West Texas C. of C. Postpones Advertising Tour in North

A letter has been received by the director of the local Chamber of Commerce, from the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, with headquarters at Stamford, in which they returned a check for $500.00 recently sent this organization by Tahoka business men for the purpose of obtaining publicity for Lynn County in several northern states during the summer months.

S. B. Hatchett, who acted as trustee in the matter, has asked the News to state to those contributing toward this fund that the amount will be transferred over to the local Chamber of Commerce fund, to be used as that body sees fit. However, if there are those who desire their money back, they can obtain same by calling on the secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

There will be many opportunities where the money can be put to good use and it is not likely that any one will demand the return of the amount paid in.

In order that no misunderstanding may occur, the News prints the letter in full received by Mr. Hatchett from the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

The letter follows:

Stamford, Texas,
June 19th, 1920.

Mr. S. B. Hatchett,
Tahoka, Texas,
Dear Sir:-

We are returning to you enclosed herein your check in the sum of $500.00, covering participation in the proposed educational plans worked out by Dr. O. H. Loyd and W. K. Whipple, as presented to your people recently. You remember that we were to act as trustee in this matter.

After careful consideration we have reached the conclusion that it is not advisable to make a special charge against any one town in a movement of this kind, and that it is therefore best to make this return to you. Because of the conflict with the State Fair of Texas at Dallas and the Texas Cotton Palace at Waco we have also deemed it best to not put on the exhibit truck tour until after our National Fair Exhibit Movement shall have been completed, through the showing of our general West Texas exhibits at the state and interstate fairs located in the cities of Sedalia, Toledo, Columbus, Topeka, Memphis, Atlanta, Macon, Danville, Springfield, Indianapolis, Nashville, Birmingham and Shreveport; and that it is best to conduct the truck exhibit tour after the showing of the general exhibits of West Texas at the above fairs and after we shall also have shown our general counties' exhibits at the Texas State Fair and the Texas Cotton Palace.

In the neighborhood of fifteen thousand dollars has been raised by Dr. Loyd and Mr. Whipple in this special fund, but there is such a large proportion of the territory of west Texas that has not seen fit to participate in this movement by the putting up of special funds, but which territory takes the position that it should be included in the movement by virtue of its affiliation with the association, that we ourselves have come to the conclusion that this position is the correct one.

It would of course be assumed tion on our part to suggest to you any method by which you might spend the money which we are herewith returning, and yet we are going to be indelicate enough simply to say that we think it would be a fine idea for you to have a comprehensive exhibit of your territory at the State Fair of Texas. At the close of the State Fair of Texas, our Exhibit manager, Mr. Wells, will gather together the products from all of the West Texas counties and will from all the stuff pick out the best for the general west Texas regional exhibit at the Texas Cotton Palace, which is to compete for a prize of one thousand dollars with a like exhibit from East Texas.

We desire to thank you for the fine spirit of co-operation that you have shown, and in closing feel that you will agree with us that the stand we have taken in this matter is appropriate and is the correct one.

With kind regards, we are,

Very truly yours,
PORTER A. WHALEY,
Manager.

Slaton Barbecue July 2nd-3rd

Last weeks issue of the News contained an advertisement of the Slaton picnic and barbecue, July 2nd and 3rd. The people of Tahoka and Lynn county have a cordial invitation to attend this big celebration. Many attractions appear on the program and those who visit Slaton during these two day are assured a royal good time.

S. N. McDaniel, manager of the West Texas Gin Co., reports that he has a crew of men overhauling the plant at this place, preparatory to handling the big cotton crop raised in Lynn county this year.

Jap Adams, a former Tahoka boy, now residing with his parents at Clarksville, Texas, was visiting friends here the past week.

A. J. Edwards in Race for Commissioner, Precinct 2

The announcement of A. J. Edwards for County Commissioner, Precinct. No. 2, appears in the News this week, his candidacy being subject to the democratic primaries in July.

Mr. Edwards resides in the east part of the city and has the best interests of the town and county at heart. He is an advocate for good roads. His many friends in this precinct hope to see him elected to the office of commissioner. Mr. Edwards would be a very valuable man to the county in this position, being a man of good judgment and business transactions and would watch the interests of the county closely in commissioner proceedings. Mr. Edwards solicits your support to his candidacy.

May Drill at Tahoka

The Hale, Lynn and Terry county stockholders in the Tahoka Oil & Gas association are still trying to arrange matters to drill another oil well on their holdings near Tahoka. A meeting of the shareholders is soon to be held for the purpose of eliminating Shook and Herring from the management of the association, after which it is purposed to arrange to drill.

The striking of gas and some oil in a well being drilled near Justiceburg at 2,390 feet, has encouraged the Tahoka proposition.—Plainview News.

Only a Few Lynn County Officials Will Have Opposition

Only a few of the local county and precinct offices will have more than one candidate for nomination in the Democratic primaries to be held July 24th, as shown by a report of the County Chairman, McMill Clayton. Saturday was the last day on which application could be made to have names placed upon the Democratic ticket, as prescribed by law.

Two persons are in the race for District Judge; two for Co. Judge and one each for Clerk, Sheriff and Tax Collector, and County Treasurer, they being the present incumbents and second term men. The office of Tax Assessor seems to be the most popular there being four in the race.

The Lynn County Democratic Executive Committee met in session at the court house Monday to determine the amount to be assessed against each candidate for nomination to defray expenses of the election.

County Judge, C. H. Cain, acted as chairman in the absence of McMill Clayton, who was ill.

The copy for the ballot was placed in the hands of the local printer this week. An improvement will be made in the ballot this year, in that only names of precinct candidates will be entered upon the tickets for the precinct named, thus eliminating the confusion which has heretofore occurred by printing on the ballots the names of all precinct candidates.

Dr. E. B. Atwood, president of Wayland College, Plainview, filled the pulpit at the Baptist Church last Sunday. Dr. Atwood is a man of fine education and has a splendid delivery. He spoke along educational lines and his discourse was heard and enjoyed by a large audience. He went from here to Brownfield where he spoke Sunday night.

The committee expects to soon have a complete program arranged and published in the circulars sent out over the country. Horse racing, automobile racing, bronc riding, steer roping, goat roping, base-ball games, and many other features will be on the program. The finance committee reports their end of the line coming along nicely, in the way of a goodly sum of money and several beeves donated. Prepare to spend the above days in Tahoka. The citizens of Lynn county will be prepared to feed the thousands that will be here at this time.

