Meet The Director Party

The whole town of Spearman is invited to the "Meet the Director" party for the Fruitcake Review on Tuesday, November 13 at 7:30 p.m. in Bob Skinner's building in the North Plains Shopping Center, commonly known as the Old Beedy furniture store building. If you have an act or would like to perform in the show, you need to be there and tell the director what you want to do or volunteer your services for whatever he would like to have you do. The director comes from the Jerome Cargill Theatrical Agency in New York and he needs to meet all of Spearman to get a real good feel of the spirit of our community so that he and the local committee, can plan a smashing, fun-filled, good clean family fun Fruitcake Review. Jerome Cargill began talent shows to bring about a spirit of community awareness and to discover hidden talent in the community. He began his theatrical agency because he was interested in bringing culture to small communities where legitimate theatre was not available. The Fruitcake Review will only be a successful venture for Spearman and the Chamber of Commerce and the Y.M.C.A. if the whole community works together on this venture.

Refreshments will be served by the Zeta and Epsilon Zeta sororities.

There will have been no invitations issued for the party. There is just this general invitation to all of you local assorted nuts to get your act together and come and meet the director on Tuesday, November 13 at 7:30 p.m.

It is important for the success of the Fruitcake Review that you be at the "Meet the Director" party in the Bob Skinner building in the North Plains Shopping Center.

The link will be through a gasohol plant for which an area farmer group have developed a plan, and financing, and that an use up to 7-13 million bushels of North Plains grain a year—wheat, milo and corn.

"The bright feature of this project is that grain growers will have an assured market for their crop at a price geared to the price of motor fuel," points out Mike Metcalf, Dumas attorney representing the farmers cooperative group. "It's a way to keep grain prices in step with energy costs, to provide a long range market at a top price."

U.S. Ag Exports Hit New High

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1--U.S. agricultural exports reached a record high of $32.0 billion during fiscal year 1979, Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland announced today.

He said that the export total for the fiscal year which ended Sept. 30 was up $4.7 billion, or 17 percent, from fiscal year 1978 and record high for the tenth straight year. At the same time, he noted substantial gains in export volume for such key items as feed grains and soybeans and products.

Bergland also noted that the value of agricultural imports for the year rose by about $2.3 billion to $16.2 billion, which means that U.S. agricultural exports were $15.8 billion greater than imports.

"That represents a $15.8 billion positive contribution to this nation's total balance of trade, which is vital to the strength of the dollar," he said. "It's a record high, but this contribution by agricultural trade has exceeded $10 billion for the past six fiscal years."

The figures, released today, show export values increased for all commodity categories except dairy. Leading value gainers were grain and feeds, valued at $13.6 billion, $1.9 billion more than last year, and oilseeds and products at $8.7 billion, up $1.2 billion.

The volume of feed grain exports rose by 4 million tons, reaching 59.5 million, and soybeans and products shipments increased by 1.2 million tons to 27.3 million. Wheat and flour exports declined slightly to 32.2 million tons, off 600,000 from fiscal 1978.

Bergland Urges Intensified Soil Conservation

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1--American farmers must decide soon whether to keep their soil tied down on the land or to allow an additional 60 million tons of it to wash or blow away this season, Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland said today.

Because of an excellent demand for American grain in the year ahead, there is no set-aside or diversion for wheat and feed grains, and each farmer will decide for himself how much cropland to plant, Bergland said.

"In the 1973-74 crop year," he said, "farmers plowed up an additional 9 million acres of marginal land--land nearly impossible to protect from soil erosion."

The result was 60 million tons more soil lost on those 9 million acres alone," Bergland said. "That was the bitter result of plowing from fence to fence."

He pointed out that the most serious soil erosion occurs on a fraction of the cropland, usually sloping land with highly erodible soils. Soybeans planted on marginal lands in one part of Iowa, he said, resulted in "the sickening loss of 26 tons of soil for each ton of soybeans harvested."

