Texans March to Polls Saturday to Cast Their Ballots

FOUR STATE RACES OFFER INTERESTING HOME STRETCH RUN

Roundup time neared today in the first primary campaign of Texas' biennial political struggle.

For weeks hundreds of candidates have been bombarding voters in all parts of the state seeking to herd as many votes as possible into their respective camps. Saturday the voting population, with the last-minute pleas of the campaigners ringing in their ears, will write a verdict that will be decisive of the political fate.

In races where one candidate does not receive a majority a run-off primary will be necessary.

Confidence appeared to be the keynote at the headquarters of the candidates for major offices. Each of the six campaigning for the democratic nomination for governor claimed for himself a place in the runoff but since only two can enter the select circle four of them appeared due for disappointment.

Nearness of the end of the campaign was reflected in the activities of other office seekers, from justice

DALLAS, July 27, (UP)—Jefferson T. Baker, Dallas attorney running for state treasurer, filed motion to annul the order revoking one which changed his name to George B. Ferrell. He claimed he hadn't deceived the court as to the "business reasons" for which he asked a new name. The order was revoked on the motion of Congressman Terrell. Hearing will probably be next week.

FOUR STATE RACES HOLD MOST INTEREST

Four state races hold the interest of Texas democrats.

Leading of course, is the gubernatorial event, with the bonnets of seven men in the ring, six of whom promise their constituents that they will be in the run-off.

Only two of the candidates have made the race for the governor's chair in other years.

Four years ago Senator Clint Small of Amarillo was third in a large field of the state's 21 congressmen. Matur Hughes, a Tom Hunter, Wichita Falls oil man, finished in the same position.

Senator Small has served the 31st senatorial district for six years.

James V. Alfred, who has held the attorney-general's office for two terms, is another candidate.

Edgar Witt has been lieutenant governor for two terms.

Matur Hughes is a Dallas attorney, who was one time chairman of the Texas Democratic executive committee.

Donald McDonald, a Wichita Falls lawyer, has been prominently identified with the Ferguson machine for some years.

The race for United States senator and attorney general hold the lesser limelight.

Tom Connally, who holds the senatorial job, is opposed by Joe Bailey, son of the former Texas senator and himself representative-at-large from the state. Guy Fisher of San Augustine county is a lesser known candidate for Connally's position.

The leaders in the race for attorney general are Senator Walter Woodward of Coleman county, and William McGraw of Dallas.

A whole covey are out for the lieutenant-governorship. Three are senators, and one an ex-senator and there are two others.

The senators are Walter Wood of Harris county, John Hornsby of Davis county, Joe Moore of Hunt county and Ben Berkeley of Brewster county. T. M. Johnson of Anderson county and J. P. Rogers of Harris county are also candidates.

Only three offices in the state roster are unopposed. The state superintendent of schools and the judges of the court of criminal appeals and the court of civil appeals have no opposition.

Marvin Jones, U. S. representative from the Amarillo district, and H. K. Stanfield, state representative, are unopposed.

Public Asked to Study Plans for Election Party

Once more, the attention of the public is directed to the type of election service The Reporter-Telegram will give Saturday night.

Under new regulations promulgated by the Texas Election Bureau, The Reporter-Telegram is restrained from broadcasting, megaphoning or placing on its bulletin board any returns from state races, or any returns gathered by the bureau. This includes totals, which may not be given.

The Reporter-Telegram is also restrained from giving out any state or other bureau returns over telephone. The public is requested to take notice of this and cooperate by not telephoning for such election results.

However, bulletin board service will be given as usual on Midland county, 88th representative, 16th congressional and 70th judicial district judge and state races will be taken independently of the bureau.

All are invited to attend the party, which begins directly after 7 o'clock when the law requires that first returns be given the press.

In addition, the newspaper will issue an election extra soon after 9 o'clock, when the second count is made public from the Midland county boxes, and when many city boxes over the state will have reported. If the street crowds justify them, two other extras will be issued, one after 11 o'clock, the other after 1. Fresh returns from the Midland county boxes will be available then, as the law requires two-hour reports beginning at 7 o'clock and being concluded only after all returns have been tabulated. The state races will have taken definite trends by that time, too, it is expected. The regular edition will be issued about 3 a. m. Sunday.

Also, if the governor's race is still in doubt Sunday, another extra will be issued some time that afternoon.

The Texas Election Bureau is an incorporated, cooperative and non-profit organization operated by the Texas Managing Editors association for the single purpose of gathering election returns, and great cost. In the past its returns have been "stolen and peddled"—hence this effort by the bureau to protect its proprietary interest in the news which it gathers, and its restraining of all newspapers to strictly live up to the terms of contracts drawn several days ago.

