Food Prices up Five to Ten Percent

By UNITED PRESS
Food prices are rising in Dallas, Fort Worth and other Texas points, a survey today showed. The average rise was reported as from five to 10 per cent, due to drought and, in some instances, federal taxes.

SPECIAL NOT TO STOP AT MIDLAND

No stop will be made here by the "Know Mississippi Better" train, according to latest reports. The special train bearing 175 Mississippians is scheduled to arrive at Abilene this afternoon at 5:15 and depart at 6:15 for Big Spring, where it will make its second stop, leaving at 10:30. In the interval before its departure from Abilene this afternoon the visitors will be entertained by former residents of Mississippi now living at Abilene and by city officials. A reception committee will board the train at Abilene and accompany the party to Abilene, where at the station the visitors will be buttoned with roses and routed into a parade to be led by the Abilene high school band. Returning to the railway station, they will be formally welcomed by Judge James P. Stinson. As a final courtesy, light refreshments will be served.

MIDLAND PEOPLE ARE DISAPPOINTED

Midland people had expected earlier to be afforded a chance to greet the Mississippi delegation, a letter to Midland friends of Mrs. Roger Gambrell, Tupelo, Miss., having announced the party would make a brief stop here. Mrs. Gambrell, the former Miss Dolly Ligon, said her city would be well represented. O. W. Ligon, her father, who spends part of each year at Tupelo and part at Midland where his sons, Clarence and Otis Ligon, live, recently visited Mississippi, "gathering blackberries and fishing from the five-acre lake" on the Gambrell place.

PROCLAMATION RESULTS FROM OUSTER TRIES

Solons to Decide on His Fitness to Keep Seat

BISMARCK, N. D., July 18. (U.P.)—Governor William H. Langer, facing a prison sentence on conviction of charges of soliciting campaign funds from relief workers, today effected a coup d'etat by calling out 1,200 national guardsmen, proclaiming military law suspending all civil law.

The action resulted from an attempt by opponents to oust him from the governor's office as the supreme court ruled that the conviction disqualified him from holding office. Lieutenant Governor Ole Olson, termed the "real governor" by the supreme court, sought a way to break Langer's military rule. It was reported but not confirmed that he would ask for federal troops to be sent to repulse Langer and the state militia.

CREEK SUCCUMBS; RITES THURSDAY

Lafayette Irvin Creek, 77, Midland pioneer ranchman, died at 7:30 Tuesday evening of complications arising from a cold and a chill contracted Sunday. He came with family members to Midland 32 years ago in a covered wagon. Establishing in New Mexico, near the present site of Deming, when he came westward from his native state of Tennessee, he later came to Martin county and bought the No. 10 ranch, which surrounded the present location of Tarzan, rich farming area. While he remained at ranch headquarters, Mrs. Creek and three daughters lived at his Midland home during the fall and winters so the girls might attend school.

He retired about 1928, cutting his Martin county ranch into farming tracts and selling. He had lived at his North Main home in Midland since. Another ranch was sold to Tom Vance. Creek was born June 21, 1857, in Tennessee, to Mr. and Mrs. Martin Creek. He was married in 1881 to Miss S. M. Keith. His widow and three daughters, Mrs. Walter J. Deaton, Mrs. W. L. Kelly, Mrs. Phillips of Deming, N. M., and Mrs. George Brooks of Brownwood, survive. All are here for funeral rites, all children except Mrs. Phillips arrive before their father's death. Mrs. J. D. Keith of San Diego, a sister, will be here Thursday in time for the rites.

Services will be held at 3 p. m. Thursday at the chapel of the Ellis mortuary, the Rev. Winston F. Borum officiating. Interment will be at Fairview cemetery.

Active escorts at the rites will be sons in law and grandsons, Walter J. Deaton, Clyde Jordan, Cecil Jordan, Kelly Phillips, George Brooks and Lowell Brooks. Honorary escorts are: Charley Allen, W. ### Baby Connor Safety Back With His Happy Parents

Ill of exposure, starvation and thirst, baby Bobby Connor was found Tuesday in a woods nearby his home, from which he disappeared five days ago. Twenty-one months-old Bobby was discovered in a bramble thicket, scratched but smiling. Police expressed the belief that the baby was placed in the woods which had been scathed frequently since the child disappeared a few hours before he was found. Capt. Phillip J. McQuillan, head of the Greenburg police, said "I don't think he could have crawled or walked that far back into the woods." A handkerchief found several feet from the spot where the child was found caused officers to search the wooded area more thoroughly.

