Services for Roscoe Allen Short, 65, were held at 10:30 a.m. Friday in First United Methodist Church in Sunray, with the Rev. Larry Bradshaw, pastor of Assembly of God Church of Sunray, officiating. Graveside services were at 2:30 p.m. Saturday in Stoker

The highway department would not agree to either total removal of the yield sign or moving it to a position where the city street traffic would yield eral recommendations following to the highway instead of the existing situation. to determine compliance with It should be stated that the state retains control over such devices in their highway system even though it is within a city limits. Highway engineer files show the sign was installed to slow incoming highway traffic both to protect traffic from the intersecting city street and because of the sudden--and to strangers traveling through the city, unexpected-- 90-degree turn in the highway. According to those files, there is a history of tractor-trailer rigs overturning because of the unexpected sharp turn. It was noted that there is a certain distinction to the yield sign. According to the highway engineers, it is believed this might be the only location in the thoroughfare. According to the entire state where the state highway traffic system yields to a city street.

However, the history of traffic conflict at that point made the highway engineers adamant about any change.

Crazy Corners posed its own special problem for the state engineers -- as it has for local traffic for quite some time. A first look by the state people spawned the idea of making the west bound lane two lanes with one of them a "right turn only" mandatory traffic flow. Then, it was noted that roadway width was not sufficient to make the westbound half of the street into two lanes.

Chief problem with the present traffic flow at Crazy Corners is that some vehicles in the westbound lane make left turns from the extreme right side of the lane. Police Chief on Robinson told the council this is chief, right-turning traffic must move as far to the right of the lane as possible -- by traffic statute -- but a left turn may be made from any point within the lane width. Mayor Blodgett raised the question of taking some space from the eastbound lane to widen the westbound side enough for two lanes. He noted that the flow of eastbound traffic is already fixed at that point and poses no problems compared to westbound. It was agreed to confer again with state engineers regarding this matter. City Manager Murray did assure that, whatever the final decision, the state had promised to mark traffic lanes clearly at that point. From traffic, the panel moved to a public "workshop" session on the budget for the next fiscal year. This ended in an executive, or closed, session to salaries. This session, too, was a study period for consensus with no action taken when the council reconvened the public meeting.

Each member took a copy of the budget home for further study. There will be time for questions both by the council and the public before the budget is adopted.

Following the closed session and just prior to adjournment, the panel conducted the discussion period of "other" matters. These are items on which no action can be taken since they were not made a part of the posted agenda in advance but, worthwhile items are marked for the agenda of the next regular session from time to time.

"This is not the time to become complacent. We need to know if there are any cases of screwworms in the state. When and if we find one, that area will be saturated with sterile screwworms in order to wipe out that infestation. An unreported screwworm outbreak can hurt the entire program. This is why we need to keep watching for possible screwworm infestations and send in suspected samples," Dr. Holcombe explained.

Dog days usually begin in July and can last until September, especially in the south. Our dog days began in June, continued through July and looks as though August will be the same.

Dog days are often sultry, humid and extremely warm. If you can't find any other excuse to escape work, the existence of dog days is a good one. And we have had a bumper crop of these this year.

A look at the Hansford County Weather chart which dates back to 1880, this is the second lowest moisture received in history with .05 being recorded in July. The record was in 1934 when no moisture was recorded.

Using dog days as an excuse, (one more time), I'll just use the following from the "Andrews County News" by James Roberts, president of the Texas Press Association, about how Texans stand the heat. He claims it happened several years ago, but it fits the situation now.

"Two transplanted Texans and a native Texan took off a few days from their work and headed out to Las Vegas.

"After three days of touring the casinos, the trio wound up broke as double edged razor blades. They flew home in a private plane that crashed near Albuquerque and all three were killed.

"For economic reasons, the funeral director decided to cremate the bodies and ship them home

"The first man was cremated, his ashes raked into a shoe box, and mailed to Broken Bow, Oklahoma.

"The same fate awaited the body of the second. His ashes were raked into another shoe box, and shipped to Biloxi, Mississippi.

'The native Texan was placed in the furnace. An hour later the attendant glanced in, looked at his watch, and walked away. After two hours the attendant looked in again, glanced at his watch, shook it, and turned up the dial on the furnace.

"After three more hours, the attendant again glanced in, looked at his watch in exasperation, swung open the furnace door, and out stepped the perspiring, booted Texan who swung his feet gingerly to the basement floor, and said: 'Pardnuh! If it's as hot out here as it is in there, we're gonna kill all the cotton!"

Peggy's Pointers

Pay careful attention to clothing contaminated by pesticides.

Some pesticides can enter the body through the skin.

Wash clothes worn while applying pesticides daily, or store them in a plastic bag to await laundering. Do not mix contaminated clothes with other laundry.

Normal heavily soiled laundry procedures will remove pesticide from clothing.

Follow this procedure:

Use hot wash water, 130-140 degrees F. and normal or full water level. Presoak or prewash for extra heavily soiled garments.

Use the manufacturer's recommended amount of heavy-duty detergent for heavily soiled laundry.

Use chlorine bleach to aid in sanitizing and deodorizing if garments are bleachable. Check permanent-care labels for warnings against bleaching.

Thoroughly rinse with cold water. If possible, thoroughly dry in an automatic dry

Ochiltree Signs Fire Agreement

At their regular meeting, members of the Ochiltree County commissioners court voted to enter into a contract with the city of Spearman to fight fires in the western part of Ochiltree County.

