Government Concentrates Hunt for "Baby Face" Nelson

OUTLAW NO. 1 DISCRPTION OF THE YEGG More Ruthless Than Dillinger, Say Officers

WASHINGTON, July 24, (U.P.)—George "Baby Face" Nelson, Dillinger's machine gunner, is now ranked as Public Enemy No. 1 on the government's list.

HAMILTON GANG NOT REPORTED

HUNTSVILLE, July 24.—Quiet met with the great drive of Texas peace officers to learn the whereabouts of the Raymond Hamilton gang today.

Reported only at rare intervals since they broke from the death row of the penitentiary Sunday, and only sketchily then, it was believed they had denned up in some out-of-the-way place known to Hamilton.

Heavily armed with pistols that had been smuggled to them and with guns taken from guards, Raymond Hamilton, Joe Palmer and Irvin (Blackie) Thompson roared away from Huntsville Sunday afternoon in cars driven by outside confederates, leaving behind three other convicts who fell under a barrage of bullets aimed by guards.

Prison authorities started a thorough investigation, seeking specifically to learn how three pistols used by the fugitives were brought into the institution.

Hamilton, who formerly terrorized the southwest while he and the late Clyde Barrow were raising danks periodically, was believed to have led the way to some obscure hideout where they intend to stay until the search for them has become less intensive.

Hamilton is known as a fast driver and could easily have put several hundred miles between him and the prison before dawn. Also, he knows various scattered hideouts in the state and has friends outside who are willing to aid him in evading capture.

Officers were speculating Monday on just how long it would be before Hamilton resumes his raids on small-town banks. In the days when he and Clyde Barrow blazed a trail of crime over the southwest, bankers in small towns constantly had to be on their guard and many of them faced the guns of the outlaw pair as they looted banks to pay themselves in funds.

Hamilton was in the Huntsville death cell awaiting execution for his alleged part in the slaying of Major Crowson, prison guard shot when Hamilton escaped from East-ham state prison farm last Jan. 16. Previously, Hamilton had been given a life sentence for the killing of J. N. Bucher, a filling station proprietor at Hillsboro. In addition, Hamilton has sentences amounting to hundreds of years against him for robberies.

ATTEMPT TO RESCUE BYRD UNSUCCESSFUL

LITTLE AMERICA, July 24, (U.P.)—Five men were encamped on the Ross ice barrier today after an unsuccessful attempt to reach Rear Admiral Byrd's hut 123 miles south.

A blizzard hit the party 28 miles south of here after they gave up as impossible the effort to go through the dark polar winter to bring Admiral Byrd out.

The rescue party, headed by Dr. Frazier, turned back after having covered about one-half of the 123 miles to the advance base. The party encountered some of the worst weather of the year. The minimum temperature was 71 degrees below and for a time wind attained a velocity of 60 miles an hour.

TO FILE CHARGES IN BUS ACCIDENT

HOUSTON, July 24, (U.P.)—Elijah Stuart, 28, broke down today under police questioning and confessed to the killing of his five-year-old daughter, Dorothy. He previously said she was kidnapped.

HOUSTON, July 24, (U.P.)—The body of a curly haired, blue eyed five year old girl, whom police were told was kidnapped and slain, was found in the stagnant waters of Cypress creek 20 miles north of here today.

She was thought to be Dorothy Stuart, whose father, Elijah Stuart, employe of the Harris county 10-11 commissary, said was taken from his parked automobile last night.

The child evidently was thrown from a bridge. The body was found by W. G. Krimmel, private game warden of Westfield. Herbert Page, health officer, said he believed the child died from effects of poison as there was no water in the lungs. Police were questioning the father.

ATTEMPT TO RESCUE BYRD UNSUCCESSFUL

HOUSTON, July 24, (U.P.)—Prosecution for criminal negligence loomed strongly Monday in the three fold investigation of the Secor hill bus tragedy as the death toll mounted to 17 persons.

Under the direct orders of Governor Herbert Lehman, New York state authorities lent all possible aid to Westchester county officials to determine if alleged negligence on the part of owners and operators of the bus precipitated its wild careening down an Ossining hillside and its plunge off a ramp.

Survivors related that the driver, Frank Incarnato, had frequent trouble with the brakes en route to Sing Sing from Brooklyn. They told of his using the hand brake time and again when the foot brake failed to hold, and that it was useless when the bus careened disastrously down the Secor hill road in the heart of Ossining. He died in the crash.

