GEN. JOHNSON'S FUTURE

News that Gen. Hugh S. Johnson will probably resign from his position as recovery administrator sometime late this fall is likely to provide the ordinary citizen with conflicting emotions.

It is highly gratifying, of course, to learn that the general expects the program to be so complete and well-established that he will not be needed more than a few weeks longer. The mere fact that he is looking ahead to retirement indicates that a great amount of success has crowned his efforts.

But most Americans, undoubtedly, will be sorry to see him step down. He has been a tremendously useful public official; he seems, besides, to be one of the most likeable men the government has ever employed. It won't seem quite right, somehow, not to have breezy Gen. Johnson on the job at Washington.

USELESS ARMY POSTS

For decades the federal government has made futile attempts to cut down the number of its army posts. It supports some 350 military reservations in all parts of the country, and a vast number of them are of no military value whatever; but every time the War Department tries to close up some of them political pressure has blocked the move.

Now, it is reported, President Roosevelt is going to give the army a new deal. The president hopes that the army can consolidate its posts into a few major establishments. Such a move unquestionably would aid both economy and military efficiency.

Here is a reform that has been on the horizon for a long time but which has never quite come into actual existence. It is to be hoped that it can finally be effected. The army has spent enough time and money on "forts" which it doesn't have any real use for.

DANGEROUS TRUCKS

The accident in Indiana in which a lumbering auto truck sideswiped an improvised bus, caused the death of a number of people and then sped off without stopping will hardly strengthen the hands of the truckmen in their perennial dispute with the railroads for freight business.

It emphasizes, that is to say, the way in which a heavy truck can be a menace on the roads. Because of the width of its body, and because of the momentum which its bulk gives it, the truck can create serious traffic hazards on a main highway; and the fact that this particular truck driver chose to run away after the accident simply calls attention to the looseness of the control which the public exercises over the trucking business.

Meditation on these points is likely to create a public sentiment favorable to the railroads in this argument about who should get the short-haul freight business.

