Auto Registration Proceeding Slowly

Three hundred and fifty-four poll taxes had been paid by 8:45 this morning, check of the tax assessor's records showed. Only 13 days remain for paying the tax. At the same time it was noted that automobile and truck registrations were being slowly made, only 300 cars and 50 trucks having been registered. There are about 1300 automobiles in Midland county, about 250 trucks. Jan. 31 is the deadline for registration and, as there is no indication of a special session of the legislature being called before that time, there is seen no legal grace as in 1933. Vehicle owners are asked to register early and thus avoid standing in line on the last day.

Every Rotarian at the luncheon Thursday who certifies he has already paid his poll tax in a hat. The third name drawn out will get $5 in merchandise from the Texas Electric Service company, of which Miller is district manager. The Rotary committee pointed out that so far only about one-fourth of the possible poll taxes in the county have been paid. This is election year. Every citizen who wishes to vote for officers or wishes to scratch some unwanted name has only 15 more days in which to pay his poll tax, Miller stated.

Press Wonders Who Moody Will Support

AUSTIN, Jan. 15. (P)—"Who will be the next governor of Texas?" former Governor Dan Moody is asking. The young Taylor man who climbed the ladder to fame so readily after he became attorney general, really seems to be interested in Texas politics again. He had dropped out somewhat in recent months—busy with practice of the law. Former Governor Moody always did like to hobnob with the newspaper men. When he was chief executive for four years he made frequent trips to the press room in a spirit of comradeship. He always expressed himself frankly before the reporters and they replied in kind. They never did quote him and he never violated any of their free and easy confidences. The same thing is true now. He has not been around much of late, but he is showing signs of renewed life. Dan Moody came in and had plenty to say to the reporters. It was good stuff and would have made excellent copy. But, when he pulled himself out of the chair and bowed—well, he made no move to get up. He cautioned the writers to not "quote me." "The Associated Press wouldn't carry that," he said, when certain comment he made was brought to his attention as "good copy." "Governor, we'll bet you a hat if you will let us put that story on the wire it not only will be used by Associated Press newspapers, but that it will earn first page position." "Nope, can't let that go out," he replied as he pulled his hat over one eye and strode out of the press room. It was a good story and would have made interesting reading. Who will Dan Moody be for? The reporters have not been able to get his choice. Maybe he will run himself—on the prohibition ticket!

Bulletin

Sacatino Perez made what he thought was his last gesture Sunday, when he wrote from his jail cell a note to his sweetheart and washed down with water ground glass from a bottle. But officers were attracted to his flight and called a doctor. Perez, who attempted suicide once before, choosing a bottle of iodine on his other attempt, is held on a vagrancy charge, but his record is further clouded by an indictment by the district court somewhere in the past, and has been in and out of jail for the past four years. With typical Latin stoicism, Perez wrote in his note he was tired of suffering—"—"

Mrs. Sara Caplan Dies, Making Wreck Toll Three

Death Sunday night to Mrs. Sara Caplan completed its forty into a group of Midland persons who collided east of here New Year's night with an El Paso truck. Of the four who were in the car, three are dead and one, Miss Esther Warron of New York City, likely will recover. Eddie Weinstein, 23, former Tulsa and New York attorney, was killed instantly; Irvin Blacher, 35, died three days later, and Mrs. Caplan succumbed at 8 o'clock Sunday afternoon. All except Miss Warron were relatives of Eddie Blacher, Midland business man; Weinstein being a nephew, Blacher his brother and Mrs. Caplan a sister. Miss Warron is the affianced of the Midland druggist. Mrs. Caplan's death resulted partly from low vitality caused by loss of 30 pounds following the death recently of her husband, Hymie Caplan, an organic disorder and wreck injuries which included a compound fracture of the left femur, internal injuries, a bad concussion and an infection in the blood stream. It had been believed she might recover, but her condition during the past few days steadily became more grave. Mrs. Caplan will be sent by the Elks mortuary to Fort Worth, where the Jewish ritual will be read and interment made Tuesday. Survivors are the brother here, a sister, Mrs. Joe Weinstein of Tulsa, and three sisters living in Russia-Poland.