Close Silence Maintained About 'The Woman in Red' Mattress Used as Life Net at Lufkin CHICAGO, July 24, (U.P.)—A mysterious "woman in red," made jealous because she had to share John Dillinger's affections with another woman, gave federal officers the tip which resulted in the outlaw's slaying Sunday night, it was definitely learned today.

Officers possessed information concerning the killer's movements during the past three weeks. Dillinger made a fatal mistake July 8 when on a trip to Rhinelander, Wis., he was not content with his "woman in red," but took along another one too.

Consequently, at Whiting, Ind., the jealous woman, a former "bar fly" who Dillinger picked up in Calumet City, Ill., contacted officers. After the return to Chicago, the woman in red disclosed to officers the outlaw planned to attend a movie. The trap was set and sprung at the signal of Melvin Purvis, department of justice chief here, it was disclosed.

Police forced back a group of about 50 women who attempted to force their way into the rooms. The elder Dillinger, obviously fatigued after his long journey and the sorrow attending upon his son's violent death, was taken to an upper chamber and given a glass of water.

Arrangements were made to take the relatives to the Cook county morgue where the battered body was to be held until this morning. Before the 70-year-old Dillinger left Mooresville upon his unpleasant mission, he had tentatively planned to have the funeral services conducted Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Audrey Hancock, John's sister, in Maywood, a suburb of Indianapolis.

"I suspect John would rather it had been that way," the Indiana father said of his son's death. "I hope John had enough money on him to pay his funeral expenses. If he didn't it will be an awful burden but I'll do the best I can."

Had Only $7.50 Only $7.50 was found in Dillinger's pockets and police said they had found no clew to other funds. J. Edgar Hoover, director of the federal investigation division said every effort would be made to apprehend Dillinger's associates. Of Dillinger he said: "He was just a yellow rat that the country may consider itself fortunate to be rid of. There are other rats still to be gotten, however, and we are not taking any time off to celebrate about Dillinger."

Hoover named George "Baby Face" Nelson, alias Lester M. Gillis, as Dillinger's associate. (See DILLINGER Page Four).

CATTLE DYING IN CHI YARDS BY THE SCORE

Thousands More Will Die If Something Is Not Done

CHICAGO, July 24, (U.P.)—All cattle shipments were ordered halted as 900 livestock handlers struck, paralyzing the union stockyards and leaving thousands of drought stricken cattle to die in jammed pens.

Four hundred pickets guarded all entrances. Animals died by scores. Strikers claim the stockyard organization violated agreements reached last November.

APPLICATION ON FOR ALLOTMENTS

Taking of applications for allotments of cotton farmers of Midland county may raise tax free occupied the county agent's office Monday. Sixty applied out of a total of about 300 to fill blanks in the next few days. About 50 a day can be handled.

It is up to farmers to contact the agent's office and to obtain from him or an office assistant the certificates.

The county is allotted slightly more than 4100 bales of cotton tax free. On all cotton produced in excess of that amount a tax will be collected of half the value of the cotton.

Cotton of farmers who have signed acreage reduction contracts will be exempt from tax on the basis of the production they are allowed in their contracts. Farmers who failed to sign acreage reduction contracts may obtain exemption from tax for part of their cotton by going through the regular channels to obtain their production allotment.

The benefit in this instance to the farmer who has an acreage reduction contract is that he will be paid for the acreage taken out of production, while the nonsigner will receive only the benefit of six hundred sixty-eight Midland county reduction contracts were drawn.

Seven hundred twenty-five farmers in Martin county will apply for allotments.

HARD TO BELIEVE

The complaint of Dr. Goebbels, Germany's minister of propaganda, that foreign correspondents in the Reich are not telling the world the truth about the bloody events of recent days, would sound a whole lot better if the German press were not compelled to operate under a strict censorship.

Newspaper readers inside of Germany have no way of knowing whether they are being told the truth about what has happened. No newspaper dares print anything that will offend the government.

Inevitably, therefore, foreign correspondents in Germany cannot rely on published accounts of current events. They can accept nothing at its face value.

Any government which imposes a censorship on the organs of fact and opinion within its borders has only itself to blame if the outside world sometimes gets a warped picture of what is going on.