Cost per fire will be $250. Spearman firefighters have answered alarms in this sector of Ochiltree County in the past and billed the county for the expense of the emergency service. Rural homes in this area are closer to Spearman and -- as in the case of north Hutchinson County residents -- these people shop at Spearman and send their children to Spearman schools

This year, City Manager Jim Murray was authorized to offer to enter into a contract with Ochiltree County as the city of Spearman has with Hutchinson County in the past. Ochiltree commissioners approved the over the runaway oil well in Mexico's Bay of Carmen may become a tempest in a teapot with good, fresh U.S. wheat 'soaking up the spills."

That's the word from the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) as Hansford County and other U.S. areas reaped a multi-million dollar crop of the golden grain.

Two things have made Mexico a voracious market for wheat and some other grains -- planting choices and two years of drought -- and the South-of-the-Border nation's standing as the world's fifth largest source of crude oil gives the country the wherewithal to pay for the purchases from the U.S.

agriculture bypassed wheat as a major crop, going for corn -- the country's greatest consumption crop (tortillas, doncha know!) -rice, maize and some grain sorghums. Wheat was plentiful on the American market to the north.

--And then the rains didn't come!

Mexican agriculture, in most localities, is still primitive so far as irrigation and even fertilization is concerned. As a measure of prosperity came to Mexican farmers, tractors and implements were purchased which in the ground at the mercy of Brown, at least 70 of these grain months, that capricious old crone has poured very little moisture on Mexico.

According to USDA, efforts to make delivery on Mexican grain purchases have seriously overloaded shipping ports, railroads and federal grain inspectors. (If the export contract calls for a specific grade, federal inspectors must check the shipment to guarantee the quality before it is moved to the purchaser.) A partial concept of the scope of the shipping operations is reflected in these figures. Last year, the first year of Mexico's drought, purchases of all grains, corn, wheat, sorghum and soybeans totaled two million tons. (A metric ton is about 40 bushels.)

grain crops barely out of the fields, seven million tons have already been exported with more in the process of being shipped, leaving both shipping interests and federal grain inspectors taxed to the limit.

It could be worse.

There is a scattering of rural grain elevators through South Texas. Even in the first year of the Mexican dry spell, only some 20 to 30 elevators moved enough grain to require federal inspection of grain for export. Now, according to Texas Agri-directly to Mexico via roads and rails instead of hauling it to the ports of Corpus Christi and Brownsville for export shipment in the usual manner.

This is not an illegal operation. A small grain elevator is permitted to bypass -- by official regulations -- regular weighing procedures if they export no more than 15,000 metric tons a year.

Commissioner Brown said the seriousness of the shortages south of the border are reflected in the fact that Mexico City alone used 9-million tons (360million bushels,) of corn last year just to make tortillas.

Sorghums are needed for livestock feeding. Other exports of less tonnage -- rice, other feed grains -- will supplement the crop that did not reach the planned stage of production because of the drought.

Farming is not the only primitive state of affairs in Mexico that is complicating shipments into the country. At best, railroads have not always been their best and means of unloading both rail cars and ships are vastly outmoded. U.S. rail companies are rationing the number of freight cars sent across the border, releasing new trains only as empty cars are returned. Mexico has not only a dearth of shipping cars but of locomotives as well.

Ships are held in Mexican ports for long periods, too, due to the unloading equipment of a byone are still in use. At one Texas shipping point, 72,500 tons were backlogged in an elevator that feeds shipping ports awaiting ships tied up in Mexican ports due to the slow unloading process.

There is no way of knowing officially how much Texas grain has been purchased by Mexico. Export brokers in Kansas City and New York City take the orders and process the shipments from several states. Even Reagan Brown was uncertain as to how much Texas grain had been bought, would be shipped. One official involved in processing the shipments gave an unofficial estimate of 300,000 tons of sorghum going to Mexico this year -- most of it grown in the Rio Grande Valley. All the worries are with the mechanics of shipping, however. With all that oil, no one doubts the Mexican ability to afford tortillas.

Cash Flow Guide To Need For Crop Insurance

A change initiated in FCIC policies a year ago and being continued this year also make it possible, at a lower cost, to insure only a part of the total crop investment. To determine the minimum amount of insurance needed for prudent financial management, Kocich suggests preparing a rough "cash flow" projection for the year, with emphasis on the amount of money owed after the time of normal harvest. That is, bills that will still remain to be paid and loans and interest that have to be paid. "This is the amount of income," Kocich says, "that the farm business must have e source or another in tion by contacting the local FCIC Office, 1416 West 8th, Amarillo, Texas 79101, telephone 806/376-2268.

In most kinds of business, cash flows in before it flows out. But Marcus Kocich, District Director of USDA's Federal Crop Insurance Corporation, points out that farming is different: Large amounts of cash must flow out of the business before any cash begins flowing into the business. It's this difference, Kocich adds, that can make insurance on crop investments an essential ingredient for financial security.

order to remain solvent and to avoid carrying an excessive debt load into the next farming year." Insurance, which is surprisingly inexpensive to carry (and is fully tax deductible), guarantees that at least this much income will flow into the business even in the event of a total crop failure.

Specific information about the coverage and the cost of insurance on 1981-crop wheat can be obtained without obliga-

In urging Hansford County wheat growers to explore the benefits of carrying all-risk coverage on their 1981 crops, Kocich explains that this year's higher production expenses and higher interest rates make it more important than ever that farmers take steps to guarantee at least a part of their normal yearly income. FCIC policies make it possible to insure up to the full amount that has been invested in the crop.