Many out-of town people are attending the Chautauqua programs in Tahoka this week. Owing to the light plant being out of commission, the large tent was not erected and instead the programs are being rendered in the Star Theater building.

More Rain Falls the Past Week.

Parts of Lynn county were visited by showers of rain during the latter part of last week. On Thursday afternoon a small cloud-burst was had over Tahoka and immediate vicinity, accompanied by considerable hail. To the east and northeast of town some twelve or thirteen miles out, the hail caused a great deal of damage to wheat and cotton, some of the farmers of this section reporting a large loss to these crops. The rains were not general, the precipitation in the city measuring 73 hundredths of an inch.

A LETTER FOR WOMEN

From a Woman Whose Serious Illness Was Overcome by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Garnett, Kas.—"I first took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for a complete nervous breakdown following the birth of my oldest child. I got up too soon which caused serious female trouble. I was so weak that I was not able to be on my feet but very little and could not do my housework at all. I had a bad pain in my left side and it would pain terribly if I stepped off a curb-stone. One day one of your booklets was thrown in the yard and I read every word in it. There were so many who had been helped by your medicine that I wanted to try it and my husband went to town and got me a bottle. It seemed as though I felt relief after the second dose, so I kept on until I had taken five bottles and by that time I was as well as I could wish. About a year later I gave birth to a ten pound boy, and have had two more children since and my health has been fine. If I ever have trouble of any kind I am going to take your medicine for I give it all the praise for my good health. I always recommend your medicine whenever I can."—Mrs. EVA E. SHAY, Garnett, Kansas.

MEASURE GOES TO ENGROSSMENT IN HOUSE, ESCAPING ALL AMENDMENTS

Austin, Texas.—After an all-day discussion the McDowra or committee substitute regulated zone bill was passed to engrossment without its opponents being able to make a dent in it. A number of efforts were launched to amend and even swamp the bill, but it stood up by decisive votes and is now ready for final passage.

The Parnell bill, the purpose of which was to exempt from taxation state, municipality, county, independent school district bonds, was defeated by an amendment striking out the enacting clause.

Austin, Texas.—The house committee has voted for $3,000,000 with which to supplement the available school fund to increase teachers' salaries, while the senate committee recommends $4,000,000. Governor Hobby and Miss Blanton asked that it be made $5,000,000 and the amount will have to be determined in the respective houses.

The house has passed finally the appropriating a deficiency of $57,182 bill in the various state departments.

The Dodd bill, authorizing the state board of medical examiners to revoke the license of any practitioner of medicine should he be convicted of a felony, was passed finally.

The bill allowing counties to vote a tax of 15c on the $100 for the issuance of bridge bonds was passed to engrossment. The present law provides for a tax of 10c.

Mr. Marshall's bill allowing an increase in the salaries of deputies and assistant in office of county judges, sheriffs' clerks of county courts, clerks of the district courts, collectors of taxes, assessors of taxes, justices of the peace and constables, was passed to engrossment.

HERRERO NOW READY TO FACE ACCUSERS

MAKES SIGNED STATEMENT THAT CARRANZA DIED BY OWN HANDS.

San Antonio, Texas.—Venustiano Carranza, deposed president of Mexico, died by his own hand, after he had been abandoned by his forces at Tlaxcaltongo, according to a signed statement made by General Rodolfo Herrera, who is accused of killing the former president, received here and translated by Teodora R. Beltran, consul for the provisional Mexican government. General Herrera is now in Mexico City, registered at one of the large hotels, and stands ready to face his accusers, Ignacio Bonillas, General Juan Barraza and General Murguía, before a district judge, and answer any questions concerning Carranza's death.

General Herrera's statement reads as follows:
"I held a commission in the old Porfirio Diaz army and served under both Madero and Huerta in the regular army. After Judge Carbajal abandoned executive power, I returned to private life and was employed in the oil fields in Tamaulipas. The persecutions of the Carrancista officials forced me to again take arms and I joined the forces of General Pelaez, then in revolt against Carranza, and I still belong to the Pelaez forces.

"I had no personal enmity with Carranza, and hardly knew him. I was, however, a personal enemy of the Carranza brothers. Carranza died during an attack that my forces numbering eighty men, made on his camp at Tlaxcaltongo. Carranza had over 200 men with him. We attacked the camp at daybreak. The rest of the men fled, throwing their arms away. When Carranza saw his plight he committed suicide by shooting himself in the breast with his own pistol."

COMPERS GOES TO BATTLE FOR LABOR

Veteran Union Leader Will Try to Uphold the Right to Strike.

Chicago, Ill.—Samuel Compers, president of the American Federation of Labor, has entered the arena here to battle for his organization in what promises to be the most bitter political struggle in which labor has ever become involved in the United States.

The grim old man, over 70 years of age, hampered by factional strife within his official family, rejected by dominant elements in both the republican and democratic parties, besieged by a growing public resentment against the succession of strikes that are widely believed to be largely responsible for the increase for the cost of living is here from Montreal, where he opened the federation convention, to put up a last-ditch fight for the right of organized labor to strike at any time and under any circumstances at the bidding of organized labor leaders, unhampered by any federal restraint.

THIS RULING MAY END NEW YORK DOCKS STRIKE

Palmer Holds Adamson Law Applies To All Workers Moving Freight.

Washington.—Immediate settlement of the marine workers' strike in New York harbor is forecast as the result of a ruling by Attorney General Palmer that the Adamson law is applicable to the workers on car floats, tugs and other property used for the transportation of railroad cars or freight.

The ruling is considered a decisive victory for the marine workers, as it automatically concedes to them their contention that the eight-hour provision of the Adamson law applies to such workers as against the contention of the Erie railroad that the eight-hour provision could not be enforced on such properties.

One Million for Foreign Missions.

PROOF THAT STONE GROWS

Rock on California Farm Has Increased in Weight Within the Memory of Settlers.
On the farm of Mr. James Champion, known as the old home place of his father, John Champion, boys used to meet years ago with the elder Champion, and often tossed a round stone, ball fashion, one to another. The same stone now lies in the yard, at the old place, and men now in their eighties often speak of this rock and identify it as the stone they used to toss about to each other.

