JOBS MUST DEVELOP

Donald Richberg's warning that the government will have to spend huge additional sums to put men to work if more employment is not created in private industry is simply a plain statement of an obvious fact.

We have carried the unemployment burden so long that it is beginning to be a crippling load. We can continue to pour out millions of dollars a week to support the jobless for a few more months or a few more seasons, but we can't continue it indefinitely.

If private industry recovers enough to provide the jobs, well and good. If it does not, Uncle Sam will have to see what he can do.

There is no escape from this dilemma. In one way or another, the men now out of work must be given a chance to become wage earners again.

Shrimp: "No, he didn't—but he hesitated a moment before refusing me."

Brown had been in the habit of borrowing books from his neighbor. This had gone on for years, but the books were never returned.

One day Green appeared at Brown's door carrying a large bookcase. "I seem to have no further use for this," he said, "and I am quite distressed in case you have no place to store my books conveniently."

SOCIETY

Memorial Service Held Monday for Mrs. Whitefield

A memorial service in honor of Mrs. Ben F. Whitefield, a charter member, was held by the woman's missionary society of the First Christian church Monday afternoon.

The service was opened with a prayer by Mrs. Geo. Ratliff who also spoke on what Mrs. Whitefield's life meant to her and to the auxiliary.

Mrs. Wade Heath read two poems, "Resignation" by Clarkson and "They Are Not Dead" by Hosmer.

Mrs. Glenn Brunson, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Rawlins Clark read "The Message."

A sketch of memories was given by Mrs. Will Elkin.

A letter from Mrs. R. D. Shults of McKinney, Texas, was read by Mrs. Paul Ryan.

Mrs. Rawlins Clark read a letter from Mrs. F. G. Jones of Fort Worth, expressing what Mrs. Whitefield's life meant to a close friend and quoting the following poem:

"If we could push ajar the gates of heaven and stand within and all God's working see, We could interpret all this grief and strife."

And while we are on the subject of refreshments, let's remember that for Thanksgiving parties, no refreshments can be more appropriate than the traditional easy to serve and delicious to eat pumpkin pie (especially if topped with whipped cream) and good coffee.

There is one kind of picnic that we want to attend or maybe to give some day—that is a "bring-what-you-like picnic."

Every guest brings just what he has a yen for, discarding all inhibitions. If you've always yearned to munch to heart's content on cheese and crackers, bring along some.

Imagine the analysis of character one could base on the results of such a picnic!

FEMININE FANCIES

BY KATHLEEN EILAND

A sure sign that Thanksgiving is coming—housewives are beginning to include cranberry sauce in their menus.

For refreshments at a party the other day a hostess we know served a new ice that is in keeping with Halloween days (of course Halloween is past now, but this ice would be good for Thanksgiving, too). It was made with orange juice, lemon juice, and prune pulp and juice, giving it tartness of taste and a dark coloring that depends for degree upon the amount of prunes used.

Have you ever eaten a sherbet made with buttermilk and pineapple? One who knows says it is delicious.

And while we are on the subject of refreshments, let's remember that for Thanksgiving parties, no refreshments can be more appropriate than the traditional easy to serve and delicious to eat pumpkin pie (especially if topped with whipped cream) and good coffee.

Mrs. Hudson Is Hostess at Second Achievement Day

The second in the series of "achievement days" for home demonstration club women of the county was held at 2:30 Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. S. Hudson in the Valley View community.

Mrs. Hudson, who is a farm food supply demonstrator has a total of 50 varieties of food canned and stored. She has 333 quarts of canned leafy, starchy, and other vegetables, fruits, tomatoes, meat, preserves and jelly in addition to fresh and dried garden and orchard produce.

In order to have plenty of space for her $72.15 worth of canned goods, Mrs. Hudson has added 24 feet of shelves to her storage facilities. The value of food stored and consumed on the Hudson farm this year (not including that eaten fresh) has been $274.45.

Attending the demonstration were: Guests, Mmes. H. L. Mattison, H. J. Heideberg, E. L. Johnson, Clay Harris, L. C. Harris, S. B. Harris, M. E. Payne, Carl Covington, Miss Myrtle Miller and Miss M. Elizabeth Wilson; members of the Willing Workers club, Mmes. E. H. Norton, J. E. Wallace, V. G. Hudson, L. Lewellyn (who was inducted as food supply demonstrator for 1935), Ray Robertson, Earl Fain, Bill Arnett, Floyd Hudson, and the hostess.

Mrs. Beauchamp Hostess to Wesley Bible Class

Mrs. W. G. Beauchamp was hostess to the regular monthly meeting of the Wesley Bible class Tuesday afternoon at her home east of town.

Co-hostesses were Mmes. Newell, Beauchamp and Lawrence Beauchamp.

Mrs. J. E. Feeler read the 95th psalm and Mrs. K. C. Minter lead in prayer.

Mrs. E. B. Patterson read "The Empty Hand."

The Rev. Kenneth C. Minter spoke on the annual conference and how conference funds are used.

