'SHOOT TO KILL,' SOLDIERS TOLD

QUARTER TO 2-INCH RAINS OVER COUNTY

Scattered rains, ranging from a quarter inch at Midland to an inch and two inches over the grazing land and farms of the county, Thursday revived hopes for a late feed crop and for grass and weeds.

Eight miles northwest, on the J. O. Nobles place, reported two inches, as did a spot four miles west and two south of Stanton. General reports this morning said rain fell from Grandfalls to Midland.

E. F. Cowden, 15 miles northwest of Odessa, received a light rain; the Scharbauer 5 Wells place, 45 miles north, received an inch; B. N. Aycock, 12 miles northwest, an inch; the Scharbauer Curtis place, 25 miles north, three-quarters inch; Wolcott, Knox and Orson ranches, 25 miles northeast, a "good rain"; S. O. Goliday, 10 miles east, "light rain"; T. O. Midkiff and Sam Preston farms, "good rain"; Donald Hutt ranch, 20 miles south, a three-quarters inch rain.

A hailstorm and slight damaging wind was reported at the Preston place, 25 miles southeast. Good crops will be made on that farm, it was reported.

52-MILE WIND HITS MIDLAND FOR TIME

Two windstorms accompanied Thursday's rain, the first coming at 5:40 and letting up at 6:20, being gauged by army anemometer meteorologists at 52 m.p.h.

Rainfall at the port was 36 inches. The other windstorm was reported from 10:50 to 11:05.

Maximum temperatures were 100 degrees, minimum 69.

NO ANSWERING REPORT ON GEODETIC WATCHTOWER; WASHINGTON QUERIED

Whether it means anything to Midland or not, those who have followed the announcement President Roosevelt has approved a big allotment project for Midland insuring jobs for as many as 200 on construction of a geodetic watch tower and observation post, may find the following story of the Inter-City Press Bureau of Washington interesting. The story was sent to The Daily Telegram, where the bureau said another such tower is to be built, and reads:

"Plans for the erection of a gigantic 120-foot watch tower and observation post, to be set up in Dalhart, as a laboratory for the study of the earth's curvature and general topographic lay-out, are being rushed here by the United States coast and Geodetic Survey, which, before a group of the nation's leading scientists, erected an experimental tower, here before proceeding with its vast new work across the nation to include Dalhart as a focal unit. Dr. William Bowie, chief of the Bureau of Geodesy, was present and highly impressed with the demonstration.

"The Dalhart tower, which will look like a giant triangular corollia, will be composed of two towers, in fact—one inside the other. A scientist will be perched on the outside tower studying the delicate instruments set on the top of the inside tower. The Dalhart tower will be built after experiments here as successfully completed, it was said in Washington. Dr. Bowie, a noted scientist, said that the national department planned a vast network of those towers. Communication between scientists will be by means of flashes and flares. Dr. Bowie pointed out the extreme value of such a national tower network, communications and observation system."

REPORTER-TELEGRAM ASKS NEWS FROM WASHINGTON

The Reporter-Telegram, which was advised in telegrams of June 27 and July 1 of the proposed construction here of such a tower, has asked the United Press to verify the story in Washington. No answer has been received.

Extreme Savagery Along Amazon Found By Modern Motion Picture Trader Horn

HOLLYWOOD (U.P.)—Trader Horn to date. That's George B. Seitz, who just returned from a 15,000-mile trip into the headwaters of the Amazon river, in search for locations.

Seitz found Indians who thought an airplane was their great spirit coming to pay a visit, a ruler of 10,000 people who cracked an expensive wrist watch over a stone to see what made the ticking noise, and rushing rivers infested with man-eating fish.

Two other members of the expedition who went with Seitz into the jungles are still at Manaus, 1,000 miles up the Amazon, arranging transportation, housing and provisioning for the company which will follow later this year. They are Harold H. Noice, explorer-author, and Joe Cooke, business manager.

