

City Passes Trash Ordinance

Trash Burning Restricted; Permits for Hauling Trash

Ladies, do you have trouble getting your husband to carry out the trash? Now that he will have to do it according to the rules, you will probably have more trouble.

Spearman now has a "garbage ordinance". In two earlier efforts to pass such an ordinance Councilman Jimmie Hicks beat the measure down as unworkable. This time he did not contest the ordinance but still contended it would not work.

In the past Hicks contended the city had more ordinances than it could enforce. Also, he argued, the city trash crews could not haul all trash.

The new ordinance required that all residents and businesses having large amounts of slop, or other waste may get a permit to haul to the dump grounds.

Only city employees or persons with permits will be allowed in the city dump grounds.

There are also rules and regulations governing the kind of vehicle that may be used for hauling trash to the dump ground.

Included in the ordinance is a clause that prohibits the burning of trash in the residential areas on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

According to City Manager Ken Conrey these days were designated because the city truck is picking up trash those days and trash barrels with fire in them keep igniting the trash truck and doing extensive damage.

Conrey said that persons who fill their barrels after the trash has been hauled each week, may burn their trash.

Businesses in the downtown area must provide trash containers to keep trash from their businesses from blowing around town. Also, it is against the city ordinance to throw paper cups and other trash on the streets.

The complete ordinance is available at the city hall.

Chamber of Commerce President Charles Gilliam asked that the city pay its annual dues to the Board of City Development and the Council agreed. This year $1400 was paid to the BCD.

Councilmen turned down a request that the city take over operation of the Community Building. The board said the building was built by public subscription and the city had no right to take over the operation of the building.

Three obstructions to safe driving were ordered removed from corners within ten days. Councilmen told Conrey to have hedges in Womble park trimmed back from the street corners so they would not obstruct a driver's vision. Also, the ice house at Don's Service must be moved and the M&M Service sign at the corner of N. Bernice and Collard.

Councilmen voted to pay the extra cost of putting in a 10 inch sewer line down the west side of Spearman. Merl Beck is going to develop his property along the west side of town and was going to put in a six-inch sewer. Since the city will later have to put in a large line to carry the sewage from the southwest part of town, it was decided to build this much of the line to size and depth now. Beck will pay approximately $6,000 and the city $3,000 on the new line.

No Secrets Available For Attracting Industry

A city or town wanting industry must offer something and work to attract prospects. This was the heart of a brief talk Wednesday by Allen Searight of the Texas Industrial Commission.

Searight talked to a group of Spearman businessmen at a noon meeting in Son's Restaurant about getting industry here.

He told the group no new or secret key to attracting industry to a town or city. He did point out that the towns getting industries generally have a well schooled selling team on what the town has to offer, some buildings or land available for plant sites or groups willing to construct needed buildings.

The Texas salesman said the Industrial Commission has been spending about $70,000 per year trying to attract industry to Texas. Florida spends $400,000 on the same job.

Texas' budget has been increased by $100,000 for the coming year.

The speaker was invited here by the Spearman Chamber of Commerce.

SPEAKER LISTENS -- Allen Searight of the Texas Industrial Commission listens to a question asked him. Searight discussed securing industry for a town at a meeting with businessmen Wednesday.

Everyone Needs Water

The over population of the Far East has for many years made food a scarce commodity, but now in Hong Kong the combination of a scarce and over population has made water as precious. According to a story in the Fort Worth Star Telegram even in the finest hotel in Hong Kong water is available only every fourth day. There is no water in the bathrooms, sheets are changed only on alternate days and laundry is done only on certain days.

An over supply of people and a lack of rainfall has brought this situation about. However, it is a situation that is developing all over the world. More people, more demands for water and no increase in the amount of water available will continue to make water the more important each year.

With the cities continuing to grow and more political power moving to the urban areas the small communities such as ours must take steps to insure our water supply while we can do it without having to battle Amarillo, Oklahoma City, Enid, Liberal, Woodward and every other town seeking water.

