At Houston . . .

McCloy Catches Calf

HOUSTON--When the flag dropped at the Feb. 24 matinee performance of the 1990 Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo, the scramble was on, as 28 4-H students and 14 unruly calves covered the 2.75-acre Astrodome arena with excitement.

Marty McCloy from Morse won an $800 calf certificate by catching, haltering and maneuvering one of the elusive calves into the winner's circle. The certificate, sponsored by Weil Construction, will enable the youngster to purchase a registered beef or dairy heifer.

During the next year, Marty will raise the calf under the supervision of his county extension agent or agriculture science teacher. He will send monthly progress reports to the calf certificate sponsor and to the Show. Also required are accurate monetary records, a journal including photographs and a 500-word essay covering the year's experiences.

The culmination of the year-long project will be when Marty returns to Houston to show the heifer at a special competition during the 1991 Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo.

"Those students fortunate enough to receive one of these certificates should seize the opportunity and make the most of it," said John Smallwood, chairman of the all-volunteer Calf Scramble Committee. "Maximum effort is required--effort that just starts in the Rodeo arena," he added.

The calf scramble program awards 302 calf certificates each year. Since the first scramble was held in 1942, more than 11,000 calves have been purchased at a price of more than $2 million.

The Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo, which runs through March 4, is the largest of its kind in the world. The Show includes a rodeo, top-notch entertainment, the world's largest livestock show and a world-famous horse show.

Net proceeds from the Show fund scholarships for more than 1,000 students in Texas colleges and universities. Money also is provided for agricultural research projects at the college level.

Marty McCloy of Morse (second from left) won an $800 calf certificate February 24 in the calf scramble at the Houston Livestock Show & Rodeo. With him

PUC Cuts TNP Rate Increase In Half

The $14,132,718 (4.77%) rate increase request of Texas-New Mexico Power Company (Docket No. 8928) was cut in half by a decision of the three-member Public Utility Commission of Texas. On February 21, the Commission granted TNP an increase of $7,063,618 (2.48%) over current base rates for the purpose of recognizing increased operating costs.

TNP's request for deferred accounting treatment associated with TNP One Units 1 and 2 in Robertson County (Docket No. 8880) was served and remanded by the commission to the PUC Hearings Division. A schedule for considering the remand proceeding has not been set.

The commission as part of its decision set an 11.30% rate of return on the utility's investment, which is lower than the 12.22% rate TNP requested. This includes a 12.86% return on equity, which is significantly lower than the 14.60% requested by TNP.

Monthly winter rates for a TNP residential customer using 1000 kilowatt-hours of electricity will increase from $70.60 to $74.18 under the commission's decision. Monthly summer residential rates for 1000 kilowatt-hours usage will increase from $75.60 to $79.18.

TNP serves 162,514 customers through four operating divisions in 43 Texas counties. Cities served by TNP include Angleton, Clifton, Lewisville, Pecos, Perryton, and Texas City.

Weston's Business Built From Ground Up

by Jean Ann Behney

For Randy Weston, 1970 Spearman High School valedictorian, life is divided between his "flourishing" business, Weston Gardens in Bloom, Inc. and the 10-acre property he and his wife Sue bought in 1988. Both home and office are located on Anglin Drive, a north-south artery south of Fort Worth in an unincorporated area located between Kennedale and Forest Hill.

Residents of the Fort Worth area since 1984, when they opened their landscape nursery, the Westons met at Texas Tech in Lubbock in the mid-70s. Randy had spent quite a bit of time on the J.H. Martin farm and ranch in Hansford County during his childhood, which is where he claims he "learned the value of work." He said his responsibilities as a child and teen included planting, irrigating and harvesting the crops as well as working with cattle.

After being graduated Summa Cum Laude from Texas Tech with a Bachelor of Arts degree in Mathematics in 1974, Randy worked one and a half years for Santa Fe Railroad as an evaluation engineer, inventorying and valuing property and computerizing this information. Then he returned to the Texas Tech campus to earn a Master's degree in Statistics in 1978, taking an additional 24 hours of accounting as well. Randy and Sue were married in 1976, having met on what Randy calls "one blind date that worked out."

