Rice Owls Loom As Greatest Team In History Of School

HOUSTON, Sept. 6 (AP)—The finest squad in a decade—possibly in history—has Rice football fanning beating on the stadium gates. Usually Dour Jess Neely is quite voluble about it—that is, voluble for Jess, a man who never says in two words what he can express with the twitch of an eye brow.

The Rice coach, starting his seventh season here, looked back over 22 years of tutoring college teams and declared it was the best squad he ever has had.

One of the greatest arrays of guards in the country, knee deep in fine ends, with prospects of the best passing game Rice has ever known, there is every reason for followers of the Blue to figure their team a top contender for the Southwest Conference championship.

Half of the 33 college lettermen with whom Neely had to work are pre-war variety—men who were stars in the seasons just prior to and immediately following Pearl Harbor before the draft started its rains on the athletes. If Neely cared to he could field a team made up entirely of 1942 players—the best team he has had at Rice before this one.

Rice is not too well stocked with tacklers. There are some top hands at this position but the Owls do not have enough of them.

The freshman crop is very gratifying at Rice this year, too. One of the first year men looks good for a starting berth. He is Harold Riley of Sherman, a terrific runner. But keyman of the back field is Virgil Eikenberg of the 1942 team.

Seventeen year old Gerald Weatherly, one of the best centers in the conference last year; Pete Sultis, blocking back of 1942 shifted to center this season, and Juddy Helmeamp, Houston schoolboy star, the middle of the line potent enough.

Top tacklers are Charles Malmberg, all conference in 1943, and Henry Armstrong, a power of 1942. Wendell Williams and Ted Scuggs, stars of 1942 and 1941 respectively, are the starting ends.

The likely starting backfield will be Eikenberg, George Walmsely, Carl Russ, 1944 letterman, who is a fine runner and excellent kicker, Bill Tingle of Pasadena, who played Navy football; Tobin Rote of San Antonio, Dick Hoerster of Lake Charles, one of Louisiana's most sought after schoolboy stars are others rounding out Rice's best backfield prospects in years.

Added to all this is the announcement from Harmon Carswell, Lufkin's great passer of 1944, that he will come to Rice upon discharge from the army expected next week. Carswell has been rated generally as the best passer Texas schoolboy football ever saw.

Week's Business Livestock Market Hires Modern Low, Prices Steady

Big Spring was included in the livestock shortage during the past week, as receipts at local auction firms toppled to a modern low despite a market which was generally considered good.

Demand for stockers zoomed upward on the heels of showers and even heavy rains in some localities. Ranchers who were forced to sell during the summer apparently are anxious to restock their ranges, with new moisture promising a better outlook. But the downward trend of receipts indicated that stocker animals are few in number, and the situation prompted unusually spirited bidding for the few lots offered this week.

The West Texas Livestock Auction company handled only 210 head at the regular sale Tuesday. Most grades were steady, but cows and calves registered strong, hitting $130 a pair.

WINGS OVER JORDAN COMING TO THE MUNICIPAL AUDITORIUM OCTOBER 9th — 8 P. M. See Them In Person

HERALD WANT-ADS GET RESULTS

Hearing Set On Filing To Build Colorado Dam

Officials of the Colorado River Municipal Water association, proposed five-city water supply projects, have announced that hearing on an application for water rights on the upper Colorado river have been set for Oct. 14 by the state board of water engineers.

The application was filed Aug. 3 by Colorado City as trustee on behalf of Snyder, Big Spring, Midland and Odessa, other cities tentatively included in the joint set-up.

Still pending a decision is the matter of whether the CRMWA would accept an invitation from Robert Lee interests to take water at that point rather than constructing a separate dam on the Colorado a few miles above Colorado City. Engineers are making comparative cost and other studies.

However, hearing would be on water rights for municipal use on the river above Colorado City. Another dam, for irrigation purposes, is planned in the Robert Lee area and the domestic water supply would require approximately 20 per cent of the water contemplated for the irrigation lake.

Under tentative proposals of the CRMWA, organized here June 20, the lake in northwestern Mitchell county would be impounded between a 2,400-foot dam and back up in a narrow channel for better than 13 miles at maximum levels. This would be calculated to supply 26,000 gallons daily to a water district selling all water to cooperating cities at uniform bulk prices.

