RAF Claims Five German Ships Sunk

Daylight Raids On France, North Sea Prove Fruitful

LONDON, July 14 (AP)—The RAF claimed hits on two 6,000-ton ships in daylight sweeps over Nazi-occupied France today and hits on three other ships later in an aerial search for German shipping in the North sea.

Seven German fighting planes were reported shot down in the two morning raids which centered on Cherbourg and Le Havre. An eighth was destroyed near the Frisian island off the Dutch coast and a bomber was shot down off the coast of Wales. A tenth plane—a bomber—was brought down by anti-aircraft guns on the east coast of Scotland.

The air ministry said the three ships hit in the North sea were of 6,000, 3,000 and 1,500 tons. The big bombers were escorted by fighting planes as they swept across the channel for the attack on France after night raids which extended from the coast to industrial northwestern Germany.

The British acknowledged loss of two of their bombers and four fighters in the engagement at Cherbourg. They said that one of the 6,000-ton ships was set on fire, and that bombs also hit a railroad station south of the docks, as well as locomotive sheds and a factory.

The other 6,000-ton ship was hit at Le Havre and afterward was seen to be half submerged, the announcement said. Later in the morning another formation of Blenheim bombers attacked the railroad yards at Hasebroeck.

Nazi daylight raiders also struck across the channel. Three soldiers were reported wounded when a German plane machine-gunned a train in southern England. In the night raids, docks at Amsterdam and Ostend were reported raided and targets as distant as Bremen and Vegesack hit.

Weather again was reported unfavorable to night raiding, but the British said they scored hits which started fires among the oil storage tanks of Rotterdam.

U. S. Favors Free Azores

WASHINGTON, July 14 (AP)—Sumner Welles, acting secretary of state, said today that the United States was anxious that Portugal retain sovereignty over the Azores and Cape Verde islands. He called attention to a statement in President Roosevelt's recent message to congress on the occupation of Iceland that it was vital to American security that strategic Atlantic outposts "remain in friendly hands."

Welles was commenting on a statement by the Portuguese minister, Jose Dibianchi, who said in New York Saturday that Portugal had received assurances that the United States would not occupy the Atlantic Islands.

The acting secretary also referred to a recent diplomatic exchange in which the United States told Portugal that it "harbors no aggressive intentions against the sovereignty or territorial integrity" of the Portuguese possessions but that "our policy today is based on the inalienable right of self defense."

Aliens Stranded Over Mexican Line

SAN DIEGO, Calif., July 14 (AP)—At least 12 aliens who had resided in the United States from 15 to 30 years face a two or three-month stay in Tijuana, Mex., because of new restrictions on re-entry to the United States, it was disclosed today by Gerald A. Mokma, U.S. consul at Tijuana.

Among them is Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Murphy, 60, Santa Monica, Calif., clubwoman and a native of Ireland, who crossed the international border with friends on a shopping tour Thursday and cannot obtain re-entry. Names of the others were not available.

Wool Label Law Goes Into Effect

WASHINGTON, July 14 (AP)—Beginning today, all wool products must bear labels setting forth the percentage of wool each contains and whether it is reprocessed or reused wool.

German Pounds At Gates Of Key Russian Cities

NAZIS SAY RED ARMIES TEARING UP

By The Associated Press

Kiev is tottering under combined air and land assault, Moscow no longer is protected from German panzer thrusts by the Stalin line and Leningrad is caught by a German frontal drive and a Finnish flank offensive, Germans asserted today.

They declared that red armies were falling apart and that the campaign was rushing to a climax on this, the 23rd day of the westward push.

Nazi forces were reported hammering at the gates of Kiev, and Berlin waited expectantly to hear that that gateway to the Ukraine's richest industrial and farming regions had been forced.

German planes rained destruction on Kiev's warehouses, and hangars and even destroyed the city's waterworks, it was said.

That was the picture to be pieced together from the words of authorized German spokesmen, DNB, the official news agency, and—in slight degree—from the daily communiqués from Adolf Hitler's headquarters.

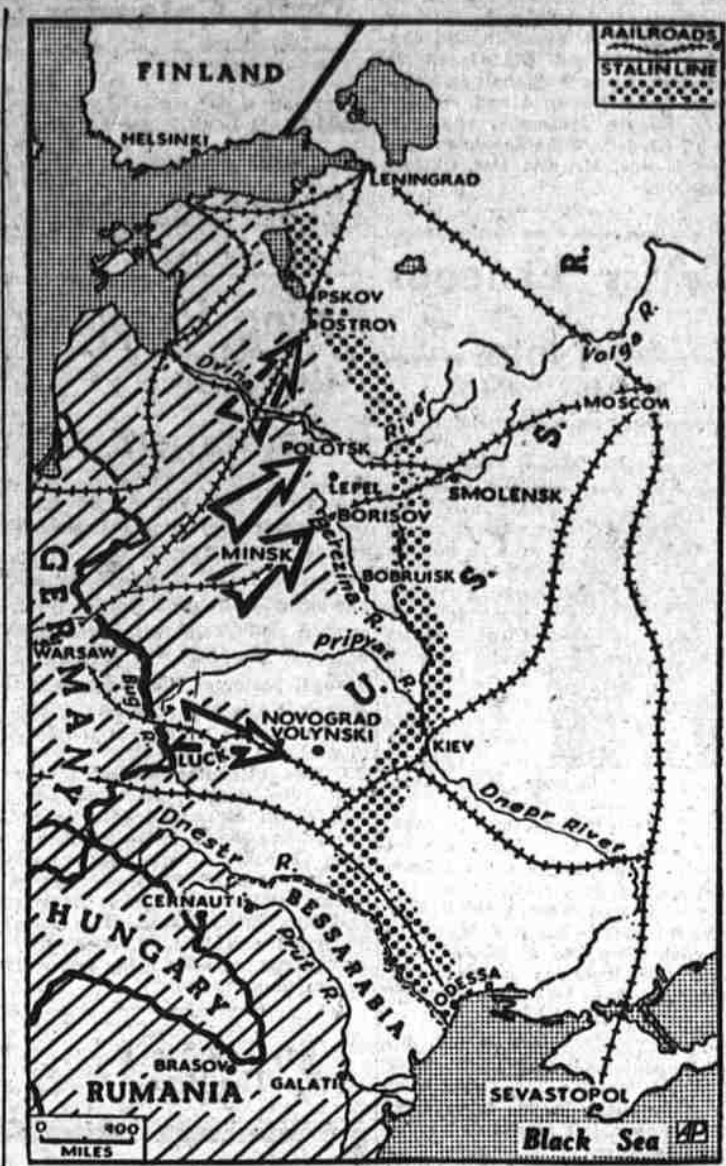

The German fuhrrer's headquarters said Finnish troops had opened an attack in Karelia, on both sides of Lake Ladoga, in the sector closest to Leningrad.

"The main strength of the powerful Soviet army is broken," asserted DNB, the official German news agency, reporting also that Nazi blitzkrieg legions had slashed through the main Stalin line defenses "at the decisive points."

Dispatches from Ankara, Turkey, reported that Soviet government officials were preparing to move from Moscow, although the Germans are still some 300 miles from the red capital, and that the British mission had already transferred to Gorki, 200 miles east.

By contrast, the Russians, after reporting that the 2,000-mile front was aflame with a series of gigantic new battles over the weekend, declared in this morning's communiqué that no major fighting took place during the night and that there had been no significant changes in the struggle in the last several hours.

In London, authoritative quarters said the Nazi drive toward Leningrad was "the most dangerous," but that Berlin claims of huge gains were regarded as extravagant. The German-controlled Holland radio said the fall of Kiev, the Ukraine capital, was "to be expected at any moment."

Jubilantly, Propaganda Minister Paul Goebbels proclaimed to the German public press and radio that "there is no salvation for the Soviet armies. . . . The decision in the east has already been attained."

As for a separate peace with Russia, the Germans made it clear that there could be no question of compromise. The reich, it was said, had a mandate from all Europe to liquidate bolshevism. Nazi military dispatches said that in storming across the strategic Dnepr river, on the central front guarding Moscow, German troops had encountered a powerful Soviet defense sector, 30 miles deep in trenches, redoubts and pillboxes, and further guarded by swamps and meandering streams.

German engineers swarmed into the boglands wearing snow-lime "swamp walkers" so they would not sink in the muck, it was said, and floated numerous bridges to get troops and tanks across.

Congress' Leaders To Seek Longer Terms For Draftees

WASHINGTON, July 14 (AP)—President Roosevelt and legislative leaders were reported today to have agreed to seek prompt congressional action to retain selectees and members of the national guard in training beyond their one year's service period.

Senator Hill (D-Ala.) a member of the military committee and one of those who attended the conference, told reporters that another proposal to lift the prohibition against sending draftees outside the western hemisphere "probably will not be considered at any time in the near future."

Hill and other of the White House conferees said that all efforts would be made to win prompt congressional approval of the legislation continuing the selectees and members of the national guard in service.

In an effort to settle some of the problems involved in extending the length of service Mr. Roosevelt met with seven dem-

Final Syrian Terms Signed

CAIRO, Egypt, July 14 (AP)—The armistice ending the war in Syria was signed at Acre, in Palestine, at 2 p. m. today (6 a. m., C.S.T.). General Sir Claude Auchinleck, British commander in the Middle East, announced tonight.

ACRE, Palestine, July 14 (AP)—Delegates representing Britain, the Free French movement and Vichy met here again today to discuss the new allied order in Syria and Lebanon, and the armistice, initiated Saturday night ending 34 days of warfare, was expected to be formally sealed.

Representing the Free French in the negotiations which coincided with Bastille Day was General George Catroux, de Gaulle's leader in the Middle East who is under Vichy's death sentence in absentia. With him were two aides.

Churchill Says British Raids Will Increase

Equality In Air Claimed Already By Prime Minister

LONDON, July 14 (AP)—Britain, unshaken by ten months of German air blows, has begun hitting back with fearful might and still is only at the beginning of her growing air power, Prime Minister Churchill told thunderously cheering civil defense workers today.

The prime minister delivered virtually the same fighting message twice—first to 6,000 clamoring veterans of the defense of London in a great review in Hyde Park and later to a luncheon of the capital's organized civil defenders.

