CATTLEMEN OF 29 COUNTIES DISCUSS FREIGHT RATES HERE

MEETING WILL OPEN THURSDAY AT 10 O'CLOCK

Feed Rates of Area Of Drought Also To Come up

Cattlemen from 29 West Texas counties have been called to meet in Midland Thursday morning at 10 o'clock.

The meeting is for cattlemen, county judges, commissioners, county agents, chamber of commerce officials and others interested in seeing lowered feed and cattle freight rates in the drought stricken areas.

The call as sent out by C. H. Snyder, chairman of a committee appointed at Denver, follows: "At a recent meeting of stockmen assembled in Denver, Colo., the executive committee appointed a committee to look after the interests of stockmen in the drought area of Texas, with C. H. Snyder of Colorado as chairman."

"It is desired to go into the matter of a resolution passed at the Denver meeting requesting railroad rates to be reduced to one-half or all feed shipped into the drought area and that livestock be given free return transportation to the original shipping point with above rates applying whether destination is on the same road of original shipping point or not when cattle are shipped out for grass or feed."

"It is important that the county agent be present at this meeting as it is necessary for him to certify the county before it can be classed as being in the drought area. If the county agent is not present it is desired to have a letter from him at this meeting."

"Prompt action is very necessary in order to make it possible to cooperate in holding the cattle off the market and to feed them for a season. One section of Texas near Amarillo has already perfected these plans."

"We are inviting all interested parties to be present at the meeting from the following counties: Searcy, Dawson, Borden, Gaines, Andrews, Martin, Howard, Mitchell, El Paso, Hudspeth, Culberson, Reeves, Loving, Ward, Winkler, Ector, Midland, Glasscock, Sterling, Coker, Tom Green, Tison, Reagan, Upton, Crane, Pecos, Terrell, Crockett and Schleicher."

"If you know of other counties in the same condition we will appreciate your notifying us or even extending to them an invitation for all interested people to be present at the above meeting. E. B. Spillers, secretary and general manager of the Texas & Southwestern Cattle Raisers' association will be with us to help work out the plan."

"A queen is to be elected at the rodeo and will be chosen from among the duchesses representing various towns of the Southwest. The Midland duchess, if one is selected, will sit in a special box at the show each day, as a guest of the rodeo and will ride in the grand entry at each performance. Her photo will appear in the leading daily newspapers."

Busty Waller, Hilton manager at El Paso, and former manager of the Scharbauer here, is in charge of this part of the program."

Late News

HYDE PARK, Aug. 29. (UP)—President Roosevelt issued an executive order today permitting gold exports under treasury regulations.

AUSTIN, Aug. 29. (UP)—A hearing to determine regulations for the Greta oil field was postponed today from August 31 to September 15.

EL PASO, Aug. 29. (UP)—Adrian Pool was expected today to take the oath of office as federal customs collector here Friday. His resignation from the state board of control will follow, friends said.

CLEBURNE, Aug. 29. (UP)—W. H. Barker, 56, and his wife, 52, were found fatally shot in bed at their farm home near here today. A niece, Helen Sutton, 7, discovered the bodies. She spent the night with the Barkers last night and heard a shot. Barker was shot in the mouth and his wife in the heart. His gun was nearby.

Bootleggers Patriotic in NRA Campaign

Bootleggers are better patriots than a few fanatics in Midland! At any rate, according to some of the reasons secured Tuesday in President Roosevelt's NRA campaign, bootleggers signed up while some others engaged in other enterprises did not.

"Yes sir, I'll sign up and I absolutely won't buy my sugar and malt from any store which fails to display the Blue Eagle," said one NRA minded person who does not deny making at least one of those concocting malt, vinous or spirituous liquors. Workers pointed out that all who refused to sign could not be classed as either fanatical or unpatriotic, some merely lacked correct information on NRA's attempt to put worthy men back to work.

STUBBEMAN GAINS VOTES IN REEVES

About 20 additional votes went to Frank Stubbeman, Midland attorney who seeks the office of 38th district representative, vacated by the death of B. Frank Haag, when complete returns of Reeves county were received this morning.

Reeves polled 322 votes for Stubbeman, 336 for Bert F. Howell, which makes Stubbeman's lead approximately 800 to date. Under the law, commissioners courts are required to meet and give returns two days after the special election, and send these to the county judge of Reeves county, the statutes designating Reeves county as a central location. That county judge will issue a certificate of election to Stubbeman, in case he is elected, as seems certain, later sending complete returns to the secretary of state.