Bergland warned that switching to crop production on hard-to-protect acres can undo years of work and hundreds of million of dollars invested in soil conservation practices.

"Whenever farm prices are high, we see thousands of acres of cropland that should have never been plowed and the destruction of a lot of good conservation systems," he said. "Each farmer should ask himself if the chance in the short run is worth the risk of long-range damage to his farm."

Bergland added that marginal lands are not the only source of soil erosion.

"Even in a so-called 'normal' year, about 2 billion tons of soil wash away from America's cropland," he said. "Millions of acres of cropland in current use need more conservation applied--especially in places like west Tennessee, where erosion runs as high as 30 tons of soil as an acre each year." These farms need more contouring, more terraces, more conservation tillage," Bergland said.

He urged farmers to plant only the best, protected land to crops, and save the rest for future generations.

Technical and financial assistance in controlling erosion is available from several Department of Agriculture agencies, including the Soil Conservation Service and the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION

New York was the first state to pass a Workmen's Compensation Law. The law was passed in 1910, an amendment was adopted in 1913, and a new law enacted in 1914. Originally these laws were passed to protect workers in hazardous occupations such as gunpowder manufacturing, mining, chemical processing, blasting operations, etc. Later, the scope of coverage was increased to include other occupations.

Workmen's compensation pays benefits for illness or injuries that are caused by an individual's job. It has developed in a three phase manner, from common law liability, to employer's liability statutes, to our present day concepts of worker compensation. The security and peace of mind provided by workmen's compensation benefits for all concerned are just two of its many benefits and objectives. There are also important collateral results, such as plans to cut down and eliminate injuries to workers by means of safety programs. In some instances, insurers give companies special prevention incentives in conjunction with these programs.

4-H Food Show Nov. 17

4-H'ers will match foods-and-nutrition expertise against each other in the Hansford County 4-H Food Show November 17.

About 45 youth will compete in senior and junior divisions, according to Mrs. Peggy Winegarner, County Extension Agent.

Enteries will be on public display from 11:30 a.m. - 12 noon at the Methodist Church Fellowship Hall in Spearman.

Senior-division entrants are ages 14-19, while junior-division youth are ages 9-13. For each contest, each 4-H entrant will compete in one of four classes, including main dish, side dish, breads and desserts, or snacks and beverages.

"Because the foods and nutrition program focuses on nutrition, each contestant will have to demonstrate what she or he knows about nutrition, meal planning, food buying and meal service, as well as preparation techniques," Mrs. Winegarner explains.

Hansford County 4-H Food Show is sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System and the Morrison Milling Company of Denton, Texas.

Educational activities conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service are open to all persons regardless of race, color, national origin, sex or religion.

Hightower Says Iranian Situation Deplorable

(WICHITA FALLS* TEXAS)

"The present situation at the American Embassy in Iran is deplorable," Congressman Jack Hightower stated. "Under the guise of complying with religious laws Iran's Ayatollah Khomeini has committed acts that can only be branded as atrocities. He has now slapped the United States in the face by supporting terrorists who imperil the lives of American embassy employees as blackmail for returning the Ayatollah's predecessor to Iran so that he can be murdered. We have turned our other cheek for too long."

If the situation in Iran does not improve immediately, I will initiate legislation that will change our immigration laws and allow the United States to rid itself of students who have abused this country's hospitality and who have hidden behind America's Constitutional democracy to further the cause of their own nation's tyranny," Congressman Hightower said. In conclusion, he noted that under existing law Iranians are allowed in this country without threat of deportation, unless they are tried and convicted of a crime. No deportation hearings may be scheduled until after June 1, 1980 and pending a change in the political situation in Iran that date may be extended according to immigration officials.

Bankers give support to fuel-alcohol co-op

The North Canadian Bankers Association will give its support to an effort by North Plains grain growers to form a fuel-alcohol cooperative and build a $30-million plant in the area.

