

Broadway Hit "When Ladies Meet" Comes To Ritz Theatre

Ann Harding, Montgomery Cast Leaders

Myrna Loy Has Key Role In Attraction Opening Today

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's cinema version of "When Ladies Meet," one of Broadway's biggest hits of the current season, will be the attraction starting today at the Ritz Theatre. The Cosmopolitan photoplay version of the successful Rachel Crothers play was directed by Harry Beaumont who was given an unusually generous freedom in selecting prominent stage and screen artists to fill the principal roles of the comedy-drama.

Ann Harding and Robert Montgomery have the co-starring roles and the other principals are Myrna Loy, Alice Brady who makes her first talkie appearance in this picture following her recent stage triumphs in "Mademoiselle" and "Mourning Becomes Electra," Frank Morgan who contributed a memorable portrayal to "Reunion in Vienna," Martin Burton and Luis Alberni. Both Miss Harding and Miss Loy recently scored in "The Animal Kingdom," which Montgomery's latest hit was the submarine drama, "Hell Below."

Fleets of Fireworks

The libretto of "When Ladies Meet" is based on the conclusions of what would happen when the wife of a philandering husband meets the woman on whom this husband is now lavishing his attentions. The plot achieves its originality on the fact that its situations are so ingeniously arranged that neither of the rival women is aware of the other's identity. They are unexpectedly brought together at the home of a friend and before long take each other into mutual confidence. When each subsequently discovers who the other is, the sparks begin to fly.

Miss Harding plays the wife in danger of losing her husband, and Miss Loy has the role of the "other woman." Frank Morgan is the husband, while Montgomery plays the wily young newspaperman who, in an endeavor to show Miss Loy the futility of her hold on a married man, brings the trio together at the country home of Alice Brady where the complications come to a brilliantly dramatic turn.

The settings in "When Ladies Meet" range from a millionaire's bonhouse on the Hudson River to a rambling and picturesque remodeled farm house in Connecticut. They were designed by Cedric Gibbons, with interiors by Edwin Willis, and are said to have attracted considerable attention during the filming of the production.

Richard Barthlemess Plays Leading Role In 'Heroes For Sale' Showing Struggles Of Veteran After War

'Flaming Guns' On Queen Bill

The picture that is rated as the finest Richard Barthlemess characterization of the past few years is due to open Friday at the Ritz Theatre. It is the first National production, "Heroes for Sale," a story of war, romance and depression.

While telling an entertaining story, the picture also graphically details a man's struggle through the post-war period and the present era. The story opens with the World War in which Barthlemess is severely wounded, carrying his afflictions with him into the life he resumes at home. The veteran's up and down in his attempts at rehabilitation, the callous indifference of employers and civic officials to his plight, and the problems that have faced the unemployed man during the present time all form an integral part of this vivid, realistic story which paints things as they are.

The element of romance mingles with tragedy and comedy in lifelike proportions. The important role of the girl was assigned to beautiful Loretta Young, who has distinguished herself in films during the past two years to the extent of becoming a top-notch figure in screenland.

Another novel characterization is given to Aline MacMahon, whose versatility and ability are demonstrated in the varied roles she essays in such succeeding pictures. "Heroes for Sale" gives her an entirely different and novel role to play.

Others who make up the supporting cast of this picture are Gordon Westcott, Robert Barrat, Robert Elliott and others.

The original screen play was one of the last works of the late Wilson Mizner, one of America's most famous writers of film stories. Some of the outstanding realistic films that came from the Warner Bros. First National Studio during the past year were the work of Mizner.

Visitors, friends and members of the church are welcome at all services.

Lowie Seen In 'I Love That Man' At Ritz

Nancy Carroll, Robert Armstrong And Lowie Cady In Cast

Edmund Lowe believes that an actor should have two careers. That's why he purchased himself a ranch in northern California.

Lowie is featured with Nancy Carroll, Robert Armstrong and Lowie Cady in "I Love That Man," a Charles R. Rogers production for Paramount, which comes to the Ritz Theatre Tuesday and Wednesday. It was directed by Harry Joe Brown. During a lull between scenes on the lot, he explained his idea.

"Because an actor's imagination must be constantly stimulated and can best be stimulated by contrast, it is wise for him to have another career that takes him away from the dazzle and glamour that surround him as an actor," said Lowie.

Besides, Lowie explained, an actor knows that the years will dim his drawing power as a star and it's a good idea to have something to fall back upon when audiences turn fickle.

