THE HANSFORD PLAINSMAN, SPEARMAN, TEXAS 79081

SUNDAY, JUNE 15, 1980

The Oslo Lutheran Church was the focal point of a series of thunderstorms that unexpectedly pelted a large area of the Panhandle with rain and hail ranging in size according to the intensity of the storm and sent three funnels swirling around Gruver, Tuesday night and early Wednesday morning.

It was first reported that a tornado had hit the Oslo church, a landmark in the community some 20 miles northwest of Gruver, but the Hansford County Sheriff's Department later said the roof of the old church was severely damaged by hail the size of softballs.

No injuries were reported. The Gruver Police Department said there was no evidence that any of the funnels sighted in the area struck ground and confirmed the report that hail inflicted the damage on the Oslo church. However, straight winds out of the storm were clocked at 60 miles per hour in that area.

Rain accompanied the storm at Oslo and Gruver as it did around the entire storm-swept area but official measurements had not been made.

Neither had damage assessments been made but an unofficial estimate, made by skirting an area of obvious heavy damage, said some 56 sections of cropland had been destroyed by the combined pounding of rain and hail and further aggravated by the wind.

This was in the Gruver-Oslo area.

W.M. Miller, publisher of the Gruver STATESMAN, traveled across a wide span of the storm area returning from a business trip and kept a storm watch well into the early morning hours, Wednesday. He reported straight winds up to 50 miles per hour at Spearman about 1 a.m., Wednesday, but little rainfall and no damage other than the litter of debris, chiefly tree limbs, cluttering some city streets.

Spanning out from the Oslo-Gruver storm center, heavy rains and high winds were reported at Borger, Stinnett and Sunray.

City Eyes Traffic; Property Eyesores

Traffic enforcement drew the most serious attention and the greatest amount of time at the regular city council meeting of the city of Spearman, Tuesday night while approval of three agreements and to payments for services were among other items on the agenda.

As complaints have become more numerous, Spearman's new police chief has stepped up methods of enforcement, the council was told. One case has been referred to the grand jury which returned an indictment and the matter is in the hands of the county attorney for prosecution.

It was the consensus of the council that the greatest problem was that young people drew the fines, they were paid without much parental concern and the traffic problem cycle began over again. It was felt some parents might be more concerned if they knew the procedures for violators under 17 years of age. The police chief told them current policy in Spearman when a driver under 17 is apprehended, he or she is taken to the police station and parents are summoned to come down at that time. Upon their appearance at the police station, the parent or parents are issued a citation according to statute in addition to that issued the offending youthful driver.

It was explained that there is a certain recourse to those who experience problems—particularly if they are dangerous situations—with traffic violators. Any citizen can supply a license number, vehicle description or pertinent information and sign a complaint against the driver. In signing the complaint, he or she agrees to appear in court against the offender and aid in prosecution. The signed complaint becomes the equivalent of a traffic citation and becomes a part of the court docket along with scheduled citations to be heard.

Members of the council agreed to enter into a contract with the Spearman Independent School District in the matter of city tax assessments and collections for the period June 1, 1980 to May 31, 1981. SISD takes the responsibility for keeping tax rolls correct and up-to-date. For this service, the city pays five and one-half percent of collectable taxes. For this fee, it would be impossible to hire the personnel needed if the city undertook the job.

A related agreement was also approved. The contract with the law firm of Purdue, Brandon, Blair, Shiever and Fielder—specialist in this field—was renewed for the collection of delinquent taxes. The fee is 15 percent of all taxes collected. The firm is used also by the county and the school district.

The third agreement approved by the panel, Thursday night, was an inter-local accord with the Texas Municipal League Workers Compensation Joint Insurance Fund. Spearman City Manager Jim Murray explained that despite the increase in claims that raised the premium reference index from .73 to .89, participation in this coverage was still cheaper than a private carrier by at least 10 percent of premium costs plus better coverage offered to those covered for the "bargain" price.

It was noted that the increase in on-the-job accidents was predominately in the sewer department and the most frequent mishap was dropping manhole covers on toes.

Two payments were approved. One was a partial payment as per contract agreement to McMorries and Burns for engineering services on phase two of the municipal airport project. The other was to J and D Pipeline Service, Pampa, for materials and labor for the installation of a two-inch water line to the municipal waste water treatment facility.

