FOUR FIRESTONE LEADERS REWARDED BY ELEVATION TO HIGHER OFFICES

HARVEY S. FIRESTONE JOHN W. THOMAS

RUSSELL A. FIRESTONE ROSS J. COPE

The elevation of Harvey S. Firestone to the chairmanship of the board of the Firestone Tire & Rubber company marks the beginning of even greater activity by the noted tire manufacturer, who has built one of the greatest industrial successes the world has ever known.

try and in other parts of the world. Rather than any lessening or activity in the company which he founded with one of the most modest beginnings in industrial history, Firestone will become even more active. In fact, the years immediately ahead, with the world emerging from the depression, will undoubtedly be the most active of the famous manufacturer's career.

With the election of J. W. Thomas, vice president since 1919 and vice president and general manager since 1928, Firestone has as its new president one of America's outstanding industrial leaders. To the directorate is elected Russell A. Firestone, second eldest son of the founder of the company. Ross J. Cope, formerly vice president and general manager of the Firestone Tire & Rubber company of California, with its huge factory at Los Angeles, has been elected president of the Western Firestone organization.

Thomas has been with the Firestone company for 24 years. His first position was that of chemist, a job which Mr. Firestone created at that time in recognition of the fact that the rapidly expanding tire business would require highly specialized experts in the development of its various phases. Through the succeeding years, Thomas rose, step by step, to the office which he assumed today.

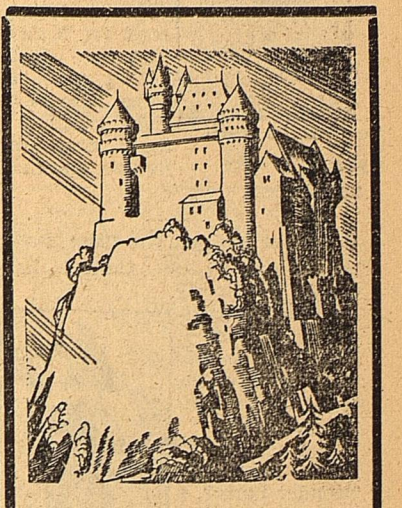

Russell A. Firestone, elected a new director of the company, has had a widely varied experience in the company and his advance has been steady, covering a period of seven years. In December, 1928, he was named vice president of the Firestone Tire & Rubber company of California. He played an important part in the development of the Firestone service store program. At present he is manager of the Akron sales district.

Ross J. Cope, newly elected head of Western Firestone, has been a member of the Firestone organization for 17 years. After serving with distinction in various positions with Firestone in the East, he was transferred to Los Angeles in September, 1925, as manager of the Los Angeles district office. Appointment as manager of the coast division followed in 1927. When the Western Firestone factory was opened in 1928 he was selected by Firestone as vice president and general manager of the Firestone Tire & Rubber company of California. His election to the presidency is in line with the policy of Mr. Firestone to advance men who demonstrate their ability to handle bigger things and shoulder greater responsibility.

THESE ARE THE IMPORTANT FIGURES In The Day's Boxing, Tennis, Golf AND TURF NEWS, AUTHORITIES CHANT

"Me take a $10,000 cut? I should say not!" roars Babe Ruth, swat sultan, as he returns unassigned to the Yankees a contract for one year of baseball at $70,000. But the Babe has indicated that $70,000 per might be acceptable if the contract were good for 2 years. The eyes of the nation are on the Babe, for as the Babe goes, so go the attendance figures. And that's no idle jest.

The only member of the world champion Cleveland Indians of 1920 still in the livery of the Ohio club is Charley Jamieson, veteran ball hawk. And now Jamieson may go any day now. Gossip indicates that Jamieson will be delegated to manage the Toledo Mudhens in the American association, a club recently leased by the Indians as a major league seasons.

Scotch jokes are often bum jokes, but there's nothing bum nor joking about MacDonald Smith, the smooth swinging Scot from Carnoustie, who recently annexed his third Los Angeles open golf championship. This may be the year of the Scotch peril, judging by the way Smith and Tommy Armour, formerly of Edinburgh, have started out. Tommy won the recent Miami event.

