BARKS AND GROWLS

BY KAY NINE

The Mastiff Group which has not altered in important particulars from several centuries B. C. to the present time. In ancient times, this dog was used for hunting, but in more modern times was chiefly employed as a watchdog. They are powerfully built, smooth-coated dogs, large specimens standing as much as two and a half feet at the shoulder and weighing as much as 170 pounds. The head is high and massive, with short muzzle and more or less wrinkled skin; the ears are small, set rather high on the head; the body is long, the legs strong and set wide apart, and the tail is tapering and carried low.

LATE EXTRA !!!

Bill Simpson, local head of the California Co. just dropped into the office with an envelope containing $435 collected from the office force to help buy the kid's ice cream cones. All other cash donations welcome. There will be a surplus of ice cream money, it will be used to reward the school rooms who worked so hard by pictures for their rooms or some such form of recognition. Or some may be turned over to the P. T. A. for work in the schools.

The ordinary type of bulldog is an example of the mastiff. The English type weighs about fifty pounds, but miniature breeds may be less than half that weight. The so-called French toy bulldog has erect "bat" ears. It is thought that the pug, now so seldom seen, is also from mastiff stock.

Connecting the mastiff group with the greyhound group is the Great Dane, believed to have originated in a cross between the mastiff and greyhound, the resulting breed combining the size and strength of the former with the speed of the latter.

Christian Church Revival Held Here Oct. 15 to 29

Evangelist and Mrs. W. C. Cole of Des Moines, Iowa, will arrive in Midland next week to lead in a revival at the First Christian church. The revival opens on Sunday morning, Oct. 15 and will continue over Sunday, October 29. These workers are now in a meeting with the Fairmount Christian church of Kansas City, and will close there in time to reach Midland for the opening service of the revival.

Evangelist Cole is a graduate of Drake university of Des Moines. Following his graduation from the university he served for years as pastor of Iowa churches. He was pastor of Capitol Hill Christian church at Des Moines, one of the strongest churches in the state, for five years, resigning that position 12 years ago to enter the field of general evangelism. For 12 years he gave his time continuously to the evangelistic field. During this time he conducted 156 revivals, resulting in 23,645 additions to churches. His work has taken him to every part of the United States and to several distant lands.

Associated with the evangelist is his wife, who is also highly trained. Mrs. Cole directs music, serves as soloist and directs children's work. Committees have been appointed in the local church, and the work of preparation for the campaign is going forward steadily.

FINALE IS DOUBLE PLAY, BASES FILLED

In one of the greatest games in the history of World series play, the New York Giants won a sensational 11th inning game from the Washington Senators this afternoon, to take a three to one lead in the four-best-out-of-seven-game series.

The game ended in a nerve-racking tempo, with Bolton, pinch-hitting Senator coming to bat with the bases loaded and one man down—and hitting into a double play.

Carl Hubbell, great New York pitcher who is playing in his first World series, completed his 20th consecutive inning without allowing an earned run. From the fourth inning, Washington had a runner on base in every inning except one, and the great left-hander for the Giants did not crack. At more than one stage relief pitchers warmed up in the bull-pen, but Manager Bill Terry listened to the stands, yelling for Hubbell to be left on the box.

The game was tied up at 1-1 in the seventh, when Hubbell fumbled a bunt from the bat of Kuehl. From there until the eleventh, when the Giants pushed over a run, the game went scoreless. In the stands many fainted as the intense excitement grew more gripping each second, and one collapsed in front of the Washington dug-out.

Monte Weaver, who pitched a great game, gave up both runs, a home run by Terry in the fourth and giving up three hits and a run in the eleventh. He was relieved by Jack Russell, who was not touched for a hit.

Ryan, Giant shortstop, proved to be the other hero of the game, eventually driving in the winning run in the eleventh, and being on the receiving end of the killing double play in the last frame. In the fourth he struck out with the bases loaded, and was by way of being the goat of the losing base.