Changes in the existing ordinance enforcing care and upkeep of properties within the city were approved. Most of the changes were for clarification and to combine weeds, grass, water accumulation areas, filth, rubbish and similar items the law considers dangers to health and eyesores to the community.

The ordinance provides for a 10-day notice to the owner of the property that it must be brought into compliance. If this has not been done by the owner at the end of the 10-day period, the city can go in, clean up the property and bill the owner for the cost of doing so plus a $15 fee to defray costs of notices and other enforcement procedures. If the bill is not paid within a certain time limit, the city then goes to court and secures a privileged lien on the property. Fines up to $200 may be levied.

Murray said the city stood ready to work out something in the case of the aged and the infirm. Purpose of the ordinance, he said, was not to work a hardship but to give the city opportunity to do something about absentee ownership property which is the chief eyesore problem.

Following reports from the various departments of the city and approval of bills for payment, the council adjourned.

Faye's Daze

I have spent most of the week looking for things I have misplaced and most of the time they were right under my nose. I think I must be a candidate for the funny farm, but if I am I want to pick where I go, like the mountains.

I've been getting a kick out of the stories about who killed J.R. Ewing, in the TV show "Dallas". The national press has reported that Dusty did not die in an airplane crash, and will appear in the upcoming season as the man responsible for leaving J.R. for dead. I hadn't thought of Dusty as a suspect, since I thought he was dead, but knowing TV shows they may resurrect him. There seem to be plenty of others who would have good motive for murder of this wheeling-dealing, conniving, etc. character J.R., including his mother, father, brothers, wife, sister-in-law, etc. The list is endless.

Anyway it seems that we will have to wait until at least the third episode of the fall season to find out who pulled the trigger. I guess the first two episodes will be devoted to whether J.R. lives or dies. If they kill him off, they remove the best part of the show.

Another Dallas story...it seems that Nieman-Marcus, the Dallas-based specialty store, is now offering the ultimate gift for the person who has everything...a granite mountain cavern to store it in. Nieman-Marcus' Christmas catalog contains three 'his and hers' 700 cubic foot, temperature and humidity controlled vaults deep within a 9,000 foot mountain in Utah's Wasatch Range. The price-$90,000 for 50 year lease.

"One may store here, with impunity and far from all uninvited eyes, the originals of oils you'd hate to lose, the real jewelry, a very rare vintage Bordeaux, a golden in-out or two..." the catalog says.

Protecting the vault, in addition to its natural setting, is a surveillance system with closed circuit and hair trigger alarms powered by waterfall-generated electricity.

If I had $90,000 I sure wouldn't want to spend it on a cave. In fact a cave doesn't appeal to me in the least.

Be extra kind to dear old Dad this Father's Day. Fix him a special meal, give him a big hug, show him how much you love him, because he is probably the best friend you'll ever have.

Martha Batton will be teaching a class in needlepoint on Thursday, June 19 from 10:00 a.m. until 5:00 p.m. There will be a break at noon for a covered dish luncheon.

There is still room in the van-bus for some more people to go to the Country Squire Dinner Theater in Amarillo to see "The Rainmaker". It is planned to leave the Golden Spread Center at 5:00 p.m. on Friday, June 20.

The first day of summer is Saturday, June 21, and Golden Spread Center wishes a pleasant summer to everyone.

Golden Spread Center is located at 14 S. Haney and is open Monday through Friday from 9:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. for everyone fifty-five years of age or older without discrimination as to sex, color, race, nationality, religion, politics, or handicap.

Hightower's Report

(Washington, D.C.)-Congressman Jack Hightower has requested directed service for the portion of the Rock Island Railroad that is located in the Texas panhandle. In a letter to the Secretary of Transportation, Neil Goldschmidt, Congressman Hightower pointed out that the areas served by the Rock Island in the Texas panhandle met the criteria set out in legislation signed by President Carter last week. The criteria being a current lack of service and agricultural food commodities that need to be moved.

Hightower told Secretary Goldschmidt, "Grain elevators served by the line have a great deal of wheat on hand with harvest less than a month away!" "If directed service is not provided soon, already low grain prices will have tremendous transportation costs added that will economically destroy many of the farmers that depend on that rail service," Hightower explained.

Hightower's Report

The new legislation, which Hightower has been working on to move through the Congress, provides additional directed service authority and picks up some of the labor protection problems that some of the rail carriers said they could not accept.

