Bonus Payment, Relief Put Budget In Uncertain State

Expenses For Next 18 Months Can't Be Estimated

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16. (UP)—Politicians accustomed through depression to count dollars by the billions are trying today to comprehend treasury estimates of what the bonus and the new deal program will cost in the next year and a half.

Secretary of Treasury Henry Morgenthau broke the bad news before the senate finance committee as an anti-bonus witness. His testimony leaked despite efforts of pro-bonus legislators to keep it secret.

Bonus advocates were soothing their own feelings by assuring each other that Morgenthau was telling a bear story or playing Gloomy Gus. He said the treasury would go in the red some $5,500,000,000 by June 30, 1937. That assumes enactment of the bonus pay bill and estimates 1937 work-relief costs at $2,000,000,000.

2 Billion For Relief Sen. James Couzens, R., Mich., refused to be bound by the committee's self-imposed secrecy with respect to Morgenthau's testimony. He revealed Morgenthau's estimates. Whatever may have been the secretary's purpose when he testified, his estimate of prospective federal expenses is the only real obstacle raised so far to quick enactment of the bonus bill favoring passage.

In view of Morgenthau's reported testimony President Roosevelt is expected to ask congress this spring for $2,500,000,000 for work relief. Mr. Roosevelt already has said that sum would be borrowed. But how the bonus fund is to be raised has not been revealed. Chairman Pat Harrison of the senate finance committee, and other new deal spokesmen insist there will be no new taxes.

Process Taxes Left out of account was the possibility—perhaps remote—that the new deal may be compelled to refund some $1,000,000,000 of processing taxes collected under the defunct agricultural adjustment administration. Morgenthau estimated over all new deal borrowing between now and June 30, 1937 at $11,300,000,000. Couzens reported. Approximately half of that sum would be for new financing. That is, the treasury would borrow money to retire bonds or short term paper now outstanding. That procedure does not increase the national debt. But the remaining $5,300,000,000 of borrowed money would be a direct addition to the government's net obligations. That fact started politicians of both parties.

If the government spends $5,500,000,000 more in the next 17 1/2 months than it obtains in revenue the national debt will zoom in proportion. It is impossible to work the Couzens version of Morgenthau's spending, estimates directly into the budget tables as they were presented to congress last week by Mr. Roosevelt. The budget tables represent twelve month periods and Morgenthau's estimates cover approximately one and one-half fiscal years—17 1/2 months. But it appears that the national debt would grow from slightly less than $31,000,000,000 to more than $35,000,000,000.

Raps Insinuation U.S. Was Bought Into War

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16. (UP)—J. P. Morgan today expressed resentment at what he said was an insinuation that "we were bought into the war with English money," and told Senator Clark of the senate committee investigating the munitions industry that he was saying we were bought into the war with English money and I don't like the insinuation.

The senate investigators had contended that the United States, before entering the world conflict, tried to keep American banks liquid and ready for war, but did not stop trade with the Allies. An exact from the diary of Col. Edward M. House, President Wilson's advisor, showing that Secretary of State Lansing wanted Wilson to break with Germany early in January of 1917, also was introduced at today's committee session.

Red Cross Sponsors Emergency Aid Stations Along Highways; Four For Howard County Planned During Year

While the nation is organizing in various ways to cut down the heavy toll of traffic fatalities, the American Red Cross during 1936 will help in an accident prevention program to the extent of providing emergency aid on the highways. The new program was explained by R. T. Bridge, Red Cross representative, at a meeting here Wednesday night, and plans were made for Howard county to join in the work.

Assistants To Get Most Of Increase

Precinct Offices Will Be Continued On Fee Payment Basis

Howard county officials and assistants will receive approximately $5,000 more in 1936 than in 1935, the salary schedule approved by the county commissioners court showed Thursday.

Officials gained very little in the increase, about $500 more going to those holding county posts than for last year. Assistants came in for more in amounts and in number.

Two Changes Only two of the county offices experienced changes, the district clerk and the county attorney. The former came in for approximately $200 more per annum and the latter $300, bringing them to the $3,000 maximum shared by the sheriff, the county judge, the tax collector, assessor and sheriff. The treasurer's allowance of $2,000 per annum was unchanged.

The court, given an option as to whether to place precinct offices on a straight salary basis or retain them on a fee plus ex officio payment plan, elected to use the fee and ex officio method.

In Tax Office Most notable increase came to assistants in the county tax collector-assessor's office. The first assistant was raised from $125 per month to $150, three others from $100 to $115 and authority given for employment of a part time assessor at the rate of $150 per month. The allowance last year was for a first and second assistant with a part time third assistant to be paid at the rate of $100 per month. However, four assistants were retained during the year at monthly expenditure of $425. In providing for the assistant assessor on a part time basis, commissioners were told that the work probably would require two or three months.

Salary for chief deputy of the sheriff was again set at $150 per month with the second deputy being increased $25 to $125 per month. Provision was made for a third half-time deputy at $50 per month.

In the clerk's office the first assistant was raised $35 per month to $135 and the second $15 to $115 per month. The court again allowed for hiring of two part-time assistants to be paid at the rate of $50 per month each for such time as actually employed.

Salary of the assistant to the county judge and commissioners court remained at $100 per month. The constable and justice of peace were given an ex officio salary in the amount of $300 per annum, the remainder of their salary dependent upon the collection of fees up to a total maximum of $1,400 per annum from all sources. It was predicted their pay would remain virtually the same during 1936.

As in former years the treasurer's office must pay its own assistant if one is employed. County commissioners drew an increase also. Under the law which provided for the straight salary payment, commissioners in counties with valuations between $13,000,000 and $20,000,000 are eligible to a maximum salary of $150, which the commissioners court voted. Last year under the old law, commissioners received $127.50 per month.

Program was in charge of Dr. C. K. Bivings, M.D. and Mrs. Ira Powell rendered several musical numbers.

A. C. Williamson, scout executive, invited Kiwanians to be present at a council meeting here next Monday.

The board of directors met early Thursday morning and adopted a budget for the club for the year.

Bonus Measure To Come Before Senate Tomorrow

Enough Votes Seen To Override Veto Of President

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16. (AP)—The senate today agreed to start consideration of the bonus bill tomorrow after Republican Leader McNary urged a day's delay under the rules.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16. (UP)—Enactment into law of the senate soldier's bonus bill was definitely assured today on the basis of a survey which showed sufficient voting strength to override a presidential veto.

President Roosevelt may not veto the bill in the face of the overwhelming senate support for it. But if he does there will be ample votes to over-ride.

The end of the 16-year fight over bonus payment to America's world war soldiers may come with far less drama than has attended many of the hot congressional fights over the issue.

On May 23 last, after the house had over-riden the president's veto of the Patman bonus bill, the senate sustained, 64 to 40, nine short of the necessary 65 to enact the bill into law.

Bonus advocates have picked up at least 10 and probably more votes by developing a bond or "seaman note" method of paying the bonus and substituting it for the inflationary type of measure on which the vote came last year.

Senators who last year went "down the line" for the administration since then have seen their leaders go over to the bonus forces and several have come to the conclusion that they might as well join the procession.