For the next five years, Randy and Sue, a Canyon native who had earned a Bachelor of Business Administration degree at Tech in 1976, lived and worked in Dallas. Working at Arthur Andersen and Company in the consulting division, Randy designed and installed computer systems for clients in the utility, oil and gas and wholesale distribution industries. He was a manager with the company when he started Weston Gardens in Bloom, Inc. on May 1, 1984. Sue left her accounting position at a Dallas real estate company to join her husband in the business one year later.

Randy is the president of this nursery landscape company and acts as its supervisor of day-to-day operations, promoter, and contract administrator. Sue, as secretary/treasurer, handles the accounting and budgeting and is in the process of setting up an integrated computer system in the office.

Weston Gardens in Bloom, Inc. is, according to the company's brochure, "a landscaping design and installation concern specializing in medium to large commercial and residential contracts." Projects that the Westons have completed in the past four years include a $126,400 project at Oak Brook Development and landscaping the Frito Lay national headquarters during the summer of 1988. In addition to projects at office buildings, banks and apartment complexes, their work has included private residences.

Randy left his consulting job because he says he wanted "something that would get me outside again, rather than in a glass building for 12 to 14 hours a day." He explains that working on the Martin place in agriculture gave him skills and knowledge in many areas that he uses in his nursery and landscape design business. "It is very similar work!" he says. "You have to apply herbicides and insecticides, work with soil, irrigate. . . . The other aspects of the nursery business he says he learned quickly.

At the time Randy opened Weston Gardens in Bloom, Inc., the economy in Texas was in a downslide. "It was just a big leap of faith, really," he recalls. "I knew building was slowing, but I had no crystal ball and didn't expect things to get as bad as they did." Thirty-eight independent nurseries folded in an 18-month period in Tarrant County during this mini-depression.

"I learned that creative marketing is a must in this business," Randy replies when asked how Weston Gardens in Bloom, Inc. managed to stay in the black in the economic downturn. "We do our own design, so there is a big creative element to our work. We are also pacesetters."

Weston Gardens in Bloom, Inc. has several unique touches in its approach to landscaping. One example is that instead of using

Dr. Behney Appointed City Health Officer

Spearman City Council appointed a new City Health Officer, contracted for the 1990 sealcoat of Spearman city streets and ordered replacement of a light regulator at the airport, among agenda items at its Tuesday, Feb. 27 meeting.

Jim Murray, city manager, told the council that Dr. Laurence Behney has agreed to become the city's Health Officer and be paid $100 per month with no other benefits. His appointment as City Health Officer is effective April 1.

According to Murray, a total of $49,500 was budgeted for the sealcoat project this year. He also requested a "fog seal" for the runway apron and entrance road at the airport, saying that this item was not budgeted but will prolong the life of the asphalt on the apron and entrance road. Murray pointed out that the runway and taxiway were sealed during the airport improvement project, and Alderman Mike Cudd said he had noticed a difference between fog sealed areas and non-sealed areas.

After discussion, the council voted to contract with Brandt Engineers Inc. for the 1990 sealcoat and for fog sealing the apron and entrance road at the airport.

Other council business concerning the airport revolved around a regulator that controls the runway lights. Murray explained to the council that heavy dust problems caused the voltage regulator to deteriorate earlier than expected. The regulator now in use is on loan from Ray Electric, subcontractor on the airport improvement project.

Murray said that in the subcontractor's opinion, replacement of the regulator would be more cost effective than repair. He also stated that the regulator is located inside a T-hanger now. City staff, he said, will construct a building around the new regulator to help control its environment and prevent future damage.

Council members voted to replace the regulator, which will cost $6,650, contingent upon the approval of the FAA and the airport advisory board.

