Speech Reference Is Cited as Main Reason

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15. (U.P.)—Textile strike leaders today demanded the resignation of General Johnson, national recovery administrator, because of a speech at New York last night in which he accused the textile industry of bad faith in calling the strike.

Francis Gorman, chairman of the strike committee, voiced the demand for his resignation. He accused Johnson of not telling the truth, bad faith and idleness while "textile workers were being slowly strangled to death."

Odessa Prisoner Fires Bed Clothes

ODESSA.—A prisoner, incarcerated in the local hoosegow, Tuesday evening on charges of drunkenness and disorderly conduct, laid himself liable for arson charges Tuesday evening, when he attempted to smoke himself out of the jailhouse.

According to officers, the fellow piled all of the bed clothes and other movable and inflammable materials from his cell in the middle of the floor and started a nice smoky bonfire late Tuesday evening. If the smoke didn't cure him, the size of the costs attached to his release probably will.

Brother of Mrs. P. Moss Is Nominee

ODESSA.—Olin D. Johnston of Spartanburg, S. C., brother of Mrs. Paul Moss of this city, and known to a number of Odessa people since a visit here some four years ago, received the democratic nomination for governor of South Carolina, in the democratic run-off primary in that state, Tuesday, according to daily press releases this week.

Johnston, a comparatively young man, defeated the veteran Cole E. Blease, of Columbia, for the nomination. Blease, with 50 years in public life, has twice been that state's governor and is a former United States senator.

Johnston, during his visit here four summers ago, was preparing for an unsuccessful race for the nomination which he this year gained. The democratic nomination in South Carolina, as in Texas, is tantamount to election.

Three-Weeks Revival to Begin in Midland Today

To Conduct Baptist Revival

BY WINSTON F. BORUM
The Rev. B. B. (Cyclone) Grimm and his evangelistic party have arrived in Midland, and will begin their revival meeting today under the auspices of the First Baptist church. The first service of the meeting will begin at 11 o'clock this morning, in the church. All day meetings will be held in the church auditorium.

A large open-air tabernacle has been arranged for the evening services, with platform for singers, musicians and the speaker. Services will be held each evening in this tabernacle, located just west of the church, at 7:30. In case of inclement weather, the evening services will likewise be held in the church auditorium.

The choir platform has been arranged in tiers and provided with chairs seating about 125 people. Rousing song services will be features of each service, directed by Harlan M. Powell, assisted by the choir and two pianos, played by Wallace Wimberly and Mrs. Winston Borum. There was a fine turnout of singers for the preliminary practice Friday night, and Powell taught them a number of new songs and choruses.

A special meeting of all ushers is called at the church this afternoon at 2 o'clock, for final instructions in handling the crowd. This organization will function under the direction of County Judge Elliott H. Barron, assisted by a committee from other churches cooperating in the meeting.

The nursery will be open during all services for the babies, under the direction of Miss H. B. Dunagan and B. C. Girdley, assisted by other women of the church. A play-room will also be conducted each night in the Baptist annex for children up to six years of age. Information as to location of these departments may be had from the ushers.

In the words of the Scriptures, "All things are new today, and the feast." All the people of Midland and the surrounding territory are cordially invited to come enjoy the rousing musical program, hear one of the greatest and best powerful preachers of the gospel, in the South, and receive a great spiritual blessing.

THE REV. B. B. (CYCLONE) GRIMM

Bull Attacks Cow - There's No Mistake About It This Time

COLORADO.—A high bred Hereford bull, sold by Lay Powell to a new owner at the Texas and Pacific cattle loading yards of town, the animal charged and killed two cows before cowboys could slash the infuriated beast.

The bull actually threw those cows eight feet into the air and would catch them on his horns "as they came down," Powell said. "He has been met all his life and secured to have become enraged when placed in the pens."

The bull would offer fight when one approached the pen in day, he was confined. He would attack paper or any other object thrown into the enclosure. He made deep dents in timbers of the enclosure with his horns when charging the fence in an attempt to obtain his freedom.

It would have been suicide for a person to have entered the pen with the bull, Powell stated. "He would kill anything, man or beast, and would not require much time in which to complete the job."

PERMIAN BASIN LEASING INTENSE

One of the most intense leasing campaigns experienced in the Permian basin for more than four years is covering a broad territory through eastern Winkler, western Reeves, western Ward and western Yoakum counties.

Near expiration of large blocks held by major companies is partially responsible for the revived play. However, the play also is based on geophysical surveys made by companies holding the blocks on which leases are soon to expire.

Permian lime possibilities paralleling the known productive trend from Pecos through Ward and Winkler and extending through Lea county, New Mexico, are receiving renewed attention.

