Oil Industry Regulation Constitutional Says Margold

Screechless Street Car That's Promise for This One

Heralded as virtually noiseless, this new street car was demonstrated for the first time in Cleveland O., after four years' time and a million dollars had been required to perfect it. Note the greater ease with which passengers enter and leave, with the new extra step arrangement. Right are shown the resilient wheels of rubber and steel. Note that the car "brakes" on the rail instead of on the wheels.

Community Interest Gains Ground at Crimm Meeting

By R. C. HANKINS

Bristling with epigrams and wafting an occasional whiff of brimstone, the sermons of the Rev. B. B. "Cyclone" Crimm continue to pack 'em in at the Baptist tabernacle. The crowd apparently is equally attracted by the possibility the evangelist will throw a chair at the first brother who doesn't cue his amen's.

EAST TAKES 1ST GAME OF SERIES

INTERNATIONAL FIELD, Westbury, N. Y., Sept. 20. (AP)—Coming from behind with a spectacular seventh period rally during which they scored six goals in one of the most astonishing attacks ever seen in major league polo, the youthful eastern four rode to a smashing victory over the high powered western team Wednesday 10 to 3, in the first match of the inter-sectional series.

The westerners had just run up an 8-4 lead, with a sixth period scoring spree of their own, when they suddenly found their defense torn to pieces by the furious charge of the east. Riding like a quartet of young cossacks, Mike Phillips, Jimmy Mills, Winston Guest and Billy Post rode the west off its feet. They tallied four goals in the first four minutes of the seventh chukker, to tie the score, then bagged two more goals for the deciding margin.

The east's victory over a team rated six goals higher on handicap and including two ten goal aces in Elmer Boeske and Cecil Smith, was one of the biggest upsets in polo history. Playing without Tommy Hitchcock, disabled eastern veteran, the youthful team rose to remarkable heights, the west's even during the first half, at 4-4, and were outplayed only in the sixth period.

The second match of the series, on a best two out of three basis, is scheduled for Saturday. Smith starred for the west. He and Boeske each scored three goals, while Peckley tallied twice.

The lineup:

HALEY BACK FROM TRIP

John Haley Jr. returned this morning from a business trip to Fort Worth. He was en route to his ranch near Poyte.

THE FORECAST

WEST TEXAS: Partly cloudy in the south portion, thunder-showers and cooler in the north portion tonight; Friday unsettled, probably local showers and colder.

GRID GAME FRIDAY

Baptismal grid services will be conducted at Crane Friday, the Midland Bulldogs initiating their season there with Coach Dutch Baumgarten's 1933 charges. A large crowd will attend from Midland. All other games this season will be played here.

GOVERNMENT CAN SPECIFY USAGE, TOO, HE INFORMS

Witness Cites Right As Given in the Constitution

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20. (UP)—Congress has a clear right under the constitution not only to regulate oil production, but to determine its uses, Nathan Margold, interior department solicitor and chairman of the petroleum administrative board told the house oil committee today.

He said the right to regulate oil could be drawn from two sections of the constitution: giving the right to regulate interstate commerce, of giving power to conserve natural resources for national defense.

Rainfall of 10.73 Inches Exceeds the Total for Year '33

August rains, totaling 5.34 inches, advanced the total fall for 1934 to a mark exceeding the total for all of 1933.

Fall of 52 inch to date this month makes the total for 1934 10.73 inches, with almost three and a half months of the year left. Total for 1933 was 6.76 inches. (All figures are for Sloan field, supplied by Sgt. Joseph Capriola, meteorologist. The city of Midland has a slightly greater total, but the figures were not readily available.) The annual mean here approximately 17 inches.

Mean temperature to date this month is 75 degrees, seven degrees under that for August, nine under that for July.

Rainfall contrasted for the two years:

| Month | 1933 | 1934 |

WARMS HIT AT IN TESTIMONY

NEW YORK, Sept. 20. (UP)—A bitter picture of a bewildered master and officers of the flaming Morro Castle was given in the federal inquiry today by George Algra, assistant radio operator. Algra testified Acting Captains Warms had repeatedly refused to give orders for a SOS when Algra believed the ship had been burning more than an hour, and appeared not to "know what it was all about." Captain Warms gave orders to abandon the bridge while radio operators were fighting their way through smoke, Algra testified.

