HOSPITAL RELIEF IS SUBMITTED

CATTLE BUYING IS TEMPORARILY STOPPED IN TEX.

Inventory to Be Made On Purchases up To Present

FORT WORTH, Sept. 12. (U.P.)—Government purchase of cattle under drought relief plans was halted in Texas by Agricultural Adjustment association officials in Washington to permit inventory purchases already made.

Through Friday, purchases aggregated 1,550,715 head.

Tuesday's report shows a total of 8,570 head of cattle bought in Midland county, of which 1,656 head was contracted. Money represented in 282 contracts figures $86,959.

7,500 SHEEP WILL BE SOLD HERE

Only 13 applicants of the government to buy their sheep were filed at the county agent's office at the time the deadline went into effect. These applicants listed a total of 23,903 sheep, of which number they wish to sell 7,500, the banks show. Martin county's total will be about half that of Midland.

STRIKES LIKELY TO LAST MONTH

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12. (U.P.)—Union leaders plan at least another month of labor-capital struggle. The arbitration time limit has expired.

Serious violence is developing in New England.

Francis Gorman, chairman of the United Textile Workers' special strike committee, telegraphed President Roosevelt.

"We know there is no need whatever in any case for state troops and we protest most vigorously their use as aids to strike breakers."

Troops were mobilized in five states.

Lumber Company President Is Here

James O. Cameron, president of the Cameron Lumber company, Victoria, B. C., is here for a visit with his cousin, E. N. Snodgrass of Midland. Mr. Cameron spent several days here about this time last year. He has been at Chicago for the past few weeks.

Choices of Carolina, Maine Electorates

Olin D. Johnston

50 years in public life, has twice been the state's governor and is a former U. S. senator. Johnston was defeated in the gubernatorial contest four years ago. His democratic nomination of yesterday is tantamount to election.

Harold Dubord

Fred Hale

Among the victors in Maine's election Monday were Gov. Louis J. Brann, first democrat ever to be selected to the gubernatorial post in the state; Senator Fred Hale, republican elected by a narrow margin; Rep. E. C. Moran, democrat reelected; and R. O. Brewster, republican.—Harold Dubord will ask a recount.

Vickers Speaks Tonight Over Station XEAW

"Some favorable publicity" for Midland will be given over Station XEAW, Reynosa, Mex., tonight at 8:45 o'clock when Paul T. Vickers, former secretary of the Midland chamber of commerce, speaks, he advised friends here in a letter today.

In his capacity as secretary of the McAllen chamber, Vickers also will "give Midland some more oil publicity at Tulsa," he advised.

"I certainly could enjoy a good dose of good old west wind to dry my dampened brown," he said.

POLLARD INDICTMENT UPHELD

AUSTIN, Sept. 12. (U.P.)—District Judge W. F. Robertson overruled a motion to quash an indictment against former Attorney General Claude Pollard charging his consent to use counterfeit cigarette stamps.

Crimm's Revival Tent, Equipment Burns at Kress

Destruction by fire of the tent, piano, truck, song books and other equipment of the Rev. B. B. Crimm, evangelist, failed to halt the plans for opening the revival meeting of the First Baptist church here, scheduled for Sunday.

The truck carrying the equipment from Sapulpa, Okla., caught fire late yesterday near Kress, north of Plainview, while Blackie Glidden, tabernacle man for the Crimm organization, and Mrs. Glidden were en route here.

The Rev. Winston F. Borum, Baptist pastor, announced today that unless a new tent is secured in time for erection, the first service will be held Sunday morning in the church auditorium.

Subsequent meetings will be held there unless a tent is provided sooner, at the grounds just west of the church.

News of the truck fire was sent to the Rev. Borum by telephone. He left for the scene of the fire immediately, accompanied by Claude O. Crane, to assist Glidden in caring for the wreckage and in planning the future course. The Rev. Crimm, reported to have been at Marquette or Dallas yesterday, had not been reached by telephone, although Mrs. Crimm was advised of the loss of equipment and was making a special effort today to locate the evangelist.

Church officials were definite in the statement that the fire had not in any way delayed the beginning of the revival meeting September 16.

AMERADA BEGINS MOVING IN HERE

A truck load of samples arrived at the Petroleum building Tuesday evening, the van guard for office furniture and other equipment of the Amerada Petroleum company, which has taken three suites on the fifth floor of the Petroleum building. The company is moving from San Angelo and expects to become installed over the week end, it is unofficially understood.

Ocean Flyer Fails In Attempted Try at Taking Life by Gas

NEW YORK, Sept. 12. (U.P.)—Charles Levine, companion of Clarence Chamberlin in his transatlantic flight in 1927, failed in an attempt at suicide early this morning when he turned on five gas jets in the kitchen of a friend's home.

Unconscious when found by A. J. Walters, the friend, he was revived by police. He left three notes. He augmented his fame when he made a flight alone from France to England without knowing how to fly, after the ocean crossing. His fortune, made selling war junk, had diminished in recent years.

Cotton Flat Rural School Is Opened

Cotton Flat, fourth of the Midland county rural schools to open, entered its 1934 session Monday with Miss Marguerite Carpenter teacher. Four more schools in the county have not yet begun their terms, but of these Prairie Lee is scheduled to open next Monday.