Ultimatum Issued Strikers; Drive Against Communists Sees Violence

RIG BUILDERS ORGANIZE PERMANENT ASSOCIATION; THOMAS IS PRESIDENT

Rig building contractors of West Texas formed a permanent association to be known as the West Texas Rig Builders association, at their meeting Tuesday night in the Midland chamber of commerce office. Arch W. Thomas, Midland, was elected president. Other officers chosen were: Joe Seabourn, Odessa, vice-president; B. F. Robbins, Big Spring, secretary-treasurer. Directors named were: Joe Stubbins, Breckenridge; Roy Shannons, Hobbs; F. G. Stoeckl, Pecos; Jim Boykin, Big Spring; C. J. O'Quinn, Odessa; J. G. Gossett, Midland; C. E. Steele, Whitt, and Frank Hathaway, Abilene. The association elected Paul O. Sill and Seabourn delegates to the code meeting of the National Rig Building Employers association at Hotel Tulsa in Tulsa July 20. The secretary of the Midland chamber of commerce acted as temporary secretary in the absence of Robbins. The rig builders declared that a code with teeth in it is necessary to prevent bankruptcy to their business. They say that prices for rig building are now lower than ever in the history of the oil industry in West Texas. Despite the fact there is about 75 per cent more work in West Texas, particularly the Permian basin, this year than in 1931-32 and '33, rig contractors are operating at a loss, delegates agreed. They attributed this to increased wages, restricted hours of employment and increased costs of materials. The rig builders are worried over the changed practices of oil companies regarding rig contracting. Until the petroleum code went into effect, most companies let their rig contracts regularly to the same contractors at usually a fixed price. Now, charge the contractors, oil companies demand competitive bids, and this new method is causing practically all contractors to operate at a loss, employers say. The West Texas delegates to Tulsa are hopeful that an enforceable code will be worked out which will insure them a "reasonable profit."

SAN FRANCISCO, July 18. (AP)—The powerful San Francisco general strike committee Tuesday night virtually told striking Pacific coast longshoremen and maritime workers to submit to arbitration, or do without the support of the mass walkout now gripping this metropolitan area.

The committee made its stand contingent upon agreement by employers of the maritime workers to recognize the general unions in the general strike as the labor organizations properly representing the various trades in whose name the walkout originally was declared. The steering committee's action was taken while San Francisco police and self-styled citizen "vigilantes" began separate but savage general attacks upon communist strongholds in the city. The communist "hot spots" were attacked and wrecked one after another in the uprising of club-swinging citizen groups. Behind the "vigilantes" came police who arrested 340 suspected agitators, three men and one officer were hurt in the melees. Every effort will be made to check the records and nationalities of those rounded up in the drive to clean out agitators and prevent violence, District Attorney Matthew Brady said. "I shall use my best endeavors," Brady added, "to have such of them who are not citizens and not entitled to remain in this country nor to draw subsistence, turned over to the labor department for deportation."

BARROW'S PAL IS ARRESTED

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 18. (U.P.)—J. S. Ray O'Donnell of Tulsa was shot and killed today by a detective who was seeking Harvey Pugh, asserted pal of the late Clyde Barrow.

Pugh, admitting that he was under $10,000 bond in connection with the killing of a policeman at McPherson, Kas., was arrested two hours later next door to the hotel where O'Donnell was killed as he drew a gun on officers.

WINS FOR TAIL TWISTER

Joe Haygood won a spirited election over Wade Stevens for tailtwister of the Lions club, at today's regular luncheon period. The vote was 15 to 7.

VALUATIONS TO SHOW DECREASE

AUSTIN, July 18. (U.P.)—Estimates by tax assessors in 178 of the 254 counties of Texas indicated that the total assessed valuations will fall under last year's $3,764,139,512. The state automatic tax board will meet July 20 to set the maximum constitutional limit of 77 cents per $100 assessed valuation. The maximum rate was regarded as a foregone conclusion because of state deficits aggregating nearly $13,000,000.

THREE SHIPS LAND

Two marine planes, commanded by Lieut. E. E. Pollock, were landed at Sloan field today en route to Dallas from the West coast. Capt. H. B. Thambler piloting a bomber, a B-4, landed from Rockwall field, Calif., also en route to Dallas.

The strike committee issued permits to several restaurants and grocery stores on the coast house food. The president's mediation board continued efforts to arbitrate. Seattle, strikers in a battle with police re-established picket lines. Police, gassed, were swept back and reserves were ordered to the scene. The strike situation was easing generally elsewhere.

"RAYS" MAY AVERT WAR BUT NOT ITS CAUSES

If it had been anyone but Nikola Tesla who announced discovery of means to erect a wall of "force rays" around a nation's borders to keep out invading armies, the country would very likely indulge in a hearty horse laugh.

Mr. Tesla, however, is one of those scientific gentlemen who can't be laughed off. His assertion sounds wild enough, in all conscience—a cross between Jules Verne and the earlier H. G. Wells—but these modern inventors are miracle workers anyway, and few of them are any cleverer than Mr. Tesla.

Suppose, just for the sake of argument, that his invention turns out to be as effective as he predicts.