A United Press poll of the senate showed at least 64 votes for over-riding a veto, with several more doubtful ones expected to be in that column.

Johnston Thinks 1936 Cotton Crop Will Be Held To 13,500,000 Bales WASHINGTON, Jan. 16. (UP)—An American cotton crop of 13,500,000 bales or less this year, without undue disturbance of the market, was predicted today by Oscar Johnston, manager of the AAA cotton pool.

Johnston said he did not believe farmers could change their production basis from the 25,000,000 acres planted in 1935 at a maximum of 42,000,000 acres for the 1936 crop year. He forecast planting of approximately 35,000,000 acres.

City Granted A Permit For Police Radio

The federal communications commission Thursday granted city of Big Spring authority to construct a police radio station.

Call letters of KACM were assigned to the station on which construction must begin within 30 days and be completed by August 31.

It will have a 50 watt transmitter and will operate on 2455 kilocycle frequency.

Following completion of the station, a 30 days test period for broadcasting will be allowed. If the station meets with federal requirements, then a operators license will be granted.

Recently City Manager E. V. Spence proffered the facilities of the station, when put in operation, to L. G. Phares, head of the state safety commission. Phares accepted the offer.

City commissioners approved the application for the station and sanctioned expenditures for equipment of the plant and of police cars in an effort to modernize local crime fighting methods.

Action Taken After Court Denies Plea

Governor Hoffman Says He Has No Knowledge Of A Confession

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 16. Governor Harold Hoffman this afternoon announced a reprieve of 30 days for Bruno Richard Hauptmann.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—The supreme court this afternoon refused to save Bruno Richard Hauptmann from the electric chair tomorrow night, refusing his plea for a writ of habeas corpus or a stay of execution.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16. (AP)—Bruno Richard Hauptmann's attorneys appealed to the supreme court today to save the Bronx carpenter as high sources in Trenton, New Jersey said "there has been a confession, and it is by some one other than Hauptmann."

Court Considered Plea Governor Harold Hoffman's press aide, however, said the governor "had no knowledge of any confession."

The supreme court accepted consideration of a petition for a writ of habeas corpus and a stay of execution. Court attaches said that the justices seldom interfere in criminal cases at the last minute.

The petition for Hauptmann, charged that the prosecution had "suppressed" important evidence favorable to him.

The court's decision might be announced today or deferred until tomorrow.

Letters "Suppressed" The petition said the first ransom note was out of possession of New Jersey officers "almost immediately after receipt" by them, and that it was testified in the trial that the note was never left in the possession of officers. It was further alleged that letters between Hauptmann and leader Fisch who died in Germany were "suppressed."

It was understood that Governor Hoffman conferred in New York with public officials. Hoffman had a new affidavit by Samuel Small, "professional penman" of New York who said "Hauptmann could not possibly have written the ransom notes."

Governor Hoffman, who has been active in the case, and who made a nocturnal visit to Hauptmann in his cell recently, was absent from the capital throughout Wednesday. Attorney General David T. Wilentz, who prosecuted Hauptmann and who has been critical of Governor Hoffman's activities, also was absent from the capital.

Wilentz, located in New York, asserted "you'll have to ask the governor" if there is to be a reprieve, but added:

New Program Of Red Cross Is Discussed

Local Chapter To Join In Accident Prevention, Highway Aid Work

The American Red Cross organization's major activities for the new year were explained to Howard county members at a meeting of the local chapter Wednesday evening, and plans were made for the unit here to participate in the programs. The work was outlined by R. T. Bridge, St. Louis representative in West Texas for the Red Cross.

The 1936 programs are farm and home accident prevention, and emergency aid on the highways. The former work already has been launched by the Howard county chapter, under direction of Anne Martin, chairman of the accident prevention committee, but the work will be expanded this year.

The program will consist principally of safety education in the home. "While attention is being directed to the appalling death toll on the highways," Bridge said, "the number of deaths from home accidents is nearly as large. Especially are these mishaps fatal to a large number of children. The Red Cross believes that in an educational program, it can do much toward reducing this list."

The local chapter this year will cooperate in the highway-aid campaign, which is being undertaken for the first time this year by the national organization. Emergency stations are established along the traffic routes to provide first aid in case of accidents in the vicinity.

The Howard county unit voted to supervise establishment of four of these stations during the year. The work is in charge of Jean Hall, chairman of the first aid committee.

Mrs. Charles Eberly was re-elected chairman of the chapter. Election of other officers was deferred until a later meeting.

A membership objective of 750 was fixed for the roll call to be held during the fall. A report of B. J. Cook, roll call chairman, Wednesday night showed that 540 members were enlisted in the recent roll call, with some areas not yet reported. A total of $368.50 was contributed in membership fees. Approximately $325 of this goes to the local chapter and some $270 to the national organization.

Members voted to make an effort to send a delegate to the national convention, to be held in Chicago on May 11-14.

Ricker To Compete In Denver Rodeo Dalton (Shurty) Ricker left here Wednesday for Denver, where he will contest in the rodeo events to be staged in connection with the Western Livestock show. Ricker is a brother of Mrs. D. A. Orr of this city.

Rangy Forward Puts On A Grand Goal Shooting Show

Showing improvement in both their offensive and defensive departments, the Corden Oilers, undisputed independent cage champions of West Texas, topped the McMurry Indians of Abilene here Wednesday evening in the high school gym by the count of 60-32.

For the first two minutes of the game, the Redskins managed to hold the locals within bounds and could even boast of a 5-4 lead, but Tommy Hutto and Jack Smith teamed up to give the local fans a show and, with the aid of some excellent passing from their teammates, soon had the "Cordettes" far out in front.

The Oilers were leading 28-15 at half time and were never in danger of losing that advantage throughout the second half.

Using the cooperation of his mates to the greatest advantage, the rangy Hutto hit the basket for eleven field goals and two free tosses to take scoring honors, while scoring of his own, the tricky left hander swishing the nets for twelve points.

King was tops in the visitors' scoring parade, scoring six field goals and a free toss.

PLENTY SNOW FOR SKIING AND BOBSLED

"Hitler Weather" In Store For Olympic Events

GARMISH-PARTENKIRCHEN, Germany, Jan. 16. (UP)—Since there is snow in the mountains hereabouts, there aren't many worries left as the time for the winter Olympics draw near.

Officials are glad they need not plan to "import" snow for the skiing or bobsled courses or move the runs to higher altitudes, as they were prepared to do if pre-Christmas snow had not whitened hills and valleys.

As it is, however, they anticipate a continuation of what has come to be known in Germany as "Hitler weather"—that is, the kind of weather needed for a particular occasion, be it sunshine for an outdoor mass meeting or, as in this case, crisp wintry days with enough snow for sports.

Preparations really have been carried on since the summer of 1933, when construction of the Olympic ski jump was started. It was finished in February, 1934.

PARIS WILL BE SPORTS CENTER

By JOSEPH D. RAVOTTO United Press Staff Correspondent PARIS, Jan. 16. (UP)—Paris soon is to have five of the most modern sports centers in the world, if present plans materialize.

