT'S OUT OF DEBT

Amens, cheers, smiles and toher emotions of joy were registered Sunday morning at the First Baptist church of Midland—the church is out of debt!

When the Rev. Winston F. Borum, pastor, announced that the budget of about $7,800 was subscribed and the old debt of $3,800 paid off, the congregation broke into applause and other more serious minded brethren shouted fervent "amens." The pastor declared, however, that the finance committee was yet to see other members and he called on every member of the church to subscribe to pay something during the fiscal year which started Nov. 1, as some subscribers may move or otherwise be unable to pay their pledges, and, moreover, the budget, the more money can be sent to the state association for missions.

John O. Nobles, chairman of the finance committee, conducted the campaign for funds, which in the face of the depression and drought, made the members jubilant. Mrs. Clarence Scharbauer, member of the finance committee, worked day and night last week to get the funds raised and she and Clarence Scharbauer and Frank Cowden, personally paid off the major part of the old debt. The pastor warmly thanked all members who contributed to the church debt, and particularly Nobles and his fellow workers.

The church was in debt $4,500 when the Rev. Winston F. Borum became pastor two years ago. Now the organization is clear out of debt and is paying as it goes. During the two years' pastorate of the minister, 260 persons have joined the church, 130 of whom were by baptism.

The large congregation Sunday was jubilant, the faces of many plainly reflected resolutions to make the present year the greatest in the history of the Midland organization by work, contributions, cooperation with the pastor, interest in evangelism and all other causes fostered by the denomination. That the gratitude over payment of all obligations of the church was not merely a temporary emotion, was indicated by the large audience which attended the Sunday night service.

Demonstration Agent Returns

CLASS BARBECUE SET FOR NOV. 21

Members of the Evangelists class of the Baptist Sunday school and their husbands and members of the Brotherhood Bible class and their wives, will be entertained at a barbecue given by the latter organization on the evening of November 21 at the Masonic building, it was announced yesterday.

The entertainment is the outgrowth of a contest in which the "south" side beat the "north" last year in the men's class, the Evangelists having previously defeated the men in a contest on the point system.

M. D. Johnson, C. M. Goldsmith and Claude Cowden were named a general committee on details of the affair.

Dale Credits Rep. Stevenson

Coke Stevenson, speaker of the Texas house of representatives, was one of the greatest factors in making possible passage of the bank bill arm remuneration bill, in the opinion of F. C. Dale, Midland farmer who was active in working for the measure.

Dale said that without the favorable handling of the bill by the speaker at the closing sessions of the legislature, it could not have been passed by its proponents. He wrote to Stevenson, thanking him on behalf of the farmers of this section.

The speaker replied to Dale today, acknowledging the local appreciation.

"I have always supported your pink bill worm appropriation," he said. "It is very gratifying to be remembered by those who have had an opportunity to observe men in public life such as you have. Your letter is deeply appreciated, and whenever I can render any service to your people, I want you to remember that I am always ready to do so."

The four-year reign of King Nadir Khan, above, hailed as "The Savior of Afghanistan," was ended with his assassination by an unnamed person said to be a trusted friend who turned traitor. Mohammed Khan, 19-year old son of the dead ruler, immediately was elected to the throne.

BIG ATTENDANCE AT PRES. CHURCH

The Sunday morning service at the Presbyterian church attracted decidedly the largest audience of the year. Early in the hour, Miss Doris Black made an appeal for the Red Cross. The pastor, the Rev. W. J. Coleman, commented that the Red Cross was a service "after the manner of our Lord, 'going about doing good.'"

The day was Armistice Sunday, also the first day of the week designated by the general assembly for prayer and fast for foreign missions. The pastor brought a combination message "Armistice and Missions," using as a theme Isaiah's prediction of "The Golden Age," which will not be known. "Each bit that we do to spread the Gospel is an advance step in the coming of 'The Golden Age'."

The church was beautifully decorated with roses and chrysanthemums, furnished by Dr. and Mrs. W. G. Whitehouse.

At the evening service the pastor drew a mental picture of changes that have taken place in the world during the past 500 years, together with the accepted prediction that the future will effect even greater changes than the past. Hence the question he explained, "Has Christ Jesus changed?" Which led into the theme "The Unchanging Christ."—Jesus Christ, the same yesterday, today and forever.—Heb. 13:8.