REPUBLICANS TO HOLD NO PRIMARY

Republicans of Midland, lost in the general confusion of democratic campaign activity, will hold no primary Saturday, planning to cast their votes in the local setup with members of the other major party, one republican leader said.

Larger Texas cities will make a gesture, however, inasmuch as the necessity was forced on the party by the state election law, which makes it mandatory that a primary be held when as many as 100,000 votes were polled by that party in the former election. Orville Bulington polled more than 31,000 votes in his race for governor.

Republicans here have no candidates for district and county offices, but almost a full state ticket has been arranged.

Leading republican candidates are: U. S. Goen, El Paso, United States senator; D. E. Waggoner, Dallas, governor; Lester Gunst, Corpus Christi, lieutenant governor; Irl F. Kennerly, Houston justice of supreme court; S. E. Fish, Amarillo, court of criminal appeals; Thos. E. Hill, Fort Worth, attorney general; John W. Miller, Tyler, comptroller; E. N. Mulkey, Grayson county, state treasurer; A. W. Orr, Polk county, commissioner of agriculture; H. S. Frady, DeWitt county, land commissioner.

SEVERAL RACES HOLD THE SPOTLIGHT HERE

State representative, district attorney, district judge, county commissioner, President 1 commissioner races interest the Midland county voters more than any other races.

In the 70th judicial district, 3324 votes were cast, which means a potential voting strength of approximately 9577 when the customary 15 per cent is added to take care of the exemptions.

The 77th representative district commands a voting strength of 14,526, as reflected in the poll taxes or 16,500 potentially.

The state poll tax figure was 1,108,638, reflecting a potential strength of 1,274,934, a 66 per cent increase over the 1933 strength.

Badger Pulling of 35 Years Ago was West's Expression

Thirty-five years ago, "pulling the badger" was more a Western expression than wearing the six gun, according to C. C. Watson, who two days ago observed the 35th anniversary of his coming to Midland.

The pioneer newspaper publisher said the sport was introduced to him the day of his arrival. One of the Granger boys asked him to get ready. "I knew about the game," Watson said, "but said nothing about it. Discretion was the better part of valor for a granger in those days. If the tenderfoot put on a good show they left him alone. If not—"

Watson said the sport so flourished at Odessa that the cowpunchers daily met the trains and enticed victims to join.

Senator Blackburn (of Kentucky, said) figured in the funniest badger yarn.

"I have had the pleasure of serving my constituents in the national halls of congress for many years," he began, "and my hair has turned silver while Ajax-like supporters the legislative burden imposed by those I represent. I am grateful for having discharged my obligations, but no honor ever conferred on me ranks in my consciousness with the deep pleasure I have in being so honored by you as to be selected to pull this badger."

The senator made one grab, made a scurrying backward motion, became rooted in shocked immovability, then—

The greatest loss of life was reported at Morales, where the tornado killed five, injured more and cut a path a 100 yards wide and five mile long.

NEARLY 200 KILLED AND MANY WOUNDED AS FIGHT CONTINUED

VIENNA, July 27, (UP)—The second attempted putsch of Nazis disguised as home guard was repulsed at the strongly fortified chancellery today and many were arrested.

Fighting continued in provinces with around 185 killed and 250 wounded as government forces slowly throttled Nazis in Styria and Carinthia. As fast as the Nazis were driven from one village by soldiers using hand grenades, light artillery, rifles and machine guns, they occupied another.

A special military court was preparing to hang the rebels and hangings were expected to follow.

Premier Mussolini stood ready to use force to maintain Austria's integrity. He had 40,000 highly mobile and well equipped troops on the Austrian border, ready to move in. Mussolini was believed unwilling to depend on diplomatic negotiations, banking instead on force.

SPREAD OF STRIFE INDICATED EARLY

VIENNA, July 27, (AP)—Civil warfare between rebel Nazis and government forces, its death toll already estimated at around 300 with many more wounded, gave indications of spreading early today as an aftermath of the assassination of Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss.

There was uneasiness in the Murtag valley, main artery to Vienna. A detachment of federal troops was reported on its way there. Trouble also was reported at Liesing and Balmatal.

A secret message picked up by the Gendarmerie at Graz indicated that Nazis, through a hidden radio station, had broadcast an appeal to cohorts throughout Austria to assist Styria and other provinces in overthrowing the government of Prince Ernst Rüdiger von Starheimberg. He was named yesterday to succeed the "little Chancellor."