Development of production in Reagan, Upton, Crane, Ector and Andrews on a trend paralleling the older ridge is lending impetus to the theory on which the present activity is based.

Jowell Horses to Race at 3 Fairs

Spence Jowell, who runs his breeding herd of thoroughbred horses at Kent, will take three horses to a string of fairs, and race meets this fall, he said yesterday.

He planned to have his ponies entered first at the Panhandle-Plains fair at Lubbock, going from there to Marfa. He will run his bay stallion, Memorial Day, in the longer distances; a four year old gelding, King F., in three-eighths and half mile events, and a recently purchased paint horse, four years old, in the quarter and cow pony races. It was expected that Cecil Locklear will handle the string.

SENATE REDUCES RELIEF AMOUNT

AUSTIN, Sept. 15. (U.P.)—The senate today reduced the amount of the $3,500,000 relief bond bill to $5,000,000, by a vote of 13 to 12.

The senate also voted twice to budget the amount, allotting $1,000,000 to November and limiting the amount of bonds to be issued and expended to $1,500,000 each for December and January. Expenditures for October were not limited.

Both amendments were offered by Senator Joe Moore of Greenville. Issuance of the entire amount of hunger bonds now would leave the state without money for the destitute next year, he said.

GEOLOGISTS WILL RESUME MEETINGS

The Midland Geological society will resume its bi-monthly luncheons on Friday, Sept. 21. No luncheons have been held during the summer months. The luncheon will be in the Crystal ballroom of the Scharbauer hotel.

Adams of the California company, vice-president; Alden S. Donnelly of the Honolulu Oil Corp., Ltd., secretary-treasurer.

The society is composed of geologists located in Midland and it is hoped that all geologists who have moved to Midland during the summer will attend the luncheon. The object of the society is to promote fellowship among men of this profession, present an opportunity for the exchange of geological ideas, sponsor field trips, and in all ways possible aid in the study of the geology of West Texas.

Plants 8 Acres To Pinto Beans

STANTON.—J. R. Smith has eight acres planted to pinto beans and they are coming up to a fine stand. He has Indian corn almost knee high that he planted following the first rain that fell some six weeks ago that he says 60 days from now will be ready to snap beans that will make at least 40 bushels to the acre. His cotton is blooming and will make a good yield.

Smith devoted much time to working his crops during the very dry weather and when the rains came the ground was in ship shape to drink up the moisture and as a result he will make good crops.

TERRITORIAL PARADOX

It is an odd development that in the Philippines, soon to be independent, English has been adopted as the official language, while in the solidly American territory of Puerto Rico, Spanish has taken the place of English as the accepted medium of instruction in elementary schools.

The Puerto Ricans speak Spanish from the cradle upward. Efforts have been made to conduct the elementary schools bilingually, with English and Spanish used side by side. Now, however, the instruction is to be solely in Spanish, with instruction in English reserved for high schools.

But in the Philippines, English is the only language thoroughly diffused throughout the islands. Spanish is the language of polite society; English is the language in which business is conducted.

The Filipinos themselves have voted to make English the official tongue.

So the American territory will speak Spanish, and the independent Philippines will continue to "talk American."

OUR "HUMAN" RACE

Once in a while, people do things so incredibly brutal and callous that one is almost moved to despair of the human race.

Doug Davis, speed flyer, crashed and was killed during a race at the National Air Races recently. In a few minutes, some 3500 people had formed a mob about the wreckage of his plane. They tore the plane to bits for souvenirs. One woman jerked a button from the dead flyer's body and sold it for $5.

The mob was so dense that an ambulance was unable to reach the scene. When police and race officials tried to force the mob back, they were cursed and asked, "Why should you have all the fun?"

It is impossible to find words to express the disgust which decent people must feel at behavior of that kind. The spectacle is enough to make a profound pessimist out of everyone who observed it.

BREAKING A POOR CUSTOM

Mrs. Henry T. Rainey, widow of the late speaker of the House of Representatives, announces that she will not be a candidate for election to succeed her husband—thus reversing a tendency which had become more and more noticeable in recent years.

In a great many cases, congressmen who have been removed from public life by death have succeeded by their widows; and in some instances this has simply reflected a wave of sentimental sympathy on the part of the voters.

Such elections do small service to the cause of good government. It would be a bad thing if we came generally to accept the custom of putting widows in the line of succession. Mrs. Rainey does us a service by refusing to help establish that custom—although she herself, having served as her husband's secretary, and knowing politics thoroughly, is better qualified than most women to take a place in Congress.