"It is time the Germans should be made to suffer in their own homeland and cities something of the torments they have twice in our lifetime let loose upon their neighbors and upon the world," the prime minister exclaimed.

"We have now intensified for the past month a systematic, scientific and methodical bombing on a large scale of German cities and industries and other military objectives."

"We believe it to be in our power to keep this process going on a steadily rising tide month after month, year after year until the Nazi regime is either extirpated by us or, better still, torn to pieces by the German people themselves."

"We shall continue a remorseless discharge of high explosive upon Germany."

"You do your worst and we will do our best," Churchill addressed a remark to Hitler. "Perhaps it may be our turn soon. Perhaps it may be our turn now."

The prime minister acknowledged that when the Nazi air might first fell in force on London he suffered anxiety for its effect on morale, health and necessary services but, he said, London responded with grit which has been the rock that has made Britain "unconquerable."

He forecast vehement German retaliation, but now, he said, London is ready and "London can take it."

"Our methods of dealing with German night raiders have greatly improved," he mentioned. "They no longer relish their trips to our shores."

"It is not true to say they did not come this last moon because they were all engaged in Russia. . . . I do not know why they did not come but. . . . It may be because they were saving up."

"But even if it should be so, the very fact that they have to save up should give us confidence by revealing the truth of our steady advance from an almost unarmed position to a position at least of equality and soon of superiority to them in the air."

Official Count Gives O'Daniel Senate Seat

Audit Shows 1,311 Margin Over Johnson

Coke Stevenson Thus Advances To Office Of Texas' Governor

AUSTIN, July 14 (AP)—Governor W. Lee O'Daniel was elected U. S. senator in the election June 28, the official canvass of votes showed today.

O'Daniel received 175,990 votes to 174,679 for new deal Congressman Lyndon B. Johnson. His lead was 1,311 votes.

The canvass was by the state election board. Secretary of State William Lawson opened the official returns from the counties in the presence of the governor and Assistant Attorney General Grover Sellers.

Sellers represented Attorney General Gerald C. Mann, a member of the board. Other members were the governor and the secretary of state.

When Lawson whispered the outcome to the governor, who had sat throughout the two-hour proceeding and in the last few moments had leaned forward tensely, O'Daniel smiled and nodded.

Replying to newspaper reporters questions, the governor said: "I am very happy at the result. . . . He added that he had "no plans to announce at present."

The unofficial tabulation two weeks ago by the Texas Election Bureau, organization of about 90 newspapers, had given the governor a lead of 1,095.

The governor's gain on the official count was 216 votes. Interest immediately switched to the possibility of any contest and when O'Daniel would qualify as senator and yield his present office to Lieut.-Gov. Coke Stevenson.

Johnson had announced he would not contest. Stevenson said "I have no statement." He had watched the canvass in the midst of a sweating, hard-breathing crowd in the office of the secretary of state.

The O'Daniel and Johnson votes were tabulated first, because the other score of candidates were admittedly out of the running.

There were at least two views as to what the spectacular O'Daniel might do. One was that he might resign very soon and election certificate in hand, depart for Washington.

Crash Kills 3 And Injures Local Woman

MIDLAND, July 14 (AP)—Three persons were injured fatally and two others were hurt in an automobile collision early today on Suleide Hill, seven miles west of Midland on the Odessa highway.

The dead were Carl S. Leidecker, 41, of San Angelo, independent oil operator, and Andrew Brown, about 30, and Sam Lee, about 37, both ranch employes living near Odessa. Leidecker died 30 minutes after he was brought to a Midland hospital.

Brown died en route to a hospital and Lee died several hours after the accident. Mrs. Glynn Jordan, employed by an oil company at Big Spring and riding with Leidecker, suffered lacerations and possible shoulder and ankle fractures, but her condition was not considered critical, it was said.

Worth A Grin . . .

Was the result of today's special senate election canvass to W. Lee O'Daniel, above. It showed him as winner by 1,311 votes—an even better margin than in the unofficial tabulation—but still a plenty close one. Or maybe he's grinning about the "tails I'm gonna twist in Washington."

Retail Boom Over, Says Henderson

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 14 (AP)—Leon Henderson asserted bluntly today that "the party is over" as far as the retail sales boom occasioned by defense spending is concerned.

The administrator of the office of price administration and civilian supply said in a speech prepared for a meeting of the New York Housewares Manufacturing association that defense needs would require rationing of the materials which go into manufacturing articles the public has been buying in ever-increasing amounts.

It already has become apparent, he said, that practically no aluminum would be available for civilian use after military needs were set and "it is becoming evident now that the amount of copper, steel, nickel, zinc, chrome, manganese and a number of other materials required for armaments is going to be so great that we won't have enough left over for consumers' durable goods."

This, he continued, "means rationing, not by cards at the stores but at the raw materials line, and rationing means that someone is going to get hurt."

Henderson said there was grave danger of inflation and that the office of price administration was going to "bargain ahead" in the fight against it.

"Before long now," he said, "there will be more purchasing power running around hunting something to buy than there are goods available. If that occurs to substantial degree, no power on earth can prevent inflation."

"For that reason the government must sop up some of this extra purchasing power, and it can do so in many healthy ways. It must increase taxes, thus helping to pay for defense. It can stimulate savings—thus providing a back-log for the future when first attention is not being given to merchandise of death. Consumer credit must be kept from expanding."

Cotton Hits 11-Year High

Cotton futures reached 11-year record highs today on New Orleans and New York markets. At New Orleans, the 16-cent line was crossed for the first time since May, 1930, due to heavy trade buying and an unfavorable crop report. Gains on the New York market amounted to around $1 per bale.

Outsiders Come To Airport Job

First workers from another point were brought in Monday on the city-works Projects Administration-Civil Aeronautics Authority airport job.

Twenty-five men assigned to WPA at Colorado City were brought in to join with the approximately 125 local men working on the project. This brought the number actually at work to around 150 although the number assigned is substantially higher.

With around two dozen pieces of equipment employed in moving dirt, the airport work was reported moving steadily along with the cubic yardage handled daily fluctuating from around 6,000 to 4,000. As opposed to concentrated efforts on one runway at the start of the program, operations now are underway over most of the field area.

Seven Life Saving Candidates Qualify

Five junior and two senior candidates for Red Cross life saving certificates had qualified here Monday, examiners Stanley Mate and Fred Mitchell reported.

Only 13 of 27 juniors starting the course finished it, and only five of the 13 satisfied requirements for certificates. Two of the three seniors starting finished the work and both passed the examinations.

Junior certificates were earned by Lad Smith, Patsy Ruth Akey, Helen Blount, Robert Coffee, and Billy Mims. Seniors were Doyln Steward and Dan Lewis.

Swimming classes under Walton Morrison, assisted by George Thomas, were to continue through this week at the municipal swimming pool, it was announced.

Knox Ends Year As Navy Chief

WASHINGTON, July 14 (AP)—Secretary Knox, rounding out a year as civilian head of the navy, expressed hope today that the policy of aid to Britain would not lead this country into war, but he added that war could be "infinitely preferable" to a peace "accomplished by a surrender to Hitlerism."

With around two dozen pieces of equipment employed in moving dirt, the airport work was reported moving steadily along with the cubic yardage handled daily fluctuating from around 6,000 to 4,000. Gordon Stone Ranch Receives Improvements

STANTON, July 14 (Sp) — Gordon Stone was in Stanton Saturday from his ranch southeast of Stanton in Glasscock county to have medical attention paid to a sprained wrist sustained when his horse stepped in a hole and fell with him Friday evening. He is building six miles of wolf-proof fence, and is dusting 200 acres of cotton. He and Grady Cross, neighbor rancher, are practicing in a dusting machine, Cross having 800 acres in cotton. Stone said that the whole of the Lomax community was dusting the cotton. He is preparing his ranch to hold sheep that he proposes to stock it with along with his Hereford cattle. He is now running some 300 head of cows and calves. As soon as the appropriation is made an electric line will be built through the Lomax community and Stone will equip his home with electric lighting system. Stone is secretary of the Martin-Howard-Glasscock soil conservation service superisors and stated that the headquarters offices would be moved to Stanton as soon as office quarters could be secured. Representatives of the service were in Stanton Friday checking up on location for offices that will house some five employees and cars and trucks. Joe Poindexter of Stanton is the chairman of the board of supervisors.

Stanton People Take Interesting Vacation Trips

STANTON, July 14 (Sp) — Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Jones, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. A. Houston, went to Yellowstone park for their vacation trip. Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Kaderl of Stanton and Mr. and Mrs. Hilton Kaderl of Midland returned this week from a visit to Marfa and the Big Bend country. Hilton Kaderl is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Kaderl and employed with the Skelly Oil Co., Midland, and the group were guests of his wife's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jess Blackwell at Marfa. From Marfa the party went across into old Mexico to Orlinda and viewed some of the ancient sights there. Coats and wraps worn during the daytime were very comfortable in the Big Bend country, according to the Kaderls.

Two flowers that are a rarity, if grown at other West Texas points at all, are in full bloom and fragrance in the back yard at the home of Mr. and Mrs. N. Roy Ebbert's in Stanton. They are the cape jasmies and gardenias. They are the "rubaceous shrubs of China and Japan," long cultivated for fragrant white flowers, according to Webster. The flowers are tropical plants and are grown in a much lower altitude and warmer climate than West Texas usually affords.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Hall and daughter, Miss Maxine, have returned from a 4,978 mile trip through the southern and coastal states. Their point of destination was Fort Bragg, N. C., where Jiggs Hall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hall, is stationed with the army. He is technician in hospital No. 1 at Fort Bragg.

First Lieut. E. B. Sale, who has been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Sale, has gone to College Station. The past year he has been military science instructor at Camp Bullis, San Antonio. He is a graduate of A. & M. college. Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Holder and family left Saturday to attend the annual old settlers picnic at Cross Plains. Miss Fay Holder will remain in Cross Plains for a week's vacation.