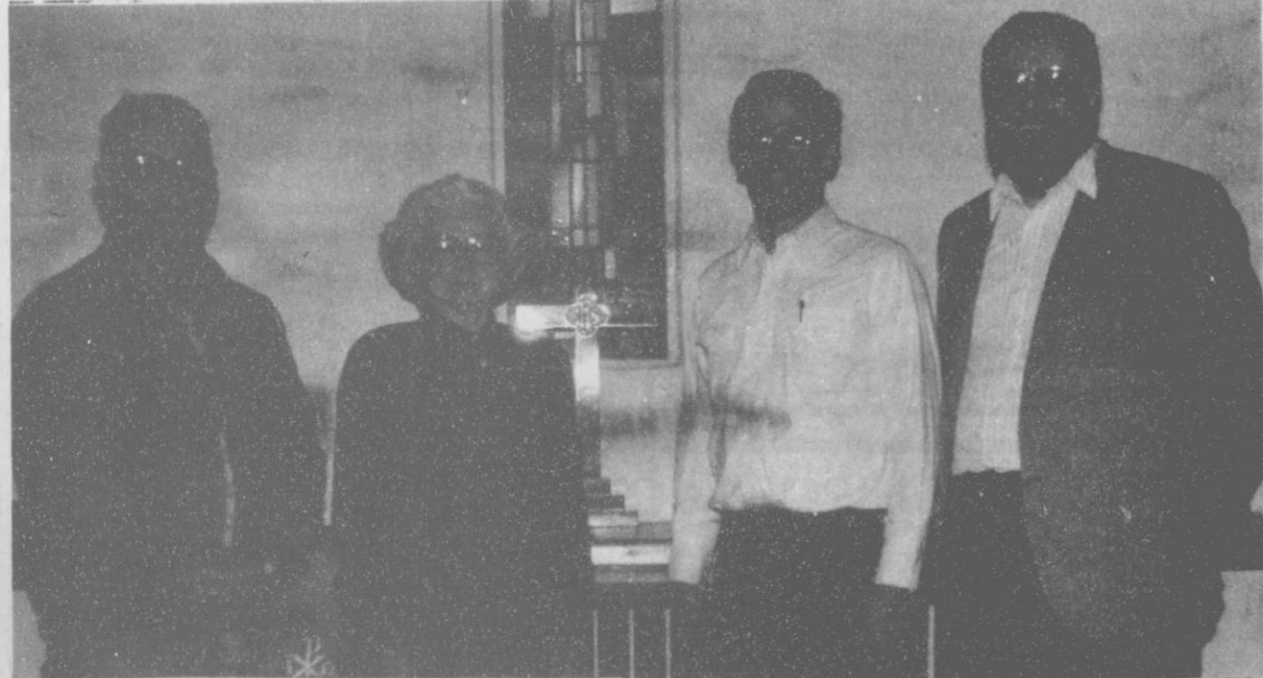

In other business, Dwight Brandt explained to the council steps to be taken in the refurbishment of the wastewater treatment plant. The council voted to contract with Brandt Engineers Inc. for professional services on the wastewater treatment plant project.

The council also decided to enter into an interlocal agreement with the City of Gruver for solid waste disposal. Murray told council members that the City of Gruver Commission has approved the agreement and would like to begin bringing Gruver's solid waste to the Spearman landfill on April 1, at a rate of $14.85 per ton.

Bids for service and rental of uniforms, walk-off mats and shop towels had been opened on February 20. After discussion, the council awarded a 23 month contract to the low bidder on all the items, Amarillo Linen and Industrial Service.

The city's travel policy was amended by the council, increasing the mileage rate paid from $.20 per mile to $.26 per mile, to be consistent with the city manager's reimbursement mileage.

City Secretary Cheryl Gibson was appointed as the city's Records Manager, in accordance with House Bill 1285.

Leaders of the Lutheran and Presbyterian Churches in the county stand together in the Presbyterian Church in Spearman. Their congregations will be meeting together from now on. They are J.W. Ward, president of the Lutheran Council; Helen Etter, Presbyterian clerk of the session; Nathan Hanson, pastor of Oslo Lutheran Church; and Sam Steele, pastor of the Presbyterian Churches of Spearman and Perryton.

