Girls Find Common Bond in Misfortune In Hitch-hiker Role

By MISS LESLIE SHAW
Written for NEA Service

My first experience without any money at all on this cross-country jaunt as a homeless wanderer occurred in a smart Florida resort town. It was the hardest possible place to get along without cash, for everything in town was pay-as-you-enter.

For the first night the Y. W. C. A. sheltered me and gave me meals the following day, during which I applied for ten different jobs, having first asked the state director for an emergency relief position. I was soon made to realize that to other relief workers I was pretty much of a deserter in having given up a good job at a hard post. Nothing for me.

Also nothing as governess, as advertising copy-writer, as newspaper reporter, which once I had been. I tried for a job as waitress. Experience? No. Sorry, no opening.

At the end of 24 hours I realized that the secretary of the Y was giving me good advice when she urged me to go back wherever I came from.

That wasn't in my program, however, so I went to the federal transient bureau. Giving my right name only to the director, I was soon enrolled under an assumed name as a client and a protégé of Uncle Sam. I was taken to the women's shelter, the former home, now in some disrepair, of a millionaire, situated among giant cactuses and palms by the edge of a famous bay.

"My eye! Why does anybody ever want to leave here?"

"They don't," my case-worker told me, and she was right.

Paid for Extra Work

The house was spotlessly clean and the first meal was a revelation. The food was extremely good, although simple and all prepared by one cook, the only paid worker. The clients, as they were called by officials, did all the other work in shifts of four hours each.

This was in exchange for our board and manure for an additional five hours a week we received 90 cents. It interested me that few of the girls and women passing questioned that they had actually earned the 90 cents. It didn't occur to them that in doing work involved purely in the care and feeding of the group, they were creating no surplus, no commodities that had cash value. The majority of them didn't think much about the whole proceeding. They were there because they were stranded. When the case-worker made arrangements for them to go back home to relatives, job, or the local welfare, they went.

As I looked about me in the dining room, I tried to analyze them.

At my table were three young girls, Estelle, Marie, and Pauline. Estelle was a former dance hall hostess who was no longer pretty and was separated from her husband; she was apathetic, relying on her case-worker to take care of her plans.

Pauline was a child's nurse (See HITCH-HIKER, page 4)

RITES WITH MASONIC HONORS, READ OVER BROOKS LEE, MIDLAND PIONEER

Funeral services, with Masonic honors, began at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon for Brooks W. Lee, 83, early settler of the Midland area, who died Thursday morning. The Rev. L. E. Milican of El Paso, cousin of Mrs. Lee and second pastor of the Baptist church of Midland, is here to preach the funeral sermon and conduct the burial service.

Numerous friends and relatives from distant points had arrived here this morning to attend the funeral. Mrs. Lee and all of the ten surviving children were at the bedside of Mr. Lee before his death, as were most of the 38 grandchildren and 23 great grandchildren. The four living sons are Dick Lee of Lovington, Young, George and Robert Lee of Midland. The daughters are Mrs. L. E. Eber of Pecos, N. M., Mrs. Mollie Ramsey, John Woods, O. W. Roberts and O. F. Wells and Miss Jennie Merle Lee of Midland.

Mr. Lee's death followed an illness which had lasted for almost a week, growing out of a fall which he sustained some time ago and a general weakened condition. The funeral service was held at his home on North Big Spring street, the Ellis funeral parlors being in charge.

STRIKERS ASKED TO RENEW WORK; FDR SPOKESMAN

Strike Leaders Fear Peace in Near Offing

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Sept. 21. (AP) President Roosevelt, on the basis of a report from the board of inquiry into the cotton textile industry, called textile strikers today to return to their jobs.

There were indications that the president regards the report as an instrument to lasting peace and counts strongly on it.

"Settlement of the problems involved will be reached with the exercise of a spirit of cooperation and fair play on both sides," he said. Strike leaders, en route to Washington for decision on a plan, felt that peace is near.

Lindy and First Born Before Tragedy Struck

Attention of the world has reverted to the Lindbergh baby, pictured above in its father's arms, kidnaped and murdered near the Saurland mansion of his parents. A teuton is being held in connection with the case.

ARREST OF SUSPECT BRINGS TO CLOSE INTERNATIONAL SEARCH

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—The Lindbergh baby kidnaping case—the most sensational crime of modern times—drew near a solution with spectacular swiftness last night after the arrest of a German fugitive and the recovery of part of the $50,000 ransom.