ONE MORE BLOW AT THE CRIMINAL

Whenever you take up the problem of crime and its prevention, you are pretty likely to find yourself talking about the lawyers before you get through.

Attorney General Cummings' announcement that the Department of Justice is preparing to open fire on lawyers suspected of underworld connection should not be surprising. That there are lawyers who work hand in glove with notorious crooks is perfectly obvious—as, likewise, is the fact that the crooks can't be curbed effectively until something is done to the lawyers.

"One of the most important elements of predatory crime," says the attorney general, "is the manner in which some members of the bar co-operate with the underworld."

Any man accused of crime, no matter how black his reputation, is entitled to the best legal defense he can get when he gets into court. That much goes without saying.

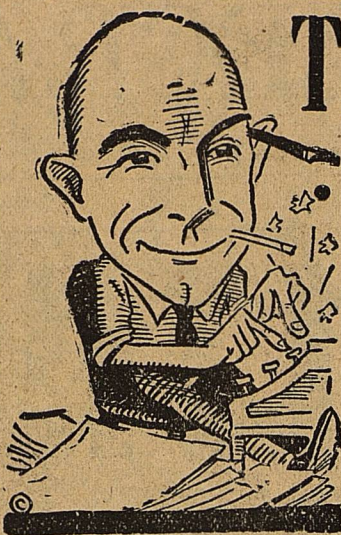

But what the attorney general is talking about is the lawyer who advises the gangster on how to commit and cover up crimes, who helps him slip out of the law's grip when he gets caught, uses trickery to guide him safely through the courts, and in general steps over the ethical borderline in looking after his interests.

There are lots of lawyers like that. Everyone who has had anything to do with the criminal courts knows it perfectly well. So far the various bar associations of the country seem to have been either unwilling or unable to do anything very effective about putting such lawyers out of practice.

As an emergency measure, action by the federal government would be a very good thing. Uncle Sam has taken on a lot of unfamiliar jobs this year; if he wants to tackle the racketeers of the legal profession, now, we can do nothing but wish him lots of luck.

But in the long run the job is up to the legal profession itself. A much finer sense of the necessity of living up to the profession's ethical standards, a finer sense of the lawyer's responsibility to society as well as to the client who happens to be paying him, a passion for justice and a recognition of the fact that a lawyer can soil his hands by handling the wrong kind of business—these are things we must have if the house cleaning is really to be effective.

Sandy was boasting to Angus about the boy he had worked for him at his place of business. "He's a grand lad," said Sandy. "Every morning he comes to the office at the stroke of five, cleans up the place and puts everything right for the day. Every morning, mind you, at the stroke of five."

"But how do you know he's there every morning at the stroke of five?" asked Angus. "You're never there yourself at that time."

This made Sandy suspicious and the next morning he showed up himself at 5 o'clock and he had his watch in his hand. The office boy was not there. Five minutes later he was not there and then another five minutes elapsed. And then at exactly 11 minutes after five the boy rushed in panting. He flung his coat and cap aside and started to plunge into his work when Sandy stepped in from the next room.

"So my lad," he roared, "you're keeping banker's hours!"

A Scotchman was told that the United States had dropped the gold standard.

"Where?" he asked excitedly.

Someone has sent this in: A lot of persons who have woves hanging around their front door are trying to make out that they are police dogs.

A Scotchman was reading a paper and he burst into tears.

"What's the matter?" someone asked him.

"J. P. Morgan is dead," he replied. "But you're not related to him, are you?" he was asked. "That's just it," he said.

"Dr. Bull" Coming with Will Rogers At Yucca Theatre

Name it and you can have it," said the Fox company to Will Rogers when they bought James Gould Cozzens' best-selling novel, "The Last Adam." Rogers named it "Dr. Bull" and proceeded to make the genial doctor one of his best screen characterizations, truly as great as any human as his role in "State Fair."