The six-foot, college-bred player, famed for his "hard guy" characterizations, himself owns a ranch on which he raises varied crops and experiments in crossbreeding plants. He cently produced an edible vegetable which he calls "top-epo"—a cross between a tomato and a pepper.

In "I Love That Man" he plays the role of a smooth confidence man, who never hesitates to part a sucker from his money. Miss Carroll, who knows he's a crook, falls in love with him, giving up everything to go with him on his profit-making tours of the country. By accident, Lowie stumbles into a legitimate business venture, turns success, is soon making more money than ever before. But a pair of crooks he walked out on in the old days, appear on the scene, demand to be paid off. The picture reaches a breathless climax in the action that follows.

Texas 'Sweat Shops' Probed

AUSTIN (UP)—An extensive inquiry into "sweat shops" in Texas is underway, directed by State Labor Commissioner Jack Flynn.

Three deputies, one a woman, are investigating conditions in Houston, where it is reported girls and women are forced to work long hours for paltry wages in garment factories.

Four deputies are investigating conditions in Dallas.

Flynn believes the "3-54" law, limiting maximum hours for women workers to nine hours a day and 54 hours a week, has been violated in a number of instances.

The law may be evaded by disguising the women employees after nine hours of work, but allowing them to return to garment factories at night. When a deputy of the state labor department inquires about the long hours, factory managers explain the women were allowed to return to the shop to do their own mending and sewing.

Evidence of violation is difficult to obtain because a true account of conditions by a hard working employee will lead to the loss of her job, Flynn said his deputies had found.

HOUSTON (UP)—Labor Commissioner Jack Flynn's investigation of Texas "sweatshops," announced, apparently was prompted by a series of articles written by Sue Barnett, Houston Press reporter who worked in local garment shops for a week.

Miss Barnett, who disguised herself as a worker, reported the average wage scale for experienced workers in shops here was from $3 to $4 a week. She earned as much as 23 cents in a day herself.

The Press articles were called to Flynn's attention.

Chairman In Jail So County Commission Holds Session There

LOVINGTON, N. M.—The Lea county board of commissioners met in the county jail because their chairman, J. H. Simpson, is lodged there without bail in connection with the death of Oscar Adams, Tatum cattleman.

Simpson is serving his second term as county commissioner from the second district. Last week he was arrested on a charge of killing Adams at Tatum. A coroner's jury held him responsible for the shooting, and following a preliminary hearing Friday he was bound over to district court action without bail.

In order that their chairman might be present and preside at the regular July session of the board, the other two commissioners, W. M. Snyder and R. L. Robinson, went to the jail to hold the meeting.

Personally Speaking

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Smith and daughter, Billie Blanch, and son, Sara Henry, all of Abilene, have been spending the week with Mrs. E. L. Barrick and Mrs. J. T. Brooks. Mrs. Smith is Mrs. Barrick's niece.

L. Forbes McKay, of Detroit, Mich., is in town called here by the death of his mother, Mrs. L. F. McKay. He plans to leave Monday.

Mrs. R. E. Maxwell, of Modesto, Calif., who came in Thursday night for the funeral of her mother, Mrs. L. F. McKay, left Saturday morning for her home.

Mellon Returns To Capital, Gets Permit To View The Sights

WASHINGTON (UP)—Andrew W. Mellon, who used to work for the government himself, came to Washington the other day to see the sights—and had to get a permit to do it.

The former secretary of the treasury and ex-ambassador to Great Britain particularly wanted to see the new buildings the government is putting up on the Pennsylvania Avenue mall. Mellon helped plan most of them, handed out the cash for their construction and laid some of their cornerstones.

If Russia is recognized by the government of President Roosevelt, the old royal Russian embassy on Sixteenth street, which has been mouldering behind boarded windows since 1920, may be renovated and occupied again.

It looks like one of those haunted castles of gray stone which the mystery story writers like to shudder over.

There are 56 high ceilinged rooms in the old mansion, each with its elaborate crystal chandelier, its coffered ceiling and its dust.

Poua Bahkmetieff, the last ambassador, took with him the furnishings which the Kerensky government had inherited from the Caesars.

He left the house bare, all but one small suite which still is occupied by an old white Russian caretaker and his family.

The caretaker has had no excitement for more than a decade, except for the mysterious attack upon the house one dark night by a movie press agent with brush and paste pot.

The police drove the invaders away. The next night was even noisier. The persistent press agent in approved mystery story fashion leaped a ladder against the house and posted upon the facade this:

Dye Corp. reported today that tonnage shipped in June was the largest since October, 1930.