Artillery fire and the rattle of machine guns in the vicinity of Leopoldsdorf, according to the government's advice, had come to a standstill. There government forces—Heimwehr men and federal soldiers—had been battling rebel Nazis for hours. Nazis shortly after the killing of Chancellor Dollfuss Wednesday.

All public communications—rail, telegraph, telephone, mail services, were stopped, however, and news reached Vienna from Graz by way of police radio.

Reports from Carinthia and Styria indicated that Italian troops had crossed the border yet, although 48,000 foreign soldiers stood ready in warlike accountments, waiting orders from Mussolini himself.

Mobilization of Nazi farmers in southern Austria was reported. Many of them, from the farms of the burghers, fought without knowing the government still was in the hands of fascists.

Think Rintelen in Charge

They thought that Wednesday's putsch was Vienna overthrown by the government and placed Dr. Anton Rintelen, pro-Nazi, at the head of a new cabinet.

Altogether it appeared from reports reaching Vienna up to last night that the rebels were losing ground, although government forces were not uniformly successful.

Prisoners were taken in the Austrian border for the first time since the socialist civil war in February as fighting in the south progressed. Field pieces were trundled into position and liberally used by government forces, especially in their drive to recapture Leoben, which finally succumbed.

In Styria reports had 180 nazis and 100 gendarmes killed. Twenty-seven met death in the Leoben siege. The city has a population of 10,000.

Near the airport in Annabichel, a suburb of Klagenfurt, where authorities said they discovered plans for a Nazi mobilization, 200 nazis armed with machine guns were attacked by a mixed force of soldiers and heimwehr men.

The nazis, out numbered, retreated. They left behind nine dead and 16 prisoners. Government forces took two machine guns.

Nazis Take Post Office

At Pitequesqueakvelt, 20 miles north of Klagenfurt, 400 nazis captured the post office and the district governor's headquarters. Government forces attacked them and a desperate battle ensued.

A machine gun battle raged at Feldkirchen Ossiaherse near Villach and Woldgach. The outcome was not learned in Vienna.

One town, Rattersburg, on the Yugoslavian border, fell without a struggle as government troops moved in upon Nazi occupation forces. Hundreds of nazis were reported to have fled across the border and surrendered to Yugoslavian authorities for interment.

Report Rintelen Slain

Dr. Rintelen himself was reported by his wife to have been killed. She said he was fatally shot in the jail cell to which he was taken because his name was connected with the putsch.

While the government press bureau denied Rintelen was killed, other quarters said he had committed suicide. His wife declared he had died in a hospital after writing a note saying "I am innocent."

Prince Ernst von Starheimberg, 35-year-old leader of the loyal heimwehr (home guard) which supported Dollfuss, rushed back from Venice and took charge of the government. He stepped from the vice chancellery to the position left vacant by the Nazi bullets which killed his diminutive but courageous chief.

Von Starheimberg, after relieving Kurt Schuschnigg, named to act temporarily as head of the government, called the cabinet together in the heavily guarded, mourning draped government building to begin the work of reconstruction.

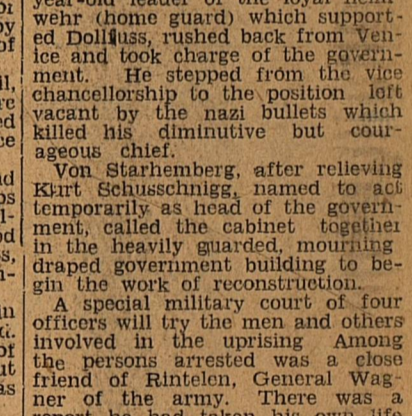

A special military court of four officers will try the men and others involved in the uprising among the persons arrested was a close friend of Rintelen, General Wagner of the army. There was a report he had taken his own life after being seized at Graz.

Yugoslavian troops across the border from the province of Carinthia watched closely the movements of Nazi troops and government soldiers a few yards from them. One report said the Yugoslavians fired across the border into Austria.

DON'T LET COMMON CONSTIPATION DULL THE JOY OF LIVING

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Brings Relief

Constipation takes the sunshine out of your days. It may bring headaches, loss of appetite and energy, sleeplessness, sallow skins, pimples.

Fortunately, you can avoid this condition by eating a delicious cereal. Laboratory tests show that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides two things needed to help overcome common constipation: "bulk" and vitamin B. ALL-BRAN is also a rich source of blood-building iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of leafy vegetables. Within the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, it clears out the intestinal wastes.

How much better than dosing yourself with patent medicines. Two tablespoonsful of ALL-BRAN daily are usually sufficient. With each meal in chronic cases. If seriously ill, see your doctor—ALL-BRAN is not a "cure-all."

Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Joan Blondell and William Head Well Balanced Film Cast

A talented and nicely balanced cast was selected for the principal roles in the Warner Bros. picture, "Smarty," which comes to the Ritz theatre Sunday and Monday, with Joan Blondell and Warren William in the featured leads.

Miss Blondell, who has been on the receiving end of many of Jimmy Cagney's screen punches, has the role of a young wife who yearns to be beaten up, in her current production, and eventually is, with rough house methods that outdo Cagney. She will be remembered in such recent productions as "I've Got Your Number," "Convention City" and "Footlight Parade."

Warren William who recently appeared in "Upper World," and "Beside," does much of the beating, although he is aided and abetted by Edward Everett Horton, both of whom are at one time or another screen husband of the flirtatious Joan. Mr. Horton will be recalled for his splendid work in "Easy to Love," "Alice in Wonderland" and other pictures.

Frank McHugh, who furnished much of the fun in "Merry Wives of Reno," "Fashions of 1934" and "Son of a Sailor," again adds to the hilarious comedy of the picture. Claire Dodd, the vamp of "Gambling Lady," "Journal of Crime," and many other pictures, runs true to form as a flirtatious divorcee in

RITZ Comfortably

"Smarty." Joan Wheeler, the young Broadway stage favorite who made such a hit in "Growing Pains," has an important role as do also Virginia Sale and Leonard Carey. The picture is a hilarious comedy of marital tangles based on the play by F. Hugh Herbert.

ism, however, the Austrian fascists could look with more comfort than during the turbulent days of the Dollfuss government.

From the foreign minister of the third reich, in which outlawed Austrian Nazis by the thousand have found a friendly refuge, came expressions of condolences.

Moreover, the German government withdrew its minister, Kurt Reih, because without authority he helped arrange for the safe transit to Germany of Dollfuss' killers.

May Hang Assassins The Von Starhemberg government made it quite clear that stern measures will be taken again the 144 men involved in the attack on the chancellery.

All could be hanged under Austrian law, and if any are, it will mark the first executions of nazis.

Dollfuss' death followed with 17 hours the hanging of a socialist, the first person to lose his life on a charge of terrorism.

Piacards proclaiming that the capital is under martial law were posted prominently. The whole city had the appearance of being the domination of an army of occupation from a foreign land.

She'll Make You Sigh

"LITTLE MISS MARKER"

JUDGE HANSON WOMACK

of UPTON COUNTY

Candidate for Representative of the 88th dis't asks you to read some of the things he advocates and proposes to do.

We are now in the midst of the greatest economic breakdown that our State and country has ever known; the farmers, cattle men and sheep men, who feed and clothe the country, are carrying unbearable burdens in the way of doubled and excess taxes; our small business men are forced into bankruptcy in great numbers by reason thereof; thousands of honest working men are unemployed, and hunger stalks through fields of plenty and the wolf of want howls at the door of thousands throughout our land by reason thereof; then if this be so, I am sure that you will join me in doing our part toward relieving the situation.

Permit me to say (unboastfully) that I am ripe in experience and have all of the necessary qualifications to carry out what I advocate, some of which are as follows:

I will vote against anything that will have a tendency to raise the tax burdens, and I advocate a rigid economy in personal and State administration.

I advocate, and if humanly possible, putting through a law fixing auto license at a uniform price of $5.00 per year; this will save the tax payers millions of dollars. I advocate, and if humanly possible, put through a law cutting truck license one half.

I advocate, and if humanly possible, abolishing the grand jury system; this means more saving to the tax payer.

I advocate, and if humanly possible, the repeal of the poll tax law. I advocate abolishing the fee system.

I advocate, and if humanly possible, the passing of a law with teeth in it prohibiting reckless and negligent driving on our highways; more people are being killed by automobiles annually than were killed during the World War. I advocate exempting the family auto entirely from taxation; this does not include commercial vehicles.

If the law proposing to loan to the homeless two thousand dollars by this State for the purpose of buying a home, is put into effect, then I would advocate exempting the homestead from all taxes. These are some of the things that I shall undertake if I am your choice. May I have your support?

HANSON WOMACK.

Sen. Ben Berkeley Visits Here Today

Senator Benjamin Franklin Berkeley, candidate for lieutenant governor reached Midland this morning en route to his Alpine home, after completing a series of campaign speeches in East and in northwest Texas.

Senator Berkeley, familiarly known as "Ben," was born in a country home among the sand hills of Kentucky. "During my youth and early manhood I lived close to the people in the humblest walks of life," he says. "My interest in my fellow man enabled me to catch the ambitions and hopes of those who live by the sweat of the brow, and I am devoted to relieving their conditions."

