Gonzales Bogs to Be Changed into A New State Park

GONZALES (AP)—Five hundred acres of bogs and dense growths of wild ferns dotted with palms, live oaks and mud geysers situated at Oltine, near Gonzales, will probably be designated soon as a new state park and the location for a CCC camp.

Options on the land and money with which to purchase it have been asked by the state park board.

Approximately $3,000 with which to purchase land for the park site has been subscribed by Gonzales county citizens and interested Luling business men.

Should the camp be established in the swamps at Oltine, the CCC workers would occupy one of the historic spots of early Texas. In 1840 the Comanche Indians crossed the quaking bogs on a bridge formed of members of their own tribe.

After the Battle of Plum Creek which took place some twenty miles north of Oltine, the Comanches were put to flight by a band of Texans and Indian allies under command of General Ed Buleson.

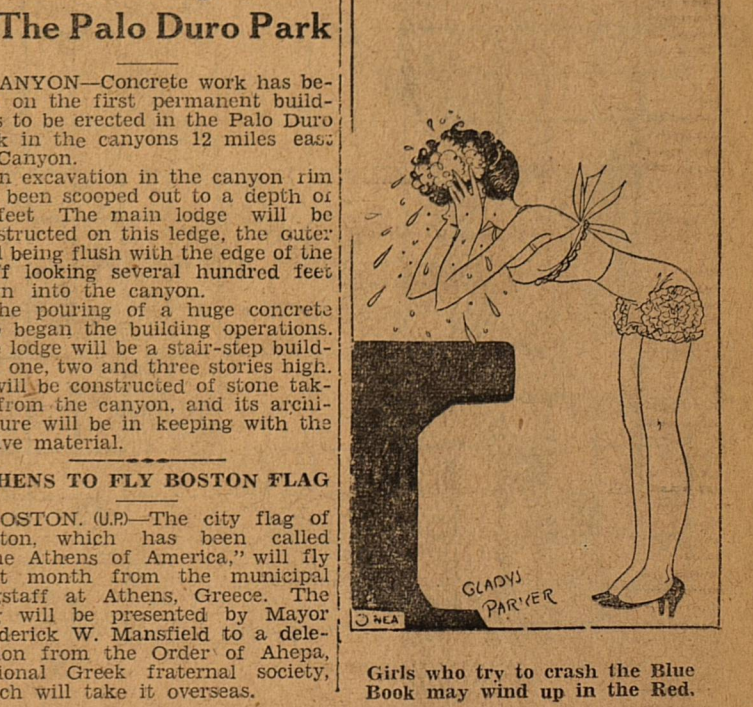

Comanches leading the flight rushed into the swamps. Their mounts and pack animals bogged down and the remainder of the tribe deserted their horses and crossed the swamp on the sinking bodies of their comrades and the mired horses and pack animals.

Along with its historic background the proposed park would have three artesian wells, a natural lake for boating and fishing, hot mineral wells, mud geysers, big groves of live oaks, pecans and cottonwoods.

A system of canals and floating islands accessible by boat are part of the plans for the new park. The floating islands are said to equal the beauty of those located in the Mexican National Park at Xocomico, near Mexico City.

A STEP TOWARD PEACE

Passage by the Senate of the bill which would give the president power to declare an embargo on the shipment of arms from the United States to warring nations leads one to wonder just what world history might have been like if such law had been in force back in 1914.

It goes without saying that the story of the World war would have been vastly different if no munitions of war had been shipped overseas by American manufacturers. One is justified in feeling that the United States even might have been able to keep out of the conflict altogether.

And that gives a notion of the potential value of this law. The way to stay out of a war, evidently, is to have nothing whatever to do with it. From being involved commercially to being involved with fleets and armies is not a very long step.

This embargo bill, if used wisely, ought to be a long step toward maintenance of peace.

mediately announce the engagement of the young couple. A farmer can't imagine that a town man can earn his salary if he doesn't sweat. Patience our travel farther than an airplane going 250 miles an hour. We don't care to know what your baby said. Whenever everything else fails, try patience. All of us should scold the government less and appreciate good health more. At times it is difficult to know just what side was on...

CHAPTER I The France, and more particularly the feelings of that nation, every Frenchman knew that war was near—indecision was rampant. Not that France was not sure of the outcome of the war. No, indeed. Every Frenchman felt sure his France would come out on top. Hadn't she come out on top in every other war? Didn't she struggle with Charlemagne, Louis XIV, Napoleon, and finally Louis Napoleon on through to security and peace? Yes, France was mighty—and right, too. But with a nation about to enter war, that fever, that hesitancy to regard as real and inevitable the individuals of that nation, the people who steel their temper and make its laws, both statutory and moral, there was a great change. Looseness and immortality, and even downright evil, walked the streets of Paris brazenly where before they had slunk furtively into the dank cellars of Montmartre and leered from behind greasy windows in the Latin Quarter.

