Upon being revived, Mrs. Cansler said the men suggested her and her husband and took a small safe from the home. The safe, she said, contained no money, but only papers and deeds.

Cansler, 60, was one of the oldest Masons in East Texas.

One suspect was arrested this morning and held for questioning.

Believes Now Time Begin Silver Mining

DEL RIO (U.P.)—With the price of silver to be purchased by the government now at 64 1/2 cents per ounce, Frank L. Hamilton, well known mining man of Presidio, believes that this is an opportune time for the people of this section to develop the industry in this area.

"Think of it," says Hamilton, writing in the Presidio Journal, "from Terlingua to Shafter the distance is nearly 100 miles and the mineral zone is traceable on the surface all the way between these points."

"From Shafter to the Rio Grande, some 30 miles, the mineral zone is showing all the way. This zone is from 15 to 20 miles wide and there are three fissure veins that we know of. There are cross veins, chutes, chimneys and blowouts until it is a network of mineral showing. The only real developed silver-lead mine, which is the Shafter mine, had been worked for 44 years without a shutdown. They were obliged to close in July, 1930, because the price of silver and lead was too low to make a profit."

"This property has been a wonderful producer. They employed some 250 men and in 1929, they produced 975,000 ounces of silver, 1,200 ounces of gold and 900,000 pounds of lead."

"According to the Bureau of Mines at Washington, the Shafter mine has produced over $22,000,000 in the last 44 years—where will we find another mining property that has produced more?"

"It has been known for years that there was valuable mineral to be found in the 'Big Bend Mining District' but for lack of transportation it never was developed, but now we have the railroad. Will our people sit idly by while strangers come in and take all the good things?"

SIXTY RANKIN LIONS AND LADIES HEAR MIDLAND SPEAKER THURSDAY

RANKIN, Feb. 9.—Lions, their ladies and guests, nearly 60 in all, heard Paul T. Vickers, chamber of commerce secretary of Midland, speak last night on "The Philosophy of Honor as Related to Service Clubs." When the service club held a Ladies night banquet program in the Yates hotel.

H. G. Secrest, superintendent of the Rankin public schools and president of the Rankin Lions club, presided through the early and closing moments of the program. C. B. Manning, manager of the West Texas utilities and master of ceremonies, having charge during the interim.

An informal program of brief talks by visitors, songs, readings and the usual Lions club badinage preceded the lecture, and Lions introduced themselves and their guests, tossing in many humorous allusions to their ambitions. Ben Cronkright, for instance, is ambitious to help write legislation; C. G. Forrester would assist President Roosevelt in a recovery program in the north; J. D. Harvey, who is president of the First Baptist church, would like to place a note of new positivism in government; Mgr. Manning would like to "have housewives turn off their ranges when the onions are done"; R. L. Bell, depot agent, would keep freight rates up and trucks off the highway; E. C. Higday, who sells oil and gasoline, would "oust the railroads and make trucks use more oil and gas"; Supt. Secrest would try to grow hair on a denuded pate, and others, including Jimmie F. Soussares, Harvey Eays, Joe Conger, Ralph Daugherty, C. F. Berger, Grim Taylor, Hubert Foreman, who wants to be a "shyster lawyer and yet keep out of jail," C. L. Burgess, newspaper publisher, Frank "Shoety" Goodner, who wants to be president, J. D. Harvey, who wants to be "as good a liar as some other people I know," J. M. Rhoads.

Secretary Vickers, who established Mr. Manning in a dubious position as a result of his protesting he wanted to see electrically energy users conserve on their bills, and to save the Lion president for not introducing his wife.

The Baptist minister briefly welcomed guests of the club; Ralph Daugherty led a sing-song of Lions club aires; Miss Cronkright read; James Soussares Jr. sang; the Lions secretary made a brief report on three projects of the Lions club in Rankin, beautification, an effort to operate a swimming pool, and better drainage; Mrs. Harris read; Chick Buleau, baritone, sang two compositions, one a rousing song of the sea which required mastery of a difficult phrase, the other was called for a third song, a semi-classic. He was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Foreman. A women's quartet, including Miss Johnnie Weyerts, Miss Gloria Davis, Miss Joyce Hering and Mrs. Harvey E. Hays, sang. Ben Cronkright spoke briefly, followed by Judge Montague of Fort Stockton, who was introduced by G. D. Mitchell.

Joe D. Chambers, assistant district manager of the Texas Electric Service company of Midland, expressed "the appreciation of the Midland Lions club, from which I bring official greetings, for the courtesy in selecting a Midland speaker for your Ladies night program. I can assure you that it will be the pleasure of the Midland club to assist you in any enterprise that might make for better inter-city or club relations."