But the picture, which will be on view at the Yucca theatre at a Saturday night preview and on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday is more than a star vehicle. Through the eyes of the doctor one sees the joys and sorrows of an entire New England community. Dr. Bull has time for every thing—even for courting a widow. But first he has to solve the romantic problems of some of his younger clients, one of whom happens to be the daughter of the town's capitalist.

It's a great story and John Ford has brought it to the screen with a fine feeling for the human drama latent in every life. In doing this he has the artistic co-operation of a splendid cast of supporting actors, including Vera Allen, Marian Nixon, Howard Lally, Berton Churchill, Louise Dresser, Andy Devine, Rochelle Hudson and Tempe Pigott.

Made-to-Order Film Features New Co-Stars

Mary Boland and Charles Ruggles, who have been featured together in numerous recent pictures, are co-starred in "Mama Loves Papa," a comedy written especially for them, which opens with a preview Saturday night, running Sunday and Monday at the Ritz theatre. Norman McLeod, director of the Four Marx Brothers in most of their screen appearances, megaphoned the production.

"Mama Loves Papa" is a story which permits both Miss Boland and Ruggles to display their particular types of comedy to the best advantage. They are cast as a middle-aged couple who live outside a big city and commute to town each day, Ruggles to tease fellow office-workers with his puns, Miss Boland to absorb ideas of "culture" at popular lectures.

In addition to Miss Boland and Ruggles, the cast includes Lilyan Tashman, Walter Catlett, and George Barbier in important roles.

Atlantic Fish Found In Waters of Pacific

PORTLAND, Ore. (UP)—A lantern fish, deizen of the Atlantic Ocean, was found swimming in the surf along the Oregon coast and captured bare-handed by Charles W. Farnsworth.

The fish was 4 1/2 feet long and has a dorsal sail-like fin three feet long. It has large eyes and exceedingly long, sharp teeth. How it found its way into northern Pacific water is a mystery, as it is rarely found in the Pacific, except off the Mexican and Japanese coasts.

Records from many cities have proved that the most dangerous time of day for both riding in automobiles and walking is in twilight hours, because there is neither enough daylight nor artificial light.

FOOTBALL SKETCHES

BY R. C. HANKINS

While baseball grips the fancy of the world and the football fan of other weeks involves his conversation with baseball averages, a few of the boys gather in the midst of the hubbub to discuss football. A phlegmatic phan writes in the midst of the longest forward pass in the annals of grid play. She asks if it is true that that long pass made by Brick Muller of California in the Rose Bowl against Ohio State in 1921 holds the record. We cannot answer for the matter is disputed. California papers did not agree on the yardage of Muller's pass, and a scattering few other colleges and universities claim to have completed passes equally as long. Muller's pass was unofficially said to have bulled 70 yards before it was plucked out of the ether. Some papers say the play started on the 45-yard line, which would have been a 55-yard completion. Another sets the distance as 52 yards.

Hal Grandy dies not claim to have been the longest pass record, but he wonders if many fans ever saw many cross-country efforts excelling those pegs of Ab Wright, halfback of Oklahoma A. & M. Wright, who played for the Aggies by one year, 1927, quitting school to join the St. Louis Cardinals for a try-out, could throw the ball most of the way across the field. The story most famous in the Missouri Valley relates that in a game with the Kansas Aggies the Oklahoma Aggies needed a touchdown. They had the ball somewhere short of their own 20-yard line. The signal was barked, Wright grabbed the ball, danced around trying to find a receiver in the open and finally cut loose with a long pas that was caught by Tubby Schacher, end, in a few steps of the Kansas Aggie goal line! They still argue about the distance, most saying it was a few feet more than 80 yards.

They still laugh at another incident of the play. The pass was so long the Kansas safety laughed at the Oklahoma end as Schacher dashed passed the safety towards the goal. The ball was so long in reaching its destination, the two rivals had time to hold conversation. "Where the devil do you think you're going?" twitted the safety man. "I'm going back yonder and catch a pass," said the flying Schacher. And he did, taking the ball fully 20 yards from where the astonished Kansas safety stood.