The following officers were re-elected: President, Mrs. M. D. Johnson; vice president, Mrs. E. B. Patterson; teacher, Mrs. M. J. Allen; assistant teacher, Mrs. M. V. Coman; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. W. A. Black.

Mrs. Hejl Conducts Bible Class on Tuesday

Mrs. W. F. Hejl conducted the meeting of the women's Bible class of the Church of Christ at its weekly session Tuesday afternoon at the church. A lesson from the first chapter of Ezekiel was taught.

Present were: Mmes. Dabnam, Thorpe, Bewley, Jackson, Cantelona, Leggett and Hejl.

Is This Too Good for Your Cough?

Creomulsion may be a better help than you need. It combines seven helps in one. It is made for quick relief, for safety. Mild coughs often yield to lesser helps. No one can tell. No one knows which factor will do most for any certain cough. So careful people, more and more, are using Creomulsion for any cough that starts. The cost is a little more than a single help. But your druggist is authorized to guarantee it, so it costs nothing if it fails to bring you quick relief. Coughs are danger signals. For safety's sake, deal with them in the best way known. (adv.)

TOUGH LUCK IS ONCE MORE HIS

The decision "jinx" that has followed Jack Irwin, Midland boxer, in bouts over the Permian basin of West Texas, persisted last night when he was decisively and quickly whipped by Kid Whittington, clever Oklahoma boxer, at Barstow.

Out of the 10 rounds, six were called even until the referee called attention to a blow on the hip Irwin had landed. That automatically gave Whittington the round. Each had been accredited with winning two rounds.

In the seventh round, Irwin knocked Whittington through the ropes with a clean blow, and carried the fight to the Oklahoma throughout.

A return bout, either at McCamey or at Odessa, will be arranged.

"I had collected several hundred dollars and some prized personal belongings when I came here," she told the reporter, "but now I have nothing—unless it is the satisfaction that one can't lose—the satisfaction of having done the best possible while there was a chance to be of service."

She smiled gamely and asked the reporter to tell her friends she has not lost hope of doing more service in the world. "And come and see me again," she said, extending her hand.

New Noel Coward Play Is Light But Entertaining

Editor's note: The following review of Noel Coward's play "Conversation Piece" was read at the meeting of the Play Readers club this afternoon.

By MRS. DE LO DOUGLAS "Conversation Piece," Noel Coward's latest romantic comedy, was first produced at His Majesty's Theatre, Feb. 16, 1934 with Noel Coward playing the part of Paul, the charming aristocratic French Duke de Varennes, and Yvonne Printemps the part of Melanie de Tramont. Noel Coward is considered England's foremost and most expert playwright and also an exceptional actor. Aided by the lovely personality and singing of Mademoiselle Printemps the play was obviously a success from the start.

The play, now current on Broadway with Pierre Fresnay and Printemps in the leading roles, is no exception to the rule of a Coward play being exceptional and enjoyable entertainment. It is a humorous love story mixing a few cries with a lot of laughs. The action takes place in Brighton England in 1811, and the plot concerns the efforts of Paul to make money by marrying off a beautiful French girl, his protegee and ward, to a wealthy Englishman. After parading her as a lady of fashion and quality to several prospects for matrimony he is stunned by her avowal of her love for him which she found while she first saw him.

After scenes of chastisement, renunciation and remorse he realizes that he is in love with Melanie also and this provides the play with a typical, though humorous, romantic finish.

Charles W. Forbes, critic, says: "The play is decadent, moldy and so light where it aims at being heavy that it succeeds only in being trivial. It is all these things but in addition is a good show and people like it. Great crowds have already seen it and greater crowds will see it in the future. The reason is Noel Coward."

Scott Retains Title in Bout

BY BILL COLLYNS McCAMEY—Howard Scott of San Angelo, the lightweight champion of the state, won a judges' decision over Doc Kitchens the Azle Ghose of Fort Worth, in a 15 round championship bout at the T. P. tavern arena to retain his championship before a packed house. Scott weighed in at 131 while Kitchens' weight was 134 1-2. It was McCamey's initial championship bout, and the fans flocked here from all over this section.

Scott had the better of the challenger practically all the way, outpointing Kitchens and never really opening up until the latter rounds. One of the judges gave Scott nine rounds, Kitchens one and 5 draws while the other gave Scott 12 rounds, Kitchens 1 and 2 draws. The referee scored Scott 9 rounds, Kitchens two, along with four draws.

No blood was drawn in the scrap, but Kitchens took numerous hard blows to the head in the three final stanzas, and was groggy as the bell sounded. Both fighters landed several body blows. Throughout the opening rounds, Scott boxed cautiously, allowing the challenger to carry the fight to him. Scott was continually waiting with his right cocked for an opening to land his knockout punch. Several times in the last few rounds, Scott landed hard upper cuts to Kitchens' head but still the Ghost came back for more. The fans marveled at his staying in there and taking it. Scott found the challenger to be very elusive and had considerable difficulty in landing his punches. Kitchens dancing all over the ring and rushing in time after time to land hard blows to the champ's body. After carrying the fight most of the way, Kitchens was pretty well winded by the tenth round. Scott opened up in the 13th but was unable to do away with the fast and elusive Kitchens. It was a great scrap and was thoroughly enjoyed by all.