"When we went into the jungle with a special plane, we carried about a ton of trade goods," Seitz said, "including suits of clothing, bolts of cotton cloth, dozens of tin flutes, costume jewelry, mechanical toys and other items."

"As we circled in the Rio Negro country near an enormous communal house, the natives scurried into the brush like rabbits. It was hours before they ventured forth—they thought the plane was their Great Spirit coming on Judgment day.

"Of all the trade goods, the natives were most eager to get the tin flutes. They swiped all the mechanical toys from the children."

A temporary base was established at a village called Yarawa, 700 miles inland from Manaus. By plane and dugout canoe the men reconnoitered about 500 miles of the upper Amazon country selecting the sites to be used as locations for "Jungle Red Man."

"The people laugh constantly," Seitz said. "We had no need for firearms; we left them locked in the plane. We were entertained, lodged, fed, and the people were insulted when we offered payment. The natives are clean, friendly and unusually intelligent, although absolutely primitive."

The site selected for filming the picture is on the Brazilian-Colombian border where mousquitos, or invisible burrowing bugs, are few. To combat the pests, the group bathed in alcohol and camphor after every foray into the jungle.

Son of the First Publisher Visits

On his way to visit his father, J. C. Rathburn, first newspaper publisher of Midland, Dr. J. Charles Rathburn and family of New York City visited briefly in Midland this morning.

The publisher, nearing 80, lives at Seattle, Wash. He established "The Staked Plains" here in 1885, moving four years later to the west coast and continuing his newspaper work. Mrs. Rathburn also is nearing the 80-year mark, but is in excellent health.

Dr. Rathburn was accompanied by Mrs. Rathburn and their daughter, Charlotte, a student in Bucknell college. He is an instructor in the department of civil engineering in the College of City of New York, and maintains a consulting engineering office. After leaving Midland at the age of seven, he was graduated from the University of Washington and awarded the degree of Ph. D., and at various times was associated with engineering projects in the Philippines, China and in other corners. Another brother, Vilas B. Rathburn, born in Midland, is a civil engineer with headquarters at Tacoma, Wash. A third brother, Chauncey B. Rathburn, is a newspaperman and associated with "The Town Crier" at Seattle.

The first Midland publisher maintains a lively interest in the evolution of his town from a cow village to its present, Dr. Rathburn said.

Charred Remains of Bus in Which 14 Passengers Were Trapped

Here is shown one of the volunteer workers holding a fragment of human flesh which was removed from under the chassis of the bus after an acetylene torch had been used to cut thru the steel.

This photograph shows how the metal bridge railing was melted by the intense heat. Remains of the four bodies were found about two feet in front of the left rear wheels.

Mexican Brothers First to Die in Ariz. Gas Chamber

FLORENCE, Ariz., July 6 (U.P.)—Mannuel and Fed Hernandez, 19 and 18, Mexican brothers, died together in Arizona's lethal chamber today for the murder of Charles Washburn, a prospector they robbed of $35.

This marked the first use of lethal gas in Arizona and the first double execution of its kind in the world.

The brothers were strapped side by side with hands clasped, in a tiny room, where the gas was turned on.

TOM HUNTER TO SPEAK AT MIDLAND SATURDAY; WILL OUTLINE CAMPAIGN

Tom F. Hunter of Wichita Falls, candidate for governor, will speak on the court house lawn at 8:30 Saturday night.

In his address, the attorney-oil man who made a remarkable race for governor in the last campaign will discuss his program for a Texas recovery and will detail the planks of his platform through the operation of which he proposes to accomplish such a recovery.

Hunter's drive, which has brought him again into West Texas, has resulted in great crowds hearing him at Abilene, Sweetwater, Breckenridge and other towns. The candidate, his campaign headquarters and political supporters say he is adding to his strength from day to day and will likely poll an even heavier vote than in the last election.

