After his Ford had stopped rolling, reports said he crawled out of what was left and went back to the truck demanding to know why they should have run into him when he was going sedately along attending to his own business.

The rebeis, in sorry plight for supplies, went pillaging through numerous villages, border towns heard, causing considerable damage to tobacco fields which are the life-blood of the countryside.

How solidly Macedonia was supporting the revolt was the subject of conflicting advices.

Some sources said Kamanou was resorting to drastic measure to press Macedonians into service. Others said Macedonian men and youths, always eager for autonomy, were rushing voluntarily to his colors in large numbers.

The insurgents control areas as large as Rhode Island, Vermont and Delaware.

QUALIFYING GOLF

A form of entertainment centuries old in the history of the world but almost unknown to the average citizen will be offered Midland this afternoon and this evening in the performance of Tony Sarg's famous marionettes.

A matinee performance for children, "Uncle Remus", was presented at 2 o'clock at the High School auditorium.

"Faust, the Wicked Magician" will be presented in the auditorium at 7:30 o'clock this evening.

Both performances are under the auspices of the high school annual fund. Tickets are 10 cents and 25 cents.

NAVY SCOUT PLANES HERE

A flight of three navy scout land planes landed at the Midland airport today, reports early this afternoon showed. The flight was under command of Lieut. Ellis and was enroute from Barksdale Field in Louisiana to El Paso.

Reports of the physicians of W. L. Holmsley, veteran cowman ill at his home here, said today he was somewhat better and had some chance of recovery. After a turn for the worse Tuesday, improvement began the next day and his condition since then has remained about the same.

GOVERNOR'S DESK

Qualifying rounds of 18 holes are to be played beginning Sunday, March 10, and lasting through March 20, for positions on the ladder for the Sand Belt and Kat Kiaw teams, directors of the two clubs announced today.

The first eight men on the ladder will gain places on the Sand Belt team and the next 16 on the ladder will be available for the Kat Klaw, making a total of 24 men on the teams.

It is urged that all members of the Country club qualify as soon as possible since only two weeks will remain after March 20 in which ladder matches can be played before the beginning of the season.

THE "SECRET" OF SCOUTING (An editorial from THE ROTARIAN Magazine)

"Boys", a wise man once observed, "are like a bicycle—stable only when going somewhere." Sir Robert Baden-Powell sensed the truth of that when a quarter century ago he gave to England and to the world the Boy Scout movement.

Youngsters of the 'teen age are not philosophers; to their elders they seem to think through hands, elbows and feet as much as through their heads. They are bundles of exploding energy. The open secret for the success of Scouting is that it provides the expression they cravebut in directed channels.

Scouting has extended to almost every country, taking on local color but always holding to those fundamentals. Many individuals and organizations have given it support, for they believe in it and approve the way it attacks the "boy problem". They hope that the success it has had in the past quarter of a century will increase in at least geometrical progression in the next.

IT'S THE "THIRD HOUSE" THAT IS DANGEROUS

If you could get the seventh son of a seventh son off in a corner and ask him, man to man, what the next great political reform in the United States was going to be, he would probably tell you that it would involve adoption of the one-chamber plan by state legislatures.

This idea, which Senator George W. Norris put over single-handed in Nebraska, seems to be taking hold everywhere, for the excellent reason that it is a completely logical and sensible proposition.

The weaknesses of democratic government are nowhere more apparent than in the average state capitol. State government has grown expensive, inefficient, and

To a large extent this is because we clung to a device invented by the British back in the days when the power of the throne was a thing to be feared.

In theory, the British House of Commons and House of Lords represent very different groups. The former gets its authority from the people, the latter from the Working side by side, they are supposed to act as checks on each other so that neither class can legislate to the detriment of the other.

Because of that theory, the American state legislature has two houses. All reason for the division has vanished; what we have now is best described by Senator! Norris, who calls the two-chamber legislature "as useless as a wagon with five wheels.'

"You cannot have a two-house legislature," says the senator, "without in reality having three, for the conference committees that must be set up to iron out differences between House and Senate constitute a third body.