At the hospital where Miss Warron is confined to her bed, surgeons said she appeared "brighter today than she has been since the wreck on New Year's night." She talked several minutes this morning with a physician and appeared to be in complete command of her faculties. Injuries to Miss Warron's face are healing rapidly except around the right eye, where plastic surgery will be required to prevent disfigurement. Sam Warron, an uncle to the patient, will arrive here Monday from Vicksburg, Miss.

B'Spring Museum Is Growing Fast

BIG SPRING. (P)—The West Texas Memorial Museum association (founded as a result of an interesting project of Mrs. Mary Bumpass' high school history class, has grown to a new location in the city. More than 1,000 pieces have been donated to the museum. Open house will be held Jan. 30 or Feb. 6. This important undertaking will not only furnish the first accurate measurement of the effect of inflation on various phases of distribution service businesses but it will give productive employment for many so-called "white-collar" workers under civil works administration funds. The census will afford temporary employment for approximately one person for every 140 business establishments in the United States. It is expected to canvass more than 2,400,000 establishments, located in every city and town in the country and thus provide 2,500,000 man-hours of employment. This census of American business proposes to cover all establishments engaged in retailing, wholesaling in its various forms, service businesses of all kinds, amusement businesses and hotels. It excludes agriculture, manufacturers, construction, transportation, financial institutions, education institutions and professional and personal services. The census is designed to present a true picture of the condition of business and accurate comparisons with 1929 conditions and will furnish a most complete and important guide for sound planning in the future. For the kinds of business included the report will cover particularly the volume of business done in 1929, the number of people employed, amount of payroll and other expenses, stocks on hand to obtain the total value of saleable conditions at the various stages of economic distribution, and other data required to make the results comparable with the reports of the 1929 census of distribution. The great value of the 1929 census of distribution has been demonstrated during the current year in the process of organizing business by codes and in the preparation of a background for economic planning. The one difficulty of the census is that there is no earlier census of this character which which it can be compared to indicate trends. It is one of the advantages of the present undertaking that it will provide a measure of the effect on business of the difficult conditions which have prevailed during the last four years, and greatly enhanced the value of the 1929 census. One of the principal features of the new census is the employment data it will furnish for 1933. It is expected to demonstrate clearly, month by month, the extent of the recovery program as it affects the return to gainful employment of many thousands of workers in the trades and services to be covered. This part of the census of American business will cover full and part time employment for every month of 1933. Complete employment data resulting from the census will show relative employment opportunities in the different service trades which absorb about one-fifth of all persons gainfully employed in this country. Austin, and the 16,000 supervisors and enumerators were expected to begin their duties in every section of the United States today and Mrs. Ethel Stewart was in charge at Midland. ## ASKS CONGRESS TO LOWER GOLD VALUE 60 PCT.

Urges Stabilization Fund with Profit Of Government

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15. (UP)—President Roosevelt, in monetary recommendations to congress today, declared that the time has come for revaluation of the dollar and asked congress to require that the present gold value of the dollar be reduced to at least 60 percent. The present law permits revaluation in any amount down to 50 percent. The president requested legislation to give the government permanent possession of all of the country's $4,000,000,000 in monetary gold, including the $3,566,000,000 held by federal reserve banks. He urged that the government's profits on this gold as a result of devaluation be used to set up a $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund to regulate the dollar's value in foreign exchange. President Roosevelt recommended that circulation of gold coins be permanently forbidden, all gold to be held by the government in the form of bullion as used only to settle international balances. He viewed the present policy of permitting coinage of new silver as a "step in the right direction" but withheld further recommendations regarding silver pending a study of action of international silver.

THE TALE OF A COP—AND A HERO!

Criticizing the cop is one of America's favorite indoor sports. We like to remind ourselves that cops frequently are dumb, often surly and rude, occasionally downright crooked. We are apt to forget that the cop also very often is a hero.

There was a cop in New York, the other day, named Ernest F. McCarron. There wasn't anything unusual about him. He was 30 years old, he used to be a professional prize fighter, he had attended the public schools as a boy, and he spent his days pounding the pavement in a quiet and unexciting section of Brooklyn.