L. F. Holder has returned from a weekend visit with friends and relatives at Cisco. Mrs. Paul Peeler entertained a group of young people Friday night on the lawn at her home with an ice cream supper. Present were Josephine Houston, James Webb, Bobbie Peters, Morris Donelson, Nina Holder, Tom Estes, Josephine Wright and Don Houston.

Mrs. Evelyn Woodard and her niece, Miss Beryl Tidwell, left Saturday morning for Denver, Colo., for a visit to the Pacific coast, including such points as Salt Lake City, Yosemite park, San Francisco, Boulder Dam, Los Angeles and Grand Canyon and home by Aug. 1. They were accompanied by Berdills Adcock of Merkel, who taught with Miss Tidwell at Texas City last year.

Milton Moffett, son of Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Moffett, who has been home visiting his parents and his wife on a 10-day furlough from Camp Bowie, returned Sunday to his army training service. Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Wilson left Sunday morning for Sweetwater to meet and bring home their daughter, Corinne, who is returning from TSCW, Denton, where she attended college the past year.

Visitors Pile Into Town Over Weekend For Short Visits Here

Visitors pile into town over the weekend for short visits with Big Spring folks and here's the situation from where we are sitting: Mrs. Claud Johnson of Memphis and Mrs. Guy Wright and daughters of Clarendon are visiting here for a few days in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Marcel Howell. Mrs. Wright is a sister-in-law of Joe Wright, formerly of Big Spring. Jane Hurley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pat Hurley, of Fort Worth, will return home Wednesday after a visit here with Marie Dunham, Maurine Rowe, and Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Carpenter of Fort San.

Mrs. Milton Shedd and daughters, Ruth and Helen Jean, of Los Angeles, Calif., were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Baker. Mrs. Lydia Bird and Mrs. J. J. Payne returned Sunday from a ten day trip. They visited in Houston with Mrs. Tom Agin, a former Big Spring resident, and then went to Galveston, Beaumont and Port Arthur. They went by boat from Port Arthur to De Quincy, La., and returned by way of Austin, San Antonio and Lampasas where they visited Mrs. Bird's mother, Mrs. E. A. Moore. Mrs. James T. Brooks, Lorena and James Edward, and Sara Frances Laney of Farmersville left Monday for Fort Stockton to attend the Presbyterian young people's encampment this week. Mr. Brooks will join his family at the close of camp and with Sara Frances, their guest, will go to El Paso and points in New Mexico for a visit.

Thoughts when we should be working. People are funny. Instead of marveling over miracles of radio, air cooling systems and automobiles, they gripe when they break down on them. Guess that's taking progress in your stride. Wonder why women go to the picture shows to gossip about their neighbors. It would be cheaper to sit at home. And anyway, in the dark, they miss the "No, tell me dearie," expression on the other's face after a juicy morsel. Wonder why women think they have to spend hours dressing to be cool, clean and sweet and men think they look o.k. in sweat (appropriate word) shirt, sneakers and badly in need of a shave. What people talked about, argued about and read about prior to World War No. Two. And what did they show in the news reels when they didn't have this war to concentrate on. Glad we don't have to be a radio news commentator while the Russian-German war is going on. Imagine trying to say the enemy crossed the Dvina river at Vitebsk. Whew! Why don't certain "Know alls" in Washington keep their finger out of the "yooboo" and the general's pie. And in the same vein, how can these men convince a majority of over 21's that they are representative of their state. Wish we had some pots and pans to contribute to the aluminum drive. Only thing that we can offer is our hair curlers, and brothers, that's patriotism.

Galveston Flood Survivor Dies

DALLAS, July 14 (Sp)—Mrs. Carrie Estelle Moore, 61, who walked 300 miles to Dallas with her two children after watching the Galveston flood of 1900 sweep her home into the sea, died here yesterday. Mrs. Moore, a native of Galveston, saw the flood wash away the meager savings she had managed from dressmaking taken up after the death of her husband, a Civil War veteran. She had recalled that before reaching Dallas a slice of bread a day was all the food she and her children had. After settling in her new home here, she provided for the family by taking in sewing.

Texas Legislature Finds Its Equal

JEFFERSON CITY (Sp)—Intermittently throughout the Missouri legislature's longest session — it started in January — committees have heard evidence on the first district state senate election contest. Republican Clark A. McColl and Democrat Charles O. Roberson each claimed the seat but neither occupied it. Yesterday both resigned so weary senators could go home 22 hours later than the time set for sine die adjournment. Both are expected to run for the post again in 1942.

Canine Tippler Is Led Astray

CHARLESTOWN, Ind. (Sp)—Mrs. Allen Barnett has asked a humane officer to shadow her pet bulldog and find out who's been setting him up to beers. The dog comes home staggering and with his breath smelling, she says, and she's afraid he'll get killed in traffic.

Informal Party Is Held For Houseguest Of Lorena Brooks

An informal party was held Saturday night for Sara Frances Laney of Farmersville by Lorena Brooks in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James T. Brooks. Sara Frances, who is a former Big Spring resident, will be the guest of the Brooks and other friends for several weeks.

Mrs. Vivian Hawthorne and W. A. Shaw, Sr., were married at 8:30 o'clock Saturday night at the First Presbyterian manse by the pastor, the Rev. O. L. Savage. The bride wore a navy blue chiffon ensemble with black accessories. Her hat was a black turban, and her corsage of white flowers. The couple was accompanied by Bill Shaw, Jr., Ruth Thorp, and Chester Wiley. Mr. and Mrs. Shaw will be at home at 804 1-3 Main following a week's trip to Centerville where they will visit with the bride's relatives. Mrs. Shaw is employed at the Club cafe and Shaw is employed at Texas Electric company.

Young People Attending Encampment

A group of young people from the First Presbyterian church left Monday morning for the annual conference in Ft. Stockton. The encampment will begin with supper tonight and end with breakfast Saturday morning. The Rev. O. L. Savage, pastor of the Presbyterian church, accompanied the group and will serve as one of the faculty at the camp. Others attending are Lola Mae Nell, Joe Brooks, Harry Middleton, Hank McDaniel, Johnnie Allison, Jane Beale, Patsy Akey, Lorena Brooks, James Edward Brooks, Sarah Frances Laney, Johnnie Allison, Mrs. J. T. Brooks, and Mrs. Cecil Wason. Mrs. Hank McDaniel and Mrs. E. J. Brooks look baggage to the camp and will return tonight.

Lamesa, Borger Split Two Games

BORGER, July 14 (Sp.)—A terrific 16-hit barrage by the Lamesa Lobos in the second game of Sunday's twin bill gave them an easy 13-4 triumph and an even split in the day's proceedings. The Gassers won the first game with some heavy hitting of their own, 11-2, to run their victory string to nine straight games.

Udell Moore hurled the opener and received credit for his seventh straight triumph as he limited the Lobos to five hits, two of them home runs by Jordan and Guynes. Trees, starting Lamesa hurler, was blasted off the mound in the fourth inning of the first game when the Gassers scored five runs on four hits to give them a 9-1 lead. Sullivan kept the winners fairly well in check the rest of the distance.

Extra-base knocks in the seven inning afterpiece gave the Lobos their victory and also fattened their batting averages. Jim Jennings, starting Gasser hurler, got along fine for three innings but then the Lobos went to work in the next three to see the game. Jennings was relieved in the fifth after he had given up 10 hits and eight runs. Hicks kept things in control until the seventh when the Gassers made five hits stand up for five runs, four of the hits being consecutive singles by the first four men up. Some fast fielding by Lamesa and Hicks spoiled the second game while the first game was featured by fielding of Williams and Gilchrist for the Gassers.

Bombers Win Doubleheader From Oilers

PAMPA, July 14 (Sp.)—Charlie Welchel, rangy Big Spring right-hander, pitched his way into baseball's select circle here Sunday night when he hurled 11 innings of no-hit, no-run ball to beat Pampa 5-0.

Not a single Pampa batter reached first base in the regulation nine innings—a perfect hurling accomplishment for Welchel. In the 10th he hit Haralson and then, with two out, intentionally passed Frierson to get Fullenwider out.

Big Spring rallied to his cause in the 11th when Reeves clipped out a single and Drake sacrificed him to second. Hank Poitras delivered a long single to score Reeves, then stole second and then scored when he knocked the ball out of Reynolds' hand at home on a relay by Frierson who had cut down Zmitrovich on an infield out.

Greer in this lead, Welchel promptly mowed down the Oilers' batsmen in order to end the game.

In the first game Sunday afternoon, Big Spring measured Pampa by an 8-4 count, capitalizing on doubles by Greer, Reeves, Haney and Zmitrovich. Mohrlock pitched shut-out ball for the Bombers until the sixth when Pampa bunched a volley of hits for three runs. He allowed another in the seventh and then got run stung by the rest of the stretch.

Big Spring's double win over Pampa, coupled with split of a double bill by Borger with Lamesa, increased the Bomber lead in the West Texas-New Mexico league to four full games.

The San Antonio Missions, apparently tiring of their cellar spot in the Texas league, battled for three hours and 44 minutes last night and finally subdued the Fort Worth Cats, 10 to 9, in the seventh inning.

It was the third consecutive one-run victory for the Missions, but they still linger on the bottom with the Cats still in seventh place.

The Cats tied the game in the ninth with three runs, and seven scoreless innings followed.

Fort Worth used five pitchers in the marathon, and San Antonio two. It took more innings to decide the contest than any other game of the season.

The Houston Buffs increased their lead over the field to 16 and a half games by sweeping a double bill from the Dallas Rebels, 3 to 2 in 11 innings, and 8 to 4. Ted Wilks won his thirteenth game of the season in the opener, in which Cross singled in the winning run.

The Buffs and Rebels met again tonight, with Freddy Martin seeking his sixteenth victory of the season for Houston.

J. P. Wood singled with the bases loaded in the ninth to give the Beaumont Exporters a 4 to 3 win over Oklahoma City's Indians in the first game of their doubleheader. Beaumont took the second, 4 to 2. Wood got three singles and a double in the opener.

Tulsa went into second place a half-game ahead of Shreveport by beating the Sports 3 to 1 in a game called in the fifth because of rain. The second game of the scheduled doubleheader was postponed.