Dates Set For Annual Sand Belt Tennis Tournament

Play Will Be Conducted On Local Courts

Large Field Of Entries Expected To Compete For Titles

The annual Sand Belt Tennis tournament will be held here July 23 and 24 on the new clay courts now under construction in the City Park.

A Junior and Senior division will be included with beautiful trophies to winners in both sections. The entrance fee will be the lowest in years. Players must file their intentions of entering the meet by Tuesday the 23rd.

Seventy-five cents will be assessed each single entry or one dollar if the player wishes to enter both single and doubles. Any junior players (under 18 years) may enter all divisions for one dollar. If they wish to enter only the junior division, singles 20c, doubles 30c, or both for 50c.

Dan Blackley of Sweetwater will be the defending champion in the singles senior section, while two home town boys, Curtis Bishop and George Dahney, hold the senior doubles title.

Joe Davis will defend his junior title and pair with Bill Savage to keep their junior double crown.

Harry Jordan, co-holder of district and bi-district championships, is expected to compete and show great strength in the junior division.

Jimmie Jones, one of the members of the high school team, will be another junior threat. So will Peyton Smith, a tennis league dark horse.

In the senior division, strong entries are expected from Sweetwater, Colorado, Roby, Stanton and Midland. Theo Ferguson, one of the strongest participants in this section, would have been favored to carry off tourney honors if not for a cut arm that put him out for the season.

Harold Harvey, co-holder of the doubles championship of the San Angelo Knights of 20cch, is expected to do some excellent work.

BY TOM BEASLEY

Schedule for the western division of a newly organized tennis association has been mailed to Fort Stockton, Wink, Barstow and Pecos by Theo Ferguson of Midland, who, with Kenneth Johnson, was instrumental in forming the league.

Play will begin in the western division today and continue through August 20, with only one idle Sunday, July 30— which arrangement was made so that the eastern division of the loop, which must start a week late due to one club's not having joined, can catch up on number of games played.

Midland, Odessa and Big Spring are ready to begin play in the eastern division, but Lamesa cannot enter, and it is likely that Hobbs, N. M., will enter.

The western schedule follows: July 2—Fort Stockton at Wink and Barstow at Pecos. July 15—Pecos at Fort Stockton and Wink at Barstow. July 23—Fort Stockton at Barstow and Pecos at Wink. July 30—Bye. August 6—Wink at Fort Stockton and Pecos at Barstow. August 13—Fort Stockton at Pecos and Barstow at Wink. August 20—Barstow at Fort Stockton and Wink at Pecos.

Results of games will be sent to Theo Ferguson of Midland, formerly highest ranking net star there, but who is now out for the season with a badly cut right hand. He will keep reports and send out tabulations on standings.

The Tigers took Grandpa Elber little Giants for a working the past week, scoring victories in both ends of a double header. As usual, the Giants over-estimated their strength and allowed the Kittens to sneak over an 8 to 2 win. And to make the situation worse, the Giants took the second scrap 13 to 10.

A compilation of class hours at the University of Texas which was furnished to football coach Clyde Littlefield yesterday, shows that Dan Delaney, Houston, half back; Jim Phillips, Waco, guard and J. D. Voyles, Austin, end, will not be eligible when the varsity squad is called for training September 10. Russell Allen, Abilene, who was not on last year's varsity but was counted upon for this year, will also be missing. Several promising freshmen are also barred.

Barney Ross, new world's lightweight champion, yesterday signed to defend his title against Tony Canzoneri from whom he won it. The bout will be at the Polo Grounds, New York, September 13.

Women Take Third Match

Mrs. Phillips' Team Beaten 32 To 18 In Weekly Play

Close play featured the golf feud between women golfers captained by Mrs. G. I. Phillips and Mrs. R. L. Price Friday afternoon, but the latter squad won by a handy score to run their consecutive team wins to three.

Several matches went ten holes to a decision Friday before Mrs. Phillips' team was beaten, but a bevy of one hole losses cost her an 18-22 defeat.

The team led by Mrs. Price took the first play of a series of eight by a close 20-24 margin, came back to repeat with a 22-18 win and duplicated the feat Friday.

Steady play of Mrs. Phillips gave her side its only low ball match. Paired with Mrs. Theron Hicks, she was under Mrs. Ralph Rix and Mrs. Price. Mrs. Rix won her individual match. Mrs. E. V. Spence and Mrs. P. H. Liberty dropped in individual and low ball to Miss Dorothy Ellington and Mrs. Travis Reed.

Mrs. Carl Blomfield and Mrs. Val Latson lost low ball to Mrs. J. L. Rush and Mrs. G. R. Porter, but Mrs. Latson won her individual match.