Long Completes Louisiana Sovereignty in Elections

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 11. (U.P.)—Huey P. Long hung the scalp of the city of New Orleans to his belt Tuesday and stood the political overlord of all Louisiana.

He whipped in the election his last major political opponent, Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley, and took over the mayor's domain as a part of his state machine.

Plushed with victory, Long, state dictator and United States senator, was expected to press hard his investigation of charges of graft and corruption in the city administration with the purpose of ousting Mayor Walmsley from office through action of the state legislature which he controls.

Although neither Walmsley nor Long were candidates in today's election, the results were regarded by conservative politicians as crushing defeat of Walmsley's old regular organization and a sweeping victory for the invading Long organization.

Each backed candidates for congress, state supreme court and public service commissioner in districts where most of the votes came from the city of New Orleans, usually dominated by the old regulars. Long's candidates swept in.

Additional figures added to the Long majorities.

J. O. Fernandez had 18,399 votes to Herve Rocher's 12,652 from 99 out of 156 precincts in the first congressional district.

In the second congressional district, Paul Maloney got 22,480 against 19,218 for Gus Blancard from 129 of the 171 precincts.

Hooey Is Overlord of Louisiana

New Orleans was added to the string of scalps worn at the waist of Huey Long Tuesday, when his candidate was elected in national balloting in Louisiana. He is overlord of the state now.

Hooey Says He Is The Constitution And Proves Fact

This is the last of a series of three stories on Huey Long and the crisis he faces in Louisiana's September 11 primary, written by a New Orleans newspaper man thoroughly familiar with Long's spectacular career from its beginning.

By JAMES E. CROW
NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 12. (NEA). The year was 1928. Huey P. Long, in his early thirties, from the red hills of North Louisiana, had been elected governor, and had been in office only a few months.

Robert Ewing, old-time political fighter who knew all the tricks of the business and who, like Mae West, thought that some things ain't no sin, was talking to the youth whom he and she alone had made governor of Louisiana.

The big man slugged the desk with his fist. "You can't do it, Huey, you can't do it! I tell you, you can go so far and no farther. You can't juggle state funds."

"The way you want to operate is unconstitutional. You can't violate state laws and get away with it."

What Huey P. Long said was this: "The hell I can't! I'll have you know that I've been elected by the people of this state, and that now I'm the constitution!" (See HOOEY, page 6)

STARTLING TALE OF LINER TOLD

NEW YORK, Sept. 12. (U.P.)—Chief Radio Operator George Rogers of the ill-fated Morro Castle told the federal inquiry board today that the SOS call was not flashed for half an hour after the ship caught fire.

He quoted an assistant as saying, "They were running around on the bridge and I can't get intelligent cooperation out of the men," after sending for instructions.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12. (U.P.)—After a day of startling disclosures in the Morro Castle disaster, including testimony before the department of commerce inquiry that two life-boats were lowered with only three passengers aboard, the first assistant radio operator of the fire-damaged Ward liner and members of the crew were served with civil warrants by United States Attorney Martin Conboy to assure their appearance before the federal grand jury.

The warrants were issued after Conboy complained to Federal Judge T. Elake Kennedy that the Ward Line was signing up some of the crew to leave port today on the Siboney.

George I. Alagna, the radio operator was held as a material witness after his published report that he had intercepted Saturday morning a wireless query from another nearby liner, asking if there was fire (See DISASTER, page 6)

AMENDMENTS TO BACK RELIEF ACT PASS COMMITTEE

Relief Would Be Denied Families Who Make $100 Month

AUSTIN, Sept. 12. (U.P.)—An emergency bill passed by Governor Miriam A. Ferguson today to the legislature provides immediate $225,000 expansion of state hospitals.

San Antonio will get $11,500, Austin $19,000, Wichita Falls $50,000, Terrell $10,000, Austin state school $6,500. In addition, the Rusk hospital receives $100,000, the San Antonio hospital $100,000, the Austin school $50,000 by Sept. 1, 1935.

Another bill submitted by the governor would change the district court terms of Nolan, Mitchell, Scurry and Borden counties; permit Wallace county irrigation districts to confirm federal contracts for issuance of bonds, and validate revenue bonds issued Texas municipalities from purchase of water, light and sewer systems.

Amendments to back the $9,500,000 relief bill were adopted today by the senate committee of the whole, including a direct Texas relief commission to consider repair and construction of hospitals for charitable purposes in planning relief projects.

The amendments would prohibit relief for any family with $100 monthly income from federal, state county or municipal governments.

REASONABLE GAS TAXES ENDORSED

ATLANTIC CITY, Sept. 12. (U.P.)—Endorsing reasonable gasoline taxes for road building and maintenance, Baird T. Markham, director of the American Petroleum Industries committee, today offered the resources of his organization to combat tax evasions and to strengthen state laws.

He told delegates to the North American gas tax conference that federal, county and municipal governments should withdraw from the gasoline tax field, that the revenue should be raised only by a reasonable state tax and used for the specific purpose for which it is levied.

Picking Mesquite Beans New Industry

SWEETWATER, (U.P.)—A new industry has started here, Mexican boys finding that picking mesquite beans is profitable.

Soon after Charlie Wade posted an offer of 50 cents a hundred pounds for the beans he was doing a rushing business.

Mexican boys and girls flocked to his place bringing beans in all kinds of vehicles and containers—wagons, wheelbarrows and homemade carts, sacks and boxes and old car beds.