DALLAS, July 14 (Sp.)—Bill Beggs, Texas league statistician, believes each team in the all-star game at Beaumont Wednesday will have its strongest backstopping in the history of the six-year classic, but adds that the south might have strengthened its catching staff by selecting Benny Huffman of San Antonio as reserve receiver over Al Unser of Beaumont.

"Normally the fans are led astray by the offensive strength of sluggers, the least important phase of their work," Beggs said today, "and there has been no previous season when sports critics thought the catching provided was all-around."

Bombers Lead In Team Fielding

Big Spring leads in at least one division of the West Texas-New Mexico league statistical chart.

The Bombers rank first in team fielding, with a .959 percentage, on the latest tabulation.

DiMaggio Hits Again—Pitchers Prove Of Some Use In Winning Ball Games

By SID FEDER

Associated Press Sports Writer

For the benefit of those folks who think baseball's second name is DiMaggio—and vice versa—this is as good a time as any to point out that pitchers really still are of some use in the game beside helping to keep up a club's intake average at mealtime.

Of course, none of 'em look any good when jolting Joe is waving his war club at them these days. Ted Lyons and Lefty Thornton Lee of the Chicago White Sox are the latest to join Joe's personal "servicemen-and-duck" department. The big buy connected safely off each of them yesterday, as the sizzling Yankees swept a twin bill, to run his all-time record for hitting to 33 consecutive games.

But the boys who deal 'em off the arm in the majors generally showed up the slugging specialist on Sunday's full schedule.

In the 15 tilts on the big-league card, three tosses served shutouts, three more gave up only one run. Spothawk Ken Heintzelman of the Pirates and old Rufus the Red Ruffing, the Yankee key man who turned in his seventh straight win, paced the parade.

It's a toss-up between Ruffing and Heintzelman for the best pitching performance of the day. Rufus the Red went to work in the nightcap for the Yanks, had a no-hitter going into the eighth inning and wound up with a 1-0 three-hit win in 11 innings for his tenth victory of the year. In the opener, Spud Chandler pitched five-hit ball to win his first victory of the campaign, 8-1.

Heintzelman hurled two-hit ball, allowed only one man to get as far as second and tossed the Pirates to a 4-0 picnic over the New York Giants. This boosted the Buc's winning streak to seven straight, but it ended right there as Bill Terry's Terriers came back to take the nightcap, 6-2, behind Hal Schumacher's five-hit hurling.

Ted Williams was missing from the Boston Red Sox lineup. He hurt his ankle Saturday. With the fireman's bat out, the Red Sox lost to Cleveland, 2-1, in 11 innings after going down 9-6 in nine. Lefty

Al Smith gave up 11 hits in the second game but won, although Mickey Harris allowed only eight and fanned 10 men.

As usual, opposing batsmen couldn't solve the riddle from Cincinnati and unbeaten Elmer posted his tenth straight win by blanking the Boston Braves with five hits for a 4-0 Red victory. Manny Salvo and Tom Earley combined on a nine-hit batter to beat Paul Derringer, 6-5, in the second game.

Even old Jack Knott, who sits down to table with the Philadelphia Athletics these days, was in the parade. Turning in his fourth win in his past five starts, he downed the Detroit Tigers, 5-4, with five hits, despite two homers by Pinky Higgins.

Washington walloped St. Louis, 6-3 and 6-5, as a quartet of Nat pitchers allowed only 13 hits through the 18 innings.

SIoux Falls, S. D., July 14 (Sp.)—Jerome (Dizzy) Dean made his first appearance in Class D baseball last night—a surprise three-inning stretch for the Sioux Falls Canaries of the Western league.

The Canaries won 7-4 over the Pueblo Rollers before 3,000 fans. Dean allowed but one hit and struck out one, but committed two of four Sioux Falls errors and left the game with the count knotted 3-3. He went hitless in two times at bat.

The once great National league hurler left the Cubs July 6 for a radio announcing job in St. Louis. He was making a barnstorming tour preliminary to his radio appearance. Earlier Sunday afternoon Dean pitched in a Storm Lake, Ia, game.

CHIXOX CONTINUE TO DRAW CROWDS

CHICAGO, July 14 (Sp.)—The Comiskey family stands an excellent chance of receiving a handsome profit on their Chicago White Sox for the second straight season.

The White Sox, led by Jimmy Dykes, have attracted 308,413 paid spectators, in 40 home games. At this rate the club will exceed last season's home attendance by about 50,000.

A doubleheader with the New York Yankees yesterday drew 50,387—second largest crowd in Chicago's baseball history.

SHE SWIMS...she rides...she's typically modern in her zest for the active life. Typically modern, too, in wanting to know the scientific facts about the cigarette she smokes. In choosing Camels, Dorothy Van Nuys enjoys the scientific assurance of a slower-burning cigarette. That means more coolness, freedom from the harsh, irritating qualities of excess heat...extra mildness. And she knows, from independent laboratory reports, that in the smoke of extra-mild Camels, there is less nicotine.

"I NEVER REALIZED, until I changed to Camels, that a cigarette could be so much milder and yet have all that wonderful flavor," adds Miss Van Nuys from the pool's edge (above). Yes, no matter how much you smoke, Camels always hit the spot—and they're extra mild with less nicotine in the smoke.

A YANK IN THE R.A.F.

Dramatic highlights from the forthcoming 20th Century-Fox production, with Tyrone Power, Betty Grable, Reginald Gardiner and John Sutton.

A full-fledged member of the R.A.F., Tyrone Power sets out with his comrades, Harry Baker and John Sutton, for a raid over Germany.

Their plane forced down in Holland, the fliers are captured by the invaders, but later manage to escape.

Back in London, Power quarrels with his American girl-friend, Betty Grable, as the result of a misunderstanding.

In action again, the young American assists his R.A.F. comrades in the evacuation of Dunkirk.

He comes through battle unscratched, and returns to a reward gratifying enough for any hero — as indicated above.

ON THE SETS

With REED JOHNSTON

There was a large and forbidding "No Visitors" sign on the door of the sound stage where Bob Hope was making "Nothing But the Truth," and cautious inquiries in the vicinity had brought forth the information that the sign really meant what it said. But "nothing ventured nothing gained," was apparently the motto of our escort, for he led us boldly through the forbidden portals, though with the warning to keep back in the shadows and try not to look like a visitor.

So there we stood, looking as much like a visitor as we ever did in our life, while up on the deck of a large cruising yacht Bob Hope submitted to a pushing around from Edward Arnold, Left Erickson and Grant Mitchell.

REED JOHNSTON

insane, after which Left Erickson and a stalwart sailor led him off-stage to a cabin where, it was indicated, he would be persuaded to say something more enlightening than just "woof."

At this point we became aware of a small group who entered the stage on tip-toe and took up a position just in front of us, blocking off part of our view. These people, it developed, were just visiting, and before we could maneuver around from behind them another group arrived to block us off from the side—incidentally swelling the total to twelve, all visitors.

Up on the set Left Erickson, wearing open-work sandals and no socks, got his bare toe stepped on in the course of the action, and let out a howl which spoiled the take. This interested us particularly as being the second time Mr. Erickson has had his toe stepped on in our presence, and it can be reported that he reacts in good, wholesome fashion to this treatment. What Bob Hope and the others were doing we couldn't tell, because by this time the constant stream of visitors pouring on to the stage had jammed us into a corner where we couldn't see the set.

EXCLUSIVELY YOURS: A combination theater, jail and firehouse at Yellow Springs, Ohio, will be the scene this summer of Nancy Kelly's return to the stage in a college production of "Able's Irish Rose." Miss Kelly will appear as guest star in the play, to be produced by Antioch College students, and she'll also give a three-week series of lectures to the summer school drama class. The theater, oddly enough, is in a building which also houses the town hall and fire department. . . . The Ralph Bellamy marriage is on thin ice. . . . Erwin Shaw, author of "The Gentle People," and his wife, Marian, have separated. . . . Hays Oce censors made John Barrymore happy by Office censors made John Barrymore happy by eliminating that scene of a monkey thumping its nose at him in "World Premiere."

ERSKINE JOHNSON Producer Gabriel Pascal is paging Paul Muni for the lead in Paul Gallico's original story, "Snow Goose," which will be filmed in Montreal. . . . The Forrest Tuckers are straining at the leash. . . . Maureen O'Hara's visit to Fort Ord inspired a private there, Tom O'Brien, to write a song titled "Maureen, the Army Colleen" for the next edition of "The Wizard of Oz." . . . Joe Breen, resigned Hays Office censorship boss, who is now head man at RKO, was welcomed to the studio at a dinner attended by studio executives the other night. Introducing Breen, Kay Kyser commented: "Look at him—eyes sparkling, cheeks rosy — he just came out of the Hays."

Bert Wheeler's one-time flame, Phyllis Ruth, and John Carroll have discovered each other. . . . Ginger Rogers and Jean Gabin, the French importation, are also an item, quietly dining together.

I don't blame Miriam Hopkins for turning down the femme lead in Universal's "Bad Lands of Dakota" after the studio gave her Robert Stack as her leading man. He's much too young for Miss Hopkins. She'd have to marry him in the final reel, "and the critics," she said, "would have laughed me off the screen."

That Greer Garson-Joan Crawford feud, which had its beginning when La Crawford beat out Miss Garson for the role of Susan in "Susan and God," should be interesting, with the girls working together in "When Ladies Meet." Joan is a veteran Hollywood feudist, though, and Miss Garson, who played in "Good-bye, Mr. Chips," better be careful — else it'll be "Good-bye, Mrs. Chips." . . . I hope I'm around when they sit down together at a piano, as per the script, and dust "I Love You." . . . Constance Bennett and Ruth Gordon, meanwhile, are having their own private little feud over clothes they'll wear in the new Garbo film. . . . Janet Blair, a new Columbia cutie, is helping John Howard forget Hedy Lamarr.

The fifth, and last, Westmore brother, 19-year-old Frank, goes to work today as a make-up man at Warners. He is just graduating from Hollywood High. . . . Now that sweaters are taboo, Hollywood costume designers are concentrating on feminine hips. They're being accentuated with skintight satin, or, like Carmen Miranda's get-up in "Week-end in Havana," no covering at all. . . . Bill Demarest's caricature of a kid star's father in "Glamor Boy" should leave the Hollywood fathers howling. He plays a half-witted former convict with a passion for bubble gum. . . . Walter Connolly's widow, Nedda Harrigan, is back in town to don movie grease-paint again after playing in "Charley's Aunt" on Broadway. . . . MGM is reissuing the 1932 Garbo film, "Mata Hari."