Today it will weigh about 300 pounds and lies near the spot where it has lain for nearly a century. Some of the most substantial old men of Mercer county who are now living, will vouch that this rock has grown from a small stone to its present size since their babyhood days.—Wilmore (Cal.) ## To Keep American Ships on the Seas

For the first time since the Civil War we have a real merchant marine. It cost us $3,000,000,000 to get it.

The farmer, manufacturer, laborer—every American is interested in holding our position on the seas.

As a first step in this direction it is necessary to modify those articles of existing commercial treaties which have operated to thwart the upbuilding of our merchant marine—By giving the notice of termination for which the several treaties provide.

This action is directed in the constructive Shipping Bill now before Congress;

Which declares it to be the policy of the United States "to do whatever may be necessary to develop and encourage" a merchant marine.

This policy deserves the support of every American.

Lacking this support the present effort to maintain our merchant marine may suffer the fate of many ineffective attempts of the past.

Prayed for Cure Finds it After 10 Years

Food Would Sour and Boil—Teeth Like Chalk

Mr. Herbert M. Gessner writes from his home in Berlin, N. H.:
I had stomach trouble over ten years; kept getting worse. I tried everything for relief but it came back worse than ever. Last fall I got awfully bad; could only eat light loaf bread and tea. In January I got so bad that what I would eat would sour and boil; my teeth would be like chalk. I suffered terribly. I prayed every day for something to cure me. One day I read about EATONIC and told my wife to get me a box at the drug store as I was going to work at 4 p. m. I took one-third of it and began to feel relief; when it was three-fourths gone, I felt fine and when it was used up I had no more pains. Wife got another box but I have felt the pain but twice. I used five tablets out of the new box and I have no more stomach trouble. Now I write to tell you how thankful I am that I heard of EATONIC. I feel like a new man; I eat what I like, drink plenty of water, and it never hurts me at all.

Army Called Place Where Collectors Cease From Troubling and Calouses Leave the Feet.

Idea about army life that persuade recruiting sergeants never heard of in all their various "bitches" in the service, were brought out by the public schools of the country under the auspices of the army and recruiting service.

Freedom from annoyance while in khaki is the theme of a little girl in Ohio, who writes: "One of the benefits of an enlistment is that you ain't all the time bothered by bill collectors."

"You get respect for law in the army," a Montana boy is convinced, because "the Constitution says America is a country of free and un-governable rights."

Another boy in Illinois wishes "teacher or was a man so she could be a soldier." Filled with the enthusiasm of a patrol medicine prospectus, an Indiana school girl has this to say: "An enlistment is good for the mind, the liver, the lungs and the kidneys. It takes the calouses off the feet and puts them on the hands."

WOULD MAKE AN EXCEPTION

Captured German Captain Decided That on This Occasion He Would Forget About Honor.

Among the letters from France that have been printed in the Atlantic Monthly there is to be found this entertaining episode:
The code of the German officers is, never to surrender; but of course they cannot live up to it. In a recent raid a sergeant I know made a prisoner of a German captain who, as they walked to the rear, cursed his luck in fluent French, saying that he was caught unawares, that an officer never surrendered, but fought to the end.
"Stop here, my captain, and let us consider this," said the sergeant seriously. "There are several articles of your equipment to which my fancy runs. That watch, for instance, those leather puttees, and that fat purse I saw you change to your hip pocket. Perhaps I can oblige you and gratify my whim. Suppose you were suddenly to run—a quick shot would save your honor, and me the trouble of escorting you to the rear. And I am an excellent shot, I assure you."
But the German was not interested.

CHANGE TOWARD AMERICANS

Correspondent Is First American to Visit Revolution—Slashed Republic After Fall of Carranza—People Want Peace.

Chicago. — Sidney M. Sutherland writes to the Chicago Tribune from Monterey, Mex., what he calls a disjointed tale of a journalistic pilgrim in quest of data in Mexico. It treats of the entry of the first American into the revolution-slashed republic since the roads were cut.
With passport in hand, I approached one Monahan, the guardian for Uncle Sam at the Laredo international bridge—that is, the Rio Grande—there's no bridge. Somebody burned the six-span steel structure ten days ago. They have built a pontoon nearly across the 200-yard-wide stream. Just now you're poled across in skiffs.
Monahan looked at my passport and me, and told me to forget the Mexican consul's visa, as there are as many consuls in Laredo as there are factions in Mexico, and to proceed and to pray God to give mercy to my immortal soul.
I stepped from civilization to five centuries ago, to old shacks, narrow, filthy streets, to crawling, fly-dotted beggars, to men in tatters, women in rags, and children in less than fig leaves. There is one tram of one-time power, dozens of ill smelling, make-shift dirty saloons, and hanging like a pall over all the people and businesses, the "wish-to-God this thing would stop and we could get back to work" feeling. Every human expresses more confidence in this regime than in any since old Porfirio Diaz departed.
And there is a new spirit toward Americans. Somebody—and one ventures to credit General Obregon with the idea—passed the order everywhere to defer to things American and cut out the nonsense. Obregon visited several American camps during the war and the Great Lakes to see the United States when we meant business and had stifled the pacifists. Everybody on both sides of the river told me no one could go South. So I jumped into a coach and was driven to the barracks where Col. J. F. Borquez commands the border between Eagle Pass and Brownsville and south to Monterey. I told him who I was and what I wanted. After officially informing me of Monterey's fall, he promised to comply with all my requests.

Obtains Safe Conduct.

Telling me to return at 10 a. m. Friday, he dictated a safe conduct pass. It is the most complete document I ever saw and has worked wonders—I only hope I don't present it to the opposing faction and get shot during the confusion.
Borquez, voicing what all the other rebel generals have told me since, said solemnly and earnestly:
"We're tired of fighting. Ten years of strife have sapped us until the last Mexican virtues—patience and forbearance—have been exhausted. Carranza would have had us in trouble with America, and we can't stand for that. We want peace and a chance to work. That is all. To get it we must be at peace at home and abroad. The rebel chieftains all rally to us because Carranza meant trouble, and our plan means the simplest program of all—peace and work."
What Carranza Stood For.
"Carranza represented pro-this and pro-that, political autocracy, personal frugality, private revenge and pure graft. You will notice the revolution swept most of the republic without a hundred shots being fired. That shows at once that Carranza was not what they wanted and what our plan is. Please be good enough to send only one message to your people—have a little patience and we will make the grade."
I was at the station at ten Friday. There was a water tank car, a flat car and a caboose made of a converted box car. Borquez and the director general of railways in the North—J. D. Rodriguez—were deaf to all suggestions to buy a ticket.