Parents Are Urged To Give Children A Hearing

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON Please remember, mother and dad, that children cannot talk well. They lack words. They cannot phrase sentences. And therefore it leaves them without defense. Suppose you, daddy, had done something you felt was right enough and at the time it just seemed like the best thing to do. Say it was a business matter, and you had used your own judgment. Perhaps some one had warned you against it but you thought their scruples foolish and lop-sided. Many a time a man knows so little about laws and codes he is left to make his own decisions and he does the best he can, depending on his own sense of justice. Suddenly you found yourself in the toils of the law. In your heart you felt outraged. You know you were morally right. But that does not count in a court.

Counselor-at-Law You cannot explain your case in terms of law. You lack words and ideas. You get your lawyer to do the talking. He can give your reasons better than you can yourself.

He gets you off because he unravels the fine threads and shows small technicalities and justifications. The gray beards ponder, struck by his astuteness. You are free, vindicated.

Your little boy or girl is often, in the same position. Children have a side, and according to their lights, a good one.

But when hauled up for something they have done, they cannot tell you why they did it, in words you, the court, would understand. They have no silver tongue, no knowledge of the urges of conduct or their own sense of childish justification. They FEEL they are right, but can't say so.

Let us take this into consideration when small culprits stand wiggling before us and say, "But I just HAD to do it. I just HAD to run, or eat it, or get into the mud, or leave the book on the step, or be late coming to supper, or bring the dog home."

Road Between the Lines Cannot we listen to the layman without a lawyer? Cannot we try to interpret what they are trying to say? Sometimes, lacking ability to show their real motives, they try to paraphrase. They think we will understand that one. Then we shout that they are lying.

Of course, there is many a real excuse that is hoped or stammered at our knee. Read between the lines and do not jump at conclusions.

DISTRICT 3 TO PLAY ON MONDAY

District 3 grid wars will be resumed next week when four of the five teams in the sector will be in action.

The Big Spring Steers are scheduled to meet the San Angelo Bobcats Monday afternoon on the Concho field at 2:30 p. m.

The Angelo outfit this season lacks a lot of being the championship team of a year ago, but the Bobcats are plenty scrappy and have a record for the season that equals that of the Steers.

The Cats boast a slightly heavier forward wall but a lighter secondary. One thing that has Big Spring coaches puzzled is the fact the Conchoans have not been scored on on a sustained offensive drive. And the Cats have flashed most of the power in the third and fourth quarters.

In spite of the rather erratic playing, the Steers are favored. The Bovines have shown steady improvement of late, and boast a wealth of substitute material that can take it under fire just about as well as the regulars.

The other battle slated for Nov. 12 is the Sweetwater-Colorado fracas at Sweetwater. The Ponies will be distinct favorites in the contest.

For several years the McCamey-Bartens have held the collar position, but Colorado appears to have the weakest team in years this season, and it appears almost certain that they will end up on the bottom. Jim Reese, new Wolf mentor, has been jinxed with poor material.

Tested in Coldest Canada! NEW WINTER GRADES at all Conoco Stations

A Sure Way To Prevent Winter Trouble for Motorists of MIDLAND

Special Winter Grades of Germ Processed Oil Give Positive Starting, Improved Gasoline Mileage and Utmost Motor Protection!

Change now to the proper grade of New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil. You'll get:

1. Positive Starting. These new lighter grades permit your motor to reach higher "cranking speed." You save your battery. You choke less—waste no gasoline.
2. Definitely more miles per gallon of gasoline. These lighter grade oils flow freely and minimize friction.
3. Utmost Motor Protection. Other oils drain away, leaving parts unprotected when you start. Only Conoco Germ Processed Oil penetrates and combines with metal surfaces, forming the "Hidden Quat that Never Drains Away." Every part is fully oiled from the first turn of the motor. It cuts down starting wear—saves repair bills!

Conoco dealers and stations have the new Winter Grades, namely, 10W and 20W—heavier grades, too—in refinery-sealed cans and in bulk. Consult the Conoco chart, fill with the proper grade—and stop worrying!

QUAKER STATE SUPERVISED LUBRICATION

In order to demonstrate the superior qualities of Quaker State Lubricants, The Quaker State Oil Refining Company will have Engineer W. L. Godley of Oil City, Pa. at our garage for three days to supervise this demonstration. He will be assisted by District Representative W. A. Nelson and Territory Salesman D. M. Myatt, both of Abilene, Texas.

MOTORISTS WHO CARE

About the proper lubrication of their cars should attend this demonstration—it will be highly educational. Regular prices will be charged for the work, but car owners will receive the benefit of expert advice in addition to the lubrication jobs.

We are using and shall continue to use proper lubricants for every part of a car as recommended by the manufacturer, and at no more cost than an ordinary grease job.