War Surplus Disposals Hit All-Time Peak

Mounting disposals of surplus war goods to health and educational institutions topped all preceding monthly records in May, reaching a peak of $25,235,000, more than five times the January figure. War Assets Administration announced Saturday.

For the five-month period since the beginning of the year, health and educational buyers took about $58,000,000 worth of property or 11 percent of total prior disposals.

During the same period, disposals to all priority claimants mounted steadily. For these five months federal and non-federal government agencies (excluding health and educational institutions) were by far the heaviest buyers, taking $325,000,000 worth of surplus, or about 60 percent of total disposals to priority claimants.

During May, the commerce department made more purchases than any other single federal agency. It bought four percent of total disposals to such agencies. A breakdown of transfers without reimbursement is not available. For the same month, California led the group of state and local government buyers, its acquisitions hitting well over the million dollar mark. New York was second with a total of $890,000. Texas and Virginia followed closely.

Baptists Report Gain In Membership, Gifts

Thirty of 32 Baptist churches in the Big Spring Baptist association reported a combined membership of 11,480, digest of annual letters showed at the associational meet concluded Friday at the East Fourth Baptist church.

During the year, the reports showed, these churches added 1,674 members, 463, of approximately 25 percent, of them by baptism. Together they raised more than a quarter of a million dollars. Of the $257,838 total, $191,560 was for local causes and $66,278 for outside causes.

W. C. Harrison, pastor of Odessa's Belmont church, was re-elected moderator of the association for the next associational year. Named to the district board were Harrison, Rev. Cecil Rhodes, Big Spring; Arthur LeLoach, Midland; Rev. Bert Clark, Fortson; Rev. Jim Fields, Penwell; Rev. Fred McPherson, Midland.

Other officers elected were Rev. W. C. Williamson, Prairie View, vice-moderator; J. C. Hudman, Midland, treasurer; Rev. Of the 110 associations in Texas, 103 have voted to hold simultaneous evangelistic meetings, and date for the Big Spring association is April 6-20, 1947 with Dr. J. Howard Williams, executive secretary, leading. Every church in the association will participate.

An offering, to be divided between Buckeaters and the Mexican homes, was laid on the altar in the amount of $200. Rev. James Roy Clark led a discussion on the United Texas Dries and Rev. Bert Clark brought the missionary sermon before women of the East Fourth church served luncheon.

Next associational meeting is set for Sept. 11-12, 1947, the initial session at the First Church in Big Spring and the concluding one at Calvary Baptist in Midland. Dr. P. D. O'Brien, Big Spring, will bring the associational annual sermon and Rev. Vernon Yearby the missionary sermon.

Young Texans Like Motorcycles, Snake Rattlers

By JACK RUTLEDGE
Associated Press Staff

Randy Sparkman, two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Sparkman of Hillsboro, has a very special way of being lulled to sleep. On a motorcycle.

When everything else fails, his father or a favorite uncle, Alvin Carmichael, takes him for a spin on a motorcycle. That does it. Randy likes to go fast, and encourages the driver to pour it on.

Little Ruth Krienke, one year old, has a new toy. It's a rattle from a Texas rattlesnake.

Ruth thinks rattlesnake fun and enjoys her toy, but her father, the Rev. Theo Krienke, thinks otherwise. When he remembers the way Ruth got her new toy, he still worries.

Ruth was taking a bath when Mr. Krienke heard a warning noise. He looked up and saw a four-foot rattler a short distance from the baby. Keeping very quiet, he reached for a .22 gun and shot the snake.

He didn't win, but Carl Kennedy of Pampa was in the big soap box derby championship at Akron, Ohio, recently. He was filmed dining and feted, and gained the reputation of being able to eat more ice cream than anyone.

His car was a white shell job with red lettering, number 77.

Jack And Norma, Denton College Students, Build Their Own House

DENTON, Sept. 6. (AP)—"This is the house that Jack built."