The proposal, which has been put forward by several members of the Municipal Council, calls for the construction of five large sports grounds at the borders of Paris, on the belt of land which is called the "zone"—the region formerly occupied by old fortifications.

Much of the land at present is occupied by ramshackle huts and flimsy hovels which have difficulty in keeping out the rain and cold. Tramps and poverty-stricken folk who cannot afford to pay rent in even the smallest Paris apartment live there.

New Spirit Mant, st From time to time, suggestions have been advanced for its better use. Now comes this latest one, which proposal comes at a time when the city is showing unusual activity in furnishing its youth with athletic facilities at the expense of the elders in their younger days.

The increase in the number of swimming pools and gymnasiums during the past few years is staggering. In almost any corner of Paris can be found a spot where a person can drop in for a dip or a few minutes exercise.

If the new plan is carried out, each of the five sports centers will include athletic fields with stadium arrangements for school and adult clubs, a gymnasium and a medical consulting room.

Jobs Promised Idle It is the intention of the municipal government to call upon the city's unemployed only for the construction of these sports centers.

If the plan materializes—which both the athletically inclined and the jobless hope—there should be a drop of several hundreds in the city's employment figures.

Sponsors of the scheme say that too little is being done for the outdoor life of Parisians compared with the recreational benefits in habitants of other capitals enjoy.

If Paris gets these five sports centers, outdoor athletics will be keeping pace with the progress made in the French capital's indoor sports—swimming and gymnastics.

Local competitions run throughout the season in all varieties of winter sport. Ski-jumping, bob-sledding and speed-skating share the spotlight in general popularity. At Tignes in the Black Forest and Grainau in Upper Bavaria large crowds assemble every year to watch automobile and motorcycle races on the snow covered ice of the lakes.

Winning Golf

by Lawson Little THIRTY-FOOT STYMIE PUT MY GREATEST SHOT—LITTLE Amateur champion recalls putt and preceding mangle against Somersville in 1933 championship at Cincinnati.

The best and probably the most startling shot that I have ever played in my life came when it was very badly needed. It was in the national amateur championship at Cincinnati in 1933. I was playing in the quarter finals against the defending champion, Sandy Somersville of Canada.

We were having a nip-and-tuck battle all morning over the rain-soaked Kenwood country club. I was rather pleased that the course was heavy and wet because at that time I was hitting a high, long-carry tee shot, quite a bit longer than most of my opponents. Therefore, I could use a more lofted club than they for my second shot.

This was a decided advantage when shooting from the heavy, wet fairways.

When we came to the fifteenth hole of the morning round I was 22 paces behind to some good luck with my putter and some freak explosion shots from the deep traps. This fifteenth hole is about 375 yards long with trees on both sides of the fairway, but unfortunately for me there was a creek that ran along under the trees at the left of the fairway. I promptly let my left hand and arm collapse as I came into the ball on my drive and I hit one of those roundhouse hooks that ended deep in the trees to the left with the ball sunk in the water hazard.

Sandy drove a beauty straight down the fairway. My ball was in an impossible position. There was no alternative, so I had to take the penalty stroke and drop the ball back of the trees in the rough.

This I did, and was left with a shot to the green of about 175 yards, with the tall trees in line with the hole. The distance called for a No. 3 or 4 iron, but I could not get over the trees with a club of "little left." I reasoned that the ball would come out of the rough with overspin, and that if I hit it exceptionally well it might carry the trees and roll close enough to the green for me to chip close for my 5, one over par—that meant that Sandy could win the hole if he played it in par, and he had a good start.

Selects Mangle I selected a mangle for the shot and I almost broke my back in my attempt to hit hard. Much to my surprise, I connected with the ball perfectly—it came out of the rough and sailed straight for the green. The grass that got between the clubface and the ball removed all the back spin so that the ball ducked forward just after it cleared the trees. It hit short of the green and bounded toward the pin, finishing about thirty feet beyond.

Sandy, in the meantime, had played his ball to the green about thirty-five feet to the left of the hole.

Olympics and the Nazi emphasis on sport and exercise, it is expected that snow and ice sports will increase substantially in all sections of Germany.

Ted Phillips, a basketball coach at Moore, is also one of the mainstays of the strong Corden Oiler independent team this year. Phillips' team will play in the Moore invitation tourney which starts tonight at Moore.

'Cubs Are In', Charley Says

Galar And Goodman Due To Be Outstanding Players In '36

HONOLULU, Jan. 16. (UP)—Auggie Galar of the Chicago Cubs and Ival Goodman of the Cincinnati Reds stand good chances of becoming the standout players in the National league next season, in the opinion of Charley Root, veteran Chicago Cubs pitcher.

Root, who is spending the winter in Honolulu with his family, also feels certain the Cubs will grab the National league pennant again in 1936 and then go on to win the World series.

Although he is one of the veterans of the major league hurlers, Root feels confident he will be "in there" winning games for the Cubs again next season. He recalled how the experts last year said he was washed up and how he finished the season with 16 victories.

"I don't see how the Cubs can miss in 1936," he said with enthusiasm. "We have a fine pitching staff and a hard-hitting, aggressive young club."

Then his putt stopped three feet from the hole—between a hole and the hole—a dead stymie. There I was in what seemed a hopeless position—thirty feet from the hole, stymied, with Sandy practically certain of a four. I had to sink a thirty-foot stymie to tie the hole.

Many people in the gallery started to move on to the next tee, giving my cause on that hole up as useless. But somehow I felt that there should be some way of playing a shot so that there would be a remote possibility of getting the ball into the hole. I must confess I thought it a million-to-one chance against it, though. To putt the ball was out of the question. I have never believed that a putt could be sliced or hooked with a putter.

I decided that there were three possibilities: First, to pitch the ball directly into the hole from thirty feet; second, to bounce over Sandy's ball and hope that mine would slow up enough to drop if it hit the hole; and third, to try to cut my ball around the obstacle with a niblick.

Selects Niblick I finally decided that the latter was more possible than either of the other two, of course, still very highly improbable. I selected a pet niblick that Bobby Jones had given me and set out to make the shot. Many of those in the gallery who had started to the sixteenth tee stopped to watch the attempt. They were probably more interested in what I was going to do with that niblick on the putting green, rather than the final destination of the ball.

It was a "do or die" attempt for me. I was only concerned with getting the ball into the hole, for anything else would have been useless.

I addressed the ball off the right foot with the face of the niblick closed and by hands well forward. This way, I could hit down and across the ball, thus imparting a great deal of spin to it. The gallery was in dead silence. I hit the ball, knocking it on a line about six inches to the left of Sandy's ball. My eyes followed the ball in Months of preparation, also, have gone into staking out the courses for the 38-kilometer cross-country ski race and the military patrol race. Officials declare themselves well satisfied with the results.

For the first time, on Feb. 7, an Olympic contest will be held in the slalom-ski races over an irregular and curved course marked out by flags. These will be down the Hausberg or the Gudiberg mountains, depending on snow conditions.

Process Tax Released By Federal Court

Suits Brought By Companies Dismissed By Judge Atwell

DALLAS, Jan. 16. (UP)—More than $1,500,000 in funds held in escrow to assure payment of processing taxes was released here yesterday when Federal District Judge William H. Atwell dismissed the suits of 15 concerns.