Secretary Vickers, well known here for his lecture ability and especially appreciated for his cooperation with Rankin men in several CWA projects, was introduced by G. D. Mitchell.

It is the purpose in Midland to organize a chapter of the Knights

SENATE ADOPTS A CONFERENCE REPORT ON FEE

AUSTIN, Feb. 9. (U.P.)—The Texas senate today adopted a conference report on the bill setting March 11 of any calendar year, including 1934, as the final date for paying automobile registration fees.

House approval of the compromise bill was delayed until arrival of the house journals on which the bill had been printed.

"Fools Rush in," DeBerry Charges

AUSTIN, Feb. 9. (U.P.)—Pope's sage observation that "fools rush in where angels fear to tread" has been the guide of members of the senate who face re-election, in the opinion of Senator DeBerry of Beatty.

DeBerry recently opened a seat at the press table during a house debate on this political experience was drawn upon for an explanation of the calm that had prevailed in lawmaking circles since the start of the extraordinary session.

DeBerry started his legislative career in the house. He could understand why the ordinary amount of acrimonious oratory was missing in senate debate but was at a loss to account for the mild temper of the customarily explosive house.

"Near it lay an Indian arrow head of petrified wood," DeBerry said. "They are like the negro who is dodging baseball, they're dodging everything that comes their way and don't want to bite off more than they can comfortably chew. Of course there are still some of us who don't proceed with the proper discretion from a political viewpoint."

The senator from Red River, who fought through the World War without receiving a scratch but who was severely injured in a patriotic post-war celebration, said this has been the quietest session thus far since he had been in the legislature.

Gold Medal Thought Worn by Redskins

WOODVILLE (U.P.)—A gold Indian medal of apparent great age and thought to have been worn by early Texas Indians, was found recently near Woodville by W. S. King, county tractor. The disc was discovered between one and two feet under the surface of the ground in a gravel pit. Near it lay an Indian arrow head of petrified wood.

The odd object is a little larger than an American half dollar. One side bears a well-executed Indian warrior's head with an elaborate headdress of eagle's feathers, and a tomahawk or axe.

On the reverse side is the face of a squaw with her purpose in his case. A worn inscription appears to be "1636." The last two figures are plain but the other are dim. Those who have seen the piece are of the opinion the figures are 1636 and represent that year. A gold ring attached shows signs of having been worn on a thumb.

The object is beautiful in design and was struck from a die. It is believed it probably was made in Spain or France.

The first white men Indians of East Texas, the Tejas of the Caddo kingdom, had contact with the French in the early part of the seventeenth century, some years before the supposed date on the medal. The Spaniards first came in 1689.

ORDER FOLLOWS DEFIANCE MADE IN MAIL PROBE

McCracken Principal Witness in New Scandal

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9. (U.P.)—The senate this afternoon ordered the immediate arrest of William P. McCracken Jr., former assistant secretary of commerce, after he challenged the senate's constitutional right to question him further regarding mail contracts.

On motion of Majority Leader Robinson, proceedings against three officials of major airlines, summoned to appear with McCracken, were suspended until the Hoover administration official could be brought before the senate.

Chairman Black of the special senate committee investigating contracts offered the order proposing McCracken's arrest. It was adopted after a brief objection by Senator Borah, republican of Idaho.

McCracken Issues A STATEMENT OF DEFIANCE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9. (U.P.)—William P. McCracken Jr., former assistant secretary of commerce, today addressed a communication to Vice President Garner declaring that he was "constrained to deny" the senate's constitutional authority to summon him on contempt proceedings in connection with the air mail investigation.

ABROGATION CONFERENCE HELD BY OFFICIALS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9. (U.P.)—Assistant Secretary of War Woodring today told the house military committee that airplane construction companies made an average profit of 19.3 per cent on army contracts during the last three years but that the profit had been reduced to 8.9 per cent.

Offered to Pawn Coat for Poll Tax

HOUSTON (U.P.)—One Harris county man was so anxious to qualify for voting in the elections this year that he offered to pawn his overcoat to obtain a poll tax receipt.

The unidentified man appeared in the tax collector's office shortly before the poll tax paying deadline. He told a deputy that he had tried unsuccessfully to borrow the $1.50 but that he felt certain he could get the money later and was willing to leave the overcoat until he could obtain it.

The deputy explained that that could not be done. A few minutes later the deputy told another man of the proposition and the other offered to advance the $1.50 but the man had gone.

So many persons paid poll taxes here this year that it was estimated the Harris county voting strength would be slightly larger than the record total of 82,052 two years ago.

MODERN FAIRY TALE

There is something oddly anachronistic about that little news dispatch from Switzerland, telling how the Emperor Haile Selassie of Abyssinia just has bought a new three-motored Swiss airplane and is having a throne installed in it.