Rum Runners Await Outcome

PHILADELPHIA (UP)—That rum runners are awaiting the repeal of prohibition with an attendant decrease in the cost of handling liquors, have been caching boatloads of smuggled rum along the Jersey shores was indicated here by federal agents. The price of smuggled liquor to the consumer is said to be about $25 a case, and the cost to the rum runner for shipping, trucking and incidentals, is approximately $13.50 a case, leaving the smuggler a profit of $11.50—if all goes well. Since the liquor can be bought in St. Pierre de Miquelon for as low as $5 a case, and the heavy costs of smuggling will be eliminated by a repeal of the prohibition laws, rum runners will be able to make a much larger profit by simply starting a big supply and "sitting pretty," federal agents said.

Foot Quieted Skunk For Seven Hours

BYRON, Calif. (UP)—Howard Grimes, Byron rancher, kept his foot firmly planted on a skunk's tail for seven hours until fellow-hunters came to kill the animal. "I was walking through the underbrush when I felt something soft under my foot. When I looked down, I realized I was in for it. For if I lifted my foot, zowie," Grimes explained. Meantime, members of his hunting club believed him lost and set out in search. He heard them crashing through the brush after a seven-hour wait and called them to his side. A club killed the "black and white kitten."

APPOINTMENT RECEIVED IN MONDAY WIRE

Resignation of Bob Smith Automatic On Qualifying

Appointment of Robert Hamilton of Martin county to district attorney of the 70th judicial district, subject to his qualifying, was made in a telegram Monday from Governor Miriam A. Ferguson. In telephone communication, established by The Reporter-Telegram with Hamilton soon afterward, the Martin county attorney said W. R. Smith, who lately was appointed U. S. district attorney for the western district of Texas, had offered his resignation Saturday, to take effect upon the appointment and qualification of his successor. Smith was appointed district attorney by former Governor Dan Moody, and served his appointive, one full elective and eight months on his second elective term.

The history of Hamilton is wrapped in years of law school, school teaching and law practice. He was graduated from the University of Texas law school in 1927, after having taken his B. A. degree from the same university in 1923. It was through the assistance of Mrs. Ferguson that he was given a job at the university during his student days. He was employed by her during the last campaign for Mrs. Ferguson, and during the campaign he could not have been finished. From that time, he has been closely associated with Mrs. Ferguson and former Governor James M. Ferguson, and during the last campaign for Mrs. Ferguson, he spoke on behalf of her candidacy in several West Texas counties.

Out of the university and faced with changing economic problems, Hamilton began teaching school, becoming successively a member of the faculties of the Plainview, Sonora and Tyler high schools. He began his law practice at Tyler, where he became associated with the legal firm of Edwards & Hughes. He was there two years, then moved to Stanton. In November, 1929, he was appointed county attorney by the Martin county commissioners court and, in that capacity, served two elective terms. He is married to a former Tyler girl, Miss Lois Rogers, and has one child, Robert Jr. He is one of the first members of the Stanton Lions club and both he and Mrs. Hamilton belong to the Methodist church. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Hamilton, live at Troup, Texas. He was a nephew of the late Horace Hamilton, Stanton gin man who also owned a gin at Midland. Hamilton will file his oath and bond this week, at which time the resignation of Smith becomes automatic.

McKee Back from Insurance Meet

Roy McKee has returned from an agency convention of the Lamar Life Insurance company at Blain, La., where she had stopped for a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. T. Owen. They visited later at Corpus Christi with relatives and with the Rev. Edwin C. Calhoun, former pastor here, and at Harlingen with another former pastor, the Rev. Leslie Boone.

Feats Marked Life Of Arthur P. Davis

OAKLAND, Cal. (UP)—A modest gravestone marks the Washington grave of Arthur Powell Davis, but his work as "America's greatest engineer" will serve to perpetuate his memory indefinitely. Davis died this month at his home here after 18 months of illness. He left his mark on the physical face of the world as few other men have. He supervised building of 90 dams, severed two continents, united two oceans, built 15,000 miles of canals, put water on 2,000,000 desert acres, advised Russia how to reclaim another 10,000,000 acres of arid land and worked in every part of the globe.