WEEK-END SIGHTS: Marlene Dietrich dining at the Mocambo with a black patch over one eye, following that minor operation. . . . John Barrymore ALONE and sipping a coke at the Beverly Tropics. . . . An actor named Rod Cameron will play the role of Jesse James in "The Remarkable Andrew" at Paramount. I can already hear movie fans complaining because he doesn't look like Tyrone Power.

Why was Richard Carlson suddenly removed from the cast of "Obliging Young Lady" at RKO? . . . It happened during a long rehearsal for an ice skating number in Republic's "Ice-Capades." "Okay, boys, rest your arses," yelled the chief electrician. A weary little chorus skater asked plaintively: "You couldn't make it, rest your arses, could you?"

HOLLYWOOD KEYHOLE

Almost every advertisement of a benefit show on the West Coast carries the name of Bob Hope — who does more gratis shows than any present star. Worn out from radio, pictures, and other activities, Bob just returned from a two-week vacation. When I asked him if he got enough rest to face a busy program, he told me he had a great time — he cut his double week into six benefits, four personal appearances in exploitation of "Caught in the Draft," fifteen interviews, and twelve rounds of golf. He now faces the starring roles in "Louisiana Purchase," "Snowball in Hell," "Road to Morocco," "Murder Farm," and an untitled film for Samuel Goldwyn. WHAT A MAN!

To further our South American good will, Dick Powell and Frances Langford may leave in September on a six-week round of visits to Latin American neighbors, with the CBS radio show, "Southern Cruise."

George Montgomery, new 20th Century-Fox star, has just signed a new contract with his agent — he promises to buy no more property without the agent's consent. They also have an oral agreement that for the next three years every answer will be NO! George, since his picture prominence, has purchased 1444 acres in Montana, twenty acres near Bishop, California, and fifteen acres near Hollywood.

THE GOOD RUMOR MAN: Broadcast officials are considering placing a permanent ban on radio appearances of John Barrymore — after the off-color ad lib crack he made last week in a skit with brother Lionel on the mammoth USO show at the Hollywood Bowl. . . . In pictures for less than a year, Powers Model Lucia Carroll has gone North Hollywood. . . . Description of Carole Landis — "The type not to type." . . . Understand Boris Morros, musical producer, is backing Norman Sper, sports writer, in a projected series of football shorts. . . . After shouting to newsmen that when he reached Hollywood he would have nothing to do with cinema women, Tommy Harmon, Michigan football star, is a constant visitor to the set where Marjory Weaver is working. . . . When Sheila Ryan asked a film glamour extra if she kept all her old love letters, she was answered, "No, I never do — they keep me." . . . Paramount is finally giving a build-up to Richard Denning — he gets the lead opposite Dorothy Lamour in "Her Jungle Note." . . . George Brent will be hospitalized for a month to correct an old back ailment, and Ann Sheridan will be a daily visitor. . . . Wayne Morris is paying $2250 a month for an apartment in Long Beach and says he is crazy about the Navy life. . . . Veronica Lake says "how do" to the stock in September. . . . Carole Lombard has turned down a half dozen picture offers to be with Clark Gable on his vacation. . . . George Raft is begging Warner Brothers to give him a chance to direct. . . . Left Erickson is seeing Florence Rice up until train time — the Navy calls him soon. . . . Agent Vic Orattelli tossed a big party at the Beverly Tropics for Frances Neal — and also a load of jewelry. . . . Bruce Cabot is still after Lis Whitney. . . . Glenda Farrell is back to pictures. . . . Rand Brooks and Martha O'Driscoll have found each other. . . . George Raft and Betty Grable are still road-showing their dance act at Ciro's every night. . . . John Carroll and Phyllis Ruth look like the real thing. . . . Ann Miller inked a Columbia contract before the film on "Time Out for Rhythm" was dry.

Lined up here for a bit of sunshine, and incidentally for photographic purposes, are (from front to back), Eleanor Stewart, Esther Fernandez, Eva Gabor, Frances Gifford, and Lillian Cornell.

Reviews of Previews

The outstanding picture of the week was the Warner Brothers production, "THE BRIDE CAME C.O.D.," starring Bette Davis and James Cagney. Forsaking her usual dramatic role, the screen's two-time Academy Winner proves herself a top-notch comedienne, and in no subtle way, for the film is a rowdy, rough-house farce that registers a laugh a minute. For the Brothers Warner the picture should bring many dollars to the box office, what with two of the big Burbank lot's best-known players in what will without doubt be a major film hit.

Bette, a wealthy oil heiress, plans an elopement with a band leader, Jack Carson. Cagney, a Hollywood honeymoon pilot, arranges by phone with her father, Eugene Pallette, to kidnap Bette, thus preventing the marriage. Unfortunately, the plane crashes near a California ghost town — and from there on the fun really starts. Miss Davis takes a terrific amount of pushing around — such as three falls into cactus beds, being carried kicking and screaming into jail, and plenty dirtied in a mine cave-in. And, oddly enough, the girl seems to enjoy it all. Cagney has been doing this sort of thing for so long that the role is a natural.

Credit Stuart Erwin with a fine job as a radio columnist, who really promotes the marriage for a news item; Harry Davenport for a warm portrayal of an old desert prospector, sole inhabitant of the ghost town. Eugene Pallette is excellent; and Jack Carson is stuff-shirted enough to satisfy the most exacting. Additional comedy by George Tobias, William Frawley, and Edward Brophy rounds out an evening's entertainment that should satisfy anyone. Unhesitatingly recommended.

The new Wallace Beery film, "BARNACLE BILL," is the best picture Beery has made in some time. Beery is the same familiar figure he always is — lazy, dirty, and generally no good all around — but with a heart of gold that leads to his final regeneration. Again teamed with hoarse-voiced Marjorie Main, we find Beery operating a small fishing boat against the background of Los Angeles' San Pedro Harbor. Miss Main owns a ship chandlery business and finances the small fishermen generally — but with a particular soft spot in her heart for our hero, Little Virginia Weidler, Beery's daughter whom he has not seen since birth, comes to live with him, and is foisted off on Miss Main. The child thinks her "Pop" is a great man — only to be disillusioned. Of course, everything works out okay, but there is plenty of action in the process, most of it hilarious.

Excellent shots of deep-sea fishing, particularly several battles with swordfish, should be pleasing to the male contingent. Performances are all excellent, Miss Main being at her very best. Lee Carroll, in a rather subdued role, has small opportunity to display his wares. Virginia is tops, along with Donald Meek as Miss Main's oldish father. Barton MacLane plays a fish buyer who is a hard-boiled gyp, and does it well.

All Beery fans, and most everyone else should enjoy "BARNACLE BILL" for the laughs, the thrills, and the few sobs it contains.

THUMBNAILED PREVIEWS: Paramount's "FORCED LANDING," with Richard Arlen, Eva Gabor, J. Carol Naish, and a well-balanced cast. This second effort by the new producing team of Pine and Thomas, and the writing team of Maxwell Shane and Paramount Publicist Ed Churchill is even better than their first, "Power Dive," which is making a hit around the country. Made on a relatively small budget, the film is further tangible proof that a good story, well written, cast, directed, and acted, can add up to real entertainment. Dialogue, too, is of the brightest. Performances are all more than adequate, with an especial nod to J. Carol Naish, who carries off major acting honors. Paramount's new find, Eva Gabor, turns out to be a full-fledged star, with talent galore and a wealth of loveliness thrown in. If you like a good adventure film, be sure to see "FORCED LANDING."

HOLLYWOOD FASHION SCENE

By MARGARET MCKAY

Color is news in Hollywood this week. No longer do we stick to the primary colors, but try all the variants of these and combinations that heretofore only flowers dared to flaunt. But if these color unions are a good enough for nature, they should be good enough for us. For instance, you'll see a lot of bright yellow and red together. Blue and green. Orange and purple.

In the new colors, Ida Lupino is wearing one called amethyst. It's between a purple and blue. She was dancing with husband, Louis Hayward, the other nocturnal in a dinner gown of this color. Also featuring an open midriff cut in a triangular shape. She topped the costume off with amethyst ear-rings and necklace.

The South and Central American colors are also helping to enliven the scene. Dona Drake, who used to be Rita Roy, the South American femme orchestra leader, but who is now one of Paramount's new young hopefuls appearing in "Aloma of the South Seas," wears a new color called Peruvian copper. She is also introducing the Mexican cowboy shirts for casual sportswear. The shirts are made of sacking and the neck line is horizontally slit. A contrasting sash ties at the waist and the outfit is completed with a peasant skirt.

BEST DRESSED GIRL OF THE WEEK: Barbara Stanwyck. Not for one costume, but because she has fourteen changes in her Columbia picture, "You Belong to Me." Some of the novelties she is innovating include a swaggar beaver fur coat for fall that zippers in different linings to match each dress change. One lining is green, another gray and still another blue. She is also going in for off the face hats, indicating they are here to stay for awhile. They are the exact color of each dress, with brims from 3 to 6 inches. The crowns are all shallow and her veiling ties in the back.

AROUND TOWN: Draped skirts are growing in popularity. Geraldine Fitzgerald, lunching at the Brown Derby, in a draped turban and a draped skirt with a tailored coat. . . . Dorothy Comingore, stunning star of "Citizen Kane," wearing the new long, black shorts in the garden of her home. . . . Sigrid Gurie in a long military cape at J. Huntington Hartford's (he was the chap rumored engaged to Arlene Judge a few months back) cocktail party. . . . Rita Hayworth wearing an Irish lace skull cap, laced with black velvet ribbon around the edges, for her dancing rehearsal at the studio and also as an evening bonnet for nightclubbing.

At the rate he is going now, he will soon be able to travel both ways first class, for when he finishes "Reap the Wild Wind," he is going into "American Empire," a story of the famous King Ranch in Texas.