Summer Skin Care Tips

Summer sun, salt water and air conditioning can all have a drying effect on your skin and hair. It takes a little extra care to keep both in good condition.

Ask your dermatologist or pharmacist about rich, concentrated Purpose Dry Skin Cream, specially formulated to help skin retain its natural moisture. Use it from head to toe, after bathing or before retiring, to keep skin soft, smooth and beautiful.

Hair needs extra protection, too, during the summer months, to prevent color fading and drying from sun and salt or chlorinated water. Keep your hair covered with a straw hat and be sure your shampoo is a mild one.

Harsh shampoos used on a daily basis can be irritating, so many dermatologists recommend specially-formulated Purpose Shampoo, which cleanses thoroughly and gently, and helps hair maintain its shine and manageability.

RUBBER GLOVES AND HIGH VOLTAGE
Do you think you know how to stay alive? Don't bet your life on it. According to safety experts, what you THINK you know may kill you. During the next 12 months, several thousand Americans will die themselves. Their deaths will be completely unnecessary. The common denominator in all cases: False knowledge. Here's a case in point: When a New Jersey boy's kite got tangled with a high-tension wire, his father tried to shake it loose. Donning a pair of rubber gloves, the man reached for the wire - and was electrocuted instantly.

"Dozens of people execute themselves every year because of the naive belief that they can use ordinary household rubber gloves to argue with a high tension wire," says the safety director of New York's Consolidated Edison Company. "Rubber gloves may be safe enough around 100-volt wires around the house, but they offer scant insulation against the thousands of volts surging through high-tension wires. When you have a high voltage problem, wait for the utility maintenance men."

Control Cattle Grubs

Each year between June and September, Texas livestock producers can effectively control costly cattle grubs by applying livestock insecticides, says Layton Barton, County Agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Grub control can be achieved with a variety of treatments which includes sprays, dips, pour-ons, spot-ons and feed mixes.

During late fall and winter, grubs appear on the back of livestock. It's too late to begin control measures then since most of the damage has already been done.

In addition to controlling cattle grubs, an insecticide used now will also provide contact control of horn flies for two to three weeks. Barton says this makes the overall cost of treatment favorable.

Insecticides suggested for grub control include coumaphos (Co-Ral), crufomate (Ruelene), phosmet (Prolate), trichlorfon (Neguvon), famphur (Warbox), fenthion (Tiguvon), and ronnel. Read and follow directions on the insecticide label before treatment. Cattle that are sick or under stress should not be treated, cautions Barton.

The cattle grub is the larval stage of the heel fly. The adult fly has no mouth parts, so it causes no pain to the cattle. However, it frightens cattle, making them difficult to manage. Animals often seek relief by standing in shade or shallow water.

The life cycle begins when the heel fly lays its eggs on an animal. The eggs, glued to hairs, hatch within a few days, and larvae (worms) enter the skin at hair follicles. The immature stages then migrate through the animal's body for six to eight months and reappear in the animal's back in the fall and winter, forming knot-like marbles or cysts.

Cattle grub losses are affected in a variety of ways, says Barton. Besides damaging meat and hides by their feeding activity, they lower beef cattle gains and reduce milk production throughout the year. Profit losses are estimated to cost the Texas cattle producers $8 - 10 million each year.

Space Vegetables Properly For Higher Yields

If your spring garden is making good growth but looks crowded, maybe it's time to do some thinning.

Thinning vegetable plants can mean more fresh produce for your dining table, says Layton Barton, County Agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Gardeners often plant more seeds than necessary to insure enough healthy plants for a productive stand. However, too many plants in a given area is as bad as too few, notes Barton. Overcrowding can result in unhealthy and unproductive plants.

Therefore, thinning is usually necessary for proper spacing and maximum production from your vegetable plants. And plants usually need thinning periodically.

For example, if snap beans are to be thinned 3 to 4 inches apart, thin the plants 1 1/2 to 2 inches apart when they are young. As they become crowded, thin them again to recommended distance, explains Barton.

When thinning larger plants, Barton suggest cutting them at ground level instead of pulling them from the ground. This will protect the root systems of neighboring plants.

The size of mature vegetable plants dictates the distance needed between them, adds Barton. Larger plants such as broccoli, cucumbers, cantaloupes, squash and tomatoes require at least 24 inches between them. Smaller vegetables such as beans, beets, carrots, lettuce and onions need only 2 to 6 inches of space for maximum production.

