"The promotional material of most mail-order companies is above board," the postmaster said. "But we want to know about those who, intentionally or unintentionally, make less than accurate claims that confuse and falsely raise the hopes of many people." One of the most vicious home-cure schemes this year involved the Midwest Health Research Clinic at Kansas City, Mo., which peddled by mail all over the nation a "Health Bible Handbook" and "colonic treatment kit.' Postal Inspectors found Midwest did not really operate a clinic, nor did it do any health research.

What it did was make some wild claims for its so-called health handbook. "In this book you find a cure through scientific preventive solutions for the forty diseases and illnesses listed on the next page..." The handbook sold by mail for $9.95.

The investigation by Postal Inspectors traced Midwest to a rundown one-room office across from a massage parlor where he from a massage parlor where

At the same time, the results of their investigation were turned over to a U.S. Attorney, who decided that the operator of Midwest had criminal intent in defrauding consumers and businesses taken in by the scheme. Indicted by a Federal Grand Jury in August of last year, Brannson pleaded guilty to mail fraud on October 13, 1978, two days before his trial was to begin. He was sentenced to three years in Federal prison in

"Mail stop orders used to begin the case against Brannson," the postmaster said, "are regularly used to close down the operators of quack cures and other highly-questionable reme-dies." These orders are issued by the Judicial Officer of the Postal Service based on evi-

nign School Musical Comedy Scheduled

Spearman High School will present its musical this year on Saturday and Monday, Oct. 6th and 8th. This year the musical comedy is "The Music Man".

The story is about the salesmanship tactics of Professor Harold Hill (played by Kyle Beedy) in River City, Iowa back in 1912. His efforts to organize the River City Boys Band and become friends with Marian, the librarian (played by Tamera Scroggs) are met with amazing results and situations you wouldn't believe. All this time, the Mayor (played by Mike Brinson) and the School Board Pack and Jay Comegys) are trying to get his credentials to discredit him but the Board always ends up singing and the Mayor is rushing around trying to keep his wife Eulalie (played by Sherry Greene) and daughter Zaneeta (played by Eadie Clemmons) in line. Then, the "ladies" group (Kathie West, Terry Bynum, Becky Lusby, Lesa Thomas) are always busy with their gossip and Mrs. Paroo (Kelly Shaver) is trying to get her daughter Marian interested in Harold. Getting confused? Come see (Jon Garnett, James Pierce, Jay "The Music Man" and see how everything turns out. Listen to the songs like "76 Trombones". "The Wells Fargo", "Wagon", "It's You", "Goodnight My Someone", and "Lida Rose."