Each country would be able to enclose its borders in a new kind of military wall, an impalpable but infinitely effective wall, unlike anything ever seen before. Microscopic particles of dust electrically driven in vast, whirlwind curtains, impervious to armies, navies, or fleets of airplanes—let each nation shelter itself inside such barriers and there could be no more war, because invasion would be an impossibility.

This having been done, we would get—what? The millennium? Probably not. For the problem of war is a problem that goes to the very roots of modern society, and it can't be settled simply by making it impossible for pugnacious peoples to get at each other.

The causes of war would remain untouched. The rivalries, the suspicions, and the conflicting aims which breed war would be right where they were before. If they could not find an outlet in armed strife, they would find it in some other kind of strife.

There can be economic wars, bloodless but quite as bitter as those in which armies and navies are used.

For the modern world, after all, is still very like a jungle, in which might makes the rules and self-interest is the first law.

As long as it continues to be that kind of world, there will be international conflicts of one kind or another.

Making invasion a physical impossibility would save many lives and prevent much suffering, of course; but it would not bring us any nearer to finding how to live harmoniously in a genuine community of nations.

STIFLING CRITICISM

Huey Long has started—or tried to start—a dangerous innovation in his attempt to punish Louisiana newspapers for opposing his policies.

The Louisiana legislature, at his bidding, has voted a 2 per cent tax on newspaper advertising. That this represents a move to strike at the pocketbooks of editors who have dared to criticize the Kingfish and his program is too obvious to be denied; and that it will meet the fate which awaits all efforts to curb freedom of the press in the United States is a pretty safe prediction.

A very little thought will show how vicious is the principle embodied in legislation of this kind.

Suppose a state government is able, at will, to impose sharp financial penalties on newspapers in the state. Will not the mere possession of this ability inevitably tend to silence criticism? Will not the people of the state, by virtue of that fact, be deprived of their right to know precisely what is going on in their government?

Republican Committee Chairman Fletcher gave us some tall figures about the cost of the New Deal, perhaps to make the $1,000,000 campaign fund he's seeking look to the prospects like a dime.

Most Candidates Don't Know Value of Offices Sought; Fee Law May Disappear

By GORDON K. SHEARER, United Press Staff Correspondent
AUSTIN, (U.P.)—Most of the candidates now soliciting votes in Texas do not know what the office sought will be worth to the winner.
Victors in the primaries become participants as party nominees in a general election to be held Nov. 6. On that same day the voters may, by constitutional amendments, so change the present pay system as to make it unrecognizable.

give them general management of county affairs.
The compensation now allowed officials in different counties varies so much that any classification is difficult. Successive acts tried to fix compensation according to bracketed property valuations. In some, these factors are combined so many exceptions have been made that those falling under a general rule are outnumbered.

Tufverson Trunk Found in Vienna

Some enlightenment in the baffling disappearance of Agnes Tufverson was sought by police in the trunk (top) found in the Vienna apartment of Ivan Poderjaj, her husband. In it was found lingerie believed to have belonged to the missing woman. The trunk label, bearing Miss Tufverson's name, is shown below.

and fee acts as special laws is met with the objection that the procedure necessary for such an act has not been followed. Such acts must be advertised locally before passage.

It is not only pay that the candidates must guess about. Until the constitutional amendments are carried or defeated, Nov. 6, the candidates cannot say surely what territory they will serve. An amendment proposes to widen the power of the legislators to create, combine, divide or enlarge counties. There appears to be no limit on this power so long as no county is created with less than 50,000 people.

Other constitutional amendments to be submitted to referendum on Nov. 6 deal with taxation and city powers. One proposes to put a limit of $22.50 per capita on the aggregate of taxes, licenses, permit charges, and fees, that the state may collect. With it goes a prohibition of expenditures that exceed $2.50 per person. The $22.50 is exclusive of fees charged students at state-supported colleges. The $22.50 is also exclusive of royalties and bonuses paid by lessees of state land.

Another tax change to be voted upon will, if adopted, permit classification of property for taxation. Now the same rate must be charged for all sorts of property. If the proposed amendment is adopted, different rates of tax pay may be levied against real estate, against personal property, against improvements on real estate and so on. Classification will be left to the legislature. Still another tax amendment proposes to subject University of Texas lands to tax for both county and school district purposes.

The amendments to enlarge city powers, presuming adoption, will permit chartered cities to amend their charters each 12 months and will permit city officers to hold four year terms. Two years now is the limit. To get the four year term, city charters will have to specify.

RATTLER TURNED "TRICK"
FORT DAVIS, Tex. (U.P.)—Norris Creath boasted he could pick up a rattlesnake without being bitten.

"It's a trick," he said. Creath picked up a three and a half foot serpent by the neck. The "trick" failed when the snake bent its head, and struck Creath on the hand. Snake bite serum prevented serious consequences.

Miss Platte's ancestors.