That's more than a nursery rhyme in Denton. When Jack Moore, youthful veteran of the European battlefront, and his pretty, brown-haired bride, Norma, decided to set up housekeeping in Denton, they began their search hopefully enough.

"At first we couldn't find what we wanted," Jack said. "And then we couldn't find anything at all."

Finally they settled themselves in an apartment, which, although comfortable, simply wasn't home.

Jack was attending North Texas State College, and Norma was a junior at Texas State College for Women when they were married last October.

Early this year they found a lot that, to them, spelled home. The house itself they designed together, arranging it with a living room, two bedrooms, a kitchen, study and bath.

Last May 20 the newlyweds began construction. By Sept. 1 they were moving in. Every bit of the actual building was done by Jack, who called in outside help only for the plumbing and roofing. With no previous experience in carpentering, Jack said, "We did it strictly from observation."

While Jack did the heavy work, laid the flooring and set up studs and siding, Norma busied herself with being chief assistant and manager of painting.

"I painted the sides as he put them up," she said.

Since his army discharge, Jack has been majoring in journalism at North Texas State, but he recently decided to change to law. He plans to commute between home and Southern Methodist University at Dallas when time for his actual law study begins.

The couple stood in the door of their white frame house and looked with satisfaction at the field around them.

"There's still lots to do," Jack commented. But then, they figure, there is no deadline on home-making. They have a lifetime for the job.

Stevenson Hopes Mexico Band Can Play At Texas State Fair

AUSTIN, Sept. 7. (AP)—Gov. Coke R. Stevenson hopes the "happy arrangement" for Mexico's Tipca band to play at the state fair in Dallas can be carried out.

Commenting on the threat of James C. Petrillo of the American Federation of Musicians to have engagements of membership hands at the exposition cancelled should the Mexico City band appear, the governor said he hoped the Mexican musicians would be on hand to play next month.

"We ought not permit this happy arrangement to be frustrated by one who has no interest in the welfare of the people of Texas," the governor said in a prepared statement.

Cotton Insurance Changes Announced

The new year will see a decided change in federal cotton crop insurance, according to information forwarded recently to M. Weaver, AAA supervisor here.

The insurance will have four levels in 1947, ranging from "A" through "D" and all farms will be set up in yield groups.

"A" coverage will apply to cotton planted but not cultivated. "B" classification pertains to cotton which has undergone cultivation and will undergo more. Crops laid by will be covered by the "C" assignment while the "D" category will apply to that already harvested.

No premium for the 1947 insurance has yet been announced but Weaver is of the opinion the rate will correspond with the present range.

Weaver said he expected to be able to give farmers more complete information on the 1947 proposals shortly.

During the Civil War, coast guard cutters were on the union side blockaded southern ports. The cutter Harriet Lane fired the first naval shot of the war.

They'll keep singing its praises for years

Every so often it happens. A car comes along that rings so many bells on so many counts that folks remember it fondly and talk about it for years thereafter.

You're looking at one of those "vintage-year" Buicks now.

Right from the start, it clicked with the stand-out, hint-of-the-future freshness of its styling.

It brought wide, appreciative grins with the smooth way its Fireball straight-eight engine delivers its eager surge of power.

It registered with the steady stride of two lively tons of roadweight, cradled on tireless coil springs all around that turn the roughest road into a pleasure cruise.

Then as people began to discover the blissfully easy way this dream boat handles — as the miles piled up and owners found their cars getting actually better — word started to go round: "That '46 Buick — there's an automobile!"

They'll be saying that for many a long year. And while we're doing everything in our power to get you yours soon-as-possible, you'll find that when you get it is a secondary matter.

For the man who gets a '46 Buick has really got something — something certain to be a high spot in his car-owning history.

Several Items Listed For Clean-Up

A list of items recommended for special attention during the city-wide clean-up drive was issued today by the health and recreation department of the chamber of commerce and City Manager B. J. McDaniel, department chairman, reiterated his plea for swift completion of a thorough campaign.

While the current clean-up still was in the planning stage several weeks ago attention was called to statistics which showed September to be one of the danger months for polio. The chamber department is recommending the clean-up as one of the best known measures for fighting disease, with calm and determined work on the part of all residents requested during the drive.