Wink at Door Shot

By Young Swain to End Chicken Theft

Norman Swain, son of D. L. Swain and wife, killed the "wolf" that has been at the hen house doors of Cowden addition residents, Saturday and now there is promise of more safety for the fowls.

One resident of the neighborhood had lost nine of his flock of 11 hens and numerous other fowls had been captured from the hen roosts for the past fortnight.

Saturday morning, about 11 o'clock Norman and his father saw the coy-wolf slinking through the tall grass near the old barbecue pits south of Mrs. V. C. Ray's residence. Swain started his car, Norman perched on a fence with a shotgun and they ran over the animal before he knew he was pursued.

Norman fired and the first shot took off most of the tury chicken thief's head.

NAZIS SUPPORT LEAGUE STAND

BERLIN, Nov. 13. (UP)—An overwhelming majority in Sunday's election supported Chancellor Hitler's withdrawal from the League of Nations. Nazi candidates were elected to the Reichstag. Withdrawal was supported by 40,000,000 of the 60,000,000 voting.

An early meeting of the Reichstag was expected to draft a new constitution, ending the parliamentary body and making it principally advisory.

Ghost of Murdered Woman Carrying Her Baby Brings Exodus

STEPHENVILLE, (UP)—The ghost of the McDow still walks—and the watering hole by that name in Green's creek near here is shunned by men as a thing accursed.

A pall of gloom seems to hang over the spot, and the close of the three-toed tales of the ranch and farm folk who live near about.

The story goes back 70 years. Ranchers coming to the watering hole one day found a woman and her baby murdered on the banks of the McDow. They were buried on the creek bank, near the hole.

The tragedy, in time, was almost forgotten, but one evening a man forgot to lock the door of a house near the McDow and his wife stopped at the McDow to get a barrel of water. They saw a woman with a baby in arms walking to the water hole. She stopped at the water's edge, looked across the Petty's, then walked back to the grave and disappeared.

The Petty water barrel was not filled that night.

The man named Keith built a house on the bank of the creek, and according to J. E. Fitzgerald of Stephenville, who knew Keith well, he was a brave man. But when Keith said he was incessantly disturbed at night by a woman's screams. He sold his place.

A bachelor by the name of Hammonds came to live in the house near the grave, but not for long. He too, as he heard the screams. One morning neighbors found him dead. He died of fright, they said.

The tragedy prompted two farmers to make an all-night vigil at the hole. They went to the McDow in a buggy, but they came home afoot, and traveling fast.

Since that time numerous watch parties have been held at the spot, and more than a few of the old-timers living today who swear they have seen the woman and heard her scream.

Although the woman's body was never found, the McDow grave in 1890 and taken to a cemetery, those who know the story maintain the screams are occasionally heard, even in this late day.

Lecture Here to Attract 22 Towns' Representatives

Hides 9 Years

Representatives of 22 West Texas towns will hear Miss Evelyn K. Davis, national staff director of public health nursing, New York, when she addresses a regular meeting of the Midland county health board in the county court room at 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

Out of town representatives will attend from Amarillo, Dickens, Lubbock, Stanton, Lamesa, Seminole, Sterling City, McCommy, Anson, Quanah, Roky, Rotan, Abilene, Ballinger, San Angelo, Sweetwater, Colorado, Odessa, Llano, Vernon, Iraan and Fort Stockton, health board officials of Midland announced.

The attendance from the area results from Miss Davis' announcement she will be unable to visit any other West Texas town except Midland. Her coming to Midland will be marked by an official check of work done here in the past few months, with special regard to county-home nursing and social service, both of which likely will figure in her address.

With Miss Davis will be Miss Olga Burchard of the Texas state health department.

Mrs. Harvey Sloan, chairman of the Midland county board, will preside, and has invited civic and religious groups, as well as the public, to attend.

KINGDOM OF GOD PASTOR'S SUBJECT

Services at the First Christian church yesterday were marked by "good interest and fine spirit of determination." Plans were being made in the meetings for "real Thanksgiving expression" said the Rev. E. B. Chancellor, pastor.

At the morning hour, preceding the sermon, Miss Harriett Dickson spoke briefly on the work of the Red Cross. "Her message was splendidly delivered and was well received," the pastor said.