Farm Facility Loan Maximum Increased

WASHINGTON, May 13-Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland today announced that the amount a farmer may borrow under the farm storage facility loan program has been increased from $50,000 to $100,000. The loan increase is being authorized to reflect higher costs of construction and materials, Bergland said.

Under this program, loans are offered by the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service to help farmers buy, build or remodel on-farm storage facilities and to obtain needed drying and handling equipment.

The maximum loan is 85 percent of the cost of the structures and equipment. Under the new maximum, the aggregate outstanding loan balance maximum is also increased to $100,000, Bergland said. A minimum down payment of 15 percent of the cost must be paid in cash by the farmer before the loan is disbursed.

Loan repayment terms allow for a maximum of seven equal annual installments over a period of eight years. Prepayment may be made at any time without penalty.

Farmers must apply for loans at their county ASCS office within 30 days of the time the items to be financed are delivered to the farm. The higher loan amounts are available on applications filed beginning today.

No change is being made in the current method of determining storage needs or in the loan levels requiring Agricultural Stabilization state committee approval or real estate liens.

Farmers have built approximately 4.2 billion bushels of storage under the farm storage facility loan program since the program began in 1949. About 43 percent of this construction has occurred since April 1977 when Bergland authorized major program changes.

Interest Laws Cited For Local Merchants

YMCA News

Spearman businessmen attending the Chamber of Commerce June breakfast, heard all the news concerning interest on credit accounts from an authoritative source, Thursday morning.

Following "eggs n' trimmin's" Kurt Hergert, in charge of the program for this month's affair, "primed the pump" by asking how many sent statements bearing the legend "one and one-half percent interest per month on unpaid balances." He then introduced Attorney John Hutchison to speak on Texas usury laws.

Hutchison prefaced his remarks by noting that usury laws are the oldest form of consumer protection.

He also noted that, at one time, usury referred to ALL interest charged but today, used in a legal sense, concerned abuse of the provision for charging interest.

He told his audience that, at its inception, Texas was an entity of debtors and subsequent laws were designed to keep the barest taint of usury from victimizing residents of the state.

So, six percent interest on charge accounts is the limit in Texas unless there is a written, signed contractual agreement between the merchant and his credit customer. Even then there is a limit which rules out the one and one-half percent per month penalty interest because, through the wonders of mathematics, it soon doubles the interest which places the merchant immediately in jeopardy if his customer chooses to file a legal complaint.

Stressing that his remarks were delineating the matter as regards small town businesses rather than the large operating chains, Hutchison used the example of a small town businessman in East Texas who had a customer that had amassed a credit account of some $13,000 and was very much behind in settling the account.

The merchant tried, for a time, the one and one-half percent penalty per month but at the time he went to court to collect, he had abandoned this item on his billing and in his suit which asked only the base $3,000 amount of the charge account.

By law, he lost his claim to the $3,000. In addition, he had to pay twice the amount of interest he had been seeking to collect $3,000. In addition, he had to pay twice the amount of interest he had been seeking to charge and had to pay the defendant's attorney. In seeking to collect $3,000, he lost claim to the debt and had to pay the debtor some $7,000 as ordered by the court.

Hutchison displayed some copies of the law governing the agreements, observing that what he was showing had come to be a verbatim part of most buyer-seller credit agreements now used in the state. The usury law not only dictates the wording of such but stipulates the SIZE OF THE TYPE in which it must be printed.

The attorney further explained that many firms were closing out all credit or charge accounts notifying such regular customers that this service would be available to them again upon executing a written agreement governing such transactions.

He said he felt this could be done gracefully by including in the communication to the customer that this action did not reflect on his or her integrity but was simply a move to guarantee the merchant was in full compliance with the usury laws of the state.

Businessmen were urged to look closely at their interest policies and their relationship with credit customers.

He closed on a "good news" note for some: That businessmen or firm not charging any interest at all on any type of credit accounts and any such charging only six percent interest and no more under any circumstances, need not worry about the law or any agreements with credit customers.

The breakfast meeting adjourned until July 10.

4-H Today

4-H today is the largest out-of-school educational youth organization in the United States. It reaches more than 5 million young people (165,000 in Texas) aged 9 to 19 on the farm, in the city and in between.

4-H members learn by doing, points out Peggy Winegarner, county 4-H program coordinator with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. They are involved in a wide variety of practical real-life activities ranging from agriculture to wood science. 4-H programs vary widely according to youth needs and community resources.