Mrs. M. E. Tatum and Mrs. Roy Carter lost low ball and individual matches to Mrs. A. E. True and Mrs. Harry Staleup. Mrs. C. L. Browning and Mrs. Gordon Graham were beaten for low ball by Mrs. Vernon Mason and Mrs. Robert Parks, but Mrs. Graham took her individual match.

Redeeming feature of three defeats of her team was the play of Mrs. G. I. Phillips. She has won her individual matches in every instance by comfortable margins, often by enough to draw in a low ball score for her foursome.

Women's Apparel Code Next On List In Industrial Recovery Plan

WASHINGTON, (UP)—Submission of a code of fair competition for the women's apparel industry was expected to give a post-holiday impetus to the campaign to bring America's industries into the National Recovery campaign as rapidly as possible.

The apparel code will be followed quickly by attempts to effect trade agreements for iron and steel, oil, coal, automobiles, woollens and lumber.

Deputy Administrator Earl D. Howard in New York, conferring with a committee of five representatives of the apparel trades.

At Howard's office here it was said that he expected to receive a completed code while in New York. He will remain there until Friday. The completed code was expected to be ready for presentation to a mass meeting of the industry. Adminstrator Hugh H. Johnson, realising success or failure of the industrial planning experiment depends upon the promptness with which it is put into operation, has promised that everything possible will be done to get several leading industries started before the end of July.

The change here is not in any way a reorganization. The First National Bank has been known since its organization as one of the soundest banks in the State. The change was due largely to the desire of Judge Hendrick, who has moved to Abilene from Odessa, to get out of the banking business here, in order to devote his time to his other wide interests over the State.

Ford Motor Company, Dearborn, Mich.

To people who want something for nothing

Henry Ford, Dearborn, Mich.

There are some things we refuse to do to sell a car. We like sales, but fair-dealing and the confidence of our customers are desirable, too. For one thing, we refuse to poison anyone's mind against another make of car. We know what our car is and what it will do, and we are ready to tell you about that. But to imply defects in another car is not our business.

We have done our utmost to encourage intelligent buying of motor cars by showing purchasers how to protect their own interests. All that a good producer asks is a customer who knows quality when he sees it. An intelligent purchaser will speedily conclude that only a bad product requires bad sales methods.

We refuse, also, to adopt the role of tricky trader—that is, pretending to offer you a larger trade-in allowance, and taking it away from you in some other way. Ford trade-in values are high, but we do not make fictitious allowances in order to get a sale which may be otherwise disadvantageous to the buyer. Our dealers take used cars upon a system of values, not by haggling or barter.

In this world no one gets something for nothing, although there are many ways of making people think that they do. The sure way to get value for value is, first, by being yourself willing to deal on that basis, and second, by dealing with a concern that has no other policy.

We refuse to keep dinning in your ears that the Ford V-8 is the best, most economical, lowest-priced car. That is claimed for several cars. Obviously it cannot be true of all. There comes a point where claims and adjectives and all advertising hysteria disappears in its own fog. Personally, I prefer facts.

We say the new Ford V-8 is the best car we have made.

We say that our 8-cylinder car is as economical to operate as any lower number of cylinders.

We say that we have always been known as the makers of good cars and that the many good, well-balanced qualities of our present car places it at the head of our line to date.

Anyone wishing to do business with us on these principles will find our word and the quality of our product to be A-1. What we say about economy, operation and durability will stand good anywhere.

These they held with their chopsticks, dipped into a highly seasoned sauce and ate piece-meal. Mary had a little difficulty with the chopsticks at first, but became expert before she had finished.

Gainesville Community Circus Born Of Changing Economic World

EDITOR'S NOTE: The second article on the Gainesville (Texas) Community circus concludes the series on the non-profit making cooperative organization which is gaining nationwide prominence. None of its personnel of 150 persons is paid, from the department store executive who directs ticket sales to the 10-year-old girl bareback rider.

GAINESVILLE (UP)—The appeal of the Gainesville Community Circus, that none of its personnel of 150 persons is a professional, plus an unwritten law that the show must match or better other shows, has made new history in this little Texas town of 9,000 persons. For four years, through the depression, the circus, a non-profit making organization, has been playing to capacity crowds and from its receipts has bought thousands of dollars worth of equipment. It has more offers to show, each with a guarantee attached, than it can possibly fulfill.