The concerns had been awarded temporary injunctions against W. A. Thomas, collector of internal revenue, to restrain him from collection of the taxes.

The dismissal was made on the processors' own motion. The action now leaves the offensive to the government's attorneys, who have expressed the opinion the government is entitled to the money held in escrow unless the processors can prove that the tax, authorized by the now defunct AAA, has not been passed on to consumers.

United States District Attorney Clyde O. Eastus fought the motion of Rosser Coke, attorney for Universal Mills, a processor, to dismiss the company's suit and dissolve the injunction it held against the internal revenue collector.

Judge Atwell, however, declined to delay the dismissal, saying that he had no right to deny any plaintiff the privilege of dismissing an action.

Immediately upon dismissal of Universal Mills' suit, attorneys for 14 other processors submitted motions and orders for dismissal of similar cases.

Ruling Against Wet Precinct In Dry County

AUSTIN, Jan. 16.—The supreme court in effect reaffirmed yesterday that a wet precinct cannot exist in a county which has voted dry.

It overruled motions for re-hearings in the cases of A. W. Coker against Frank Kmeick from Walker county and J. T. Walling against L. L. King from Childress county.

Kmeick sought to compel issuance of a license to sell beer in precinct four of Walker county. The precinct authorized beer sales while a county-wide election forbade them.

The court held that if a county voted dry a precinct could not be wet for the larger unit controlled.

Attorneys for Kmeick argued there never had been a state doctrine that county election "as such was controlling over the precinct election."

Substantially the same issue was involved in the Childress county case, the city of Childress having approved beer sales and the county having voted against them.

Seek Vote On Mortgage Bill

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16. (UP)—A dramatic appeal for a house vote on the Frazier-Lenke inflationary farm mortgage refinancing bill was made in the house today as the opening gun in a drive to force action on the $3,000,000,000 measure.

Rep. William Lemke, (R-ND), co-author of the measure, urged members to complete a petition designed to force a house vote. The petition now lacks nine of the required 218 names.

"No member, whether he is for or against the bill, can deny us the right to have it disposed of on its merits," said Lemke. "For some strange reason we can't get a vote."

Speaker Joseph W. Byrns indicated every effort was being made by house leadership to prevent the bill from coming to a vote. Byrns said he understood if the petition obtains 214 names, backers of the bill had "four acres in the hole"—that is, congressmen ready to sign their names on the petition complete it.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16. (UP)—Sen. Tom Connally, (D-Tex), today presented to President Roosevelt the name of J. P. Rice of Dallas for consideration as judge of the federal court for the northern district of Texas.

Connally said he discussed with Mr. Roosevelt the names of several persons from the southwest for appointment to the federal reserve board, adding, however, that no decision had been reached.

In his 20 minute talk with Mr. Roosevelt the Texas senator said he discussed the general political situation and predicted the west would vote the democratic ticket in November.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmo Wasson have gone to Corpus Christi to visit Mrs. Wasson's relatives.

Burdick is the president of the Diorama corporation of America. He had charge of the planning of United States exhibits at the Century of Progress at Chicago and at the San Diego exposition. State's Deficit Million Lower Than Last Year

AUSTIN, Jan. 16. (UP)—The deficit in the state general revenue fund was approximately $1,600,000 lower today than at the end of 1935, today's semi-monthly treasury statement revealed. The deficit was $10,627,469 compared with $11,544,453 on Dec. 31, last. Treasurer Charley Lockhart called in for payment outstanding warrants on the fund issued prior to July 5, 1935, totaling $1,453,571. Deficit in the state Confederate pension fund was $5,191,873.

Mrs. James Little is very ill with influenza.

Workmen in assembling exhibits from all their departments under Burdick's direction. The sum of $5,000 will be spent in assembling and collecting Negro exhibits.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief Of Pain

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are one of Nature's chief ways of taking the acids and waste out of the blood. If they don't pass 3 pints a day and so get rid of more than 5 pounds of waste matter, your 15 miles of kidney tubes may need flushing.

If you have trouble with frequent bladder passages with scanty amount which often smart and burn, the 13 miles of kidney tubes may need flushing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes and distension.

Don't wait for serious trouble. Ask your druggist for DOAN'S PILLS— which have been used successfully for over 40 years by millions of people. They give happy relief and will help flush out the 15 miles of kidney tubes. Get DOAN'S PILLS.

Suggestions For Pasture Improvement

Various Methods Outlined By Specialist Of Extension Dept.

COLLEGE STATION, Jan. 16.—A recent acreage census shows that 75,000,000 acres in Texas are devoted to pastures. R. H. Lancaster, extension pasture specialist, says that these figures are an indication of the importance of pastures to Texas farms and ranches.

Lancaster pointed out that pastures in the state may be improved by controlling or removing the weeds, stumps, trees, erosion, marshes, stones, dead grass, rodents, insects, stomach worms, poisonous plants, loss of manure.

The extension pasture specialist said also that additional improvements for 1936 might consist of contouring for moisture, seeding improved plants, adding fertilizer or manure, supplementing minerals, crop feeding, providing shelter, shade, stock-water and giving more time to the management of grazing according to the various local conditions.

Lancaster continued by saying that "Pasture demonstrations should be protected by reserves of temporary pasture, hay and alfalfa for winter months and for short or long droughts. The cost of winter feeding may be reduced by extending the grazing period. There must be more than one pasture in order to save ungrazed forage for grazing in midsummer, late fall, winter or early spring. Pasture plants need and deserve care and management during periods of reproduction, and must have reserves of food during drought and winter the same as animals.

"Native range plants have become adapted through centuries of competition. They will produce all the forage possible under prevailing conditions. Plants from foreign countries likely can do no better. Forty years ago, ranchers in 115 western counties reported a 40 per cent decrease in carrying capacity of grazing land, from 100 head per section to 64 during the preceding 25 years. Now it would average nearer 40.

"Humid areas offer opportunities for reseeding and adding a few improved grasses and clovers. Good management is as profitable on small farm pastures as on the range. Management should include whatever is necessary to protect the best grazing plants and utilize those less desirable, cutting weeds, providing supplementary feed and minerals."

AT 80, GILLETTE BACK TO STAGE

Into Directory Many Names Pressed, Lo! The Smiths Lead All The Rest

Increased population is indicated for Big Spring in the new edition of the city directory which made its appearance here Wednesday. The book carries 15 more pages of names than did the 1934-35 edition. Pages average more than forty names each and only those 15 years or more old are listed.

Chester Aaron and Heladio Zubiate held their places as first and last names in the book. The latter has been last since 1931.

Color is added to the book by the inclusion of 10 Blacks, 20 Greens, 25 Browns and 20 Whites. But the Smiths led the parade again with 97 of those names appearing in the directory. Others with more than 30 names were 36 Robinsons, 21 Thomases, 37 Williams, 29 Wilsons, 24 Phillips, 25 Moores, 32 Millers, 36 Davises, 37 Joneses, 43 Johnsons and 23 Hulls. There were 33 names which began with "Sch" while 133 started with "Mc."