BAN THE MACHINE GUN

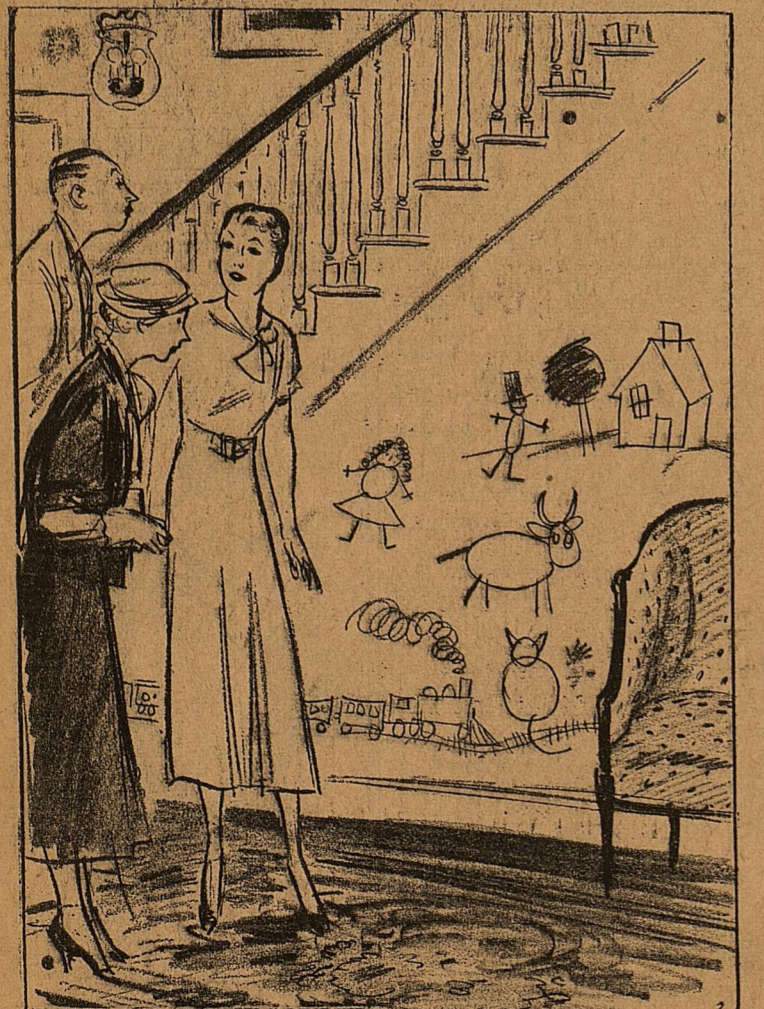

The New York legislature has passed a law putting the sub-machine gun, favorite weapon of gangland, under the ban.

This law makes it a felony for any person except a peace officer to possess such a gun. It provides that the presence of a machine gun in any dwelling or vehicle is prima facie evidence of guilt upon the part of the occupants.

Here is what seems to be a very excellent law, and it is hard to think of any good reason why every other state in the union should not copy it at once. The way in which the sale and possession of murderous weapons like sub-machine guns—which cannot conceivably be needed by any honest person—has been permitted to go on unchecked is nothing less than astonishing.

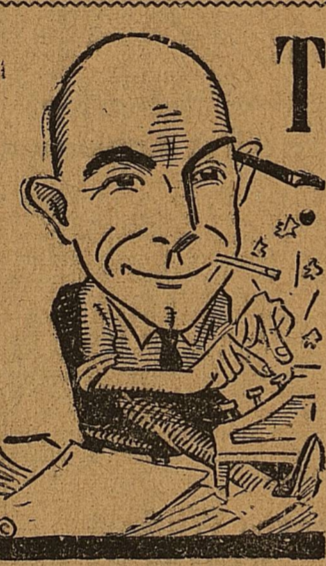

A law like New York's, properly enforced, ought to put quite a crimp in underworld activities.

YUCCA Next Tues-Wed Women Only Matinees—Men Only Nights You Will Be SHOCKED—STUNNED—THRILLED By the Truth of Dr. Eugene E. Voltaire And His Discussions of "Love Life" The Truth and Secrets of Sex and Marriage Illustrated With BEAUTIFUL GIRLS—LIVING MODELS On the Stage in Person—Featuring Miss California The Perfect Woman

YUCCA THEATRE Midland, Texas LADIES Question Card Wednesday Matinee Dr. Eugene E. Voltaire will you please answer the following question

"Heroes for Sale," at Ritz Theatre, a Drama of Realism that Grips the Heart

The reason for the never failing popularity of Richard Barthelmess is quite evident in his latest First National Picture, "Heroes for Sale," which opened at the Ritz theatre last night. He has always been fortunate in having strong, interesting stories, capable of supporting casts and intelligent direction.

In "Heroes for Sale," however, he has all of these ingredients to a superlative degree, resulting in what is undoubtedly one of his finest pictures to date.

The story is right up to the minute, presenting as it does, the gripping drama of twenty million lives in America today. No attempt has been made to sugar-coat it, but true to the First National code of realistically following newspaper headlines for material, the picture is a vivid recital of the struggle in an era of depression.

Because of the delicate nature of the sex subject, the shows will be to separate audiences, women only Tuesday and Wednesday matinees, men only Tuesday and Wednesday nights. Appearing with the doctor, in person, are "Miss California" and her living models.

Due to the fact that many women have pertinent questions on the sex subject that they would like to have answered, Dr. Voltaire has arranged to make Wednesday matinees a special question period, open to the ladies. All women are invited to ask any question they may care about sex and the love life. Under the Yucca theatre ad will be found a special question form, cut it out, write your question and drop it in the question box when you enter the theatre. No signature of the person asking the question is necessary.

