The Lamesa team, a strong contender last year in the Hoot Gibson horse tournament at El Rancho, is playing far better than at that time and will make a heavy bid for the championship next month, the Midland player reported.

BRITON WINNER OF FIRST RACE

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 18. (U.P.)—In one of the swiftest and most dramatic races ever waged for the famous America's cup, the big blue challenger from England, T. O. M. Sopwith's Endeavour, overcame a succession of sail hoisting difficulties and administered an unexpected but sound thrashing to the defending sloop, Harold S. Vanderbilt's Rainbow.

Endeavour demonstrated conclusively that she is a speedier weather craft, completely reversed her sorry showing in Saturday's drifting match that wound up "no contest," and was one up in the first conclusive test of the 1934 series. The British lion was roaring full-throated defiance to American sea supremacy for the first time since 1920.

After chasing the Rainbow over the outgoing half of the 30-mile windward-leeward course through heavy seas and rain squalls, Endeavour overtook the defender at the outset of the run home, with a fairly startling burst of speed under the impetus of a unique ventral or "Annie Oakley" spinner.

Endeavour's margin of victory at the finish was nearly a half mile, exactly two minutes and nine seconds on time, as the challenger came from behind to capitalize her swiftness before a wind that shifted from a brisk 14 knots to about 10 at the finish.

The winner's elapsed time of three hours, 43 minutes, 44 seconds, was approximately 19 minutes short of the America's cup record for a similar course, despite the fact both boats surpassed the former mark for a 15-mile windward leg, with a stiffer breeze blowing. Rainbow's time was 3:45:53.

State Troops Charge Rock-Throwing Rioters

The white stones littering the street up which these Rhode Island national guardsmen charge are missiles that comprised the rock barrage with which Saylesville, R. I., textile strike rioters greeted attempts to disperse them. More than 1,500 troops have been mobilized in the little manufacturing town in efforts to prevent recurrences of disorder.

SHEEP BLANKS DELAY BUYING

The same price will be paid for condemned ewes as for ewes which are permitted to be shipped. Only ewes one year and over will be accepted, and no fresh shorn ewe will be purchased.

A wire from Washington states that the cattle program in Texas is completed until all vouchers have been sent to the Auditor in charge, D. B. Smith, Kansas City, Missouri, and a complete audit made of vouchers. All vouchers in Midland and Martin counties have been completed and mailed to the Kansas City office for payment.

Geo. E. Adams, assistant state agent, sends out the following information to all county agents: "Local sale or transfer of tax exemption certificates. In such case the statement attached shall be executed and filed with the assistant or the county agent, who shall keep a record of the same in his office. The transfer of such certificate shall be approved by such assistant or agent according to the form provided in the cover of the certificate. Galveston Moves For Better Homes

GALVESTON. (U.P.)—Elimination of all unsanitary rent houses in Galveston in line with the national housing act, and as an aid to the employment situation, was planned in an ordinance taken under consideration by a group of representatives of the city's civic clubs and organizations.

The ordinance was submitted by Meo Stewart, Galveston financier, who has studied extensively the development of the national housing act. It would require all rental agencies and individuals renting property for living quarters to first obtain a license. Stringent requirements must be met before such license will be available under the ordinance.

All houses rented or leased will be necessitated by the ordinance to meet with strict sanitary requirements, which action will require the destruction of many houses which are obsolete, unfit, and uninhabitable, and the replacement of them by new buildings. This will result in employment of many men and aiding a large number of industries. It was explained that the ordinance is not directed at the home owner, but at the landlord.

The plan as advanced at the meeting also is being received favorably in a number of other cities in the state, as well as in other parts of the country, as a step to recovery, Stewart said.

Approval was expressed by the chairman of the local chamber of commerce committee appointed to investigate the housing plan.

McLARNIN BACK ON HIS THRONE

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN BOWL, New York, Sept. 18. (U.P.)—Jimmy McLarnin, greatest Irish warrior of his day, climbed back on his welterweight throne last night, battering back the savage gameness of little Barney Ross, his one-time conqueror, in fifteen fierce, controversial rounds.

He came back as he left the welterweight room three months ago—a split decision of two judges and a referee—but amid a storm of boos of protest that flooded down the ring like the rain that forced four postponements of the battle over the past 11 days.

