"I Loved You Wednesday" Opens Today At R & R Ritz

Baxter And Landi Make Great Team

Victory Jory Faithless Lover, Miriam Jordan Neglected Wife

In its transference from the medium of the stage to that of the talking screen, the Fox Film production of "I Loved You Wednesday," which opens today at the Ritz theatre, proves perfect screen entertainment. Its action, its scintillating dialogue and its piquant characterizations are all brightly enhanced by the fluidity of the all-seeing camera.

The cast that Fox has gathered to portray the principal roles of the screen play, represents one of the happiest pieces of selection in recent months. Warner Baxter is powerful and suave as the engineer; Elissa Landi is beautiful and alluring as the dancer who wins his heart. As the faithless lover, Victor Jory gives weight to his promise of becoming one of the screen's shining lights, and Miriam Jordan is excellent in the role of his charming but neglected wife. Laura Hope Crews does wonders with a highly amusing part of masseuse to a great dancer.

The story starts with the early love of the dancer for an untrustworthy student of architecture. It is carried on happily until the dancer learns of the existence of a forgotten wife. She leaves for South America, where she meets and falls in love with an engineer. They part, only to meet again in New York, where they find how indispensable their separation has made them toward each other. At this time, however, the architect appears on the scene again, but so does his wife. The dancer has a momentary reversion to her first love, but in a climax that is truly brilliant, this foursome of sophisticates solve their common problem.

Two elements in the film deserve enthusiastic mention. One is the sequence showing Baxter as the engineer at work on Boulder Dam. It is a stupendous dramatization of man's dogged conquest of nature. The other is the Dance of the Maidens, certainly one of the most elaborate presentations ever featured in a motion picture.

Henry King, who will be fondly remembered for his direction of the successful "State Fair," has done an excellent job with "I Loved You Wednesday," with the direction of the spectacles done by William Cameron Menzies and the dance supervision contributed by Sammy Lee. The adaptation by Philip Kurland and Horace Jackson of the Molly Ricardel-William Du Bois play, is a skillful one.

Expose Of Reform School Practices Background For James Cagney's New Screen Success, 'The Mayor Of Hell'

Strong Cast Enlisted For 'Racetrack'

Motion pictures are doing a great deal when they faithfully mirror life; but sometimes the phenomenon of picturing future events happens with almost psychic preciseness. A most unusual case came to light in connection with James Cagney's latest picture for Warner Bros. "The Mayor of Hell," which opens at the Ritz Theatre on Friday. The entire background of the story is a boys' reform school, with an exposition of conditions so corrupt and practices so cruel that the picture may well be classified as the junior successor to "I Am a Fugitive from a Chain Gang."

Although prisons and penitentiaries have figured in exposés and shakeups in the public news for many years, nothing much was ever done or said about reformatories where delinquent boys are sent for violating the law.

The story of "The Mayor of Hell" had been in production for two weeks when newspapers suddenly broke with a story of conditions and happenings under investigation in a certain reformatory for boys that paralleled the abuses depicted in the picture.

The most unusual part about the coincidence is that the climax of the film story, and the pivotal incident in the newspaper story are identical—and the latter happened long after the screen play was written.

This particular incident, alike in both cases, is of an undernourished young boy in ill health who was confined to a cold cell without a blanket because he refused to squeal on his fellow inmates after they had broken into the reformatory store to satisfy their hunger. The boy died.

In the case of the film story, it resulted in the climatic turn of the story; and in the case of the real life incident, it precipitated the investigation which brought to light the almost unbelievable conditions under which the institution was conducted.

Even the general conditions as depicted in both cases are identical. As the newspaper story put it: "all of the officials were fat and the boys were all undernourished."

Madge Evans has the leading feminine role in "The Mayor of Hell." Others in the cast include Allen Jenkins, Dudley Digges, Arthur Byron, Sheila Terry, Frankie Ferra and Parma. Archie Mayo directed.

Junior Cochran, Kay Hammond, Lee Moran 'Naturals' In Their Parts

When James Cruze undertook to produce the World Wide Pictures and personally to direct "Racetrack," which is coming to the Ritz Theatre on Thursday he promised himself and his colleagues that he would pick exactly the right type of individual for every part. This may sound an easy boast to fulfill with Hollywood literally crowded with thespian talent, but it isn't not by a long shot.

The leading role was custom made for Leo Carrillo, who had attained such heights of glory in "Hellbound." Carrillo was secured and one problem was thereby settled immediately. What, however, is the good of a star without a strong supporting cast? The second most important character called for a boy about sixteen years old with an appealing personality, a sense of humor, the ability to ride a horse and to look like a jockey when he was doing it, and with the ability to play a real part with conviction. After considerable discussion, cogitation and consideration of practically every juvenile in motion pictures, the sterling actor Junior Cochran was selected.

The next role to come under the scrutiny of James Cruze was that of the mother of the jockey. She had to be young, appealing, attractive and a brilliant dramatic actress. Kay Hammond got the part. She fitted perfectly.

Next came the semi-comedy, semi-dramatic role of "catcher" to Leo Carrillo. This required someone who looked as typical a racetrack tout as any tout who ever had a sure thing. Director Cruze gave up several perfectly good nights sleep to find this important problem. Suddenly, early one morning, just as he was about to let someone else do some thinking for a change, the name of the perfect man to play the part came to him in a flash—Lee Moran.

James Cruze called him on the phone. "Hey," he said over the phone, "what are you doing these days?"

"Trying to sleep," grunted Mr. Moran.

"Well, give up trying and come down here right away. I've got an important part for you."

"Oke," said Mr. Moran, somewhat solemnly and rolled out of bed.

And so it went with the rest of the cast until finally one of

Blue And Gold Party Given For Congenial Club

The members of the Congenial Bridge Club met at the home of Mrs. W. G. Barber Friday afternoon. A blue and gold color scheme was artistically carried out and gave an impression of coolness. The fallies were butterflies in these colors.