Mac Smith

Seems like they're always picking on big Bill Terry, the best first baseman in the National league, if not in all baseball. New York Giant executives have asked Bill to take a 40 per cent salary cut and the tall Tennesseean says "No! Not on your life." Terry is just as stubborn as the next guy and when he says he won't play for $13,000 a season, he probably isn't fooling anybody.

SPORTS REPORTS

By R. C. HANKINS

Tallyho! There are lots of women walking in funny fashion along our boulevards today. Misericordia! Just watch 'em.

It's the day after the night before. Sixteen of them hove in sight a few minutes after the quarter watch, arrayed like for a queen's ball. Four five-minute quarters with the medicine ball, besides an extra session, and they wearily panted their way home. That means they were tired, gentle reader, not that they didn't put their dresses on before the homeward trek.

While we're on the subject, several of the women could tell you why no sports writer has been elected mayor of a city. He would forget the key to the city, the gentle ones would explain. All of which, when unraveled, would mean that this department forgot to get the key and the ball for the women's basketball league. Several statements that resulted would hardly be in keeping with the sobriety of this column.

Tut! tut! Emma. We're going to tell you about it. Just be patient. As we were about to say, with our characteristic coherency (which means we get to the most important thing several paragraphs down in this column), the women lined up. As we didn't know which side was which, we are indebted to Baldy Nicholson for the names of the two aggregations. The girls from "Fondank" and the lassies from "Wagon Center." As we forgot to ask Baldy which team was from which place, we'll have to say that Lucille Cole, Willie Jo Pou, Ruth Robbins, Mrs. Dick Frazier and Mrs. Pat Curlin SEEMED to be lined up against Mary Pou, Vida Pate, Miss Minnie McClain, Mrs. Dub Hurst and Lorene Fine. Personally, we believe we're all wet, but, as usual, we throw the blame on someone else. None other, this time, than Grady Brown, an exceptionally accommodating young man who toots a mean ump-horn in the high school band. Our pencil and pad was made expressly for jotting down measures and gaits of men—so we asked Brown if he would do the charitable act and he wouldn't he thought?—took the census. Only three women refused to give their names. That was not because of Mr. Brown's failure to approach them right (he huddled nicely) but because our Doomsday book was finished with a white cover rather than a nice bedroom pink or mauve.

Oh, yes! The score was 22-2. Lucille Cole was responsible for the lone pair. Vida Pate had several little slams and accounted for 14 points. Mary Pou sighted straight for the basket a total of three times and Corinne Pate dropped in one ringer. Some of the others who played during the night: Mrs. Hickman, Melba Lee, Romia Roger and Mrs. Bill Cole. In case any of the names are spelled acrobatically, charge that up also to Mr. Brown. After giving him credit for knowing better, we must tip you off that he's a wrong-hander with the stub. We mean, when he writes he keeps his right hand in his pocket if the weather is chilly.

We always thought Ironhead was the ultimate when it came to referees. Not that he always calls 'em right, but he always was able to spin his way out of a tight place. But last night's game decided us against him. He got interested in watching the girls and thought the whistle between his lips was a cigarette. He kept placidly pulling at it instead of blowing, and the women played soccer football all evening. When one was knocked down Jess lifted her to her feet. If she turned a flip and rolled three summersaults she was penalized for traveling. Oh, well! Do you remember that Corinthia once went a-Maying?

Now to shift about to bigger and heavier feet. The kind that takes a pair to make a yarde. The men play this evening, Prairie vs Southern Ice in the first session. United Dry Goods and Clinic in the night-cap. Or the madcap, which? The question is merely rhetorical, in case anyone takes exception.

There he those who believe that basketball is not as firmly ensconced as last season, when there were six more or less powerful teams getting skin rubbed off their royal persons. But there were no women's clubs, please remember. The balance of power depends on both men and women, as the Iron Chancellor once remarked a tallyrand while putting poison in the Frenchman's coffee. With the men playing two nights a week and the women doing the same, who could assume that amateur athletics are not in a fair state of affairs?

Along blows Scotty Gemmill, playground ace from the mound, with a query that had to do with the playground ball pitcher who pitched six no hit games. Incidentally, Scotty, who's with the California company, had a row of figures that show no culprit got off with the revenue from the lately ended season—or else to show that playground ball pays in Midland. One or the other. We forgot to ask which. The mike's yours, Scotty. Okeh, California!

