LOAN APPLICATION FOR GYM EXPLAINED

The following report on Midland's application to the Public Works Board for a self-liquidating loan of $70,000 for a physical education building will be of interest to those interested in seeing the project put over. The report is given by request through Superintendent W. W. Lackey, who appeared in behalf of the public works organization at its Fort Worth. The Midland superintendent had two conferences with Hon. Clifford B. Jones, regional director, and Col. Robert A. Thompson, state public works engineer, on Monday and Tuesday before the meeting of the Texas public works advisory committee on Thursday.

Many of the applications from West Texas have been steered through and by the West Texas chamber of commerce at Stamford in order that those applications which needed it might be revamped by the legal and engineering talent of that organization. Since the Midland application was in book form, bound in fabric, and on the proper federal blanks, it was not necessary, it was thought, for any changes or additions to be made to it. In fact the Midland official was told that it was the best-looking application which had been inspected by the West Texas chamber of office in Fort Worth.

The Midland application was prepared by Dr. Jno. B. Thomas, president of the Midland board of education, one of the largest individual taxpayers in the Midland independent school district, who has taken the lead in the movement for a physical education building for Midland and in making the applications. He is a zealous advocate of a course in health and physical education for the Midland student, and is endeavoring to see realized a suitable building for such purpose.

Accompanied by O. W. Fannin, a graduate of the Midland high school, and the University of Texas, both academic and law school, and former county attorney of Midland county, the Midland representative appeared before the public works committee at its first official session on Thursday, the Midland men being the second delegation to appear in person. Like other big men the public works committee told the Midland men that they had engaged an expert and took his advice, namely, that they had employed Robert A. Thompson, as their engineer, and that they did not even know what an application was until he had passed it over and made his recommendations. While that was true, they were glad to hear official representatives on the high points of their application.

Lackey told the committee that he was representing the board of education of the Midland independent school district in making application for a self-liquidating loan of $70,000 to build a physical education building, same to include a band room, a manual training room, a cafeteria with capacity of 200, and a gymnasium proper with seating capacity of from 1000 to 1500.

The three requirements, picked by the committee, (1) those which will afford the greatest amount of employment, (2) those which will best fulfill a public need, and (3) those which can be satisfactorily financed, were claimed to be met in the Midland application. It was pointed out that Midland had her share of unemployment, naturally, but since the drought and so little planting was possible, unemployment among the farmers and others was greatly aggravated. The claim was made that substantial farmers would barely be able to send their children to school without outside help by jobs or employment of some kind. More than 50 per cent of the money asked for to help re-employment, it was pointed out, if one considers the labor required to prepare the material used in the project, 80 or 90 per cent of the money will be used to aid re-employment. The second requirement, that of the public need, was shown in the fact that state authorities have said that a physical education was all that the Midland system needed to make the set up perfect. Such building is needed, it was shown, to teach physical education, required of all schools, and to take care of basket ball tournaments in Midland which has been designated as a University Inter-collegiate league center for ten counties. Those tournaments would be held at the district center without the needed building, and the state committee recommended for Midland a gymnasium-auditorium with a seating capacity of 1500 seats. The claim was made that the former clear and $150 per month of the latter clear, the project would cost $150 per month.

STUBBEMAN TO BE CERTIFIED TODAY, BELIEF OFFICIAL LEAD ONLY 398, TABULATION INDICATES

Certification of election to the post of representative from the 88th district of Texas is expected by Frank Stubbeman, Midland attorney, in this morning's mail.

Only by a trip to Reeves and to Upton counties Friday did he learn for positive certainty of his election, and then found that his estimated lead of 800 votes over Bert F. Howell of Rankin had dwindled by official count to 398. His total for 13 counties was 2760, Howell's 2362.

The difficulty in obtaining official results of the election was based on several counties not having reported returns to the county judge of Reeves county, charged by law with receiving them and passing them on to the secretary of state. Results of the election, in full are given below for the first time:

County	Stubbeman	Howell
Midland	755	32
Marion	360	110
Ector	171	115
Ward	25	197
Andrews	69	23
Winkler	218	113
Loving	78	18
Reeves	322	366
Jeff Davis	106	53
Presidio	58	338
Pecos	197	502
Crane	45	98
Upton	56	391
Total	2760	2362

Stubbeman leaves Midland Monday for Austin where the special session of the legislature will be convened Thursday. He will not close his law office while he is gone, having a young attorney who formerly practiced at Eastland receive his clients. He will return to Midland within 30 days, he believes.

Mrs. Stubbeman, a teacher in the Midland public schools, will remain here.

