Texas Is About to Have a Birthday

The Texas Declaration of Independence was adopted and signed at Washington-on-the-Brazos on March 2, 1836. It was drafted by a Children, chairman James Guines, Bailey Hardeman, Edward Courad, and Collin McKinney.

Invite the Nation to Our Birthday Party

The birth of Texas as an independent commonwealth was an epoch-making event in American history. The struggle of the Texas colonists for freedom was a heroic one and all Texans are proud of the deeds of their forefathers. But it was also the most glorious page in the history of the expansion of the United States to the Pacific and as much a part of American traditions as Concord and Lexington.

All Americans everywhere should revere the memory of the men who contributed so much to the growth of our common country. And we should invite them to join us in holding a fitting celebration of the one hundredth birthday of Texas.

Texans are asked to authorize such a celebration by voting for the Texas Centennial Constitutional Amendment on November 8. The States of the Union and the countries of the world will be asked to participate. The Texas Centennial can be the greatest event of recent Texas history. A worthy sequel after one hundred years to the illustrious deeds of our Texas forebears.
