WASHINGTON BY GEORGE DURNO

Rivals— Now that President Roosevelt has the power to bargain with other nations over tariffs some of the more experienced insiders are figuring just how he is going to use it.

It took a lot of maneuvering to get the authority from congress that tariff bargaining will NOT prove an outstanding feature of the recovery program.

Not the least of current difficulties is a widespread jealousy among Roosevelt aides as to which agency is going to run the show.

At the moment, Assistant Secretary of State Francis B. Sayre, representing his boss, Cordell Hull, has the inside track.

George Peek, head of the Import-Export Bank system, is much disturbed over his share of participation. One major difficulty in using Peek's organization is that bargaining is contemplated with nations in default of their war debts. This government is forbidden by law to extend credit to such.

The Tariff Commission is being kept so much in the dark about its part in the game that Chairman O'Brien figuratively is sitting on the edge of his chair.

Experts in their line are shouting loudly that the President cannot by proclamation un and reduce the import duty on liquor by 50 per cent until he has had some recommendation from a fact-finding commission.

Three gentlemen seem to forget that Mr. Roosevelt can do almost anything if he is so minded—and he frequently is. If it is necessary to beat the bootleggers by lowering the tariff wall to foreign liquor you may expect to see the President act first and dispose of the technicalities later.

Private government estimates indicate that two gallons of bootleg are still being consumed for every gallon of legitimate stuff.

President pointed out before he left Washington that he could do a lot of things by radio. A big cut in whiskey tariffs may be numbered as a distinct possibility.

Refinance— When the Treasury Department announced our fiscal position as of June 30 it pointed to a deficit for the fiscal year of $4,000,000,000 and a public debt of $27,000,000,000.

Wittlingly or otherwise, the balance-and-deficit boys failed to take one thing into consideration. That is the sizable sum the government guarantees in farm-currency and home-owners-loan obligations, to say nothing of the RFC's miscellaneous commitments.

Adding in these figures, the federal I. O. U.'s, both direct and indirect, should run nearer to $35,000,000,000.

There is a brighter side to the picture, however. During the new fiscal year the Treasury should be able to confine its financing and exchange operations to approximately $5,000,000,000.

Becomes 'Iron Fist' In Hitler's Regime

Premier Hermann Wilhelm Goering (above) of Prussia, 'Iron fist' of the Nazis, rose to a position of apparently unchallenged power as Adolf Hitler's chief aide as a result of the German revolt.

At the moment, Assistant Secretary of State Francis B. Sayre, representing his boss, Cordell Hull, has the inside track.

BERLIN, (AP)—Nazi vigilance against a revolt was resumed Friday with disquieting reports of "something more brewing" among friends of "liquidated" Nazi leaders.

2000 Head Of Cattle Offered For Sale Here

Two car loads of hay were unloaded here Thursday to care for cattle bought under the government's livestock purchasing campaign in this county.

More than 2,000 head of cattle had been offered the government Friday morning through the county agent's office.

Dr. Carl Stewart, government inspector, and M. H. O'Daniel of Coahoma, appraiser, were busy Friday buying the stock. First herd was expected here Friday afternoon or Saturday morning.

The first contingent of cattle penned here will be shipped to other points, County Administrator R. H. McNew said.

When the government canning plant is set into operation here, choice stuff will be used for canning purposes.

McNew said that none of the equipment ordered for the Big Spring canning plant had arrived. He expressed the belief that the machinery would arrive and installation would begin by the middle of next week.

Meanwhile, surprisingly few farmers and ranchers have applied through the relief office for livestock production or feed loans, terms of which are said to be very liberal.

Dr. Stewart and O'Daniel were to load over the 300 head offered by John Guitar Saturday and also staff on the George White and L. B. Coy ranches.

Monday and Tuesday they will work in and out of Vincent.

Wednesday they will look over 350 head offered by J. B. Wheat and Thursday they inspect 90 head in northeast Howard county offered by Ella M. Conrad of Outback, Texas.