"Moreover, it transacts its business in an un-American and undemocratic manner. Its meetings are held in secret; there is no such thing as a roll call, and there is no record

"A bill once referred to a conference committee cannot become law unless it is agreed to by a majority of ing room of the Hotel Scharbauer the conferees. Thus it is within the power of the conference committee, in secret and without a record vote, absolutely to prevent legislation and to kill or to modify at its pleasure any proposed legislation within its jurisdiction.'

The lever which this gives to special interests to block legislation designed for protection of all citizens is too obvious to need comment; so, too, is the opening which it gives to all kinds of political chicanery and thimble-

Once the public awakens to the merits of the singlechamber plan, it is a safe bet that state after state will follow the lead of Nebraska.

While the nation feels sorrow for the Macon disaster, no one would display grief if some of the smaller gas bags in Congress would bump against the ceiling and explode.

The Hauptmann jury has decided to stay off the stage, which probably saves the audience the ordeal of bringing in a verdict for electrocution.

The resulting arrestic displayed a variety of talostics displayed a variety of tal-in writing. frs. Wade Heath read "The taff Side" by John Van Druten, story of a grandmother's birth-the story of a grandmother's birthday.

Dorothy Turner then entered and with an original verse, "Mrs. Denton, come with me, please do!

There's something in the dining room for you,", invited the guest of honor into the dining room.

Here a two-liered pink-and-white birthday cake with lighted candles reported on a mirror centering the table. Gifts were piled about the cake. After these were examined, the cake was cut and refreshments were served including pink ice cream molded in the form of roses. Pink sweet peas were plate favors. During the afternoon Mrs. Wade Heath was also presented with a gift by Dorothy Turner.

Those honoring Mrs. Denton were: Mmes. J. H. Barron, Woodie Elkin, Glenn Brunson, W. M. Midkiff, John Potter, Tandy, Mary S. Ray, Guy Brenneman, Mollie McCornick, N. C. Vest, S. H. Basham, Geo. Our confidence in our ability and capacity is constantly receiving some hard blow. We thought we were quite wise in forecasting spring from certain signs and omens. But after we have made a few remarks along that line, winter comes back, not just cold weather, but cold with the feeling of winter, not spring, in it—and we feel as we imagine a false prophet might sometimes do.

Our wholehearted approval goes to that "Little Dutch Mill" picture symphony at a Midland theatre and most particularly to that cute little quacking duck. Absolutely ducky!

women who are large always express envy of a smaller woman. "So easy to get clothes," they say. The truth is that nobody has more trouble getting clothes to fit than a very small woman. When one has gone all over town about three times and knows there isn't a dress in the whole place that will fit, one begins to wish nature would have been more generous in the matter of poundage.

were planned at the meeting of the McClintic home demonstration club at the home of Mrs. A. T. Rogers Wednesday afternoon.

Miss Myrtle Miller, home demonstration agent, assisted the members in making clothing inventories.

A short business session was also held. Plans were made to try to send council members to council meeting once a month. It is hoped to build up the club so that it will prove helpful and profitable to every woman in the two communities represented, Line and McClintic.

Some of the club women have lanted seeds in boxes for trans-danting later. planting later.

The club is piecing a quilt which will be sold to raise funds for the organization.

Eight members beside the hostess and Miss Miller were present.

Of Animal Life The most amazing revelation of The most amazing revelation of nature's intimate secrets ever attempted for the screen is to be seen in "Sequoia" (pronounced "See-Quo-Yah"), startling outdoor drama featuring Jean Parker and coming to Ritz Sun.-Mon.-Tues.

Nearly two years in the filming, the picture deals with a friendship between a deer and a mountain lion, two of nature's most deadly enemies. Raised together from the "bottle feeding" age, the two animals are shown fighting the wilds together.

In addition many other species of American wild life were "stalked" with a camera, including coyotes, bears, raccoons, eagles, rattlesnakes, baby fawns and small lion cubs.