It seemed to a majority of the experts around the ringside, and certainly to the scant crowd of about 25,000 sitting under a dark and foreboding sky, that little Barney, first ever to hold both the lightweight and welterweight titles, at least earned a draw in the dazzling duel that shifted first in one direction, then in the other, then back and forth again through the entire 15 blistering rounds.

There were no knockdowns, although McLarnin, his left eye completely closed, his nose trickling blood, his lips split, slipped twice in the fifteenth round from sheer weakness. He never went all the way down either time. Ross, taking more of the Irishman's right hand smashes than any other warrior ever did and survived, was equally battered, with his own left eye half closed, his right eye and his lips as badly cut as McLarnin's.

At the close, as they hung on each other, punch sodden and all but helpless, Tommy Short, one of the judges, cast his vote for McLarnin. Charlie Lynch, the other judge, halloped for Ross, leaving the issue up to Arthur Donovan, the referee. Three months ago, at the close of their first match, two other judges had forced a similar decision upon Eddie Forbes, another referee.

But as Forbes broke the deadlock in Ross' favor, so did Donovan last night swing the issue the other way with a vote for the Irishman that continued the amazing string of failures of welterweight champions to win a first title defense, now standing at eleven straight. No welterweight champion from the time of Pete Latzo has been able to ward off his first challenger.

The battle was so close that Shortell gave McLarnin six rounds, Ross five and called four even. Lynch gave Ross seven, McLarnin six, and called two even. Donovan alone saw a really decisive margin either way. He gave McLarnin ten rounds and Ross five.

Unusual Markers Left by Readers In Library Books

Midland county borrowers do not mark county library books, but they leave their markers and how.

It is not unusual to find an uncancelled check, a love letter or a book of stamps in a book returned to the library. In spite of careful attention of librarians to carefully inspect every book that returns to the shelves, occasionally someone checks out a book and finds a peculiar reminder that someone, months before, left some hint of his identity when he snatched the covers and went to exchange the book for another.

Relatives Return From Monroe Rites

Midland relatives of Zach Monroe, 54, former rancher of this section who died at San Angelo Saturday night, returned late Monday from the funeral services which were held at that city Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Mrs. D. T. Parr, mother of Mrs. Monroe, her daughters, Mrs. Fred Lundie and Mrs. H. L. Harrison, and her son, Clifford Parr, also Wanda Sue Lundie went from here to attend the funeral. Mrs. Parr's sons, Roy Parr of Carlsbad and Lynn Parr of Rankin, accompanied by their wives, also went.

Efficiency Claimed By Relief Canneries

AUSTIN. (U.P.)—An efficiency record equal to that of commercial plants is claimed by Adam R. Johnson, Texas relief director, for the relief meat canneries. The canneries have worked continuously during the past several weeks to keep pace with the government cattle buying program.

"Our records show that spoilage has amounted to considerably less than one per cent at the 19 best canning plants, and in many cases it has been less than one-half of one per cent," Johnson declared.

As a health protection measure, a minute inspection of canned goods was ordered made before distribution of the feed to relief objects.

CONSERVATION IS KEYNOTE OF ADMINISTRATOR

Petroleum Reserves Endangered, Says Secretary Ickes

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18. (U.P.)—Petroleum Administrator Ickes today urged the adoption of a federal conservation policy, warning that state laws are unable to safeguard the nation's petroleum reserves.

Testifying before the house oil conservators committee, Ickes said the United States is in danger of using up its reserves. From the viewpoint of national defense, conservation is absolutely essential, he said. He urged a permanent conservation policy, declaring that state laws and voluntary agreements of operators are insufficient to safeguard the reserves.

The United States is using its reserves three times as fast as the rest of the world and should be balancing the crude oil supply with the national need, he said.

AID COMMUNITY CHEST, TO REBUILD AMERICA

In the very near future most cities and towns will be the scenes of Community Chest campaigns.

Few of us have had any too much money, these last few years. When we are asked to dig down to support a charity, it is only natural that we should ask whether such contributions—in view of the vast sums we are contributing as taxpayers—are absolutely necessary.

The federal government has been putting something like $128,000,000 a month into relief work. The bulk of the relief work is being carried by the taxpayer rather than by the private contributor. Is the Community Chest, in this fall of 1934, an essential thing?

Perhaps the best way to answer that question is to examine a statement just issued by Newton D. Baker, chairman of the 1934 Mobilization for Human Needs.