Ragsdales Find Son Doing Well

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Ragsdale and son, E. J., and Mrs. George O'Brien returned yesterday from a trip to San Antonio and Galveston. While away they visited Oscar Ragsdale who is in a state hospital at San Antonio. They found his condition satisfactory.

Medical Aid and Anguished Families Await Victims of Maritime Holocaust on Morro Castle

After living for hours in the terror of uncertainty as to the fate of her son Benito, aged 9, from whom she became separated in her effort to save three-year-old Dickey Rudea, Mrs. Julia Rudea (shown in inset) learned that her oldest boy, too, was alive. Above the police are carrying Dickie to shore from the S. S. Andrea F. Luckenbach.

Ironically, it was a firehouse that became the haven of survivors of the Morro Castle conflagration who reached Spring Lake, N. J. The community turned its firehouse into a temporary hospital, where rescued passengers and crew from the burning liner were given first aid. Townspeople can be seen as they ministered to injured and exhausted persons lying on stretchers. In other cases New Jersey women opened their homes to provide shelter and warmth for the exhausted persons delivered on the beach by the surf and life boats.

Not all the tears shed by survivors of the Morro Castle were in sorrow. Above Herbert Lems of Brooklyn, N. Y., weeps into his handkerchief for joy as he learns that his mother has been rescued.

Beside him are other relatives of passengers of the ill-fated vessel as they waited on the Ward Line Pier for tidings from the scene of disaster.

CIVILIZING RUSSIA!

It has been a long time since the newspapers have printed any story quite so ineffably revealing as the one telling how Mrs. Edward E. McLean, the Washington society lady, wore her million-dollar Hope diamond while traveling through Soviet Russia.

The experience, she says, was "a bit blood-curdling," since the hardy proletarians were not at all pleased by the display.

"They hated me. That was obvious," she reports. "I stood for all that women who wear jewels represented, yet they were fascinated. . . . I think that I taught them a lesson, and that henceforth it will be safe for American women to wear jewelry in Russia."

In a year of change and tribulation, chalk up this one victory for the human spirit. A great victory for freedom has been won. Hereafter, any American woman who possesses a million-dollar diamond can wear it in red Russia without being torn to pieces by the angry mob!

Rushing into a "dare marriage" with a truck driver and now preparing to rush out of it, Mrs. Kaletta Mulvihill Green, 17, thrill-seeking daughter of a Pittsburgh oil official, is shown here in fetching pose as she reached Chicago by plane, California bound, for annulment.

NO LOSS OF COTTON MARKETS IS SEEN

COLLEGE STATION—The South is not about to lose its cotton markets to foreign countries because of the Bankhead act and the cotton adjustment program, according to reliable facts gathered by the United States department of agriculture. Material furnished by the agricultural adjustment administration clearly shows that foreign countries have increased cotton production to the limit for years. A careful study of each of America's cotton growing competitors indicates that the possibility of further increases are very unlikely in the near future.
If American cotton prices were to go to very high levels and remain there for 15 or 20 years foreign cotton production would increase. It is believed. As matters now stand, America has a large available surplus of cotton to more than satisfy all foreign markets. American cotton exports for the two years 1931-32 and 1932-33 exceeded all exports for the last 13 years except for one year. The exports for the cotton year recently ended are expected to be nearly as high as those of the years just preceding.
It has been said that every time we reduce acreage foreign countries increase their cotton acreage. Figures do not bear this out. The whole cotton world seems to move more or less together in increasing or decreasing acreage. It is said that last year we plowed up 10 million acres of cotton and foreign countries promptly increased their cotton 4 million acres. The foreign increase was planted before the American plow-up. Cotton planting dates are about the same all over the world. America increased plantings 4 million acres in 1933 and so did the rest of the world.

Foreign cotton production steadily increased from 1890 to 1933. Some people are alarmed about this because they think this increase will continue indefinitely. As a matter of fact, foreign countries have nearly reached their limit of profitable cotton production. It will take very high prices over a long period of years to bring forth much more competition. The agricultural adjustment cotton program merely aims at preventing lowering surpluses that bring poverty to the South. It plans always to have plenty of cotton to sell at home and abroad. A reasonable American price is too low to encourage unlimited foreign production.
It should always be kept in mind that the agricultural adjustment administration cotton program does not aim at permanent reduction. It does propose to help farmers to cooperate to adjust the supply of cotton to effective demand. For the first time in history the Southern farmer and business man has the opportunity to work out a long-time plan that will avoid most of the fall-spins in cotton prices which have periodically depressed the South for 50 years. The plan has not surrendered to foreign markets and is not likely to do so.

To succeeding articles facts about cotton growing conditions in India, Egypt, Russia, China and Brazil will be presented. The first four countries furnish nearly 85% of our foreign competition and Brazil is the one country which might give real competition in the future. When these are studied there will be less alarm about the foreign situation.

tised products. It was taken from the Texas Outlook:

I used to eat wheaties for breakfast every morning. I'd split open the top of the package with a bread knife, sprinkle a quantity of the cereal in an ordinary oatmeal dish, pour in just enough cream, and coat the mixture with some plain white sugar. It wasn't so bad when grasping the edge of the bed to pull myself out mornings. I'd tear the bed to bits under me. I didn't mind particularly when the steering wheel of my car crumpled under my hands and we turned over three times into the ditch. I thought it was a good joke when I banged the door of my fraternity and the house fell to the ground. But when I tried to kiss the only girl I ever loved and broke her neck, I went back to granoluts.