The emperor, it seems, wants to make some plane flights. But he sees no reason why a king who goes up in the air should leave the trappings of royalty behind him on the ground.

So he will have a flying throne—the first monarch in all history to carry his throne into the clouds.

Now the airplane is the very incarnation of up-to-date modernism; and the throne is a vestigial survival of an outworn day.

The queer way in which the bustling present and the distant past dovetail nowadays never was illustrated better than in this queer business of the Emperor Selassie's aerial throne.

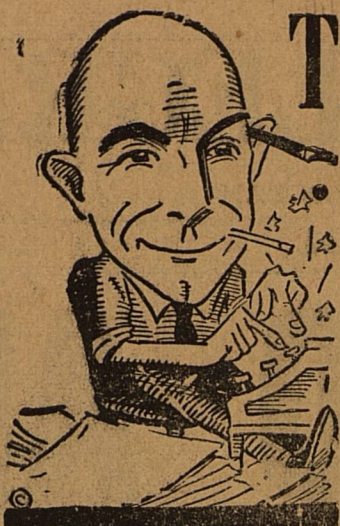

BOOING THAT IS PRAISE

There isn't much question that Al Smith has lost a good deal of the popularity which was his a few years ago. If he wants to regain it, however, all he has to do is get his name hissed and booed a few more times by the henchmen of Tammany Hall.

When the Tammany speakers' bureau held its annual dinner the other night, and bestowed a hearty razzberry on the name of Mr. Smith, the attendant ward-healers unintentionally gave the gentleman quite a compliment.

The nature of the compliment becomes apparent when you reflect that immediately afterward they rose and cheered heartily at a mention of the name of former Mayor Jimmy Walker.

To be hissed by the braves of Tammany is to get an accolade, of a sort, which is really worth getting. The man who displeases Tammany is pretty apt to be a man who has done something in the interest of the public at large.

The Town Quack

(Reserves the right to "quack" about everything without taking a stand on anything.)

Riddle offered a cash prize to the one who could complete a "rebus" before reaching the dessert.

A local woman said that every-time her husband has a pain in his chest he asks the doctor to tell him the truth, and then gets mad if the doctor does tell him the truth.

Most people are most embarrassed when someone tells the truth about them at the wrong time than they are if someone tells a lie about them.

Romance is the spice of life, but romance has nothing to do with making a living.

Some people believe the courts should be more lenient on a man who commits a crime while he is drunk. I believe a man who commits a crime while drunk should be doubly punished. Being drunk is an offense, not an alibi.

Someone sent me a book of minstrel jokes and here's one I read: "Supposing a man's father was born in England and his mother was born in France and he was born in Italy and lived in Spain and died in Canada. What would he be?" "Why, he'd be dead."

Split skirts are back in style, But they hardly make me smile, Because I'm old, dim are my eyes, I do well to see the skies.

Baseball Call First Spring Harbinger; Rankin Girls Favored in McCamey Meet

By R. C. HANKINS

In spite of ye prophetic groundhog's recent taking it on the lam from the immediate environs of his shadow, spring is around the corner. It's still around the corner, even if the elements bring snow two days hence—as judge for yourselves. For nibobs of the Permian Basin Baseball league have spoken. The first harbingers of the approaching season. The dignitaries will meet at 7:30 Wednesday night at Crane for a pow-wow which will result in election of officials, setting of deadlines for entry of clubs and other matters of general interest to those who select horseshoe as the skin they most love to touch.

Secretary Bill Collins of Bond street, McCamey, secretary and statistician of the loop during 1933, says support is being aligned for the candidacy of W. D. Riser, Crane editor, for the circuit's major domo. Red Ragland of Wink served in that capacity last year. Dr. David M. Ellis of Midland being the party of the first part on his right hand. Six clubs batted the ball around the lot when they were in good humor—McCamey, Crane, Odessa, Wink, Midland, Iran and Big Lake. When they were feeling more saturnine, they patted each other. At least one club, that of Odessa, turned out to be formidable enough on the diamond to defeat the Mose Simms and the Texon outfits—which is plenty formidable. By way of momentary sketch, Odessa won the pennant in a playoff with Wink, who snatched the first half goal-fan.

What is believed to be the first West Texas invitational basketball tournament devoted strictly to girls will be held at McCamey Saturday. Rankin's fair daughters are pre-tourney favorites, we learned from McCamey and Rankin dopesters, with Sanderson second. Other clubs entered are Iran, Crane, Wink, Kermit, McCamey and Barstow. Bill Collins is swinging the details and Leonard, better known as "Slime," Hill will be given official leeway when it comes to whistling at the girls.