But did we start at ten? We did not. We left at three in the afternoon. They had just one engine at Nuevo Laredo, the most important northern port of Mexico, and that one engine would not work. They filled it with water and oil and surrounded it with profanity and finally with twenty snarled native workers secured by a local and an improvised draft act we limped away. I use the word limped advisedly. There is not a wheel in northern Mexico that has not been annihilated by Old Father Time and Kid Revolution.
Burned Bridge Stops Him.
After ten miles of horrible jolting and fearful heat we stopped. A bridge had been burned. Incidentally the Obregonistas who burned ten between Laredo and Monterey were trying to delay Carranzista reinforcements to various towns and did not want to destroy more than necessary. This was evidenced by the fact that they wrecked only little culverts and not large spans. Most revolutionists think they are Germans in Belgium. We alighted and the charred ties and twisted rails and building a new culvert the entire outfit sat down to think. They thought and thought. They lay first on one hip and smoked corn snuff cigarettes, and then smoked and lay on the other hip, thinking rapidly all the while. I took a picture then, mentioning that I thought they might do something. They thought that a snappy idea and immediately fixed the bridge and went on, only losing an hour.
Another Bridge Burned.
Fifteen miles further we stopped again. This time it was a burned bridge, and a temporary track was laid beside it over the shallow creek bed. Heavy rain of the night before had softened the creek bottom, so that the track sagged like Palmer's May day Bed uprising. The crew got jacks, picks, and shovels and ran some big timbers lengthwise under the ties. I took a picture, smoked a cigarette, and thought: "What a long way to Mexico City and real news." They gave the signal to start—the Mexicans cheered for their favorite president, favorite bull fighter, patron saints, and favorite brand of beer. I stood a hundred feet to one side, watching the train through the camera and waiting for it to turn over. It did not, and my watchful waiting produced nothing.
Finally we advanced. That is, we advanced 15 miles to a place where they had removed rails and by burning had twisted them. We laid new ones on new ties and proceeded. When we reached Rodriguez, 55 miles from Laredo, it was seven o'clock. There we found an engine which had been derailed and overturned the day before. It had righted itself, and it looked onto our train and took it back north, our engine and tank car continuing south.

I climbed on the narrow platform in the rear of the tank car and we went on.
We reached Lampasos at nine. I was immediately surrounded by armed rebels in a bewildering variety of raiment and escorted by Gen. Juan M. Garcia, governor-elect of Nuevo Leon and commandant of the army of the North.
My letter from Borquez produced the proper effect and I was told I might go south on the military train at dawn.
There were no hotels nor restaurants, and I was famished. The town is five miles from the station. I saw a lighted doorway several hundred yards away. I went over, found some women, and asked for food and shelter.

"The American—and Young."

The women held a lantern up to my face and, exclaiming in Spanish: "It's an American, and young," they said they would do their best.
By the light of a smoky lantern they prepared and gave me the starboard thigh of a young goat boiled in grease, onions, and chili hotter than the hinges of the inferno. I gobbled it down with the appetite of a starved coyote and ate several flat cakes of corn pone and drank a glass of goat's milk.
Meanwhile a wrinkled, withered old relic of nine matrimonial engagements—and willing to go further—had prepared the war correspondent's couch. This consisted of one blanket spread on a narrow sidewalk outside the house. I looked it over and scratched my head, in which the "young visitors" already had found breeding place.
His Bed Chamber Furnished.
I asked for a pillow and they gave me a small sack of corn in a pillow-slip.
I asked for a sheet and they gave me a tablecloth. I gave up—took off the Bill Hart puttees and shoes and lay down.
Just as I was about to doze off I was startled by a wild fusillade at the station. The women screamed and moaned. I rolled into a near-by gutter. It turned out to be only rebels at their third bottle of mezel. I dozed off, only to be reawakened by a "cuchillo de gas"—a little horse of gasoline—as the Mexicans call a railroad telegraph.
"El conser Americano!" screamed several rebels.
I dressed and rushed over to meet Randolph Robertson, the liveliest wife in the American consular service in Mexico. He has taken dozens of Americans and British out since the 1903 trouble began. He has smoothed over a dozen "causes of war" in the last two years. His station at Nuevo Laredo has more friends than any in Mexico.
He was bringing in two Americans. They ate fried goat and went on north, and I returned to bed and to sleep at twelve, with the stars close down over my bed.
Breakfast Is Served.
One of the native women awakened me at five with a cupful of coffee placed on the sidewalk by my pillow. I turned to get a cigarette and turned back to find the family parrot perched on the rim of the cup drinking my coffee and swearing at me fluently in Lampasos Spanish.
At noon the military train with General Garcia started for Monterey. He kindly consented to let me ride. I crawled in the caboose and went to Villadama, where the first passenger train from the North in ten days overtook us and we switched, arriving here at five with Robertson, who is on his fifth trip guarding American interests and who is taking this message North.
On both sides of the road for a hundred miles to here are evidences of ten years' revolutions' destructions. Towns have been burned, fields are weeds, there are no cattle, no land is cultivated, people are apathetic, dumb, dazed, and hopeless.
But all have hope in this new crowd saying: "If they cannot straighten it out, who is left?" The answer is, no body of Mexican blood.
As turning the logs will make a dull fire burn, so changes of studies a dull brain.—Longfellow.

"I MUST STAY."

SYNOPSIS.—A lighted from a train at Denver a well-dressed traveler is familiarly accosted by a man about his own age. The traveler ignores the advance. A few minutes later he is greeted as "Will" by an elderly man and gentleman, who stop their auto to speak. He imagines it a case of mistaken identity and announces himself as "Richard Clinton," on his way to the coast. The couple appear greatly surprised, and learning he is to be in town until midnight, the latter, introducing himself as Mrs. Kirkland, and her husband as Doctor Kirkland, invites him to dinner, explaining the action by his truly remarkable resemblance to a friend of theirs. He accepts. At the Kirkland home he meets a young lady who greets him as her fiance. She is Ellen Kirkland, and gains his attention by her assertion that he is "Richard Clinton." At dinner "Clinton" learns that his host is a medical specialist and that he is believed to be Will Lowrie, a young man who had been suffering from a nervous breakdown and had gone east for medical treatment. Lowrie had had in his possession bonds of the value of $100,000, belonging to the bank where he was employed, which had disappeared and of which he has no recollection. With Doctor Kirkland "Clinton" goes to the Lowrie home, the doctor being satisfied that Amy Lowrie, Will's sister, will convince "Clinton" he is really Lowrie, suffering from loss of memory. Amy declares at once he is her brother, and insists on treating him as such, to his great embarrassment.