The prisoner is Bruno Richard Hauptmann, 35, an alien and a carpenter by trade, who entered the United States in 1923 as a stowaway while on parole from a German prison.

His wife and nephew, Hans Mueller, also were held for questioning.

In the garage of the Hauptmann home in the Bronx—but a few miles from where Dr. J. F. Condon, the intermediary known as "Jafsie," paid over $50,000 ransom for the baby later found dead—$13,750 of the ransom bills were discovered cached in the sash of the door.

Police Commissioner John F. O'Ryan made the announcement of Hauptmann's arrest.

Lyle spoke for the combined forces of investigators that apprehended the alien—federal agents, New Jersey troopers and New York city police.

"In your opinion," O'Ryan was asked, "does this solve the Lindbergh kidnaping?"

O'Ryan conferred for a minute with J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the bureau of criminal investigation of the department of justice, and with H. Norman Schwarzkoff, head of the New Jersey state police.

He said:

"Yes, it will."

Making public full details of the arrest, which occurred Tuesday, O'Ryan said Hauptmann, a carpenter and cabinet maker, admitted he worked as a carpenter in the neighborhood of the Lindbergh home.

Detectives have established, further, the commissioner said, that Hauptmann had access to a lumber yard in the neighborhood where timber was found bearing the same mark as the lumber used to make the ladder—in which the kidnaper climbed about 10 o'clock the night of March 1, 1932.

O'Ryan disclosed that Hauptmann had a criminal record in Germany, saying:

"Despite the fact that Hauptmann denied that he had a criminal record, I have been advised that he admits he was on parole and escaped as a stowaway from Germany to prevent his return to prison there."

Identification of Hauptmann followed immediately with the announcement of his arrest.

John Peronne, taxicab driver of the Bronx, picked Hauptmann from the police lineup, it was reported, as the man who gave him a dollar to take a note to the Condon home in the Bronx the night of March 12, 1932—12 days after the blue-eyed, blonde son of Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh was snatched from his crib in the second floor nursery of the family home in the lonely Saurland mountains.

Commissioner O'Ryan first said "witnesses" identified Hauptmann as the man to whom the ransom was paid.

By this it was assumed the commissioner meant Dr. Condon.

Commissioner O'Ryan, in response to questions, said only that Hauptmann was "identified." He declined to say in what phase of the case the identification was made, or give details.

Seldom has a clue been traced so quickly to its denouement.

Lyle recalled the presidential order for recall of gold and gold certificates. He was suspicious and took the number of the automobile. Later, he turned the note over to police. It was checked at the bank—again, one of the Lindbergh bills had turned up.

Of this phase of the apprehension, the commissioner related:

"The operator of the gas station described the customer who passed the $10 gold certificate in an almost identical fashion as the one described by a Fordham shoe store proprietor.

In the Hauptmann house, O'Ryan said, a pair of shoes was found that had been purchased in this store.

Earlier, the tracing of the tell tale ransom bill had been facilitated by suggestions that those receiving the bill mark either a street address or automobile license number on the bills of the one passing the (ransom) bill.

This, apparently, had been done by the filling station operator.

"Securing the name and address of the owner of the automobile license number appearing on the bill," O'Ryan said, "the investigators kept the premises under surveillance."

"Because of the importance of the case and the danger of the lost possible slip-up, the men acted with caution and at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning, Bruno Richard Hauptmann was seen to leave his residence in the automobile bearing the license which appeared on the bill and started toward Yorkville with the detectives following.

"When his car reached Tremont and Park avenue, the detectives halted Hauptmann's car, directed him to get out, and searching him, found another $20 gold certificate identified as part of the Lindbergh ransom.

"He was immediately taken back to his house and while questioned there admitted passing the $10 and $20 gold certificates found by the police." He denied, however, all knowledge of the Lindbergh ransom money.

"Meanwhile, a search of the place was instituted for a pair of shoes located and identified by the Fordham shoe store proprietor was found under the floor of the garage and in the sash of the door.

"From the many conflicting stories Hauptmann has told detectives," O'Ryan said, "we learned that he is 35 years old, born in Saxony, German army, stowed away on the steamship Washington, arriving in the United States at New York in 1923.