Mr. Baker points out that the government work provides only the bare bones of relief. Private charity has to clothe the skeleton with warm flesh. It is not enough to keep people from starvation; unless something more than food and fuel be provided, the national morale will suffer irreparably.

Unemployment means ill health. Reliable surveys show that there is nearly 50 per cent more sickness in the families of jobless men than in the families of men who have steady incomes. Medical services for such illnesses must be free; the hospitals and nursing associations that furnish them are largely supported by Community Chests.

Childhood suffers when adults are unemployed. Children in families on relief are largely undernourished. Government help cannot reach them. Unless the local, privately-supported community agencies can help, they will suffer physical and spiritual damage which can never be made good.

Young men who cannot work find time hanging heavy on their hands. Keeping them from starving does not relieve them from the curse of idleness. Unless their communities help them to use their leisure—the government cannot hope to do it—many of them will become casualties of the depression.

These activities constitute only a part of the Community Chest program. Simply to mention them is enough to show how vitally important support of the Community Chest is. By contributing our share, we help to rebuild our citizenry; for as Mr. Baker says—

"Rebuilding this year applies not only to houses, skyscrapers, bridges and factories, but to broken homes, scattered families, hunger-wounded bodies and the shattered hopes and dreams of America."

WITH UNCLEAN HANDS

The Huey Long war in New Orleans has a number of interesting, not to say bizarre, angles; but one thing that impresses a casual observer is the thought that there is a good deal of wrong on both sides.

Testimony available to date seems to indicate pretty clearly that many of the Kingfish's charges about vice and graft conditions in New Orleans are perfectly true. The town has been more or less "open" for years; and whenever an American city is that way, a certain amount of corruption is inevitable.

That much being admitted, the fact remains that the role of crusader is hardly one that is becoming to Senator Long.

New Orleans may need a clean-up, but to find the Kingfish doing the cleaning is to hear a sour note being sounded.

Judging from the number of preachers who are getting snake bites, it'll pay better to educate your boy in a zoo if you're raising him to be an evangelist.

Boston professor declares our minds are clearer in winter than in summer. That must be a fact, as not nearly as many people ask, "Is it cold enough for you?" as do "Is is hot enough for you?"

Under the Dome Of the Capital

By GORDON K. SHEARER

AUSTIN. (U.P.)—Peering ahead, the January session of the Texas legislature seems destined to be a particularly busy one.

Eight amendments to the state constitution will be voted upon Nov. 6. If they are adopted, the next legislature will be called upon for wholesale revision of the existing tax laws. County consolidations will be in order and lengthened terms for municipal officers will be possible.

Additional amendments to the constitution will be pressed upon the legislators to pass on to the people. Among them will be more relief bonds, repeal of state prohibition and pruning of the pardon power.

The next legislature also will be asked to make adequate provision for the Texas centennial and, likely, for amendment or re-enactment of the cigaret stamp tax law.

Just why validity of the cigaret stamp act is in doubt is somewhat hazy. It is so unclear that some of the state constitution says that an act shall not be amended by reference to its title but that the whole statute to be amended shall be set out at length. The cigaret tax act was amended by adding a section designed to punish counterfeiting of the tax stamps. In doing so the whole act was not again set out. Apparently that is simple enough to the layman. But the courts, through the years, have felt called upon to make some fine distinctions. The constitution does not always mean what it seems to say, according to the courts. They have left it so unclear that some of Texas' ablest lawyers argued for two days about it in district court here.

The nubbin of it seems to be that if the new part is entirely independent it can stand alone. If you must refer to the preceding statute to understand the new one, both must be re-enacted.

A surprising thing about the cigaret tax act is that it in no place mentions a three-cent stamp. It is in general a three-cent tax and three cents appears on the stamp affixed to cigaret packages. In fact the tax is levied by so thousand pounds. A section authorized the state treasurer to design and issue stamps of convenient denomination to indicate payment of the tax. State Treasurer Charley Lockhart issued the three-cent stamps as that amount represents the portion of 1000 pounds tax due on the ordinary packet of 20.

Laymen learned, too, in the recent discussions of the cigaret tax act, that all rulings of the final criminal court in Texas are not accorded the same veneration. Particularly, the opinions of the court of criminal appeals, during a former period carry little weight. At that time the court membership was so divided in its views that in one case arguments before the court were postponed because of feeling on the bench.