The love of Johann and Isolde was a flame too bright and beautiful to be extinguished by years of separation and hopelessness. Rather than extinguish it by resuming her everyday life without the man she loved, Isolde became a nun.

Johann continued true to his love for Isolde and never married.

The soldier, whose full name was Johann Christoph Pezold, was a favorite of Ernest Augustus, elector of Hanover, who went to England in 1714 to ascend the throne as George I. Miss Platte said.

Marriage between Johann and Isolde was forbidden by her parents, for Isolde was a Roman Catholic and Johann was a staunch Protestant. Isolde's parents learned of secret meetings of the two lovers and placed the girl in a convent. Before she left she gave Johann an ivory miniature of herself.

Months passed without word from Johann, then one day Isolde was told that he was married, and that she might return home. Instead she took the vows of the nun who had been her only companion during her loneliness.

It was not until several days later that, in a chance meeting with a servant of Isolde's family, that Johann learned where his sweetheart was. It was too late.

Johann, so the story goes, returned to England and had the ivory miniature of Isolde copied by a portrait painter. But the painting gave the brown eyes a light so lifelike that it revived the old pain. Finally Johann took the painting back to the artist, and asked that the eyes be covered with a veil that would partially conceal them.

So today the two pictures hang on opposite walls, the serious face of the handsome soldier turned toward the strange sight of a beautiful woman whose gently smiling lips and patriotic nose are the only visible parts of her face under the veil, a symbol of the sacrifice the beautiful Belgian girl made for her love.

The paintings were brought to America in 1871 by Miss Platte's father. The name of the artist appears on the bottom of the canvases, but is too blurred to be intelligible. And Miss Platte does not know who painted them.

Love Story Hangs Revealed on Wall Of Houston Home

By THOMAS O. HURST

HOUSTON, (U.P.)—A love story of more than two centuries ago lives again in portraits hanging in the home of Miss Anna M. Platte of Houston.

The characters are Johann, aristocratic soldier high in the favor of his king, and Isolde, dark-eyed Belgian lady, whose beauty won Johann's heart. Their happiness was brief and beset with many complications.

