WATER ABOVE FLOOD STAGES REPORTS SAY

Citrus Growers Lose 90 Per Cent of Their Crops

EDINBURG, Sept. 7. (UP).—The Rio Grande was above flood stage near the San Juan river juncture today and threatened to spread over the hurricane swept lower valley.

Midland women will be at work in the business district here tomorrow, seeking to raise the $50 suggested as Midland's quota in the special Red Cross drive for relief of valley hurricane and flood sufferers.

LINGO ASSISTS GRID TRAINING

Arrival here Tuesday of Assistant Coach and Mrs. Charles A. Lingo has given impetus to training of the Bulldog squad.

RED CROSS QUOTA HERE SET AT $50

Midland county chapter, American Red Cross, has been called upon for contributions to swell a $25,000 relief fund made by the national organization for hurricane sufferers in the Rio Grande valley area.

A telegram received yesterday by Mrs. John Haley, county chairman, from William M. Baxter, Jr., Red Cross manager in St. Louis, Mo., set the chapter's quota at $50.

Contributions, whether large or small, will be appreciated and every cent will count in giving relief to the homeless and injured in the devastated areas, she said.

Confirmed reports of destruction Rio Grande valley hurricane justify immediate and urgent appeal for contributions to Red Cross relief fund. On basis reports received from our representatives in disaster area I suggest quota your chapter $50.

Midland has continually benefited from the Red Cross. It was said here. Workers pointed out flour and clothing donations. A Midland group worked until 2 o'clock Tuesday morning passing out clothes so that rural school children might have clothes with which to start school.

JAMES MURPHY RITES SET FOR THIS AFTERNOON

Funeral services were scheduled for 4 o'clock this afternoon for James Murphy, 78, foster father of J. E. Hill, at the Hill home, 1208 West Illinois.

The Rev. Kenneth C. Minter, pastor of the First Methodist church, will conduct the funeral service, interment to follow at Fairview cemetery. The Ellis funeral home was in charge, the remains having arrived by train from El Paso last night.

Miss Vernon Hill, teacher in the El Paso city schools; Nim Hill, oil dealer at Duncan, Okla., and Ben Hill of Abilene are the surviving members of the family.

Mr. Murphy, a native of Missouri, lived in Bell county when he first came to Texas, moving to Midland in 1907. He was associated with J. E. Hill, Midland feed dealer and ranchman, until he moved to El Paso four years ago. Mrs. Murphy was buried here ten years ago.

AUSTIN, Sept. 7. (UP).—Governor Ferguson today called a special session of the legislature to convene at noon September 14.

Home Brew Sales Automatic Brake

The clamp has been screwed down by County Judge Elliott H. Barton in approval of applications for beer permits.

He will approve no application made by dealers known to have sold home brew, and has intimated there is no likelihood of an appeal being taken by such dealers.

The only recourse an applicant may take on being turned down, by the county judge is to go directly to district court, where a decision is final.

AUSTIN, Sept. 7. (UP).—Representative George Winningham of Mexia, organizer of the anti-sales tax bloc, said today he favors either Representative George Hester of Georgetown or Representative Sarah Hughes of Dallas as leader.

The Town Quack

(Reserves the right to "quack" about everything without taking a stand on anything.)

EDITORIAL NOTES

An English member of the letter-carrying fraternity presents an interesting version of the well-known "postman's holiday." It is true that he used his day off to stroll over the familiar route, but he took along paints, brushes and canvas, and used them with such good effect that one of the resultant landscapes won first prize in an oil-color competition.

The Austrian Government has taken action on behalf of newspapers to ban a pernicious form of inflation and at the same time cut down an undesirable "overhead." An order has been promulgated against the use of the over-sized and overstated headline.

Proposals to consolidate the University of Chicago and Northwestern University are hinted in the press. If such mergers become common, we may yet see a very literal form of "brain trust."

Government Can't Lose

When one looks at such a view prevails, Home Loan officials say there is no reason to suppose that the corporation will be a financial failure.

Behind the bonds will be $200,000,000 in capital and the mortgages. Loans are only 80 per cent of present low appraisal value and the securities should become constantly stronger as home owners make their payments.