Other players who are responsible for the success of the film as a whole are Gordon Westcott, Berton Churchill, Robert Barrat, Grant Mitchell, Robert McWade, James Murray, Edwin Maxwell, Willard Robertson and others.

CODE IN EFFECT

The N. R. A. code presented to the president by the Western Union Telegraph company has been officially approved and went into effect at all Western Union offices in the United States September 1.

RETURN AFTER VISIT

Mrs. James Connor, and grandson, James, returned Saturday from a trip to Hominy, Okla. Returning with them was Mrs. Guy Brenne-mau, who joined them at Pawnee, Okla.

As has always been the case with Barthelmess pictures, the supporting cast was chosen with great care, and each player allowed to give his or her utmost. Loretta Young, who plays the leading feminine role, has fulfilled the promise she has shown in the past two years and emerges as a mature and arresting actress, contributing much to the dynamic quality of the film. Aline MacMahon, who has yet to give anything but a superb performance, adds another type to her long string of varied roles, playing it with a great deal of sincerity and power.

Six-Months-Old Butter for Xmas Here Is Likely

No nose holding over this butter even if it is four months old.

Butter for Christmas presents, even though the butter is made in September—that's the possibility, Miss Myrtle Miller, county home demonstration agent, holds out to thrifty housewives of Midland county.

Here's how: Take sweet cream only, sterilize it by heating in a double boiler for 30 minutes to 150 degrees. Cool this as fast as possible to 50 degrees, then pour in a sterilized churn and churn for 30 minutes.

Miss Miller says butter churned too long will lose its granulation. It should be churned till the butter granules are about the size of English peas. The milk should be drained off, and the butter washed in the churn with four revolutions. Twice as much water should be used in washing the butter as there was cream to start. Half of the water should be used in the first washing and half in the second. The water should be tested with a cheese-making thermometer and should be about the same temperature as the butter.

Salt worked into the butter must not be worked in past the mere point of thorough distribution, the agent says, as too much stirring will give the butter too much consistency. Butter may be molded or rolled and tied in parchment paper. The butter pats or molds are immersed in brine in stone crocks. The parcels must be packed closely or be weighted down. The brine is made with one part salt to three parts of water by weight.

Butter made thus will keep fresh and sweet for from three to six months, and a blundered person would hardly discern the difference between the old butter and that made on the test date, Miss Miller says.

The demonstration agent says she is giving this formula for butter making because now cows may be giving more cream than they will later in the year when the cold weather starts, Miss Miller added a word about cheese making, stating that superfluous porosity may be avoided by sterilizing the milk prior to converting it into cheese.

One main purpose through thick and thin

Henry Ford
Dearborn, Mich.

In the last 30 years, 800 makes of cars have come and gone. Of all the automobile companies that were making cars in 1903, less than a dozen remain. And of these only a few are the original companies. One of these is the Ford.

We mention this because, if you know the other original names, you will recognize that each stands for something definite in the motor car world—not just a car, but a very distinct kind and quality of car.

That is to say, the car that was designed to fill a definite place, to do a certain thing, and that pursued its objective through all the ups and downs of change—that car lived!

If you just make something to sell, you would be better employed doing something else. But if you make something that will do a specific thing and do it well, then you are helping people.

We have had just one main purpose during these years, and that is to give the people transportation of the most dependable quality at the lowest possible cost.

We have followed that purpose through thick and thin. Our car was called "the universal car" 30 years ago, because it fulfilled so many needs; it is "the universal car" today for the same reason.

We have never been greatly excited about yearly models. Whenever we developed and tested an improvement, we added it to the car without delay. The Ford car is in a continuous state of growth. For 15 years we did not introduce a single new model, but the changes and improvements that were constantly made on the model that was current through that period, were equivalent to many new models.

But the changes were made to improve the car, not to persuade people that they ought to buy a new car every year. The car we make does not need to be cast aside every year. At any period a customer buys, he gets the best we have.