SCIENCE ADVANCES TO DEATH!

It is not entirely without significance that the first bit of news from the annual meeting of the American Chemical Society, at Cleveland, was announcement of a discovery of an exceptionally poisonous new gas.

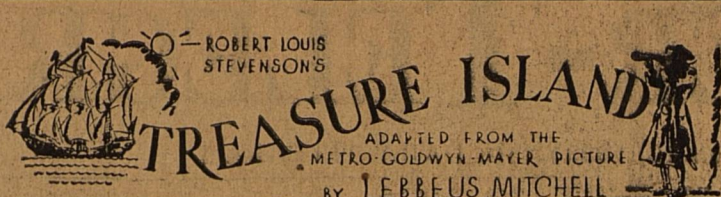

This gas, according to Dr. George H. Cady, research chemist, is a fluorine compound somewhat like phosgene gas. It produces death if inhaled; furthermore, a blanket of it in a trench would explode, with disastrous results, if its temperature were raised slightly. All in all, it looks like a very neat little addition to the chemical warfare unit's arsenal.

Thus we have another scientific triumph—whose chief result will be to make it a little easier for us to help wipe the human race off of the earth. The future is dark indeed, unless we can learn to use the discoveries of science for constructive ends.

"Too busy this morning, Mr. Parks. Might squeeze in a game this afternoon."

CHAPTER XI THE SKELETON TRAIL

Dr. Livesey, husky-voiced, said something to comfort Jim for having given away to Silver the position of the Hispaniola. "I don't mind if they know where it is, now that you know," said Jim. "F-f-heat her, sir, and get away from here. Don't m-m-mind about me."

Livesey whipped out a small deringer and covered Silver between the logs of the stockade, but in a position so that Silver himself hid the Doctor's movement from the pirate band.

One move of your hands, Silver, and I'll let Jim, hurry now! Whip over the wall and run for it!"

"I... I passed my word, sir..."

"Silver was visibly relieved and impressed by Jim's declaration. "A lad of honor, sir!" he cried. "I congratulate you."

Dr. Livesey reached between the logs and grasped Jim's hand and wrung it hard. "We won't leave this island without you, Jim. My word on that!" He addressed Silver. "You are going for the treasure now?"

"That's the plan, Doctor."

"Well, mark you, Silver, when you find it prepare for squalls. And if Jim Hawkins is so much as scratched, there'll be a ball between your eyes that nobody will bother to remove. Prepare for squalls, Silver."

The Doctor strode quickly away, and left Silver scratching his head. "Jim, a growing doubt of my own intelligence is beginning to gnaw in my brain..."

"Come on, Silver. We're breaking sail!"

The pirates started up the slope towards the woods, leaving the stockade unguarded. Silver spoke low and fast in Jim's ear:

"But we're in for it now, matey, what'er it be. And I'll not forget you saved my skin just now by refusing to whip over the wall. They'd a-cut me down like punk if you had. So I'll stand by you, matey, but I'd better treat you rough for appearance like."

He cried loudly, giving Jim's arm a jerk: "Try to whip over, will you! Try to hale on me, eh?—after me affronting on you!"

George Merry had heard Silver's words and now, armed to the teeth, he was at the other limits who waited at the edge of the wood for their Captain, ran up to him. "I told you, Silver," he said, with an ugly look at Jim.

He cried loudly, giving Jim's arm a jerk: "Try to whip over, will you!"

Silver grabbed a rope. "Belay that, and shove off, George! I'll clamp on to this young cell!" He tied the rope about Jim's waist, pulled it tight and reached out for two muskets which Jim helped him adjust over his shoulders. In addition to these firearms, Silver was armed with a cutlass and a brace of pistols.

"Forward, lads!" he cried to the pirates and began singing "Fifteen men on a dead man's chest," as he trudged onward. When they reached the top of the hill, Silver consulted the map and pointed to a certain tree. "There's the tall tree, lads—Spreckles' shoulder."

When the buccaneers had assured themselves it was the tree of the map, they began to run forward, many dropping their loads of provisions. Confused shouts drifted back to Silver and Jim in the rear. "Look here!" "By hook or crook, I followed by complete silence."

"They can't find the treasure," said Silver. "That's clean to the top." Silver hobbled forward on his crutch and peered down at what the men were looking at—a skeleton, bones bleached white, but with some shreds of clothing still on, arms straight over its head like a diver's pointing.

"He was a seaman," said Tom Morgan. "See ways—that's sea cloth."

"It ain't natural for a body to lie fallen like that," mused Silver, and then cried in sudden inspiration: "By thunder! It was placed like that by old Flint himself!"