Collins gave this correspondent a bit of the statistical lowdown on the District 3-A grid race for the coming autumn. He believes the oracles point to Big Spring, with McCamey nudging with the elbows for a close second and Sweetwater and Angelo

McCamey has the "Big Three" at McCamey for private parties this year, San Angelo, Sweetwater and Big Spring officials going down on the contract scroll for playing in Upton county. Colorado is the only team the Hillmen will have to meet out of the corporate limits of their own bailiwick. Moreover, 14 lettermen will join Hill's hopefuls for spring training, as compared with two last year. "We'll have just a good team as Big Spring except for number of reserves," Bill opined. Which may be the reason he has time to travel away from his combination oil and sports desk and do missionary work in furrin' countries.

"Four Frightened People" Thrilling Jungle Romance

The superb showmanship of Cecil B. DeMille is once more made manifest in his latest Paramount picture, "Four Frightened People," coming to the Ritz theatre Sunday and Monday.

This picture, which repeats the success of his memorable "Male and Female" of several years ago, is one of the most colorful pieces of screen entertainment that has been produced in many a month.

Against a background of the most amazing jungle scenery ever brought to the screen, the story details the adventures of four highly cultured people, two women and two men, who are forced to escape from a Dutch steamer when bubonic plague breaks out. Lost for months in a Malay jungle, they turn to primitive manners and habits. The transformation of a prim little school teacher into a beautiful jungle creature over whom the men fight provides some highly novel situations.

This latter role played by Claudette Colbert is the most outstanding achievement of her career and more than justifies her elevation to stardom. Herbert Marshall and William Gargan, in contrasting roles, enhance the story with finely drawn portrayals.

No funnier situation was ever devised for the screen than the placing of the dignified Mary Boland in primitive surroundings. Leo Carrillo, in the role of a half-caste guide, proves his versatility in his long screen repertoire.

DeMille's finely handled direction and the photography of Karl Struss give this production an all-around perfection.

The original novel by E. Amort Robertson received highly competent handling in the adaptation by Barlett Cormack and Lenore Coffee.

ed thousands into the grandstands to watch his elusive running last fall and made The Associated Press all-state team with more votes than any other Texas high school player. has been approached by a number of colleges. It was thought he would pay more than passing attention to the gesture of welcome extended from South Bend, but his answer to that and to a score of other college proposals was a laconic grunt of disapproval. "They're too far away from home," he said.

It finally developed the Christians were after him and a report had it that he had agreed to enter T.C.U. this fall. Sports scribes rushed to the long distance booth in a hurry.

"Well," said Red, "it kinda looks that way, but it isn't definite yet."

Red's admission that it "kinda looks that way" was quite enough for the Thanatopsis Clam Chowder and Marching club whose members immediately construed, or misconstrued, the Raiders' statement to mean he already had bought a ticket for Fort Worth. Hence the barnyard meeting and decision.

McCall ploughed up a considerable turf in Northwest Texas in his high school days when Masonic Home was a class B school in the Texas interscholastic league. Though sandi thronged Athletic park at Wichita Falls to watch him rip Clarendon's team to shreds in the regional final game of 1931.

Raider Red's following is larger. The opinion of fans that Ratician is a greater ball carrier than McCall has now been seconded by many leading coaches in the state, and his football destiny is so frequently discussed on the Plains that it has created a social phenomenon. The depression as a topic of conversation doesn't have a chance with Raider Red around.

W. B. Campbell, Isaac Campbell and Bradford Wheat. They left on the steamer Banner State, touching at Cincinnati and St. Louis and thence to Hannibal on the steamer New England, the fare being $22.

Fourteen negroes were purchased and they started for Texas. Reaching Mount Pleasant they continued onward to Bonham in Fannin county, thence to McKinney and Dallas. He stated that the journey down the Trinity satisfied him he was in the land of his dreams and plans were made to go home and then return to stay.

At Quincy, Ill., he purchased a wagon, costing $70 and other supplies. On October 7, 1853, he began the return journey with five bachelor companions, William Buckner, Frank Buckner, Carroll Nelson, John M. Withers, and J. B. West. They entered the Indian territory at Ft. Smith, Ark., crossed the Red River at Preston in Grayson county and arrived in the little town of Dallas, usually called the Forks of the Trinity in those days, he stated. The party crossed the Brazos at Waco Village and arrived at Austin after traveling 930 miles.

The Buckners and Nelson weared of the trip and returned home. Withers left Austin on November 20 and after visiting San Marcos, reached Lockhart Dec. 8, 1853. He stated that San Antonio was at the time the largest town in Texas.

Deciding to stop roving, Withers and companions "West" and Campbell, brought their negroes and wagon train from Georgetown to Lockhart on Christmas day, 1853, and camped in a grove of peach trees. The Withers family is scattered as far south as the Withers ranch in Webb county. The original family has many descendants here. The majority of them have engaged in raising cattle and are occupied with that business today.