WELL GAUGES 130 BBLs. IN A TEST

BY F. D. GARDNER
After being shut in for almost a week, Winkler county's newest discovery, the Skelly No. 1 Halley, was opened up and made two flows in 3 1/2 hours totaling 130 barrels. There were about 500 feet of cavings in the hole. The well is shut in again waiting on pipe line installation. Location is in section 25, block B-11, public school land survey.

Andrews county's most recent wildcat test, the Bond et al No. 1 McCarty, in section 20, block 3, public school land survey, is underdraining 10 inch pipe, total depth being 1250 feet in red rock. Water encountered at 1135-1165 feet was exhausted. (See WELL, page 4)

Late Wire Bulletin

NEW YORK, Sept. 20. (UP)—Bruno Richard Hauptmann, 35, was arrested on charges of being the recipient of the $50,000 tossed over a cemetery wall in the Bronx in a vain effort to recover the kidnaped Lindbergh child.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20. (UP)—The Lindbergh kidnaping appeared to be breaking late today, with the arrest of three suspects and the reported recovery of $35,000 in ransom money.

The most famous federal state investigators were assigned to the case, and gathered hurriedly in the Greenwich street police station for questioning of suspects. Reports were that the case was broken through identification of a $10 bill tendered by an autoist for payment of gasoline.

Police said one man had been linked with the ransom money, which they alleged was found under the concrete floor of his home.

It was said that the man who had been questioned all last night broke this morning and gave important leads on the case.

Mountain Girl Mother at 11; Child's Father Only 14

A mother at an age when most children are playing with dolls, this 11-year-old girl lies in Jefferson City, Tenn., hospital, her 1 1/2 pound daughter, Caroline Frankie, normal in every way, beside her. Father of the child was said to be a 14-year-old mountain boy. At right is shown the home to which mother and baby will go, a cabin in the Great Smoky mountains, near Kodak, Tenn. There the baby will be cared for, vows the grandmother, shown in the door with her husband.

TYLER GIRL DEAD AFTER CAR CRASH

TYLER, Sept. 20. (UP)—Miss Laura Bess Denman, 18, Tyler high school graduate, was killed when an automobile in which she was returning from a dance at Henderson last night crashed into the rear end of a lumber truck. H. O. Stalup, 21, of Tulsa received a skull fracture and other injuries and may not live, it was reported this morning. Dr. Paul Laikin, 22, driver and only other occupant of the car, was not seriously injured. The car plunged into planks extending from the truck.

Hunting Protects Nerves—Crimm Tells Rotarians

Evangelist B. B. Crimm made a stirring address at the Rotary club today, holding the group of members and guests at gripping attention as he told how he liked men and how he came to Midland in the hope of being able to bring men "closer to God." The speaker told of the work he is doing in the evangelistic field, preaching an average of 653 sermons per year over a long period, and how he takes his hunting dogs from place to place and engages in wolf and fox hunting as a means of protecting his demoralized nervous system. He said the hunts brought him closer to nature and thereby closer to God. He said he liked the men he is associated with when hunting. Harlan Powell, choir director of the evangelistic party, made a brief speech of appreciation for the reception shown since opening of the Crimm revival here. The program was in charge of Winston F. Borum.

Texas Men Study Yaqui Indians

BROWNSVILLE. (AP)—The lower Rio Grande valley will offer the nation a new grapefruit this season.

Not only will it have a tear in it, but it will have a blush. It is a red grapefruit.

Five years ago "sports" of pink Marsh seedless trees in two parts of the valley strangely produced red fruit. Whereas the pink fruit does not show its pink color through the peel, this red fruit shows a dark pink through the peel, and a bright red inside.

A ready market for it in the north is expected, as shippers and jobbers have long stressed the need for a novelty fruit.