Mrs. Underwood made the highest score. Mrs. R. J. Hoover was the only playing guest. Mrs. L. S. Sanford of Abilene, a former member of the club, came in at the tea hour to visit with the members.

Members present were: Mmes. C. C. Carter, W. H. Remel, W. K. Edwards, Jimmie Mason, Raymond Winn, A. E. Underwood, W. S. Wilson.

The club voted to meet in the mornings hereafter.

At the same time a compensatory import tax equal to the processing tax will go into effect to put importations of cotton on the same basis as the domestic product. Taxes will be levied also on the processing of competing products, including rayon and silk and probably wool, linen and other materials to prevent the cotton tax from providing a special handicap to its sale and consumption.

Hearings to determine the extent of the tax on products competing with cotton will be held in a few days. The tax on these, as will the tax on cotton, would be paid by the processors who handle them in their first stage of development from raw materials to finished goods.

George N. Peek, chief administrator of the act, said that the processing tax should not greatly, if at all, increase present prices of cotton goods to consumers. He said that the prices of cotton goods have increased much faster in recent months than the prices of raw cotton and attributed this to "anticipation" by spinners and dealers of the proclamation of the tax.

At the same time that the processing tax on cotton becomes effective, a tax on cotton goods being manufactured by establishments and wholesalers will go into effect while retail dealers have 30 days in which to dispose of the stocks of cotton goods now on their floors.

In order to assess these, Wallace, in his formal tax proclamation, fixed the conversion factor on finished products at 102.2 per cent of the tax on raw cotton, or 4.184 cents per pound for finished or partly finished materials less allowances for the weight of buttons, zings and other non-cotton materials.

This means that 100 pounds of cotton cloth will be assessed a total of $4.184.

COLLEGE STATION—Texas extension officials renewed warnings that cotton farmers should not take steps to eliminate their cotton acreage offered for retirement in the national cotton acreage reduction campaign until they receive government acceptance of their offers and instructions to so act.

The officials pointed out that even though Secretary Wallace announced adoption of the reduction program from Washington, it still probably would take some time for government officials to check all contracts.

'Somewhere In Sonora' Features John Wayne; Opens Friday

A story of thrills and adventures south of the Mexican border, yet without a single Mexican "heavy," may sound impossible yet John Wayne, in "Somewhere in Sonora," which comes to the Queen Theater Friday and Saturday of this week, is just that kind of a story.

There are no lack of villains for John Wayne to deal with in "Somewhere in Sonora"—in fact, there are more than he has yet had to combat in any one picture. But they are all American desperadoes who have taken refuge in Mexico to escape American justice, and have organized themselves under their leader, Monte Black, into one of the cruelest and most formidable gangs of renegades that have ever used the wild Sonora country as their base of operations.

Wayne, to be sure, is instrumental in finally bringing the Black gang to justice—but he shares the honor with Mexico's famous "Rurales" or state police, who, in their own country, as famous and independent organization as the North west Mounted Police of Canada or the far-famed Texas Rangers.

Opening with a thrilling rodeo, the story moves swiftly through a series of hairbread adventures and escapes by John Wayne, besides some of the finest groups of actors ever assembled were garnered for the production. When the picture was finished James Cruze smiled happily. "The right men for the right parts—that's what counts."

Buddy Rogers, absent from the motion picture screen for these many months, hereby makes his return. With the training he has achieved in a year of personal appearances throughout the country, bodying as charming a romance as the screen has depicted for many a day, Leon Schlesinger is the producer. ## Wallace Proclaims Adoption Of Cotton Retirement Plans

Processing Tax Should Not Greatly Of At All, Raise Cotton Good Prices To Consumer, Says Administrator

WASHINGTON—The plows on about 700,000 farms in 14 states next week will begin to turn back into the ground more than 6,000,000 acres of growing cotton as a result of proclamation by Secretary Wallace of adoption of the cotton acreage reduction program.

From what appeared to be a potential crop of about 13,000,000 bales, Wallace estimated there would be subtracted by the administration's program around 3,500,000 bales.

The agriculture secretary said he would accept most of the contract offers signed by growers to curtail their crop from 25 to 30 per cent in return for cash payments and options on 2,000,000 bales of government-held cotton.

At the same time he announced approved by President Roosevelt of a tax of 4.2 cents a pound on all processing of the staple beginning August 1. He estimated the yield of the levy at from $115,000,000 to $120,000,000, which will be used to finance the payment to farmers. No tax will be collected on the cotton exported—normally about one half of the American crop.

Import Tax

At the same time a compensatory import tax equal to the processing tax will go into effect to put importations of cotton on the same basis as the domestic product. Taxes will be levied also on the processing of competing products, including rayon and silk and probably wool, linen and other materials to prevent the cotton tax from providing a special handicap to its sale and consumption.

Operetta On Church Lawn Huge Success

Young People Showed Talent In Acting And Vocal Numbers

"The Merry Milkmaids" an operetta given by the Young People's Choir of the First Methodist church on the church lawn Friday evening "covered the choir with glory," to quote the words of those present.

Mrs. Jean Searcy, as the dairy queen, revealed a soprano voice of unusual ability. John Vastine as commodore was a close second with his baritone. These were declared the outstanding singers of the evening. Arthur Middleton, Bobby Gordon and Tilman Crance were also in first rank.

This was the first time an opera had been attempted by the choir and, so far as known, by anyone in Big Spring. The double job of acting and singing called on all the abilities the cast possessed; it is therefore all the more to their credit that their audience was enthusiastic. Not even the rain could drive anyone home, before the operetta closed.

The colorful costumes of the cast, the attractive setting, the lovely music and the melodious airs made the operetta an ideal form of entertainment for a summer evening. Threatening weather kept down the crowd but those present were appreciative enough to make up for numbers and expressed the wish that the choir would give more of such entertainments.