With the passing of Ab Wright, Oklahoma A. & M. was always dangerous, even in the last split minute of a game. Playing Tulsa university one day the Aggies came to the last five minutes sadly behind. The stands started emptying. Then Wright cut loose with a barrage of passes. The air literally was filled with footballs. Three touchdowns were put over in less than five minutes and the game ended with the Aggies only two points behind, 28-26.

Into the pow-wow dropped Jimmie Harrison. Jim saw lots of good football, besides coaching a winning high school team. He told of Bill Weaver of Central Teachers (Oklahoma) punting from his end zone one afternoon and the ball being downed by Jap Wood on Tulsa university's 10-yard line! The punt goes down for 90 yards, but actually, rules or no rules about measuring punts, the ball traveled only a few inches short of 100 yards!

Jimmie tells about a long pass, too. Shag Herndon, standing on or about his 35-yard line, whipped a pass over the goal line to "Cherry" Campbell to win a game against Southwestern Teachers of Oklahoma. Before the pass the score had been 12-7, and the game ended 13-12. That, sleepy reader, is the finish that makes strong men go mad and tear lamp posts from the pavement later in the evening. That also accounts for the fact that football rapidly becoming America's favorite game, draws greater crowds at times than any representative game of the World's series.

Not to cheat George Elliott Jr., his papa, Ben Dublin, Ellis Cowden and a few of those who can't think of anything but baseball these days, we might relate some incidents of baseball that have happened in Oklahoma of recent years. Hal Grady's still-talking Oklahoma A. & M. was playing Missouri university in the spring of 1928. Missouri had a one-armed pitcher who was bearing down on stricken Oklahoma batsmen and Oklahoma, in the last half of the ninth, was trailing by 13 runs. The Aggies succeeding in getting three men on base in this frame and, with two men out and with the count three balls and two strikes on a batter who had not hit in 21 consecutive times at bat slammed out a home run and Oklahoma, quick to fall in line for a rally, tied the score that inning with 13 runs, and won the game in the 10th.

Speaking of landslides, maybe George Elliott will be interested to probe further into the old question of "What's in a name?" A young fellow named George Elliott "Eck" Allen, backfield ace of West Virginia university, is the apple of Coach Greasy Neale's eye. And why not? Last year he upset Marquette by personally making five touchdowns. His chance to make all-American this year is excellent. West Virginia's schedule including Pitt, Fordham, Temple, Wisconsin, Washington-Jefferson, etc. The boy starred in high school football for the famous Asland, Ky., Bearcats. No. 23 will not always be known as the unsung man from the mountains.

This correspondent acknowledges the courtesy of George H. Gentry, principal of the Big Spring high school, in sending us three tickets for the Big Spring-Pampa game of Saturday. While it appears we will not be able to attend, we have made tentative arrangements for the tickets to be used by friends who can cover the game for the Reporter-Telegram as well as this department. A tip to those who want to see a good game Saturday, go to Big Spring. No one will be disappointed. Pampa is as well known for its play in the Panhandle as Big Spring is in this section of West Texas. Its club lost a decision to the Sponer champs the other day, and Lubbock won 14-0 over Big Spring. Both clubs will turn on the power and try to grab their favorite line on the Sunday sports pages. Tickets are 50 cents for adults.

prizes but could always use more, as they add to the interest of the events. Interested citizens of firms wishing to be represented by a prize may phone The Reporter-Telegram office till noon Saturday. Some of the children entering dogs do not have the money to buy the necessary soap and flea powder to groom their pets for the show—so any sort of prize could be used. No effort has been made to see every one but all prizes are welcome. Three unsolicited donors called this office this morning with offers of prizes. Bill Blackman's Texaco Service Station offered $1 cash prize, as their code does not permit free distribution of their products as prizes. Does anyone else have an extra dollar?

The Rev. Winston F. Borum remarked last night that all Midland seemed to be rapidly going to the dogs.