SETTLES STRIKE BY PHONE

CLEVELAND. (UP)—Long distance strike settling proved effective in the ending of a strike at the Dover Manufacturing company, Dover, O. Ralph A. Lind, secretary of the Cleveland Regional Labor board, for 35 minutes had both plant officials and union leaders on the telephone at the same time, talked to one, then the other. The men returned to work a few hours later. Dover is more than 75 miles from Cleveland.

Brooks Lee, an Ex-Indian Fighter, Pioneer, Is Dead

Death came to one of Midland's earliest settlers when B. W. (Uncle Brooks) Lee succumbed at 9:45 o'clock this morning to an illness which began last Friday. He would have been 84 years old next March.

The aged resident was the head of one of the largest families in West Texas, being survived by his widow, 10 children, 38 grandchildren and 23 great grandchildren, most of them living at or near Midland.

Born March 27, 1851 in Navarro county, he moved with his parents to Brown county at the age of nine years. He grew up in that section and was married to Miss Jennie Millican on February 27, 1873.

With Mrs. Lee and four sons, he came to Midland November 11, 1887, bringing 300 head of cattle, a few horses and a covered wagon. They went first to the open range where Seminoe is now located, coming back here two years later.

During his residence here, Uncle Brooks Lee served four terms as title and animal inspector and two terms as county treasurer. He had been a member of the Masonic lodge since early manhood and was a past worshipful master of the Midland lodge.

Funeral services, with Masonic honors, will be held Friday afternoon at 2:30 from the Brooks Lee residence on North Big Spring street, the Rev. L. R. Millican of El Paso, cousin of Mrs. Lee and one of Midland's first Baptist pastors, officiating.

Besides Mrs. Lee, immediate survivors are four sons, Dick Lee of Lovington, Young, George and Robert Lee of Midland; six daughters, Mmes. Mollie Ramsey, Hattie Woods, Carrie Roberts and Alma Wells and Miss Jennie Merle Lee of Midland and Mrs. Aurie Beyer of Pecos, N. M.; also 38 grandchildren and 23 great grandchildren.

Three sons of Mr. and Mrs. Lee preceded him in death. Curtis Lee died at the age of two months, Jim Lee died nine years ago at a ranch near Stamford, South Dakota, and Brooks Lee Jr. was killed in action June 25, 1918, while serving with the army of occupation in Siberia.

Mr. Lee sustained a fall a short time ago which weakened his physical condition. His death came from a general disability. He maintained consciousness until early Wednesday morning.

Was Indian Fighter
Uncle Brooks Lee was an old trail driver, a former Indian fighter, cowpuncher, cowboy fiddler and vigilante. His tales of the early days, remembered and recounted vividly, long had interested his friends and descendants of younger generations.

In August, 1869, he went with an uncle on a trail drive in which cattle were taken from Brownwood to (See BROOKS LEE, page 4)

BOTH OF TEXAS HOUSES REQUEST NEW REGULATIONS

FERA Regulations Don't Extend to Conditions

AUSTIN, Sept. 20. (UP)—Both houses of the legislature joined in a direct appeal to President Roosevelt to simplify the relief administration.

The house vote was 82 to 0, and the senate followed without dissenting vote.

The appeal to the president asked that the FERA be directed to draw its regulations so that they will be applicable to conditions in Texas.

A senate conference committee struck out a senate relief bill provision requiring counties to pay costs of administering relief. Under the revised version of the bill, the state will pay.

NO NEW SPECIAL SESSION NEEDED

AUSTIN, Sept. 20. (UP)—The senate adopted a resolution advising Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson of its opinion no need exists for a fourth special session of the legislature. The vote was 21 to 2.

GRAHAM MARSHAL IS SERIOUSLY SHOT

GRAHAM, Sept. 20. (UP)—City Marshal George Black is in a serious condition at a hospital for bullet wounds received when he sought to make an arrest last night.

Hermon Purely, Young county farmer was questioned in connection with the shooting, which occurred when Black attempted to quell a disturbance in a residence district.

Geologists Resume Luncheons Friday

The Midland Geological society will hold its initial meeting of the fall season at a luncheon Friday in the Crystal ballroom of Hotel Scharbauer.