The Rev. Borum is credited with the story about the man who went down in the Louisiana swamps and heard two mosquitoes talking about carrying him off.

"Let's carry him over here, back of this grove where we can eat him all to ourselves," said one.
"No, let's eat him here. If we start carrying him off, some of the big mosquitoes may see us and take him away from us."

A total of 45,000,000 gallons of water was used in Kew Gardens, England, last summer.

CHAPTER X MUTINY OF THE PIRATES

Jim felt himself seized in a pair of strong arms. For all his squirming and struggling he could not free himself. Someone lighted a lamp and in its glow Jim stopped his struggles and looked into the surprised faces of Long John Silver, George Merry, Ephraim Post, Dandy Dawson and Harry Sykes. His captor was Tom Morgan, while Dick held high the lantern that cast its light full upon Jim's face.

everything if you'd turn about and jine — why with your spirit I could make you a noble gentleman of fortune. "Gentleman of murder — of blood-spilling!" cried Jim. "A gentleman of fortune can do a lot of goodness where goodness fits, Jim. You and me could do a power of good together. You're a lad of spirit, Jim, and I'll stand by you. Maybe you'll stand by me some day."

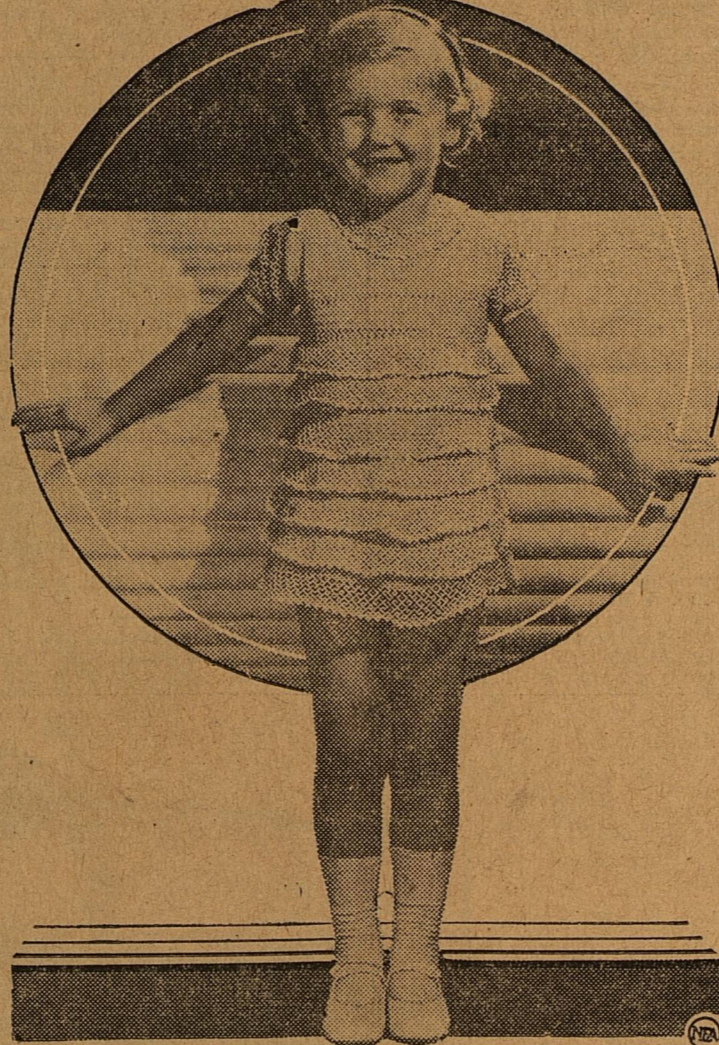

Dandy Dawson gave an ugly laugh, casting covetous eyes at Jim's boots. "Such pretty boots," he said softly. Jim gulped, realizing that he was to be killed. Then he got hold of himself and stood with a look of resolution on his face. "Well, even if you do get the treasure," he said, "your ship's lost, men lost — your whole business gone to wreck. And if you want to know who did it, it was I!"

Other Sport Scribes

NEW YORK—The 20 greatest thoroughbreds of the last 50 years. Who brought that up? And why wouldn't such a list receive quite a little attention, and considerable altering by dissatisfied critics? Lineups of the kind always will be unsatisfactory, since seldom do two persons view any group of several runners in the same light. Without removing any from a roll, that contains such as Man o' War, Twenty Grand, Exterminator, Gallant Fox, Hindoo, Colin, Hanover and Kingston, this column asks how it is that the name of Miss Woodford does not appear? It may be stretching a point to include Miss Woodford when she was born 54 years ago, but just a half century ago Miss Woodford, a 4-year-old, met the best of both sexes that could be brought against her and won every start—nine. In the next two years she participated in 19 numbers, captured 13, and was unplaced in only her last race. All told, Miss Woodford went to the post 48 times, bagged 37 events, was seven times second, and twice third. Her stablemate, Hanover, is included in the select group, yet this great galloper's average was not as good as that of Miss Woodford. Hanover grabbed 32 of 50 races, and only $600 more in purses than Miss Woodford. The Dwyer brothers never picked the latter's worth. Hit Her Own With Colts Miss Woodford, which was traded for the immortal Hindoo—the barter was Hindoo and two mares for Miss Woodford and $9000—was so masculine looking that trained racing men would refuse to believe her a mare when they saw her at a distance. She was long and powerful, with the sweeping stride of Twenty Grand and, like Edith Cavell, she loved a distance. Probably she had no such early speed as the masterful Artful, but let it be remembered that at every age at which horses run Miss Woodford held her own with all the leaders of the masculine brigade which could be brought against her. No other mare in American turf history ever made such a record as Miss Woodford; not Beldame, or Firenze, or Imp. No mare ever held her own with colts as well as did she, with the lone exception of Ruthless a mare of the Civil War period, and therefore not eligible for the 50-year list. We Johnny-come-latelys have no right to discuss mares like Ruthless, anyway. ZOO GAVE BIRTHDAY PARTY ST. LOUIS, Mo. Farmers Realize Money from Ties