CHAPTER III—Continued.

"Is the whole town a pack of lunatics?" exclaimed Clinton, his blue eyes flashing. "I shall not go to a hotel. I will take my train tonight as I intended, and—"

"Oh, no, no!" implored Ellen. "Surely you'll not desert us!"

"I will go on to California," he insisted. "There I shall send for proofs of my identity, and when I have finished my visit to the coast, I shall return here to convince you of your mistake."

"You shan't go!" declared Amy.

"I must," he replied. "If I stay here, you and Miss Kirkland will persist in this delusion. Probably you'll soon hear that your brother is in the East or abroad. Imagine your anger at me when you learn that I am not he."

"Dr.—Clinton," said Mrs. Kirkland, "do you not realize that it will cause us much apprehension—anguish—if you go away while we still believe you to be Will?"

"It would be dishonorable of me to stay," he rejoined, and he started toward the door.

"I shall go and not return until I have the positive proofs of my identity to show you."

"Proofs of what you think you are? Oh! that means you'll never come back!" cried Ellen.

Amy slipped away and glided into the room behind the parlor as Clinton took another step toward the hall door. Bemm set himself directly in the way.

"Hold on, old man," he advised. "As your friend, y'know, I really can't let you go."

Clinton put out his hand to push him away. Bemm caught him by the wrist in a viselike grasp. Clinton's face went white; his eyes shone like sunlit ice. He spoke in a very low and quiet tone: "You fool. There are ladies present. Let go."

"Not unless you give me your word to stay and clear up about those bonds," replied Bemm.

Clinton made an attempt to wrest himself free. Bemm held him fast with unexpected strength. But he made the mistake of permitting a shade of irony to appear in his suave smile. The look in his prisoner's eyes warned him to guard himself. He flung up his right arm with the quickness of an expert boxer. Clinton was a fraction of a second quicker. His clenched left hand drove in over the upspringing arm and encountered Bemm's chin. Stunned by the blow, Bemm swayed backward and would have fallen heavily had not Clinton eased him to the floor.

Ellen uttered a stifled shriek. Clinton straightened up from beside the white-faced inert interferer and looked apologetically at the girl and her equally startled mother.

"Pray pardon me!" he said. "Do not be alarmed. He'll be all right in a few moments. . . . I could not stand for his laying hands on me."

"To think that you could have so forgotten yourself!" reproved Mrs. Kirkland.

"Was I to endure being treated as a thief? I broke in. I regret that he forced it upon me before yourself and your daughter. However, I shall now relieve you of my ungentlemanly presence."

"Oh, Will! No, no! Do not leave me!" implored Ellen.

Before he could reach the hall doorway Amy popped into it from the other side and outspread her arms to bar the way.

"You dear old silly," she bantered.

"That's all the good it did you, knocking down poor Charlie boy. You can't run away. I've locked the front door, and I've hidden the key and your hat."

"Miss Lowrie," she sternly replied, "I will not permit even you to—"

"Growly bear! Growly bear!" she mocked.

He stepped toward her with the evident purpose of pushing past into the hall. She darted to meet him, and, before he could evade her, flung her arms about his neck. He grasped her wrists, but her fingers were locked fast. To have freed himself he must have resorted to outright violence.

"I—I—Miss Lowrie," he stammered, "really this is—is most—"

"Promise!" she demanded, clinging tighter.

He looked down into her upturned face. The starlike brown eyes were soft with tender affection and bright with merry triumph. To gaze into them and remain stern was an impossibility.

"But I—"

"You must—else I'll never, never let go. You'll have to carry me around with you all the time, everywhere."

The embarrassment that had succeeded his sternness gave place in turn to a whimsical look. "I've a mind to take you at your word."

"You mean—?"

"Take you with me."

She released one hand to stroke his forehead. "Your poor head!" she soothed. "There! There!"

With a sudden return of irritation, he sought to draw himself free from her. She clung to him and again looked her fingers together.

"No, you don't," she exclaimed. "It's no use trying to escape. You've got to promise."

"I say, Miss Amy," murmured Bemm, eagerly sitting up, "if I should try to run off, would you—"

"I promise to remain until Doctor Kirkland comes," broke in Clinton.

"Oh, you will? And Charlie's not hurt?" exclaimed Ellen.

"That's a dear old brotherkins!" approved Amy in the same breath, and she rose on tiptoe with her smiling lips upturned for his brotherly salute.

Bemm sighed enviously. At the sight Clinton bent over the temptation. His lips came so near to the girl's that his mustache grazed the tip of her saucy nose. But instead of kissing her on the mouth, he put up his hand to lift her backflung head, and pressed his lips reverently to her broad white forehead.

"I say, now," remarked Bemm, "if that's not proof you're her brother—! Miss Amy has only to say the word, and I shall be charmed to illustrate how one who is not a brother—"

The girl faced the others, leaning affectionately on Clinton's shoulder. "Ellen dear, call Tillie to fetch a bucket of hot water. Poor Charlie Bemm is still off his head."

"I'm not," denied Bemm, rising a trifle unsteadily. "On the contrary, it was my head that came near being off me."

Mrs. Kirkland looked earnestly at Clinton. "May I suggest that an apology—" she began.

"From me?" flashed Bemm, with a heartiness that forestalled Clinton's answer.

CHAPTER IV.

The Bear.

The muffled ring of the doorbell stirred Amy to agile activity. She bent down to thrust her fingertips into the side of one tiny slipper.

"Must be doctor!" she exclaimed. "Where in the world did that— Oh, there it is!" She straightened up, rosy cheeked, to flourish the key of the front door in Clinton's face. "Own up! You'd never have looked for it there—now would you?"

"Might!" he declared. "You'll not pretend you really had that huge thing in one of those slippers!"

Her face clouded. "Oh, Will, for you to make such a compliment as that! It shows you can't remember I'm only your sister."

"Miss Lowrie," he replied, between amusement and exasperation, "if it were not for you, I would go at once. This continual insistence that I am not—"

"But doctor—he'll soon cure you!" she cried in joyful relief, and she darted into the hall, calling, "Wait, Tillie, I have the key. I'll let him in."