Hugh Corrigan is manager of the Hunter for Governor campaign at Midland.

One County Failed To Support Smith

AUSTIN—Lon A. Smith, chairman of the railroad commission of Texas, has been honored more generally by the voters of Texas than, perhaps, any other man who has offered for state office. Records reveal that he is the only man in Texas to receive a majority of votes of the electorate in as many as 253 of the 254 counties in the state.

"I am still trying to figure out how I lost that county," Commissioner Smith commented to a group of his supporters from over the state, who gathered in Austin this week.

"I'll try to get that maverick in the right corral this time," he remarked.

Commissioner Smith's career as a public servant has been long and successful, in private life, as a family man and friend, he has been equally as outstanding. As a father of 11 children, he has guided the family with judgment. The humblest citizen in the land is assured of a warm welcome from "Lon" as he is affectionately known throughout the state.

Born in Rusk county, Commissioner Smith first entered public life as a county clerk of his home county, serving in this capacity for six years. Later as state senator for six years, he represented his constituents ably and faithfully, advocating progressive, sane and sound reforms; passing legislation for the protection of labor, education for the masses, moral uplift, and the necessary onward march of progress. When, in the Texas senate, there were many complex questions presented for legislative consideration, Lon Smith was always ready to espouse the cause of the people. Since his district was agricultural, the senator was a ready and able champion of the farmer. Organized labor recognized in him a faithful friend. He had done his work so well that when seeking a second term no opposition impeded him.

As state comptroller, for two terms, he solved many of the biggest problems ever faced by the holder of this office. His successful handling of Confederate pension matters is one example of his accomplishment.

Since his election as state railroad commissioner his work has been equally as constructive. Fearlessly, and often under the most merciless criticism, he has conducted his office wisely and dutifully for the good of the state.

Now Lon Smith is asking for a second full term in that same office, and justly submits his 13 year record as a servant of the state for voters' inspection. His growing popularity as a public official has always been marked by an increasing, positive and steady growth of his majorities, as indicated by substantial victories over strong contestants for political preferment. He has never been defeated since his initial election, and the law of human nature declares that people do not tire of voting for a capable, dependable public servant of this kind. DAVIS SPEAKER IN CITY TODAY

Avoiced here for a "double barreled purpose," Fred W. Davis, candidate for commissioner of agriculture, announced at noon he would speak in the district court room at 2 o'clock this afternoon, at the same time explaining the status of state deficiency warrants to be issued against claims of farmers in the recent pink boll worm fight.

"The warrants have been readjusted and sent from the comptroller's office to the compensation claim board," Davis said, "and should be in the mail this week."

The chairman of the claim board said Midland county farmers are getting first consideration, "just as they received in the first place, when the work of getting in applications started." He said warrants will be mailed individually, not to the farm agent's office.

GERMANY MOVES FOR RESTORATION

BERLIN, July 6 (U.P.)—A national financial and economic crisis impelled the government to appoint Minister of Economics Kurt Schmitt dictator of trade and industrial activities.

WEST COAST IS OMINOUSLY SET FOR NEW STRIFE

Sympathetic Strikes May Break Out In Texas

An ominous situation confronted authorities of San Francisco today as the state military patrolled the waterfront where three have been killed and a 150 wounded in a two-months strike of dockworkers.

Soldiers were told to "shoot to kill" if violence breaks out again.

Several hundred angry farmers at Bridgeton, N. J., clashed with striking berry pickers and canners, injuring four.

State police used tear gas on mine strike pickets near Jessup, Pa., overcoming 10 and dispersing 200.

MISERY AND DRINK LIE IN A VICIOUS CIRCLE

As the people of Mississippi get ready to vote on a state liquor control bill early this summer, one of the traditional fights against alcohol is being waged anew.

This fight is like those we used to see before the 18th amendment was even introduced in Congress. A great deal is being said about the "Demon Rum"; speakers are telling the old stories about homes and lives which booze has wrecked.