Gay Songs and Beauteous Girls In Ritz Showing

If Paramount would only give us the address of Mid-West University, whose gorgeous co-eds, tuneful melodies and irresistible comics came to the screen of the Ritz theatre last night in "College Humor," there'd be a general exodus from all other universities.

It's a sparkling panorama of the college that lives eternally in the old grad's memory, and a cast of celebrities help to make it gay, melodious and delightfully good to look at.

Featured are Bing Crosby, Richard Arlen, Mary Carlisle, Jack Oakie, George Burns and Gracie Allen, Coach Howard Jones of the University of Southern California, Lona Andre, Mary Kornman and a collection of co-eds, titled the "Ox-Road Co-Eds" that make the Follies chorus look like a bunch of wilted daisies.

At Mid-West University, when the all-winning football team plays, there's not a garter in the grandstand among the co-eds who roll their own, and the reputations that the heroes make on the gridiron are lost in the parlor.

It's that kind of place where classes are minimized and dates take the place of studies, in the wee small hours. To it, as a freshman, comes that perennial braggart, Jack Oakie, and "College Humor" traces his career through four years that pass at too quickly on the screen. As a matter of fact, if colleges were like that, you'd never want to graduate.

Bing Crosby sings three new songs that you'll hear from rockbound coast to rock-bound coast through the summer—"Learn to Croon," "Moonstruck" and "The Old Ox-Road," the Ox-Road being any place where, according to Mid-West tradition, a couple is spending a few "pitty" hours.

Instead of the gray beards that drone through class-room hours at the usual Alma Mater, Bing Crosby is the leading (and most popular) instructor at this Alma Mater, and he sings his way into the hearts of the blondes and brunettes that break the hearts of the city-weak football stars. Burns and Allen run the campus sweet shop in their typical manner with Gracie making apple pies out of bananas because she doesn't like apples.

Going through its press room this morning by way of the back door we thought we had by mistake strayed into a Turkish bath establishment. ## PERFORMANCE SATISFACTORY

Gar Wood in his "Miss America" was successful in defending the Harmsworth trophy against Sir Herbert Paine the English challenger. Gar Wood's boat is rather unique and has been frequently described. Suffice it to say that it is powered by four Packard engines of 1600 horsepower each, or a total of 6400 horsepower.

The Harmsworth trophy race is an outstanding speed event in America and the selection of our products by Wood for his engines is a compliment of the highest order.

These are not specifically motor boat engines. They are specially rebuilt Packard engines. They might be said to be of aircraft type or even more truly automobile engines of the future.

Gar Wood stands as a mechanical authority and experimenter and his influence extends far beyond motor boats into the field of racing automobiles, airplanes and, in fact, all internal combustion engines. He specifies Texaco oils and gasoline.

Fred Wemples Entertain with A Gypsy Party

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wemple entertained a group of friends Friday evening at a Gypsy party at their home, 504 North Loraine street.

The lawn, where the guests were assembled, bore the appearance of a Gypsy camp. A fortune teller's tent, a camp fire, horses staked about the grounds and other features made the setting realistic.

The Rev. Winston F. Borum was the Gypsy of the camp. Stationed at a remote spot, darkened to guard the camp's secrets until the guests were initiated into the Gypsy order, he administered the oath.

Several Gypsy games were played. Sandwiches and coffee were served around the camp fire, the black coffee being dipped from a large black pot swinging over the blaze. Later in the evening, punch and cake were served.

Attending were Messrs. and Mmes. Earl Ticknor, W. I. Pratt, R. V. Lawrence, Elliott H. Barron, Percy J. Mims, L. B. Pemberton, Barney Greathouse, Winston F. Borum, and T. Paul Barron; Mr. Sam McCowan and the hostess.

But who wants to drive 80 miles an hour

Henry Ford
Dearborn, Mich.

The Ford V-8 will go 80 miles an hour. But how many people wish to drive 80 miles an hour?

Hardly any. The speed is there for another purpose. If a car is to be alert and comfortable and economical at 50 or 60 miles an hour, it should be capable of going faster than that.

A car, like a man or a horse, should have reserve power to do ordinary things well, without showing strain or effort.

When you drive at your usual moderate rate, and yet to keep up that rate your car runs at nearly its top speed, you are not getting an easy ride and your engine is not doing an easy job. It is wearing itself out.

That is why the Ford V-8 is built to precision standards and engineered to do 80 honest road miles (not speedometer miles) an hour — so that it might go 60 or 70 miles an hour all day with the utmost ease, and with no strain on car or driver. Let us add, and without excessive use of gas and oil.