In short, we cannot continue to flush our underground water down the drains and let the flood waters go down the creeks to Oklahoma lakes. In short, it is time to go back to work to get a dam on Palo Duro Creek.

Good Advertisers

The young people of a town are probably some of the best salesmen any area can have. This past week five young boys from Spearman did a good job of making a fine impression for Spearman.

The boys who built Soapbox Derby racers for the Amarillo competition built such fine cars they stole the show at the inspection in Amarillo.

The men who took the cars to Amarillo last Saturday said the Spearman cars were so far above the average in the contest that everyone there stopped to look.

If the cars coast as good as they look, then Spearman's five derby racers may be bringing more good publicity for Spearman.

Businessmen attending the Chamber of Commerce program Tuesday did not learn any new or startling facts about attracting more industry to Spearman. It does not matter how many specialists one brings in to discuss making a town grow, they all give the same answer--hard work.

Allen Searight, the specialist this time, told how his organization worked and spent money to attract more industry to the state. However, when the industry decides to come to Texas, then it is up to the towns and cities to sell themselves.

When questioned about how the East Texas towns were getting so much industry, the only thing the man could tell us was the area had cheap labor, probably some cheap or reasonably priced building sites and they had TEAMS OF HARD WORKING CITIZENS THAT WENT OUT AND SOLD THE TOWN TO THE INDUSTRIES.

Can Spearman produce any of these selling qualities?

Yes there is a very good reason for us taking up the bicycle as a means of motivation around Spearman.

The other morning when we stepped on the scales they groaned and rolled over to 249 pounds of rip-roaring table muscle, we were given a choice of either going to work, stop eating or taking exercises by our boss.

We knew we were not going to work or stop eating, so taking the bicycle looked like the easiest way out.

It sure has worked. After a good meal we only weigh 247.

Safe Farming?

A stranger stopped for a drink of water at a place in which The Georgia Cracker sat barefooted on the steps of his tumbledown shack, smoking a corncob pipe.

Wishing to be agreeable, he said, "How is your cotton coming on?"

"Ain't got none," said the cracker.

"Didn't you plant any?" asked the stranger.

"Nope," was the reply; "Afraid o' boll weevils."

"Well," said the stranger, "how is your corn?"

"Didn't plant none," replied the native; "Afraid there wa'n't goin' to be no rain."

The visitor was abashed, but cheerful still, "Well, how are your potatoes?"

"Ain't got none; scairt o' potatoe bugs - pow'rful lot ub'm here."

"Well, really, what did you plant?" asked the man curiously.

"Nothin', jes' plain' safe."

"Please" Think About It

Do you know that the American people spend about $10,000,000 per year to squeeze the word "PLEASE" into the telephone and telegrams. Very polite, aren't we? But our politeness is painfully inconsistent. We are willing to spend a cool $10,000,000 to cushion are requests with "PLEASE" while talking or writing to business associates - but what happens when the average citizen takes to the road. Courtesy is shoved aside in favor of selfishness to be first.

Many are the accidents that would not have happened if common courtesy had been shown on the American highways. How can we be willing to spend $10,000,000 for "PLEASE" when we are apparently willing to suffer a far costlier penalty for discourtesy on the highway. Try to make some sense out of that.

The price of highway courtesy is measured in time, no dollars. It takes time alone to be courteous. What are the minutes and seconds alongside of $10,000,000.

Why aren't we willing to pay the ridiculous small price that would put politeness into our driving? You figure it out!

A Case For Capital Punishment

The punk who murdered Patrolman Kenneth Harrison at Gainesville a few days ago provided a powerful argument, if any is needed, in favor of capital punishment.

Kenneth Harrison, who had served as State Highway Patrolman with the Perryton district for seven years before transferring a few months ago to Gainesville, was, to many of us who knew him well, not only a fine officer but a fine man, a proud father, and a good citizen.

He wore his uniform with pride, and represented his service with distinction. His loss is a real one to his friends, his fellow officers, his community and state.