Lara Sentenced In Boy's Death

EDINBURG, Texas, Sept. 20. (UP)—A district court jury here today found Santos Lara guilty of murder and specified his sentence at life imprisonment. He was charged with the slaying of Francisco Chapa, La Joya high school athlete, in December, 1932.

No Services at the Pentecostal Church

There will be no services tonight at the Pentecostal Holiness tabernacle, 600 S. Colorado, because of the death of Uncle Brooks Lee, father of the pastor's wife. It was stated today by the Rev. O. W. Roberts.

GAVE PATROL WAGON NAME

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UP)—Police patrol wagons, according to Nashville police, gained the title, "Black Maria" in Nashville. Decades ago, Nashville's first prisoner carried in a spring wagon drawn by two horses, was a large negro. Some observing "wiscrackers" consequently dubbed the vehicle "Black Maria."

DON'T BLAME SCIENCE WHEN WE ABUSE IT

Because the triumphs of applied science have made us marvelously productive, but have left us unable to make full use of the things we produce, many people have jumped to the conclusion that it is science itself that is at fault.

We hear, periodically, demands that science "declare a holiday"; that new inventions, discoveries and research generally be held in abeyance until the race has had time to catch up with its own cleverness.

One of the best answers to this demand comes from Sir James Jeans, famous British astronomer and physicist. Addressing a meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science in Aberdeen, Sir James declared himself as follows:

"Scientific knowledge is transmitted from one generation to another, while acquired characteristics are not. Thus, in respect to knowledge, each generation stands on the shoulders of its predecessor, but in respect to human nature both stand on the same ground.

"These are hard facts, which we cannot help or alter, and which—we may as well admit it—may wreck civilization. If there is an avenue of escape, it does not, as I see it, lie in the direction of less science but of more science."

It is one of the ironies of existence that the achievements of science are two-edged tools.

The discovery of vast sources of physical power makes it possible for us to do an enormous amount of work with far less effort than our grandfathers had to use; but it also makes it possible for us to blow ourselves out of existence, and if we indulge in another world war we may do precisely that.

George Glass has tried coming back from fishing trips and attempting to make his stories stand up. This time, when he got back from Colorado streams, he brought along kodak pictures to prove the number and the size.

However, John Howe and Bob Scroggs came back from northern New Mexico a while back and made bare-faced admission that it was cheaper to buy fish than to pay the license and take chances on catching some. Those boys evidently went up there to eat, not to fish.

A country boy moved to the city and then came back to the country for a visit. He said the only difference between living in the country and in the city is that in the country you go to bed feeling all in, and get up feeling fine, whereas in the city you go to bed feeling fine and get up feeling all in.

What Has Gone on Before Mary Barrett, music student, falls in a radio contest for a two-year scholarship in Milan with the eminent teacher and opera coach, Giulio Monteverdi. Despite parental objection, she starts for Italy with $500 of her own to carve out a career in Milan; she shares lodgings with Muriel, an embryo painter, in a student's abode conducted by Signora Frappazini, a broken down opera singer and studio with a shabby old teacher, Maestro Galuppi. Time and certain heedless moments of trifling extravagance exhaust Mary's pitiful bankroll and she finds herself in debt. Bill Huston, a well-to-do young American, in love with Mary, eager to help her out of her plight, hands her his purse.

Chapter II Mary pushed away the wallet Bill Huston had extended with an intimation that she was able to help herself. Arguments ceased as a resounding knock at the door and the raucous voices of Signora Frappazini was heard clamoring, "Signorina Barrett, I want my rent!" Galuppi laughingly interrupted, "She was probably the worst 'Lucia' that ever stepped on a stage; I know—because I sang with her." Galuppi ran across the room to the piano and commenced to play, in heavy legato chords, the introduction to the "Sextette" from "Lucia." With a quick motion, Galuppi instructed Muriel, Muriel and Bill to start singing. The pounding on the door increased in volume as they sang the "Sextette" with enough noise, gesture and enthusiasm to amply compensate for the two missing members. Signora Frappazini finally burst in. She was fat and very formidable looking, but despite her ferocious aspect there was music in her soul. Stopping in the doorway, she listened to the familiar "Sextette," and the expression on her face softened. Suddenly, recalling the purpose of her visit, she frowned and shouted above the din, "Signorina Barrett, if you don't pay your rent, you go!" Paying no attention to her, the singers continued to exhibit their vocal powers. Signora Frappa-

Personals

Mrs. Paul Brown returned Wednesday from Austin where she went to enter her son, Graham, in the University of Texas.