Johann was the brother of one of

Persepolis Yields Magnificent Find to Archeology

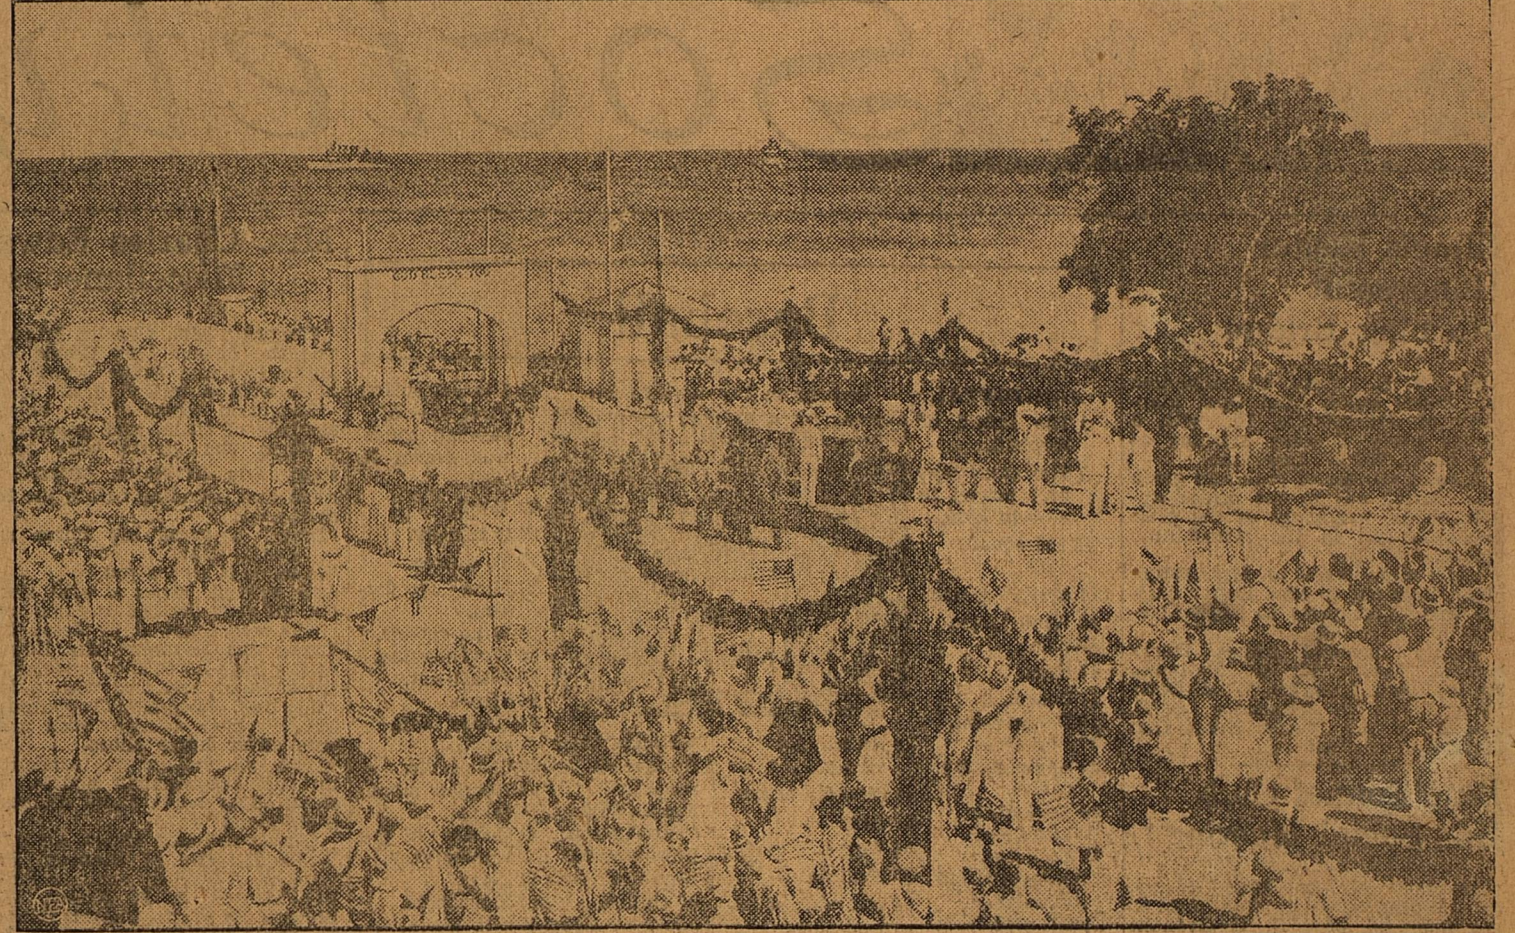

The magnificent terrace where Persian conquerors walked until a greater power arose to crush them, more than 2000 years ago, is shown here, part of the great structures unearthed at Persepolis, the Versailles of ancient Persia. Two years of excavation by the Chicago University-Oriental expedition revealed the terrace, with its monumental staircases, buried for centuries after Alexander the Great, in a drunken rage, burned the imperial palace in 330 B. C. Unearthing of these ruins and uncovering of a Stone Age village adjacent to them, antedating them by nearly 4000 years, is hailed as one of the greatest archeological discoveries of recent years.

Pact Is Grand

First year of marriage for Minna Gombell, screen comedienne, top photo, and J. W. Sefton, Jr., San Diego, Calif., banker, shown below with her, was "just grand" under their pact by which the actress could go out with any unattached male during certain hours. So they've liberalized the agreement as to hours and predict even more happiness in the coming year.

'God Bless You,' St. Croix Greeting to Distinguished Guest

First president of the United States ever to visit the Virgin Islands, Franklin D. Roosevelt was greeted by cheering throngs as he landed at St. Croix on his voyage to Hawaii on the cruiser Houston. The president's car is shown as it halted after passing under an arch on which was inscribed "God bless you." There the president and his party paused to listen to the songs and cheers of the natives, massed in colorful array and waving flags. In the harbor are seen the destroyers accompanying the president's ship.

Test Proves Bowl Ideal Spot for Stratosphere Hop

Wisdom of selection of the natural bowl in the Black Hills of South Dakota for the stratosphere flight take-off was proved when Maj. W. E. Kepner and Capt. Orville Anderson ascended in the 25,000-cubic foot army balloon, shown here, to test air currents. The 37-minute flight was a success. The ground crew is shown at the ropes as the gas bag was inflated for the trial.

New "Supreme Court" of Labor Disputes Begins Its Work at Capital

Kidnaped

Dr. Sven Hedin (above), world famous Swedish explorer, fell into the hands of brigands for the second time in his long career when Chinese bandits captured him with 10 companions in Turkestan. He had set out to survey the ancient silk caravan trade route.