Our objective is just—transportation for the people; the best quality at the lowest cost. Nothing but that. Not even the highest sales record—that has always come without seeking. Not even the highest financial return—that, too, has always come, and, we are glad to say, flowed immediately out again for wages, materials and taxes.

But these are not our main quest. Our main purpose—our constant intention—our major ambition is to make a car that will become more and more useful, and more and more easy to obtain, to more and more people.

PERMIAN BASIN TENNIS LEAGUE PLAYOFF IS ON TODAY'S CARD

RACQUETEERS OPEN PLAY AT 8 THIS MORNING

Playoff of the eastern and the western divisions of the Permian basin tennis league will begin on the three chat courts of City of Midland tennis club and likely on the concrete court of Dr. Thomas, at 8 o'clock this morning.

It was not known Saturday morning what western division club will meet the eastern division, whether Wink or Fort Stockton. These played Friday to determine the right, but no results had been forwarded to the secretary of the league here.

The season ended with a three-way tie in the western division, Pecos, Wink and Fort Stockton. Wink, in a playoff, defeated Pecos, leaving Wink and Fort Stockton to decide the winner.

Seven gold and silver plated cups will be given, as well as that number of gold filled medals for runners-up. In team play, four members of each team, two paired in doubles and two playing in the singles, are eligible to win cups. In the individual doubles, each member of the winning team stands a chance of winning a cup. The losers will receive a runners-up medal. In the individual singles, the winner gets a cup, the loser a medal.

Eight three-out-of-five matches will be played.

Teams representing the eastern district follow: Team singles—L. Levinson, Dick Nelson, Theo Ferguson and James Walton of Midland; team doubles—Levinson and Ferguson, Nelson and Walton, Midland; individual singles—Joe Davis of Big Spring; individual doubles—Levinson and Ferguson of Midland.

Team members of Fort Stockton are: Marvin Butz, J. Rollins, Bradford, Bacon, in the order of which they are grouped for doubles play. Wink team members are McElvaine, Whitehead, Barnett and Holden, in order.

Officials are Harry Neblett, R. R. Simms, J. S. Schow and N. J. Willis. It is planned that the matches be completed Sunday.

ODESSA AND CRANE DECIDE SECOND HALF

ODESSA, Sept. 3.—The title of winner for the second half in the Permian Basin baseball league will be decided here today, when the Odessa Oilers entertain the Crane team on the Odessa diamond. The Odessa and Crane boys are the only ones now in the running for the second half title, and the winner of today's game will play Wink, winner of the first half, on Sunday, Sept. 10, for the league pennant.

Last Sunday's play definitely set the race for this half between Odessa and Crane, Odessa defeating Iran at Irwin by 14-7, Wink winning at Midland by 7-6, and Crane winning from Midland at Crane 9-7.

The league standings, at this time, follow:

Odessa	7	6	1
Crane	7	6	1
Wink	5	3	2
Iran	6	3	3
McCamery	7	3	4
Midland	6	1	5

Monahans Tennis Court Completed

MONAHANS.—Work on the double tennis court on the high school grounds at Monahans has been completed, according to Slick Hogg, chairman of the committee in charge of the court.

One hundred yards of caliche and 24 yards of chat were used on the standard size double court, built at an approximate cost of $100.

The court was built under the auspices of the Monahans Lions club, school board, business firms and tennis fans.

Odessa Broncs Begin Practice

ODESSA.—Approximately 25 men reported for the first training meet of the Odessa high school football team, the Broncs, Thursday, when the football season in Odessa officially opened. Anthony Hunt is the new football coach.

Five letter men and four of last year's squadmen were among those to report.

Indications are that the team weight will average around 150 pounds.

Marie Dressler and Wallace Beery in Co-Starring Role in "Tugboat Annie"

WALLACE-BEERY and MARIE DRESSLER in TUGBOAT ANNIE

With Marie Dressler as Annie, redoubtable feminine skipper of the tugboat Annie, and Wallace Beery as the irresponsible but irresistible Captain Terry, "Tugboat Annie," much heralded filmization of Norman Kella's Saturday Evening Post stories, opened Sat. prevue at the Yucca theatre. The picture marks the first co-starring appearance of Miss Dressler and Beery since the memorable "Min and Bill."