He was shot down, in cold blood and in complete cowardice, by a character he had tried to help. . . a punk who fired five bullets into the officer's back, because he happened to be a paroled convict who hated cops. . . a killer who had been released from an Arizona prison after serving four years of a 27-year sentence for a previous murder.

Giving this hoodlum the death penalty isn't going to bring Kenneth Harrison back to life. . . but it will provide other fine officers with assurance that they will not have to deal with this particular rat again, even though this state and the other forty-nine are turning others of his kind loose against them every day.

DAY BY DAY

BY DAY Mc CLELLAN

There are so many things I like about summertime that just one drawback hardly seems worth mentioning. Still, in the summer, flies can surely be a nuisance.

They never miss a picnic, unless, like on the one we had Sunday it's too cold and rainy for them to bother.

Square Dancers

Graduate

The Rawhide and Ruffles Square Dance Club at the Sims Community House held their graduation last Monday night. There were 26 dancers who received their graduating caps and certificates after completing 12 weeks of lessons. Scotty Scott was their director.

They will continue to meet every Monday during the summer and in the fall, lessons may be offered again.

The officers for the organization are: President, Jim Cavin; Sec. and Treas. Nancy Perrin; Vice President, Mary Knowles; and directors, Bill Gudgeon and N. E. Tyler.

Mr. and Mrs. George Buzzard report they had a very interesting visitor this week who was George Platt, a veterinarian from Lubbock whom they had not seen for 23 years. Dr. Platt lived in Spearman when he was 5 years old and is the son of Tad Platt who was a football coach in the Spearman schools 23 years ago.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Banks and boys from Friday till Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Waldern Steinert and 3 sons of Horsington, Kansas.

Mrs. John Berry of Spearman was admitted as a patient in Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo this week.

While reading some of the many papers we get on exchange, I noticed this excerpt from the Quanah Tribune-Chief and was amused at how flies bothered even a boy and his bike.

"Seeing the kids riding bicycles on the beautiful sunny days reminds me of the days when I used to ride on the hard packed country roads in Elba Community.

"In those days of WW II new innertubes were unheard of and never leak couldn't be purchased at any price. Daddy had a good idea to keep me going though. He fixed a funnel on to the valve stem and poured the tube full of Brer Rabbit.

"Now this was a fine idea and it worked pretty good. However, as with any other good plan, this one had its drawback. The flies followed after me just hoping I would run through a goathead patch, and I always lived in fear of having that second blowout."

It seems hard to believe this improvisation was really used, but the more I think of it, the more logical it sounds.

Dale Carnegie, notwithstanding, here in the nutshell is how to get along with people.

The five most important words - "I am proud of you." The four most important - "What is your opinion?" The three most important - "If you please." The two most important - "Thank You." The least important - "I."

THE MORSE CODE

The 4-H girls of Morse put on the program for the Morse HD Club when it met on Thursday at the Community building.

The devotional was given by Mrs. Roy Roper and the roll call was "why have a two party system."

Six clothing classes conducted by subject matter leaders presented the demonstration.

Clothing I girls led by Mrs. Jack Johnson, Jr. modeled the skirts and blouses they have made for the dress revue. These girls were Kaye Johnson, Becky Chesser, Becky Brown, and Blanche Escamilla.

Maria Escamilla, clothing I led by Mrs. Joe Reiswig, also modeled a skirt and blouse.

Judy Reiswig of Clothing III taught by Elaine Kelly, junior leader, showed her dress she is in the process of constructing.

Clothing III and Clothing IV and V classes taught by Mrs. Jack Gillispie, displayed their garments to the group. These girls are Suzanne Dixon, Judy Gillispie, Sylvia Parks, Patricia Henderson, Elaine and Evelyn Kelly and Sharon Parks.

The program was concluded with a report on the Roundup trip to College Station given by Elaine and Evelyn Kelly, Sharon Parks and Patricia Henderson.

A large group of young people attended "Teen Town" held on Friday night at the Community building. This was the second party to be held this summer. The schedule calls for a party each two weeks on Friday night. The next party will be June 28 and will be sponsored by Maxine Reiswig and Carolina Schick.