Frank Flournoy, who has been in bed for several weeks with a broken leg, the result of a motorcycle accident, was able to walk on crutches Wednesday afternoon.

The Rev. Woody Smith, pastor of East 4th Street Baptist church at Big Spring, and Mrs. Smith attended the Grimm revival services Tuesday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Hinson, and daughter Babs, were here from Stanton Wednesday.

Mrs. Rayburn and daughter, Mrs. Mrs. A. P. Simpson, of Odessa, were in Midland Wednesday.

Mrs. W. B. Smith and daughter Miss Sylvia, of Odessa were in town Wednesday.

Mrs. Harry Watson, of Penn Well, and Mrs. Ken Ellis of Odessa were shopping in Midland Wednesday.

Mrs. M. S. Doss of Seminole was in town Wednesday.

Appreciating the fact that Galuppi had merely diverted the Signora's demand for rent for a few hours, Mary nervously admitted, "I haven't the slightest idea." Gently placing his hands on her shoulders, Bill gazed deeply into her eyes. "Mary, why don't you marry me? I've only asked you about a dozen times. Seriously, Mary, you'd have a swell time—just going around thinking up new ways of spending money."

Mary protested, "But, Bill, I don't love you."

"Ah, but you will," insisted Bill, "when you get to know me better."

Muriel interrupted to remark sarcastically, "If you weren't so determined to save your voice for opera, that job at the Cafe Roma is still open."

"Cafe Roma?" Bill reflected, trying to recall the establishment.

"Yeah, the cellar joint down the street," enlightened Muriel.

Snatching up her hat, Mary quickly walked to the door.

"Where are you going at this hour, and what's the hurry?" Muriel called after her.

"I'm going to get that job at the Cafe Roma," Mary replied, and ran downstairs.

Bill called after her, "Mary, are you sure you won't marry me?"

"I'll answer like you best, Bill, no matter how many other men I marry," replied Mary, as she continued on her way.

The Maestro Rebels Giulio Monteverdi paced up and down the length of his studio. At intervals he turned angrily and glared significantly at the clock.

"Ten-thirty," shouted Giulio, advancing towards the piano threateningly, "and you walk in as if nothing happened. You know that Mademoiselle Lally was to be here at 10 o'clock for her lesson."

SMU UNCOVERS 2 GOOD BACKS

DALLAS—Robert Wilson, Southern Methodist university's 150 pound star halfback who was placed on the third team in the season's first practice, has been moved up to the second team. Wilson continues to be the Mustang's speediest back and has been showing good form in passing and punting the past few days. Morrison hopes to make a triple-threat man out of Wilson, and his general improvement has given the Mustang mentor everything desired.

Wilson is being used at the tailback position from which he can run ends, pass, punt, and take cut-back plays into the line. When Wilson is not in the game, either Whitley Bacucus or J. R. Smith will be holding down his position. Bacucus lettered at halfback on the 1932 team, but failed to report for training last fall. His return to the squad has added much strength to the Mustang backfield.

The coaches think they have found a man in their backfield that will make Southwest conference football fans forget about Ernie Koy and Harrison Stafford, former Texas university football stars. The young man that they plan on doing the trick is Harry Shuford, 190 pound fullback from Tyler, where he played on the state championship high school team in 1933. Shuford, who bears a close resemblance to Ernie Koy in general appearance, is playing his second year on the Mustang team and is due to bear the brunt of the backfield attack. He is the battering ram type and is a hard man to stop on the plinges. As a blocker, he is the best man that has worn the Mustang colors since Smack Reiso, starred for the Ponies on the 1923 conference championship club.