Strikers Make Desperate Last Stand in Farm War

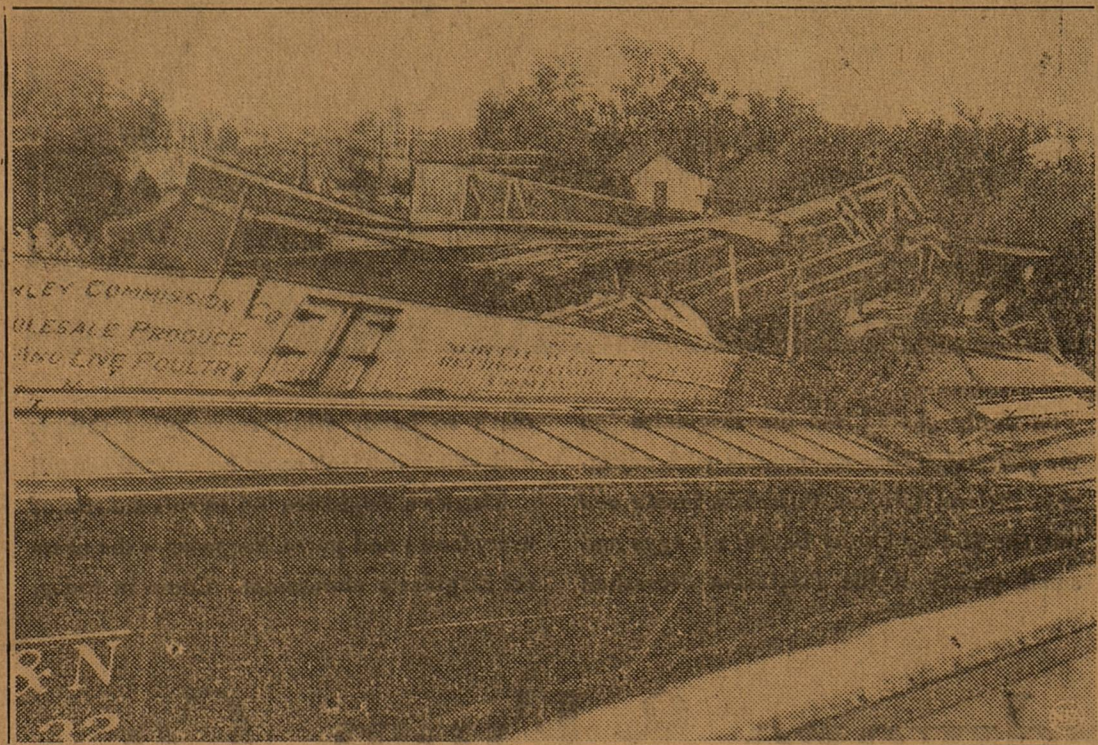

Hurling rocks and shouting defiance at the police and sheriffs who were advancing on them with clubs, tear gas and hose, striking farm hands in Bridgeton, N. J., are shown making a desperate last stand before they fled in retreat. As a result of the clash, which has been termed the bitterest labor battle in the East since the NRA, more than 70 were injured and 27 arrested. The strikers were protesting against a reduction in wages.

Empire, Republic, Dictatorship—What Next for Germany?

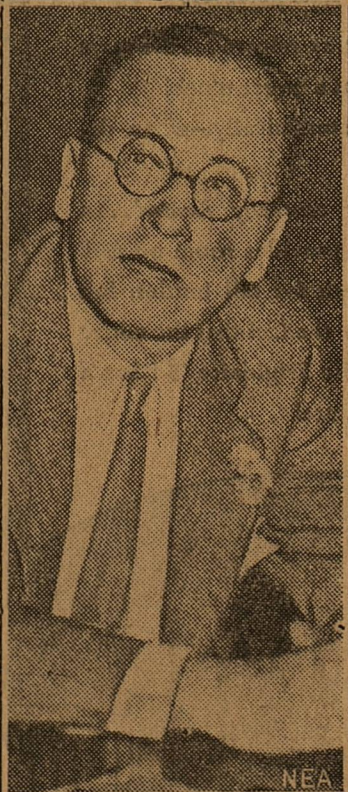

When the Kaiser fled, Germany staggered through three months of confusion. Then a constitution much like our own was adopted at Weimar in 1919, and Friedrich Ebert, former harnessmaker and life-long Socialist, was chosen president. Hope followed Wilson's words: "We are glad to fight for the liberation of the peoples of the world—the German people included." But the young republic had to suppress bloody counter-revolution by both Communists and Monarchists; it had a terrible burden of war reparations; it was badly divided. A series of political assassinations followed, including liberal leaders Walter Rathenau and Matthias Erzberger, and Communist leaders Karl Liebknecht and Rosa Luxemburg. The republican government, "in the middle" between growing factions of Communists and Royalists and Nationalists, could not cope with the financial situation. The mark slid down the inflationary toboggan, dragging with it almost all the people to new depths of misery and suffering. In 1925 Ebert died, and Von Hindenburg was chosen president. Hindenburg chose as chancellor Dr. Heinrich Brüning, hoping to unite his own support with that of Brüning's Centrists. Brüning, in two years' gallant effort, could not get necessary tax and reform laws through a Reichstag split among seven or more parties. Hindenburg dissolved the Reichstag, but Nazis and Nationalists deserted its successor.