Miss Martha Chancellor was heard in solo just before the sermon. In the sermon message, which was on the subject of "The Kingdom of God," the pastor suggested that which brings people to be near the kingdom, that which may hinder those who are near the kingdom, and suggested in the closing that those who are near should take their eyes off of man and transfer the vision, to that One who said to the scribe, "Thou art not far from the kingdom of God." Christian influences, sacred Scriptures and clear comparisons were named as those things that lead people to be near the kingdom; inconsistencies, inactivity and indifference on the part of those inside the kingdom were given as hindering others entering. Special emphasis was laid upon the importance of the unaffiliated members becoming connected with the local church, and the dangers of allowing praying and paying to become divorced in the life of the individual.

The refusal of the church members to become affiliated with a local church, and the separation of prayer, become much like companionate marriage in social life; there is a tendency to bring reproach rather than respect. As the marriage altar is raised and tends to magnify and glorify the real home life, so does the fellowship in the local congregation draw people close together in spiritual activities and tends to honor and elevate the best in the spiritual realm," said the speaker.

At the evening hour "Divine Invitations" was the subject discussed. The program included an offering, and the subject three divine invitations were mentioned, namely, invitation to reason, invitation to rest and invitation to receive. The speaker called attention to the fact that God invites man to come and reason with Him; the Son of God invites man to come and find rest in Him; and that the Holy Spirit invites man to come and take the water of life freely. Said the speaker, "Since we are living in the day of the Spirit's invitation, we must respond and come to drink the water of Life, or forever die."

100 Attend Class On Visiting Day

More than 100 men and women attended the Scharbauer Men's class Sunday. It was visiting day for women and about 25 were present. The program included an orchestra number from the Watson School of Music, a solo by Cleve Baker with Ned Watson playing a cello obligato, Mrs. C. Y. Barron, pianist for the day, played the organ, and Alma Lee, Hankins made a Red Cross speech.

Former Editor Is Ector Agent

H. I. Atkins, former county agent at Midland, is the new agent for Ector and Andrews counties. He and Mrs. Atkins and their sons moved to Odessa Monday.

Atkins was with Progressive Farmer as associate editor for several years after leaving Midland, and lately has been in government agricultural work in central Texas. The new Odessa agent has recently broken into fiction writing, having sold stories to popular magazines. Atkins has many friends in Midland and at Colorado, where he was former agent.

Farmer Plows Into a Window

An O'Donnell farmer, J. H. Whitley, gave a demonstration of plowing in an automobile, when he drove his car through a window of the Midland Book and Station shop, across the street north from the Scharbauer hotel, this morning.

The farmer and his wife started to back away from the curb, but Whitley evidently set his gears in low rather than reverse, and became excited when the car plunged over the curb and headed for the window.

"Both my clutch and brake failed to work," he explained.

Neither Mr. or Mrs. Whitley was injured, and slight damage was done the car. A display behind the window was jammed backward four feet.

MONTREAL, (UP)—The Province of Quebec does not have to worry about its surplus honey crop this year. It is announced that the whole surplus approximately 80 tons—will be taken over by British interests and exported.

MURDER TRIALS PUT OFF UNTIL NEXT THURSDAY

Watkins Case Here on Transfer from Stanton

Two trials involving charges of murder, set for this term of district court, were docketed for Thursday morning and members of the special venire of 308 men were instructed to be present at 10 o'clock that morning when court opened today.

Selection of a jury to transfer the case of the state against Mabry Watkins, charged with a slaying, offense began this morning and seven jurors had been selected when the afternoon session opened at 1:30. Taking of testimony was expected to begin immediately after the switch man was chosen.

The Watkins case was transferred to court here from Martin county.

The case of the state against Arch Morgan, indicted by the last grand jury in connection with the fatal shooting of Phil Dawson, will be called first when court opens Thursday and if ready the trial will precede that against E. H. Hallmark, in connection with the recent shooting and subsequent death of R. J. Currie.

FORD RULING IS NOT CLEAR

FT. WORTH, Nov. 13. (UP)—General Johnson was uncertain today if Comptroller General McCall was correct in his ruling that Ford's application for government contracts, He said the question of adherence to President Roosevelt's executive order was not compliance with the automobile code.

The administrator was scheduled to speak at Louisville, Ky., tonight.

OIL SITUATION IS LOOKING UP

Proof of how the oil situation is "looking up" in the Permian basin, is given in a report received this week by W. R. Bowden, proration umpire at Midland, showing applications for 29 oil well drilling permits had been made in October.