NRA PLANS "BUY NOW" DRIVE TO GIVE BUSINESS MILLIONS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29. (UP)—The NRA today was considering a plan to inject $2,000,000,000 of new business into America's commercial life through a "buy now" drive. The plan would allocate purchase quotas to cities and towns. Actual buying would begin after the entire amount is pledged in agreements to buy automobiles, clothes, furniture and other commodities. Then Washington would give the signal to make the purchases.

HYDE PARK, Aug. 29. (UP)—President Roosevelt today appointing Secretary Ickes as national administrator. As such the president is head of the planning and coordinating committee for the industry and will supervise price fixing.

Minister Urges Non-Support of NRA As Campaign Staged in Midland Today

Seventy-five Stage House-to-House Campaign To Conduct Baptist Revival Here

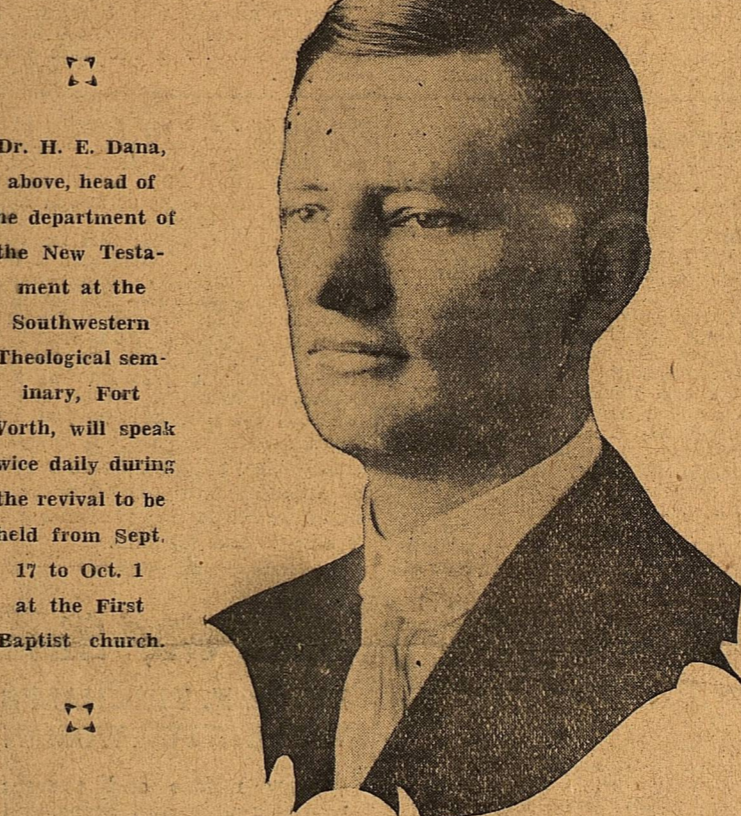

Nearly every householder in Midland signed NRA cards and stuck up stickers Tuesday morning. The work was practically completed by 11 a. m. through the patriotic work of Midland women and men. About 75 workers met at the chamber of commerce office and after a brief explanation of the aim and object of the consumers' agreement cards, set to work. The workers were so anxious to help they came back for additional territory. Very few people declined to sign. Members of one small religious sect refused to sign, saying their pastor had instructed them to refuse. The workers pointed out that nearly all of the few who declined to sign were the very ones who are calculated to profit most from the NRA movement, whose total aim is to put men back to work and relieve the unemployment situation.

Midland patriotism was at high pitch Tuesday as the workers went about the streets signing up hundreds of householders and giving them windshield and house window stickers. It is believed by officials of the NRA in Midland that all who refused to sign did so because of a lack of understanding of its aims and not because of any lack of patriotism. In some few instances, women, known to be patriots, wished their husbands to do the signing and, in other instances, men and women wished to study the plan in further detail. However, it is estimated that more than 95 per cent of persons seen signed the consumers cards, which read:

"I will cooperate in reemployment by supporting and patronizing employers and workers who are members of NRA."