HERMIT LEFT $18,000 ESTATE

BRIDGEPORT, Conn. (UP)—When Neils Hansson, who lived a hermit life aboard a houseboat here for years, died there were few persons who took an interest, but when it became known that, though believed penniless, he had left an estate of $18,000, eighteen persons advanced claims. No relatives have been located, and Hansen did not leave a will. The administrator, Sidney C. Johnson, disallowed all claims, but three have been appealed to the probate court. The claims total $18,000.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salt, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

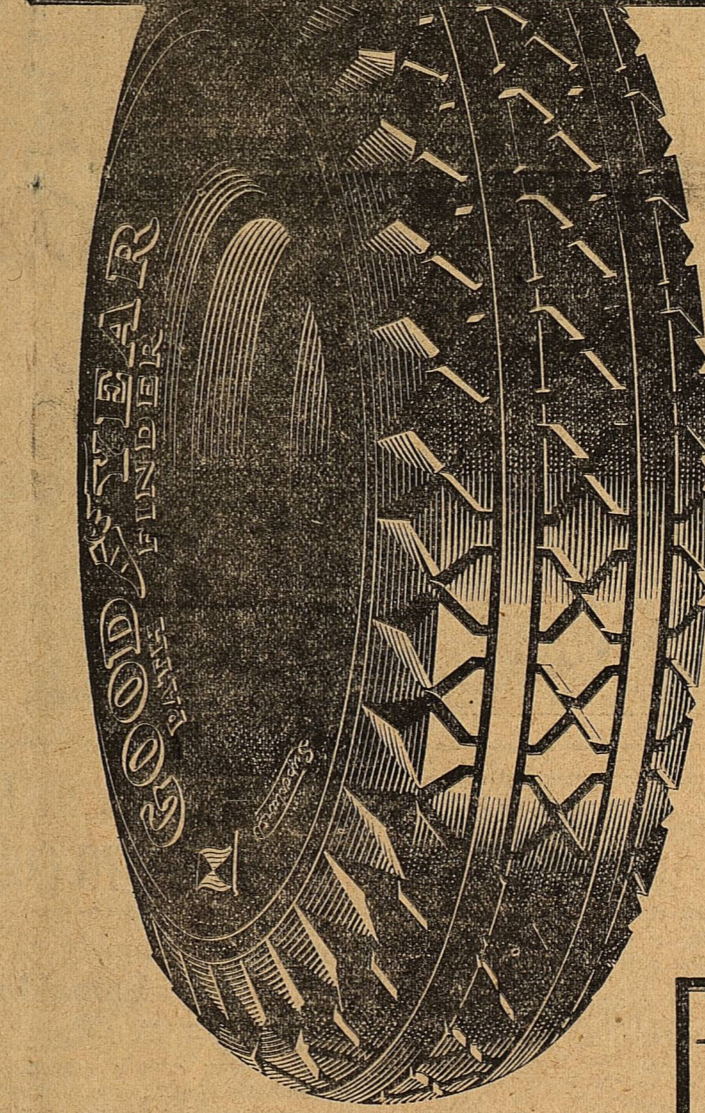

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resists a substitute. 25c at drug stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

Cord Now Has Carrier Field "Up in Air"

By NEA Service

CHICAGO—What is Errett Cord up to now? That's what everyone is asking in the transportation world, which has felt the Cord impact several times before.

Cord, who is only 38, began with auto-building. He bought a run-down loser (Auburn) and swiftly converted it into one of the big auto companies of the country, made money, and left his mark on the design of every car built since that time.

Worried Competitors He went into aviation, bought a small factory (Stinson), established a plane line (Century) to use his planes, gave the whole New York district fits with low bids for airmail contracts, sold out to a worried competitor, and wound up in control of that competitor. He is one of the big factors in air transportation.

A few weeks ago he gained control of the New York Shipbuilding Corporation, whose yards at Camden, N. J., are one of the greatest in the country. In this 200-acre plant, connecting with the Pennsylvania and Philadelphia & Reading railroads, were built the Manhattan and Washington, largest American-built liners, and the Indianapolis, navy's finest new cruiser. Shipping interests are wondering what revolutionary plan may be revolving in the head of E. L. Cord for ocean shipping.

For one thing, just at the time Cord took stock control of New York Shipbuilding, it got contracts to build six of the ships which are to "take the navy up to date," two light cruisers at $11,777,000 apiece, and four destroyers at $3,775,000 each.