KIRBYVILLE, (P)—Hundreds of drought-stricken farmers living between Beaumont and Longview have turned to tie-making as a result of a demand by a large railway company for several hundred thousand. Although many have no experience in hewing timber the farmers are endeavoring to earn with their axes the income the drought denied them from their fields. The remuneration for tie-making is not large but farmers say it is sufficient to pay grocery bills. Some of them can furnish the timber from their own land in addition to the labor in hewing the ties. Others receive a rate per tie. Huge stacks of ties along the railroad tracks at Longview, Shelbyville, Bronson, Jasper, Pinedale, Kirbyville, Roganville, Call Junction and many other stations between Beaumont and Longview. Negroes are employed in loading them after inspection. Inspection is a trying time for the tie-makers. Many are so inexperienced in the work that there are many cuts for which the maker receives nothing. VOTED FOR HORACE GREELY VERSAILLES, MO. Dog Days! Nothing to Get Mad About in the Arctic

Dog days! In most places a torrid time for everyone to steer clear of nipping moneys, for small boys to stay out of stagnant swimming holes, and for dogs to pant for their breath and nip at flies. But in the Arctic—when the midsummer sun soars to around zero—what a difference! Without even looking for shade, these huskies on the trail near Coronation Gulf, in northern Canada, took a cooling siesta when the sledging got tough the other day. Do dog days make them mad? Well, hardly.

HAY FEVERITES BLAME CWA

TOLEDO, O. (UP)—Hay fever victims here are the latest group of opponents of the New Deal to cast accusing—and very red-rimmed eyes—toward its sponsors in Washington. They complain that CWA workers have caused Toledo victims to suffer the most violent siege of sniffles in years. The victims claim that wherever the CWA workers stirred up the earth in various projects around Toledo this spring, their hated enemy—ragweed—has blossomed, to make their suffering worse.

WON HIGH SCOUT AWARD

LORAIN, O. (UP)—The scout gold medal for life-saving, one of the highest honors a Boy Scout can win, was awarded Ray Messmer in recognition of bravery in saving a fellow scout's life. While on a hiking trip, two scouts of Messmer's troop broke through thin ice covering an abandoned quarry. The young Lorainian crawled over the ice, dragged one youth to safety, while the other managed to escape by himself.

TOLEDO HAS LIQUOR CURFEW

TOLEDO, O. (UP)—Toledo's new curfew ordinance for liquor dispensers is in full effect, bolstered by a Court of Appeals ruling that the legislation is valid. In declaring the ordinance valid, the appeals court refused the plea of a large downtown hotel for an injunction restraining the city from enforcing the curfew against the hotel. The ordinance forces a 12:45 to 5 a. m. closing hour for liquor-dispensing places.

Huey Cleans House
The door closed behind him. Robert Ewing had pointed the way out.

Louisiana never before saw such decapitation as followed. Trained officials, trained advisers followed Robert Ewing into political oblivion as far as Louisiana was concerned.

"I am the constitution," said Huey. This also meant "I am the boss and there ain't going to be no other kind of bosses."

Huey P. Long's new crew, carefully picked, were men who never had had any experience in working on the good old ship of state. Here is the record:

His chief adviser became Seymour Weiss, once shoe salesman, once barber shop manager in the Hotel Roosevelt, later the hotel manager. Long made Seymour Weiss president of his dock board, employing thousands of workers.

In turn, Weiss named a man as employer of labor for the dock board who referred every appointment to Huey P. Long.

Takes Care of Friends
Later, the young governor named Abe Shushan president of his levee board. Shushan had sold notions and dry goods on the road for his father's firm in New Orleans, and on his parent's death had become head of the firm. The levee board employs thousands of workers.

For years, Robert Maestri had been known in New Orleans as the head of a furniture store which sold, among others, furnishings to red light resorts. Maestri was also and still is principal owner of Jefferson park race track.

Maestri did then and still owns much property in the red light district of New Orleans. Huey P. Long named Maestri conservation commissioner.

That department also employs much labor and has the letting of leases on natural resources—among them oil, then beginning to bulk large in the state's economy.