Directed by Morryn LeRoy, who directed "Gold Diggers of 1933," "Little Caesar" and other hits, the new picture tells a vivid story of Northwest waterfront with the two central figures cast in imitable roles. Laughs, thrills, tears and tense drama all have their share in the narrative.

Miss Dressler plays the aggressive feminine tugboat captain whose husband, Beery, is a shiftless drunkard. Throughout various entertaining episodes they are seen in hilarious quarrels and difficulties. Then their son grows up and becomes the captain of a liner. To save him from a wreck the "useless" father comes through with an heroic sacrifice.

Robert Young, last seen in "Hell Below," plays the son, with Maurine O'Sullivan in the juvenile romantic lead. Prominent roles are also played by Willard Robertson, Tammany Young, Frankie Darro, Jack Pennick and Paul Hurst. Much of the picture was filmed with actual tugboat thrills at Seattle Harbor. Hundreds took part in some of the film's spectacular scenes.

Among the story's highlights are the race for the wrecked ship, Beery's comical theft of the tug's hawser and its denouement, the breaking up of the school's commencement program, the hilarious celebration aboard the liner when Miss Dressler samples the punch, the stirring rescue sequence, the run of the tug to the rescue through scudding seas, and Beery's "big moment" when he enters the firebox of a boiler to plug its keeling tubes and thus saves the endangered ship of his son.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED

Apple Annie, an old apple vendor, on Broadway, and good luck charm for Dave the Dude, a gambler, has a daughter in Europe who hasn't been seen since a child. Annie has sent money over for many years for the girl's schooling and the girl, Louise, has been under the presumption that her mother is a society woman. The girl has been brought up with the best of everything and naturally, her companions are of Europe's society class. She falls in love with a young Spaniard, Carlos, son of Count Romero. Annie, through arrangement with a porter of the exclusive Hotel Marberry, receives her mail there under the name of "E. Worthington Manville." She receives a letter from Louise saying the girl is on her way to New York with Carlos and the Count, for the Count is anxious to meet her mother. This, of course upsets Annie.

CHAPTER III

Happy turned to Shakespeare. "Listen, Stupe—all you had to do is ask any panhandler on Broadway—" Shakespeare interrupted. "Yeah—that's it. There ain't no panhandlers on Broadway."

"What?" The Dude almost roared. Shakespeare shook his head, mystified. "Hope my mother croaks if that ain't the truth—I walked all over town for hours. There ain't a beggar on the streets. Gee, the town looks funny."

"I suppose," the Dude belatedly, "we've all gone to Europe for their vacation."

Shakespeare gulped. "Search me. The thing's got me scared. The town is like a morgue."

The Japanese servant entered. "Man to see you. He name Schultz. "Schultz? A blind man?" asked the Dude.

"Yes. He no can see."

"Bring him in." The Dude turned to Shakespeare. "They're not around huh? You better get that dizzy blonde off your mind."

"Aw," Shakespeare sulked, "I don't think about her in the daytime."

The door opened and blind Schultz came in, tapping his cane before him.

"Hello, Schultz." The Dude's cheerful greeting died in his throat and he started in amazement at the picture that unfolded before his eyes. A parade of panhandlers of every known variety and specie of beggar trailed behind Schultz. Some hobbled in on peglegs, others on crutches—the last, Smiley, rolled in on a little board fitted with wheels.

Dude, Happy and Shakespeare stared at the odd parade scattered around the room. Smiley finally broke the silence.

"Fetch her in," ordered Dude.

Happy's mouth opened. "Missouri Martin! What the—"

"Yeah—Missouri Martin. The old gal herself—howzit, boys?" Missouri walked over to Dude and planted a kiss on his cheek. "How's my baby?"