That $38,454,000 order is a nice piece of business for Cord's first venture into shipbuilding, an enterprise that gives him transport interests on land, air, and sea. But there is one aspect to this shipbuilding deal that has been commonly overlooked. New York Shipbuilding, which is successor to the well-known American Brown Boveri Electrical Company, has a license agreement with Maschinenfabrik Augsburg-Nürnberg A. G., Germany for Diesel engine development for railroad traction purposes. Railroads look to a revolution in design and power plant. Cord has great motor-building facilities, and it is just possible that he looks to Diesel railroad power plants as much as to shipbuilding in this more recent venture. With a stake in autos, airplanes, railroads, and steamships, Cord would straddle the transportation field like a Colossus.

"Success Story" Won't Die E. L. Cord is living proof that neither four years of depression nor the advent of the New Deal can quite kill off the traditional American "success theory." Less than 10 years ago, Cord was buying old Ford's from second-hand lots, re-conditioning and building truck bodies on them, and reselling them.

Today he adds to already huge auto holdings not only a $15,000,000 shipbuilding plant, but a $4,500,000 taxi-building plant that is one of the largest in the country. The main taxi plant is at Kalamazoo, Mich., where it builds most of the Yellow and Checker cabs that are seen in fleets in the streets of every large city.

Cord got into all this just like any other young fellow who drifts into the automobile business because he has a yen to be around cars. He liked to build them, tinker with them, drive them. He

Women Fans Like Name of Romeo

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UP)—When a sports writer attempted to give Ron McDonald, West Virginia University football player, a nickname to replace his first name, several women fans wrote their protests.

"I think the name of Romeo is romantic and charming," wrote one of the fair sex. "I am quite sure Mr. McDonald will be able to play as well under his own name as any name that might be suggested by a coach or sports writer."

McDonald, a tackle, is expected to be one of the mainstays of the West Virginia line this fall.

CATCHER IS TRADER

EL PASO (UP)—It takes a good trader to be a dog catcher, says Police Sgt. Ott, who accepted six dozen eggs that a woman offered for a dog.

"I don't mind trading for something we can use," he said, "but one man named made an out-of-hand two burros for some dogs."

BOAST OLD FOOD COLLECTION

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (UP)—Just as one might collect stamps or antiques, Fred Higley boasts a collection of ancient edibles—a maple sugar cake made in 1873, another in 1919, a piece of jelly cake made in 1872, and a cookie that was made from the oven back in 1880.

hung around automobile establishments. He got a job selling. He built racing cars and raced them. He ran a wash rack, sold old cars, new cars, ran a trucking line. In 1919 he arrived in Chicago practically broke. Getting a sales job, this time he "caught on." He rose to district manager and general manager, and acquired an interest.

Finally "Caught On" In 1924 Cord was ready to start manufacturing on his own. He went in at Auburn as general manager, and in two years was president and owner. Auburn introduced new idea of weight, power, lines and speed, and it made money. Lyncolm Motors, Duesenberg and Columbia Axle fell into his hands.

But such varied interests required fast shifting back and forth between factories and Cord flew. He got interested in aviation. Suddenly the industry awoke to the fact that Cord controlled the Stinson Aircraft Co. He was making and selling planes several thousand dollars cheaper than competitors and producing more than half of the planes built in the country.

To absorb his plane output, Cord started Century Airlines, announcing that he was prepared to parallel every airline in the United States. But he couldn't get any mail contracts, and an airline without mail contracts is just beer without the 3.2.

Storms in Aviation So Cord offered to carry airmail for 30 cents a mile instead of the prevailing rate of around 35 cents. But he got no mail. Cord then re-adjusted pilots' pay in a way they claimed was an unjust and violent act. Twenty-one of them suddenly found themselves without jobs—a strike, said the Cord people—a lockout, said the pilots. All this was aired in a Congressional hearing over the airmail rates. But Cord got no airmail contracts. So he gave up—apparently. Century was absorbed by American Airways.

But as his price, of course, Cord was given an interest in American Airways, which held more airmail contracts than any other line. He got his airmail contracts through the back door. Differing on policies with La Motte Turk Couh, president of American Airways, Cord tangled in a struggle for control. With his ally, W. Averill Harriman, son of the late railroad builder, E. H. Harriman, Cord forced a "compromise" which is believed to give him control of the American Airways board. With another strong ally in banker Frank Vanderlip and in partner Lucius Bass Manning, Cord is expected to add other air interests in any time, adding in no less than a dominant position in air transport.

What Next? Now what does E. L. Cord want with a shipbuilding company? Is it ships or Diesel engines for railroads that interests him? What new competitive struggle in transport comes next?