Support for the venture came Thursday following a meeting between members of the banking association, which represents 15 area banks, and the board for Northwest Texas Grain Products Cooperative.

"I am impressed with what you have told me," declared Kenneth Irwin of Gruver, association president. "I would venture to say that area bankers will be behind you in the effort."

The meeting was held in Dumas at the First State Bank. Its purpose was to detail the financing grain growers will need to set up the cooperative and build the fuel alcohol plants.

Mike Metcalf, Dumas attorney, was the spokesman for the proposed cooperative. Also present were members of the temporary board of directors, Tommy Harbert, Jimmy Wells, Art Noack, Jim Dowty and Marion Gariand.

Metcalf explained the financing grain producers will need to get into the cooperative. It figures out to a little more than $10,000 per 10,000 bushel grain contract.

The funding will be required in stages beginning with a $500 cash payment for each 10,000 bushel contract to provide front money for the venture.

The proposed coop is presently in a campaign to write 700 grain contracts to provide $325,000 of base financing. This money will be needed for a feasibility study to determine if a 20-million gallon a year, or larger, fuel-alcohol plant is practical on the North Plains.

If cooperative members get a favorable report and decide to go ahead with the plant, its members will be required to make an additional $1,500 payment per contract.

Farmer-members will also put up equity money for plant construction of $8,751 per 10,000 bushel grain contract.

Metcalf explained that since Oct. 4, some 60 contracts for 600,000 bushels of grain have been pledged by Dumas and Sunray area growers. He added that grain producers in other North Plains counties would be contacted following grain harvest.

The effort to secure 700 contracts, he reported, has been slowed because of harvest.

"We anticipate that the cooperative will be fully subscribed within 30 days," he declared.

A farmers and ranchers prayer

This prayer taken from Farm and Ranch Living Magazine.

As farmers and ranchers, Dear God, give us the wisdom and patience to understand why a pound of T-Bone steak at $1.80 is high, but a 3-ounce cocktail at $2.20 is not.

And a 50¢ Coke at the ball game is cheap, but the 20¢ glass of milk for breakfast is inflationary.

And Lord, help me to understand why $5.00 for a ticket to the picture show is a bargain, but $3.00 for a bushel of wheat is unthinkable.

Cotton is too high at 65¢ a pound, but a $20.00 shirt is on sale for $18.95.

And corn is too steep at 3¢ worth in a box of flakes, but the flakes are just right at 50¢ a serving.

And also, Lord, help me to understand why I have to give an easement to the gas company so they can cross my property with their gas lines, and the double my price of gas.

And also, Dear God, help me to understand the consumer, who drives by my field and scoffs at me for driving a $30,000 tractor that he built, so he could make money and drive down that right-of-way they took from me to build a road on, so he could go hunting and skiing.

Thank you, God, for your past guidance and help. And please help me make sense of it all. □

BRIEFS

South Korean president killed in assassination.

Congress approves stand-by rationing plan.

What is coalescence? That's how moisture droplets in the air combine to form raindrops. There are two ways this occurs.

First, moisture droplets in clouds are of different sizes and in moving air the larger droplets move more slowly than smaller ones and often collide, building into bigger droplets, which eventually fall as raindrops.

The more frequent type of coalescence is where ice crystals and water droplets combine (usually in the middle areas of cumulonimbus clouds). Some of the water in the water droplets evaporates and then condenses on the crystals, which later drop as snow or ice pellets.

In warmer climates these ice pellets often turn back to water, as they fall, and reach the ground as rain. Most hail forms in the middle altitude of a thunderhead, by the process of coalescence, and not--as previously thought--by rising and falling in thunderhead vertical air currents.

BR 55 Lynx, 12

The Boys Ranch Roughriders ran roughshod over the Lynx from Spearman Friday night, 55-12 in a district 1-AA conference game. The game was played in extremely cold weather, with a touch of snow falling just before the kick-off. In other district action, Dalhart upset Canadian 17-0, to set up a real "biggy against Spearman" at Dalhart next Friday night! The Lynx will play the role of spoilers at Dalhart, should they upset the Wolves, the district would be in a "mess!"