That's three pictures in a fast row.

ATTENTION MOVIE FANS

Because of the tremendous number of requests for autographed pictures received during the past few weeks, we have been temporarily delayed in mailing these photographs to our readers. They are being prepared for mailing as quickly as possible, however, and will be sent on to you without further delay.

Soon to be seen in RKO's "Lady Scarface," the young lady above is Frances Neal, whose own face bears not the trace of a scar.

Lookin' em Over

With Jack Douglas

This corner is plenty mad at Charlie Wheelchel. The fact that he turned in a perfect game for nine innings against Pampa Sunday and went two extra frames without giving up a hit or a run thrills us, but why did he have to do it so far from home where none of us could yell ourselves hoarse. Consider what Pampa did to Big Spring Saturday night and Charlie's feat becomes all the more impressive.

Remember folks, your ballots for the All-Star game on July 22 must be in the mail by midnight Wednesday. We have a batch on hand here for mailing, so hurry down with yours and we'll send it in, too.

This brings to mind the need of many voting if the boys down this way are to have a chance of breaking into the dream game lineup. Several fine players have been mentioned, but we'd like to boost a few more. Take this fellow Kirby Jordan up Lamesa way. Kirby's fielding average isn't so flashy as some others, but out of 36 chances in his garden he has misjudged only three. But look at his batting average of .388.

Analyze it and you find he not only is a pretty sure hitter, but an explosive one at that. Maybe the average would be higher still if pitchers didn't get the shakes when Kirby comes up in a pinch. Rather than risk a lost ball, they dish up a walk. A good boy, that Kirby, and he ought to be on the south roster for the game.

Something ought to be said, too, for Willard Ramsdell. Not the kind of a pitcher that hypnotizes the audience with a flashy windup or temperamental display when the ump misses one, Pop is better than anybody else in the league when it comes to winning ball games. He's not tight with his runs unless he has to be, and when it comes to wriggling out of a pinch, he can do the job to a turn. That old experience plus a pretty fair passed of baseball brains makes him a mighty valuable man.

It's good to see tennis picking up steam here this season. For the first time in the history of the city, the court problem is nearer being solved. It is now possible, by reserving courts, to get in a game without having to wait three days and nights for someone to get off. Tennis is a great sport and Big Spring has plenty of good tennis weather. Tennis is a universal sport and one that doesn't require a couple of dozen men in order to play. If someone is looking for a life-time sports hobby, tennis is a good bet.

Whether we get that field house at Steer stadium is still conjectural. The way has been provided through a measure by the legislature whereby revenues from bonds can be floated for improvements that won't cost taxpayers a cent. Now if the right kind of a proposition can be worked out and a market for revenue bonds found, we may yet get that improvement.

Incidentally, the time is nearing when football fans will begin speculating over chances in the 3-A race. As defending champions, Big Spring has a hard row ahead. Lamesa should be tough as a weathered boot. Sweetwater is due to pack a whale of a punch and Abilene and San Angelo are certain to be stronger. Experience has taught that Odessa and Midland can't be sold short, either. So if you're picking a winner, get away odds. (Joe Pickle pecking long for vacationing Jack Douglas).

Bomber Album

If there is anything to a good beginning, Charlie Wheelchel, right-handed Big Spring Bomber hurler, is bound to make baseball history before he winds up his career.

It was here in Big Spring that Charlie had his spectacular start in professional baseball. Coming up to bat for the first time in the coffee and cake angle of baseball, Charlie took a swing at the first pitched ball and knocked out a home run. Charlie is not due to forget that third inning against Wichita Falls. There was one man on base and it was up to Charlie to win his own ball game—that's exactly what he did.

But, this startling opening to a pro career did not come just by chance. The 19-year-old pitcher was born March 30, 1923 at Vallejo, Calif., and has been playing almost ever since.

Charlie has been playing ball—and lot, high school, college and semi-pro for many a moon. In fact, he was only fourteen when he joined the lineup of a West Coast semi-pro outfit. He started there as a first baseman and remained one until spring training got underway at Santa Barbara this year.

His high school ball playing included terms at Narbonne and Lometa high schools at Long Beach, California. In his first year at Long Beach Junior College Charlie took in a bit of baseball and won a medal as All-Southern California first baseman. Over the same period his batting average hit .367.

After playing in the Winter League, at Phoenix, Arizona, and in the Post Tournament at Denver, Charlie decided it was time for him to enter pro ranks. And then, he was told something that has taken the heart of many a baseballer—his hitting was not of the brand that warranted any hope of progress to the upper brackets.

Charlie declares he didn't know what to do when he was advised to quit first base. He said that for a while he just wanted to forget the whole business and go back to studying the finer points of teaching. But, after thinking the situation over, he decided to see what he could do on the mound. He'd been told he couldn't hit well enough to hold down the number one bag job—he figured his best bet was to start playing a position where hitting wasn't one of the prime needs.

Without knowing any too much about heaving them over the plate, Charlie proceeded to learn—Big Spring fans can judge as to the degree of his learning.

Charlie's dad, a one-time outfielder in the Coast's AA league, and a Brooklyn scout suggested that Charlie take advantage of a hard throwing arm.

Wheelchel signed up with the Brooklyn organization this spring, put in a training session and hit the road to Big Spring.

So far in the current season, Charlie has won 12 games and lost four. He's pitched four 4-hitters, three 2-hitters, two shutouts, and one no-hit, no-run game.

Wheelchel has a crack pitcher's frame. He's six feet four inches tall and weighs 184 pounds. According to baseball men in the know, the faster loops are crying for big men—Charlie's no mid-gut.

His athletic ability extends to more than baseball. He was on the all-league basketball team for three years in his section of Cal-

Cities Service And Staggs Play Tonight

Cities Service and Staggs will hold a softball monopoly here today, playing both games scheduled on the city park diamond.

The first game is scheduled to start at 7:15 p. m. and is a make-up affair. The second is a regularly scheduled encounter. No minor league games are billed.

Tennis Tournery Report Corrected

In an account of the city tennis tournery turned in to The Herald Saturday, it was erroneously reported that Mrs. C. S. Edmonds had defeated Georgia Griffin.

The results reported to The Herald were given in reverse. The correct situation is that Miss Griffin defeated Mrs. Edmonds.

Editorial - - Big Spring Needs Housing

Not all of the housing shortages of which we hear so much these days are in areas of booming defense activity.

Right here in Big Spring we have a lack of suitable places to live. There are dozens of families "getting by" in apartments and houses that are not satisfied with. Newcomers to the city are shocked at the inadequate condition of such dwellings as are offered for rent, and usually say so in plain words when they survey a list of those rental opportunities listed.

Now, is the time for something to be done about this situation. Surely there could be no better time in the next few years for one to build a new home, or for one to make an investment in new rental property.

Money can be borrowed easier and cheaper than ever before. Interest rates have not been so low in the past, so there is no reason to believe that they will be so low in the future. Almost all economists believe that inflation of one degree or another is coming, so there is no better time to go in debt for something as substantial and permanent as residential property—or any property, for that matter.

There is a demand for new dwellings in Big Spring; and new construction is easy in these days of low loans and low interest. Those who take this step will be performing both an individual and a community service.

Hollywood Sights and Sounds—Fort Worth Woman's Life Movie Subject

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—"Blossoms in the Dust." Screenplay by Anita Loos from story by Ralph Wheelwright. Directed by Mervyn LeRoy. Principals: Greer Garson, Walter Pidgeon, Felix Bressart, Marsha Hunt, Fay Holden, Samuel S. Hinds, Kathleen Howard.

This is the moving biography of a woman who still lives and carries on her work in Fort Worth, Tex.—Mrs. Edna Gladney, worker for foundlings and orphans.

The story opens at the young Edna's well-to-do home in Wisconsin, where she meets the bold young man from Texas who a year later is to make her his wife. There is, in the household, a beloved foster-sister (Marsha Hunt) who takes her own life on the discovery that, by standards of the day, she is an outcast—an "illegitimate" child. Edna never forgets this tragedy.

The story opens at the young Edna's well-to-do home in Wisconsin, where she meets the bold young man from Texas who a year later is to make her his wife. There is, in the household, a beloved foster-sister (Marsha Hunt) who takes her own life on the discovery that, by standards of the day, she is an outcast—an "illegitimate" child. Edna never forgets this tragedy.

her life is shaped: first it is a day nursery she operates for working mothers, and then, when fortunes change and they are struggling again in Fort Worth, a home for the care and intelligent placement of waifs. She wages a continual fight for funds along with a battle against bigotry which culminates in her fight in the state legislature to save children from being branded as "illegitimate." She carries on after her husband's death, wins her final victory over self by giving up one particular child she had planned to keep as her own.

"Blossoms" is a leisurely tale, told and acted with fine restraint. Miss Garson delivers a glowing performance, her beauty given new fullness by the color camera. Pidgeon, the husband, is great.

"The Bride Comes C. O. D." Screenplay by Julius J. and Philip G. Epstein from story by Kenneth Earl and M. M. Musselman. Directed by William Keelchey. Principals: James Cagney, Bette Davis, Stuart Erwin, Eugene Pallette, Jack Carson, George Tobias, Harry Davenport.

Wild comedy about an impetuous honeymoon pilot (Cagney) who kidnaps a cafe society heiress for her father to prevent her elopement with a smug band leader. Most of the humor is no more subtle than Miss Davis' frequent falls, rear first, on cacti.

Whether Cagney and Davis belong there is a question, though both enter into the proceedings with gusto. Old Harry Davenport is A-1, and Carson does a perfection one of those fatuous heels on which he has a copyright. Tobias has funny scenes, too.

"Barnacle Bill." Screenplay by Jack Jevns and Hugo Butler. Directed by Richard Thorpe. Principals: Wallace Beery, Marjorie Main, Virginia Weidler, Leo Carrillo, Barton MacLane, Donald Meek.

Standard Beery—lazy, disheveled, ingenious at avoiding honest work, but a hero in the last reel—has a San Pedro fishing background this time. Miss Main, playing his battle-axe light of love, is coy and funny. The little child who leads him (Virginia Weidler) is so honest an actress she scarcely fits in with the general mugging, but Beery fans won't mind.