Quotable quotes from Spearman High School's 1970 Valedictorian, Randy Weston

Favorite Teacher and Class: Mathematics and geometry, taught by Mrs. Minnie Weaver

Something you learned NOT from a book or class: A general work ethic. You were expected to produce. There was a general competitiveness and encouragement to work hard.

High school activities: Football, basketball, track, National Honor Society, Student Council and Band. Note: We didn't march at halftime.

Best-remembered thing about high school: Good friends in a small town, like Ronnie Lusby. Also, camping and hunting on the farm.

"Pros" of Spearman High School: We didn't have some of the city problems. The education system there was the best in the state. When you went off to college you were prepared for any environment. And the smallness of the system gave you a chance to do everything.

On the flip side? Athletics were stressed a little too highly to the detriment of other things.

Among The Neighbors

by Helen Fisher

John and Virginia Trindle returned the early part of the week from Grandbury, where they spent a week in the home of their daughter, Connie and Dr. Doug Stegar.

They bring back encouraging information about Connie, who has been incapacitated for so long. She is making slow but steady improvement and is walking with assistance. Dr. Doug, with Nathan and Abby, have become quite proficient at keeping house and cooking.

Spearman has a new VIP in the person of 15 month old Meagan Gibson, who is the winner of three first place trophies and one second in a recent contest.

The All Star Kids Pageant, staged by a Dallas firm, was held in Amarillo last Saturday. Meagan was entered in four categories and won first in the All Star Beautiful Babe, the All Star Photogenic and the All Star Sportswear. She was second runner-up in the All Star Babe.

Her mother, Ronda, is almost as proud as grandfather Ronnie and great-grandparents, Ray and Helen Gibson.

Mr. and Mrs. Dwayne Mitchell thoroughly enjoyed spring break, as it gave them an opportunity to spend several days in Rogers, Ark. in the home of their daughter, Paige and Chris Sultemeier.

Accompanying the Mitchells was their other daughter, Shelley Baloglou with seven month old Christin.

Shelley and Christin have been here with the Mitchells nearly a month, and will be here several more days. Her husband, Sgt. Chris Baloglou, is attending an army training encampment for several weeks. They live in Tacoma, Wash.

Ten boys, members of the First Baptist Church, took advantage of the spring break for a trip to Wolf Creek, Colo. They left Friday and returned Tuesday. The days were dedicated to skiing, and the evenings to an inspiring retreat.

Scott Taylor and Kelly Fuller accompanied the following boys: Brandon Baker, Curtis Pearson, Jeff Hutchison, Brandon Rex, Bob Shields, Tracy Thompson, Barry Beck, Kris Kelp, Chad Davis and Micheal Cummings.

All the neighbors are distressed to hear of the misfortunes of Earl Riley and Mrs. Willella Martin, when each had a fall on Wednesday. Earl suffered a break in the upper left arm, and Mrs. Martin a broken rib and bruises. Both falls occurred at their homes, both were treated and released from the Hansford Hospital, and both are now being cared for in their homes.

Attention is called to the obituary in the Amarillo News-Globe on Thursday of Gary Taylor, 41, of Canyon. Funeral services were held on Thursday. Mr. Taylor was the husband of the former Patty Buzzard, daughter of Dorothy and Lloyd Buzzard.

He is also survived by a son and daughter. It is requested that memorials be to the American Heart Association.

Many friends and relatives from Spearman attended the services.

Mary Alice Gibner spent part of the spring break at Pasadena, Calif. with Stinson and Mrs. Gibner. She left Wednesday and was airborne at the time of that 5.5 earthquake the same day.

David Evans, son of the Jim Evans, was also a guest of the Gibners, and he and Stinson were at the tennis courts and didn't feel the quake. There was no damage to the Gibner home.

Mary Alice schedules her trips to Pasadena just right. She arrived immediately after the last severe quake, and left just before this one.

Spiritually Speaking

Keep on Growing
by Sam Steele

First Presbyterian Church

A wise person once said, "If you ever stop growing, you die." Those are powerful yet challenging words. And they impact our lives everywhere, especially our spiritual nature. We need and must allow the Spirit of God--the Holy Spirit--to grow in our lives each and every day. But more than that, we need and must grow in the Spirit each and every day of our lives.