"He stated he had odd jobs about the city until 1926, when he married and made his home in the Bronx.

"Strangely enough he explained that shortly after the ransom money was paid, he quit working and devoted his time to trading in the stock market. He explained the money was the result of careful savings and the gold certificates as foresight, with word of the supposed inflation shortly after President Roosevelt took office.

"However, in tracing back to the bank which he stated issued him the gold certificate, we got a blank denial of each phase of his story.

"Somewhat significant is an admission that he had been employed in the neighborhood of the Lindbergh's Hopeville home as a carpenter.

"In addition, the detectives have established beyond question that he had access to a lumber yard where lumber bearing a peculiar mark similar to that found on the lumber in the ladder, which was found at the scene of the kidnaping is to be had.

MUST FIRST FACE EXTORTION CHARGE

NEW YORK, Sept. 21. (UP)—Bruno R. Hauptmann, arraigned at West Farms court, was bound over for a hearing Monday and was held without bail on a charge of unlawfully receiving the Lindbergh ransom money.

Gov. Harry A. Moore of New Jersey asked extradition of Hauptmann in a warrant charging him with the murder of Charles Lindbergh Jr. The warrant stated specifically that he was wanted in Hunterdon county on a murder charge.

DONNELLY HEADS LUNCHEON CLUB

Alden S. Donnelly of the Honolulu Oil Corp., Ltd., secretary-treasurer of the body last year, was elected president; Fred Wilcox of the Magnolia Petroleum company, vice-president, and Fred S. Wright of the California company secretary-treasurer.

Twenty-six attended, and indications exist for 30 at the next meeting. There were 20 members last year, about 15 of whom regularly attended. Meeting place is the ballroom of Hotel Scharbauer.

Retiring officers were Charles A. Mix of the California company, president; John E. Adams of the California, vice president; Alden S. Donnelly of the Honolulu Oil Corp., Ltd., secretary-treasurer.

VANDERBILT WINS YACHT RACE THU.

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 21. (AP)—A gambler of the sea, all his chips on the rolling board, Harold S. "Mike" Vanderbilt diced desperately with the winds Thursday to score one of the most amazing triumphs in all the history of the fabled America's cup.

He shot his snowy hulled Rainbow out of the sea haze and the smoky muck of the huge trading fleet to overcome a lead of almost seven minutes in 15 miles and add three minutes and 26 seconds to his first victory margin of the series over "O. O. Sloop," a blue bolt challenger from Great Britain, Endeavour.

Not in the memory of the oldest states pouring steadily from the fringe of the astounding drama was there a recollection of anything like this ever taking place before in the history of the international racing clips that goes all the way back to 1851.

And, instead of an all but unconquerable lead of three straight victories, which he had by the mutual consent of all except Vanderbilt at the half way mark, the Englishman's lead was only 2 to 1, with anything likely to happen in the thrilling battle of the great sailing sloops.

Range Sheep Market Said Not Disturbed

SAN ANGELO, (AP)—Opening of the government sheep buying program in West Texas failed to disturb the range sheep market and ranchmen, who are selling yearling ewes at $1.50 to $4 per head, have made money on their investment.

They can "fall back" on the $2 per head which the government is paying for ewes one year old and under for the winter.

"The purchasing program for the Angora goats at $1.40 per head has not started but orders are expected soon and goat raisers are banking on the program in making their plans for the winter.

Meanwhile, both wool and mohair markets in the range country were quiet but warehouses and ranchmen holding the so-called "free" clips are not satisfied with current prices and are awaiting the government's order of last week that sheep sold in the emergency purchasing plan must be "peeled" before payment is made. Many believe this will be a strengthening factor in the wool and mohair market.

Between 35 and 40 per cent of the fat mohair clip is in, according to ranchmen and warehousemen of the Kerville-Bandera-Rocksprings section. In those towns more than 400,000 of the anticipated 1,410,000 pounds was in. Fall wool these sections, expected to be light, will come in between now and Oct. 1. Warehousemen are advising customers not to shear the eight-months wool this fall. The hold-over is small but the market has been discouraging.

DEVELOPMENT URGED

BIG SPRING.—The chamber of commerce oil committee in a joint supply houses Thursday endorsed a program to encourage development of Big Spring as an oil center.