The industrial world would give a good deal to know what Cord secure in his home at Balboa Beach, near Los Angeles, Calif., from which he conducted the shipyard and taxicab deals through associates in the east, is not saying. The collegiate-looking, slender, earnest young crown prince of transportation remains with his wife and two sons, his dogs and his speedboat at Balboa Beach.

Sub-Sea Wonders Thrill Cast of "Below the Sea"

With more than forty per cent of Columbia's "Below the Sea" photographed nearly 100 feet underneath the surface of the sea, Director Albert Rogell had to assemble the strangest cast ever to be used in filming a motion picture. It is showing Friday and Saturday at the Ritz theatre.

Playing one of the most important roles in the photoplay is a giant squid, or octopus, captured after many weeks searching off the northern coast of Mexico. The octopus was used in the climax of the story, showing the infuriated monster of the deep actually attacking a diving bell in which are members of a scientific party studying certain phases of oceanography.

In addition to the octopus, Rogell had to work with thousands of tropical fish, loaned to the studio for the purpose by the famous Long Beach aquarium.

A great diving bell, specially designed to withstand water pressure at 60 fathoms made possible the filming of the under water sequences of the production. Built on the principle of a submarine, a shell within a shell—the bell was submerged by virtue of its own water weight, made possible through the use of fins instead of the customary lead. Carrying three persons, the bell is equipped with three heavy glass ports, through which the maximum of wide-angle action may be photographed without difficulty. It was also equipped with the newly-perfected Westinghouse water ray, controlled from the inside, which penetrates the murky blackness for great distances.

Camera work on "Below the Sea" was in charge of Homer Scott, whose underwater photographic experience dates back to the days of the famous Annette Kellerman. More recently, he photographed marine scenes for "Bird of Paradise" and "Tiger Shark."

Ralph Bellamy and Fay Wray are featured in "Below the Sea." Others in the cast are Fredrik Vogeding and Esther Howard. Undersea scenes are photographed in technicolor.

The Flying Boat Passes First Test

EAST PITTSBURGH (UP)—The "flying boat" has come through its first practical test with flying colors, according to Dr. Oscar Tietjens, noted for his research in stream-lining of airplanes, racing automobiles, Zeppelins and railway cars.

A 14-foot boat with a normal maximum speed of about 12 miles an hour was used in the test. When converted to a "flying boat" by attachment of hydrofoils, or wing-like planes, the craft attained a speed of about 24 miles an hour on the Delaware River at Essington, Pa.

"The hydrofoils act in water as an airfoil acts in air," Dr. Tietjens said. "When a certain speed is reached the airfoil, or wing edge, lifts an airplane off the ground into the air. Similarly, hydrofoils lift the boat clear of the water."

FREE TRIP TO FAIR RACINE, Wis. (UP)—Volunteer life guards, who worked without pay on Racine's bathing beaches this summer, will be given a free trip to the Century of Progress exhibition at Chicago as a reward. A fund for this purpose was solicited by The Racine Journal-Times after the 18 youths who patrolled the beaches from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. each day gave first aid to 385 persons and averted 14 drownings.

Salvage operations on the Lutine, British ship wrecked off the Dutch coast in 1799, are expected to net nearly $10,000,000 in sunken treasure.

INELIGIBILITIES SHATTER THE HOPES OF RICE COACH FOR 1933 CHAMP GRID TEAM

By STUART E. JONES United Press Staff Correspondent

HOUSTON, (UP)—If the 1933 Rice Institute eleven distinguishes itself in the forthcoming Southwest conference gridiron wars, Coach Jack Meagher will reaffirm his belief in miracles.

Meagher's hopes of a championship team were shattered by wholesale ineligibilities. He must fashion an almost entirely new team.

Cast out of Rice at the end of the season for cheating in classrooms were no less than eight first-string men, including some of the finest players ever developed by the former pupil of Knute Rockne.

However, some hope burns in Meagher's mind. He thinks he can build an eleven that will cause trouble for every school it meets on an exceptionally severe schedule which includes Louisiana State, Santa Clara (Calif.) and six conference foes.

To get anywhere the Owls must escape the injury jinx which has crippled Meagher teams during the past two seasons. Rice will have the smallest squad in the conference when training begins September 11, with 37 men scheduled to report to Meagher and his assistants.

Of the 37 candidates, less than a dozen have enjoyed varsity experience and three are transfers from junior colleges. Followers of the Owls may feel a slight pang of optimism while looking at the small roster by noticing that Rice will be as potentially strong in the center of the line as any conference school.