This is a poem written by a dear friend of mine--Dr. Marea Black, who at the age of 84 years YOUNG earned her Doctor of Education degree.

This poem was written on the eve of her graduation at the age of "LIFE IN HER 84th YEAR". A Pastor and your friend. . . Sam Steele.

Each day of my life I want to be aware of and grateful for the happiness I've known;
And I do greatly desire that for my many errors I can atone;
Let me be grateful for the blue of the sky,
And the myriad God-given beauties that catch the eye.
Bless the warm friendships in gladness and sorrow,
Which prove helpful always on the morrow,
To walk with strength and to smile through pain,
And to know that each day I may start again;
Whatever the span my life shall gleam,
Let each moment be a fulfillment of a dream.
Happiness and satisfaction will be the order of the day;
This will be a blessing for those who pass my way.

hollies as a staple shrub, the Westons use native sumacs, which traditionally haven't been a part of cultured landscapes. Another specialty is xeriscapes. A xeriscape, Randy explains, is a landscape with native plants or imported plants that do well in Texas without much water. "We're looking at water rationing in certain areas of Texas in the future," Randy says. "So it just makes sense to look at plants which don't require much water."

Weston Gardens In Bloom, Inc. also supplies clients with large specimen trees. "You can call this 'instant shade,'" Randy says. He once collected two 35-to-40-foot red oaks in Oklahoma for the estate of Stanley Marcus (of Neiman-Marcus). "Some of our trees that we hand-dig out of the wild weigh as much as 10,000 pounds, including the root balls. It's pretty serious, stressful business to move large trees like this!" exclaims Randy. The trees are moved in large trailers and later set using huge cranes. The Westons have gotten trees from "all over" - California, Florida, Louisiana and eastern Texas, to name a few places.

Shortly after opening their business on Anglin Road south of Fort Worth in 1984 the Westons were told about a sort of "paradise lost" just across the road. Hiding behind overgrown shrubs and trees was the former 10-acre estate of Leon and Peggy Bandy called Dripping Springs.

"When we started the nursery, we never knew what was across the road," Sue Weston told reporter Christopher Evans in an article about Dripping Springs in the Feb. 2, 1990 Fort Worth Star-Telegram. She went on to explain that some men came into the store and told the Westons about the once-beautiful exotic gardens and huge stone ship over the creek on the Dripping Springs property. Sue said that she and Randy were interested in buying the place from the time they first discovered it. In Evan's newspaper article, she is quoted as saying part of it resembles scenes from "The Great Gatsby," and the part on the creek reminds her of San Antonio's River Walk. Randy thinks the estate could be a great movie set.

The owners of the estate (before the Westons) concentrated on enlarging the property's original one-bedroom English-style cottage and found keeping up with the grounds a burden, according to Evans' article. The house now has three bedrooms and over 3,800 square feet of living space. In March of 1988, the Westons bought Dripping Springs for $200,000.

The property's name, it should be mentioned, was given in the early 30s by original owner Leon Bandy, because for many years, an outcropping on the creek oozed rivulets of water. Although there are no more "Dripping Springs," Randy and Sue Weston have undertaken the enormous project of re-creating this one-time paradise. Some of their initial discoveries were pleasant ones--such as finding uncommon plants to this area (a Jerusalem thorn, or retama, for example) and ascertaining that Dripping Springs' focal point, the curious 48-year-old stone ship, was not beyond repair. This ship was once the site of dances at the extravagant parties hosted by the Bandys at Dripping Springs.

"If I have a philosophy of life, it's that you need to do what you're happy doing. That's why I left the world of fast-paced downtown office buildings to do what I'm doing now," Randy affirms. He claims he and Sue got their "persevering attitude" from their Panhandle farm and ranch backgrounds.

Between their landscaping business and their estate across the road, both "leaps of faith" for the Westons, Randy and Sue are making places bloom all over the Dallas-Fort Worth area.