The pirates came to a sudden stop, their faces going pale under the deep coat of bronze.

"There he be! That's Flint!" cried Ephraim Post, covering.

Diek gasped: "Then it's his spirit!"

rope end and freeing Jim. Meantime the pirates had jumped into the old excavation and began to dig. Ephraim Post picked up something. "Two guineas!" he cried. He handed them to the others and turned to Silver. "There's your 700,000 pounds, is it?"

"Only two Ephraim—"one for each of you," said Silver, calmly.

"You're the man for that!" cried Tom Morgan. "You're the man that never bluffed nothing!" shouted Ephraim, coming out of the pit, followed by Morgan.

"Why don't you dig more, lads? Maybe you'll find pignats!" cried Silver.

"Pignats!" screamed Merry, turning to the pirates. "It's plain as pitch, mates! He's planned this with them others!"

"What a bright lad you are, George," said Long John. "Be you pushing for Cap'n again?"

"Let's get the Flint!" shouted Merry, advancing. "It's only an old crumple and a boy!"

The pirates scrambled out of the pit and started towards Silver and Long John but a crack of muskets sounded from the trees above them. Harry Sykes and Diek fell stone dead, and the rest, with one terrified yell, turned and charged down hill into a thicket. Silver calmly raised his pistol and fired at George Merry who sank slowly to earth, his eyes turned towards Silver.

"Yes, George, I guess that settles it," said Silver, nodding to himself.

Dr. Livesey and Gray broke cover and started firing at the fugitives. Jim followed them, firing, too, a little way into the brush. Then they all returned to Silver.

"That'll do 'em good and all, Gray," observed the Doctor.

"Thank 'ee, kindly, Doctor," said Silver, merrily. "And a squall it were, as you say. But he stopped in amazement at sight of Ben Gunn, advancing slowly from cover. "By the powers, that voice! And so it's you, Ben Gunn!"

"In Ben Gunn, I am," said that individual, wriggling like an eel in his embarrassment. "And, how do you do, Mr. Silver! Pretty well, I thank you, says you."

"Ben, Ben, to think as you've done me!"

Dr. Livesey took Silver's guns from him. "Gray, lead the way with Jim. Come Silver, march, and you'll see as how you've been done by everybody!"

Home-School Gap Must Be Bridged Parents Informed

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON It would be unnatural indeed if boys and girls in public school felt completely at home in the educational system as we know it to tie to home life.

This is an advantage in some ways, but a disadvantage in others. It is good for children to meet life on a basis other than that of the family group, yet if school continues as in the past to be a thing apart, especially for young children, there will continue in the child's heart a feeling of divided allegiance—not in favor of the school.

Perhaps few children go as far as to say to the teacher, "You're not my boss," but if the truth were known this is the tenet of many and always has been.

Work Not Child, That Counts They may be unaware of it; they even may be fond of the teacher in a way and accept school with a wholesome attitude toward discipline and work.

But in school they are not real entities, and they know it. They are one of a group, individually they count, but not for themselves. It is their work that counts. Each child is measured, not by love as at home, but by his deeds. He is, more or less, a producing machine.

Again this is a good thing, although it does not bridge the gap, nor overcome the feeling that each day he has to cross the Rubicon into alien country.

Pre-claim Age Difficult Later, when the matter so much when Bill and Chuck and Pete are just a bit more important to his immediate interests than his parents, or when Sally is nearby for Jane to share her secrets.

It is in the pre-claim or pre-gang stage that children are likely to feel they have something precious at home every time they pick up their books. There is a way to give such children a greater trust in school and to help them to conform more happily to its rigid requirements.

Both school and home should cooperate in this plan, because it precludes the visits of too many mothers to schoolrooms. Of course every mother would be wise to contact the teacher in some way, with the child present, and become friends with her. Not to discuss the child in any way before him, however.

Welding School and Home Parent teachers' associations are on the right track, but I suggest they have children present at some meetings. Let's call them "parties" water, doesn't increase the weight of the 100-pound tub of water. Along comes a letter from an anonymous writer, saying that if you fill a tub of water level full, then drop in a four pound fish, the whole thing will weigh less than it did at first.

I started to lose a bet, as usual, but kept my money in my pocket until I could think it over. He was about to make me bet against a cinch. If you fill the tub level full, then drop in the fish, the fish will wash out enough water to equal the total weight. The fish doesn't weigh as much as the water he displaces.

Mac West says sex is never vulgar except to vulgar people. They'd made a lot of hot money selling hot oil down in East Texas and had moved to a big city. They began putting on the big dog in a big way. They bought a large house in the slickest part of town.