A western scientist tells how he put colored glasses over the eyes of fish and they changed color. Now, if he can change goldfish into silver that way, maybe the government can see him.

Clark Gable and Myrna Loy Finish In Run at Yucca

A new and remarkable screen team is completing its run today at the Yucca theatre—Clark Gable and Myrna Loy. You've known them both for some time, but you've never really known them until you see the new M-G-M film (their first together), "Men in White."

"They are the complement of one another. Each brings out the latent appeal of the other." Gable's extreme masculinity and the distinct femininity of Myrna Loy, amounting almost to a feline quality at times, bring to the screen one of the most romantic and dramatic film teams of the season.

Ben Hecht, Famous Dramatist, Author of "Upper World"

In "Upper World," the new Warner Bros. screen drama showing at the Ritz theatre tomorrow and Thursday, the author of the famous "Underworld" shows how "the other half" lives.

When Ben Hecht, celebrated novelist and playwright, was writing such screen plays as "Underworld," in which George Bancroft registered his first big success, he made up his mind that some day he would make use of the reverse title. For a long time until he finally set down the story of "Upper World," its scheme was forming in his mind. About a year ago he found his chance to write it—and the story was promptly sold to Warner Bros.

This fast-moving drama reveals that adventure, bloodshed and pathos. In a rousing performance she plays it to the hilt. Perhaps the chief charm of "Men in White" is its all-round cast, as fine a group of actors as any single production has ever seen. Such "names" as Jean Hersholt, Otto Kruger, C. Henry Gordon, Russel Hardie, Wallace Ford, Henry B. Walthall—with superb artistry create a magic illusion that never for a moment breaks.

FIRST COTTON CROP

EAGLE PASS, (P)—Twenty Maverick county farmers who have 225 acres of cotton under cultivation have apportioned among themselves, the 51 bales tax-free allotment made to the county under the Bankhead bill.

This is the first time in many years Maverick county has had a cotton crop. The danger of boll weevil infestation from Mexico has heretofore discouraged cultivation but recent experiments by government experts proving the adaptability of Pima and other kinds of long-staple cotton to this section and the settling of a score of cotton farmers in Quemado valley resulted in an attempt at cultivation. County Agent E. L. Tanner and A. A. Storey, cotton adjustment administrator for Dimmit, Zavala, and Maverick counties, said the local acreage would make a good yield this year.

crime are as likely to be found in the so-called higher reaches of society as among the mobs and gangsters of a great city.

Ben Hecht's best-known plays include "The Front Page" and "Twentieth Century" in collaboration with Charles MacArthur. He is equally well known for his novels, among them "Eric Dorn," "Gargoyles" and "Count Bruga."

The cast of "Upper World" includes Warren William, Mary Astor, Ginger Rogers, Andy Devine, Dickie Moore, J. Carroll Nash, Henry O'Neill and Sidney Toler.

PROVED in the blistering 130° heat at Death Valley . . .

Mobiloil can "TAKE" it!

RUNNING under conditions for which no automobile was ever intended, two standard low-priced automobiles raced around a sun-scorched track staked out on the desert floor at Death Valley . . . proving the quality of Mobiloil! One car ran 1,000 miles in low gear at a speed equivalent to 52 miles per hour in high . . . the other ran 1,000 miles in second gear. With the thermometer sizzling around 130 degrees, motor temperatures leaped higher than anything you'll ever encounter. Protected by Mobiloil both cars performed beyond the expectations of the engineers who built them. Checked constantly, the motors showed no loss of power—no bearing failures—no scored cylinders—no motor trouble! If you want all the power, smoothness and fine performance that was built into your automobile, use Mobiloil, the World's Largest Selling Motor Oil!

NO RADIATOR! NO WATER! After its sensational 1,000-mile run in second gear, one of the test cars was STRIPPED OF RADIATOR AND COOLING SYSTEM. Under blazing desert heat it ran for 10 consecutive hours, without radiator or water. Even this terrific punishment failed to break the lubricity and safety of Mobiloil!

lis, a henchman of Dillinger, as successor to his late chief as public enemy No. 1. Nelson, he said, and John Hamilton and Homer Van Meter, other Dillinger lieutenants, headed the list of those still to be "goten."

An "inside story" of the killing of John Dillinger gave much of the credit to Sergeant Martin Zarkovich, of the East Chicago, Ind., police force, a friend of Officer William P. O'Malley, who was slain in the $20,000 holdup of the First National bank of East Chicago on January 15.