Bill Conner, of the Hokus-Pokus meat market, has donated a week's supply of dog meat as one of the prizes. In giving this prize, Bill remarked that he was particularly fond of little dogs and was hoping that it might be awarded to Robert Dunagan's Chihuahua puppy. However, the judges are of the opinion that a prize of this nature would be more appreciated by some such dog as Mr. Jones' giant Newfoundland, "Prince," or Chas. McClintic's "Laddy VI."

The judges for the posters and stories entered by the school children were chosen from local citizens who had art and journalistic experience. They found the entries so uniformly good that decisions were very hard to make. The prize winning stories will be printed in Sunday's paper, if space allows, and the other stories will also be printed during next week. All posters will be on display at the show Saturday and the winning ones will be placed in the chamber of commerce window next week that everyone may have a chance to see them.

Children are taking a great deal of interest in the various events of the show and there will be many in costume, which will add a carnival air to the show grounds.

Entries up to Thursday evening included 19 dogs, registered or subject to registration, and 55 mixed breeds, variously classified on the entry blanks, as "mixed," "common dogs," etc. One child, in a burst of frankness, classified his as "cur." One dog was described as a mixture of "Spitz, collie, German police, Pekinges, etc." and in the column devoted to remarks, the owner volunteered the additional information "a swell dog." The judges feel that everyone will be interested in seeing a dog with the antecedents mentioned.

Patsy and her manager, W. G. Riddle, refused to make any statement today as to whether the fan game would be put on. However, Patsy's barker, Bob Patrick, volunteered the information that powerful political influences were at work and it seemed likely that the mayor would grant the permit. Rumor has it that a local modiste is even now at work on the pink malleine panties, an exact replica of those worn by the original Sally which enable her to get by the Chicago censors for so many months.

Dog Show Doings
Owing to the large number of entries, there will be three judges each for the groups of dogs registered or subject to registration, and five mixed or "plain dawgs." Entries, prizes, stories and posters continue to roll in.

The school children are tending into the dog show with such enthusiasm that the committee would like to give a free ice cream cone to each entrant in appreciation of their efforts. Various business men have already contributed cash for this purpose.

Come over to the SUNNY SIDE OF LIFE

Do you want to feel always at your best? To meet each day with fresh vitality? You can. For when you're healthy, you're happy.

A delicious cereal provides the "bulk" that is so important in overcoming common constipation.

Tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN also supplies vitamin B to further aid regular habits. In addition, ALL-BRAN is twice as rich in iron as an equal weight of beef liver.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. What a relief to enjoy an appetizing cereal instead of taking patent medicines.

Serve as a cereal or use in cooking. Directions on the red-and-green package. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

HOWDY FOLKS!

It won't be long until I'll be seen 'n' you and this time I have the best story I've had since I quit rasslin' steers and started into this picture business! This picture is based on the best seller "The Last Adam" by James Gould Cozzens, and believe me the role of "Dr. Bull" fits me like a pair of tighties! I court a widow in this picture and I win her, of course all my time isn't taken up courtin' because people still have babies, and by the way—speakin' of babies, I haven't lost a father in 20 years! —But I shouldn't tell you all about my new picture—just take off a couple of hours and drop by the Yucca Sun, Mon., Tues. and you'll enjoy yourself a plenty!

TO OUR CUSTOMERS

We have made arrangements with the "M" System Store to have all of our grocery orders filled at their store, due to our early morning fire. When you phone 296, the operator will give you the "M" Store and one of our regular clerks will fill your order. The M. W. George Market was not damaged by the fire and all kinds of meat can be bought at his market.

Those wishing to pay their accounts will please come to our store, as one of us will be there.

REMEMBER

Our grocery orders will be filled at the "M" System by one of our own clerks and meat orders will be filled at Mr. George's regular market place until further notice.

We shall greatly appreciate your patience until the amount of our loss has been passed upon by insurance agents, after which we shall continue to operate as formerly.