The following are contributory wise cracks from the estimable Col. Joe O'Goody: Coach Stagg will reward with a dime the football player who comes closest to guessing the score of each Saturday's game next fall. Amos must have gone into partnership with John D. Rockefeller.

Pepper Martin is one ball player who isn't worrying about a cut. If they slashed Pepper's salary he would be paying his way into the park.

With a cut like Babe Ruth's, Pepper Martin would have to pay the club $2500 for the privilege of playing.

Chicago doesn't need the Schmeling-Walker fight, now that the democratic convention is going there.

With all the practice they will get groaning over their contracts, a lot of ball players ought to take up wrestling.

Edd Roush has decided to quit baseball. And what a swell year this would be to hold out!

This correspondent is not one to be casting aspersions, but don't you think that the $200,000 fortune left by Bonsetter Reese suggests that the Bonsetter got a lot of breaks?

British newspapers emphasize the fact that Boy Land, a jumper, recently cleared the bar at 6 feet 3 inches. George Spitz could do that, carrying a size No. 9 anvil.

There is no middleweight champion, and now that Bat Battalino has taken on too much flesh, the featherweight throne is vacant. Well, that's one cheerful note in this depression, anyway.

It begins to appear that Max Schmeling will have to revise his ideas about making a million in America this year. Even racketeering

Hooks and Slides

By WILLIAM BRAUCHER Tidings from Dizzy Dean

Arithmetic, rhetoric, and etiquette are being taken up in a big way this winter by Jerome H. "Dizzy" Dean, himself, it is reliably reported by Operative Andy Anderson, of Houston, Texas, Andy writes:

"Andy French, secretary for the Houston Buffs, has just returned from Missouri where he saw Dizzy Dean. The secretary reports that Dizzy is studying!

"Just before Dizzy left Houston last year he got real confidential with the writer. Last summer I wrote his life story for him and it was published in several hundred papers throughout the United States (by NEA Service). Dizzy appreciated the story, but indicated before he left here that he was going in for a lot of study so he could write his isn't showing its accustomed profit these days.

The New York supreme court ruled that F. X. McQuade, former secretary of the Giants, should be paid $10,000 a year salary dating back to 1928. And did you notice that a few days later handsome slashes in salary were handed to Messrs. Terry, Ott, Fitzsimmons, etc?

Jim Londres canceled a wrestling match recently because of a split lip. Probably because he couldn't make the required kind of faces.

The Tunney Touch

"This guy Gene Tunney," said Dizzy, "was just a prize fighter, and he got to be a writer. Also, when I get to mowing 'em down in the major leagues, these syndicate fellers will all want some dope, and I figure if I can write my own stuff I will save the price of one of those ghost writers you hear about."

"Another thing I want to learn is arithmetic. When some club owner comes to me with a contract for $25,000, I want to know all about it. I'll probably be keeping a budget on expenses then and from what I hear those budgets take a lot of figuring."

"So it looks as though major league fans are due to see a new Dizzy next year.

Has a Way With Quail

"Dizzy recently wrote to Branch Rickey, informing the Cardinal official that the great Mr. Dean was going to report in tip-top shape. "I am keeping in shape hunting," Dizzy wrote. As an afterthought he added that his ability as a quail shooter was only exceeded by his ability to strike out opposing batters. "When I crack down on a quail, they stay cracked," Dizzy wrote.

"Dizzy is working on a new curve he hopes will fool major league batters. He calls it the doop-a-doop and according to Dizzy, when he perfects it, the offering will make a pretzel look like a straight string. The curve, Dizzy says, starts out to bend out or away from the right-hand batter, then decides to turn in, and finally gets an idea to just stop and duck toward the plate.

Beautifies

"Dizzy has told his friends that he intends to knock 'em dead around the hotels this year. He has developed a great yen for fancy clothes and promises to rank with the champion dressers in the big leagues. Mrs. Dean is acting as his teacher.

"There is a little college up near where Dizzy lives, and it is rumored Dizzy is trading the college boys baseball knowledge for collegiate ideas on how to dress, and rules of etiquette.