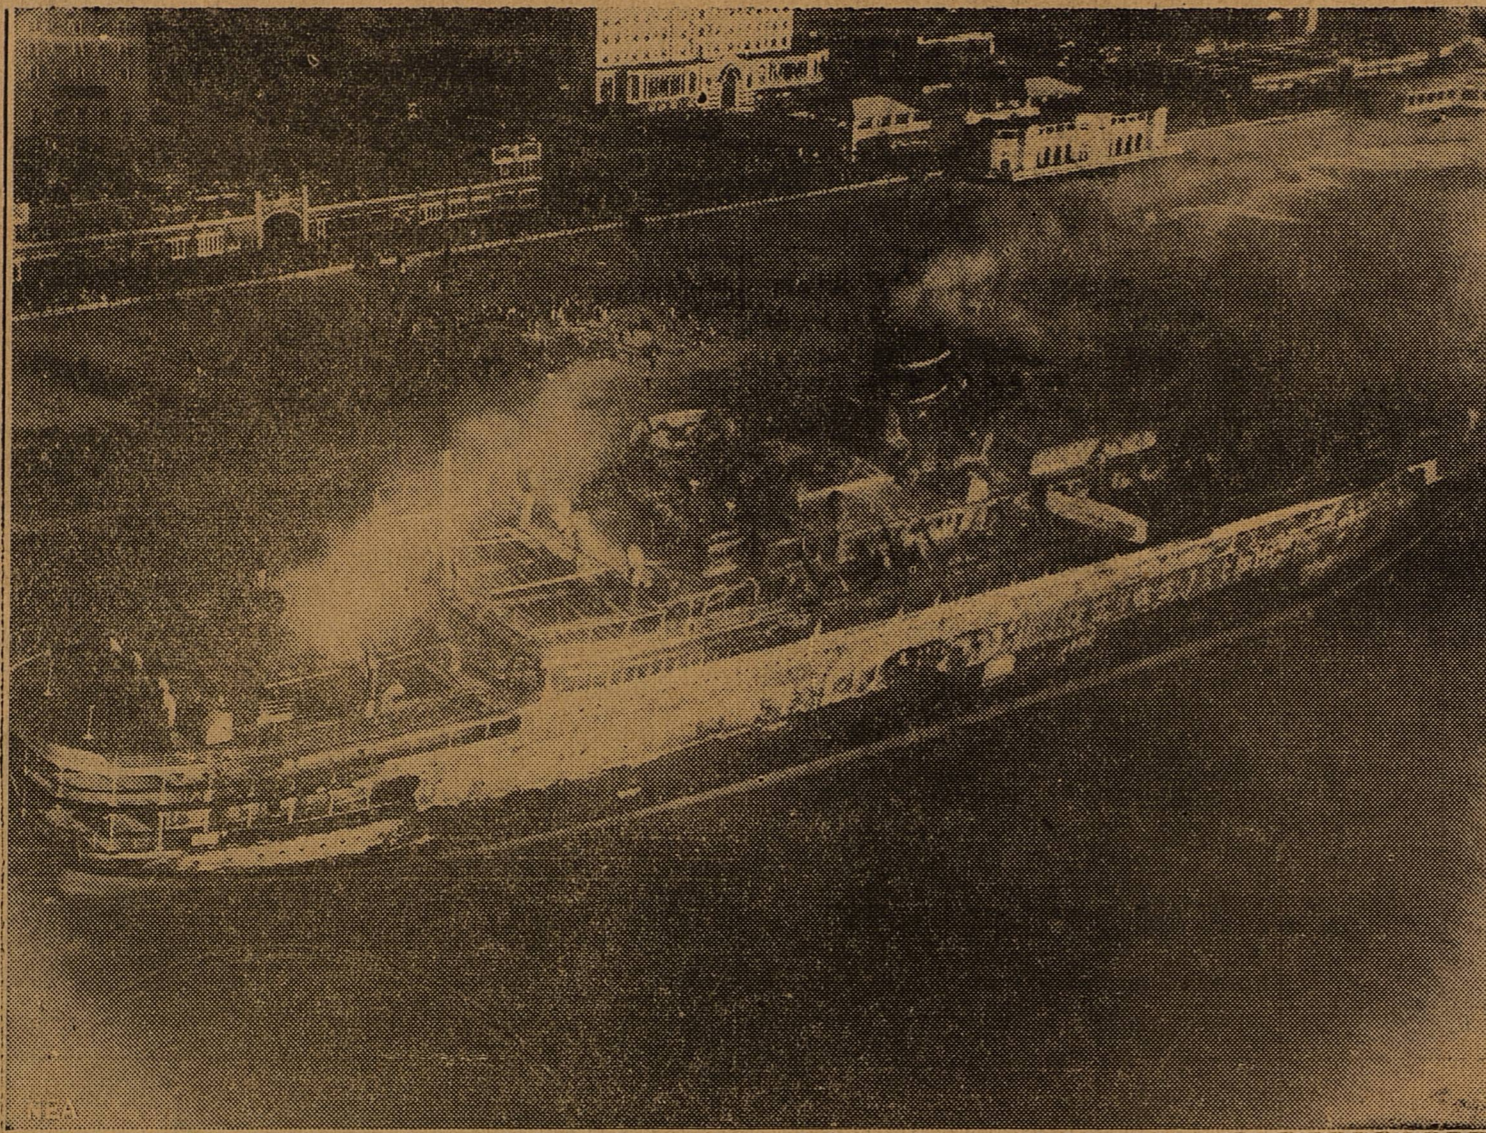

Merchant to Governor
Governor Long saw great bond issues ahead for highway development in Louisiana. So he went back to his home town of Winnfield and picked a country merchant to head his highway department.