He was just like any other harness bull; you could have duplicated him on any police force in America.

Well, the other night McCarron was walking his beat, about 4 in the morning, when he saw flames and smoke coming from the fourth floor of an apartment building.

He ran into the building, climbed the stairs and roused the occupants of the building, and then went to the box and pulled a fire alarm.

Returning to the building, he found that everybody on the fourth floor, where the fire was raging, had got out, except a 9-year-old girl. Somehow she had been overlooked; and by now even the first floor corridor was so full of black, choking smoke that nobody dared go in after her.

So McCarron went in. He didn't come out again, either. Hours later, after the fire had been put out, they found him, lying dead in the third-floor hall, the girl in his arms. Somehow he had got to the top of the building and got the girl and started down with her. Getting her out had been too much for him. The cop and the little girl, her arms about his sunburned neck, had died together.

About the only thing to add is that next day a whole flock of youngsters called at the station house to ask when his funeral would be held. One of his jobs had been to handle traffic in front of their school; he'd helped them across the street every day for months, and he was their friend.

That's all the story. There's not much to it; so little, indeed, that it's hardly worth telling. A cop tries to save a kid, fails, dies; what of it?

What of it? Nothing. That's just the point. McCarron simply did what any cop would do—gave up his life without hesitation when his job pointed that way.

That's one of the things you buy when you spend your tax money on a police force. It's a thing to remember when you cast up the account of the average copper.

REWARD IS DUE

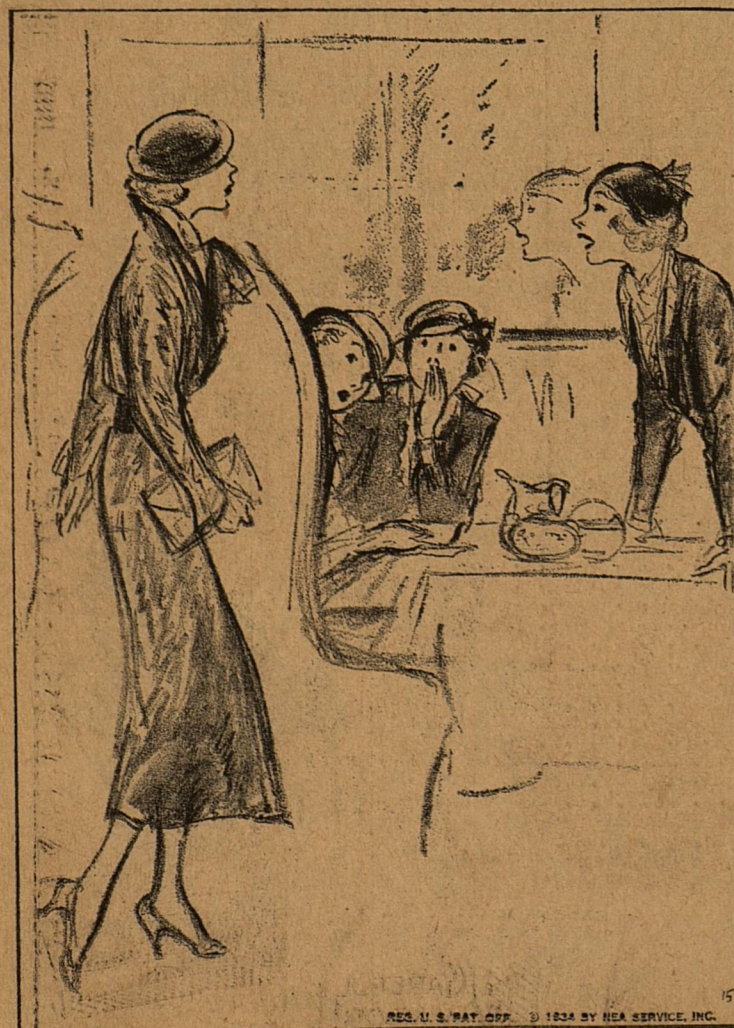

Most Americans will agree that there is substantial justice in the plan to grant Finland a material reduction in its debt to the United States.