The Community Circus came into being when the sponsors of the Gainesville Little Theater decided to abandon their organization because no auditorium was available to them. That was four years ago. Today it claims distinction on these grounds:

That its personnel of 150 people is entirely made up of Gainesville talent and that none receives a salary.
The 40 performing animals are locally trained.
The 20 acrobats, 20 aerialists, 40 equestrians and members of the three bands and 30 clowns are homefolks, none of whom depend on their showmanship for a living. That it is a striking success as a circus without a wild animal show.

That there isn't a "circus man" in the company from the master of ceremonies to equestrian director. None had circus experience excepting one or two persons who had been performers and had retired from the tanbark trail before the venture was begun four years ago.

General manager of the circus is George Carroll, the town's mortician. J. L. Webb, secretary-treasurer, is manager of a printing establishment and City Editor A. Morton Smith of the Gainesville Daily Register is equestrian director. A horse fancier and landowner, Alex Murrell, is superintendent of the show.

Sixty-five year old B. F. Mitchell, Cooke county judge, is the oldest performer. He is "dean" of the clowns, a female impersonator. Judge Mitchell was one of the Little Theatre's most ardent endorsers and has been a circus performer since the organization of the show.

Gainesville's sporting goods dealer, E. G. Stanforth, is director of the acrobats; Chief Deputy Sheriff Joe B. Pettit, is director of the clowns; Mayor Frank Morris, who is vice-president of a Gainesville bank, plays a snare drum in one of the circus bands and Dr. S. M. Yarbrough, a practicing physician, is a clown.

Family groups also are in the circus. Ruth, Evelyn, and Gilda

TODAY and TOMORROW

By WALTER LIPPMANN
High and Mighty Language

LONDON, July 4. A few hours after the President's statement was received in London I met the Finance Minister of a country which is strongly in sympathy with the President's policy.

The minister was glad that the President had refused to subscribe to the gold declaration prepared at the end of last week. He was bewildered by the statement. "We are not children," he said, "and we do not see why we should have to be talked to in such language."

This is, I believe, an accurate sample of the feeling in London. With Mr. Roosevelt's decision there is wide spread agreement. Even in the gold delegation the ablest men recognize that, however inconvenient it may be to them, the President is justified in following out his policy. But if there is any one who thinks that the language of the statement can be defended, he is not easy to find.

Thus the financial editor of "the Daily Herald" who has been an active partisan of the President, remarks this morning that "even those of us who support President Roosevelt's policy and regard it as the only proper approach to the problem of depression, may indeed feel that his has up to date treated the World Economic Conference a little too contemptuously." If this is the way Mr. Roosevelt's friends feel, it may be imagined what is the state of mind of other people.

Theodore Roosevelt used to advise statesmen to speak softly and carry a big stick. Franklin Roosevelt carries the biggest stick in the world but he has chosen to speak loudly and harshly.

One wonders why. The explanation, I suppose, is that Mr. Roosevelt wished to turn the attention of the conference away from the immediate problem of the exchange rate to the consideration of more far-reaching projects. If that was his intention, then it must be said at once that he must be wholly out of touch with the realities if he thinks he can do that by issuing pronouncements. He can not have understood the state of mind in the gold countries where among the governing classes the fear of inflation is an actual phobia.

These gold delegations here are fighting as they firmly believe, to protect themselves against political and social ruin. They may be wrong, but they believe it. Experience alone and not words from America can make them cease to believe it.

Therefore under present circumstances it is idle to imagine that they will discuss a radical reconstruction of the world's finances.

Likewise, Mr. Roosevelt can not have understood how completely unequipped are his representatives here to deal with the kind of project he has in mind. For one thing they do not know what is in his mind. For another thing there is not among them a single man who understands monetary questions sufficiently to debate them.

For another they have been so frequently repudiated that they are demoralized. For another they are divided among themselves. How can a delegation, which lacks authority, which lacks technical competence, which lacks unity, which lacks contact with the President, hope to undertake the kind of difficult negotiation for far-reaching reforms which the President desires? It can not be done.

Mr. Roosevelt's purposes may be excellent. He has completely failed to organize a diplomatic instrument to express them. If Mr. Roosevelt means what he says, he must send a new delegation to London which knows what he means and has power to act for him.

The simplest explanation of the whole episode is that Mr. Roosevelt has been isolated on a boat that he has not been kept informed, that he has not touch with his advisers, and that lacking clear knowledge he has given himself the pleasure of being temperamental. Is there any better explanation? There are some who have tried to think that the statement may have been couched in language suited to domestic politics. It does not seem likely. Congress is adjourned. The president is popular and powerful. He does not need to play politics at this time. It is much more likely that he has not been kept properly informed and that he acted on an impulse. But whatever the explanation he has hurt himself and his cause, and if his advisers are rank with him they will say so.