Miss C. C. Usery directed the operetta. Miss Roberta Gay was the musician.

The cast was as follows:
Dairy Queen, Mrs. Jean Searcy.
Dorothy (love sick maid), Mrs. Joe Anderson.
Monica, Indian fortune teller, Bobbie Gordon.
Margery, Vera Robinson.
Janet, Florence Henderson.
Antia, Alice Leeper.
Clara, Eunice Green.
Juanita, Johnnie Chaney.
Commodore and Beggar, John Vastine.
Judge, Arthur Middleton.
Doctor and Peddler, Tilman Crance.
Farmer Jim, Horace Penn.
Captain, Thomas Joe Williamson.
Maida Chorus: Juanita Slusser, Zollie May Dodge, Mary Elizabeth Dodge, LaVerne Simms, Elizabeth Graves, Myrtle Jones, Francis Gilliam, Ruth Gilliam, Anna Bell Pruitt, Doris Barrett, Ruby Smith, Doris Smith, Hazel Reagan, Virginia Fischer.
Farmer's Brigade: Thomas Joe Williamson, Bob Bird, Walter Arnold, Felton Smith, Russell Crance, James Stiff, Good Graves.

To a St. Paul Man Who asks the Reason
Henry Ford
Dearborn, Mich.

A man in St. Paul, Minnesota, makes courteous inquiry on the subject of the Ford spring. He relates a recent experience in which a salesman felt he could not sell his own make of car without first depreciating the Ford car in this customer's mind. The main attack was made on the Ford spring. I take pleasure in explaining this point.

We use transverse springs in Ford cars for the same reason that we use round wheels—because we have found nothing better for the purpose.

Most people think that the only purpose of a spring is comfortable riding. But springs, and even very flexible springs, can cause discomfort as well as danger. A good spring must not only be comfortable—it must be safe. It must also assist operation economy. The spring we use serves all three purposes.

A transverse spring—which simply means a spring set crosswise—gives comfort. It is like the wings of a bird—the tips move most, while the body remains steady. I cannot prove that in a letter, but you can prove it in a Ford V-8. Any dealer will gladly allow you the opportunity.

The safety reasons for the transverse spring may be simply stated. In rounding a curve or turning a corner, one side of the car naturally lists downward. Transverse springs do not lift up the opposite side. They actually decrease the car's lean-over. Each spring is set in line with the axle and is attached at its center to the frame. This tends to prevent that swaying on a curve which is so uncomfortable and often dangerous. Notice for yourself how greatly these springs control this in our car.

Transverse springs also make steering and braking exceedingly safe. The Ford car is not driven through its springs. Hence the axles do not see-saw back and forth and so cannot interfere with normal steering and braking action.

Now, about economy. Unsprung weight is that part of the car weight that does not rest on springs. For tire economy it must be low in proportion to sprung weight. It must be low to prevent excess jarring of the frame and body. In the Ford car it is low, due to the use of transverse springs.

We choose to retain the transverse spring for the above good reasons. From every point of view it justifies our choice. If there had been anything better for our car, we would have used it.

We make these springs ourselves—every leaf in every spring—set them up and install them. We know what they are and we know why we use them.

Gasoline Taxes Cost Motorists More Than Fuel In Many States

'Speed Limit' Shows Upward Trend Along With Taxes On Gasoline, Texaco Survey Discloses

NEW YORK (UP)—When you buy a gallon of gasoline nowadays you are, in many states, paying more in taxes than you are for the gasoline, according to an interesting compilation of motorists information just gathered by the United Press for Cecil Hawley, Director of Texaco National Road Reports.

Speed limits have shown an upward trend as well as taxes on gasoline. Eighteen of the 48 states have the so-called "universal speed law," with no maximum speed limit, but requiring careful driving at all times. Fourteen states have an official speed limit of 45 miles an hour. In some of these the law does not prohibit a greater speed flatly, but says that a "greater speed is prima facie evidence of careless driving," with burden of proof to the contrary of the driver.

One state, North Dakota, has a speed limit of 50 miles an hour, nine have a 40 mile limit and five a 35 mile limit. One state, Massachusetts, puts the burden of proof on a driver if he goes more than 30 miles an hour.

State gasoline taxes range from 2 cents to 7 cents per gallon, not including the new Federal gasoline tax, nor local taxes imposed by some counties or cities. Florida and Tennessee have the highest gasoline taxes, with 7 cents per gallon. Connecticut, Missouri and Rhode Island have the lowest, 2 cents. In some communities of certain states where there exists a city or county tax on gasoline as well as the state and federal tax, and in one instance a sales tax on top of it all, the driver will pay 12 cents per gallon in and probably 7 cents to 12 cents for the gasoline itself, depending upon freight rates. The gasoline brings around 6 cents per gallon at the refinery.

In Arkansas this year the comparatively high automobile registration fee charges were reduced drastically with the avowed purpose of encouraging use of older automobiles, increasing gasoline consumption, and thereby helping out the state's exchequer through the 6 cent state gasoline tax.

Following is a list of the states, with speed limits and gasoline taxes:

SELLING TO RUSSIA

The American government has made the first tentative overtures for revival of trade with the U. S. S. R. by agreeing to finance the purchase of 60,000 to 80,000 bales of American cotton by the Soviet government.

Washington wonders if the deal is a forerunner of Russian recognition.

Of more immediate interest is the fact that a new market for American cotton surpluses has been opened up. This government has what it considers ample security to back the loan of about $4,000,000 from the RFC.

Probably Jesse H. Jones, the Texan who heads RFC, is to be thanked for this boost for the cotton farmer.

If the huge potential market of Russia can be opened up, it will mean an important outlet for American raw materials and manufactured goods.