Champion Weight Mover to Pull 10 Tons Here

Jack Kern of San Angelo, holder of the title of the world's champion weight mover, will give a free demonstration of his strength at 2:30 Saturday afternoon on Main street.

He is brought here by Boy Scout Troop 54 and proceeds of the demonstration will go to scout work.

At McCamey recently, Kern moved up grade a tank load of gasoline and motor oil weighing approximately 4,000 pounds. He also moved the same truck when its load had been augmented by the weight of 13 men.

Ten tons will be moved by Kern here.

While he weighs barely 160 pounds, the little strong man is a remarkable specimen of physique. For 21 years he wrestled and built his body.

Every day I take time for calisthenics," he says. He has made numerous lectures on the dynamic tension theory of physical culture, and has staged his feat of pulling heavy loads in every state of the union.

He has successfully defended his title against 14 foreigners and 28 Americans.

A STRONGER LEAGUE

News that the council of the League of Nations has welcomed Soviet Russia as a member of the league means that this unwieldy and sometimes rather unreal international organization is ready to take a step which should properly have been taken several years ago.

Whatever the league may or may not amount to as an international force, it is at least obvious that it could never realize its full potentialities so long as it excluded one of the strongest nations on earth from membership. With the United States staying out, of its own desire, and Soviet Russia excluded like a card-sharper from an exclusive bridge club, the league was doomed from the beginning to be only partly effective.

Admission of the Soviet union does not, of course, mean that the league will immediately become all that its founders hoped. But at least it will be operating on sounder basis than it has in the past. Part of its peculiar element of unreality will be gone.

Millions of Visitors Will Leave Millions of Dollars in Texas

Texans will show their State! Visitors will show their interest, admiration, respect for its history and confidence in its future. Some will become citizens, others will leave with a heart full of love for Texas, and admiration for its citizenship.

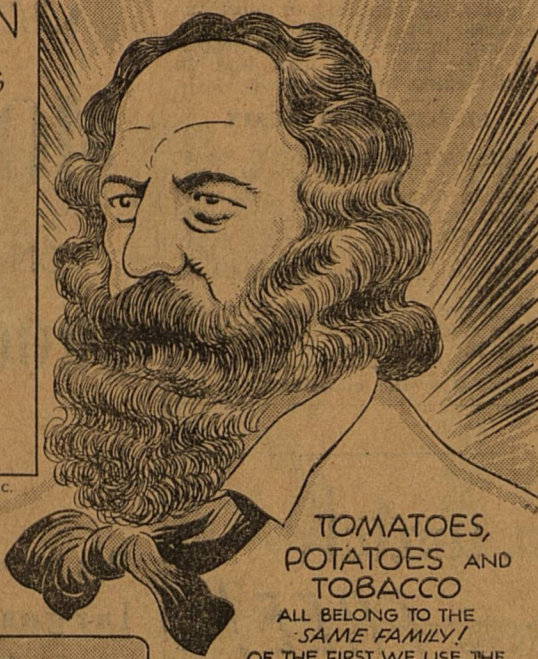

Statistics show that the influx of visitors alone warrant the statement that the project will show a profit. It is expected that 20,000,000 outside visitors will be attracted to Texas. A conservative estimate of their expenditures is $640,000,000. Probably $25,000,000 in gasoline tax will be collected. Thus the State will receive a very large margin of profit on whatever investment is made in the Centennial.

"Despite the fact that Hauptmann denied that he had a criminal record, I have just been advised that he admits he was on parole and escaped as a stowaway from Germany to prevent his return to prison there."

An indication of the imminence of further far-reaching developments was seen in brief comment from Hoover in response to questions about jurisdiction and charges to be preferred against Hauptmann.

"There are many angles to this case, but we can't talk about them now. I'm leaving that all up to General O'Ryan," he said.

O'Ryan specifically refused to answer a query as to what charge had been filed.

"Is this a murder case?" Commissioner O'Ryan was asked. "It is a case with several phases. Otherwise I have no comment." O'Ryan said he would turn the case over to the Bronx district attorney. An attaché of that office, who was present, said with respect to jurisdiction that "The Bronx will cooperate with New Jersey."

In New Jersey, Governor A. Harry Moore—closely identified with the case from its inception—said he was informed extortion charges would be tentatively placed against the fugitive from Germany until extradition proceedings could start in New Jersey.

A $25,000 reward is still posted in Jersey for solution of the kidnaping.