One of the neighbors dropped in on them and began making inquiries. "Has your husband any hobbies?" she asked.

"He has the rheumatism and the hives right now but he ain't never had the hobbies," the old gal replied.

Someone took up where I left off in discussing the fact that a 10-pound fish, added to 100 pounds of instead of "meetings." If children could see home and school melt into a common group once in a while they would lose the idea they are opposed to. They would submit less resentfully to regimentation and discipline and if they felt their parents more interested they would be more interested themselves.

Teachers sense instinctively this "alien" position. They are keenly aware of the disinterested and often hostile attitude of the family. So far most of the overtures toward truce have been made by the teaching body. The child hears little that is uncomplimentary to his home at school, but often a great deal against school at home. More effort toward cooperation is needed.

Conditions of Midland Families Studied In Child Welfare Survey Conducted Here

BY KATHLEEN EILAND

The physical condition, financial status, and economic background of 572 Midland and Midland county families were studied in the child welfare survey recently completed here.

The work done in Midland was part of a statewide survey sponsored by several agencies. As it was obviously impracticable to attempt a detailed survey of every family in the state, three groups were studied: the families of ex-service men, all families having handicapped members, and all families who have ever received direct relief in the form of food or clothes.

Mexican and negro families were included.

Mrs. Addison Young was in charge of the survey.

That Midland county has practically no resources for the care of dependent, neglected and handicapped children, is one of the interesting facts brought out by the work.

There is no juvenile probation officer and the juvenile division of the county jail is used for the detention of boys and girls under 18 years of age. There are no special classes for handicapped children and no child labor regulation.

A total of 2890 persons was studied and of this number 421, or more than 15 per cent were handicapped mentally or physically in some way.

Forty persons, or approximately 9 1/2 per cent of those handicapped are victims of tuberculosis. Second in disease handicaps is infantile paralysis which affects 24. Pellagra is third with 18 sufferers listed.

Among handicaps of organs or body members, amputations and other bone, joint, and muscle ailments rank highest with 120 persons affected, followed by deafness with 85, semi-blindness with 69, and curvature of the spine with 21 sufferers.

Thirty persons were found who had mental or nervous handicaps.

One hundred and twenty-eight persons were found who were in need of glasses, false teeth, or other artificial appliances.

Three hundred ninety-one deaths were listed among the 1934 children born to the families studied. Of these deaths 290 were of children under 2 years of age.

Smallpox is apparently the disease most dreaded by parents, for a checkup on immunization shows that more than twice as many children and adults have been vaccinated for that disease among families studied, than for either typhoid or diphtheria, the other two diseases for which immunization campaigns have been conducted here.

Eight hundred eighty-five persons studied have had smallpox or been immunized against it.

Among the group studied, 307 families were receiving or had at some time received direct relief.

Data gathered will be sent to Austin while copies will be kept here.

Mrs. Hensarling's Recipes Shown in A Demonstration

Peach sweet pickles, blackberry cordial, plum punch, and tomato juice were prepared by Mrs. Ima C. Hensarling in a canning demonstration Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Jim Hundle.

Thirteen women were present at the demonstration which was given for the Busy Bee club with others interested invited to attend.

These are the recipes Mrs. Hensarling used:

Plum Punch
1-2 cup lemon juice
1 tablespoon grated lemon rind
Grated rind of 1-2 orange
1 cup orange juice
1 qt. water
1 qt. plum juice
3-4 cup sugar (or to taste)
1-2 lb. dried, stewed apricots which have been put through sieve.
Cook sugar and water for 3 minutes. Add the other ingredients. Pour in hot glass jars. Put on cap, screwing band firmly tight. Process in water bath 20 minutes, or in oven 68 minutes at 250 degrees; or in pressure cooker 10-15 minutes at 5 pounds pressure.

Blackberry Cordial
Select large ripe blackberries. Mash and strain through coarse cheesecloth without neatening them. To every quart of juice add 1 pound of sugar. Tie in thick muslin bag, 1-4 ounce of grated nutmeg, 1-4 ounce whole cinnamon, 1-4 ounce whole cloves and 1 small piece of mace. Boil juice and spices 25 minutes, removing scum as it rises. Remove spice bag and stir in 4 tablespoons vanilla extract. Pour into hot glass jars and seal.

Tomato Juice
Select firm, ripe tomatoes, wash well and drain. Trim away all decayed, bruised, green or bitter portions.
The juice may be extracted by preheating before pressing or extracting the juice from cold tomatoes. The last method gives an excellent product which has a good color, flavor and consistency. Juice extracted by a commercial piece of equipment made for the purpose contains finely divided particles of tomato pulp but no seeds. A fair product can be obtained by using a sieve or colander to extract the juice. Heat to 180 degrees Fahrenheit (or to simmering point) and put immediately into standard enamel or plain tin cans. Process No. 1 and No. 2 tin cans or pint glass jars in boiling water for five minutes. Cool tin cans quickly.