One Night of Love--

also know that Mademoiselle Lally will arrive when she pleases.

"So! Even my assistant has to remind me that Monteverdi is being made a silly fool of by his pupil. Just because--"

Giovani agreed with the maestro. "M-m-m-m, just because?"

"Giovani, you are right," Monteverdi exclaimed with irritation.

"When a teacher makes love to his pupils, he becomes the pupil. Well, my student days are over. I have wasted enough time trying to teach pretty women how to sing between kisses."

Angolina, Guilio's servant for years, opened the door and ushered in Mademoiselle Lally. She walked directly to Guilio and placed her arms around him. Still further annoyed with Lally's display of intimacy, Guilio pushed her away rather forcibly.

"Darling, surely my 'Rigoletto' wasn't quite as bad as that last night?" inquired Lally.

Giovani buried his head in a music score in order to avoid witnessing this embarrassing situation.

"Your 'Rigoletto' was bad," declared Guilio, shaking his finger threateningly. "Every opera you have sung for the past three months has been getting worse and worse--and why?"

Lally sought to silence his tirade, but the great teacher continued to voice his anger.

"Let me finish," Guilio continued, "when you first came to me, I had great hope for you, but now--" indicating the fulfury of it all with a stormy gesture.

Lally ignored Monteverdi's wrath. "You know Guilio," she purred, "I used to be impressed by your growling. But you can't order me around any more, I know you too well, darling."

Realizing that he had completely lost control over her, and, trying to check his own turbulent emotions, Guilio remonstrated coldly. "Of course, it's all my fault. I'm a fool and we can't work together. I order you to do scales and you say that my voice thrills you. I want you to sing and you want me to make love!"

Monteverdi turned to her furiously. "You've wasted enough of my time; get out of my studio and stay out!"

"Look here, Monteverdi," she said icily, "you're not going to throw me out!"

"But I am throwing you out!" he replied, firmly pushing her to the door. "Don't make me lose my temper, Lally, or I will strangle you!"

Standing tearfully in the doorway, Lally sulked. "You will be sorry for this."

Guilio gently wiped away her tears with a corner of his handkerchief and agreed with her heartily. "Of course I will. I am a fool. I have no doubt that I will come to you tomorrow and tell you how sorry I am!"

Sensing that she had struck a sensitive sympathetic chord in Guilio's make-up, Lally looked up at him hopefully and started to edge back into the studio, but Monteverdi, again the stern, unrelenting Maestro, pushed her out into the courtyard.

"Maybe I'll do that, but as for teaching you again? Never!" Guilio's make-up, wrapped in gloom and sadness. You hear one of those fellows speak in a funeral tone: "I can tell I feel a little better today; but that means I'll be worse tomorrow." I say to that kind of bird: "You ain't got religion; you got a bad liver. Take two cathartics a night for two nights and follow with salts. You'll die or you'll smile when you're through."

"I had trouble baptizing my first convert. It's hard to get a country guy in a baptism; he wants a creek."

"When I was ordained I wasn't full fledged in the lingo. 'What do you think of predestination?' I was asked. 'I pass,' I said. 'And what do you think of foreordination?' 'I'm out,' I said. 'Well, what about election?' 'Well, all I know is that Joe Bailey got beat. But, as I have said, I'm not all fool. I finally caught one I could throw back. 'What would you do if someone in-

Attired in an Italian peasant costume, Mary moved about, serving pastries from a large tray. As she passed Guilio's table, he mechanically helped himself. Looking at Mary appreciatively, Giovani whispered, "Pretty girl, eh, Maestro?"

Guilio disinterestedly shrugged his shoulders.

The orchestra leader snapped his fingers at Mary, who began singing a simple ballad. Mary's captivating voice rang clearly above the diminishing clatter of dishes and conversation.

At the first note, Guilio raised his head in rapt admiration and listened.

be a Christian, you don't have to eat milk toast and oatmeal--and I don't use either. You don't have to walk doubled up, wrapped in gloom and sadness. You hear one of those fellows speak in a funeral tone: "I can tell I feel a little better today; but that means I'll be worse tomorrow." I say to that kind of bird: "You ain't got religion; you got a bad liver. Take two cathartics a night for two nights and follow with salts. You'll die or you'll smile when you're through."