McDaniel also pointed out that it will give all Big Spring people an opportunity to rid their premises of refuse before new garbage collection fees are instituted.

Articles listed for special attention include papers, rags, old clothing, containers, rubber, boxes and wool, barrels, tin cans, tree limbs, feathers, crates, weeds, grass, bottles, glass, scrap iron tin wire and any other items of refuse.

By WACIL McNAIR
C. H. DeVaney, chairman of the Howard county farm bureau and a director of the state federation, plans to leave Sunday for Waco, where he will attend a state directors' meeting Monday and Tuesday. The bureau has made rapid strides in work connected with its proposed life insurance company, DeVaney reports. The company now is undergoing actual organization, with headquarters to be located in Jackson, Miss. Five states have joined in the organization, and farm bureau members of each state have pledged themselves as policy holders in order to create the new company. More than $25,000,000 in charter policy pledges have been recorded. States included in the new company's service include Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas, Mississippi and Alabama, Texas directors in the company will be J. Walter Hammond, state bureau president, J. H. West of Bishop and Joe Hatton of Spearman.

Farmers who still plan to plant black-eyed peas were reminded that Tuesday is the last day to get prior approval for pea acreage as a soil building program under the AAA plan. Those who get prior approval will be reimbursed at a rate of $1.50 an acre, provided their peas are grown in compliance with the AAA regulations. The regulations will permit virtually any use of the peas except harvesting the fruit. The pea vegetation can be grazed and still comply. However, in case the peas crops fruit well enough to harvest and reach maturity, canneries are offering a ready market at attractive prices. Several in the county already have planted the black-eyed variety since last week's showers.

In January of 1937 there were 298,000 more hogs in Texas than there are today. That sounds like a blow to Texas swine production, but a comparison of values shows that prices and quality are more important than mere quantity in production. Although there are almost 300,000 less hogs in the state now than in 1937, today's value of Texas hogs is set at $34,005,000, as compared with the 1937 value which was only $4,202,000. These figures were released from the Agricultural Economics service center which has been set up recently at the A&M college extension service.

Figures from the service center are reminders of what did and can happen to values of farm and ranch products. For instance, hogs in 1919 were averaging $18.60, but were at a $2.59 average in 1933. For an over-all view of what the "depression days" did to agriculture in this state, the service center has figures showing that it took Texas farmers 13 years to again reach a cash income of 20 million dollars after seeing it fall below that figure in 1929.

Bill Nordt, Washington county farmer who works with a tractor and two-row equipment, plows two rows and skips two rows the first time over a cotton field. On the second trip, he hooks up his four-row cotton duster in connection with his cultivator and dusts insects on four rows of cotton while plowing the alternate rows he skipped on the previous plowing. By this method he saves the time and work involved in one extra trip over an entire field. Joe C. Froese, Washington county agent, says that this is one of many shortcuts worked out by farmers in that county during the critical labor shortage.

Mesquites Cause Colic In Stock

Mesquite beans have been an important source of stock feed during the acute drought, but they also present their problems. Dr. O. E. Wolf, veterinary surgeon, said the number of cases of mesquite-bean colic among stock has taken a sharp jump in recent weeks.

Drought also has made grazing of Johnson grass hazardous in some instances. A few farmers and ranchers have reported loss of stock from toxic effects of the retarded grass.

This year there has been pronounced relief from sleeping sickness among horses. Vaccination, now practically universal, has proven extremely effective. Cases of the infection have been practically nil.

ABClub Discusses Disposal Of Park At Friday Meeting

A heated discussion of the disposal of the project known as the West Side Park filled the luncheon program of the American Business club Friday, with a vote of the majority of the members present indicating a desire to pass the supervision and responsibility of the area to another agency.

It was brought out by trustees of the park that the city, to which the park was deeded at its inception nine years ago, had expressed its willingness to assume active management of the playground and had made blueprints of the improvements and installations needed.

Many of the club members favored the transfer of control to the city since, in their opinion, it seemed apparent the club could not maintain the area at acceptable standards due to the lack of adequate funds and manpower which the city promised to furnish if the transfer was effected.