—Beery is Beery.

Man About Manhattan—Love, It's A Funny Thing, In New York As Elsewhere

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Love. It's a funny thing. It makes the world go round.

The other day it made 134 couples in New York take out marriage licenses.

The other day it made Brenda Frazier give up being a glamour girl and become Mrs. "Shipwreck" Kelly. A good thing, too, for the glamour-girl business was fast going to pot. Before Brenda's time, a girl was the glamour-girl of the season only for one season. Then she moved on, and someone else took her place. But Brenda changed this. True, each year a new girl was named, but the photographers had eyes only for Brenda, and everywhere you looked, even in the papers, it was Brenda Frazier.

Well, that's all changed now. Love did it.

Love is a funny thing. Over the weekend it caused a negro cook up in Harlem to lose his temper. Before he regained it, both enter into the proceedings by a razor, his right thumb was dangling by a thread of skin, and he was in jail.

When they brought him into night court they brought a woman, too, and she had an angrily swollen eye.

"Well," she said, "He sassed me. He slapped me. Then he knocked me down. Then he kicked me. That's when I got mad—when he kicked me."

The man looked embarrassed. He fidgeted with his handkerchiefs, and drew little imaginary figures on the courtroom floor with the sharp toe of his highly polished shoe.

"How come you sassed her, then slapped her, then knocked her down, then kicked her?" the cops wanted to know.

"He looked at them solemnly. "I love her," he said simply.

Love.

It's a funny thing. The other morning in Manhattan it made a man get on a street-car and sit down by a woman, whom he obviously knew. She turned her shoulder to him and stared obtusely out the window. The man continued to plead in low, earnest tones.

When at last it became apparent that she had no idea of listening to him he sighed, got to his feet, pulled out a gun, and pulled the trigger.

The bullets began to beat up the seats and the floor of the car. As it happened, a cop was on the car, and the cop dealt the man with the gun two fast, low slugs.

Washington Daybook—Ladies Will Get Many Jobs In Industry

WASHINGTON—In the next six months, you are going to hear a lot about "the second line of defense workers"—the woman power of the nation.

Over in the women's bureau of the Department of Labor things are humming and almost any journalistic war horse can smell the smoke of battle. The first guns have been fired. The objective—to get that "second line of defense workers" trained and ready to step into the labor market and fill gaps caused by rapidly expanding industry.

The ink isn't dry yet on a report on the possibilities for women factory workers in aircraft production. The survey was made by Miss Ethel Erickson, industrial supervisor of the bureau, and her staff. The labor ladies went from the storeroom where raw materials are received to the ramp where assembled planes were being revved up for the test pilots.

What they found can be summed up in a couple of sentences. They reviewed seven plants, where approximately 100,000 men are employed. In three of these four, less than 1 per cent of the employees were women. Yet from one-fourth to one-third of the jobs in those factories could be performed by women, if they had the training, says Miss Erickson.

At the end of the World war, 23 per cent of the workers in 40 airplane plants in this country were women. In Germany and Great Britain, it is believed 40 to 50 per cent of the workers today are women. Women's bureau officials recognize that conditions are different here from those in Great Britain and Germany and conditions are different from 1917-18.

But squawks that the labor supply is getting pretty thin are beginning to pop up from several sections and the labor ladies say the second line of defense workers hasn't even answered its first roll call, much less been trained to take over at the lathes, drills and riveters.

Miss Mary Anderson, director of the women's bureau, who herself had 18 years as a machine operator before she came to her present job, calls this lack of trained women "the Achilles heel of the labor supply."

Although there is nothing official on it, it doesn't take half an eye to see that there are comparatively few women in the war materials industry at present—just about enough to give the women's bureau basis for argument that it could be developed on a grand scale.

The male workers have been against it; the industrial managers have been against it. But Miss Anderson declares that an almost overnight change has taken place in the attitude of management and attributes it to four things: (1) the backlog of unemployed men is rapidly shrinking; (2) the draft is taking considerable toll from the labor force; (3) industrial expansion is still on a steep upgrade, with the peak far ahead; (4) the "unlimited emergency" has widened our defense horizons.

She points to Massachusetts, Connecticut and Maryland, and in scattered sections, New York, New Jersey and California, as states which already are beginning to recognize this changed attitude and swing into programs for training women for production of aircraft, guns, powder, tanks, machine tools and other war materials.

There is a very small amount of within-industry (apprenticeship) training of women so far. The two agencies doing most of the training are the National Youth Administration and the vocational division of the office of education. It's only a start, but it is that, and the labor ladies here certainly have a determined glint in their eyes.

Idle Danish Ships Are Taken Over

WASHINGTON, July 14. (AP)—The maritime commission took over 16 mode idle Danish cargo disclosed that it will cost more than $5,000,000 to repair sabotaged German and Italian vessels which the government proposes to confiscate under the 1917 espionage act.

Representatives of the commission boarded the Danish cargo carriers in four Atlantic ports and assumed title and possession, it was announced.

Special Train May Run To 45th Review

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., July 14. (AP)—Plans for a special train to carry Oklahomans to the formal review of the 45th division next weekend at Camp Berkeley, Texas, have been announced.

Tom Sterling, chairman of the military affairs committee of the Oklahoma City chamber of commerce, said a minimum of 200 passengers would be necessary to assure a special train.

Border Dispute Is Arbitrated

QUITTO, Ecuador, July 14. (AP)—Ecuador has announced acceptance of a tripartite neutral offer of good offices in this country's boundary dispute with Peru, which recently led to sporadic border clashes.

The Ecuadorian foreign office communicated this government's decision to the envoys of the United States, Argentina and Brazil, which had offered July 9 to cooperate in an effort to reach a peaceful solution of the century-old controversy.

The Timid Soul

THE SACRED DAGGER

by Rita Moller Hanson

Chapter 30

THE DAGGER STRIKE

Mackey's hand came down hard on Anne's shoulder. They flattened below a cliff edge. The dagger behind stones, and the Nagaras sent a few wild shots up the glen.

"Sweet serpents!" exclaimed Mackey. "Have the Nagaras enemies in their own territory?"

"Might it be somebody trying to rescue us?" Anne asked.

"It could be a scouting party from Shanai Lun looking for Blase," he admitted.

The half dozen Nagaras left unharmed had organized their rifle fire and checked the advance from the glen where the sniping had begun. Mackey risked a glance over the ledge and ducked as a bullet whizzed above his head.

"They're men wearing the Turki headress of Yangsar," he cried excitedly. "They must be the Russian renegades."

"What are they after now?" Anne asked, thoroughly terrified.

"God knows!" He looked around separately. "I wish I could get you out of here or even hide you. We're safer with the natives than with these birds."

Judging from the rifle fire the attackers had superiority of numbers and they seemed to be advancing.

"Damn—why haven't I a gun," groaned Mackey. But before his words had left his lips his right hand went up, palm out. The men in hand were converging on them from the rear, creeping along close to the ground. Suddenly, shouting and blows could be heard in other directions. It had become a hand to hand conflict. The enemy rose and came forward boldly.

"They're the Russians, the right," whispered Anne, noticing that one of the men had a blond beard.

"And they're armed to the teeth," said Mackey, rising and helping her to her feet. They were motioned to keep up both hands and were searched expertly. The blond man scrutinized Anne sharply with his bleak, bloodshot eyes. When he found the dagger belt he spoke to her in Russian. She could not understand, but Mackey did.

"He calls you the Eyes of Shy-Nago. He's the leader of the gang, he says. He recognizes the dagger. It's you he's after."

Instead of taking the weapon from her as she half expected he fastened a chapped and grimy hand to her wrist, while the other fellow proceeded to bind Mackey's wrists with a cord. Mackey attempted to talk to them and was struck for his pains.

"Be careful, Anne, they're dangerous," he warned through bleeding lips, and was knocked down and kicked until he got up again. Anne's captor drew her forward roughly to the center of the camp. The Nagaras had been disarmed and trussed. Diana and her husband and Beth were brought forward, hands tied. From behind a rock two men dragged Oliver fighting senselessly. Suddenly one of them, in a rage, grabbed the gun from his belt and struck the American, cutting a bloody gash in his head. Oliver fell, stunned, and was left where he lay. Larry submitted with better judgment, Doddap likewise, talking himself into a job as interpreter. Anne was quick to observe that Sherwood did not appear.

"Has he been wounded or—?" she stopped, sick with a dreadful apprehension.

"I don't know," admitted Mackey, pressing his lips against his coat sleeve to staunch the blood.

No Hope

The leader directed another man to bind Anne's hands, after which he pushed her down on a stone and admonished her, she supposed, to stay there.

Two bodies were brought and laid beside the native who had fallen into the ashes. Neither of them was Sherwood's, Anne saw. The lama answered a call of the leader to interpret a parley with the Nagara chieftain.

"Blase! Blase! Blase!" Anne felt afraid with the silent summons.

She saw Diana catch the leader's eyes and give him a look, half appealing, half coquetish as she lifted a hand in a little feminine gesture.

He scowled at her and stopped before Anne, motioning her to rise. "Where is Blase?" Anne cried while the man was unbinding her hands.

Diana looked at her. He escaped," she said, "though I suppose you're sorry he's not dead."

Anne said nothing, rubbing her wrists, her eyes downcast that no one might see the sudden relief that had sprung to them.

The Nagara chieftain had been freed likewise. Now he was motioned to lead the way, the lama and Anne following, and they continued the journey up the mountain.

The going was frightful—Anne marvelled at her own fortitude, grounded in the recklessness of despair. She did not care what happened and the attitude seemed to give her an immunity from accident. The depth made no pull at her sensibilities. Rocks remained firm when she stood on them. Blides braced to sustain her.

Doddap fortified himself for each ticklish pitch with his chanting drum and the beating of his little drum. At least, Anne thought such was his object until she saw tears streaming down his face.

"What is it?" she asked.

"The time approaches. I fear for the master," he said.

"But he's better off than any of us. Diana saw him escape."

"He is in great danger," and the lama renewed the beating on his little drum with a despairing vigor.