Peach Sweet Pickles
12 lbs. peeled fruit
3 qt. vinegar
6 lbs. sugar
Make a syrup of the vinegar and sugar and add a spice bag made of 1 tablespoon of ground cloves and 1 piece of ginger root if desired. Add 4 or 5 whole sticks of cinnamon to the syrup and drop a few of the peaches in this boiling syrup at a time. Cook until the fruit can be readily pierced with a straw, let stand in covered kettle over night.

Next day pack in hot glass jars covering fruit to within 1-2 inches of top with the syrup. Put on cap, screwing band firmly tight. Process in water bath at simmering temperature (180 degrees) for 20 minutes.

NEW SERVICE

... Instead of an "Overhaul" - a factory reconditioned engine

HOW THIS NEW SERVICE WORKS

If you need an engine "overhaul" simply drive your Ford into the nearest Ford dealer's. The engine will be lifted from the car. Carburetor, distributor and other units will be removed and placed on a cylinder assembly that has been completely reconditioned at the Rouge Plant of the Ford Motor Company, Dearborn, Michigan.

You get a complete assembly consisting of cylinder block with mirror-finish cylinder bores, new main bearings, a crankshaft with all bearing surfaces just like new. Also new pistons, piston pins, piston rings and a set of connecting rods equal to new. Included in the assembly, of course, are the camshaft, push rods, valves, valve springs and retainers. Cylinder head with new cylinder head gasket is bolted on. The timing gears and front cover are in place and the oil pump is included. It is a complete cylinder block assembly—carefully inspected and block-tested—ready to give you new engine performance.

With no waste of time the reconditioned engine is put back into your car or truck. Only a few hours are required for the entire job. And you have an engine that's as good as new.

Many Other Units Included In This Exchange Service

If your carburetor, generator, or any of several other important units need major repairs it can be replaced with a factory-reconditioned unit—at much less than the usual cost of repairs. Note the low charges for factory-reconditioned parts:

Engine	V-8	"4"
Cyl. Assembly	$49.50*	$46.50*
Distributor	1.90	—
Carburetor	1.85	—
Shock Absorber	2.00	2.00
Fuel Pump	1.65	1.65
Clutch	—	—
Disc Assembly	2.75	2.75
Clutch	—	—
Pressure Plate	3.80	3.80
Brake Shoe (each)	.45	.45

*Includes installation. Slightly higher west of the Rockies.

Every mechanism, no matter how finely made, eventually wears and must be reconditioned. Automobile engines are no exception.

The Ford V-8 is the finest, most dependable and most rugged engine Ford has ever built. But there comes a time when any piece of machinery should be reconditioned to renew the efficiency originally built into it.

The Factory that built this engine is best equipped to recondition it. Here are the men, the precision equipment and the inspection methods which insured the excellence of the engine in the first place. Therefore the Ford Motor Company has instituted this exclusive new service to owners of Ford cars and trucks. When the owner of any Ford built since 1927 finds that his engine needs an "overhaul", he can have a factory reconditioned engine—at approximately half the cost of an old-fashioned "overhaul".

The Ford owner not only gets a much better job at far less cost—but only a few hours are required to make the exchange.

This "Exchange Plan", which also includes many other units of Ford cars and trucks is an important forward step in automotive practice.

CHANCE SUN WINS RICH BELMONT FUTURITY UNDER RESTRAINT

BALLADIER AND PLAT EYE SECOND AND THIRD; FAVORITE ELEVENTH IN FIELD OF FOURTEEN 2-YEAR-OLDS

BELMONT PARK, L. I., Sept. 15. (UP).—Joseph E. Widener's Chance Sun won the Belmont futurity, world's richest race, before 30,000 persons this afternoon.

E. R. Bradley's Balladier was second by three lengths and the Greentree stable's Plat Eye was third.

Fourteen of America's best two-year-olds ran the six and a half furlongs on a muddy straightaway. Wayne Wright got Chance Sun away in motion, two lengths ahead, before the stands. He increased the advantage in the final drive, winning easily in 1:17 3-5 and paying eight to one in the wagering. Widener netted $77,930.

Psychic Bid, Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloane's Hopeful stakes winner and an eleven to five favorite, was a big disappointment, finishing eleventh.