Where Eight Died in 22-Car Railroad Pile-Up

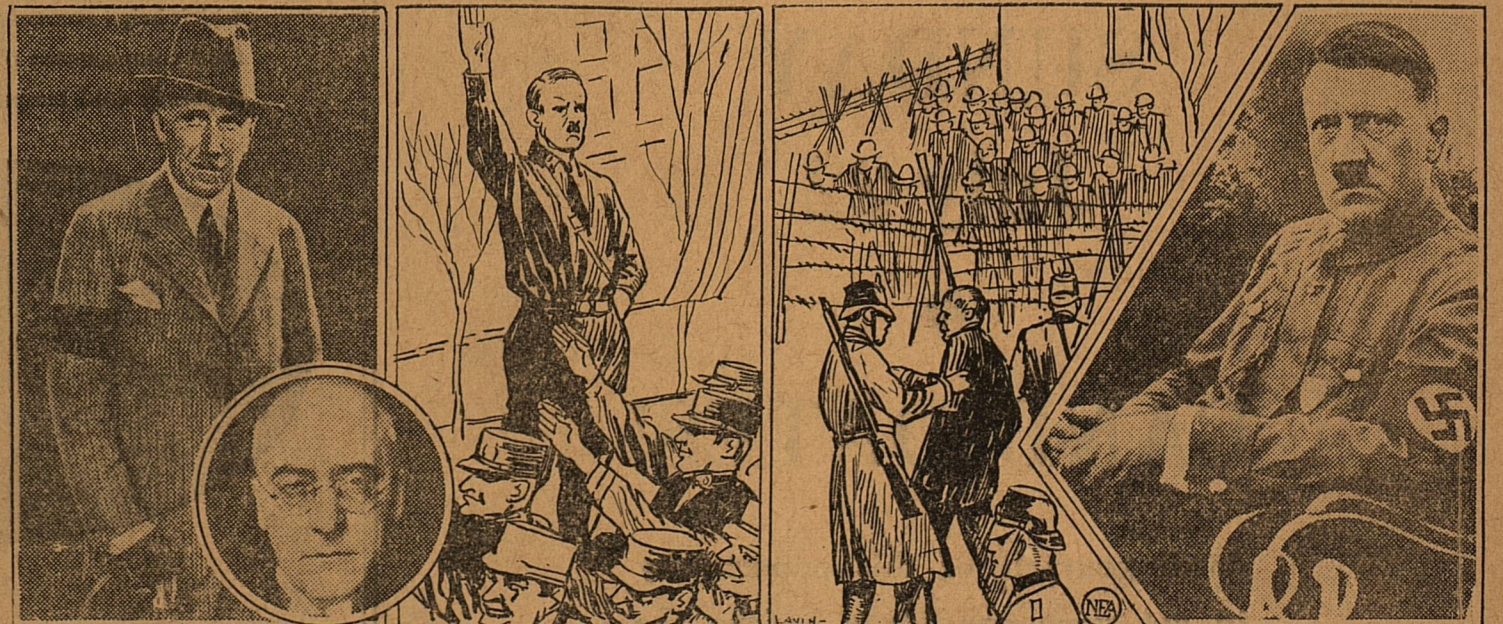

From this grotesque heap of splintered wood and twisted steel—the wreckage of 22 freight cars derailed on the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis railroad, near Lavergne, Tenn.—the bodies of eight dead vagrants and more than a dozen injured were removed. A broken wheel was blamed for the wreck. No trainmen were injured, the engine and about half the cars staying on the track.

Testifies

Summoned to explain his activities here on behalf of the Hitler government, George Sylvester Viereck, author and publisher, is shown as he testified in New York before a Congressional committee investigating "un-American activities." He admitted that he had been paid $2000 by Dr. Otto Kiep, former German Consul General, for "advisory services" on public relations.

Franz von Papen, Junker, was then named chancellor, but he could not get a workable Reichstag majority and was succeeded by Von Schleicher, who lasted just 57 days. At least nine parties divided the Reichstag. Meanwhile, Adolf Hitler, stressing the international degradation and internal misery of Germany, continued to gather followers. Hindenburg, re-elected, was forced to yield to Hitler when the latter polled 44 per cent of the vote, far more than any other party. He named Hitler chancellor. Hitler's National Socialists, backed by his semi-military "storm troops" in brown shirts, then began a militant and aggressive campaign to restore Germany to its former "place in the sun." But the promised improvement failed to materialize. The Weimar constitution was suspended, so far as personal liberties go, and Hitler was given dictatorial powers until April 1, 1937. More than 5000 were arrested as political opponents of the government, and confined in "concentration camps." The storm troopers harassed Jews and radicals. Continued failure to bring about better conditions at home or abroad, together with another impending financial crisis, brought dissatisfaction in the ranks of the storm troops. To avert an open revolt, Hitler engineered his recent "coup," executing many leaders whose loyalty was in question. But the future remains uncertain.

Pignut Trees May Turn into Pecans

HEMPSTEAD, (P).—An experiment to determine if pignut trees can be changed into producers of pignut trees is being conducted in Waller county by J. V. Bush, county agricultural agent.