"An old sister has been criticizing my methods as being barnstorming. Now I'll give her my respects; everytime I look at her out here in front of me I think of a menagerie."

"I may not have all my teeth; but I cut 'em all. I'm not so great a fool as some of you think. I was ordained to preach by the Baptist church; but that denomination will ordain a donkey."

"It's a long way from the good old Methodist sanctification meetings to a Methodist bridge party. I'm startin' to take off your peelin'." The sentiment of the Methodist, the theology and gospel of the Baptist, the zeal of the Christian and the education of the Presbyterian churches have stood as the main characteristics of those denominations. It was the sabbath day of the Methodist church when its clergymen stopped preaching sanctification. Amen.

"The greatest need of the day is a revival of the Methodist Holy Ghost, sanctification, love feast doctrine. I can hold Methodist meetings--have in fact, several times--but I can't baptize their babies."

"I'd rather die shouting than on three-two beer. I told an audience that once when they tried to choke a woman to death because she let her Communion veil when she got happy in one of my meetings. I didn't get a sanctified run from that innin' out."

"I'm not asking for a testimony meeting tonight; if anybody got up and started in I'd probably tell him he was a liar. It's too early in the campaign. An old lady got up once in my revival and, with a billy goat quiver in her voice, blessed the Lord and started to tell how she had remained in the straight and narrow sulted you on the street?" I was asked. "Why, I'd knock the devil outa him," I said. "But you should take the insults for Jesus' sake. I was admonished. I'd knock hell outa him for Jesus' sake, I said. You don't have to be a sissie to be a Christian."

"The biggest institution in Midland is the church--not your banks, office buildings and other remarkable expressions of a progressive consciousness. Take your churches out of civilization and in ten years we will be eating each other."

"I like a sassy God. When he marshalled his forces and put them under control of Michael, one fighting Irishman who got through the gates, the devil got his ears beat off. 'See, hee, hee!' The devil was caught by the nape of the neck and the seat of the breeches and sent flying through space. He lit on the earth, and straightaway became the daddy of everything objectionable and bad. Why don't we emulate the action of the heavenly host? We have the same devil in our midst, the same God to fight for and the same instruments with which to fight."

"There's nothing in man's natural state to recommend him to God."

"Midland is a slick backsliding spot. In the days when I was boy the Van Zandt 'wash hole' was probably the best in the country. We used to 'wash'--not bathe. That was in the days before the girls joined the boys in swimming. We'd frog in with nothing on but our freckles and a sore toe for a bath--and we'd get it."

San Bernardino, Calif., requiring time of a year and seven months. The only inhabited places passed were old Fort Concho, Tularosa, N. M., and Tucson, Ariz., with the exception of a few scattered ranches.

He belonged to Company C of the Minute Men, fighting Indians under Captain George H. Adams. Mr. Lee was a sergeant. The company worked along the San Sabal-McCullough area. He and a brother started ranching in what is now Coke county back in 1873, remaining there until 1880.

In 1887, when Mr. Lee and his family came here, he had halted his herd of cattle east of Big Spring, he came on here alone to determine the advisability of bringing his herd westward by way of Baird lake, the Five Wells ranch and on to the Seminole area. Mrs. Lee drove the wagon and Dick Lee, eldest son, rode a horse bareback. Tom Granshaw helped bring the herd here.

BUZZARD IS GIRL'S PET

WINCHESTER, Tenn. (U.P.)--Gabriel, a full-grown buzzard, is the unusual pet of Miss Jewel Wilson. She found the bird in the Cumberland mountains when it was about three months old. He now follows his mistress about the town, flying little but hopping and skipping along. Gabriel waits outside stores while Miss Wilson shops, roasts atop a chimney and takes several baths daily in a special tub in the Wilson yard.