It is the margin between what you have and what you use in an engine that makes for comfort, longevity and economy.

It is much safer and far more economical to run 60 or 65 miles an hour in a car built to do 80, than it is to run at the same speed in a car built to do 65 or 70. There will be no excess noise — no overheating — no heavy laboring — no straining mechanism — because there is power in reserve.

The benefits to the customer of having a Ford V-8 able to do 80 miles an hour, are numerous. In the first place, such a car must be extra strongly built. It must have a better steering gear. It must be perfectly poised and balanced. Its wheels, springs, axles, frame and brakes must be of the finest strength and design.

In the second place, a car thus built for the higher speed ranges proves most alert in the lower speed ranges. In traffic it is not speed you want so much as quickness. You want instant response and quick acceleration. The high speed reserve of the Ford V-8 gives you that.

The advantages of a high speed car are not in the speed alone. You may never drive at high speed. Few people do. But to make speed possible, the car must be built to last longer, to run smoother, and to use less fuel.

Everything must be up to the 80-miles-an-hour standard to give you superlative performance at the lesser speeds.

12-Year-Old Fight of Rep. McClintic, Midlanders' Relative, Ends in Victory

Playing at Yucca Today

This article relates to the activity of Congressman Jim McClintic of Oklahoma, relative of Charlie and Harry McClintic of Midland in connection with the enactment of the federal law which will guarantee deposits in state and national banks after Jan. 1, 1934.

Congressman McClintic has never been a banker, but he has had vividly impressed upon his memory the kind of banking transactions that have always caused him to take a lot of interest in legislation relating to this subject. He was a member of the banking committee in the Oklahoma legislature and while serving in this capacity wrote some of the provisions that are now in the state law. His interest in this subject was probably occasioned by the disastrous experience he had in connection with banks in Texas. He deposited the first $5 that came into his possession in a bank. Then, one day an acquaintance of his by the name of Sparks, who resided in Waco, visited his town and asked him to be introduced to the bank, and not being acquainted with banking regulations, he wrote his name on the back of a check, and when the check proved to be bad to his amazement the bank kept his $5.

Later he was persuaded to invest his first $100 in banking stock, and the directors traded the bank for some real estate. In Texas he which was bad investment, and his $100 went up in smoke. Afterwards in Oklahoma, he deposited some money in a bank in one of the counties in his district, and the cashier forged his name to a check and wiped out his balance and departed for places unknown. Then came the various bank failures which resulted in additional embarrassment, to the extent that he made up his mind that the greatest veil in the nation is the failure to protect the interest of depositors in banks from having their money taken away from them because of mismanagement, bad investments, frozen assets, et cetera. So it is no wonder that when the people of the seventh congressional district of Oklahoma elected him to congress he began working on this subject and presented a bill which in some respects is similar to the one that is now a law.

On Dec. 13, 1930 a tall, lank, country congressman from the seventh district of Oklahoma walked down the aisle of the house of representatives and deposited the first bill that was ever introduced in either branch of congress for the purpose of protecting depositors in failed banks in the future. The speaker promptly referred this bill to the committee on banking and currency, which was headed by the Hon. Louis T. McFadden, of Pennsylvania, and if the truth were known, he must have grinned when he read the provisions contained in the same, as there was absolutely no sentiment to speak of in either branch of congress favorable to such a measure. Anyhow, the Oklahoma congressman was convinced that the day would come when such a bill would be enacted into a law, and being possessed of the kind of bulldog tenacity that causes a person to carry on when he thinks he is right, he promptly asked Chairman McFadden for a hearing on his bill.

The hearing was scheduled and set for Thursday, Jan. 20, 1931. As a rule, when an important measure is to be heard, there are always present witnesses and experts from the treasury department, representatives from banking institutions and the usual crowd of on-lookers. However, on this occasion not a single visitor was present, as no one had dreamed that such a measure would ever become a law. The official record, which is found on page 4121 of the Congressional Record, dated May 23, 1933, gives an account of the hearing which took place on Jan. 20, 1931, as follows:

"The Chairman: Gentlemen of the committee, Representative McClintic wants to be heard for a few minutes on the bill he introduced in connection with the guarantee of deposits of banks and, if there is no objection, we will hear Mr. McClintic at this time."