Captain Fred Lauterbach, San Antonio, will be back at left tackle, as will his brother, Dick, at center. Fay Lagow, Dallas, 1932 all-conference guard, and his running mate, Hal Nicholson, will be back. A. J. Clark, Temple, a squadman for two years, is considered an outstanding prospect to flank Capt. Lauterbach at right tackle. Jim Byrd and Raymond Mass, both of Greenville, who performed well on the 1932 freshman squad, also will seek tackle posts. Bob Schulze, Temple, and Charles Mehr, Houston, are a couple of experienced substitutes for the guard positions. Dick Lauterbach and Percy Arthur, Houston, will battle for center.

Meagher will spend most of his time with the backfield. Henry Clore, Dallas, will get first call at quarterback with Carmen Brandon of last year's freshman squad expected to develop into a valuable understudy. Brandon was an all-state high school guard in Dallas.

Meagher believes Quinn Connelly, of Fort Worth will prove a half-back asset. Connelly, a senior, is the Owls' best ball passer and can punt and carry the ball. In past seasons he has been too brittle. A season of tournament tennis has put him in shape, Meagher believes.

Other halfback prospects include Bert Mueller, Houston, who looked like a star in 1931 and who, ineligible last year, is coming back to play out his string. Mueller is a punter of ability. Charlie Kivell, one of the best blockers on the squad, and Elmo Hutzler, a ball carrier from San Antonio, will see backfield service. Gordon Nicholson of Houston who understudied Capt. Tom Driscoll last year, will be first-string fullback. Jess Atkins, 190-pound rimmer from Esville, will be inserted for touch-down drives.

Dan Richardson of San Antonio and Leche Sylvester of Brownsville are expected to make the Rice squad two capable ends.

The 1933 football schedule for Rice Institute follows: Sept. 23—Texas College of Arts and Industries at Houston. Sept. 30—Louisiana State University at Baton Rouge. Oct. 7—Loyola University (New Orleans) at Houston. Oct. 14—Southern Methodist University at Houston. Nov. 11—University of Arkansas at Houston. Nov. 18—Texas A. and M. College at Houston. Nov. 28—Texas Christian University at Fort Worth. Dec. 2—Baylor University at Waco.

vote Nov. 7, on the question of permitting Sunday baseball and football. This will require another ballot.

Local option for 3.2 per cent beer will be voted upon in a number of sections, necessitating a fourth ballot. Under the present law, beer can be sold in any community, but the question of local option was inserted in the statute and the Women's Christian Temperance Union and other allied organizations raised the issue, forcing a vote on local option in some districts.

The fifth ballot to be given voters will contain the county and local rates.

PA. VOTERS FACE BALLOT BATTLE

By JOSEPH S. WASNEY United Press Staff Correspondent HARRISBURG, Pa. (UP)—Pennsylvania will have a genuine "battle of ballots" this November with the voters struggling with the ballots themselves.

With 12 constitutional amendments to be passed upon, various referendums and the election of county and municipal officers, the voters will receive enough ballots to literally paper a room.

Constitutional Changes The proposals to change the State's 1874 Constitution will make a ballot comparable to an old-time bill of sale. The important issues involved include a $25,000,000 unemployment relief bond issue and a $50,000,000 bond issue for a soldiers' bonus.

Another separate ballot will be for prohibition repeal. The names of 30 delegates at large will be on this sheet, 15 for repeal and 15 for retention of prohibition. The winners will meet at the State Capitol on Dec. 5 to formally accept or reject the 21st Amendment.

Every municipal subdivision will

Husky Voice Is Caused by Burr

EYSTONE, Iowa (UP)—Walter Hilbert, nine, probably will go through life with a rather throaty, husky voice as a result of an experience with a sandburr that pricked his thumb.

The burr clung to the boy's thumb and he tried to remove it with his teeth. The burr slipped down his throat and lodged in his trachea.

Surgeons who worked through an entire night in an effort to remove it finally were obliged to administer anesthetics and operate.

The burr probably would have reached the boy's lungs with fatal results had the operation been delayed, they said.

GIN PERMIT ISSUED

PHILADELPHIA (UP)—Two dollar gin—but not bath tub gin—soon may be a reality in Philadelphia. The first permit issued since the passage of the prohibition amendment for the manufacture of real gin has been given to the Continental Distilling Corporation by the Bureau of Industrial Alcohol.