Officials said Tuesday that due to so much territory being covered, some legal firms, including Edwards & Hughes, were not to be left out and all who failed to get cards or stickers may get both merely by asking at the chamber of commerce office. President Roosevelt has asked every man and woman heading a household or making his own living in the United States to show patriotism by signing the agreement. Officials asked that if any name accidentally were left out that such name be reported at once to the chamber of commerce office so such names may be enrolled on the president's list of honor patriots. RAINS CONTINUE OVER SCATTERED SECTIONS TODAY

Heavy skies, with light drizzling rain falling early this afternoon, followed a downpour early today which registered 1.1 of an inch. It was reported here, Rain fell at last several days to .91 of an inch at Midland. Outlying sections, particularly to the east, were having heavier rains. It was reported here, Rain fell at the Wolcott, Knox and Hyatt ranches northeast of Midland last night and this morning. To the north and northwest, additional showers were reported. The B. W. Floyd ranch, 25 miles southeast, was reported to have had an inch of rain. The Herd Midkiff farm seven miles south of Midland had a shower last night, and the J. E. Wallace farm was said to have had half an inch.

The J. O. Nobles place, ten miles west of town, had received a total of an inch and a half, he said today. Telephone reports indicated rains at Iatan and as far as eighty miles east of Midland. Crane, Wink, Hobbs and points in Ward county were reported by oil companies to have been receiving rains today. "This opinion I voiced was not designated exactly as resistance to a national campaign of the president," the minister said; "but to explain to members of my congregation the awful significance of Biblical forecasts."

MIDLAND PASTOR AT COAHOMA

The Rev. Winstan F. Borum, pastor of the First Baptist church, opened a revival meeting Monday night at the Coahoma Baptist church. He will be engaged in the meeting there for about 10 days. The Rev. J. L. Greene, Coahoma pastor, will preach at the local church both morning and evening. The deacons will be engaged in the day night prayer service this week and the women's organizations, with Mrs. W. W. Wimberly and Mrs. D. C. Girdley in charge, next week. Mr. Greene also will speak at the Brotherhood Bible class of which Mr. Borum is teacher, next Sunday.

Seven Die Result of Wreck of Train in New Mexico

AMARILLO, Aug. 29. (UP)—Five were killed in the crash of an Amarillo to Albuquerque Transcontinental Western Airways plane 20 miles south of Tucuman, N. M., last night. The dead were: Pilot Howard Morgan and Co-pilot W. J. Barcum, both of Kansas City, Mo. Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Gore of Albuquerque and their three-year-old grandchild. The plane left here at 11:35 last night. Details of the crash were incomplete.

PLANES COLLIDE; THREE ARE KILLED

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 29. (UP)—Three army fliers were killed in mid-air in an airplane collision near Randolph field today. The dead were: Lieut. Harley R. Grater, of Lebanon, Ind.; Cadet William Pasche, Chicago, and Cadet Harold R. Sandberg, Denver. Lieut. Louis A. Vaupre of Kalamazoo, Mich., instructor, broke an ankle landing with a parachute. The planes crashed 500 feet up while maneuvering for a landing. Grater and Pasche parachuted but were too near the ground. Sandberg crashed with his plane.

BRIDGE COLLAPSES; TRAIN KILLS SEVEN

DALHART, Aug. 29. (UP)—Seven were killed when a crack Golden State Limited Rock Island eastbound train crashed through a flood weakened bridge over Bajarita creek, five miles west of Tucuman, N. M., before dawn today. Engineer C. J. Crust of Tucuman, the only victim immediately identified, according to reports reaching here. Over a score were injured. Seven of the twelve coaches plunged into the stream. There was a four-inch rain in the Tucuman vicinity last night and rains had been falling for the past few days. A relief train was sent from El Paso. The injured were taken to Tucuman and some were brought here. Passenger lists were being compiled to identify the dead and missing.

A FORGOTTEN HERO OF "THE LOST CAUSE"

In a field flanking the Emmitsburg road, on the battlefield of Gettysburg, a Conservation Corps worker the other day saw a bone protruding from the soil. He notified the authorities and the ground was dug up.

There, just beneath the surface, lay the skeleton of a man. With it were buckles, buttons and insignia of the Confederate army—and a lot of bullets.

The field in which the discovery was made is part of a farm. It has been plowed almost every year since the battle took place. And all of that time this forgotten Confederate soldier lay there where his mates had buried him, sleeping in peace a few inches beneath the white frosts of winter and the rippling yellow wheat of summer.

There is a natural poetry in the working of chance, sometimes, and it would be hard to find a better example of it than this.