Around Hauptmann investigators found a web of pointed circumstances.

In all the ransom notes, the writing appeared to be that of a German or a person of German extraction. This was so on the note sent to "Jafsie" by which he made his first contact with the supposed kidnaper.

The 74-year-old professor, turned intermediary, first received a telephone call and then a note from the kidnappers which was checked against the original note together with other tokens they convinced "Jafsie" he was dealing with the real abductors.

The night the ransom money was paid—as Lindbergh sat in an automobile but a block away—a note of directions written by the same person, was handed "Jafsie."

"Jafsie" who was called down to the Greenwich police station, where Hauptmann was held, soon after the ransom money was paid.

As a crowd gathered outside the Greenwich station, Dr. Condon arrived.

A detective had hurried to his home in the Bronx to summon him. To newspapermen, who recognized him at once, he waved a greeting and said:

"Hello, boys."

Dr. Condon's home in the Bronx is not far from that of Hauptmann. Close by, too, is the cemetery where the ransom money was paid.

There Five Years

The Hauptmann home is a two-story stucco dwelling in the thickly wooded section along Needham avenue.

Tonight, there were four automobiles parked outside the house. Neighbors said police came in some of them and that the cars had been there for two days.

Neighbors volunteered the information that Hauptmann had lived in the house for about five years, that he told people he was a cabinet worker but unable to locate a job. They also said he went down to Wall street every day to "play the market."

Mrs. Hauptmann was described as from 25 to 30 years of age, a blonde of medium height with blue eyes.

The neighbors—who were free with their information when newspapermen questioned them about Hauptmann's habits—said he spent most of his time at a Bavarian beer garden close by his home.

B'Spring—Lubbock Grid Game Today

BIG SPRING.—Faced with a difficult non-titular contest with the powerful Lubbock Westerners here this afternoon, Steer coaches have been putting their charges through a last minute tapering off process.

The Lubbockers are expected to show much more than the usual early-game opposition, and Obie's boys will probably uncoil a more or less wild forward pass attack in an effort to rattle Chapman's crew enough to whip across a marker or two.

Due to be faced with an experienced forward wall that will outweigh their fourteen pounds to the man, the Bovines were expected to have little chance to stage any kind of a successful running attack. Too, the Lubbock secondary is much heavier than the locals. An open style aerial offensive seemed to be the only answer.

TROUBLE TO EASTWARD

Cause of the temporary interruption of electric service Thursday night was due to trouble east of here, the exact nature of which is unknown, E. L. Miller of the Texas Electric Service company said this morning. Source of the trouble was believed to be at Leon.

Some Hunt Husbands

There was a shy and pretty bride of 19, who, with her husband, became stranded when a small-time circus went broke nearby.

A blonde woman of about 30 called Dodo had also been in the show business, in a vaudeville act which couldn't get local booking. She was well dressed, but broke like all the rest.

BAUMGARTEN TO USE VARIED STYLE OF PLAY IN GAME WITH THE CRANES

An assortment of passes, sweeps and line stabs will be uncovered this afternoon by Head Coach Dutch Baumgarten's Bulldogs, when they open the grid season on the Crane field.

A team whose average is slightly more than 156 pounds will start, and those who have been watching the Dogs in pre-season workouts confidently expected them to win today, in spite of their being outweighed about 10 pounds to the man.

Coach Baumgarten planned to utilize every man possible, in an attempt to evaluate squadman. The fact that he coached the Cranes last year made for unusual rivalry.

The starting lineup for the Dogs:

Pos. Player Weight
LE W. McClurg 158
LG T. Miles 159
LG D. Welch 157
C R. Richman 163
RG Robt. Rankin 156
RT Bob Prothro 193
RE Bob White 168
LH J. D. Montgomery 152
RH Clyde Chandler 160
Q Roy Jones 143
F L. H. Collins 130

The backfield average of the starting eleven was listed at 148 3/4 pounds, line 164 6/7. Thirty-four men made the trip.

from New Orleans, who came to seek her fortune, which meant a man, and Marion was also from the Crescent City. It was with Marion that I finally slipped away and hitch-hiked North.

And the others? Two girls of about 15 who wore identical blue dresses and had all the earmarks of being runaways from a correctional school. But they wouldn't talk.