WIDENER CHUTE CALLED FOLLY OF MILLIONAIRES

The $100,000 Belmont futurity of Sept. 15 was marred by the Widener chute, the $2,000,000 mistake that cuts the infield of the gorgeous track diagonally, like Cupid's arrow through a valentine.

Despite its cost, swelled by the purchase of additional property to make it possible, races run on this seven-furlong straightaway are unsatisfactory to everybody connected with the sport, and are not truly run.

Joseph E. Widener's idea was to accommodate large fields with a minimum of interference. The theory was that crowding would be eliminated with no turns. There would, it was believed, be no reason for it, with jockeys no longer having to contend with that desperate swing for the stretch.

It was thought that the straightaway would permit a view of the race to every spectator in any part of the park. It was pointed out that races around curves permitted the customer to watch only a small part of the running of a number.

Rough Going Shooting the Chute. But things on the Widener chute have worked just the other way. American-trained thoroughbreds, instructed to run to the left, are at ease on the expansive straightaway. They swerve all over it. Each is allowed five feet. That would put the 20th post position 100 feet out on the track.

Imagine the juvenile in that position bearing over to the rail, which he has been taught to do. If the jockey attempts to keep his mount in his lane by pulling on the right rein, he retards the horse. If he doesn't, the budding star barges into flying rivals, causing trouble for himself and others.

The mass spirit at the spectators, who can't tell anything at all about the first half of a race. Every close decision is booted. No matter what the judges, who are in the best position to see, rule, some portion of the crowd objects. It depends on the location.

In order to be any way near accurate, extremely capable chart markers have to view events from widely separated points. One catches the start. Another plants himself at the extreme right end of the enormous grandstand to describe the center of the contention. The third catches the finish from the extreme left end of the stand.

The expensive Widener chute would be discarded had spectators, officials, owners, trainers and jockeys their way.

Costs Money to Start This One. The futurity, the richest race in the world, is at 6 3-4 furlongs, making it the longest 2-year-old event on a New York track this season, as well as the longest down the chute.

All of the purse, save for the $25,000 added by the association, is made up of nominating, starting, and other fees. Babies are nominated before they are born—named through their dams. No fewer than 2000 were nominated at $10 apiece. From then on, there were additional fees, unless owners declared out, with a $1000 starting fee.

Of their brief records, Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloane's Psychic Bid and Col. Edward Riley Bradley's Balladier figured to be very much in the scramble in the last pulse quickening strides; but there were plenty of others, each of which was given a chance to take the long end. There were the Belair Stud's Omaha, Pitter Pat and Vicars; Warren Wright's Nellie Flag; Colonel Bradley's Boxhorn; Mrs. Payne Whitlauey's Plat Eye; Esposo, Rosemont, and some more.

The result of the futurity has an important bearing on winter books, although coking 2-year-olds don't always maintain the pace at three. Cavalcade and many other brilliant 3-year-olds were only fair at two.

Jay Floyd's Horses To Lamesa; Player To Work Out There

Jay H. Floyd will send the first of two truck loads of polo horses to Lamesa today, working out eight head of ponies with the Lamesa team which will compete in an tournament at El Ranchito, Arlington, next month.

The first four horses to be taken there are five-year-old geldings and mares, all sired by Boone's Knoll and all schooled for polo. Only one or two have been played in a game. Floyd will make two trips a week to Lamesa for workouts with the Cowboy team there. He has not announced what team he will be connected with in the tournament but is considering proposals recently sent him.

Floyd recently sold to Dr. A. V. Young, number four player on the Greenacres club at Shreveport, his big bay polo horse, Split, which has been seen in action on local polo fields on numerous occasions. The horse was out of the game last year on account of an injury to a front foot.

DOG'S ACTIONS CAUSE SUIT

TOLEDO, O. (UP).—Mrs. Mary M. Reynolds' sleep was troubled with dreams of a large, vicious dog barking at her, so she asked $1,000 damages in a suit she filed in common pleas court against Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rosenblum. Mrs. Reynolds said in her petition that every time she leaves her home and enters her automobile, the Rosenblum dog scratches at the car door, barks and sometimes rides for two blocks on the running board. The dog's actions have made her so nervous she can't sleep, she charged.

American manufacturing industries spent about $1,500,000,000 for all kinds of fuel in 1929, and in addition purchased electrical energy to the value of nearly $500,000,000.

PASS INTO END ZONE AND MULTIPLE KICKS TO OPEN UP GAME'S OFFENSIVE

BY HARRY GRAYSON Sports Editor NEA Service

NEW YORK—They've wanted to help the running attack in football for years. This season they have some new rules that should do that.