These applications were as follows by counties: Ector 3, Glasscock 2, Howard 8, Loving 1, Pecos 4, Ward 7, Winkler 4. The total for the entire Permian basin was, of course, much larger.

Has No Thanks For Assistance

Help from an unknown source disposed of the need of help asked Saturday by W. B. Elkin—but he still would like to find a drum of kerosene the unsolicited help made off with.

The drum rolled off his trailer near the A. C. Francis ranch south of Midland. When Elkin went for help in reloading the heavy drum, someone or several beat him to it—and he has not seen it since.

MONEY TO FARMERS

The first government checks to be paid out under the AAA wheat allotment plan went to Monona county, Iowa, and resulted in the paying of $52,000 to some 485 farmers.

Some of the farmers promptly deposited their money in the bank—one man deposited $1042—and others hurried about nearby towns paying bills, settling taxes and mortgages, and buying all sorts of things that they needed.

And a person is moved to wonder just how popular the farm strike will be in that particular county hereafter. Whatever may be the faults of the AAA program (and it seems to have plenty, Heaven knows), it hardly can fail to have a good effect if it pumps money into very many counties on this scale.

In relieving the dire economic pressure that brought about the farm strike, it might prove of incalculable value.

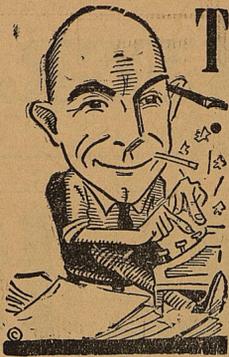

A Dayton (Ohio) cash register company has raised its employees' pay, thus confirming doubly the idea that there's more money now in cash registers.

The Town Quack

(Reserves the right to "quack" about everything without taking a stand on anything.)

A dozen complaining windmills on adjacent properties. Good old ancient Midland! I'd like to hear anybody laugh that off. "The guy whose colloquy is 'It's a privilege to breathe, let alone live, must enjoy six-bit cigars in a cushion stuffed seclusion. Or, a turkish harem?' A duck, of course, is very conscientious in such matters, but I didn't mean that your occupation is a dry one.

Concluding Program of Week of Prayer Is Given at Methodist Church Sunday Night

The concluding program in observance of the Week of Prayer was presented Sunday evening at the First Methodist church by the Women's auxiliary and the Boys and Girls World club, a children's organization under the direction of Mrs. J. M. Prothro.

Mrs. John Haley, auxiliary president, read a passage of scripture from the book of John and made an appeal for a free will offering. Miss Lydia G. and Mr. Ned Watson played the offertory. The Rev. Kenneth C. Minter offered a prayer.

Work at Paine college in Augusta, Ga., comprised the discussion by Mrs. J. D. Young, who also told of a lively stable, but the present school has property valued at over $400,000. Three hundred and one students enrolled there last year. The president of the school is a white man, the dean a negro and the teachers are equally divided.

One half of the offering taken at the program will be sent to Paine to aid in building a new dormitory. Hampsted Bentley and daughter, who are the guests of Mrs. Watson, sang "Abide with Me," accompanied by the cello and piano. Bentley is a former A. G. Fields minstrel star.

John W. Gilbert, noted negro, was among the first to graduate from Paine college. His college here at Athens, Greece, was discussed by Mrs. J. M. Haygood. Gilbert was the first negro to be faculty at Paine. He acted as guide to Bishop Lambuth on his missionary journey to South Africa.

Marie Newton, member of the children's organization, discussed the musical ability of negroes and told the congregation of the club's aid in buying a piano for the college.

A men's quartet composed of Messrs. Luther Tidwell, Noel G. Cates, Ned Watson and Stacey Allen, accompanied by Miss Watson, sang "Carry the News."

Anna Minter told a story of a small Chinese boy who was sent to the Stephenson Memorial hospital at Chang Chow, to be cured of blood poison.