The lines of Clinton's firm mouth tightened. He confronted Doctor Kirkland, who came hastening in from the hall with one big plump hand on Amy's shoulder. The physician waved his other hand around the room and ordered genially: "Sit down. We'll talk this over like sensible people."

"I agreed to remain until you came, Doctor Kirkland," said Clinton, stiffly.

"He was going to run off and leave us!" announced Mrs. Kirkland.

"Leave?—tonight?" queried her husband. He eyed the would-be runaway attentively. "It was my understanding that you agreed to remain in Denver until—"

"Until I had sent on for proofs to convince you of my identity," broke in Clinton. "When I agreed to that I did not foresee how exasperating this absurd mistake would become."

"Exasperating?"

"Yes. Can none of you imagine how it seems to me? I come to Denver an absolute stranger to you all—"

"Oh, Will!" sighed Ellen.

Amy, suddenly full of concern, began stroking his forehead.

"You see?" he cried. "To sit here and let her—and I no more her brother than Mr. Bemm!"

"No, no," differed Bemm. "Miss Amy never offered to be a sister to me, I'm glad to say."

In spite of the girl's soothing fingers Clinton's forehead gathered in a frown. "This is no joke," he said. "It has gone far enough already. Every one of you seems so deluded that the only thing for me to do is to go on to California and not come back here until I have received proofs that must convince you."

"You are sure that you can furnish proofs?" asked Doctor Kirkland.

"Positive."

The physician gravely shook his head. "Complete case of dissociation," he observed. "Perfect instance of secondary personality. My dear boy, in the circumstances I cannot expect you to believe me. We must all seem, as you think, absolute strangers to you. Yet may I request you to listen seriously to what I have to say?"

Clinton looked at his watch, glanced around at the tense faces of Bemm and the ladies, and reluctantly acquiesced: "Very well, if you do not take too long, and if Miss Lowrie will kindly cease to—will take another seat."

"O-ah!" murmured Amy, drawing away from him, deeply hurt.

"Can't you see?" he burst out. "To let you—most despicable of me!"

"But—but to think that y—you—!" sobbed the girl.

"My dear boy," said Doctor Kirkland, "try to be reasonable. As a mere question of probability, here are five of us believing that you are yourself—that is, Will Lowrie; while you alone—"

"But I know that I am not he; I know I am Richard Clinton."

"You mean you believe you know. You are not conscious of being other than what and who you think you are. May I ask if you have ever studied abnormal psychology?"

"Not studied; though I have some ideas—"

"Some? Good! If you have even the slightest idea of psychopathology you will know that anyone subject to amnesia, that is to say, loss of memory—"

"My memory, sir, is excellent."

"Oh, Will," reproached Ellen. "You say that when you do not even—"

"Leave him to me, daughter," interposed the physician, and he fixed his shrewd gaze on Clinton's angry face. "My dear boy, in many cases of amnesia the patient not only forgets his past life but also forgets that he has forgotten. This amounts to dissociation of the personality."

"This medical jargon, sir, is to say the least—"

"One moment, please. Have you recently met with a shock, such as that of a railway collision?"

"I was in a motoring accident. But that was more than a year ago."

"Over a year ago," echoed Amy. "What a—fabrication!"

"Please do not interrupt," admonished Doctor Kirkland. He nodded gravely to Clinton. "More than a year ago, you say? Was it a severe accident?"

"Only to the car. I was merely stunned."

"Knocked unconscious! H'm! That and the preceding psychopathic conditions—quite in line with the other cases reported."

"Doctor Kirkland," impatiently retorted Clinton, "certain as I am of my present sanity, much more of this solemn twaddle will drive me mad."

"No, you need have no fear of that. Only you must be calm and reasonable. You will understand how conditions such as yours develop if you will kindly permit me to explain about the peculiarities of amnesia—the peculiar results of the loss of the time memory, combined with the frequently associated phenomena resultant in dissociation, hallucinations—"

"All of you are subject to hallucinations when you mistake me for that Will Lowrie!" hotly declared Clinton. "Now, now, my dear boy; be calm," soothed the physician. "This excitability—"

Clinton sprang up, his blue eyes flashing with anger. "Enough, sir! I shall at once return to the station. As I have agreed to send on for proofs of my identity I shall do so. They will be mailed direct to you. In the meantime you can telegraph to your missing friend or to those who have charge of him. But I will stay here no longer."

The cold anger and determination of the young man's tone struck speechless even the physician and the debonair Bemm. Ellen looked helplessly from her father to her equally mute mother. The hush that had fallen upon them was broken by the quiet voice of Amy, asking in a matter-of-fact tone: "When did you say you train leaves?"

"Shortly before midnight," answered Clinton, frowning at Bemm.

"It's pretty late in the day to get a berth," remarked the girl. "But if they're all taken I suppose you can sleep in the smoking room."

"I have a stateroom engaged through to the coast," explained Clinton, his voice softening, though he continued to frown at Bemm.

Amy smiled across at Ellen, and answered artlessly: "Of course, you old stupid. But I shall need the stateroom; so unless you have luck—"

"Really, Miss Lowrie, I fail to understand—"

"Didn't I call you an old stupid? You say you won't stay. Well, then, I am going along with you."

"But—but, Miss Lowrie, I cannot—"

"Perhaps you can't. I can," smilingly declared the girl.

Clinton turned appealingly to Dr. Kirkland. "This is—it cannot be permitted! Surely you'll not allow her! Send for her mother!"

"There isn't time," said the girl. "Any way mamma never would forgive me if I let you go off alone."

"Good heavens! You really mean to—"

"Of course. You simply must have someone to take care of you till you come to your senses."

He wiped the perspiration from his forehead. "If only I could make you realize— To let you go would be impossible. I must stay."

"I Shall at Once Return to the Station."

"Two darlings—my fiancée and my little—sister!"

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By REV. F. B. FITZWATER, D. D., Teacher of English Bible in the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago. (Copyright, 1929, Western Newspaper Union)

LESSON FOR JUNE 20

THE LORD OUR SHEPHERD.

LESSON TEXT—Psalm 23. GOLDEN TEXT—Psalm 23. I shall not want.—Ps. 23:1. DEVOTIONAL READING—Ezek. 34: 11-16. ADDITIONAL MATERIAL—John 10: 1-18. PRIMARY TOPIC—How God takes care of us. JUNIOR TOPIC—The Shepherd Psalm. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Trusting God for Everything. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Our Divine Shepherd.