The man he selected was O. K. Allen, later picked by Long to be governor of Louisiana.

And so, in every department, from chief cook to bottle washer, Long picked a man who never had any previous experience in statecraft, but who were subservient to him.

For several years, he has been running his own newspaper. It has no advertising—except Huey Long advertising. He smashes into man after man, issue after issue, in huge headlines.

The articles in the paper are as full of errors as a colander is of holes, but when indignant persons

Like Nemesis relentlessly pursuing her victims, the Ward liner Morro Castle, which became a floating crematorium for scores of passengers and crew, trailed to shore the few who survived both fire and immersion in the turbulent Atlantic. Taken in tow by the Coast Guard Cutter Tampa, the Morro Castle broke free from the tow line and drifted onto the beach at Asbury Park, just a few miles from the spot where disaster overtook her. The fire-scattered, smoldering hulk is shown as it wallowed in the shallow surf, a few yards from the beach on which some of its survivors landed.

Castle was afire—also before the "stand by" call was ordered by Acting Captain William F. Warren. Dr. Gouverneur Morris Phelps, his wife and their son, Gouverneur, Jr., all charged before the department of commerce inquiry that they were left to look out for themselves as the fire raged on the Morro Castle decks. They all denied hearing a general fire alarm before they were faced by the intense heat and encroaching fire to jump and risk their lives in the ocean, swept by a lashing nor'easter.

Film Hit at the Ritz Brings Jean And Donald—Ritz

"Most Precious Thing in Life," now currently showing at the Ritz theatre, is an adaptation of one of the most popular short stories of last year.

Originally titled "Biddy" it appeared in McCall's magazine, and was written by Travis Ingham. It is the story of a college dormitory charwoman, or "Biddy," who watches over her son's progress through the school.

Jean Arthur has the leading role with Richard Cromwell, Donald Cook and Anita Louise in the other featured roles.

OIL NOTES

BY F. D. GARDNER

A small show of gas was reported at 3877 feet in the Landreth No. 1 Scharbauer, interesting Ector county test in section 20, block 44, township 1 north, T. & P. survey. The well is now drilling below 3902 feet in brown lime, with some gray lime reported in the last sample.

H. A. Hemphill has joined the geological staff of the Magnolia company here. Hemphill, who is well known here, was with the geological department of the University Land survey in San Angelo for the past several years.

Ten million cubic feet of gas was encountered below 4135 feet in the Continental No. 1-Klotz north Cowden pool well in section 3, block 43, township 1 south, Ector county.

Equipment is being moved into the new Amerada offices on the 5th floor of the Petroleum building. Amerada's West Texas headquarters was formerly located in San Angelo.

In Pecos county, a liner has been run past the jammed bit in the Tex-Mex No. 1 Netterville, 330 feet from the south and west lines of the north half of section 59, block 8 H. & G. N. survey. With a hole full of water to shut off gas, the well is drilling ahead below 2393 feet in lime. There is a slight increase in oil and gas. This test has been delayed by fishing for tools jammed in the hole when blown up by an estimated 2,500,000 feet of gas at 2210 feet. The well has been flowing about 5 barrels of oil per day.

R. H. Gill, independent operator of San Angelo, is in Midland today.

A small amount of underreaming remained to be made in the Honolulu No. 1 Parker, Andrews county wildcat which lost a drill stem and bit at 4480 feet. At completion of underreaming, an effort will be made to fish out the tools. The Parker test is in section 7, block A-44.

deny his statements, he blandly repeats. His theory is that if you say it often enough, loud enough, and in large enough type, the people will believe.

All at State Expense
He also lathers the state from time to time with handbills. He writes these himself, and has them distributed by state employees.

All this publicity is at state expense. The state and its employees pay for his radio programs, his sound truck expeditions, and his handbills. Every member of the state payroll is responsible for 10 or more subscriptions.

He reminds the people continually of what he has done, and claims credit for everything good that has happened in the state since he bounced upon the scene, regardless of whether or not he had anything to do with it. He has done this so often that many who know better are almost convinced.

For instance, he claims all credit for a refund of telephone charges made throughout the state when he was public service commissioner. In fact, the campaign was originated by Colonel Ewing, who made Long Ewing even drew up the procedure. At one time, Long wanted to drop the fight, but Ewing insisted that he carry on.

Huey Claims Credit
Louisiana has some of the finest highways in the south—concrete pikes through miles and miles of country, and fine gravelled roads, thousands of miles of them. It has free bridges across waterways where ferries or toll bridges were a few years ago. It has one of the finest state universities in the country; the greatest sea and land plane airport. Huey P. Long takes the credit for all.

John M. Parker, who ran for vice-president on the Theodore Roosevelt Bull Moose ticket, developed the highway layout when he was governor, and also the university plans. It was Governor Parker's idea, however, that the highways and university should be developed on a pay-as-you-go basis, out of proceeds of severance taxes on natural resources.

The free bridges to the east of New Orleans were built out of a special tax levied upon the New Orleans district, and didn't cost the state a cent. Governor O. H. Simpson signed the contracts and began the work. Yet Long claims the credit.