Mrs. Frank Prothro discussed the hospital, which was built with funds donated by Mrs. L. L. Stephenson of San Antonio. She based her talk on an article written by Bishop Kearns after a recent visit to the clinic. The staff of the hospital is one of the most efficient of foreign missionary hospitals and the building is one of the most modern. The clinic is poorly equipped, however, and the other half of the

Germany Protests Japanese Dumping

LONDON. (UP).—Germany has joined the big parade against Japanese "dumping." It required an electric light bulb made in Japan, to illuminate the danger of Japanese commercial competition for Germany. As a result, fear of Japan's conquest of world markets, which has been harassing Britain this year, now is beginning to reach Germany. A Hitler government decree, operative from Oct. 1, has augmented enormously the German duty on foreign electric lamps, and no secret is made of the fact that the measure is aimed at Japan. Although one of the last great countries to take up the cudgel against Japanese competition, Germany's newspapers now are calling for European action against Japanese exports. If previous efforts of the European powers to act in unison may be taken as a gauge, Japan need not fear that the threat of a European united front.

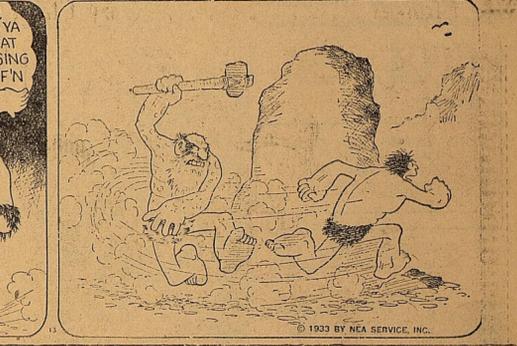

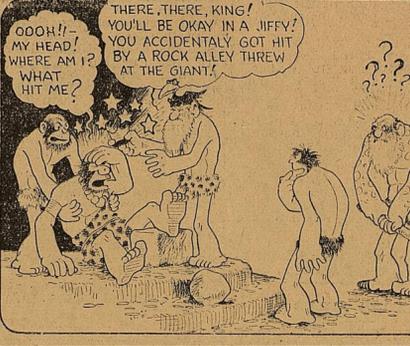

artificial silk began to flood foreign markets. Then the wave of Japanese commerce rolled uncomfortably near the German frontier as Japanese-made bicycles and iron pipes appeared in Holland. Within the past few years, Japan has created a light bulb industry which, measured by energy units of their products, equals that which Germany built up over many decades. Despite remarkable technical improvements, German bulbs are being sold at half their pre-war prices. And yet Japanese electric bulbs are being offered in Europe at prices 20 to 25 per cent below German retail figures and at rates which, according to German manufacturers, are below German production costs. The Germans assert that children employed in Japanese electric light bulb factories are paid wages as small as 2-1-2 gold cents a day.

The Oct. 1 increase of the German tariff on electric lamps is designed to spare fellow-members of the cartel notably the United States and Holland, but to stem the tide of Japanese products.

Germany Indifferent at First. Germany remained indifferent to Japan's expanded exports of silk, porcelain and rubber goods particularly since those products were being shipped to remote areas in which German trade is disinterested. The Germans grew restless, however, when Japanese

PLAYING THE LADY
Mr. Gillette's secretary hurried in to the office while the chief and his publicity director were still conferring. "Two men out here to see you, Mr. Hanlon."

"He went into the anteroom and there one of the two dicks handed him a paper."

"Well, Space, we got her. She's down in—"

Space hushed him up quickly, looking at the paper. "Never mind." He stuffed the paper into his pocket before Gillette, who had followed him into the anteroom, could read it.

"Just as I thought, H.E. She's gone out to be a lady. Thanks, you guys." The two dicks left, reluctantly.

"Let me see," said Gillette, extending his hand for the paper.

"You've got to trust me, H.E. Two cooks are going to spoil this omelette. Didn't I get her back before?"

"Yes, but—"

"Well, I won't fail this time. The girl is putty in my hands."

Space Hanlon's auto sped past a billboard on the desert which read: "Welcome to the Desert and Palm Springs, Southern California's most fashionable resort." It was early morning and the roosters were well coming a new day. Half an hour later the auto drew up in front of of me in connection with 'Alice in Wonderland'?"

He pointed to the movie page. "There's the item right there. I released it myself on his memo. You were going to do it next. I guess he got wise up to the kind of parts you ought to play."

"Well, it's too late now. 'Lola's' voice was faintly regretful as she turned back to her coffee."

"Swell part," commented Space. "I heard Gillette say they were going to put Alice Cole in it."

"Why, Cole couldn't conceive Alice's character, and besides she's built like a Channel swimmer! Imagine her sitting in a pumpkin drawn by those mice!"

Space was puzzled. "What pumpkin?"