Most Americans agree that Russia's peculiar form of government wouldn't do for this country, but at the same time they are willing to concede that if it suits Russia it really isn't any of our business—so long as Russia doesn't try to foist it upon us.

If Russia meets her obligations, pays her good money for our cotton and our manufactured goods, we ought to be able to do business with her without compromising our own ideas of what constitutes good government.

the thing for the younger ball fans on the numerous vacant lot diamonds, however, practically no interest has ever been displayed by local players toward such a loop.

Jack May and Albert Slak, in charge of a golf tournament to be held at Pecos July 29 and 30, say all indications point to a record entry list.

Every tournament that has ever been held in Pecos has been an outstanding success. Those who have attended in former years have passed the word around that a great meet is in the offing.

A number of handsome prizes will be given in each flight. A calculus auction and dance will feature Saturday night, July 29. A breakfast Sunday morning will be another entertainment feature for guests.

Clyde Park was selected to coach the Fort Stockton High School athletic teams for the ensuing year. His selection was greeted with enthusiasm.

Coach Park, formerly the mentor of the McCamey teams, is rated as one of the best in the game, a fine coach and an excellent man along with it. His McCamey boys all thought the world of him, and would do anything for him.

A graduate of McMurry College in Abilene, he was a star athlete there several years ago, being a member of all major sport teams and graduating as one of the most popular boys in the school.

For the past three years, his teams have been near the bottom because of such strong competition and little material. Fort Stockton is in Class B.

At basketball, Coach Park is rated as one of the best, his teams being leaders in this part of the state since he took charge of them. The Badgers won their first district title under his leadership and easily led the county and the territory surrounding them.

The Coleman Third Annual Invitation Golf Tournament will get in full swing with qualifying rounds either Sunday or Monday, July 16 or 17. Match play will be held Tuesday and Wednesday.

Henry Tidwell writes: "We are expecting several golfers from your immediate section this year. We have been advised that Obie Elyton will be present and we are expecting him to offer some real competition."

"The reports on the play are most encouraging and we are expecting a fast and large field of golfers. Regardless of the number of entrants a flight will be provided for everyone."

"The Houston boys will be down, and in the bunch will be Dick Nauta, the defending Coleman champion, and Clarence Darling, another crack Houston golfer. Gordon Young, Dallas, runner-up in last year's play will also be present. Jimmy Phillips of Ranger and Carney Wilson of Abilene have also advised us that they will be present."

"We surely hope Shirley Robbins, Lib Coffee, Theron Hicks, and some of the other hot Big Spring golfers will be able to be with us at Coleman. We also want the not so hot ones, too, for there will be golf for all."

Mexican Tigers To Play Loop Leader

The Mexican Tigers weakened considerably by loss of several players, go to Colorado today for a battle with the strong Col-Tex nine.

The battling Forsan Oilers will come here for a game with the Cowboys. The Oilers have won the past three out of four games to make a startling climb from the cellar where they spent the first few weeks. The Ackerly nine mixed with the Coahoma Bulldogs in what should be a close game.

Sport-Lines

BY TOM BEASLEY

Another one of those attractive dance programs under sponsorship of the Col-Tex athletic club was held Saturday evening at the American Legion building in Colorado.

The peppy Col-Tex team has been bringing some interesting games to Colorado and has never considered charging admission, members of the club recalled. Proceeds from the dance will be used to finance purchase of bats, balls and other needed equipment.

After Frank Keane had won 'no junior and boys' tennis titles, he confessed to St. Louis sports officials that he was over age. He entered the tournament as being 17 years old, but really was 18.

For some reason or other we have visions that a Junior and Senior division in the Sand Belt tournament won't pan out just right. Too many seniors will be juniors.

The first inter-city softball series which Midland ever staged will be played Monday and Tuesday when the crack Bear Shirts of Stamford engage Dr. David M. Ellis' Papoose club, first half winners of the Nocturne league.

For two years, the Stamford club has tried to get billed for a series at Midland, Otis Hobert writing letters asking that the strongest club of Midland be aligned against him—even if a star picked aggregation were necessary.

Stamford, like Midland, has taken soft ball seriously, great crowds of fans being in attendance nightly. Teams from Lubbock, Slaton, Del Rio and other noted playground ball centers have fallen prey to the bats of Stamford.

In order to defray expenses of the visiting club, Dr. Ellis says a slight charge for the games will be necessary, fifteen cents for a single game, or both games for a quarter. The Nocturne league is assisting in bringing the visitors by giving up one night of its schedule Monday.

Stamford plays at night with a 14-inch in seam ball—just as Midland.

A soft ball league would be just

79 PEOPLE WILL BE KILLED TODAY

More than 2,500 people who are alive and well this morning won't be that way by midnight tonight! A senseless slaughter.

They feel safe this morning, just as you do. They'll be well and happy at the breakfast table. You may perhaps exchange greetings of the day with one of them... But by Monday morning 79 will have been killed and 2,478 injured.

FIRE... EARTHQUAKE... TORNADO... EXPLOSION? NO! None of these... Something else!

AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENTS

Many of them the direct result of plain carelessness... will kill 79 and injure 2,478 people today, if 1932 averages are maintained. It happens year after year... due largely to carelessness... both in reckless driving and in heedless indifference to the mechanical condition of automobiles.

Take care! Be considerate of others as well as yourself and yours. Obey the traffic laws provided. Practice the Golden Rule on the streets and highways and do your part in helping to eliminate this wholesale slaughter of human lives! You can help, which will you choose...

CHAPTER 16

"Here are canned chickens, mushrooms, butter, milk—whatever you need. Make them into something, please." Willa and Mary were in the little kitchen off the big studio room, wearing long aprons over their frocks.

Mary noted the orange linen cottage curtains at the one window, a brightly decorated aqua cookies jar in the same colors, the cream walls. Her domestic eye delighted in this spot-and-span, comfort-beauty apartment of the Duchons.