Crop Conditions On Texas Farms Given In U. S. Report

AUSTIN, Jan. 16.—The following report on the condition of Texas crops, as of Jan. 1, was issued today by the U. S. department of agriculture:

WHEAT: Stocks of wheat on farms in Texas on Jan. 1, 1936, are estimated at 701,000 bushels, or 7 per cent of the 1935 production, which compares with 1,802,000 bushels on Jan. 1, 1935, and 5,322,000 bushels the 5-year (1928-32) average stocks on Jan. 1.

For the United States farm wheat reserves on Jan. 1, 1936, are estimated at 150,340,000 bushels, compared with 137,504,000 bushels on Jan. 1, 1935; 189,837,000 bushels on Jan. 1, 1934, and 271,608,000 bushels on Jan. 1, 1933. The average (1928-32) farm stocks on Jan. 1 are 248,672,000 bushels.

CORN: It is estimated that 64 per cent or 67,123,000 bushels, of the 1935 Texas corn crop (for grain) remains on farms on Jan. 1, 1936. This compares with 24,101,000 bushels a year ago, and 49,129,000 bushels the Jan. 1 5-year (1928-32) average stocks.

Farm stocks of corn (for grain) in the United States on Jan. 1, 1936 totals 1,342,908,000 bushels which is 69.8 per cent of the production for grain in 1935. On Jan. 1, 1935, 810,479,000 bushels remained on farms; on Jan. 1, 1934, there were 1,433,740,000 bushels on farms; and farm stocks on Jan. 1, 1933, were 1,213,770,000 bushels. The keeping quality of corn now held is rather poor, and in some mid-western states, particularly Missouri, feeding has been more liberal than usual.

OATS: The quantity of oats on Texas farms on Jan. 1, 1936, is almost double that of last year, and is considerably above the 5-year (1928-32) average amount on farms on Jan. 1. Stocks are estimated at 23,474,999 bushels compared with 12,046,000 bushels last year, and 17,067,000 bushels the 5-year average.

For the United States it is estimated that 771,453,000 bushels of oats remain on farms on Jan. 1, 1936, compared with 688,294,000 bushels the 5-year average (1928-32) stocks on Jan. 1. The 1935 crop of oats was about two per cent smaller than the 5-year average (1928-32) production, but because of the smaller number of livestock units to be fed, the current Jan. 1 farm holdings are well above average.

Doubt Action On Penalties

Present Sanctions On Italy Are Proving Effective

PARIS, Jan. 16 (UP)—French leaders expressed belief today that the league of nations council, at its meeting next week, will make no move to impose new penalties against Italy for attacking Ethiopia.

An anticipated pause in the penalties campaign was explained on the ground that Italy has made no effective progress in Ethiopia and that present penalties are much more effective than had been expected.

Premier Pierre Laval, it was learned, hopes to have important conversations at Geneva with Baron Pompeo Aloisi, Italy's chief league delegate.

That these "conversations will lead directly to any immediate peace effort, Laval doubts.

At least, it is forecast, the council and its auxiliary committees will stay any new penal action until the American neutrality law is enacted. And at present, none of the leading powers sees any reason for an immediate embargo on oil.

The penalties, including a boycott of all Italian goods and an embargo on key products which Italy needs, are hurting Italy, according to authoritative reports, far more than anyone dreamed.

It is not believed here that Italy can make real progress before next October when the June-September big rains end.

Hence it is argued that there are eight months during which Italy will be seriously weakened before she can make a big scale drive into Ethiopia.

During these eight months also there may be many changes to start real peace negotiations.

343 Helped By Farm-Loan Assn.

Since 1933 the National Farm Loan association has helped more than 343 farmers and stockmen in Howard, Glasscock and Borden counties. Ira Driver, secretary-treasurer, said Thursday in reviewing his annual report.

Starting in May of 1933, the association has extended aid in the amount of $834,560 to farmers and ranchers. Many of these loans were made to relieve debt-distress.

Loans are handled through the federal land bank in Houston. Aid from the bank has been extended for the past 18 years.

ed that Major General Burgoyne, hospital director, was not employed by that organization, and it was assumed he was merely commanding an Ethiopian unit.

Wolcott Cites Rules On Poll Tax Exemption

Tax Collector-Assessor John F. Wolcott Thursday reminded all under-age persons eligible to exemption certificates that they must obtain the certificates regardless of whether they reside in or outside the city.

Persons who are over 60 years of age do not have to obtain exemption certificates if they reside outside the city limits, or if they have previously been granted an exemption.

Others who hold permanent exemptions are not required to re-register.

Under age persons who are entitled to exemption certificates are those who become 21 years of age during 1936. They can vote in the election only if they are 21 before the date of the election in which they vote, Wolcott said.

Thursday morning 1156 poll taxes had been paid and 79 exemptions issued.

appropriations committee, "I have reliable information that the governor would grant a reprieve."

The possibility that Governor Hoffman had obtained an important new statement from Hauptmann himself, or from some other person professing to have knowledge of the crime, was speculated upon in the light of the mysterious actions of the officials.

Col. Mark O. Kimberling, state prison warden, said he had not seen Hauptmann since last Saturday—the day the prisoner's plea for a commutation of sentence to life imprisonment was turned down by the state court of pardons.

Governor Hoffman announced through his press aide that he had reached no decision on a reprieve. He is continuing his independent investigation of the kidnaping case, said the representative, William Conklin.

Cecil Whisenhunt, Ann Demicho Wed

Cecil Whisenhunt and Miss Ann Demicho were married here Tuesday afternoon by County Judge J. S. Garlington. Whisenhunt is a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Whisenhunt and the bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Demicho. They will make their home in Big Spring.

In 1621— This picture shows how the Jamestown Colonists exchanged tobacco for brides. They paid "120 pounds of the best leaf" for transportation of each future wife who came to the New World from England.

In 1936— And here is a picture of the modern auction warehouse of today where the same type of leaf tobacco is sold on the open market to the highest bidder.

There is no substitute for mild, ripe tobacco to make a good cigarette—and there never will be

... and that is the kind we buy for Chesterfield Cigarettes.

In the tobacco buying season Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co. buyers will be found at 75 markets where the Bright type of tobacco is sold, and 46 markets where Burley and other types of tobacco are sold.

All these tobacco men are trained in the tobacco business, and are schooled in the Liggett & Myers tradition that only mild, ripe tobacco is good enough for Chesterfield Cigarettes. LIGGETT & MYERS TOBACCO CO.

SOUND BUSINESS OPERATION

You don't hear as much about it as you did during the darker days of a few years back, but many towns and cities still are struggling under heavy debt and top-heavy operating setups.

Big Spring, happily, isn't in that boat. Financial reports made public after submission to the city commission this week show that, in point of operation, the municipal executives are doing a good job. In this day when budget limitation is often a matter of fiction, Big Spring is staying within the margin of its appropriations. It came out, in nine months, a little ahead of the total provided.

That is important, but more important is the fact that the city has been able, during that period, to trim its debt through the purchase of some of its own bonds, 16 years before maturity date. The purchase is not large, but it is an encouraging start, and every dime of interest saved is a pretty valuable dime.