"I don't expect you to know anything as gentle and lovely as that story. The pumpkin drawn by the six mice that Alice went to the ball in."

"That wasn't Alice. That was Cinderella."

"It happened to be Alice," Lola's voice was very cool.

"Listen, screwy," burst out Space in disgust. "Speaking of Alice, you're full of treacle."

"I'm not full of what you are, you—"

She stopped as her waiter came up, plainly flustered to interrupt such acrimonious discourse. He coughed gently. "Er, Miss Burns—"

At her upturned look from eyes still hostile, he shrank away, muttering. "The horses are waiting."

"The horses are waiting?" Lola asked. "Will you see that my maid is informed, please?"

The waiter nodded as he pulled back her chair. She looked majestically at Space. "And I'll sit at a different table at luncheon." She swept regally for a small woman, out of the dining room.

Space called back the waiter to inquire where people usually went riding in Palm Springs.

"Most everybody rides over the ridge route."

"Okay," Space sat thinking, a gentle tapping of the table with his fingers seeming to aid that process.

Lola Burns was walking her horse along a dirt road in a date grove, her eyes fixed dreamily on space when a man darted swiftly from behind a palm tree, put his arms about her and was trying to drag her toward the horse.

"My loving wife!" he cried. "I've found you. You can't escape me like this! You—"

"Get away from me!" cried Lola. "Loretta! Help! Look out, you—"

At her outcry a lone horseman back on the trail set spurs to his horse and came thundering around the bend in the road. He pulled up to a short stop, leaped from his horse and closed with Lola's rescuer—the same nut who had claimed her as his wife at the Monarch studios.

"What's going on here? Why are you annoying this lady?" he demanded of the nut, pulling his way from Lola's horse. The crazed man, after one frightened look at Lola's rescuer, sprang out of the stranger's grasp and darted into some bushes at one side of the road. The young man gave chase for a short distance, and then returned to Lola.

"I don't believe he will annoy you any more," the man smiled up at her.

Lola was too thrilled by his appearance, his rather ethereal yet manly beauty, the impressiveness of her rescue for an immediate response and the young man asked: "Did he hurt you?"

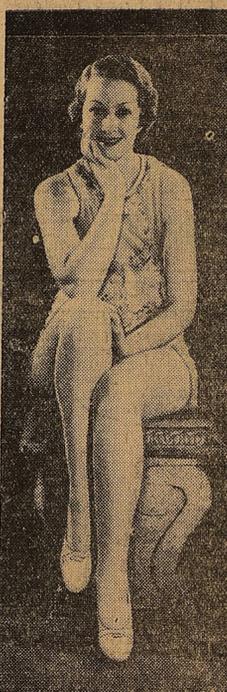

"N-no. He's some crazed man whose head's following me. Thank you very much."

"Not at all. Lots of queer people around these parts. Allow me: I'm Gifford Middleton, of Boston." He stopped to recover the reins of his mount. It resembled a horse, but such a princely young man was riding; one had to be accurate even in his thoughts: it was distinctively a mount.

"How do you do?" responded Lola, rather faintly, as the man paused to give her a chance to mention her name. She did not do so, and Gifford Middleton continued: "I think I'd better ride along with you a little way. Until we get clear of this crazy man."

16,000,000 TO EAT GOV'T FARE

WASHINGTON (UP).—More than 16,000,000 hungry will eat at the government's table this winter.

The homeless will be given shelter. The ragged will be given clothes. At a cost of perhaps $1,000,000,000 (B) will be carried out the edict of President Roosevelt that there shall be no suffering of Americans, simply because of the depression.

His many-faceted relief plan is enormous in scope; unique in character. Never before in history has the government attempted to aid work for its citizens—and to feed and clothe them until jobs are forthcoming.

Two million men already have been given steady wages through federal construction projects. Mr. Roosevelt has promised to find jobs for 4,000,000 more before the snows of winter get deep. To do this the president has established the civil works administration, which will spend $400,000,000.

While the jobless wait for the factory whistles to blow, the steam shovels to puff and the concrete mixers to rattle, the federal emergency administration, under direction of Harry B. Hopkins, will be caring for them and their families.

About 3,370,000 families, with an average of 4.4 persons in each, now are on the relief rolls. Hopkins has spent almost half of a $500,000 allotment to feed them so far. If his money runs out he hopes to get more.