He received his education in the rural schools, and in Transylvania university.

In 1897, he found his way to the Big Bend of Texas, and as a pioneer for 36 years, he has been prominently identified with the vast section.

From 1899 to 1911 he engaged in the practice of medicine. At one time he was president of the Texas dry farming congress. During the World war he was a medical member of the Alpine military draft board, and for a number of years he has been president of the State National bank of Alpine.

After a strenuous campaign in 1916 a speaker for the national democratic committee in the New Mexico election for Woodrow Wilson's second campaign, he was elected mayor of Alpine, in which capacity he served for eight years.

He delivered one of the first addresses in Texas on purification of the Ballot, before the "Purification of the Ballot Convention" in Del Rio, 1912.

As a member of the Texas senate for eight years he fought for the interests of his own district, but he never lost sight of the state as a whole and its composite welfare. Perhaps his outstanding achievement in the senate was his authorship and instrumentality in the passage of the cigarette bill, which is now yielding to the public school system approximately four million dollars annually. This bill alone prolonged the term in the public schools all over Texas and saved the state from financial embarrassment, the senator says.

Sen. Berkeley believes he will go into the runoff. "I am the only one in the race of six that lives west of Austin," he said, "and if West Texas doesn't fail me I think I have excellent chances." He considers Sen. Walter F. Woodul of Harris county his most dangerous opponent.

B'Spring Ball Club Plays Here Tonight

The Type Lice of The Big Spring Daily Herald, in second place of the first playground league there, will engage the Southern Tears at 8:15 tonight under the South Main stands.

The Lice recently shut out the Robinson grocery 10 of Big Spring, a club that hitherto had been defeated only once—and that in inter-city play. Sam Warren's Hokus Pokus club was victor.

The Tears made history of a sort Wednesday when they became the first Midland playground club to lose an inter-city game, dropping a 9-6 decision to the Cosden Oilers.

Angelo Birth Rate Higher Than State

SAN ANGELO—Out of four West Texas cities showing birth rates during 1933 higher than the state average San Angelo has a mark of 131 births per 1,000 population and Del Rio has a record of 28.8 per cent, the highest in the state.

San Angelo reported 506 births, Tom Green county 579, for 1933. Del Rio had 340 with its much smaller population and Val Verde county had a total of 368, according to L. John W. Brown, state health officer.

Sweetwater had the same birth rate last year as San Angelo and Abilene had a rate of 18.4 births per thousand population, and Taylor county as a whole had 796 births, far above the Tom Green county mark.

State Ranks High

The totals are announced this year by the United States Bureau of the Census for the first time. The report shows Texas with the highest birth rate in 1933 among the six largest states, a mark of 17.9.

California has the lowest, 12.4. Texas, fifth in population of the states, had 107,924 of the 2,064,944 births recorded in 1933, or 5.2 per cent. Texas' population by the federal bureau is due to the work and co-operation of the justices of the peace, city clerks and other registrars of vital statistics, Dr. Brown says.

Among the West Texas counties turning in higher birth totals for 1933 than in 1932 are the following: Blanco, 54 last year, 73 this; Brewster, 185 last, 227 this; Coleman, 373 and 470; Comanche, 290 and 329; Crockett, 56 and 68; Culberson, 28 and 35; Ector, 48, and 57; Edwards, 49 and 54; Gillespie, 179 and 262; Jeff Davis, 33 and 51; Kimble, 44 and 51; Kinney, 84 and 95; Lampasas, 122 and 168; McCulloch, 293 and 322; Midland, 155 and 177; Mills, 163 and 190; Mitchell, 292 and 328; Nolan, 348 and 386; Frisco, 189 and 212; Reagan, 48 and 60; Sutton, 62 and 69; Taylor, 671 and 798; Tom Green, 540 and 579; Val Verde, 356 and 368.

Show Some Decline

West Texas counties whose 1933 totals reported were below those of 1932 follow: Andrews, 11 and 4; Bandera, 77 and 76; Cowe, 112 and 92; Concho, 140 and 114; Crane, 35 and 16; Glasscock, 11 and 6; Hudspeith, 73 and 69; Irion, 42 and 30; Llano, 108 and 99; Loving, 2 and 0; Mason, 97 and 95; Menard, 76 and 51; Pecos, 197 and 182; Real, 45 and 39; Reeves, 219 and 210; Randall, 516 and 436; San Saba, 223 and 206; Schleicher, 78 and 60; Sterling, 29 and 16; and Uvalde, 316 and 255.