Wants Name on Bridge
Across the Mississippi River at New Orleans is now being thrown a $14,000,000 railroad and automobile bridge, out of funds advanced by PWA and railroads. Plans were developed by the public belt railroad commission and Thomas F. Cunningham, president of that organization, before Long ever heard of the bridge.

Yet Long claims the credit and has even ordered that it be known as the Huey P. Long bridge.

When Long came into power as governor, he remembered Iago's cogent advice: "Put money in thy purse." To hold power and build up a machine, he must have the sinews of war. So he began to lay plans immediately for immense bond issues. He junked Parker's pay-as-you-go ideas.

Louisiana has since issued about $100,000,000 of bonds, and the parishes, controlled by Long through courthouse cliques, have piled that much more upon taxpayers.

The highways built by Long cost two or three times as much as Long said they would when he was barnstorming the state for votes to authorize the bond issues.

The average cost was $25,000 a mile. Long had said the concrete highways could be laid for $8000 to $10,000.

In the small city of Bogalusa, Long's highway department laid a mile of concrete highway, 22 feet wide, through the main street. That mile cost $25,000. The people of Bogalusa liked it so well that the town council voted to double the width.

They laid 22 feet of concrete, same specifications and thickness, alongside the Long stretch—one mile—and it cost Bogalusa only $11,000.

These bond issues entrenched Long in power, and have been the means through which he has developed the most amazing political machine Louisiana ever saw, one of the strongest in the United States.

When he was governor, the legislature impeached him. He would have been booted out had it not been for his senators who signed the famous round robin declaring that, no matter what the evidence, they would not vote against Long.

Every one of these 15 has been rewarded personally or through some member of the family since. John B. Fournier, House speaker, has manipulated the voting machine and so prevented a vote, is today lieutenant-governor of Louisiana.

When every department of the state; he is as insistent on operations, and names holders of the smallest jobs as well as department heads in Louisiana, under him, is a one-man show.

Brooks No Rivals
Long has so picked his men and organized his machine that no one in it can threaten his supremacy. He does not choose men of that caliber. He must be sun, moon, and stars of his political firmament, and his appointees only the asteroids wandering around.

Yet this man has lost every voting place in which he lived. Winn parish, where he was born and reared, voted against him; Shreveport, where he had his some previous years, went against him; Baton Rouge, which he enriched during his governorship with tremendous construction, and in other ways, doesn't give him enough votes to sweeten his coffee.

When he came to live in New Orleans, he had himself appointed precinct captain, yet lost the precinct and the ward in the last election.

If he wins in the New Orleans election of September 11, there is no telling to what ends he yet may go. If he loses, it will be a hard hearing, he still is a force to reckon with and fear, for though he has been down many times, he has yet to be counted out.

The End.
Disaster--

aboard the Morro Castle, almost an hour before the call to "stand by" was sent.

As scenes of chaos and confusion among the passengers were described at the department of commerce hearing—including the charge that passengers were allowed to shift for themselves as fire raged aboard the liner—Alagna and George Rogers, the chief radio operator of the Morro Castle, were questioned at length by the grand jurors investigating the possibility of criminal negligence in the holocaust at sea.

Conboy refused comment on their testimony. It was understood, however, that Rogers—who was reported to have said previously the "real story" hasn't been told—was questioned about a report a wireless station on the Jersey coast asked if the Morro used to protect the ballots. He later said he would demand a recount.

In the balloting, Maine re-elected a democratic governor—Louis J. Brann—for the first time on returns from 228 precincts of the 302.

In the race for public service commissioner, James O'Connor got 39,347 against 32,711 for Francis Williams on returns from 228 precincts of the 327.

A fast paced, well-directed and expertly acted drama, which has for its heroine a sort of lady "Raffles," Paramount's "The Notorious Sophie Lang" comes to the Yucca theatre today and tomorrow, with Gertrude Michael and Paul Cavanagh in the romantic leads heading its distinguished cast.

The plot opens with an exciting and rather ingenious jewel robbery in a New York store. Recognizing the handwork of Sophie Lang, Inspector Parr of the police, played by Arthur Byron, determines to catch her by the ingenious expedient of setting another jewel-thief on her trail. And for this purpose he selects Maximilian Bernard, played by Paul Cavanagh.

When the two fugitives from justice become aware of Parr's plot, a thrilling and amusing three-cornered battle of wits ensues, which has its climax when the two criminals fall in love with each other and flee from the country, leaving the baffled but happy Parr to survey the wreckage in their wake.

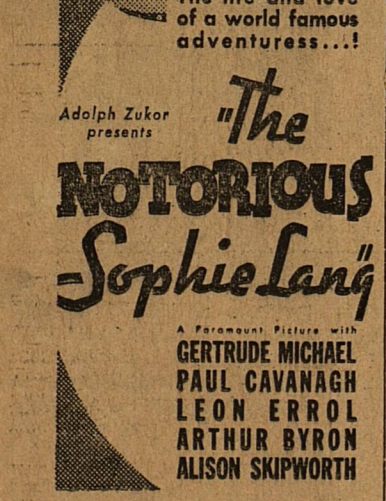

Prominently cast in supporting roles are Leon Errol, whose trick knees and pantomime furnish many hearty laughs to his characterization of a slightly bemused detective, and Alison Skipworth, who lends her talents to the portrayal of a venerable and lovable old scoundrel. Ferdinand Gottschalk, Del Henderson and Jack Mulhall are in supporting roles.