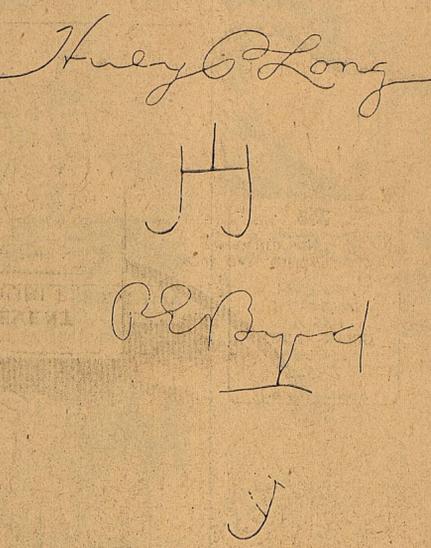

He is distributing 100,000 pounds of pork to his charges. He has opened bids on 15,000,000 pounds of canned beef. He is buying 2,000,000 pounds of butter a week. He has bought 11,579,000 bushels of wheat, intends to buy more, and will grind it all into flour. He has purchased $176,000 worth of apples.

He plans to buy coal before the weather gets cold; blankets, shoes and clothing. He hopes to purchase dried beans, eggs and milk. He even may pay the rent for some of the needy.

His purchases and cash grants, meantime, are being matched by states and other governments at the ratio of one government dollar to every three local dollars, thus quadrupling the federal efforts to make this the first happy winter since the depression began for millions of citizens.

Hopkins has not forgotten the transient jobless. His program includes provisions for them.

New Signatures in Peters' Collection

Admiral Richard E. Byrd and Sen. Huey P. Long copied West Texas cattle brands last week for the Marion F. Peters collection, signatures and brand reproductions being shown above. Admiral Byrd drew the TXJ brand of Mrs. F. A. Bird of Midland county. Sen. Long the EJJ run by B. M. Jamison of Angleton. Admiral Byrd wrote the following to Peters. "I would like to sketch each individual brand in Midland county but I am afraid that is impossible as I am working terrifically hard on the preparation for the second South Polar expedition. The lack of funds and shortness of time has placed a terrific burden upon me. I am however, enclosing a sheet of paper on which I have sketched the cattle brand you send. Please give my best wishes to all the ranchers and cowboys."

GAME FINANCIALLY CALLED A SUCCESS

From a standpoint of finances, the Midland-Stanton football game Armistice day was as successful as the rival grid machines in sending chills and thrills in waves up and down backbones of fans, a financial statement released from the office of Supt. W. W. Lackey of the Midland public schools shows.

The statement follows:

According to advance information, she has a most entertaining revue.

URGES SIGNING BLANKS

The national recovery administration today urged employers throughout the nation to return without further delay their replies to President Roosevelt's reemployment questionnaire. Immediate action by employers is necessary if their returns are to be included in the final reemployment tabulation. Any employer who has lost or mislaid his questionnaire is urged to obtain a duplicate from his postmaster (or a supply may be obtained from this office) and to make his return at the earliest possible time. There were delivered to all sections of the United States 3,500,000 questionnaires and it is hoped that every one of those cards will be returned to the census bureau for tabulation. By such cooperation alone can the real situation throughout the entire country be determined. Employers who have increased their forces only slightly or even not at all are requested to fill out their questionnaires just the same. Only through the cooperation of all who received the questionnaires can the census bureau complete a re-employment survey which will be comprehensive and up to the minute as to all of the facts.

ARMY VACANCIES

A drive has been launched to fill vacancies in the regular army existing at Fort Bliss, Texas, and William Beaumont general hospital, El Paso.

These vacancies are in the cavalry, field artillery, quartermaster corps and medical department. Approximately 200 vacancies in the enlisted personnel are to be filled at these places.

American citizens, between the ages of 18 and 35 years, who are single and have no one dependent upon them for support, in good physical condition and possessed of the equivalent of an eighth grade grammar school education, are eligible for enlistment.

Those interested should apply to the regular army recruiting agent at 106 Main St., Big Spring.

If accepted, transportation will be furnished to Fort Bliss, where, if finally accepted, applicants will be sworn in and become members of the regular army.

Among the arms, munitions, etc. which Germany has either handed over to the Allies or destroyed are 14,000 airplanes, 313 submarines, 83 torpedo boats, 6,000,000 rifles and small arms, and 107,000 machine guns.