There is something so peculiarly fitting, so especially right, about this soldier's resting place. To pass from the unendurable turmoil and torture of battle to the infinite peace of a sun-swept wheat field, with the rustle of growing things and the ripple of wind to replace the crash of guns and the yells of desperate men—is not that a fate any soldier might envy?

And in this transmutation there is a summing-up of the outcome of all wars in all times and places. The armies come, they trample and stain the soil and fill the world's cup of misery to overflowing; and then, at last, the tide ebbs again, and the wide earth goes back to its business of growing things, and the bodies of the forgotten dead are reclaimed by the living soil.

Most of their graves are laid out formally in rows, with headstones and crosses to mark their place; but a few, on every battlefield, are quietly hidden away, to drowse out their peaceful eternity in close union with the plants which re-enact, each spring, the miracle of resurrection.

So it was with this lad—a youngster from Alabama, perhaps, or from Texas or Louisiana or Virginia—whose fate, it was to enrich a Pennsylvania wheat field for all time with a handful of southern dust.

And of all the thousands of young men to whom Gettysburg was the end of the road, it is not hard to feel that this one was the most to be envied. He got the ideal resting place. He gave Pennsylvania, forever, a hallowed bit of Dixie.

OUR MERCHANT MARINE

A spokesman for American merchant ship owners suggests that this country, spending vast sums to build up its navy, might profitably consider putting some more money into its merchant marine—pointing out that naval men the world over look on their merchant ships as the second line of defense.

"American patronage," he remarks, "is today supporting the auxiliary navies of France, Germany, Italy and England. We pay 85 per cent of the passage money spent on the north Atlantic. We constitute 70 per cent of the travelers and we take 95 per cent of all first-class cabin accommodations. Meanwhile every one of these great foreign liners which we support was built with an eye to quick conversion into a ship of war. . . . Most of them could sail as fully equipped armed cruisers within five or six days of the outbreak of hostilities."

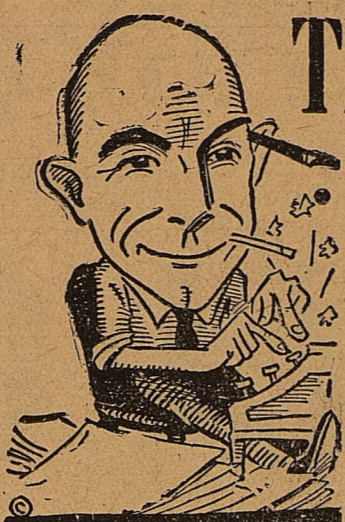

One hardly needs to be a jingo to admit that this situation does provide a little food for thought.

The curator of a New York museum declares that the "praying mantis" would better be called the "preying mantis," explaining that the insect holds its large forelegs folded in front of it not out of piety but in readiness to snatch an unwary fellow-insect victim. An illustration that "having the right attitude in life" is a matter of something more than physical pose.

"Why do you think this soap is so bad?" the new official said calmly. "We sell soap that is much worse. In general, I don't see that it's any business of your, Comrade. I think you'll have to make the best of it."

"It's too bad," said the modest citizen, "that I, president of the Council of Commissars, have to tell you that the soap sold by you for all citizens' is no good." A flood of explanations followed. Here's their recipe: Put a large cake of ice in a pan beside the gear shift lever; open the cowl ventilator, close all windows except one at the rear, and leave that open but an inch.

The air drawn into the car through the cowl passes over the ice and is cooled before it filters its way out the window, they explained. They claimed they could reduce the temperature inside their car 10 degrees under that outside.

War on Crime, Rackets Bring New Demands

WASHINGTON.—If the United States is to establish an American "Scotland Yard" for the new drive against crime, as it is said Professor Moley is thinking of recommending to President Roosevelt, there will have to be a vastly more intricate and extensive organization than the one which has built up such an enviable reputation in England.

For a difference between the two countries of several hundred thousand square miles in area, and some 80,000,000 in population, would mean a tremendous task for American police forces if they are to attain anything like the closely-knit coordination that exists there. Another difficulty of course, would be the United States' vestment of police power in the separate states, whereas the United Kingdom has a central government.

Officers Go Unarmed An additional factor in simplifying the policing of the United Kingdom is that even in London only 4 per cent of the population are foreign born, and elsewhere still greater majority have been taught for generations to respect British laws and institutions. So firmly grounded is this respect that the police go unarmed, even against the most desperate criminals. Another thing is: to flee from England, the criminal must take to the air or the sea, and they know that the chances are about 10 to 1 against them ever passing the closely guarded ports.