Final disposal of the park, however, was carried over to a later meeting after voting down a motion to retain supervision by the club.

Loy House, president, presided at the meeting at which Herschel Stockton was introduced as a new member and Selvin Williams, Homer Williams and Carl Meyer of Dallas as guests.

MOSLEMS CELEBRATE RAMADAN WITH PRAYERS, FASTS, ALMS

AP Newsfeatures
CAIRO—Now is the time for meditation and fasting for more than 200,000,000 Moslems throughout the world—Ramadan, ninth month of the Mohammedan calendar. Followers of the prophet fast from dawn until sunset. Expectant mothers, travelers and the sick are exempt by the Koran, but should perform their fasts later.

Ramadan is a month of prayer and spiritual reflection. Verses of the Koran are chanted in the mosques, which at night are brilliant with colored lights. It is also a time of generosity to the poor. Business and politics take a back seat.

Some Arabic scholars say Ramadan means the time of "intense heat," because in the first year of Islam Ramadan fell in midsummer. Others connect it with the Arabic word "rand," which means to bury ashes, signifying spiritual purification.

The Moslem calendar is lunar. Ramadan, which occurs about 11 days earlier each year, runs from one new moon to the next, about 29 days. It began this year July 29.

The Koran defines daylight hours as those in which it is possible to distinguish between white and black string. But in Egypt, observatories issue dawn and dusk tables which are published in the newspapers and distributed by business firms.

Two meals are taken, after breakfast after sunset and sohoor before dawn, usually between 1 and 2 a. m.

In the larger cities, guns announce the meal hours. In the smaller towns and villages, special criers, Mussah-haratiya, walk the streets beating drums and singing songs, beginning at midnight. Many shops and cafes remain open all night. Children carrying colored lanterns also wander the streets singing.

On the 27th of Ramadan comes Laylat El Kadr—the Knight of Power, anniversary of the first Koran revelation to the prophet. Ramadan's end is the three-day festival of Bairam, observed by public prayers and feasting.

The word volcano comes from the name of Vulsan, Roman god of the fiery elements.

Governors Of Texas

Honest Dan Moody Fought To Oust Fergusonism And The Klan In State

Editor's Note: This is the 28th in a series of stories based on the lives of governors of Texas. By PAUL BOLTON

In the early twenties, a young, red-headed prosecutor came out of Williamson county to "oust" Ferguson. His name was Daniel J. Moody but to every voter in Texas since that time he has been known as Dan Moody—a name almost as familiar in Texas politics as Jim Ferguson.

He's made his local reputation as a prosecutor of the Ku Klux Klan. A salesman had been whipped and chained in the public square at Taylor. He sent the masked whippers to the penitentiary. On that stand, Moody was sent to the attorney general's office.

Meanwhile Texas' first woman governor was running for office—and opposing her was the Klan-supported Felix D. Robertson. Today the Moodys and the Fergusons are as bitter enemies as you'll find in Texas; then they stood side by side in a common fight.

This was a short-lived friendship. As attorney general, Moody found what he considered to be wrongful administration of highway department funds. He took this issue to the people by announcing for governor in opposition to Mrs. Ferguson when she bid for a second term. Moody took Mrs. Ferguson in the primary runoff.

As governor, Moody became known for his uncompromising honesty. He won the nickname, "Honest Dan." A story told of the legislator who promised him a vote on an important administration measure if Moody would promise to sign one of the legislator's bills. Moody refused to promise. The administration measure lost by a single vote. Then the legislator's bill came through. He had planned all the time to sign it.

During his last term as governor, there was considerable speculation that he might seek a third term. Mrs. Ferguson was again a candidate, in 1930. Finally Dan decided to back his highway commission chairman as his successor. He stumped the state for Ross Shaw Sterling, and Sterling was elected.

That was his last success in the political arena, down to date. Again in 1932 Mrs. Ferguson ran, and Sterling was defeated for the traditional second term given to governors in Texas. His next venture into politics was in 1932. Perhaps that venture—as a candidate for the United States Senate—was foreshadowed by an episode which allegedly occurred while he was still governor.