The state democratic convention at Galveston cost the state $100,000 as capitol statisticians figure. A day's cost of a legislative session is put at $5,000. The Galveston convention resulted in two days' idleness because more than a third of the members were at Galveston. Their $10 a day pay was uninterrupted.

"We used to have a law against the sale of liquor in prohibition territory," said Dry Dan Moody, former governor, in court here while illustrating the vital parts of an indictment. A ripple of smiles went round the court room at this virtual acknowledgment of the dry leader that the state prohibition law no longer is in active use.

Court attendants got another smile in the same case when Judge R. L. Batts referred to the state cigaret tax law as "this anti-trust law."

The Light Bringer

law." He was one of counsel in the recent anti-trust penalty suits brought by Attorney James V. Allred. As he got into action, arguing he automatically named the other law about which he had argued so much.

30,000 APPLICANTS AMARILLO. (U.P.)—Marvin Jones, congressman of the 18th Texas district, has received a total of 30,000 letters from applicants seeking 240 post office appointments in his district.

Number of applications for each appointment as postmaster ranged from 6 to 42. Besides correspondence from individual applicants for the offices, friends have written thousands of letters. Jones received more than 600 letters from the friends of one applicant.

Approximately one-third of the 240 post office appointments have been filled, Jones said.

EAT AT THE LIMIT

The Town Quack

(Reserves the right to "quack" about everything with taking a stand on anything.) bares his ideas on the sloth question: Police Chief L. T. Robey with the flourish is going to smash some slot machines, which he seized in the neighborhood of schools, and leave other sloths run in various parts of the city.

Which is all wrong, especially in view of the fact that the sloths, as a Hairoiled-Post article pointed out, do a $728,000 a year business in El Paso.

Whether the sloths pay off is of little consequence as long as 14-500,000 nickels a year are circulated through the machines.

If everybody in town circulated their money as fast as the gambling crowd does, we wouldn't be pestered now with a strike of capital in which the big boys are refusing to take their money out of the bank and shove it around.

What we need to end this depression is a banking structure run on a sloth machine basis.

Greater Pictures Will Be Directed HOLLYWOOD.—Increased expenditures will be the order of things in Hollywood during the coming 12 months. Shown the way to increased profits by the nation-wide censorship movement, which has insisted upon genuine entertainment rather than salaciousness, film producers have decided again to adopt the standards which proved so successful in the silent picture era.

During that period the big expensive productions were the ones which returned the largest profits. Films on the scale of "Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," "The Big Parade," "Ben Hur," "The Covered Wagon" and "The Ten Commandments" were the real money makers.

And public tastes haven't changed. Recent pictures, such as "The House of Rothschild," "Cleopatra," "Dinner at Eight" and "Here Comes the Navy," prove that large expenditures are more than made up in box office returns.

Consequently we are about to be handed more such lavish films than ever before in the history of the industry. Darryl Zanuck already has indicated that he will spend $6,500,000 on 10 films. Paramount is at work on the spectacular "Lives of a Bengal Lancer," and soon will start "Rugles of Red Gan" and "The Crusaders." Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has several million dollar productions on its schedule. And other studios are making similar preparations.

These specials may result in a decreased number of pictures. But they will better satisfy the public's desire for entertainment and, in the long run, will return greater profits to studio coffers than would a larger number of program films.

Varied Rice Dishes May Be Solution To Appetite Changed by Crisp Weather

With such cool mornings as we are having now, comes a desire for warm meals and particularly for hot, tasty suppers.

Why not try rice? Oh, not rice only in the ancient and worn-out rice pudding or just "plain old rice" as the children would say, but in one of dozens of dishes that are different enough to be welcomed at the table.

The rules of rice cookery are simple but strict. First of all you must know how to boil rice properly. Don't be too sure you are doing it correctly until you try it this fool-proof way. First, wash the rice thoroughly, stir it in a sieve with water or let water from the faucet run through it several times. Then have boiling water ready—allowing two quarts of boiling water to one cup of rice. When water is boiling in a deep saucepan, add three teaspoons salt, then drop in rice slowly, a little at a time. Allow it to boil until it's done—from 12 to 25 minutes, as may be required. To test, take out a grain and press it with thumb and forefinger; when rice is soft it is sufficiently cooked. Do not stir while cooking; if necessary, to prevent sticking, lift it with a fork from time to time. When done, turn into a colander or sieve. And now comes the important step: run a little hot water through it to separate the grains. Then, after water has drained off, cover with a cloth and set over a pan of hot water on back of the range or low flame or in oven. Or, if you prefer, turn the rice into a shallow pan and place it in warm oven for a short time. This "steaming" is the secret of rice cookery and will produce the separate, distinct and fluffy grains so much admired.