The city, from April 1 to December 31, paid out $52,048.07 for debt service; that is, retirement of bonds and warrants and in interest and exchange. That was considerably the largest single item of outgo during the period. Interest and exchange alone amounted to more than $36,500. And yet Big Spring's bonded debt, in comparison with others, is a moderate one.

The city purchased $22,500 of its own bonds, and the comptroller asserted that this would mean a saving of $1,400 a year in interest. That is an item not to be ignored. The point of the matter is, that by business-like methods in the city hall, such steps are possible, whereby the government cost as a whole can be reduced.

The first requisite of governmental operation should be sound financing. This city is meeting that requirement, and its officials are due credit for what they have done.

★ Man About Manhattan ★ —By George Tucker—

NEW YORK—Curing through the deep south with a road company of the comedy hit Three Men on a Horse, Bradford Hattan relays this anecdote of the enterprising salesman who knew what he wanted and wasn't afraid to ask for it.

The actors had arrived in a small Alabama town and were in rehearsals when the young man called. He desired, he said, an interview with the company manager.

"Are you manager of the Three Men on a Horse company?"

"That's right."

"Well," said the fellow, "I'm from the Hay, Grain & Feed store and we'd like to take care of the horse while you're in town."

Which reminds of another legend I think ought to be included. Joyous over securing several fine attractions for his winter season, the manager of a small town opera house was particularly anticipating an engagement of the production Faust, then having a robust financial tour.

Dropping into town two weeks in advance, the press-agent reported to the local impresario. "I'm the advance man," he pointed out, "and I think we ought to plan our hallyhoo campaign."

"Nothing doing," snapped the impresario who preferred to deal only with big shots, "I won't talk with anybody but Faust!"

These fables seem to be getting more fantastic than ever but, honest, I'm not thinking them up.

There was the fellow ahead of one of Charles B. Dillingham's early productions in days when every town had an opera house. As a result, the advertising matter was printed in advance and carried the name Opera House. So, when the advance man got to town he merely distributed his handbills and posted his three-sheets. Unfortunately, he arrived in a town one day that had a theater with a very fancy name but no opera house.

Disturbed, he went into conference with the theater manager and together they called in the one local printer. "You'll have to reprint all these bills," they told him, "and do it in a hurry."

But the printer tossed them into a still deeper quandary by confessing that his press was out of commission. He assured them it would be impossible to fix it in time to print the bills. Stunned by this cruel swipe, the press agent was beginning to get berserk when the manager bobbed up with a happy thought.

They didn't quite understand, but that night the natives were greatly mystified to see a painter daubing out the theater's name and rechristening it The Opera House!

Finally, this record of a stupendous musical spectacle and the grief thereof to a small-time impresario.

Thoughts of a fortune were drifting through this Oklahoma theater manager's imagination when he picked up some of the advance advertising matter and saw that the cast had 100 girls. Startled, he wired all over the country trying to get hold of the advance man. "Cancel booking," he telegraphed, "can't handle cast of 100 girls. Stage barely large enough to support a dozen."

"That's okay," the answer flashed back, "94 of the girls are painted on the scenery."

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW YEASON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—The boys in the know on Capitol Hill are offering these betting odds on the bonus bill:

Two to one that, as finally enacted, the bill will not be in the form adopted by the house, but as revised by the senate.

A little better than even money that the president will NOT veto the act.

The insiders don't claim to know positively that Roosevelt will sign the bill. But they are so confident he is leaning their way that they are willing to put up money.

There are two reasons for their belief:

(1) Practically unanimous sentiment among the president's advisers that he should climb on the bonus bandwagon;

(2) The president's private belief that a majority of the supreme court is being motivated by political rather than legal views in ruling on new deal acts. Therefore, it is argued, he too might as well be political on the bonus.

There is tremendous pro-bonus pressure on the president from his inner council. Every congressional leader, including Vice-President Jack Garner, is strongly against a veto.

The fact that a White House representative participated in the secret conferences which worked out the revised senate bill is a significant indication that this line of reasoning has carried weight with Roosevelt.

Columnist vs. Columnist
Asked whether she would read the daily output of Alice Roosevelt Longworth, her rival columnist, Mrs. Roosevelt replied:

"I don't think I shall read it any more than I read other things. I read a great deal, you know."

On The Spot
Comptroller General J. R. McCarl, who has thrown a monkey wrench into the new deal, is going to be given a dose of his own medicine.

A secret plan is on foot to force him to pass on the validity of several luan ocean-mail contracts negotiated during the Coolidge and Hoover regimes. McCarl is a republican with reputed presidential ambitions.

Recently the post office department began testing the speed of ships carrying mail to ascertain whether they met contract requirements. Out of 11 ships tested, only three came up to specifications.

A group of house liberals led by Representative Otha D. Wearin, scrappy Iowa democrat, contend that this failure to meet speed minimums automatically cancels the government contracts. Ship owners deny this, claim that the only penalty which can be imposed is a fractional cut in postage rates.

Under the law, McCarl, as the federal auditing officer, must pass on all government payments. So far he has taken no action on the ocean-mail matter. To force him to declare himself Congressman Wearin is drafting a resolution asking McCarl for a formal ruling.

Note: McCarl's 15-year term expires this year. Under the law he cannot be reappointed, but there is a movement under way to amend it so he could be renamed. The liberals, very much opposed to him, hope the ocean-mail controversy will furnish them with potent ammunition to blast his chances for re-appointment.

Mrs. Elliott Roosevelt
Members of the president's family say that at last son Elliott is completely under control. Controller-general is his new wife, the former Ruth Googins of Fort Worth, Tex.

Both ladies over the family pay check at the end of the month. Elliott gets enough to live on and no more. She decides what he can do and what he can't, and apparently Elliott takes it and likes it.

Business Machines
Uncle Sam is gunning for a company of which he is the biggest customer.

It is International Business Machines, whose president, Thomas J. Watson, is one of the highest paid executives in American industry. He gets $1,000 a day, or $365,000 a year, and, incidentally, is a good democrat and heavy contributor to the Roosevelt campaign.

In a dozen departments and agencies of the government, International Business Machines punch cards, record the number of pigs on a farm, and the number of foreign born in Pittsburgh, or the number of mortgages held by the HOLC.

In the northeast corner of the justice department, J. Edgar Hoover uses I. B. M. machines to sort fingerprint records. In the southwest corner of the same building Cummings' legal experts are pushing the prosecution against I. B. M.

The charge is that International Business Machines has violated the Clayton act by requiring people who use its machines also to buy its cards. If they object to this, I. B. M. charges a higher rental.

Barber Works In Same Shop For 66 Years

WOODSTOCK, Ill. (UP)—Henry Schneider has been cutting hair to carpet a park, the 80-year-old barber said. "But never an ear, mind you."

Schneider, a native of Alsace, came to America in 1869. He began learning his trade when he was 14 and so small he had to have a circular platform to reach the nape of his customers' necks.

An old-time barber, Schneider keeps in his shop the gold decorated shaving mugs of his patrons long ago. Names familiar to this town of 5,000 are perpetuated in the tiers of tonorial relics that ornament the walls.

"I use some of them," he explained, "but most of the owners are in the cemetery."