Zarkovich, it was said, spent his furlough on Chicago's north side and made the acquaintance of a woman friend of Dillinger, believed to have been the "girl in the red dress." The acquaintance was made through a talkative male friend in a saloon.

The policeman "played up" to the girl, pointed out what could be done with her share of the reward, and persuaded her to sell out Dillinger.

Dillinger swaggered from a neighborhood theatre into the raking fire of government guns. Too late he saw the gleaming steel of the trap set for him.

His hand went for his gun. Too late. Three bullets tore into his body—one in the neck, two in the body. He slumped, and fell.

It was the end of John Dillinger.

Outside a Theatre

The hour was 10:40 p. m. The place was just outside the Biograph theatre, a neighborhood movie at Fullerton and Lincoln avenues, on the northwest side, in territory where the blood of many a Chicago

Biograph Theatre Where Dillinger Was Slain

Had the climax of this bank robber-desperado-killer's career been prearranged it could have been no more sensational. There was even an audience, loitering about the vicinity of the theatre, drawn by the presence of so many department of justice agents that for a time some believed a holdup was planned.

Dillinger, his hair dyed a darker brown, fell-tale scars on his cheeks lifted by plastic surgery, gold-rimmed spectacles framing his shifty eyes, his nose straightened, a carefully groomed black mustache adding to his leering lip, and the whorls of his fingerprints obliterated by acid, strode through the lobby and sauntered down the street.

He passed, apparently without recognition, Melvin H. Purvis, chief of the Chicago bureau of the department of justice. Purvis, seated in a parked car, moved his right arm in a casual signal. Several agents leaped forward, their pistols glistening the garish light.

Suddenly the mask of insolence dropped from the phantom. Freebooter's countenance. He darted into an alley, reaching for a pistol, for a duel to the death. As he did so, a five-shot fusillade cut him down. Three of the bullets struck him. Two missed their mark and whizzed into the terrified throngs gathered near the theatre, striking the legs of two gaping women spectators.

The fugitive sprawled on the pavement in a crumpled heap.

There was a tense silence, then the scores of horrified witnesses, the agents, two Chicago detectives and five officers from East Chicago, Indiana, rushed forward.

A cordon was thrown about the body. The curious were herded away, despite their efforts to crowd closer for a glance at the broken gangster. Eerie rays of the blinking marquee lamps flickered over his gray visage. Dark spots spread over the wordy motion picture shirt and natty tie and soiled his flannel trousers and white sports shoes.

Two Women Wounded

Sirens shrieked and alarm bells clanged as a patrol wagon, an ambulance and a number of police squad cars raced up. Mrs. Metta Natsally and Miss Theresa Patusis, both wounded in the leg, were carried to the ambulance. Dillinger, still breathing, was placed in the patrol car.

Automobilists and pedestrians, attracted by the furor, swarmed up by hundreds. Bury policemen opened narrow avenues through the throngs and the snarled traffic to get the injured to the nearest infirmaries.

The vehicle transporting the wounded Dillinger made for the Alexian Brothers hospital. He died in front of an apartment house, medical aid could be administered, at a street crossing en route to the hospital.

The body was laid on the green lawn of the hospital. Four government operatives stood guard. A deputy coroner arrived and the dead outlaw was borne to the county morgue. A small group gathered. A surgeon spoke. The slugs which caused an amazing crime career had struck the neck and coursed up to emerge beneath the right eye. The others had pierced the left breast, one cleaving the tip of the heart, the third striking two inches further down.

One federal man, Purvis said, had fired the five shots. He declined to reveal his identity.

John Dillinger was 32. For 31 of those years, passed uneventfully in boyhood pursuits and in prison, he was a virtually nobody. In the 14 blazing months since his parole from the Indiana penitentiary he became one of the most widely known of all the world's outlaws.

HAMILTON

his other hand, Brazil, unarmed because of prison regulations, was marched into the death house.

"Frazier relieved me of my keys," Brazil said. "First he released Thompson and then Hamilton and Palmer. He asked Pete McKinzie of San Antonio (convicted slayer of a detective chief) and Ira Reeder, a negro, (convicted slayer of a rural grocer), if they wanted to get out. Both refused.