This is a lesson so simple that a child of tender years can understand. The teacher's work will be mainly to point out the riches of its content, not to explain difficulties. The position of the Psalm determines its value. It is preceded by the Psalm of the Cross. Only those who are under the power of the cross can claim its promises. There are no green pastures to those who have not seen Christ on the cross.

The Relationship of the Lord to his children is set forth in this Psalm as:

1. The Divine Shepherd (vv. 1-4).

The teacher should thoroughly familiarize himself with the life and service of a shepherd. As our shepherd,

1. He feeds his sheep (vv. 1, 2). The "green pastures" are for nourishment. The Lord always provides food for his own sheep, both temporal and spiritual. He gives us our daily bread, but our highest and best food is Christ, the Bread sent down from heaven for our souls (John 6:58), of which if we eat we shall live forever.

2. He gives rest (v. 2). He not only gives food, but he maketh his sheep to lie down. When the sheep have been satisfied with food they lie down to rest. Our finite natures require rest—we cannot go on forever, so the Divine Shepherd has arranged resting places on the way, two of which are night and the Sabbath. How sweet they both are to the Child of God! Sometimes he makes us to take enforced rest. It is most comforting to know that when he makes us lie down it is in the green pastures, not on the dusty road or the rocky mountain side. Our shepherd sometimes leads us over steep and rocky roads, but this is in order that we may reach the spots of green pasture.

3. He keeps the sheep in safety (v. 3). He restores our souls. The rest by the still water results in the restoration of bodily and spiritual strength. In the times of quiet he restores the spiritual life by the feeding upon God through his Word and means of grace. The restored soul is led into the paths of righteousness, that is, in the performance of labor for him. We have been saved not merely for our pleasure, but that we might do his good pleasure, that is, his work. We are saved to serve.

4. He guides the sheep in times of danger (v. 4). He goes with his own through danger and trials. There is no night so dark or sea so stormy but what we can hear the voice of the Divine Shepherd saying, "Be not afraid, it is I." May we have ears to hear!

5. He comforts his sheep in sorrow (v. 4). The rod was used by the shepherd to count his sheep. Passing under the shepherd's rod was the sign of ownership. Such acknowledgment would greatly comfort, even though the rod was the instrument which caused the sorrow. The consciousness that it was laid on by the loving shepherd's hand would turn the rod which smote to a staff to lean upon.

II. The Divine Host (vv. 5, 6).

1. He spreads a table in the sight of our enemies (v. 5). Though dangers are on every hand, the enemies plotting and scheming, the mighty shepherd provides a feast for his own in their sight. We can sit down to that feast with the assurance that no one can disturb us.

2. He anoints our heads with oil (v. 5). Oil is a symbol of joy. There should be no sad faces among Christ's own.

3. Goodness and mercy perpetually follow (v. 6). These are God's two angels which encamp round about those that fear him. They hold back the enemies from overtaking us; we can feast at God's banquet table. Even when the days seem dark and sorrows come thick and fast, God's goodness and mercy still follow.

4. Eternally dwelling with God (v. 6). They shall no more go out from his presence. He who hath begun a good work in us shall complete it unto the day of redemption. May every one take this Psalm for himself and make Christ his own personal shepherd!

Three Orders of Beings.

We have among mankind in general three orders of beings; the lowest, sordid and selfish, which neither sees nor feels. The second, noble and sympathetic, but which sees and feels with out concluding and acting. The third and highest, which loses sight in resolution and feeling in work. For one who is blinded to the work of God by profane abstraction or lofty purpose, tens of thousands have their eyes sealed by vulgar selfishness, and their intelligence crushed by tawdry carelessness.—Ruskin.

LIFT OFF CORNS!

Doesn't hurt a bit! Sore corns lift right off with fingers.

Costs few cents! Drop a little Freezone on that touchy corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then you lift it right off with the fingers. Why wait? Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of Freezone for a few cents, sufficient to rid your feet of every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and calluses, without soreness or irritation. Freezone is the much talked of discovery of the Cincinnati genius.—Adv.

Shrewd Advice.
"He told me that he loved me."
"Has he told anyone else?"
"No."
"Then get him to do so."—Boston Transcript.

"DANDERINE"

Stops Hair Coming Out; Doubles Its Beauty.

A few cents buys "Danderine." After an application of "Danderine" you can not find a fallen hair or any dandruff, besides every hair shows new life, vigor, brightness, more color and thickness.—Adv.

Alert Management.
"Why do you encourage people to send in complaints to the company?"
"You see," answered the railway official, "the company has a few complaints of its own to make these days, and maybe we can get some suggestions for new phraseology."

"O Happy Day" sang the laundress as she hung the snowy wash on the line. It was a "happy day" because she used Red Cross Blue.

Hon. William Gibbs McAdoo has refused to allow his name to be presented to the Democratic National convention as a nominee for president.

The management of this paper wants to print all the local news and asks the assistance of the people by reporting every item of interest to this office. Quite a number have kindly assisted us by writing or phoning in news items. We appreciate this service very much and request that every citizen make it a point to tell us of your visitors and other matters that goes to make interesting reading matter. We want you to take pride in the local paper and your aid will make it better. Phone 35 or 38, any hour during the day or night and some one will gladly talk with you.

An exchange says that owing to the overcrowded condition of its columns, a number of births and deaths were unavoidably postponed until the next issue. Paper is scarce and all that, but we would suggest omitting a wad of brain food and mention these important happenings before they become stale.

Already there are rumblings of trouble in the Republican party—talk of a split, as in 1912. A split isn't really necessary to give the Democrats an opportunity to win this year, but it is an added safety, and therefore will be welcomed.—Amarillo Daily News.

The News' subscription list is growing larger each week. It is the intention of the publisher to give the people a clean paper full of good reading matter, and our efforts along this line is receiving every encouragement, judging from the nice compliments received at the hands of many of our big family of readers. Of course, as could be expected, there are a few chronic achers and knockers, but one will find them anywhere. They are as a rule, not paid up subscribers, but slip around and borrow their neighbors copy to find out the latest news. Such dead-beats are of no use to any community, and people should turn a deaf ear when they knock on any legitimate enterprise that is working for the upbuilding of the town and county. The News is a friend to all, and desires the good will of every man, woman, boy and girl in this section. Stand by us and we will stand by you.