And France, even under normal peacetime conditions, is a different land from America. There the abnormal is normal, and immortality is accepted for what it is—merely one manifestation of the many-sided being known as man. Life was hard—and a little wine, a little music, even perhaps a little friend—a light of love—to help you forget your country's tribulations; that could hardly be too much to ask; now, could it? Eat, drink and be merry—for there may be no tomorrow. That was the fatalistic song a whole nation sang, gayly and carelessly.

Suppose you had the wings of a bird, a vulture, perhaps, and you were circling over Paris one grey dawn in 1868. Down below in tiny caricature you saw a strange parade. There was a great throng packed closely about a platform on which a burly man wielded something long and shiny. You swirled down closer and alighted on a post near the edge of the crowd. The better to see what was happening. And as the full realization of the scene dawned on you, your eyes gaped, your head swam. You were about to see an execution.

The burly man was the executioner and in his hand he swung a murderous knife. Half-playfully he raised it high and looked at the crowd, as if for approval, then with a mighty swing he brought the knife down and a dull thud told you it was buried deep into the wood. But as yet, you realized there was no victim. The caloused murderer was only practicing his art for the morbid delectation of the crowd. Near the front of the mob were two girls, pretty, yes, in a sort of hard way. Your attention was attracted to them because they were talking noisily to two men near

'White Woman' Stirring Story of Wild Malay

One woman among slinking, treacherous Malay natives and ruthless, woman-starved white men.

That's the spot in which Carole Lombard, motion picture actress, finds herself in "White Woman," the new Paramount picture showing tomorrow and Saturday at the Ritz theatre.

Directed by Stuart Walker, well known stock director and producer, the picture also features Charles Laughton, Charles Bickford, Kent Taylor, Percy Kilbride, James Cagney, Charles Middleton and Noble Johnson, one of the screen's leading colored actors.

Shunned by society, the victim of malicious gossip, Carole seeks a livelihood as entertainer in a questionable Malay dive. Coveted by Laughton, coarse overlord of the natives, she accompanies him to the old household, far in the jungle which is his home and trading post.

Thrown into this "last stop from hell," the only white woman in a rendezvous of broken renegades, she is the prey of a ruthless, woman-hating, white man.

And the romance between this lone, white woman and the man who has lost his soul in this legion of the damned, furnishes the substance of the story.

The film is based on play by Norman Rilly Raine and Frank Butler.

Qualifying Deadline Moved Forward; All Golfers Discussing Changes of Course

About this qualifying for the ladder at country club—too many of the besieged knor are taking the matter for granted and are doing nothing about it.

Sixteen of the top flight group has turned in entries. C. L. Jackson qualified in 1932 with a couple of 157. Joe D. Chambers turned in a 158. Doc Swails 160. E. L. Miller 161. Morgan Neil 162. De Lo Douglas 163. Jay Riley 164. Frank Johnson (who lately moved here to join the office of the Continental Oil company, 166. Joe Paxon 166.

Henry Shaw and Earl J. Moran have turned in 84 cards for the 18.

With the course improved with trapping and changed tees, making for greater distance on two holes, qualifying scores are not up to years past.

They still will tell one, the old-time golfer, that the exhibition match played between Walter Hagen, Joe Kirkwood, J. Ellis Cowden and Jackson was the best ever conducted here.

The tee on No. 4 has been moved down the hill and nearer the fence, forcing one to shoot from a blind spot and across the edge of the fairway.

The tee on No. 4 was No. 6 would be 250 yards in length. No. 7 would be longer and out in the rough to the left of the present location.

Advice to the Lovelorn

Send your problems to the one who knows and who is Glad to assist you. Address all communications to The Reporter-Telegram, Care Miss Sadie

I am in love with a man who is tied to his mother's apron strings. In fact, he is such a sissy, I believe he is a milkop. What shall I do? J.L.S.

Dear J.L.S.: I suggest you give him the gate and that will make him curdle and you can get rid of the poor cheese.

Dear Miss Sadie: Why do gentlemen prefer blondes? Miss Weepy. Dear Miss Weepy: The gentlemen who prefer blondes are those who have already been turned down by all the brunettes.

Dear Miss Sadie: My sweetheart is one of the kind of girls who paints her fingernails. I don't like tinted nails. What shall I do? Mr. Grumpy.

Dear Mr. Grumpy: I advise you to fall in love with Venus de Milo, if you know what I mean. If you don't know what I mean—come up sometime.

Dear J.T.H.: I suggest you have him to turn the gun on himself next time he starts to shoot dice.

Committees for Lions Club Are Listed by Pres.