Moody was always known as a man with a rich store of expletives. His favorite, when ladies were present, was "dad burn it." One day when things were going wrong, he blew up and shouted at his secretaries, "Dad burn it, when I get out of this office I'm going to make some money, and when I get independent of everybody I'm going to get back in politics again and maybe I can get something done."

When he got out of office, he proceeded to make money. Today he is accredited one of the most successful practicing attorneys in Texas. But he hasn't yet been able to get back into politics.

In 1942, he tried against that political paragon, W. Lee O'Daniel. By a quirk of fate, he and another young prosecuting, ex-governor, who had drawn their support from the same general level of voters, announced on the same day: It was a three-way race between O'Daniel, Moody and James V. Allred. And it marked the first defeat Moody ever suffered in a political race in which he himself was a candidate. Both O'Daniel and Allred outran him. In 1944, Moody was drawn back again into the political arena, this time not as a candidate but into a fight which overshadowed in bitterness any campaign for office. He was elected to preside over the May, 1944, democratic convention where the party later to be called the Texas Regulars went through preliminary birth pangs. He headed that convention's delegation to the Chicago National Convention.

The "Texas Regular" charge has followed him to an extent that in 1946 he felt compelled to issue a public statement that he had always voted the democratic party ticket. This statement was the aftermath of another entry into politics when he attempted to follow the precedent he set in electing Ross Sterling. He backed a candidate for congress—the candidate lost. Dan Moody was born 53 years ago—his birthday is June 1. His father likewise was Daniel "J." for three uncles whose names started with that letter. He studied law at the University, decided that "Dan Moody" would go better on a law shingle. He met Mildred Paxton, a West Texas girl, at the University and the family legend is that he picked out the site of their home before there were married: The governor's mansion, Dan Jr., is an honor student at the University of Texas, and a daughter, Nancy, is four years behind her tow-headed brother.

Williams Trial Taken To Midland

GARDEN CITY, Sept. 7. (Sp.)—Transfer of the case of Earl Hamilton Williams, 48, charged with the murder of his wife, Sculah, was announced Friday by District Judge Cecil C. Collins after a jury in the first trial had failed to agree on a verdict. The trial was set for Monday, Oct. 14, in Midland.

Collins said heavy dockets at both Big Spring and Odessa, other cities within the 70th Judicial District, influenced his selection of Midland. Midland has a comparatively light docket.

The Garden City jury failed to reach a decision after 18 hours of deliberation. Six of the members reportedly favored conviction of murder with malice aforethought. The other six held out for conviction for murder without malice aforethought.

Scout Leaders Slate Meets With Sponsors

Big Spring Boy Scout commissioners discussed plans for scheduling visits to sponsoring organizations at a meeting Thursday night in the Settles called by George Melear, district commissioner.

A series of unit committee meetings also is being planned, and commissioners probably will meet each week during the next few weeks.

Attending Thursday night were Effah Phillips, Cecil Nabers, Olen Pickett, J. B. Apple, D. M. McKinney, H. D. Norris and Melear.

Farmers Cash In On Rains; Plant Wheat, Pea Crops

A number of Howard county farmers have set out to claim the benefits of recent showers by planting fall and winter crops during the past week. The rains were stopped, ranging from light showers to heavy downpours in some areas. This condition has kept fall planting from becoming general, although hundreds of acres of county cropland, which had not been seeded during 1946, has been planted. Latest acreage, according to reports late in the week, has been devoted to wheat, and more is expected to go into the ground within the next few days. Several hundred acres also have been seeded with black-eyed peas. Although the rains came late for the peas, the multiple benefits which can be realized potentially have made them popular. The cost of seeding an acre of peas is estimated at about $2. By obtaining prior approval from the AAA office, the crop can be raised as a soil builder and the AAA will reimburse the growers at a rate of $1.50 an acre. If the peas do not fruit heavily enough or mature in time for a marketable harvest, farmers can collect their $1.50 an acre; use the peas for grazing and still reap the benefits of the plants' soil building qualities. Not to be overlooked is the upswing in fall gardening, which was prompted by the rains. The home produce outlook is brighter than at any other time this year.