She said so to Willa, whose black eyes twinkled her appreciation. "We love it, too. Though we haven't much time to think about where we live. For six days a week, we work like slaves, about twelve hours a day, Sundays we rest and Sunday evenings we entertain, or go out."

"But don't you go out evenings?"

"Rarely. An occasional play, dinner with clients or some thing. Creative work demands not only much time, but the best that's in you. And you can't give it, wandering hither and yon, dashing here and there to please your friends. Our own kind understand and respect the rights of each other. Oh! I know," she laughed, whipping cream in a bright orange bowl. "The public think that 'party' people run the gamut of night clubs, Bohemian parties and what-on-next. There may be some who do, but the most of us who work regularly have to keep our eyes on the typewriters and snails just like you have to be at your office every day."

"What's more," Willa continued, peering through the glass door of the little electric oven, "punching a time clock for someone else is soft compared with being your own boss. No one can drive you like you drive yourself. Why, if I take an hour off or a half day, I feel twice as guilty as if I could say to a boss, 'May I have an extra hour this noon?' Because when I come back, my work that no one else could ever do for me, is still staring me in the face. There are always half a dozen things I should be doing at once."

"And that's the fun of living—being busy, isn't it? Mary agreed. "I shouldn't want to exchange my work for idleness if I had ten times the income. That is why all your friends here tonight look so interesting. One just knows that their hands and brains are busy. They look keen—and happy. Work is real happiness, isn't it?"

"You're a treat, Mary. Most outsiders who come here regard us with a sort of envy for the lazy, carefree lives we lead. Either we are just lucky or the inspirational Muses do us work for us—that's the general opinion. If they only knew how we sometimes struggle for hours for an idea—hunches we call them—it's no joke when you have to put out copy like a machine and there is no pattern or rule in the world you can use. As Ramon often says, tearing his hair, 'For heaven's sake what can I have

7-Foot Ball To Carry Piccard And Companion Into Stratosphere From Chicago Fair During This Month

CHICAGO (UP)—When Dr. Jean Piccard and Lieut. T. G. W. Seattle, United States Navy, make their projected flight into the upper reaches some time this month, they will entrust their lives to a seven foot, orange shaped ball weighing but little more than either man, and many times less than the scientific equipment carried.

The gondola in which they will ride is a thin metal bubble constructed of Duralumin, the lightest commercial metal in use today. The combined weight of the scientists is 330 pounds; their frail craft hardly pushes the scale above the 200 pound mark.

Inside, the men will crowd laboratory instruments, a radio set, camera, an air-rejuvenating machine, oxygen tanks, barometer, and a supply of food sufficient to last them several hours beyond the contemplated 24 hours flight.

No Physical Discomfort

Hermetically sealed in the ball for a day and a night, the two do not anticipate much physical discomfort. In a living space four feet square and six and one-half feet high, they will sit on small hammock-like seats. Conveniently at hand will be placed three circular shelves supporting their instruments and supplies.

Ballast will be placed in a tight Duralumin container at the bottom of the craft. A valve operated from within allows control of ballast weight to be effected with the greatest accuracy.

Extremes of heat and cold, such as Dr. Jean's twin brother, Professor Auguste, encountered on his two previous flights into the stratosphere, will be guarded against; both men being supplied with heavy outer and under garments, fleece lined slippers, as well as hot water bags and chemical heating pads.

New Heat Control

In the day time, Professor Piccard found his problem to be one of extreme heat. He had attempted to forestall this by painting one side of his gondola white, to repel the heat from the sun, and the other black, to attract it. By means of a turning device, he planned to regulate the temperature as desired.

Injury to the turning device when he took off, however, caused his plans to go amiss, and the scientist sweltered in his tiny cabin at a temperature of 104 degrees.

Profiting by his brother's experience, Dr. Jean has eliminated the turning device and has painted his present gondola white above the "equator," or widest part, and black below.

Thermos bottles containing both cold and hot water, will be carried on the flight, as will cans of coffee, tea, soup, beans and other food.

Air Rejuvenating Device

Breathing inside the airtight sphere will be accomplished through the air-rejuvenating device, similar to that used on the other Piccard's two flights. It provides two quarts of pure oxygen per minute, and circulates some 20 gallons of air through an alkali preparation which absorbs the toxic gases of respiration.

The interior of the gondola has been painted white to provide the greatest amount of reflection from light entering the 10 hermetically sealed porthole windows. For night use, a battery lighting system has been provided. Small Duralumin boxes for holding the personal effects of the scientists have been installed in the ball.

WASHINGTON (UP)—James E. Ferguson, former governor of Texas, Friday recommended to Secretary of Commerce Roper use of federal public works funds for completion of the Cotulla dam irrigation project in Texas.

Ferguson told Roper a great deal of employment would be afforded Texas by using federal funds for drainage work.

WHIRLIGIG—

 with working agreements. The administration wants to know why the others aren't getting their heads together in 48 hours. There are teeth in the National Industrial Recovery Act. NIRA will snap if it gets any evidence of double-dealing.

Codes—
 Formal hearings aren't possible down at the Industrial Recovery Administration because complete codes are so slow coming in. Most of the rest are still in a highly formulative stage. A surprise in procedure may break in 48 hours. Make no mistake about it. President and Johnson are determined to make employment keep step with production. That means agreements, signed, sealed and delivered by main strength, as necessary.

Debuchi—
 Inside diplomatic circles are predicting the recall of Japanese Ambassador Katsuj Debuchi to Tokyo shortly. Officially such a move would be for his "failures." Jap publicists here say he couldn't earn $15 a week on his abilities. Those on the inside say the diminutive envoy would be a victim of circumstances. They whisper he has been up against an impossible situation. Debuchi is a Liberal and doesn't enjoy the confidence of the Militarists now in control of Japan. Because of this fact he has been led into one error of position after another as world conditions changed rapidly.