Lion President Frank Stubbsman Wednesday announced the following committees:

For the annual Easter egg hunt: J. S. Schow, chairman, Rufus Parks, Herbert King and Wade Stevens.

For participation with the Ritz theatre in four benefit shows: De Lo Douglas, chairman, Earl Tucker, Carl Young and Joe D. Chambers.

Added to attendance and new members committee: J. J. Kelly, Clarence Day and W. F. Heil.

Some lively reports resulted at the Wednesday luncheon period of the Lions club when, at the conclusion of the program and just a moment before President Stubbsman was about to sound the gong for dismission, Paul T. Vickers, guest, arose to make an explanation.

Dr. Jno. B. Thomas, program chairman for next week, has an unusual task ahead of him in arranging program details—he must treat the patients before they call at the luncheon, one Lion explained.

Lions have been generous in appreciation of Joe D. Chamber's program arrangements. Several blue moons have waned since a program as enjoyable as that presented by the Rolling Stones.

ROAD ONCE WELL KNOWN

SHARP (U.P.)—An abandoned highway running from Davilla eastward across Milan county, which serves as a present-day cow trail, was once an important freight line connecting Rockdale (Milan county) and Belle (Bell county).

The freight line provided a nice income for Mr. Holzclaw, who charged toll at the crossing.

Radio reception, in thousands of tests, has been found to be at its best when the moon is below the horizon.

McCoy Thrills in "Speed Wings" on Program at Yucca

Colonel Tim McCoy again turns in a sure-fire performance in Columbus' "Speed Wings," which opens at the Yucca theatre Saturday.

"Speed Wings" concerns itself, as the title would lead you to believe, with aviation. But, instead of simply presenting a hodgepodge of aerial stunts, this production has a logical, effective theme—the efforts of a band of aviators to win the world's speed record for the United States.

That they succeed—but only after six men have died trying—is due to Colonel Tim McCoy, who is not only an expert aviator, but an inventor of motors as well.

The story hangs together intelligently and the flying sequences are thrilling and dramatic.

McCoy acquires himself creditably as the daring aviator who brooks no interference in his plans. Miss Knapp is charming as the girl involved. William Bakewell enacts the part of the flyer who has lost his nerve with a true understanding of dramatic values.

Taxpayers Asked To Hurry Returns

Taxpayers who failed to file their income tax returns early are now encountering large crowds and are forced to stand in line at the various collection districts, according to word received here today by Commissioner Guy T. Helvering.

All returns must be filed no later than midnight on March 15, and officials of the internal revenue service expressed the fear that the congestion would become more acute as the dead line hour approached.

Last year 4,920,998 income tax returns were filed between January 1 and the time for the expiration of filing. That is an average of more than 67,000 persons filing every day during that time.

Is Alien Though Born in the U. S.

EL PASO. (U.P.)—Charles Sydney DeWolf was born in the United States, has exercised all the rights of an American citizen, but he found when he attempted to return from Juarez, Mex., that he is an alien.

Sept. 14, 1915, he joined the Canadian army to fight in the World War; swore allegiance to the crown, and thereby lost his American citizenship, immigration officers said.

He filed an application to regain his citizenship.

BROWNWOOD. (U.P.)—Property owners of Brownwood will save approximately $15,000 on fire insurance premiums during 1934, owing to the bad fire loss penalty of 15 per cent being removed.

The horsepower unit of energy was established by James Watt in 1775.

Ziggy Sears, former Fort Worth outfielder who still ranks as the greatest money player in J. Alvin Gardner's circuit, has never forgiven sports editors for one thing:

My congratulations on going to my school to coach. I was for you in the Southwest conference but please remember I am an alumni of Ohio State and if you don't give my school a winning team I will start the well known cry to have you fired.

F.D.E. ORATORICAL MODEL

ATLANTA, Ga. (U.P.)—President Roosevelt has become the oratorical model of the St. Benedict's College debate team here.

Yellowstone National park is in three states—Wyoming, Montana and Idaho.

THE GREAT PROTECTOR

OUT OF THE MASS GROUP INTO THE CLASS GROUP

... for a few dollars more a month!

The whole ideal of American life is built around the philosophy that tomorrow must be better than today!

Day after day, we hear people say—"I'm so glad I decided to purchase a Pontiac Eight! It is such a satisfaction to feel that we have something more than mere transportation."

This extra measure of satisfaction, of course, is strictly a plus value when you buy a new Pontiac Straight Eight.

For, purely on the basis of what the car itself provides—it is the most logical car in America for anyone to buy.

First of all, Pontiac is a big car—with a wheelbase of 117 inches—and big, roomy bodies by Fisher.

It is powered by the great Pontiac "Speedway Eight" engine—one of the finest motors in use today.