London is almost ideally located for a central headquarters of police. From its center, officers and trained men may be rushed in any direction to the scene of an investigation. After all, the whole United Kingdom is only about the size of the state of Michigan. But what would America do for a central headquarters? Washington, where the Department of Justice Bureau of Investigation is now located, would be pretty far behind if it were to send operatives to a case in Los Angeles.

The Lindbergh kidnaping demonstrated the terrible disadvantages of having police jurisdiction cut up into a hodge-podge of county and state boundaries. There is no such handicap in England. When a crime is committed in England, the nation's detective brain—Scotland Yard—at once sends out impulses to all its nerve centers, not only advising but ordering all forces into a single, united plan of action. There is no duplication of effort, no jealous rivalry, no clashing of loosely defined authority.

How Name Originated Many Americans have the idea that the detective force in England is the one called "Scotland Yard," and that Scotland Yard is an organization apart from the regular police department. As a matter of fact, the name is a mere pseudonym for Metropolitan Police headquarters, and the detective bureau is only a part of the regular force. Prior to 1890, headquarters was in a group of buildings surrounding a courtyard called Charing Cross. There had been quartered a force of Scottish Guards and there also was a palace assigned as a residence for visiting Scottish kings. Hence "Scotland Yard" a name that has stuck even though the present headquarters is on the Thames embankment.

The Metropolitan police force dates from 1829 when 1000 men were sent out on patrol. In those days they wore blue tail-coats and top hats, and carried rattles instead of whistles to summon assistance. To day there are 24,000 men and 500 working under a division called "Special Branch" are agents through out the empire.

Politics Kept Out Another thing—politicians do not and dare not monkey with the affairs of Scotland Yard. The commander holds rank almost equal to that of a cabinet officer, and he is appointed by the Home Secretary of the Crown, who corresponds to the American secretary of the interior. Today the head of the Yard is Lord Trenchard. His predecessor was Lord Byng of Vimy, commander of Canadian troops during the war.

American police officials often express amusement at some of the old-fashioned methods used by Scotland Yard. For instance, policemen on bicycles have been sent out on automobile thieves. It was not until 1913 that typewriters were introduced into the records department, and still later that a postal telephone system was installed, like that of many American cities. Today a visitor to the Yard registers with a quill pen, and in the Criminal Record office he sees clerks working in alpaca coats pattering through mazes of old and new files.

Rogues Gallery Complete Yet even the mention of the "Rogues Gallery" would give any criminal a goose-pimple. It is this department with its 350,000 fingerprint records and its amazingly complete data on the habits, methods and haunts of crooks.

Few Refuse to Sign; Uninformed

Midland is composed mostly of patriots! Perhaps all Midland people are patriots, but some are just uninformed or misinformed.

Only a few of very few people refused to sign the NRA consumers cards presented by President Roosevelt's volunteer workers Tuesday. It is hoped that not one person in Midland would refuse willingly to sign an agreement whose sole object is to put idle men to work. It is to be hoped that every person who refused to sign, made such refusal because he doesn't understand NRA, because he is uninformed or misinformed, and is not deliberately fighting President Roosevelt's superhuman effort to relieve America's distress.

The response was "glorious," workers and NRA officials in Midland declared. The workers themselves were warmly lauded by officials. "It was the greatest campaign, the fastest, the most efficient put up in Midland since war days," the NRA secretary declared. "Midland people are patriots. They are ready to help do their part. They signed NRA almost unanimously. Midland people are behind President Roosevelt, and we hope the very few who did not sign, yet do so, because it is the best plan yet devised to help the distressed unemployed people get jobs."

Guns Bring End to Two Gun Careers

The furious gun battle between the murderous Barrow gang and an Iowa posse had just ended near Dexter, Ia., when this picture was made. Blanche Barrow, left, center, struggled frantically with two officers, her face a mask of terror and hatred. Marvin Barrow, her husband, called "one of the three worst killers in the United States," crouches on the ground at right, six bullets in his body. Other members of the gang escaped and are being pursued in a hot manhunt which seeks to bring them to justice for a series of robberies and murders from Texas to Iowa.