The desperado quartet was joined at the door by Johnson and Walker. They encountered W. T. McConnell, another unarmed, inside guard, and forced him to precede them as they rushed toward the wall, hundreds of feet away. Hamilton kept McConnell covered with a revolver. ANGER CAUSED DEATH

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O. (U.P.)—Clement H. Andrews, 34, and Claude Thompson, 39, fought at a Fourth of July dance. Thompson died, Andrews was held. Afterward, an autopsy revealed that Thompson died from acute dilatation of the heart, brought on by anger, rather than from a fist blow, as first thought.

MARY O'DARE IS PLACED UNDER ARREST

TYLER, July 24—Mary O'Dare, comely sweetheart of Raymond Hamilton, escaped convict, was arrested here late Monday and placed in jail for questioning by officers.

The woman, who said a few days ago that she would not give up hope of marrying Hamilton until his death, was apprehended by officers as she and another woman drove up in front of an apartment house where Mary had been living the past three weeks.

When arrested, Mary was driving a black sedan (Ford V-8). She told officers she had been to Dallas.

Letters to Editor

Seattle, Wash. July 18, 1934.

Dear Sir:

I wish to acknowledge the pleasure it gave me to receive the copy of The Reporter-Telegram of July 6 containing the mention of my son's visit to Midland. The perusal of the paper surely puts me in a reminiscent mood and I readily recall many incidents connected with my few years in helping Midland to achieve a place on the map.

My first visit to Midland was in the summer of 1894 when on an excursion sponsored by the Midland Town county. The site had recently been platted and the only building on the ground was the town company's office. As a result of that excursion in the winter of 1895-1896 I moved down with a printing office equipment and began publishing The Slaked Plain. That summer Midland county was organized, having been created by the legislature the previous winter. In a small way I took part in the organization—was justice of the peace, also a member of the local school board for a few years.

I look back with much pleasure and some regrets to my pioneer experiences in western Texas and often find many an opportunity to pay that section a visit.

Again thanking you for the copy of the paper, I am,

Sincerely yours,
 John C. Rathbun.

Will Try to Propel Train by Wireless

BOISE CITY, (P)—Experiments with radio power transmission will be conducted here again this winter by J. C. Roberts and M. E. Gregory who will try to propel a Santa Fe train by wireless-transmitted power.

Roberts, who recently returned to Boise City after being absent several months, said that he and Gregory were prepared to erect one of the most powerful radio-power stations in the world. E. Edwards, assistant to the general manager of the Panhandle and Santa Fe railroad, said the men had not been given permission to erect their plant in the Santa Fe yards here, but negotiations are under way.

With lighter equipment the inventors claimed they drove two sections of rails together, to and fro in the railroad yards last spring and on one occasion several miles out carrying a load of eight men.

MOUNTAIN SHEEP SIGHTED

JACKSON, Wyo. (U.P.)—Mountain sheep, rarely seen by the average person, are far from extinct. Game Warden A. O. Pendergruff and Fred Devo, returning from a trip into the high mountains, reported they counted more than 1200 including 200 rams. They made the trip to determine whether to close the season in the county this year.

Freight Engine Is Taken from Lake

AMARILLO, (P)—A 235,000-pound freight engine is back in the Santa Fe yards here after being embedded in a surface lake in Moore county for almost a month.

The big engine toppled into the lake between Sunray and Phillips after the roadbed had been softened by a sudden filling of the lake, resulting from near cloudbursts early in June. The water was about six feet deep at the time.

The line running from Etter to Morse is jointly operated by the Rock Island and Santa Fe and both railways sent their wrecking crews to recover the engine, but without success until the roadbed had been reinforced. Working crews estimated that between 50 and 60 tons of mud suction had to be overcome.

Thirteen Lucky For Sudan Family

SUDAN, (P)—Sudan has a family whose members look upon the number 13 as lucky.

H. J. McCarty, who has lived for 13 years in a house on the edge of Sudan, has 13 children and 13 grandchildren and the two groups taken together consist of 13 boys

Hale County Old Settlers to Meet

ABERNATHY, (P)—Early settlers in southern Hale county will return here for the fourth annual round-up at Lakeview community Sunday, July 29. J. H. Lutrick, the only remaining early settler in that section, is in charge of the program which will include talks, singing and preaching.

The round-up is held each year to commemorate the establishment of the first church in south Hale county in 1893, according to Lutrick.