Forsan And Elbow To Open Schools

Students of the Forsan and Elbow schools report for classes Monday morning, a week after other schools of the county started work for the 1946-47 term. An estimated 240 students will enroll at Forsan, where G. D. Kennedy succeeds Dan McRae as superintendent of schools. Kennedy was busy the past week seeking three additional teachers to add to his staff of 15. At Elbow, a principal had not been hired Saturday morning but school board trustees were confident that position would be filled shortly. The Elbow school will have about 45 pupils the coming year, according to recent estimates.

Double Amputee Gets Around At Convention

GALVESTON, Sept. 6 (AP)—Among the most active members of the American Legion attending the three-day state convention here is Warren C. "Red" Cowden, 28, double amputee veteran of World War II, and an officer in the Fort Worth post. Cowden got around in a wheel chair because reliable artificial limbs to replace his legs amputated above the knee after an aerial bomb explosion in New Britain have not been made available. Cowden was a delegate to the National Legion Convention in Chicago last year and is a candidate to represent the state again at the San Francisco convention this month. He said today he planned to go whether he is elected or not. "The Legion has done more for the veteran; in my opinion, than any other organization," he said in explaining his interest. Cowden is Democratic nominee for state representative from Tarrant county and personnel manager for a Fort Worth hotel.

Cotton

NEW YORK, Sept. 7 (AP)—Cotton prices for all deliveries moved to new highs for the season today as the New York Cotton Exchange resumed Saturday sessions for the first time since June. Future prices generally were up from $2.70 to $5.00 a bale and the October 1947 position traded at $4.42 cents a pound or $5.80 a bale above Friday's closing quotation. Heavy buying was attributed to a growing belief that the government cotton crop report due Monday would not show the slight improvement in prospects indicated by private reports.

"Night And Day" Opens At Ritz

Warner Bros. couldn't have chosen a better vehicle with which to celebrate their 20th Anniversary of Talking Pictures than "Night and Day." Technicolor musical extravaganza which opens today at the Ritz Theatre to the evident delight of the assembled first nighters.

For the new film, which co-stars Cary Grant and Alexis Smith, is one of the most gala sound events of this, or any other season. Not only is the music the best of Cole Porter — which means the best of one of our top contemporary composers — but the use of Technicolor is absolutely stunning in effect.

Add to this the topnotch performances by the film's co-stars as well as the inspired contributions of Monty Woolley and Jane Wyman and the smooth vocal renditions of Ginny Simms and Mary Martin (the latter sings the Cole Porter number which originally catapulted her to fame, "My Heart Belongs To Daddy.") plus a host of other first-rate thespians and specially performed and the result is a combination of talent and technique which is thoroughly unique and extremely rewarding.

Based on the career of Cole Porter (played by Cary Grant), "Night and Day" is equally concerned with the composer's music as it is with his life. Strangely enough, though Porter's background spoke lavishly of comfort, education and gracious living, the composer struggled for years to escape it.

The sinking of the Lusitania made the opening night of Porter's first Broadway show, "I'll Sings the Blues," a tragedy. The First World War interrupted his romance with Linda Lee (Alexis Smith). His successful career came perilously close to disrupting his eventual marriage to her. And a serious accident, which kept him bedridden for years, almost succeeded in finishing him completely.

Aiding the songwriter in various capacities along the way to final success and personal happiness are a galaxy of top performers of stage, screen and radio, including, besides those mentioned above, Eve Arden, Carlos Ramirez, Donald Woods, Victor Francen, Dorothy Malone, and ballet stars Milada Mladova and George Zoritch. In their varied roles the entire company of players dispatch their acting and performing chores with remarkably consistent excellence.

Credit producer Arthur Schwart, himself a famous songwriter, for losing none of Porter's musical charm in a film which might well have stood alone on the basis of its firm story line; and director Michael Curtiz for the lively, ably executed and creamy-smooth combination of song and story. Based on Jack Moffitt's adaptation of the career of Cole Porter, the screenplay was written by Charles Hoffman, Leo Townsend and William Bowers with Ray Heindorf contributing the effective orchestral arrangements of more than a score of Porter's most famous song hits.