She Flew Back Home to Mother

that has won the Yard much of its fame. In America at present police hand bills are sent out over the country from scores of different sources. In England all such matters are issued by Scotland Yard. There are two daily papers—the Morning Report and, in the afternoon, Printed Information. The Police Gazette is gotten out three times a week and there are five weeklies, each for a specific purpose. The Illustrated Circular reports the movement of the wandering crooks, and The Weekly List of Habitual Criminals tells of those that have just been released from prison. Then there are The Pawnbrokers' List, and the Cycle List, for the recovery of stolen goods and The Black List, giving the names of habitual drunkards to whom it is forbidden to sell liquor.

How Plan Would Work If Uncle Sam had a Scotland Yard it doubtless would function similarly as a central clearing house of all such criminal information. Also, like the English system, it would ordinarily have the efforts of local police in any area, while at the same time it could dispatch trained investigators to the scene. Officials interested in the plan do not believe that individual police power of the separate states would be a serious handicap to interstate authority. For one reason, the federal government probably could easil find some violation of federal law, in almost any kidnaping or big racketeering case, since the crossing of a state boundary probably would be involved somewhere during the commission of the crime. Secondly, a means has been proposed whereby one or more representatives of "The Yard" could be stationed in each state and coordinate both state and federal authority.

Senator Royal S. Copeland, now conducting racket investigation hearings as the basis for legislation to be submitted to congress next fall, suggests that each governor assign from the state police one or more men to be trained in Uncle Sam's "Scotland Yard." Each man, on the completion of training would return to his state, resign his former position and accept an appointment as a federal agent. At the same time he would be given a dollar-a-year appointment as an official of the state police.

In the latter capacity he could engage from the outset in the investigation of any important criminal case. If the case turned out to be of national importance, "The Yard," the official would automatically assume complete charge of it as a representative of the federal government.

"Tomorrow at Seven" Is a Mystery Thriller A novelist who writes crime plots undertakes to unmask the maniacal killer who warns his victims with a jigsaw puzzle and then strikes the hearts with a sharp instrument which is never retrieved. In "Tomorrow at Seven," an RKO-Radio Pictures murder mystery thriller at the Yucca, featuring Wednesday night Chester Morris and Vivienne Osborne.

Written by Ralph Spence, author of "The Gorilla," "Tomorrow at Seven" unrecels this fiendish murder mystery. The novel, which has expended a fortune to uncover the madman, receives a death threat. To foil the slaver, he takes his secretary, Winters; Martha Winters, his daughter; Neil Broderick, the novelist; two detectives and two pilots aloft in an airplane. At the set hour, high in the air, Winters is stabbed to death.

One of the seven living aboard the plane is guilty. The detectives assemble their suspects in an eerie deserted mansion in the swamp lands. Here other sinister occurrences lead to a breath-taking climax. A letter, containing the criminal's name is found in Winters' pocket, but is snatched from the detective's hand in the dark before it can be read. A pilot is killed. Martha is kidnapped. A bogus coroner enters the scene. Chester Morris and Vivienne Osborne are featured in "Tomorrow at Seven" as the novelist and Martha Winters, respectively. Others prominently cast as Henry Stephenson as Drake; Grant Mitchell as Winters; Allen Jenkins and Frank Mitchell as the detectives; Cornelius Keefe as the pilot, and Charles Middleton as the coroner. Ray Enright directed for the Jefferson Pictures Corporation.

The all around playing of W. Whitmore and Girdley, with the hitting of H. Whitmore and Cook, were features of the game.

Boy Realizes His Ambition in Film

It took young Frankie Darro two years of maneuvering around Hollywood to finally accomplish his most cherished wish; but when he did it, he did it with a bang.

Two years ago, Frankie had a good part in "The Public Enemy," the picture which suddenly raised James Cagney to stardom. Frankie and Cagney to stardom. Frankie and they did not work in any scenes together.

Since then, Frankie has been wishing to play in another picture with Cagney. Being sixteen years old, energetic and impressive, Frankie conceived a great deal of hero worship for Cagney whom he patterns after in "The Mayor of Hell."

His wish was realized when he won the most important boy role in Cagney's latest Warner Bros. picture, "The Mayor of Hell," which comes to the Ritz Theatre Wednesday and Thursday, the bulk of the picture of which revolves around a reform school operating under such a system of cruelties as to merit the title of "Hell."