Times aren't as prosperous now as they used to be, Schneider said, and he doesn't think the rings about his chair, worn into the wooden floor by patient plodding about his customers' heads, will go any deeper.

Mrs. Paul Carney returned to Fort Worth.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Tate have Mr. Tate's parents as guests.

'SOUNDDEST PROSPERITY' ERA IS PREDICTED BY HENRY FORD

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—Advising business men to stop worrying and to go sanely and resolutely ahead with wealth production, followed by wealth-sharing through higher wages and low prices, Henry Ford looks forward today to a future of "soundest prosperity" than we have ever dreamed of in the past, provided "we keep our heads."

Industry can absorb all employment among the unemployed; great development lies ahead for the automobile; a vast job of modernization must be accomplished in America replacing heavy materials with lighter articles; industry should be "decentralized" and school children must be "fully prepared to push on eagerly along new lines," Mr. Ford declares in a signed article appearing in the current American magazine.

Mr. Ford distinguishes between two kinds of prosperity in the article. One is expressed, he says, by "bounding stock markets, crowded night clubs and spectacular riches for the few." Sound prosperity he describes as "an ever-widening distribution of useful goods and services."

"If we keep our heads we may expect to see in the future a greater measure of this sound kind of prosperity than we have ever dreamed of in the past," he declares.

"IT CAME TAILS"
A flip of the coin! The actions of a few more dents wanted, but Terry Willett's life had always been dictated by impulse, and what was impulsive but a flip of the coin in the mind?

Reaction, which had been chasing him a long time, nearly caught him as he stood outside the West mansion with the taxi waiting. Re- enough of this country already," action!—when a man rests on his Tyndall arose and came around care a moment to get his bearings the corner of the desk. "Terry, I before he bends to them again. want you to come back when Tommy Speede had leaned over his shoulder and sobbed: "I can't beat this game and you can't either!"

He put a hand on the young man's shoulder. "You have a place in this engineering world among going out soaked with kana and the leaders, the place your father leaving a native wife and a half-breed brat. "Beautiful women, admired Laurie, but if ever a man Terry, slim-waisted and laughing and fresh—" the cry to a life left behind.

Women! Strange beings, women! Seemed to get into a man's life, made it more complete. Even his father had lived only half a life after Vic had traded her life for Terry's birth. And so Terry had stopped for a moment, wondering, and flipped a coin. Puff Harrington or the Palva.

And when the taxi had dropped him at Union Station he'd simply shrugged.

"It came tails, boss. Satisfied?"

He was in the Tyndall Construction and Engineering Company offices at noon the next day. It was a widespread, international company and occupied nearly a whole floor of a New York skyscraper. Famous works of engineering were perpetuated in plaster models and long framed pictures scattered throughout the offices.

Terry Willett, being Terry Willett, asked to see Gregory Tyndall himself. He'd heard his father speak of him. And he wouldn't see anybody else. They finally sent in his name.

Surprisingly, Tyndall saw him right away. For all the power that emanated through his channels he controlled, his face with its youthful smile and intent blue eyes was kindly.

"So you're Terence Willett?" he smiled, shaking hands. "You and your father did some work for us down at Juarez. How is your father? I knew him well a long time ago."

Willett told him in one short sentence how his father was. Tyndall didn't say anything for a moment. Then he bent forward and switched a buzzer on the call box and left orders not to disturb him. He snapped the buzzer back.

"Tell me about it, Terry."

"Fever," Tyndall shook his head slowly. "What an end for Laurie. He hadn't decided to free-lance and beat his way around the world."

"My father sat in this chair ahead of me and I was groomed for it from the time I could walk, but if Laurie had stuck he'd have beaten me out in spite of that. A great executive, your father. I'm awfully sorry, son. He looked at Willett intently. "Are you free-lancing too?"

"Yes," said Willett, "taking my job where I find them."

"How about taking a regular job with me?"

"I've got a job. Under contract. Revolution and — circumstances knocked it in the head temporarily, but I'm going back to see it through. I'd like to borrow Corrigan."

"Corrigan? One of my engineers? —oh, John Corrigan. So you need him."

"Like to have Bucky, but I don't want him to lose his job with you." Tyndall repressed a smile.

"I don't think losing a job ever makes much difference to Corrigan. What's on your mind, Terry?"

"Job on the Palva River. It's a stinker and I need help."

"Corrigan will be glad to help you. And anybody else you want—"

World's Literary Output Sifted, But Few Movie Stories Are Found

NEW YORK, (UP)—The myriad of technical details which are represented in a suspension bridge or other great construction, are manifest in many ways in the American film industry's process of selecting literary material which will be the basis of tomorrow's entertainment on motion picture screens of the world.

Lake architects and engineers contemplating plans for their work story buyers must know the facilities of their company and various aptitudes of their stars before they begin their job of finding suitable new story material.

So it is evident that while billions of words get into print each year, a major picture company has to consider thousands of angles before it can begin to negotiate for a single story property.

In instance, story experts for Paramount in New York are confident that the literary fields of the entire universe will yield slightly under 10,000 subjects which will merit attention of film producers as potential screen material during 1936.

This knowledge of the literary market, acquired after years of intensive study and reading, seemingly lessens the sifting and calculating task of a screen story buyer.

The average studio produces between 50 and 75 features annually. This means constant vigil and highest judgment and box office discernment on the part of story experts.

For each picture a company makes the buyers have to reject some 150 other books, plays and nondescript stories that lend themselves to the screen.

To the average public motion picture are comedy, drama or musical; not so, however, to the screen buyers.

The same story would not lend itself, for example, to Mae West or Harold Lloyd.

Thus for early 1936 story men picked "The Milky Way," a farcical comedy, for Harold Lloyd, and "Klondike Lou," a melodramatic comedy, for Mae West.

The same delicate classifications are found among screen dramas. Musicals for the screen are differentiated just as carefully by story men as comedies and dramas.

Mr. W. T. Strang, Jr., who underwent major surgery several days ago, is continuing to improve.

One-Man Auto 'Ring' Broken

HOUSTON, Jan. 16. (UP)—The most ambitious auto-theft "ring" in South Texas and Southwest Louisiana history was reported broken today by police and department of justice agents.

The "ring" was operated by only one man, Harry Allen, 37, fugitive and two-time federal convict of Kansas City, according to charges filed before the United States commissioner here.

Allen was arrested in Amarillo, but officers said they might have trouble returning him to Houston because he is wanted by authorities in other cities.

Allen's "operations" were unparallelled, daring in the extreme, officers charged.

Having served a term in a liquor case conviction, Allen was paroled. Arrested in an auto theft case, he escaped from federal officers at Lawrence, Kan., en route back to prison on May 11, 1935. Three days later he stole a car at St. Joseph, Mo., and drove to Lake Charles, La., officers said.

He set himself up in business as "J. Walsh" at Lake Charles, renting a parking lot and hiring a respected salesman, officers said.

Farm Prices Are Holding Steady

AUSTIN, Jan. 16. (UP)—Latest report of Texas farm prices by the federal division of livestock and crop estimates here today showed income remaining on an even keel.