The experiment is being watched with interest by numerous farmers who long have bemoaned that the streams of this county produce nothing but a small, bitter and almost worthless nut of which only pigs are fond.

Since the pignut trees are of the hickory or walnut family and therefore closely related to the pecan, Bush believes that the trees can be changed into valuable pecan groves.

He is conducting his experiment on the farm of T. W. Garrett eight miles north of Waller. Last year limbs on the pignut tree had been cut off near the trunk and from these "dehorned" branches new limbs had grown out.

On these new limbs Bush grafted ten buds, which he had cut from a papershell pecan tree. The buds apparently are thriving and Bush expects the pignut to bear pecans of excellent quality in a few years.

SAN BENITO, (P).—San Benito claims a luncheon club that has no other objective than eating and drinking.

It is the Calfhead club which meets at irregular intervals for the purpose of devouring calves' heads which are barbecued from midnight until served at noon. By that time the meat is so tender it is ready to fall from the skulls and the members eat it in the form of sandwiches with pickles and onions.

ported several requests for federal intervention here but said no action along that line had been taken.

Sabotage, window smashing and the beating of men here and there marked the second day of the general walkout in San Francisco and the first day in Oakland and the other east bay cities.

Roving patrols of national guardsmen were turned loose in Oakland to help the already enlarged police force maintain order.

Upwards of 4,600 national guardsmen were well equipped behind army tanks, machine guns, bayonet pointed rifles and heavy stores of ammunition in San Francisco. The waterfront and the wholesale district were barricaded from the rest of the city and fresh food supplies began moving in under armed convoys.

Relax Grip The strikers began to relax their grip on the wheels of commerce.

Trolley car transportation was restored to a small fraction of the besieged city when the municipal railway began running under a mutual arrangement between strikers and city officials.

Fifty-one restaurants were open under union sanction. Monday only 19 had operated in that manner. Nearly 2,000 others remained closed, however, and the food situation was acute in places.

In Oakland, "close up squads" warned all but 22 union sanctioned restaurants to lock their doors.

Other shop keepers received threats and many closed. Mysterious telephone calls threatening bombings were received by merchants.

A unit of the national guard was sent to Stockton to protect commodities piled on the waterfront.

Authorities in the east bay region announced that they had the "situation in hand" as special corps of Frazier reports rain having fallen on Amherst and Carrizozo, only moisture seen on the trip.

HEN MOTHERS PARTRIDGES

RHINELANDER Wis. (UP)—A proud little hen, owned by Arthur Stoker, is the foster-mother of five baby partridges, which she hatched from a nest of eggs abandoned by the mother partridge. The hen and chicks seem to have a mutual fondness for each other as though they were "feather and blood" relations.

Haley Returns, Heads Comedy Cast for Films

Fast fun, variety and hilarious action characterize the spontaneous film comedy "Here Comes the Groom" showing today and tomorrow at the Ritz theatre.

Jack Haley, Mary Boland, Neil Hamilton, Patricia Ellis, Isabel Jewell, Sidney Toler and Larry Gray are the principal players. Edward Seligwick directed the film for Charles R. Rogers, independent producer at the Paramount studios.

Trying to prove to his girl that he can be a big success in his profession, burglary, Jack Haley gets himself into quite a mixup while holding up a poker game. The cops spot him, give chase and Haley finds escape in the Pullman compartment of a railroad train waiting at the station. But his troubles aren't ended here.

The compartment in which he hides belongs to a young bride, whose husband, a famous radio masked tenor, has deserted her because her father's money has suddenly disappeared. She's on

Clyde E. Thomas for District Judge

Rev. G. B. Richburg, Baptist Pastor, well known throughout this section, says: "Clyde stands for the finest ideals of his community, and has stood by the pastors in all of their civic movements; he is a splendid lawyer, and the best class of people in this county are standing by him in his race for District Judge."

Mr. S. P. Jones, Member School Board, Chairman Board of Stewards, says: "We have found Clyde E. Thomas to be true and upright. I am for Clyde in the District Judge's race and I predict he will receive a strong vote in Howard County."

Mr. Bob Dorwood, prominent rancher, Vealmoore, says: "Clyde has always run well in this box and will do better this year than ever. Clyde was Prosecuting Attorney while I was Deputy Sheriff, years ago, and he is strong for law enforcement, especially in those things that count, and every citizen in the District ought to vote for him."

her way home, and forces Haley to pose as the husband. The bride's family, especially her nit-wit aunt, played by Mary Boland, are radio fans. Aunt Mary is "nuts" about the tenor and proceeds to have Haley sing for her. As if all this weren't enough for one man to bear, Haley finds his own sweetheart in the house, trying to steal the family jewels. With this good start, the hilarious situations pile up, end over end, and the film ends with an uproarious finale.