"Last year," says Dizzy, "I was just a punk rookie without any rep and no clothes, but watch my smoke this year. Those folks down there will have to look up to the greatest pitcher in the minor leagues, and when I start picking up the night fork at the dinner table—boy, won't they be fooled!"

Did You Know That . . .

Bobby Jones had a neat way of combining golf with the noble sport of satisfying autograph hunters. . . . He would write his name on sheets of paper before a big match. . . . and these would be passed out when the mob stormed for his signature. . . . Jimmy Carlton, who defeated George Simpson a couple of times when toured Australia, ran the 100 in 9.4. . . . but the Aussie authorities tossed it out because the track was slightly downhill. . . . The man whose name is now misspelled than any other is probably Joe Humphreys, announcer at Madison Square Garden. . . . the telephone book lists him as Humphreys. . . . and nearly every newspaper man in New York writes it Humphries. . . well, how do you spell it? No vehicle of any sort is permitted on the Ouvidor, the Fifth Avenue of Rio de Janeiro. In 1930 the United States' 22,000 movie houses sold $1,500,000,000 worth of admission tickets.

Two cars raced along the highway east of Abilene, Texas. The second driver finally overtook the leader and signaled to stop. "I've been chasing you twelve miles to tell you you've lost your oil," he called to J. W. Bell. Mr. Bell found that a rock in the road had knocked a hole in the crankcase, allowing the Conoco Germ Processed Oil to drain out. But examination of the motor showed no damage done. The "Hidden Quart" had protected the motor! Only Conoco Germ Processed Oil offers the extra protection of the "Hidden Quart" that stays up in your motor and never drains away. es' individual work and conduct, engaging nurse, policies regarding salaries, vacations, sick leave, leave of absence, hours on duty, educational program for the nurse, such as staff lectures, conferences, attendance at conventions or meetings, trips to observe other work, uniforms, quarters, supplies, etc.

The education and publicity committee last year was chairmanned by Mr. Paul Barron. Through the Reporter-Telegram, daily paper, over 300 articles relating to health and the health work were published, and about 25 editorials written and printed. The public health nursing magazine is circulated among the board members and in the health library. The Board Members' Manual, a book for board and committee members, is used by the board.

At the October health board meeting ten West Texas public health nurses, Miss Katherine Haghead, state supervising nurse, and Dr. E. J. Peterson, director of the public health unit, met in conference with us and were entertained by the commissioners' court, the chamber of commerce, the board chairman and county nurse over the week-end. Considerable interest was stimulated in and knowledge of the work gained through this meeting.

Prizes for these were awarded, about 200 posters being entered in the contest. At the Midland county fair, held in September, the health board under the direction of Mmes. George Abell, Leon Gooman and Dale, exhibited a model contagious disease room, a model nursery, and a hot school lunch demonstration.

far, no financial department, this work is being cared for by the Welfare association, though contact with these medical cases and the doctor is made for the Welfare association by the health nurse and all recommendations regarding such cases come from her. As far as we are able to estimate every doctor and dentist contributes personally about 3 times as much work to charity as he does directly through the Welfare association. About 12 operations and 15 confinements came under this work last year. During the summer round-up of the pre-school children, a point in the May day program, 81 children were given a complete inspection by the nurse and an examination by the doctors. The parents were referred to their own family physician with the children after the nurse's inspection and the doctors gave this service free. The health office, Dr. Ryan and the health board's medical advisor, Dr. Whitehouse, have each attended the board meeting faithfully and given advice and talks.

The state health department sent the county for 5 weeks, a colored public health nurse, Anne Mae Mathies, who worked among the colored population. An analysis of her report showed general living conditions among the colored people deplorable. However, a beautiful new colored school, which was then under contemplation, has contributed greatly to relieving these conditions. A city sewer line has been run into the colored town and if it could be connected up with the business houses that would further relieve these very unhygienic conditions.

The Vickers' pre-school studio took advantage of the nursing service by having a physical inspection period with advice to mothers. The closest relationship has existed between the nursing service and the Welfare association.

Barrow Furniture store, Ellis hardware and the Midland Hardware all gave contributions to the fair exhibits. The social service and volunteer committee, Mrs. Geo. Abell chairman, was formed this fall, and has already given over 60 hours of clerical time.

missioners' court. In the same month, the county Public Health board was organized with a three-fold function—to promote health, to prevent disease, and provide skilled care for the sick.