Summed up, that's the way the large Mr. Lou Little, strategic genius of Columbia university's Rose Bowl Lions, looks at the changes in the gridiron code.

Columbia, scheduled to mingle with the Elis in the Yale bowl Oct. 6 as the season's opening engagement, will begin practice on Sept. 15. The large Little stopped in the midst of pre-season preparations to look the rules situation over.

He's qualified, because he has been for the last three years, chairman of the football coaches' rules committee and an advisor to Chairman Walter R. Oakeson's football rules committee.

"The new rule permitting a team to pass once into the end zone without the danger of a touchback, very definitely will help the running attack," asserted the Master-Mind of Morningside Heights. "On the surface, it would seem to be an aid to the passing game. But the influence on the running attack, in my mind, is more important.

"The defense, backed up within its own 25 or 30-yard line will have to worry about defending more territory than before. In other years, the defense knew that few teams from out around the 30-yard line would try to pass into the end zone on an early down. It was too dangerous.

"This season it will not be so dangerous. So the secondary has something new to worry about; new territory to guard. The backs can't afford to edge up, and that will make the running attack more potent.

"A lot of teams will peg the ball into that end zone from out around the 30-yard line.

"There's the removal of the five-yard penalty on the second incomplete pass in a series of downs. That should help the running game, too. That penalty was introduced in an attempt to curb wild forward passing, but it always has seemed to me that the penalty encouraged, rather than discouraged, wild forward passing.

"Few teams were influenced against passing by the penalty, but after a team had been docketed with the five yards, there was nothing else to do but pass in an attempt to make the first down. Now they'll still have a chance to run."

"What about this multiple kick?" the large Mr. Little was asked.

"There again I think there may be some beneficial influence on the running attack if the play is used with deception, as the quick-kick has been employed.

"Concealing this multiple kick until the last possible instant as the play develops should make the secondary defense pretty cautious. Anything which worries that defense back there helps the running game.

"I believe that the use of the multiple kick, unencumbered now by the technicality of dropping the ball before it is kicked, should be very useful in the case of free kicks after a safety.

"There is more distance to be gained by a well-executed multiple kick than by the average punt.

GREATEST CIRCUS IS COMING SOON

The world's mightiest amusement entourage, the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Combined Circus with its gigantic 1934 program of new world-wide wonders, many of which have never before appeared in America, is definitely scheduled to exhibit in Big Spring, Friday, Sept. 21, (night only).

The gorgeous, vastly enlarged tentacular spectacle, "The Durbar of Delhi" stupendously introduces the multitude of aerial marvels that succeed this pompous panoramic display.

The great new international congress of features presented in the seven rings and stages, huge hippodrome track and the maze of aerial riggings includes the recently imported Otari Toupe in the most astounding mid-air feats ever witnessed. These intrepid performers fly from all points of the compass at the same time in perilous forward and reverse flights through space from their lofty aerial cross.

The Clarks with such aerial notables as Mile, Gillette, Europe's sensation of the air, now appearing in this country for the first time and the celebrated Torrence-Doyers, Marks, Wilby and Spural Troupes, all new to this continent, are among the 800 men and women circus stars presented by the big show this year.

The circus bears on its four long trains of 100 double-length steel railroad cars more than 1600 people, 50 elephants, 1009 menagerie animals and 700 horses.

The great Con Colleano, tumbling, forward-somersaulting, tight wire star has been created from European triumphs to join the great Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Constellation of stars. The celebrated Wallenda Troupe of high wire thrillers, the famous Loyal-Repenski family, world's greatest bareback riders, Dorothy Herbert, most daring horsewoman in history, the marvelous Yacopi, Danwills, Uyenos and Yom Kam acrobatic troupes and the famous Concellos, Harold, Rooney's and Walters, aerial wizards, are but a few of the headliners among the better known acts.

There are 150 internationally famous clowns in the gala 1934 performances of the world's largest circus—the greatest congress of funmakers ever assembled.

Nature Beaten by Grafting Genius; a Dual Crop Is Made

MULESHOE, (AP)—It may not be in keeping with AAA principles but a Muleshoe farmer is harvesting an underground and an overhead crop from the same vines.

E. L. Brown, farmer in the Blackwater valley a few miles northeast of here, is growing two potatoes above the ground and white potatoes below and a single vine is doing the work.

Brown calls the plant a "mulligatanny." The vines have the foliage of alfalfa, have produced okra blossoms, are putting on tendrils as peanuts do before turning into the ground to produce and swell like onions.

The plant may be a highly competitive one for Brown declares he can get an Irish stew from the single growth.

Brown, who is experienced in grafting and breeding plants, irrigates parts of his farm.