And this revival of the old type of campaign might be a little reminder that there is one angle of the liquor question to which we have not paid much attention, so far.

Someone once remarked that while drunkenness can cause poverty and misery, poverty and misery can also cause drunkenness; and before our new attitude in respect to the liquor trade gets fixed, it would be worth while to examine that thought a little.

The liquor traffic aroused widespread public indignation in America, roughly speaking, between the time of the Civil War and the enactment of the 18th amendment. It is interesting to note that that was precisely the period in which the great industrial development of the nation took place.

In that era our cities became great. Our industrial towns developed themselves then; the coal belt spanned its endless series of mine towns; the workman came more and more under the sway of the great corporation.

The pace of life was quickened; simultaneously, the frontier closed, leaving the ordinary man more at the mercy of the outside forces than had been the case before.

All this put a heavy pressure on the individual wage earner. In hundreds of thousands of cases it reduced him to a sad condition; it forced him to live in dreary and unsightly homes, it closed his horizon, and it made him feel that there was very little hope for him.

It is going too far to suggest that this had much to do with making the liquor problem acute? When the whisky bottle looks like a man's only escape, it is not surprising if he takes it. Misery led to drink and drink led to more misery—a vicious circle, growing from an environment men felt unable to change.

If all this is true, the ultimate solution may lie less in restriction of the liquor traffic than in improvement of the common man's lot to the point where he does not feel that periodic immersion in an alcoholic haze is the only way of making life supportable.

TOURISTS' HEAVEN

President Roosevelt's vacation trip to Hawaii is an excellent reminder that the islands of that territory constitute one of the most halcyon vacation grounds ever made available to travelers; and the American Nature Association points out that Hawaii has one little-talked-of advantage which makes even its balmy climate and its magnificent scenery take a second place—it has no advertising billboards!

Hawaii, it develops, lacks billboards because public-spirited citizens several years ago realized that one of the territory's greatest assets was its natural beauty. These citizens had the good sense to see that there is no enemy of natural beauty quite like the billboards; so they set to work, and presently—presto! the billboards were gone.

American tourists who are sick to death of these eyesores will probably wish that their own states possessed Hawaii's magic formula.

Roger Babson says this country is on its way toward dictatorship. He probably hasn't read the speeches of some of our congressmen.

Strange that everybody should list what Congress did during its recent session, and then blame it all on the president.

The Senate has appropriated $10,000 for a committee to study wild life. From Broadway to Hollywood.

The Town Quack

(Reserves the right to "quack" about everything with taking a stand on anything). The man who had to be told to mind his own business now would be glad if he had a business to mind. While President Roosevelt is on the high seas, isn't he afraid the Nazis or the Republicans will grab control of the United States? Sports writers have praised Carnera for not staying down for the count of nine. Maybe he couldn't count that high.

FLOOD OF FISH STORIES

BOSTON (U.P.)—There will be some 10,500 more fish stories told this year than last year in Massachusetts. The reason for this is the fact that 10,500 more fishing licenses have been issued over last year for the corresponding period. Raymond J. Kenney, director of the state division of fisheries and game, attributes the gain to improvement in economic conditions.

DROUGHT DRIED AIRPLANES

CHICAGO (U.P.)—The 30-day drought in the midwest did peculiar things to unprotected spars and plywood used in airplane wings. Many ships now have either a lot more dihedral, or a lot less dihedral than before they dried out and warped, according to a Department of Commerce survey of Chicago airports.

DRIVING CLASS

HARTFORD, Conn. (U.P.)—A class in careful automobile driving, compulsory for juniors and seniors, will be inaugurated at William H. Howl high school in the fall. Since the 15-years minimum age law went into effect several years ago many youthful drivers, it was found, were involved in accidents of an avoidable nature.