The Ralls Banner, in speaking of the recent baseball game between Ralls and Tahoka played here Sunday June 12th, says: "This was one of the cleanest games participated in this year, and there is no place they have visited where they have been treated more royally and showed cleaner sportmanship." Post and Brownfield editors please take notice of the above compliment passed on the local team. The editors of the above towns seemed inclined to deal the Tahoka team dirt in the write-up of the games played with their teams, when in fact our boys are no more at fault than the ones they play. All Tahoka asks is a square deal, and the idea advanced by the Post editor, that our team expected the "umps" to win the game for them, is a false one, for that could never be done as long as he was calling the game. We can return the compliment on the Ralls boys. They are all clean, sportsmanlike fellows and took their defeat in a gentlemanly manner.

NOW RAPIDLY LOADING THE FREIGHTER COMAL

TWO HUNDRED MEN AT WORK UNDER PROTECTION OF TROOPS.

CONDITIONS AT GALVESTON SHOW THAT SHIPPING IS RAPIDLY RESUMING NORMAL.

Galveston, Texas.—Among developments in the longshoremen's strike situation here are the employment of military protection of more than two hundred men by the Mallory line to load its steamship Comal with mixed cargo for New York, the doubling of the provost guards' outposts, the strengthening of patrols in the vicinity of the docks; the announced organization of an open shop association and the withdrawal of the strikers.

The steamship Comal, which is the first Mallory liner booked for departure from this port with freight for New York loaded here since the strike became effective, nearly three months ago, is now engaged in taking on a northbound cargo at the docks and will sail in a day or so if all goes well. Assured by the governor and military authorities of ample protection for nonunion or any other kind of workmen who wanted to work, more than 200 men, principally truck handlers, are employed at the Mallory line warehouse and set to work in the places of longshoremen who struck and quit their jobs March 19. Others will be put on as needed and ships will, in all probability, begin sailing with regularity from this port if no further obstructions are met with.

If the handling of cargoes for the Comal, now at its docks, and the Concho, which will be here the first part of the week, prove satisfactory, sailings will be made at stated intervals as formerly and both freight and passenger traffic will be handled with regularity.

The troops here under command of General Wolters are moving to another camp site, going to private property because of the objections made by the city commissioners of this city to their occupancy of Menard Park, where they had started to make camp on invitation of Mayor Appington.

Galveston, Texas.—Martial law has been established in Galveston, growing out of the strike of longshoremen here that has been on since last March. The proclamation of the governor came suddenly Monday although it was in prospect. The immediate cause of the proclamation that was issued was the failure of the city authorities of Galveston to satisfy General Cope of their ability to preserve the peace and protect the lives and liberty of men employed and to be employed on the waterfront in the place of strikers and to keep the channels of commerce open.

Fig Culture in United States.

It is not improbable that this country will soon produce all the figs it needs. This statement is made by the chief of the bureau of plant industry, United States department of agriculture, in his report on the progress of Smyrna fig culture in California. Much of the success of this enterprise has been due to the fact that the department has been able to maintain a caprifig orchard at Loomis from which caprifigs have been distributed free to growers.

Red Cross Ball Blue should be used in every home. It makes clothes white as snow and never injures the fabric. All good grocers, 5c.

Their Status.

"What do you think of direct nominations?"
"They strike me as primary facts."

In Hungarian Parliament.

Sister Margit Slachta is the name of the first woman elected recently to the parliament of Hungary. She was formerly a school teacher and for ten years was a member of the Catholic Social Mission society, where she did social work excellently as a professional. She is said to be between thirty-five and thirty-eight years of age and has given her country excellent service, organizing in the whole country the Catholic women who were voting for the first time, and through her work her party became the leading one, having a majority in the house.

Some Joys of the Metropolis.

Hunting for a home in New York is more thrilling than any tale ever related by Gaborian, more improbable than the adventures of Baron Munchausen, more daring than exploits of Arsene Lupin, as sordid as the novels of Emile Zola and as mysterious as the dramas of Wilkie Collins. Just now there is not an apartment to be found in the whole of Manhattan. Up in the Bronx they are renting cellars. A skylight room in a ramshackle building up a dingy street draws $70 a month. Some people have got to move out of New York or the darn thing is going to bust.—Exchange.

Friendly Enemies.

I am a conductor from a suburb. I boarded a crowded train, but found a seat occupied by one man who monopolized the space at his side by filling it with packages. When I asked him to remove his bundles he suggested I probably would be able to find room elsewhere. But after a disagreeable discussion I finally settled down in the seat. In walked a friend of mine who gave me and my seat mate a nudge and said: "Mr. S., you must shake hands with Mr. R.; you will like him, I am sure. He has just moved and has rented the house next door to you."—Chicago Tribune.

DODSON WARNS CALOMEL USERS

You Cannot Gripe, Sicken, or Salivate Yourself if You Take "Dodson's Liver Tone" Instead

Calomel salivates! It's mercury. Calomel acts like dynamite on a sluggish liver. When calomel comes into contact with sour bile it crashes into it, causing cramping and nausea. If you feel bilious, headachy, constipated and all knocked out, just go to your druggist and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone for a few cents, which is harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't start your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty calomel and without making you sick, you just go back and get your money. If you take calomel today you'll be sick and nauseated tomorrow; besides, it may salivate you, while if you take Dodson's Liver Tone you will wake up feeling great, full of ambition, and ready for work or play. It's harmless, pleasant and safe to give to children; they like it.—Adv.

He will say to you "Take home a box of Hunt's Salve and if it is not successful in the treatment of itching skin diseases, I will promptly refund to you your 75 cents."

Hunt's Salve is especially compounded for the treatment of Itch, Eczema, Ringworm, Tetter, and other itching skin diseases.

The General Manager of the Lida Valley Railway Co., Goldfield, Nevada, A. D. Goodenough, writes: "At one time I had a very bad case of Eczema, which troubled me for seven or eight years, and although I tried all kinds of medicine and several doctors, I got no relief until I used Hunt's Salve. It finally cured me."

Thousands of such letters have been received, testifying as to the curative merits of this wonderful remedy.

Don't fail to ask your druggist about Hunt's Salve, formerly called Hunt's Cure. Show him this ad, and ask him if the statements herein made are not correct.

Sold by all reputable druggists everywhere at 75 cents per box, or sent direct on receipt of stamps or money order.