Finland, in case you have forgotten, is the one European nation which has been paying its debt to this country punctually and fully. Finland is a small nation and a poor one; but while such great powers as France and England have found their debt payments too irksome to meet, Finland has paid one hundred cents on the dollar whenever a note fell due.

Now the State Department is negotiating with the Finnish government for a substantial reduction in the debt. Congress will have to approve any such settlement, of course, to make it binding; but there is little doubt that Congress will do it without delay. A European debtor that actually pays its debts is a rare enough phenomenon to deserve special treatment.

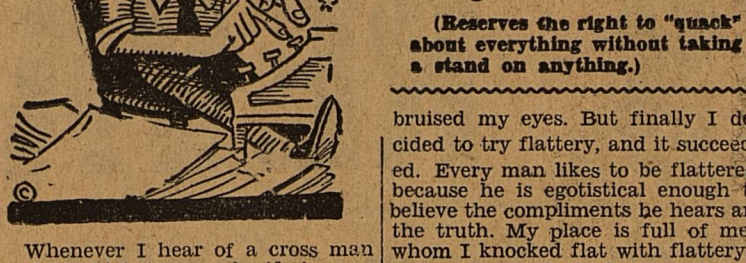

Listening-in on our radio yesterday afternoon we reflected a bit sadly on the fact that canned music brings pleasure to millions of hearers and profits to sponsors and broadcasters—and nets the composers just about enough to buy canned food at the corner delicatessen store.

Old Jim began his warring as a boy of 13. Then he was trailing the last of the Indians into Mexico, sometimes as far as 125 miles across the Rio Grande. Jim is an Indian himself. He knew the habits of the people of his tribe and that is the reason General Bullis brought him and 25 of his tribesmen from Mexico to this country to work in advance of the army.

Jim is 77 years old, but his eyes are bright and his smile quick. He gets a pension of $15 a month from the United States government for the ten years of scouting he saw with the army in Texas. He was born at Musquiz, in Coahuila, Mexico. Good eyesight and the ability to track a man on foot or horseback after he had passed over a trail several days back made Jim and his kind valuable during the days of Indian warfare.

He said he had participated in 20 or 50 fights. He wore the United States uniform part of the time but usually did not. He put up his rifle many years ago, but continues to live near Fort Clark here.

Several Fishing Laws Are Changed

AUSTIN, (U.P.)—The year 1934 ushered in several changes in the fishing laws of Texas. The chief changes are embodied in house bill 81, enacted by the 43rd legislature and effective this month.

Persons selling minnows for bait now must obtain a state license costing $1.33 for an eight-month period ending with the state's fiscal year Aug. 31. Wholesale fish dealers' licenses was hiked from $16, formerly to $200, or to $133 for the first eight months of the new year.

Retail fish dealers in cities of 40,000 or more population are required to obtain a license costing $20 yearly. The retail license in smaller cities is $10.

The commercial fisherman's fee has been increased from $1 to $2. Persons renting fishing boats with motor or sails must hold a $3 license. A license is required of persons who rent skiffs. Guides who direct inexperienced anglers to the choicest fishing spots also must hold a state license. The new law licensed selling at the rate of $1 per 100 feet of seine.

The state game, fish and oyster commission here also has reminded sportsmen that the deer, bear and turkey season closed Dec. 31. The quail season will close Jan. 16. The deadline on ducks and geese is Jan. 15.

Tide Has Turned Says Ford Magnate

He is convinced the depression is over, C. B. Ostrander, Dallas branch manager of the Ford Motor company, said today in Dallas in announcing the reopening of the Ford assembly plant in that city. This unit will start production, with a schedule of 250 cars daily, on February 1, after having been closed down for one year. More than 2,000 persons will be employed and upwards of 10,000 persons will be directly benefitted by the reopening. The employees will go on a forty-hour week, working eight hours daily for five days.