TICK-TOCK OF INFERNAL MACHINE PREVENTS HOUSTON DOCK BLAST

HOUSTON, Sept. 20. (U.P.)--A plot to blow up Clinton dock of the Houston ship channel, occupied by the Morgan Steamship line, with more than 300 pounds of dynamite, was frustrated today, police revealed.

Sailors, attracted by the ticking of a clock, found the explosive under a corner of the dock beneath the office. The clock was set to go off at 6 p. m.

John Paurote, city arson investigator, said the machine was a perfect setup, made by an electrician. If exploded, it would have demolished the wharf.

The dock has been the scene of numerous labor fights.

RICE FRESHMEN ARE PROMISING

HOUSTON (U.P.)--The greatest crop of freshmen believed ever to report for instruction at Rice Institute answered the practice call this week of Freshmen Coach Ed die Dyer.

It's the finest squad of freshmen ever seen on the Owl gridiron, veteran spectators told Dyer.

The squad consisted of 35 men. At least 20 of them, according to records, were outstanding high school stars.

Hefty and strong tackles predominated. There was not a "minnow" in size among them.

In the group that reported Dyer found a great array of linemen, especially the kind that appear to be the big stones in a mighty wall.

At least six freshmen tackles weighed more than 190 pounds. Heaviest freshman to report was J. F. Crawford, Fort Worth, a 220-pound tackle. Art Hughes of San Antonio, weighed 215 pounds.

Marion Asbell, former Reagan star, all city and all state back two years ago, answered the call. He weighed 210 pounds.

Among other hefty tackles that reported were Bill Brandon, Fort Worth, 190; Chick Caldwell, Amarillo, 179; Frank Tegdel, Fort Worth, 170; B. W. Klindworth, Dallas, 190; J. Nance, Mexico, 180; Mike Seale, San Antonio, 205; and E. Vickers, Fort Worth, 185, all backs.

Tom Anderson, Bay City, 190; Abe Elliott, Houston, 190, centers. J. F. Crawford, Fort Worth, 220; J. Daugherty, San Antonio, 200; Bill Fitz, Jewitt, 190; Herbert May, Houston, 190; and Henry Stern, Houston, 200, all tackles.

Hal Massey, Fort Worth, 190, and J. Moore, also of Fort Worth, 190, as guards.

countered some gas at 2587 feet. The No. 1 J. S. Means, now in hard anhydrite, is in section 2, block A-35, public school land survey.

Claire Coffin, in charge of geophysical work for the Stanioind company, was here today.

Humble No. 2 R. M. Means, Andrews county wildcat in section 6, block A-19, public school land survey, is shut down at 2625 feet in salt and anhydrite to mix circulating mud.

With total depth of 1825 feet in salt and anhydrite, Humble No. 1 Walker, wildcat test in section 6, block A-43, public school land survey, Andrews county, is shut down waiting on casing.

Pecos county's newest pool opener, the Tex-Mex No. 1 Nettoville, in section 59, block 8, H. & G. N. survey, swabbed for 20 hours at the rate of 40 barrels per day. Total depth is 2290 feet in sand and lime, with increase in pay noted from 2277 to 2285 feet. There is an estimated 1,500,000 to 2,000,000 cubic feet of gas present.

In a 40 minute drill-stem test from 5143 to 5227 feet, Grisham & Hunter No. 1 Fee, in section 10, block 50, Reeves county, was found to have 1300 feet of water in the hole. Preparations are being made to shoot the well.

Drilling is again under way in the Sayre No. 1 Howe, Winkler county gasser in section 25, block B-11, public school land survey. The test, which has been delayed by heavy gas, is drilling ahead in sand at 2700 feet after cementing 6 5-8 inch pipe at 2680 feet.

A gauge on the Landreth No. 1 Scharbauer, closely watched, Ector county wildcat, showed 14,580,000 cubic feet of gas. At present tools are stuck in the hole. Total depth is 4067 feet in lime. Location is in section 20, block 44, township 1 north, T. & F. survey.

The Upton county deep test in section 197, block F, the Gulf No. 103 McElroy, is making slow progress in lime and chert, the last depth reported being 10,776 feet.