Eventually they emerged on a broad bleak tableland. Before them stood a confused enclosure with cross fences of stone running here and there, dividing the compound. In one section stood a score or so of horses, their the native taboo without much hope he would be impressed.

"Tell him," she directed Doda, "that unless he has the right touch of this weapon means death."

In answer the man gave a short mirthless laugh and took a threatening step towards her. Anne reached the knife from its sheath and held it in her palm point towards him, the sharp blade gleaming, the green eye glowing unnaturally in the dusk like the eye of a live animal.

"Come and get it if you don't believe me."

The man hesitated, staring a moment as if some instinct warned him of danger. He could not see or believe in. A jibe from one of the men set him off, and he seized the dagger from her hand. His eyes had lifted, looking across her shoulder. Suddenly they widened.

His hand flashed up and threw the knife.

Anne dropped instinctively. A bullet opened the man's forehead, and he crumpled to the floor.

Sharrow stood in the doorway, the dagger hanging in the trail left beside him. At his shoulder was Mackey, a pistol in his hand.

Counties May Be Forced To Hike Rates To Pay Bonds

(Herald Austin Bureau)

AUSTIN, July 14 (AP)—An average increase of 30 cents in county tax rates over West Texas may be anticipated by property owners unless a special session of the legislature is called to re-enact the road bond assumption bill.

Failure of the lawmakers to pass the bill during the regular session just ended had the effect of throwing back on the counties the burden of meeting principal and interest payments on millions of dollars in county road bonds previously assumed by the state and serviced with revenue from one cent of the gasoline tax.

The county and district road bond indebtedness board will stop paying the bonds with gasoline tax money at the end of August unless the legislature returns to Austin to continue this policy. County commissioners courts then will be faced with the problem of increasing the local property tax rates to pay the bonds or risk impairment of the credit of their local governments.

The additional burden on 48 West Texas counties as a result of the prospective breakdown in the state assumption program will be $1,196,671 next year. Total property valuation in these counties amounts to $437,442,986. In order to raise the additional revenue to meet principal and interest payments in 1942 the counties in this area will have to boost their tax rates an average of 30 cents per $100 valuation.

Tom Green county will have to meet principal and interest payments totaling $56,585 next year which the state would have paid under a continuation of the assumption program. To raise this revenue the county will have to boost its tax rate about 25 cents on the $100 valuation. The prospective increase is figured on the basis of valuation of $23,610,575.

Taylor county would face an increase of about 33 cents in its tax rate to meet principal and interest payments in 1942 totaling $63,592. The boost is calculated on the basis of property valuation totaling $20,162,740.

Howard county would have to add almost 10 cents to its tax rate if it expects to meet principal and interest payments next year totaling $11,031. The increase is figured on the basis of property valuation totaling $15,807,011 and takes into account average collections.

In some cases the tax rate would have to be raised by more than $1 on the $100 valuation in order to meet payments on road bonds which the state had been expected to provide for. An example is Stephens county, with valuations amounting to $9,908,745, which would be faced with the problem of paying $128,835 in principal and interest on road bonds next year. This would require a boost in its tax rate of more than $1.30.

The seriousness of the situation throughout the state has brought forth many pleas for a special session, and capitol observers believe that an emergency call will be issued if, and as soon as Governor O'Daniel takes his seat in the U. S. senate. O'Daniel is opposed to special sessions and it is difficult to predict what he would do if he remained as governor.

cratic and two republican members of the senate and house. General Marshall, army chief of staff, also was present.

The congressional members included Senate Majority Leader Barkley, of Kentucky; Chairman George (D-Ga.) of the senate foreign relations committee, Chairman Reynolds, (D-NC) of the senate military committee, Senator Hill (D-Ala.), senate whip and member of the military committee; Senator Austin (R-Vt.) assistant minority leader and member of the military committee; Speaker Rayburn; House Majority Leader McCormack of Massachusetts; Chairman May (D-Ky.) of the house military committee; and Representative Wadsworth (R-NY).

The chief executive has suggested that it might be well to extend the service period, particularly of men assigned to outlying posts, such as those in Alaska, Hawaii and in the Atlantic. Administration officials have taken the position that maximum efficiency would not be served if it were necessary continuously to replace portions of troops on duty at distant stations.

Meanwhile, the senate military committee deferred for a week consideration of legislation which would authorize President Roosevelt to requisition private property for defense purposes.

Markets At A Glance

NEW YORK, July 14 (AP)—Buyers turned to the rails in today's stock market when most other departments made only indifferent response to tempting bids.

Airerats had the play for a time in the forenoon. Steels and specialties did moderately well at intervals. Gains of fractions to a point or so were sprinkled over the list at the close although losers were plentiful and numerous issues unchanged.

Dealings dwindled from the start and transfers of 850,000 shares were smaller than in any full session last week.

Livestock

FORT WORTH, July 14 (AP)—(USDA)—Cattle 2,500; calves 1,000; market slow, choice yearlings steady, other steers and yearlings weak to lower; few common and medium beef steers and yearlings 7.00-9.25; good and choice yearlings 9.75-11.50; beef cows 6.00-7.50; bulls 5.50-7.50, odd head above 7.50; common to choice killing calves 7.25-10.75; good and choice stocker steer calves 10.00-12.00.

Hogs 1,850; mostly 5-10c higher; top 10.25, paid by 7 interests for best 180-250 lb. butchers; heavier and lighter weights downward to 10.50 and below to 10.00.

Sheep, 10,200; market steady to strong; slaughter lambs 8.00-10.00, several decks at latter price; slaughter yearlings 7.25-7.5; odd head to 8.00; stocker spring lambs up to 8.00, yearling stockers 7.00 down.

Grain

CHICAGO, July 14 (AP)—Selling stimulated by heavy terminal market receipts of wheat, reports of increasing congestion at some points and substantial increase in domestic visible supplies caused wheat prices to retreat more than a cent a bushel today.

Wheat closed 3-4 to 1 1-8 lower than Saturday, July 14 to 1.03 7-8, Sept. $1.05 1-2 to 5-8; corn 1.03 to 3-8 down, July 7 1-2, Sept. 75 1-2; oats 1-4 to 3-4 lower.

Wool Market

BOSTON, July 14 (AP)—(USDA) Trading wool was slow today and there was no call for large quantities. Fine Delaine bright fleece wools were sold in small quantities at 42-44 cents, in the grease. Short to average French combing length territory wools in original bags were receiving a little demand at $1-$1.02, scoured basis.

Cotton

NEW YORK, July 14 (AP)—Cotton advanced $1 a bale today to new 11-year high.

Red River Barge Channel Argued

WASHINGTON, July 14 (AP)—Louisiana, Texas and Arkansas interests today urged the board of army engineers to recommend to congress a 9-foot channel in the Red river from its mouth to Jefferson, Tex. The army district engineer reported it would not be economically justifiable.

Rain still varies over the area during these summer months. The Soil Conservation Service reported these rain totals for June: Brunson ranch (northern Glascock county), 4.59; Curtis (Howard-Martin line), 3.16; Demant (South in northern Howard) 3.20; and Wolcott (northwestern Martin) 2.66.

Active Recruiting Started By Navy In Big Spring

Active recruiting for the U. S. navy and naval reserve has been started in this district with opening of a new station in the Howard county courthouse, Roy Lokey, C. Prtr. U.S.N., said here today.

He pointed out that opening of the station here would result in considerable saving in time and expense to local men interested in enlistment. Formerly it was necessary for men to go to Abilene for naval enlistment.

Lokey said that all men registered for selective service, may, if qualified, enlist in the navy or naval reserve before their call time. The naval reserve, he said, has unlimited vacancies for men in all walks of life from 17 to 36 years, and for skilled men up to 50 years.

The Big Spring station is now the farthest west of any in the state save El Paso. It was included with Lubbock, San Angelo, Amarillo and Paris last week as a new station. H. P. Jones, R. O., came here last week to open the local office.

ton to present himself for senate recognition and qualification.

Other persons thought he might not resign at all, but might merely go to the national capital when ready and take the oath as senator, thereby automatically vacating the governorship.

The fact that Rep. Johnson had declared he would accept the result of the official canvass minimized the possibilities for contests.

AUSTIN, July 14 (AP)—The state senate's powerful general investigating committee "probably" will issue a statement bearing on the U. S. senatorial election later today, Chairman R. A. Weiner of Seguin announced at noon.

"The committee probably will have a statement later," said Weiner on emerging from an hour-long executive meeting. He would not elaborate on the assertion.

Various kinds of charges, including asserted violations of the Hatch Act and statutes limiting candidates' campaign expenditures, had drawn the legislative group to the capital.

Red River Barge Channel Argued

WASHINGTON, July 14 (AP)—Louisiana, Texas and Arkansas interests today urged the board of army engineers to recommend to congress a 9-foot channel in the Red river from its mouth to Jefferson, Tex. The army district engineer reported it would not be economically justifiable.

At the same hearing, on the whole plan for the comprehensive development of the Red river and its tributaries in Arkansas, Louisiana, Oklahoma and Texas, Arkansas interests proposed a 9-foot channel for the Ouachita river from its mouth to Camden, Ark.

Letter to the Editor—Praises WPA Nursery School

To The Editor:

Last Friday I visited the WPA nursery school. This school is a very beneficial project. It gives under-privileged children things they need.

They have a perfect routine. They have women to examine them every morning. They get milk, cod liver oil, proper food at the proper time. They get rest and exercise. The teachers have books with pictures in them to illustrate the stories they tell. They have toys to play with. They have dolls and stoves, beds for the girls—for the boys they have cars, trains and airplanes.

The children are helpful and good. This school has perfect management. I think we should all cooperate to keep this school going.

Mrs. Gerry Bagley.

Hen Cannibalism Cured By Glasses

LYNNVILLE, Wis. (AP)—The 100 hens belonging to W. L. Tallmadge strut in their henhouse with spectacles fastened before their eyes by means of a tiny aluminum bar.

Tallmadge says the red celluloid lenses have corrected a cannibalistic trait characteristic of even the most aristocrat of hens.

Spots of blood on a hen make other hens "see red," he explains. They attack the injured bird en masse. The rosy lenses, making all objects appear red, have eliminated this cannibalism. Tallmadge claims.