The Gruver Greyhounds were tied by Stinnett 7-7 in a game that they dominated statistically!

NEWS OF ENERGY

"R" You Properly Insulated?
The Federal Trade Commission recently adopted a regulation requiring all manufacturers of home insulation to label their products with R-values, a practice that the producers of mineral fiber insulation have been following for many years.

Look at the label on any insulation before you install it.

The FTC's explanation of R-value is this: "R means resistance to heat flow. The higher the R-value, the greater the insulating power."

Heat flow can be either the loss of heat from a house during the winter or heat gained from the outdoors during the summer. Both fiber glass and rock wool are mineral fiber materials. The U.S. Department of Commerce has estimated that mineral fiber accounts for about 70 per cent of all home insulation sold, making it the most popular type. Mineral fiber batts and blankets are rated at R-11, R-13, R-19, R-22, R-30, or R-38.

PHS, coach reprimanded

The District 1-AA executive committee Monday issued a stern warning to Perryton High School and basketball coach Allen Simpson of possible technical violation of UIL rules concerning off-season basketball practice.

The executive committee, made up of superintendents of the member schools, unanimously passed a resolution of warning to PHS and Simpson. The committee met Monday in Borger to consider charges made against PHS and to draw up the district's football schedule for next season (since Canadian has been moved out of the district for the 1980-82 seasons.)

The charges of alleged misconduct were brought recently by several Dalhart coaches. They contended that they saw Simpson working out with his basketball team after 4 p.m. According to University Interscholastic Rules, there shall be no organized or formal basketball practice for a contestant or team, before or after school, prior to November 1.

The Dalhart coaches were in town for a couple of junior high football games. Simpson and his team were reportedly working out after 4 at the Raider Gym at the junior high campus.

At Monday's meeting, the executive committee heard the protest from Dalhart and also heard a defense from PHS. Attending the meeting from here were coach Simpson, superintendent George Zoller, and principal C. E. Simmons.

The committee also directed Zoller as superintendent to have the high school principal check often to be sure there is no further violation and to report the executive committee action to the local board of trustees.

Members of the Ranger basketball team not playing football have been practicing for some time during regular school hours. With volleyball occupying the high school gymnasium many times, the roundballers have worked out at the Raider Gym, Kelley Activities Center and also the YM-CA.

Gruver, Stinnett play to 7-7 tie

STINNETT—Gruver romped in the statistics, but the Greyhounds were limited to just one touchdown and had to settle for a 7-7 District 1-A tie last night here against Stinnett.

Gruver's Juan Garcia plunged 5 yards to put the visiting Greyhounds on the board in the first period.

Todd Stroud crashed for a yard to put the Rattlers on the scoreboard in the second period, but neither team could score thereafter.

Gruver, sparked by Darrell Messer's 159 yards on 22 carries, out-gained Stinnett, 263 total yards to 74 and 15 first downs to seven.

The Hounds, now 4-4 and 1-2-1, came up with three pass interceptions and a fumble, while Stinnett recovered two Gruver fumbles as both teams' defensive units thwarted one another.

The latest University Interscholastic League realignment was announced last Monday, & Spearman will be reclassified into AAZ AAA. The UIL simply decided to drop class B from its classifications, and add an A to each present class, with class B becoming class A.

The only significant change for Spearman, will be that Canadian will remain in class AA, (the old class A) which is ultimately a drop in its present classification, while the present district will become class 1-AAA. River road, Dalhart, Spearman, Boys Ranch and Perryton. We do not have complete details on next years football schedule, except we understand that we had planned to play Gruver and maybe Stinnett and drop Frenship and Elk City???. With the new AAA district we still are not sure about next years football schedule but will print it soon!