Both groups have been meeting together since April because of a drop in membership. There was only one member left in Mrs. Reiswigs group and she consented to meet with Mrs. Johnson's group.

The Dress Review will be on June 27.

TOWNS ON THE MOVE

How Community

Built
Perryton

Population figures more than double . . . 30 new industries added . . . all since 1950! That is the miraculous record of Perryton in the Texas Panhandle wheat growing area.

When oil was discovered in the early 50's, an aggressive, long-range program was launched by the Chamber of Commerce. An 84-acre industrial tract was secured and plotted; its streets were paved and a railroad spur was built.

So successful was this community development that today a second industrial tract has been acquired and plotted.

Population 4417, is now known as The Oil Center of the Anadarko Basin, with 9400 citizens. It is another reason we say big things are happening in General Telephone towns.

These towns are on the move. Community improvements are under way, local resources are being developed, new businesses, new industries are coming in. If your town seeks additional information about expansion perhaps we can help. Just write our Community Development Department, Box 1001, San Angelo, Texas.

The Way I See It

by Robert Cordes, Pastor
Oslo Lutheran Church

One of the points on which Christians become confused is the position of baptism. In a recent article Mark 16:16 was quoted by a Gruver pastor. It reads: "Go into all the world and preach the gospel to the whole creation. He that believes and is baptized shall be saved..." He continued, "Go preach the Gospel". "This eliminates infants and idiots..."

In Christian love, I beg to point out there are other portions of scripture that support other views. For example, Mathew 28:19, 20 reads, "Go and make disciples of all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit, teaching them to observe..." Here we see the way to make disciples is to baptize and then teach. We cannot take only one verse of Scripture. All must be used.

The problem for many is to see how infants can receive baptism. Think of it in terms of adoption--God in this holy acts adopts them, makes them new creatures. They are born again. Conscious faith is not needed. It is trust that is needed and an infant cannot fight back, they trust what is being done to them--feeding, clothing, baptizing.

But does a child need adopting into God's Kingdom? Let us look at a few verses: Romans 5:12 reads "Therefore as sin came into the world through one man and death through sin, and so death spread to all men because all men sinned." (Note sinned. In the original Greek texts this is a completed act--showing each of us was put down as vicariously sinning in Adam). Romans 5:18 continues this idea: "Then as one man's trespass led to condemnation for all men..." Adam led the human race into sin.

I Cor. 15:50 reads: "Flesh & blood cannot inherit the Kingdom of God." John 3:5 states, "Unless one is born of water and the spirit he cannot enter the Kingdom of God." And this cannot refer to physical birth as some state.

In Christian love, I wish to point out there is a strong Biblical support for the need of infant baptism and that God can work in their hearts that which is pleasing to Him. This is not built on a few verses--but the entire Bible.

Where does it specifically state a child is God's until the age of understanding? But many many are recorded where we are born in sin, with darkened minds, in need of being re-established again with God before we can enter heaven.

Is baptism to be only a believer's baptism as Mark 16:16 states? This would be the way an adult would come to the

Laff Of The Week

"Ever thought of making pets of them, lady?"

Lord. But are children to be denied God's presence through His Sacrament of Baptism? For baptism does save and offers the Holy Spirit.

This subject is too broad to be thoroughly stated in short columns, but in love I wish to state there are many (in fact most of Christendom) who see

Rest Areas Built For Safety's Sake

Driving east from San Antonio on Interstate Highway 10 a motorist will come upon what looks not unlike rockets poised for takeoff on each side of the superhighway.

But it's only an optical illusion. What he really sees are the roofs of the arbors for the Safety Rest Area (roadside park) designed and built to Interstate standards in Texas.

Texas Highway Department men in the San Antonio district refer to the new rest area as the "Jet Park." It does have a jet-age look. The design certainly belongs to the area because just to the north lies a big jet base--Randolph Field, a landmark in the air age.