If Debuchi goes those who should know guess that Kojiro Matsuoka, Matsukata is a financier of the Rockefeller or Mellon magnitude. He spoke in billions during the war. When the crash came his downfall created a splash heard 'round the world. He now has come back into the big money. He has never held a government job. It is said the Tokyo government feels the "new diplomacy" involving daring economics and new deals, needs a man not hobbled by the traditions of diplomatic training.

Foiled—
 Prohibition Director A. V. Dairymple was riding in one of Washington's 20-cent cabs the other day. Said he, engaging the driver in conversation: "You're much too good a man to be driving this cab. Come around to the Department. I'll put you on driving a truck at $2,500 a year." The cab driver has been haunting Dairymple's office since. But he's not driving a government truck.

Notes—
 Japan is said to want a new ambassador here because of a "new-born love" for the United States. There's a joker back of this sudden surge of affection. She wants to make sure America doesn't line up with Great Britain in case the Japs come to grips with England over world markets. Such a struggle is in the offing if commercial alliance plans fall. Another good one out of the confidential diplomatic mail pouch concerns England's efforts to chisel down her debt payments to us. The British argued she should have drastic reduction because her home taxes were amounting to $100 per capita and 3,000,000 were unemployed. To which we replied that our taxes ran $116 a head and 12,000,000 were out of work.

NEW YORK
 By James McMullin
Currencies—
 New York insiders whisper about a prospective deal to keep the dollar fairly steady around $4.86 to the pound. It may drop to $5.00 temporarily, chiefly to give the British Tories a scare, but Chamberlain's prediction may keep the speculators on the buying side. The story is that working arrangements as necessity arises were reached, very unofficially of course, in returning for Britain's support in prolonging the Conference.

The important point is that this would not be stabilization. The pound would simply be cut loose from the franc and tie to the dollar instead. Both the pound and the dollar would almost certainly continue to depreciate in terms of gold.

The deal has advantages both ways. From our angle it is less costly and more satisfactory than a currency war with England. Either party can call it off practically at will, so it will not hamper our price rise program. From the British viewpoint it is preferable to a continued drop of the dollar or a depreciation rate. Also it averts a serious ruckus with the Dominions. England still has her preferential trade agreements within the Empire, so she isn't as badly handicapped as might appear. There will be a good deal of Anglo-American teamwork behind the scenes from now on in this and other matters. The British government will avoid committing itself publicly but has decided it can promote domestic recovery best by playing the Roosevelt system. Both governments will expect mutual surprise if asked whether such an agreement exists. They can't be called Ananias either. The arrangements will be handled by the central banks and no one officially will know anything about it. But the evidence will lie in foreign exchange quotations.

The experiment will probably be continued until internal price levels satisfactory to both nations have been reached.

Bedfellows—
 Some New Yorkers thought they detected an odor of fish when Winston Churchill (Conservative), Herbert Samuel (Liberal) and George Lansbury (Labor) all got up in the House of Commons and said the American price-raising program was simply swell. It was about the first time these three have ever agreed on anything. The political situation makes them bedfellows. A New York observer who has just returned from England says that sentiment there in favor of cooperating with us to raise prices is leaping up. This is the reason why the British government itself is trying to hedge. If it didn't you might wake up some morning and find that England had a surprising political crisis.

Whisky—
 Rumored cornering of the whisky market by a nationally known corporation is stretching the facts. That concern will have stiff competition from at least three others with cash backing of three to sixteen million apiece. Last week a well known British whisky agency was sold by a New York man for $500,000, at 100 per cent profit.

Gold—
 Plans to establish a free gold market here have been shelved. Experts disagreed fervently about its probable result would be but the majority contended that natural forces would make the dollar rise rather than fall. That argument killed it. It may be revived if they can find how to get around that obstacle. The decision sets American gold producers to singing the blues. They aren't allowed to sell to anybody but the Treasury and they get the same old price in depreciated dollars. The world is out of joint for them and won't somebody please hold their hand?

Some of them are trying the stunt of not putting the metal through the last stage of refinement. It isn't gold and they are not liable to penalties for holding it. They aim to have a supply on hand if a break comes in their favor. Canadian producers are giving their American competitors the horse-laugh. Their government pays them a premium for the difference between the Canadian dollar and the world price of gold.

Fair East—
 New York gets inside information that British-Japanese cooperation is gradually forming a zone across Asia. The purpose is partly to extend territory and partition China and partly to isolate what will be left of China from the Soviet Union.

The first move from the British was the capture of Chinese Turkestan by the so-called "Mohammedan rebels." These forces are British-trained and equipped. At the same time the Japanese have driven into Kalkan. This is a desolate region useless for income but useful strategically as a jumping-off place either north to Siberia or to Kansu, the last Chinese province on the caravan route to Turkestan. Both Britain and Japan are using native troops. The program will probably develop slowly but would eventually take over everything from Tibet to Manchuria through northwest China.

TEXANS—

 resumed its own order controlling shipments, the drop in East Texas output was expected to be sufficient to "economically justify" the recent raise to 7c there, with other raises due soon. The commission has threatened to prosecute railroads transporting any hot oil in interstate commerce after noon Thursday, having required them to obtain tenders from the commission on all shipments subsequent to the president's order. It was said that tank car movements had virtually stopped at midnight Thursday, and one large pipe line which has been alleged to have run about six times the amount of the allowable of its connections was reported shut down Friday. The railroads and this line, with its terminal in another state, have been charged as the principal offenders in moving oil produced above allowable. Announcement of some price action was expected from Houston Friday, following reported consideration of raises by some of the companies, but no increases had come through. Consideration of the oil codes is due July 24 at Washington, it was reported. As a preliminary, Texas marketers will meet Tuesday morning at the Adolphus Hotel to consider the marketing code recently framed in Chicago and suggest any desired changes to discuss with General Johnson. The Texas Independent Refiners' Association also is to be represented in Washington with its code, recently drawn up here and adopted without change.