The Dec. 15 report noted slight increases in the price of chickens, turkeys, butterfat, butter, milk, eggs, hogs, sheep, lambs, hay, wool, horses and mules as compared to the market 30 days earlier.

For the same two comparative figures, losses were shown in the prices of barley, cotton and veal calves.

Corn, wheat, oats, grain sorghums, and milch cows showed no change in price.

Democratic Leaders Remain Silent On Constitutional Amendment, Chief Topic Among Issues Of The Campaign

By BYRON PRICE (Chief of AP Bureau, Washington)
Democratic hesitation about the "constitutional" issue clearly has become the focal point of current politics.
The "question on every tongue" is whether Mr. Roosevelt will concede that this new deal has come squarely against constitutional barriers, and will ask that they be removed by constitutional amend- ment.
Absence of any open discussion of the subject at the Jackson Day dinner turned that gathering of Democrats into something resembling the mythical performance of "Hamlet," with Hamlet left out.
In the two and three-way conver- sations around the tables there was abundant talk about the con- stitution. In the lobbies of con- gress, no other subject is men- tioned so often. Nothing which has happened to the Roosevelt ad- ministration—not even the death of NRA—has stirred more "new deal" circles like the supreme court's sweeping invalidation of AAA.
"There is a very good reason why more of this talk does not come into the open. This is a campaign year, and the political ramifica- tions of the "constitutional" issue are many and devious.
Political Dangers
From the standpoint of practical politics, the rub about advocating an amendment does not lie in the stipulation that three-quarters of the states are required to ratify a constitutional change.
The immediate objective of the democrats is to win the election. For that purpose, only a simple majority of the electoral college is needed. In other words if the party advocates an amendment, and such advocacy is approved by enough states to make up a mere electoral majority, then the party can win. Should it win in that manner and on that issue it could turn after- ward to the question of completing redemption of its campaign pledge. This may sound strange, but it is the way party politics works.
There is another rub, however, which would be real and immedi- ate if the party declared for an amendment. Before any amend- ment can be submitted to the states, it must be approved by a two-thirds majority in both senate and house.
In view of the overwhelming democratic control in congress, a test hardly could be escaped there in advance of the campaign, and certainly there is room to doubt whether the necessary two-thirds majorities would be forthcoming. There lies the real trouble.
It is entirely conceivable that this is not fully realized by some who are asking that the adminis- tration commit itself immediately to a constitutional amendment.
That Mr. Roosevelt himself real- izes it is indicated by the caution with which he is approaching the subject. Many hints of a predis- position to constitutional change can be read into his utterances, but there has been nothing resem- bling a direct declaration.
The question of congressional ap- proval is sufficiently large to merit caution and careful thought. What about a popular majority there- after, in the campaign, if the con- gressional hurdle can be overcome? That may depend on develop- ments yet to come. Invalidation of NRA started certain groups, in- cluding notably organized labor, preparing for an amendment. Cer- tain other groups seem to be pre- paring to fall in line since AAA was invalidated. If still more "new deal" policies fall similarly, there are those who believe the combined strength of the disappers might be hard to defeat at the polls.
All of these considerations help to explain why Mr. Roosevelt hesi- tates. Whatever his private senti- ment—and no one has undertaken to say authoritatively thus far that he really favors an amendment—he obviously does not intend to put himself into an impossible situa- tion, politically, at the very outset of the campaign.

Capital Sees Pension Drive After Bonus

Some Object To Payment As Precedent For Future Benefits
By HERBERT PLUMMER
WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 (AP)—With veterans confident the pres- ent sessions of congress will dis- pose of the bonus issue in some fashion, a drive for general World War pensions appears to be their next legislative goal.
Officials of the administration long have anticipated such a move. One of the principal reasons for their objection to immediate pay- ment of the bonus has been the belief that it stood as the sole bar- rier in the path of a far more cost- ly general pension campaign.
Efforts are said to have been made without success to obtain pledges from the various veterans' organizations against general pensions in return for payment of the bonus. As a matter of fact, a flank movement for pension retirement has been started among the veterans themselves.

The American Veterans' associa- tion, which stood alone among the soldier organizations in opposing bonus payment, is out to stop what it calls the "pension racket" and eliminate from the pension rolls all veterans who suffered no disability as the result of their service.
Legislation to this end has been prepared by the A. V. A. Criticized by rival organizations as com- posed of a relatively small group of wealthy veterans, A. V. A. nev- ertheless has played an increasing- ly active role in legislation affect- ing ex-soldiers.
It has moved along economy lines with its program and has never cooperated with the other groups.
Prospects now are that at least one pension bill—a widow and or- phans' measure potentially more costly than the bonus—will re- ceive the support of the American Legion and create a new veterans' issue in congress once the bonus is out of the way.
The Veterans of Foreign Wars likely will ask for a uniform pen- sion law which would put veterans of all wars on the same plane.
While there is little likelihood favorable action will be had on any of these measures at the pres- ent session, the strategy to be fol- lowed will be much the same as that pursued with the bonus. That was to keep legislation constantly before congress.
The A. V. A. led by Donald Hor- bart, contends that prior to March

Airlines In Record Year
Company Carries Over 178,000 Passengers During 1935

CHICAGO, Jan. 16—American Airlines, Inc., completed the great- est year in its history with a record of 178,209 revenue passengers carried during the twelve months of 1935. C. R. Smith, president of the company announced today.
This figure, Smith said, repre- sents an increase of 71.77 per cent over the 103,746 passengers trans- ported by American in 1934. It represents a monthly average of 14,850 passengers to compare with the 8,645 passengers American Air- lines averaged during each of the twelve preceding months—a monthly gain of 6,205 passengers.
Without exception, he pointed out, every month of the past year represented a gain over the com- parable month of 1934, these gains ranging from 9.4 per cent to 179.9 per cent. Further, he said, every month of the year was the highest comparable month in the com- pany's history.
The passenger total for the months of December, made public for the first time today, was 12,710 passengers, and was in itself an increase of 53.6 per cent over the 8,157 passengers transported in December, 1934.

Improved equipment, faster sched- ules and better services on all major routes were cited by Smith as reasons for the unprecedented increases of the year.

A LOYAL CITIZEN
He was a loyal citizen of the United States. He was a veteran of the Spanish-American war—the father of a fine family, wife and two children. He bought some legal liquor at a government liquor store. He paid the government legal money that had "We Trust in God" stamped upon it. It made him drunk. He got into his car. On his way to his home he drove—as many others do—when under the influence of liquor. He ran down a woman. She also was a mother of two beautiful children. He was arrested and charged with murder by reckless driving. He was found guilty and sent to prison by the same authority that had sold him the legal liquor that had made him drunk. That is just what the government is doing every day under repeal. He had committed no crime. He bought the stuff the government had legalized. He had paid the price in "legal tender" money of the United States. He had the legal right to drink it. Now, honestly, who is to blame? Why should this man be arrested, tried, and imprisoned for that which our government had purposely put in his way and for which it takes a price?
My story is a fanciful one, but such as is enacted every day in our beloved land, under repeal.—P. Woodring.—(Submitted by the local W.C.T.U.)

The meeting Friday. All associational and district Baptist Training Union officers are scheduled to attend.