A parade of young girls followed Missouri into the room, most of them dressed in dainty white aprons. Some carried little satchels; others, huge packages. The last in was Pierre. Effeminate and excitable, he fluttered into the room.

"Well," said Missouri, "here they are, sucker. The gang that keeps me broke but beautiful! There was a lot of truth in Missouri's bantering remark, for the group consisted of a maid, a hairdresser, a manicurist, a beauty specialist, chiropodist, masseuse, and Pierre, the superintendent. "They're all ready for the slaughter. Where's the victim?"

Annie was perceptibly frightened by the extent of the preparations being made in her behalf.

"Ah! There she is," Missouri had spotted Annie. "What material for a bunch of hungry artists! Look at them—their tongues are hanging out. When they get through with her, she'll look every bit as good as me."

"That'll do no good," said Happy. "The idea is to make her look like a lady."

Missouri grimaced. "Ouch! Laughing boys' in again."

"Come on," said the Dude. "You're wasting time, Missouri!"

In an hour the ordeal was over and Annie appeared before her critical audience. But—a new Annie! Wrinkles had vanished—her eyes were bright—her manner was aristocratic.

"Folks," said Missouri with a flourish, "meet Mrs. E. Worthington Manville."

"They stared at her in amazement, for Annie was—miraculously—"

Annie remained silent.

"Hey," said Happy. "You mean to tell me Rodney Kent let you have his apartment for her?"

"Yeah, he's just as big a sucker as I am, I guess." The Dude handed a telegram to Happy.

Happy read: "THE WHOLE DAMN SOUNDS INSANE, BUT GO AHEAD. USE THE APARTMENT. MY ONLY REQUEST IS MAKE CERTAIN NO ONE PAINTS MOUSTACHES ON THE PICTURES. RODNEY."

"Hey, Dude, come here a minute," Happy drew Dude aside. "Look—I got Babcock all set. That's our bread and butter. What's this? What're you wastin' time here for?"

"I know, I know," said the Dude in a low tone. "You think I'm screwy—but I got an idea. For years Annie's been lucky to me, hasn't she? Well, she's in a jam now. What kind of luck would I have if I passed her up at a time like this?"

"So you're gonna try to palm her off as a society dame, huh?" Happy made a wry face.

"It's only for a week," explained the Dude. "The Count and his son are goin' back on the same boat."

Happy shrugged disgustedly. "Well I'm a pigeon-toed Chinaman."

The butler interrupted. "Miss Missouri Martin."

"We're returning to the business of making a living, if it's just the same to you," Happy answered.

"So you think you're through, huh?" Missouri's hands went to her hips defiantly. "How about that husband she's supposed to have?"

J. W. Parks is here from Breckenridge, visiting his son, Roy Parks, and family.

—every inch the dowager queen. She walked over to Dude—or rather, she glided!

"I'll never forget this, Dude." Her voice broke. "God bless you!"

The Dude's voice was hoarse. "Okay—okay! You're all set now. You look fine. Fool anybody. Nice work, Missouri. Come on, Hap—we better get going."

"Hey, wait a minute, you guys!" called Missouri as they started to leave. "Where do you think you're going?"

AUTO RACES TO OPEN TODAY AT ODESSA TRACK

ODESSA—Ten knights of the roaring road will be flagged at 2 o'clock today and Monday when they compete in the races on the new speedway two miles north of Odessa, on the Andrews highway.

The promise of auto races in Odessa, which was announced last week, has caused much comment among sports fans of a wide area. These are the first races of this kind to be held in this region and many are expected to come from all over the southwest to see them. It is believed that a regular racing season can be built up here.