EASTMAN—

 executives attained were a symptom of the boom disease," said Eastman. "I am putting the question up to you as I must do in the first instance under the law, because I believe very sincerely that there must be an adjustment of this matter of salaries before the railroads will stand right with the shippers, investors and labor under the conditions that now exist. The executives have much more to gain by such an adjustment than they can possibly lose. "I shall not ask you to consider what fair salaries consistent with proper economy may be in those future days when property is restored. "This country has been and still is suffering to a degree that it probably never has suffered before. Millions are out of work. Still more millions are living on a pittance. Thousands of railroad employes have no jobs at all and thousands more are working part time. Thousands of investors in railroad securities are receiving no return. "I know that salaries have been reduced, but I ask you to consider whether they have been reduced enough in view of prevailing conditions, and what I am thinking about are the salaries at or near the top."

The co-ordinator told the executives he planned to canvass the railroad situation as a complete picture, seeking out every available fact that would fit into a plan for putting the rail carriers on a better business basis. The experiences of other countries, he said, also will be studied. The salaries to which Eastman referred ranged from the $135,000 a year drawn by Hale Holden, chairman of the board of the Southern Pacific Company in 1932. Many salaries since have been cut sharply although many of the recipients still are receiving large stipends.

When the Southern Pacific recently obtained a loan from the Reconstruction Corporation, Holden's salary was reduced to $60,000 a year before the loan was granted. Last Reported Salaries
 Other railroad executives in the higher brackets last year, as listed in a 1932 letter from Eastman to Senator Cawens of Michigan included:

J. J. Bernet, president of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway and the Pere Marquette, $90,000; L. A. Downs, president of the Illinois Central system, $90,000; L. H. Baldwin, president of the Missouri Pacific system, $68,333; F. E. Williamson, president of the New York Central lines, $60,000; J. J. Pelley, New York, New Haven & Hartford, $90,000; A. C. Needles, Norfolk & Western, $67,500; Ralph Budd, president of the Burlington system, $60,000; S. T. Bledsoe, president of the Atchafalaya, Topeka & Santa Fe, $57,500; H. A. Scandrett, president of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific, $57,500; W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, $121,500; Fairfax Harrison, president of the Southern Railway, $67,500; A. D. McDonald, vice chairman of the executive committee of the Southern Pacific Company, $75,000; Paul Shoup, president of the Southern Pacific Company, $99,000; Carl Gray, president of the Union Pacific, $90,000; and Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company, $120,000.

Hundreds of other executives were listed in the recent report as receiving salaries of $60,000 annually or less. Many of these big pay envelopes, however, have been reduced since the figures were gathered in June of last year. Mr. Rice, who was familiarly known to many Odessa people as "Uncle Clay," came to West Texas from his Missouri home when he was 13 years of age, settling on the Edwards Plateau near San Angelo. During his youth and young manhood he traveled over most of West Texas, hunting buffalo on these plains and visiting many West Texas towns at their very beginning. He was in Colorado and Big Spring before the first railroad reached either place, and saw the coming of the Texas & Pacific through this country. In 1885 he moved to New Mex-

Man Who Settled Near San Angelo in '71 Dies

ODESSA—Clatoleus D. Rice, 75 years of age, who came to West Texas from Missouri in 1871, and who had been a rancher in fifty Texas and New Mexico for fifty years, died in his home here last Friday evening after a lingering illness which had kept him confined the better part of many months. Funeral services were held in the Hendrick Funeral Parlor here and interment was made Monday afternoon in the Odessa cemetery.

Mr. Rice, who was familiarly known to many Odessa people as "Uncle Clay," came to West Texas from his Missouri home when he was 13 years of age, settling on the Edwards Plateau near San Angelo. During his youth and young manhood he traveled over most of West Texas, hunting buffalo on these plains and visiting many West Texas towns at their very beginning. He was in Colorado and Big Spring before the first railroad reached either place, and saw the coming of the Texas & Pacific through this country. In 1885 he moved to New Mexico, where he ranched for fifteen years, and in 1900 moved back to West Texas, establishing a ranch in the section near the present site of Lamesa. Later he moved back to New Mexico to ranch for a few years and 15 years ago he sold his home and moved to Odessa to make his home. Surviving are a brother, Lee Rice, of Silver City, New Mexico, a brother, Joel W. Rice, of Phoenix, Arizona; a sister, Mrs. C. E. Sperry, of Illinois, a sister, Mrs. Annie Rice, of Odessa, and a nephew, Joe Rice, of Odessa.

Prof. Martin Returns From Archeological Work In New Mexico

Prof. Leland L. Martin, superintendent of the Forsan schools, was here Friday afternoon on business. He returned Friday night to Lubbock, where he is finishing some graduate courses in Texas Technological college. Mr. Martin returned to Lubbock a few days ago from near Santa Fe, N. M., where he spent six weeks as a member of a party of Tech students in archeology engaged in unearthing recently discovered Indian ruins. He gave an interesting account of discoveries made there, where a large Indian village was uncovered.

Constable Smith McKinnon said Saturday he was the only person working in the constable's department after several persons had pretended themselves to be members of his staff. Miss Inez Newsome of Iredell has arrived to spend the remainder of the summer with her brothers, proprietors of the U-Save grocery. # THE ROMANS had a phrase for it --

"CAVEAT EMPTOR," meaning "Let the buyer beware." This wasn't used as a bit of balm to ease the ancient conscience; nor, yet, was it placarded in the booths and stalls of the market-place. It was a piece of every-day knowledge, born of dear-bought experience.