SCENES FROM STATE ATTRACTION — She loves violently, jealously, possessively! Gene Tierney plays the jealous wife and Cornel Wilde her unsuspecting husband in "Leave Her To Heaven," Technicolor triumph playing at the State today and tomorrow.

AMONG MANY GREAT STARS — Monty Woolley and Ginny Simms aren't exactly being chaperoned, but Alexis Smith and Cary Grant keep an eye on them in "Night and Day," which opens today at the Ritz Theatre.

"Leave Her To Heaven" Opens At State, Stars Tierney, Wilde, Crain

Tri-starring Gene Tierney, Cornel Wilde and Jeanne Crain and photographed in a veritable triumph of Technicolor, "Leave Her to Heaven" is a picture few people will want to miss. It opens today at the State Theatre.

Based on Ben Ames Williams' best-seller, it's about the most elaborately treated murder melodrama in convenient memory, and perhaps the first to be so designed as to virtually compel restriction of its exhibition to adult audiences.

Miss Tierney plays with convincing skill a woman so possessive in her love for her husband that she kills people to whom he devotes attention. Her first victim is his crippled brother, whom she allows to drown when she could rescue him, and the second is her unborn child, whom she has conceived primarily as a means of monopolizing interest and kills by throwing herself downstairs on the eve of its birth. When the husband learns the truth about these incidents and leaves her, she commits suicide after preparing false evidence calculated to convict her sister of having murdered her.

In a measured technique, the picture opens quietly and moves along without much happening for about an hour, then picks up tention as the murdering gets going, and toward the end spurts into high gear in the court room scenes in which Vincent Price dominates the dramatics. The arrangement is highly successful as regards the building of the suspense and the final impact of the story is greater than a synopsis of it suggests.

The Texas Poll - - -

Stevenson's Popularity Generally Runs High, Opinion Sample Shows

By JOE BELDEN
Director, The Texas Poll

AUSTIN, Sept. 7.—Coke R. Stevenson, who within four and a half months will vacate the office of governor of Texas, weathered the summer's political storms riding high in public esteem.

The Texas Poll's month-to-month popularity index kept on the state's governors shows that as August ended Stevenson had the approval of 63 percent of the people. Although his curve has dipped since the overwhelming 71 percent vote of confidence he received last April, those who approve of the job he is doing amount to a vast majority.

The governor's popularity barometer is compiled by asking this question once a month to a representative cross section of Texans: "Do you generally approve or disapprove of Coke Stevenson as governor of Texas?" Here is the record for the months that the poll has been in operation since the end of the war:

	Apr.	Disap- proved	Unde- cided
	Pct.	Pct.	Pct.
April	71	21	8
May	61	33	6
June	64	24	12
July	70	16	14
August	63	25	12

The above figures indicate that the governor's prestige dipped somewhat during May and June. There may be various explanations for such a drop, one being that during May Stevenson played his guessing game with the voters, apparently unable to make up his mind whether to run for a third term. It was in May that he received the largest vote of disapproval that the Texas Poll has ever found for him (he may have gone lower some time during the war years, but the poll did not operate for the duration.)

July was a month of good news about Texas government. Repeated announcements emanated from Austin citing the "best financial conditions in 100 years." The governor announced the state tax rate would be cut from 72 to 37 cents. The state funds apportionment to schools was raised from $30 to $47 per scholastic. The abortive State Senate solo session was held invalid, a victory for Stevenson. Apparently it was news of that type that made the governor's vote of approval shoot back up to 70 percent.

For August he was seven points lower than for the previous month. And some observers may point to the fact that nothing much happened in August concerning the governor's office, that the Jester-Rainey clash stole the limelight.

As has been the case with other high elective officials, Stevenson's popularity has experienced a decline during the years he has been governor. O'Daniel's popularity started out high, went into the 70's a few months after he took office, and had gone down to 48 percent by the time he left for Washington as Senator. The Gallop Poll has found Truman's curve dwindling as the months pass, and the same was generally true in Roosevelt's case.

Stevenson, although not as popular now as he was during the first few months of his administration, remains in the good graces of a large majority. His average popularity figure during 1941—his first year—was 77 percent. During five months, April to August, of 1946—his last year—he averaged 66 percent.
