can do to improve his staple These above named breeds in addition to planting better do not need much water as varities. Lankart. Griffin says.

Staple length is produced the first 21 days after the bloom. Micronaire is determined by quick development. Cool, damp weather tend to lengthen time of development and lower the "mike."

Farmers, buyers, and millers can be more certain of cotton ginned in blocks, and some millers are already de manding the cotton they buy be ginned this way so they will know better what they are getting. Most gins of the county will work with the farmer toward block ginning with proper arrangements.

To produce better quality cotton, Griffin says, the farmer should plant by May 1 to 10 if he can, or before the 20th if possible.

Over-watering tends to lower the grade. Especially with long staples, there should be a good pre-planting watering. then another soaking at the blooming stage, usually no watering after about August 15. More water makes more plant and sometimes increases the tonage but reduces the 'mike.'

Newest idea for better cotton is to spray in the early fall to knock off immature bolls. The top crop on late rank cotton usually lowers the grade to such an extent that the total money return is less on the market.

Ross Smith and Fred Mc-Cinty are January program chairmen of the club.

Lawn And Garden Hints

Many of us use the first freeze in the fall as natures signal to forget our lawn until spring. This is especially true if we have one of the southern grasses that are dormant in cool weather.

While it is true the most troublesome chores of lawn maintenance are past, a small amount of extra work now, will pay dividends in the spring. Bermuda grass is not exceedingly cold tolerant and we occasionally have a persistant cold spell that will kill all or a large part of bermuda even if it is well established. Incidence of winterkill is more likely in first year lawns because of a shallow root system.

Contrary to some of the things his best defensive know-how you may have read, a very late and efforts to reduce accidents application of lawn fertilizer in 1968 may increase the chances of winterkill on bermuda. A nitrogen bearing fertilizer applied after 30 days before average first frost date tends to stimulate foliage growth and of ice, snow, sleet, dirt and freeze damage is most severe mud. The driver's vision is on rapidly growing and very obstructed in one out of five succulent grass. fatal accidents.

Fertilizer applied 30 days or more before frost presents much less hazard. Lawns should rot be scalped or burned in the fall. If you have a build up of thatch, it is much better to leave this chore until early spring when the chances of a prolonged zero cold spell are over. Thatch acts as insulation in cold weather and lessens chances of winterkill.

By far the single most important practice to reduce the chances of winterkill, is a heavy soaking with water after the first frost. Two more well spaced applications of water are helpful, but not nearly as important as the first irrigation after frost. The Blue Grasses are very cold tolerant and the most critical period with them comes in the very hottest part of the summer.

Every car owner should display a sticker. There is no charge for them and they are available from several merchants and business places. They are free for the asking so while you are shopping at home ask for your bumper sticker. Let's make it 100% display by next week.

It wasn't until 1855 that the sender was required to pay in advance for mail.

Uuiform rates regardless of distance and free city delivery were written into the postal law books in 1862. venues. The approximately $900 million in additional revenue the new rates will bring in will shift that much of the burden of paying for the Pos tal Service from the taxpayer to the mail users.

'Certainly its only fair that the people who use the Pos tal Service pay the lion's share of its operating costs." Postmaster Townes delved into history for one more com ment on the new postal rates. "Actually," he said. "with the six-cent stamp we are returning to the postal rate charged when New York was called New Amsterdam and was a Dutch colony. Then the postage rate there was 'three stivers of wampum' - the equivalent of about 6 cents."

Honored Student The Coop-Agriculture student for the week of December 22, 1967, in Comanche was Mike Marett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Junior Marett of Tahoka. Mike lives with his grandparents Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Reynolds of Comanche.

The M. C. Davis Dairy is Mike's work station and the dairy owner, M. C. Davis, is his work leader. The dairy is at present milking 65 Holstein cows with a modern pipe line. bulk tank, push button feeding system.

Mike's main job consists of assembling the milking equipment, washing down the udders of the cattle, assisting in the clean-up and having the cows in the feed bunks under a shed in the stomp lot.

Mr. Davis says of Mike, "He is real dependable .. once he's learned a job you can be certain that he will continue to do the job the same way everytime. He is very consistant. You can set your watch by his arrival time. It's the same every day."

Mike hopes that he can stay on with his job through the summer months. If this works out he won't be bothered with the necessity of hunting a new job for summer employment. This is true of the other students employed under the Cooperative Agriculture pro-gram. Most of the students are seniors and the summer employment will help them in ployment will help them in earning money to begin their college education, and some of them could become permanent employees for their work stations.

Hunting Season Not Over Yet

AUSTIN-Although closed on many species of game in Texas the hunting season is by no means over, says Pierce Uzzell, wildlife coordinator for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

Many counties in Texas have open season on qual until Jan. 31, and cottontails, which seem to be in abundant supply this year, may be hunted year round. Also, many south and west Texas counties have no closed season on javelina or collared peccary, according to Uzzell. Many counties in part of the State's best squirrel country have no closed season, and a few have no bag limit. Uzzell says predator or varmint hunting is high on the po-pularity list of hunters who still have itchy trigger fingers.

Despite the fair to good quail crop in many sections, the low number of hunters is surprising, says Uzzell, but hunting may accelerate after the hunters are rested up from deer and trukey season.

The Department strongly urhunters to check the 68 Texas Hunting Guide to see what game is still legal in their area.