A shopkeeper knew little about the source of his merchandise. This tunic he bought from a trader, who said it came from Byzantium. So he sold it as the latest Byzantine style. The trader told him the dye was pure Tyrian—it wouldn't fade. So he sold it as Tyrian dyed. But the buyer knew the responsibility was his own. If he guessed wrongly, or his judgment was poor, it was his hard luck.

Today, fortunately, there are safer guides than the blanket-warning to "let your eyes be your market."

These guides are the newspaper advertisements. In this newspaper, they are a daily catalog of the best values in town—signed by responsible firms. If the goods are not all that is claimed for them, their sponsors would need to "beware." For no business can thrive on a one-time sale, or on dissatisfied customers.

A signed advertisement is, in a way, like a promissory note. The advertiser has made a statement, and affixed his signature as a sign of good faith.

So, read the advertisements before you start out on a buying-trip. Make this a daily habit, and see how much you save . . . in time, in temper, in money, in shoe-leather.

Terms Of Home Owners' Loan Act Explained By James Shaw

Law Provides Refinancing Of Mortgages On Small Homes At Low Interest Rate; Redemption Where Foreclosure Taken Also Allowed

DALLAS—James Shaw, Texas manager of the home owners' loan corporation, revealed the terms under which harassed home owners might be aided by the government's plan established primarily to refinance mortgages on small homes.

"Loans to be eligible must be upon homes of valuation not exceeding $20,000 and the maximum amount that can be loaned to any individual is $14,000," he said in a statement.

"The plan contemplates mortgage holders accepting bonds of the home owners' loan corporation in place of mortgage loans and provides that the corporation can issue its bonds to take up individual loans up to $14,000 or an amount not to exceed 80 per cent of the reasonable value of the home."

Shaw said that loans where the bonds of the corporation were given to the mortgagee would bear interest at the rate of 5 per cent and would be repaid by the borrower in small monthly payments. The bonds of the corporation will bear interest not to exceed 4 per cent.

"The law provides that the United States government will guarantee the interest on the bonds," Shaw added. "These bonds will be issued for period not to exceed 15 years."

Under the law, the corporation can not make a loan on any real estate unless it is a home and occupied by no more than four families.

Shaw's statement gave this example of the working of the plan: "Suppose 'A' owes 'B' the amount of $14,000 or less, secured by a lien on 'A's' home.

"'A' can not meet his payments on account of reduced income or for some other reason. 'B' prefers to have the loan in current form or retired.

"'A' will go to 'B' state that he can obtain a loan from the home owners' loan corporation of $14,000, or less, provided that 'B' will accept the bonds of the corporation and transfer 'A's' notes and the lien to the corporation.

"If, after a fair appraisal, it is shown that the $14,000, or less, is not in excess of 80 per cent of the reasonable value of the property, the transaction will be closed just as soon as the title is passed upon and all other preliminaries closed.

"The operation is very simple, the mortgage being given $14,000 in bonds of the corporation and the lien transferred to the home owners' loan corporation, the borrower to repay the corporation in monthly installment over a 15-year period."

The corporation also may make loans in cash at 6 per cent with the provision that the loan shall not exceed 40 per cent of the fair value of the property as determined by it.

"The law provides," said Shaw's statement, "also that in cases where citizens have lost their homes by foreclosure that the corporation may advance funds to redeem such homes."

"The law is strictly a relief measure and is in no wise intended to interfere with the normal operation of commercial lending agencies. The law specifically provides that liens must be in existence June 12, 1933, the date the law went into effect, before loans are eligible for the corporation to accept."

Interesting and exciting games were played in addition to a comedy presented by Bruce Phillips' patrol, entitled "Amos and Andy."

National Dry Goods Code Includes Specific Wage And Hour Provisions

Important provisions of the National Code tentatively agreed upon by the National Retail Dry Goods Association for submission to the Industrial Recovery director, and as announced here through the Retail Merchants Association follows:

Maximum Working Hours

The maximum number of working hours in retail dry goods, department store, mail order and specialty shop establishments except for a period of two weeks before Christmas and two days a year for inventory, shall not exceed forty-eight hours a week. This shall not apply to executives.

Minimum Compensation

In striving at minimum wage rates for retail dry goods, department stores, mail order and specialty shop trades, we have had to bear in mind the fact that hundreds of thousands of these stores are located in very small communities where the cost of living is low and a lower wage permits a satisfactory standard of living.

Adult male employees over 18 years of age and with one year's experience in a retail store at the rate of $12 for a forty-eight hour week.

Adult female employees over 18 years of age and with one year's experience in a retail store $10 for forty-eight hour week.

Junior employees of both sexes under the age of 18 years or apprentice employees over 18 years of age with less than one year's experience in any retail store $9 for forty-eight hour week.

Unfair Competition

It shall be unfair competition for anyone to sell, offer for sale or advertise to sell at retail any merchandise less than the net invoice cost plus 10 per cent to insure the labor cost shall at least be partially covered.

Nothing in this paragraph, however, shall be interpreted to prevent seasonal clearance of merchandise, so advertised or plainly marked, or advertising damaged goods, so advertised or plainly marked, nor shall any seller for the purpose of discounting or handling of such goods, as so advertised or plainly marked, be stopped from selling merchandise at less than net invoice cost plus 10 per cent to insure the labor cost shall at least be partially covered.

2. Advertising (written, printed, radio, or display) which misrepresents merchandise, values, or services; or selling methods which tend to mislead the consumer, shall be deemed acts of unfair competition.

3. Retailers shall be free to advertise their own goods, their own services, and their own prices, but references to the goods, services, or prices of competing retailers shall be regarded as an act of unfair competition.

4. The use of participation in publishing or broadcasting of any statement or representation which lays claim to a policy of continuing practice of generally under-selling competitors is an unfair and uneconomic practice.

5. It shall be considered unfair competition for any merchant to offer for sale any product of a peer institution.