Once you have produced a perfect bowl of boiled rice, you are ready to investigate the delicious dishes it can make. Here are some of the most popular ones:

Baked Rice and Cheese

1 1/2 cups cooked rice
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup milk
2 cups cheese
cayenne
2 tablespoons butter or substitute

Put a layer of cooked rice in a greased baking dish, cover with a layer of grated cheese, season with salt and cayenne. Continue adding layers until dish is almost full. Add enough milk to come half way to top of rice. Cover with crumbs, dot with butter and bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) until crumbs brown, and cheese is thoroughly melted. 6 servings.

Baked Hash of Rice and Beef

1 cup cooked rice
1 cup cooked beef
1 cup milk
2 tablespoons butter
1 teaspoon salt and pepper

Into a stew pan put chopped beef, cooked rice, milk, butter, salt and pepper. Stir for 1 minute, then add a well-beaten egg. Turn the hash into a baking dish and bake in moderate oven (350° F.) until done—about 20 minutes. Add a minced onion or a clove of garlic if desired. 4 servings.

Pineapple Rice Dessert

1/2 cup rice (raw)
1/2 cup sugar
1 cup crushed pineapple
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cups water
1 1/2 cups irradiated evaporated milk
2 eggs

Wash rice thoroughly and soak in cold water for an hour. Drain, put into double boiler; add the evaporated milk diluted with 1 1/2 cups water; add salt and cook until rice is soft. Add sugar, egg yolks which have been slightly beaten, and the canned pineapple. Fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites, pour into a buttered baking dish and bake in a very moderate oven (300° F.) until done—about 30 minutes. 6 servings.

Magic Half Hour Helps Start Day For School Kids

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

When school begins it is not only the children who must revamp routine schedules, but home life too should conform.

No one says it is easy for a mother to awake at the stroke of dawn and cook a handsome breakfast, particularly if she is not well or has too much to do. Perhaps she has been up all night with the baby, or couldn't sleep simply because over-weariness has a habit of routing Morpheus.

Yet there it is. The children must get up, must be fed and hurried off to school.

What is to be done if they are to get the start they need for a good day and not have to run the four blocks every morning breakfastless, and arranging their ties and buttons as they go?

Find That Half Hour
The answer is the Magic Half

Hour. The magic half hour on which the success of the whole day depends; the real line-up before the gunshot that starts the race, the extra morning time that prevents hysterical rushing.

To obtain the secret of extra time, some prospecting must be done, so we shall have to go back to the day before.

When baby was asleep yesterday afternoon did his mother lie down too and lose herself in a deep dreamless slumber? Of course not. There were the dishes to do, the clothes to hang out, the porch to scrub. She worked doubly hard to make the minutes count while the house was quiet.

Or, perhaps, she did lie down and have a nice nap. But Harry likes bridge so well she had the Austins over. When they got to bed it was one-thirty. Every night there has been bridge, and twelve o'clock is considered early.

Father Often at Fault
It cannot be done if a mother is doing her own work. It cannot be done any time regularly, if the family is to be started off well in the morning. Husbands and fathers will have to learn sooner or later that raising a family calls for several kinds of sacrifice besides the daily grind. Bridge can begin early and end early.

The dishes and clothes and porches will fall in line with a new routine eventually. There will be times, of course, and emergencies of every sort when things won't run smoothly, and the rising hour gets out of step. But if that magic half hour, or even hour, is to be obtained in the morning it has to be planned for.

Children need a nourishing breakfast eaten slowly. They should walk to school, not run. At noon they need more nourishing food. They need milk with their meals. They should not have fried foods or greasy foods.

Must Have Good Lunches
They cannot thrive or think or study on mustard-pickles and a banana a steady luncheon diet. They should, above all, have a satisfying breakfast. The brightest child becomes dull if his stomach is empty.

Schools that have been able to supplant the home feeding of needy and undernourished children are doing a work far beyond the measure of charity. It is one of the first requisites of education that the body be fed first.

Children need a background of many things if they are to succeed. But the early morning start, their own early bedtime and an even and happy routine of home are more than background. They are the very foundation of happy school life.