Various activities of the health board in 1931, including the May day program, poster exhibit, county fair demonstrations and course of study now being used in its meetings were discussed by Mrs. Sloan.

Dr. Ryan spoke on "The State Health Department" as a part of the course of study which the health board is now pursuing. In a series of questions and answers, Dr. Ryan discussed the rank of Texas in health work, the organization of the state health service, and the assistance it gives locally.

Members at large included: Mrs. Leon Goodman, Mrs. M. C. Ulmer, Mrs. Clarence Schubarer, A. A. Clark, J. P. Butler, J. S. Schow. League Says Wine Is Cancer Curb

PARIS. (UP)—Figures compiled by the French Anti-Cancer league, showing an average of 96 cancer deaths annually for every 100,000 of the French population, have been put forward by the International Wine Office as an indication that wine is a deterrent and curbs cancer growth.

The league's statistics show that there are comparatively few cases of cancer in the departments of the center and south of France devoted to wine growing. In those regions wine forms an important part of diet, to the exclusion of strong liquors.

The disease was far above average in the departments of the north of France, where grapes cannot grow and where comparatively little wine is consumed, and hard liquors are drunk in quantity.

Corcoran, one of the largest producers of wine among all the French departments, had but 26 cancer deaths among 100,000 deaths during 1931. On the island wine is the staple drink. Other wine-growing departments showed below average statistics.

Speedy Planes Put on Carriers

LONDON. (UP)—Britain's aircraft carriers, "Furious" and "Courageous," now house what are claimed to be the fastest airplanes of any of the world's great navies.

Certain components in the new planes are strengthened to withstand the shocks imposed by the use of a catapult which can send a machine from stationary to 60 miles an hour in three seconds.

They are fitted with more elaborate navigational equipment than their predecessors and carry wireless and additional lighting equipment for the purpose of assisting the pilot to find the carrier after a flight in haze or cloud.

The "Nimrods" are powered with single Rolls-Royce "Kestrel" motors, similar in construction to the 2,300 horsepower and 2,600 horsepower racing engines fitted in Britain's record-breaking Schneider Trophy engines, but of only 480 horsepower.

Sand Chastity Is Defended

PARIS. (UP)—With the chastity of her grandmother, George Sand, the authoress peacefully buried for the past 50 years, at stake, Mme. Aureore Sand is leaving no stone unturned to prove that the accusation of M. Jacques Boulenger in a literary treatise are false.

The Frenchman, in an article entitled, "The Early Lovers of George Sand," casts not only a shadow of suspicion upon the virtue of the dead writer, but attempts to cite instances of the complete lack of this maidenly quality.

"I highly respect the writings of M. Boulenger," said Mme. Sand "but in this instance he has grossly exaggerated the truth and I am going to right the wrong he has done by grandmother's name."

This is an old struggle on the part of the faithful granddaughter, for the first complaints on the subject were made by her in 1928. The case has dragged along from year to year, but Mme. Sand believes that 1932 will see the finish of it and that justice will be in her favor with the chastity of her grandmother definitely established.

"NOW we can advertise it"

Products are nearly always put on the market before they are advertised. Quite frequently, changes have to be made in an article before the public generally will accept it. Color, design, flavor—these are some of the things the public has to be consulted about. Sometimes a product won't sell at all and simply has to be discontinued. As soon as people show that they welcome an article and as soon as all refinements and improvements have been added, then you could hear the manufacturer say, if you could be in his office, "Now we can advertise."

When you buy advertised goods, you may know they have gone through the experimental stages. You may be sure that the manufacturer knows they are right and that he is willing to stake his reputation on them. You may be confident that you are buying goods that have sold and that would continue to sell without any advertising at all. For advertising merely lets all of the people know—now—what considerable numbers would find out by word of mouth ten years from now.

Of course, advertising goes a step farther. Word of mouth hardly ever tells all the uses of a product. If often doesn't give the real reasons for its superiority. Advertising tells people all about a product and the numerous ways in which they can use it.

Whatever you buy, therefore, let the advertisements be your guide. When the manufacturer says, "Now we can advertise it," you know that you can safely say, "Now we can buy it."