Due to the rains which have fallen in the past few days, the track will be in excellent shape for the fast driving, and the races should be even more hotly contested than was expected. Among the well known drivers to have entered their cars in the races here this week are Carl Mayfield of Oklahoma City, Waldo Barnett of Wichita, Kansas; Sam Wolfe of Levelland, Texas; Posey Reeves of Oklahoma City; Otto Flynn of Lubbock; Earl Bonney of Broadview; Jake Thompson and Allen Rieger of Plainview; John Crow of Monahans, and a number of others.

Carl Mayfield will drive his races through a burning board wall at 70 miles per hour, as a special feature attraction. The wall crash will be just before the sweepstakes, longest race on the program, open to all cars.

Tennis Squads Arrive Sunday

Members of the Pecos and Wink tennis squads will arrive in Midland at 8 o'clock this morning to take part in a playoff of the eastern and western divisions of the Permian Basin Tennis league, according to a late telegram received by Theo Ferguson of Midland, acting secretary.

It had been expected the clubs would arrive here Saturday evening, so that team members might have adequate rest before the playoff. Rooms and meals had been arranged for them.

In the Friday playoff of Wink and Pecos, Wink's team won the team play, and Murray of Pecos the singles. Murray and another Pecos man, Green, won in doubles.

Woodpecker Checks Flood the Country

FORT SAM HOUSTON—From Maine to California, the United States mail from the division and post finance office here today is carrying allotment checks to the dependents of the 4500 Civilian Conservation Corps workers in the district of Texas. One check goes to a mother in Bangor, Maine, and two go to Los Angeles. The others are scattered, with 95 per cent to addresses in Texas. For while the "tree soldier" earns the good pay of $30 per month in addition to his keep, $25 of this amount must go direct to the family dependent upon the boy. The $5 that he may keep pays for his tobacco and other personal expenditures. In each camp, there are also leaders who draw $45 a month and assistant leaders who get $36. They may keep this extra money or allot it, as they please, and to their credit be it said many of the extra pay men are sending this money home also.

The total amount disbursed on August 1 from Fort Sam Houston for the pay, including allotments, of the C. C. C. enrollees in the 24 work camps in the Texas district amounted to $143,777. Of this amount approximately $24,000, or nearly an average of $1000 per camp, was paid to the C. C. C. men in cash, the remainder, nearly $120,000, was mailed out in checks. Approximately the same amounts are being paid again today for the August payrolls.

RICIDULE POINTS FINGER AT HUEY

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 1.—Huey P. Long, Louisiana's battling Kingfish, returned to the home grounds today and found his political enemies calling him a "national menace."

Consolidation of M-System Stores

Consolidation of the No. 1 M-System store with the No. 2 store has been announced by the proprietors, W. B. Simpson and Terry Elkin, effective Saturday night.

The number one store will be closed after that time, the sales force moving to the larger store at 200 West Texas avenue. Repainting and renovation has been done in that building recently.

The proprietors, in an advertisement today, state that the consolidation, with its reduced overhead, will enable them to sell at lower prices and to render better service to the public.

Mrs. Hilda Phelps Hammond, chairman of the women's committee of Louisiana, made public a telegram to New York newspapers, sent by the committee condemning the senator's "vicious attack against President Roosevelt's valiant effort to restore prosperity to America through the NRA."

"Women of Louisiana have watched their state lose a Republican form of government through Senator Long's corrupt political machine," her message stated, charging the senator had "intimidated the people through reprisals" and had "disregarded himself here and elsewhere."

"We now feel that this state menace has become a national menace. Women of Louisiana appeal to the women of the country to stand with them in a concerted effort to insist that the United States senate rigorously judge the character of this man," the message said.

A large crowd waited at the railroad station, but Long left his train at a suburban station. Four bodyguards took him into immediate tow.

Two thirtled a newspaper photographer, a usual procedure.

"How about that black eye?" shouted a reporter.

"Go to hell," shouted Huey, climbing into his automobile, which was trailed to a night club.

Business men pointed out disappointedly that Long had gone to Milwaukee to invite the Veterans of Foreign Wars to hold a convention here, but had become so upset by his black eye that he forgot all about it.