The huge, new rest area is really two parks, one on each side of the road. Each one is 1,200 feet long and 107 feet wide with four "bat wing" arbors spaced to allow for future additional arbors. Each arbor contains a fireplace, fire wood, an incinerator, a concrete table and benches, and a planter box. Safety rest areas on the Interstate Highway System are generally larger than older roadside parks previously built by the Highway Department and contain more arbors per park with an area on each side of the highway and parking space for trucks. Distance between rest areas will average only 37 miles throughout the state when the Interstate System is completed in 1972. So if you're traveling along and find one rest area filled it will only be a few minutes to the next spot.

The new rest area was dedicated formally May 29 by Chamber of Commerce officials from Seguin and San Antonio and members of the Texas Highway Department. Herbert C. Petry Jr., Chairman of the Texas Highway Commission, was principal speaker.

The primary purpose of the safety rest area is to provide a safe place for a motorist to stop in pleasant surroundings

A shinto priest in full ceremonial regalia is seen here purifying the grounds on which Japanese exhibits will be on display for the New York 1964-65 World's Fair. The Shinto rites preceded the ground-breaking ceremonies for the 85,000 square foot area which will house the Japan Pavilion. Consul General Masahide Kanayama of New York expressed the hope "... that our exhibit will demonstrate our faith and belief in the Fair's theme of 'Peace Through Understanding.' Our participation will be dedicated to a display of both the traditional and the modern that exists in Japan today."

to relax, refresh himself, or to eat something before continuing his drive. An alert driver has fewer accidents, and the Highway Department says providing rest areas is just one of many efforts to reduce the accident toll on highways. There are now more than 1,000 rest areas and turnouts throughout the State for this purpose.

The Texas Highway Department was one of the pioneers of the rest area or roadside park. In the early 1930's the Department began its roadside park program, and it wasn't long before experience and public demand showed Department engineers that the areas should be an integral part of the highway system.

When the Interstate Highway System is completed in Texas, there will be about 85 rest areas for the motoring public. The Highway Department has already selected sites for half the areas and about one-fourth

Missionary Is Speaker

The Royal Service program was given in the Baptist Church Fellowship Hall, Wednesday, June 12 at 3 p. m.

A short business session was conducted by Marilyn Jackson. The speaker for the meeting was a returned missionary, Mrs. Mary Nell Giles from Columbia. Mrs. Giles is on furlough from Columbia and is visiting her mother, Mrs. Morrison of Gruver who also attended the meeting. Mrs. Giles spoke on her mission field in Columbia.

Following the talk, Patty Gates gave the program on "Co-Laborers for the Truth".

The session was dismissed with prayer. Approximately 15 adults attended and also the Primary Sunbeam Band and the 12 year old GA girls.

SWITCH HITTING STADIUM

NEW YORK—Out at Flushing Meadows there's a new Municipal Stadium as tricky as Casey Stengel's talk: now it's a baseball stadium home of the New York Mets, and then it's home territory for a New York football team, the Jets.

The steel framed stadium designed by Praeger-Kavanagh-Waterbury has two electrically powered blocks of seats (totaling 10,000 of the stadium's 56,000 seats) that rotate from a position along the first and third baselines to a position parallel to the football field's sidelines. This puts a maximum number of people right on the sidelines of each of these two sports.

Conversion is quick. Supported by steel trucks rolling on recessed tracks, each 1200-ton dead-weight section of seats is moved at a speed of 11 feet per minute by four 3-horsepower electric motors. The big hope is that the Mets and Jets can match this efficiency.

The magnetic poles of the planet Jupiter have been tentatively located by two Australian physicists. Like the magnetic poles of the Earth, they are some distance away from the planet's true North and South poles.

New Aerospace Study

WASHINGTON — The Stanford Research Institute reports that "significant and difficult problems" in the aero-space industry-government relationship must be overcome if this country is to get the best possible weaponry and space systems.

Karl G. Harr, Jr., President of Aerospace Industries Association, said an independent study was conducted by S.R.A. and financed by his organization.

The S.R.A. reporting team found that while "the achievements of industry have helped to preserve the security and