"The tide has definitely turned," Ostrander said. "Nowhere is this better indicated than in the fact that two and a quarter million persons turned out in New York City to visit the recent Ford Exposition of Progress. This is indicative of the trend of the times and the greatly augmented buying interest of consumers. The reopening of industrial plants throughout the country is another evidence of the changed conditions prevailing today."

DUST DESTROYS WHEAT

DALHART, (U.P.)—The windstorms, Saturday, Jan. 6, destroyed more Dalhart county wheat than any other storm this season, a check-up showed. Dr. R. T. Lee, county agent, said in his opinion Dalhart county would not make more than a third of a normal crop if moisture were held so that it would be delayed even more severe. So thick were the clouds of dust Saturday that a rural mail carrier got completely lost trying to reach a house only a mile and a half from his car.

THE TOBACCO DOES NOT SPILL OUT

Good tobaccos... real good tobaccos... that's the reason for Lucky Strike's fine, smooth quality. We use only the center leaves of the finest Turkish and domestic tobacco plants. Not the top leaves—because those are under-developed. Not the bottom leaves—because those are inferior in quality. We use only the center leaves—because these are the mildest leaves—fully ripe for perfect smoking. Only these choice tobaccos are used to make Luckies—so round, so firm, so fully packed—and no loose ends to spill out. That's why Luckies are always mild and smooth. That's why always "Luckies please". And don't forget—"It's toasted"—for throat protection—for finer taste.

BIG LAKE'S FLOOR GAME DEFEATS FORT STOCKTON IN ODESSA FINALE; ODESSA WINS CONSOLATION TROPHY

Big Lake, favored by the sports scribes throughout the meet, won the annual basketball tournament at Odessa Saturday night over Fort Stockton, in a beautiful display of maple floor passing, pivoting and goal shooting. The score was 25-19.

The chief surprise of the tournament was the downfall of the Big Spring quintet, which usually goes far into the state schoolboy flag chase. Coach Brown's team went down before Fort Stockton 23-12, after winning from Crane, 30-26.

Grange Gallops to 2 Touchdowns as Bears Take Game

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 15. (AP)—Harold (Red) Grange may be getting old and his legs stiff, but he galloped like a ghost out of the past Sunday, scoring two of the touchdowns which gave Chicago's Bears a 26 to 7 victory over a Southern California all-star football team before a near capacity crowd of 20,000 at Wrigley field.

Many of the spectators, a lot of them non-believers in the prowess of the professionals, had not yet gained their seats when Grange flashed through tackle over the weak side of the line, cut back and raced untouched 67 yards for the first touchdown.

Then, adding insult to injury, Red took one of John (Bull) Boehringer's passes off his left shoulder for a 44-yard gain and a touchdown before the game was 15 minutes old.

The all-stars, a good share of them pro players in season, fought back as the second quarter opened and scored when Racehorse Russ Saunders circled left end from the five-yard line for a touchdown.

Then, adding insult to injury, Red took one of John (Bull) Boehringer's passes off his left shoulder for a 44-yard gain and a touchdown before the game was 15 minutes old.

Words of commendation have likewise come from officials of the National Retail Drygoods association, Wholesale Drygoods institute, American Hotel association, Central Statistical Board and Trade associations in the various fields, as well as all labor organizations.

Carlsbad Man Was Engineer on First N. M. Special Train

CARLSBAD, N. M. (AP)—The man who fired the first train that came to this resort city, engineered a special train for J. J. Gould and his two daughters, saw the only public hanging in Eddy county and pioneered railroad construction in southwest Texas and eastern New Mexico as witnessed a great transformation in this area since 1890.

As senior engineer of this division of the Santa Fe until his retirement last year, Virgil Otis McCollum recalls vividly when Carlsbad, then Eddy, was but two years old and the railroad just being completed from Pecos. He could reach the top of the cottonwoods that now reach high into the arid atmosphere, and ox teams were the principal means of heavy transportation. A camp ground of five acres was the hangout for the drivers, and there by the river they would rest between time for beginning the long trek to Roswell or Pecos.

"Taking the Gould train to Carlsbad from Pecos and back was a proud moment for a young engineer, and the memory is still one of my happiest," he says.