Chairman McFadden was of the opinion that the Oklahoma congressman would only consume a few minutes, but he did not know the persistency and determination of this witness, and the Congressional Record shows that a running debate was carried on in which several members of the present committee on banking and currency took an active part, including Chairman Steagall, Congressman Lane of Massachusetts and Stevenson of South Carolina, the present chairman of the Home Loan bank board. Chairman Steagall on this occasion asked McClintic, a question, as follows:

"Mr. Steagall: Is not this true, also, that bank failures are often brought about by periods of depression that no one in the world can anticipate and by psychological developments that cannot be anticipated; so that really a big bank, a strong one, prudently managed, can never be said to be exempt from the dangers that attend banking as faced by the smaller institutions; also being in one inseparable system?"

This statement made 12 years ago by the chairman of the committee that piloted this bill through both branches of congress is very significant, as in a sense it predicted exactly what took place covering the decade that brought so many disasters in banking circles.

RECOVERS SUNKEN TIMBER

BEAUMONT (UP).—Slim Martin and Collin LaBlue, who are otherwise unemployed, have managed to eke out a fair living recently by salvaging sunken logs from the mud of the Neches river. The logs, which have been kept for years in a perfect state of preservation by the water, are sold for $8 per thousand board feet. They have recovered about 200 logs and expect to get about 400 more. Some of the recovered logs are estimated by Martin to be about 65 years old, dating back to the earliest days in the lumber industry of the Sabine district. The manner of cutting indicate their age.

Martin and LaBlue carry on all their salvaging operations by hand labor. The logs are located by the use of "sinker flats" or frame-works built across two rowboats. A line is strung across the river and the "sinker flat" moves along the line while the men aboard probe the bottom of the stream with long poles. When a log is located tongs are lowered to grasp it. It is then raised with a windlass and hauled ashore for the trip to the mill. South Carolina is known as the Palmetto state.

"Proud and glad to do our part"

WITH President Roosevelt's acceptance of the NRA Automobile Code, Chevrolet, the world's largest builder of motor cars, officially begins operations in accordance with the administration's recovery program.

Although the official code was signed only a few days ago, it will be of interest to Chevrolet's many friends to learn that the Chevrolet Motor Company started to carry out the spirit of today's recovery program over three years ago!

At that time, we put into operation a "share-the-work" plan, whereby our workmen cooperated in spreading the work to give more men jobs. By means of this plan, as well as by regulating hours of work per week to meet retail demand, and by building up parts stocks in lean seasons, it was possible to carry 33,000 men on our payroll through the depression. For eleven months of each year since 1929, we have kept our employment within 10 per cent of this average. We are justly proud of that record. We are also proud to say that Chevrolet workmen did not, at any time during the depression, become a burden on public welfare departments.

On August 1st of this year, Chevrolet announced a blanket wage increase as well as the adoption of a 7½-hour, 5-day week and the employment of 12,000 additional men. This wage increase was the second in the last 4 months, Chevrolet having been among the first to put a blanket wage increase into effect.

We feel that the President's recovery program deserves the whole-hearted support of every citizen and manufacturer in America. It is a bold, swift, courageous plan to start the ball rolling toward economic recovery. Its sincerity is unquestioned. Its objectives are admirable. And the direct, forceful steps the President and his associates are taking to make it a success, should stir the pride and admiration of every American.

We are proud and glad to do our part. And we are deeply grateful to the American people for the patronage that has enabled us to anticipate the present recovery program and to play our part today. After all, the immense number of men employed by Chevrolet is a direct result of the continued preference America has shown for Chevrolet.

ODESSA, WINK WILL PLAY AT ODESSA TODAY

ODESSA, Sept. 9.—In the first game of the Permian Basin league play-off, at Wink, the Odessa Oilers defeated the Wink nine, 2-0. Playing great ball behind the pitching of Hanna, the Odessans outhit Wink 8 to 4. Brooks Travis, Oiler second baseman, was the star of the day, making a number of extra fine catches and poing out three hits, 2 singles and a triple, and crossing the plate for both runs of the game. Chief Manny caught a fine game, besides knocking in the first run with a hot single over second. Pippen slammed in the other run, also with a single. Watson, flashy little shortstop, poled out a triple to open the seventh, but did not score. The old combination of Lybrand and Doty worked well for Wink, as did

SEASON 1933
FASHIONS Ways
A CLEAN, white page is turned . . . a new season, new hopes, new ambitions. Start right . . . square your debt to yourself. Buy the clothes you want and need. Scrimping is no longer the fashion. Buying, entertaining, grand gestures are. Look expensive . . . it's the aim of all smart women, and it has its stimulating effect. And it doesn't mean spending exorbitantly. It means buying the correct, lavishly feminine clothes that just naturally look like money . . . without costing much. For instance the kind of clothes we have always shown.