Chicago Air Races Draw Many Stars

CHICAGO, Aug. 29. (UP)—Officials today are preparing to enter the plot of world aviators here in a four day aerial festival which begins Sept. 1 and continues the 2nd, 3rd and 4th. The affair, to which 32 nations have been invited, is to be held at the Curtiss-Wright-Reynolds field.

Air talent from all over the world will assemble to race, exhibit mass formations, float balloons and thrill the hundreds of thousands with their stunts. Especially sensational will be the racing of planes, in which events, officials say, the standings of the various pilots and their ships will be ascertainable. Such great American air speed demons as Maj. James H. Doolittle, James Hailzlip, James Weddell, Roscoe Turner, Arthur C. Chester, Lee S. Mills, and George H. Rague will compete.

The Gordon Bennett balloon races is attracting considerable attention. Lieut. T. W. G. Settle, whose attempt at setting a new record for height here recently failed, heads the list of performers entered.

Amelia Earhart, America's premier woman pilot, is to compete in a special division of competition. Her flight is being pushed as a feature event. Col. Eddie Rickenbacker, America's own dare-devil, is at the top of the list of entries that include Arthur Wamamaker, and Ernest Udli, German ace.

Tom Love, master planner, and foe of Ferguson, kept in the background. But he was there when the drys met last week at Dallas to make their plans for a whirlwind finish.

British Praise Roosevelt for His Courage

By FREDERICK KUH United Press Staff Correspondent LONDON. (UP)—British opinion of Franklin Roosevelt, after the first six months of his presidency, is sympathetic and friendly, though tinged with doubt as to the ultimate success of his "planned economy."

Conservative economists have been denouncing him as reckless; socialists insist that any attempt at government planning within the capitalist system is foredoomed to failure; but all criticism here is mingled with admiration for Roosevelt's courage in shouldering the responsibility, taking risks and acting.

Popular Interest Popular interest in his policy is immense and, although emotional views have prevailed over expert judgments, the alleged passivity of the British government is being individually compared with the intense activity of the Roosevelt administration.

Not only in parliament but in the press and on the street, abundant evidence is to be found that British sentiment favors collaboration with Roosevelt. Even though an important section of British industry and agriculture prefers an ingrown policy of economic isolation, the pressure of the Dominions, notably Canada and Australia, is strongly pulling Britain towards measures in harmony with the United States.

Bankers Peaved Bankers here have not ceased to resent Washington's unexpected abandonment of the gold standard in April. Unbiased commentators here understand, and the fair-minded section of the press has tried to make clear to its readers that Roosevelt is not primarily concerned with the lowering of the dollar in relation to the pound, franc or mark, but wants the dollar to be worth less goods. It is realized that his objective would best be gained if other countries pursued a policy of inflation in concurrence with that of the United States.

Dead Turtle Head Strangles Chicken

HALLS, Tenn. (UP)—Mrs. John Hollaway ventures for the following story: Recently she killed a large turtle near a pond in the rear of her home. The head of the turtle, its mouth open, was thrown into the chicken yard. One of the hens began pecking at it.

The turtle head grabbed the chicken in a deathlike grip and strangled the chicken, Mrs. Hollaway claims.

Barber Hunts 30-Year-Old Bicycle

MODESTO, Calif. (UP)—Felix Anaya, Modesto barber and dancing master, today was sure a crime wave was about to engulf California. Somebody, he told police, stole his 30-year-old bicycle.

"Only a desperate criminal or somebody who is slightly off balance would want it. It took terrific power to make it go." He said he felt toward the aged vehicle "like a father toward a son."

Collie Saved Pup Found Buried Alive

SAN RAPHAEL, Cal. (UP)—A mother collie's instinct saved one of her puppies from being buried alive here. Kate, the collie, gave birth to six offspring. Elmer Hansen, her owner, decided three were enough and drowned the rest. Then he noticed one of the remaining puppies was "cold and stiff," so he put it in a bag with the drowned animals. He buried them in his backyard.

Hours later, Kate was seen scratching and whining about the grave. Frantically she tore at the dirt, seeking to remove it. Finally, Hansen said, she reached the sack and shook it back and forth. He decided to investigate. Inside the bag he found the "cold and stiff" puppy revived. Kate grabbed the rescued child, carried it to her box, and bathed it lovingly.