His trains were never robbed, although he was 36 years in the service of the Santa Fe, and one year with the Texas & Pacific railway, working in the shops at Big Spring, Texas.

The hanging was of Jim Barrett in 1894, two years after Barrett's conviction on charges of killing two men on the construction site of the Macmillan dam. "The whole town of 1,000 turned out to see him hanged from a specially built scaffold erected in a corner of the graveyard," he said.

Carlsbad, a big shipping point for cattle in 1894, outlawed booze from the environs, but two "establishments" were set up south of the town, and many tough characters were to be found at the bars and gambling rooms, McCollum recalls.

WORKED 4 YEARS FOR NAME

MILWAUKEE, (AP)—It took Harold Klatz, 18, Milwaukee, a sophomore at the University of Wisconsin, four years to get the signature of Fritz Kreisler for his autograph collection. He finally cornered him backstage at the Milwaukee Auditorium and the noted violinist signed a card. Klatz has signatures of many violinists and other musicians.

Model Heating System Complete

AUSTIN—The campus of the University of Texas is a veritable network of huge underground tunnels, more than a mile of them, crossing and crisscrossing the "Forty Acres", most of them built by the University.

An underground workshop, containing, besides other equipment, a telephone, ice water cooler, easy chair and other conveniences, is located under the old power building, now turned into headquarters for the university press. This workshop is used by a power engineer who must keep a constant check on the steam going through the tunnels to prevent any mishap or to correct any defect in the pipes before the trouble becomes serious.

Boilers in the new $300,000 power plant generate 160,000 pounds of pressure per hour and send it through the steam distribution lines, which aggregate more than 100,000 feet in length, at the rate of 10,000 feet per minute. The newest boiler in the set-up, recently completed at a cost of $10,000, has a capacity of 75,000 pounds of steam pressure per hour. It alone has the capacity to supply the needs of the university for steam, but the other five boilers are in constant readiness to be put into operation should the efficiency of the new boiler become impaired. On a cold day over two million pounds of steam is generated to supply the campus.

Measles Prevalent In State of Texas

AUSTIN—Measles is again prevalent in Texas, according to Dr. John W. Brown, state health officer. After the epidemic of this disease last year, it was thought there would not be so many cases this year, but the numbers of reports received leads Dr. Brown to warn against the needless exposure of children to measles.

Especially care is required during the convalescent period. Complications at this stage, with end results of kidney trouble or impairment of sight or hearing, can easily take command. Obviously, everything should be done to avoid such a possibility.

Contrary to the foolish notion of many parents, it should be quite unnecessary for children to contract this disease. Youngsters, especially in tender years, can easily be kept from measles contacts, that is, if parents of measles victims fully realize their obligation not only to their own child, but to other children also.

It is a regrettable fact that so many adults view the isolation of the so-called minor ailments, with indifference. Nothing is further from the facts. The isolation not only keeps people in, but keeps others out. Its sole purpose is to reduce the possibility of contagion to a minimum.

More cooperation on the part of citizens in this connection undoubtedly would result in less measles with their accompanying devastating efforts. The next time measles is prevalent in your locality, weigh well the attitude you assume toward the disease and the quarantines.

IT LOOKED LIKE A BARGAIN

Today, the windows and shelves of many stores are crowded with packages bearing "bargain" prices. With prices so low, not getting your money's worth seems almost impossible.

But it pays to remember that while some of these products are bargains, others are not.

In some of the unfamiliar packages you see so frequently today, there is cheap merchandise—the offering of a few manufacturers who have gone too far in their efforts to make your dollars buy more quantity. Products in which these manufacturers have sacrificed quality to make a low price still lower and, seemingly, more attractive.

No matter how strongly you are urged to buy these "bargain brands"—or how often you are told they are "just as good"—it is safer to refuse them unless you are fully familiar with their value.

Look for the real bargains now among brands which you know—by your own experience, through their advertising, or by the reputations of their makers. Ask for them by name! Insist on getting what you ask for!

Many of these reliable brands now cost less than they have in years. But only the price has been reduced. The quality—which originally made these products popular with you and many others—still remains as high as ever.