Unforgettable among them was Regina. That wasn't her real name, for that she never let us know; she insisted on being called Mrs. Adams. With her was her pretty 3-year-old daughter, and in the same town was her husband, whose job had washed up six months ago. In confidence she told me that she had come to this resort because, two years ago in this town, she had been hostess and manager for one of the smartest restaurants, with a good income and her own car and plenty of clothes.

That was all gone now, and no chance of getting her old job back. There was no place for her in this or in other towns.

Hoboes With a Baby

Another woman with a child barged in merrily one evening. She had on overalls, as did the baby, for they were just off a freight train. Her husband was at the men's bureau, and were going back.

"What for?" we asked, thinking of the baby.

"Oh, well, if you can't work, you might as well travel," she replied airily. Her baby didn't seem to matter.

By all odds the most hopeless group was that of older women who had come to town with the forlorn hope of being housekeepers in motherless homes or companions to nice, rich old ladies. The years of hardship had told on them, and with defeat written in every line of their faces, the chance for a job was nil.

You would think that in such a group there would be little in common, and yet we felt closely drawn together by similar experiences and the fact that this was

The years of hardship had told on them, and with defeat written in every line of their faces, the chance for a job was nil.

You would think that in such a group there would be little in common, and yet we felt closely drawn together by similar experiences and the fact that this was for the time our only home and that we were an adopted family. In reality we had more in common than we should have had with those of our former friends and family who were back in their homes in a conventional life.

The experiences you have undergone are so deep that you want to talk with those who have had the same experiences.

Many Need Companionship

For many of these women the conventional life they once knew is gone, for it involves a broken home, a lost job, or lost youth that might bring another home or opportunity. To these friends they make on the road and in temporary shelters are their only real friends and for such as these there should be some permanent provision that will include comradeship with their own kind.

Our group wasn't so dismal as this sounds, by any means. We played the piano and sang after our work was done, we hunted the cocoanuts that obligingly fell all most at our feet from tall palm trees. We picked oranges and grape-fruit, we went swimming; we watched the ever-changing waters of the tropical bay just at our door, and the moonlight on the water and on the palm trees. Tomorrow might be good or bad, it might bring a job or defeat, it might bring certainty or more insecurity. But in the meantime we were in one of the most beautiful spots known to man, and we were making the most of it.

SISTERS MEET AGAIN

QUANAHA (J.P.)—Separated for 62 years, two sisters, one of whom has lived in Quanaha for a number of years, were reunited for several weeks when Mrs. M. A. Stewart of this city visited her sister, Mrs. Mollie Cox at Lenden, California recently.

The two sisters had not seen each other since they parted in Virginia, sixty-two years ago.

I Bought a Terraplane I have paid three times as much for an automobile that was not nearly so comfortable to ride in and handle as my Terraplane. Performance is great; the economy is great. —WM. P. HOWARD, Rochester, N. Y.

We Bought a Terraplane We both being aviators, selected a Terraplane, because its lines most nearly approached an airfoil and therefore offered the least resistance to the air. We have scoured between 19 and 20 miles per gallon on trips. —MR. & MRS. PAUL B. EATON, Charlotte, N. C.

I Bought a Hudson I have owned at least 25 cars. I am thoroughly satisfied with my judgment in purchasing a Hudson, as it has performance, economy, comfort and price. —HENRY H. MCCONAUGHTY, Seattle.

I Bought a Terraplane I used to be a high priced car driver, but not after I sat behind the wheel of a Terraplane. I'd never have a car again without Road Levelers like you furnish. Smoothest riding I've ever enjoyed. —E. A. CONKLING, Cincinnati

Does it pay to take your time about buying a car? Just ask Hudson and Terraplane owners. Of the thousands of men and women who have bought new Hudsons and Terraplanes this year, 5 out of every 8 looked at several other makes of cars before they decided.

They'll tell you how much you'll be ahead if you "don't buy any car too hurriedly."

We'll be glad to show you more owners' statements like these above, as well as sworn affidavits to certify the economy and low upkeep cost enjoyed by owners of Hudson-built cars.

You'll be interested, also, in the facts about the recent nation-wide "Challenge Tests." Only one competing car dared accept a wide open challenge to prove economy and performance—and was beaten in every test.

The facts about Hudson and Terraplane are here at our showrooms for you to see—more real brass tacks information than you ever got about any cars before. Come in and ride in these cars—drive them.