Sylvia Sidney Richly Gowned In New Picture

Sylvia Sidney, figuratively speaking, has emerged from the cocoon and now is a butterfly. "Thirty-Day Princess," her new Paramount film, coming Sunday, Monday and Tuesday at the Ritz theatre, with Gary Gray as her leading man, gives Sylvia more than thirty changes of modern, fascinating clothes which fairly scream with luxurious finery. Usually her screen wardrobe consists of prison uniforms, carnival dancing girl's outfits, drab cheap clothes of a poorer class of working girl, but here in "Thirty-Day Princess," for the first time in her screen career, she abounds in exotic hostess gowns, afternoon frocks, rich dinner gowns and luxurious evening gowns, with smart beautiful accessories and jewels. The story, a satirical comedy, presents Miss Sidney as the actress who is hired to impersonate a royal princess, who has come to this country to front for a large bond issue, but falls ill with mumps. The bankers' enemy, a man they've sworn to ruin, is a young newspaper publisher. Their plan is for the actress to cause him to fall in love with her and then denounce him publicly. But what they don't reckon with is the possibility of the girl falling in love with her. She does, and for thirty days she's a princess with a nation at her feet, but also a girl wanting only one man. How the romance finally is completed brings the picture to an unusual climax.

Mickey Mouse
Mingles with
The Real Stars

Mickey Mouse himself, aided and abetted by the Three Little Pigs, the Big Bad Wolf, and all the sterling thespians of Walt Disney's "Silly Symphonies," comes to life and mingles with the other stars in "Hollywood Party," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's multi-star musical extravaganza that comes preview Saturday to the Yucca theatre.

These lovable actors, creatures of pen and ink, are by amazing camera devices seen actually mingling with human players in the hilarious and spectacular romance. Also they stage a special "Silly Symphony," the "Hot Chocolate Soldier," a number of Brown and Freed, creators of "Wedding of the Painted Doll" and other hits.

"Wild Gold," coming to the Yucca theatre on Saturday, is a story that doesn't have to delve back into the past to find colorful adventure, glorious romance, rapid-fire action and a spectacular atmosphere. It has the fascination, the drama and humor of the days of '49. But this 1934 rush for gold, inspired by the type. His record has been unparalleled in Texas politics; his 13 years in state office have ripened into labors of experience which qualify him for greater and more efficient service.

"I do not ask for the suffrage of the Democrats of Texas as an untried neophyte," Commissioner Smith declared. "I have served my state and my people for 13 years without taking a vacation, and I hope to continue serving them just as efficiently."

Commissioner Smith maintains his home at Henderson, Texas, in a house roomy and comfortable for his large family. Here, he and Mrs. Smith have received their friends with true Texas cordiality in the past, and the same warm welcome is assured those calling at their residence in Austin while he is in office here.

In addition to being a Southern statesman in his own right, Commissioner Smith comes from a family of men who have served the South. His father fought at Shiloh with Albert Sidney Johnston, and one of Commissioner Smith's prized possessions is a gavel from a section of an oak tree which grew on that famed battlefield.

IT LOOKED LIKE A BARGAIN

Today, the windows and shelves of many stores are crowded with packages bearing "bargain" prices. With prices so low, not getting your money's worth seems almost impossible.

No matter how strongly you are urged to buy these "bargain brands"—or how often you are told they are "just as good"—it is safer to refuse them unless you are fully familiar with their value.

But it pays to remember that while some of these products are bargains, others are not.

Look for the real bargains now among brands which you know—by your own experience, through their advertising, or by the reputations of their makers. Ask for them by name! Insist on getting what you ask for!

In some of the unfamiliar packages you see so frequently today, there is cheap merchandise—the offering of a few manufacturers who have gone too far in their efforts to make your dollars buy more quantity. Products in which these manufacturers have sacrificed quality to make a low price still lower and, seemingly, more attractive.

Many of these reliable brands now cost less than they have in years. But only the price has been reduced. The quality—which originally made these products popular with you and many others—still remains as high as ever.