The 4-H mission is to help young people become self-directing, productive and contributing members of society, adds Mrs. Winegarner. Programs help youth develop inquiring minds, learn practical skills, strengthen decision making competency, improve communications and interpersonal relationships and ultimately to share their skills and experiences in a leadership role.

Key to the success of the 4-H program is the cadre of more than 575,000 volunteer leaders (23,000 in Texas), including many junior and teen leaders, who in turn are supported by county, state and national staffs of the Cooperative Extension Service of State Land-Grant Universities and the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Further, the 4-H idea has spread around the world. More than 80 countries have youth programs similar to 4-H.

Following is just a partial list of what you might find 4-H'ers doing in your community:

Agricultural production, beef, bicycle, camping, child care, citizenship, clothing and textiles, commodity marketing, communications, community development, community services, conservation of natural resources, consumer education, cooking, creative crafts and hobbies, corsus cultural understanding, dog care and training, economics and career exploration.

Also, field crops, food and nutrition, food conservation and safety, gardening, goats, health, home environment, home management, horse, land scaping, photography, poultry, public speaking, rabbits, safety, sheep, small engines, soil and water conservation, swine, tractors, veterinary science, wood science, work with the elderly, and many, many more.

Jamie Bulls & Steven Shields At Boys State

Jamie Ray Bulls and Steven Bruce Shields have been attending the Fortieth annual American Legion Boys State held in Austin this week on the Campus of the University of Texas, sponsored by the State of Texas American Legion. The boys are sponsored by local American Legion Posts.

Delegates to Boys State are chosen by teachers, and the American Legion and will be seniors in high school next fall.

Jamie is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bulls of Spearman and Steven is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Shields of Stinnett.

The week long program teaches responsibilities of citizenship in an actual "do it yourself" type workshop from which comes its motto, "Learn by Doing."

The political caucuses and conventions of Boys State are as exciting as any in real life. The secret ballot of the general election instructs the young citizens in the finer arts of being a gracious winner and a good loser as they learn from their experiences of campaigning.

Approximately 955 boys, a new all-time high, were housed in 21 Boys State Cities with each city further divided into two precincts, one for the Federalist and one for the Nationalist political party. They run for office or work for appointments as they organize city, county and state governments. Climax of their effort is the election of a boys State Governor, a Legislature, Supreme Court and other state offices.

The boys were scheduled to visit the State Capitol Friday, June 13, and actually sit in chairs of the office to which they were elected and mythically run the state government for a day.

Become An International Family

Local families have the opportunity of becoming an international family by sharing their home and life with an international student for the coming school year.

"Sharing your home and love with an exchange student eager to learn about America, can be a gift to enrich your life," states John Richardson, Jr., President of Youth for Understanding and former Assistant Secretary of State for Education and Cultural Affairs. "It is an opportunity to learn about another culture in a very personal way."

Youth for Understanding is a non-profit educational program that has exchanged over 75,000 teenagers worldwide, since 1951. It is one of three high school student exchange programs recognized by the International Communication Agency of the U.S. Department of State.

The purpose of this program is to increase international understanding through the family-living experience for young people and families are invited to share the Texas spirit with students by becoming host families.

Exchange students become members of their new families and have the same responsibilities as other children in the home. Maximum effort is made to match the students and families with similar interests. Families interested in participating in the program who care to contribute in this individual way to better understanding and friendship among peoples of our world should contact: Lois Perina, 3563 Colgate, Irving, Texas 75062, telephone 214-256-1105 (Metro).

Films stop heat rays

They are used in greenhouses and in refrigerated showcases' windows to let marketable goods be seen while keeping out room heat and saving refrigeration costs.

$5,000 saved?

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration estimates that its safety standards saved more than 55,000 lives between 1968 and 1978.

Rubber flooring

Promising results have been obtained from studies carried out by the Rubber Research Institute of Malaysia on ways to use rubber-industry by-products in making such items as parquet flooring, paint and animal feed.

A number of companies are already using rubber wood for making furniture, charcoal and blackboards.

Basic-research investment down

U.S. investment in basic research, which rose 13 percent a year between 1953 and 1961, fell to a bare 0.3 percent-a-year increase from 1961 to 1967. It actually declined between 1967 and 1975 and grew at a modest 3.5 percent in the last four years, the Conference Board research group estimates.