C.C. Camp Is Approved In Washington

Congressman Thomason Wires Information To C. T. Watson Here

Congressman R. E. Thomason wired C. T. Watson, chamber of commerce manager, Friday that "Fechner, head of C.C.C. has approved a drought relief camp for Big Spring and I have urged immediate establishment."

Watson had been informed previously by D. E. Colp, chairman of the state park board that a camp had been allotted the state park on scenic mountain here.

However, an opinion had been expressed by the state department that the 200 acres in the park was not sufficient and that an equal additional amount of land was needed.

Colp said it would be necessary to have water piped to the campsite and that the army would pay commercial rates for the water consumed. The city indicated it would pipe the water to the camp site when established.

Exact status of the proposed beautification project on the scenic mountain state park was not known here Friday. It was shrouded in a cloak of uncertainty.

Nazi Vigilance Against Revolt Again Started

Reports Of 'Something More Brewing' Are Closely Watched

BERLIN, (AP)—Nazi vigilance against a revolt was resumed Friday with disquieting reports of "something more brewing" among friends of "liquidated" Nazi leaders.

Nazi spokesman said the Roehm revolution had wide ramifications. This has brought renewed vigilance and a determination to prove that the "iron fist and strong will rules Germany."

It became known Friday 20 were killed in Saturday's bloody revolt. Ten besides the seven officials announced have been identified and their deaths confirmed, according to reliable persons.

County Agent O. P. Griffin returned Thursday evening from a two-day meeting of county agents in Abilene.

Land measuring to determine compliance with cotton contracts will begin immediately as soon as forms are available, he said.

Griffin indicated that there would be little change in the set up of the administration of the contracts and the granting of tax exemptions under the Bankhead act other than in the case where there are two tenants on one farm. Community committees are then called upon to give per centage allocations of tax exemptions on the farm to the tenants on the basis of crop prospects.

San Francisco Water Fronts

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—San Francisco's blood-stained waterfront bristled with bayonets Friday as national guardmen patrolled the area on which two men were killed and thirty-four wounded by police fire in the latest disorder in the Pacific Coast Marine strike.

Fear of further bloodshed on account of arrival of 1300 guardmen during the night was expressed by Chief of Police William J. Quinn, whose bluecoats used guns and tear gas in yesterday's clashes.

Threats of a general strike were heard here and at Portland, Oregon. A tense situation echoed on the Atlantic coast.

Wallace Says Cattle Buying 'Dove-Tailed'

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Secretary Wallace told newsmen Friday that the farm administration's cattle buying program would adjust present surpluses of beef cattle, and control hog production next year, probably the center of control of food crops.

Cattle buying is being "dove-tailed" with other administration plans, the secretary added, and recent rains in drought areas has not changed the situation materially from conditions early in the week.

Cattle buying with an extension program to include sheep may have to be carried beyond next spring.

Robb Offers Blue Ribbon Program Here

Once again an R & R Super Road Show is offered by Manager Robb at the Ritz Theater today and tomorrow. This one the first in months, is a blue ribbon program whose feature unit is Paramount's "Thirty Day Princess", starring Sylvia Sydney, with "tall, dark and handsome" Cary Grant as her leading man. The supporting units are "Itchy-Scratchy", rated the most delightful short film of the year; Popeye The Sailor in "Shoehn's House"; a musical, "This Little Piggie Went to Market"; and Newz, "Thirty Day Princess" possesses that some indefinable something which made "It Happened One Night" such swell entertainment. It is a lovely bit of whimsy—unbelievable, exciting, romantic and gay. It is a film which is said never to lose its sense of humor nor its spirit of good, honest fun.

Sylvia Sydney is blessed with a dual role which fits her both ways. In one she is Crown Princess of Tartaria, come to America in the interest of a loan to her country. In the other she is Nancy Lane, struggling little actress hired to play bit for the Princess when royalty is stricken with the mumps. Her chief job is to vamp a newspaper publisher who is opposed to foreign loans into printing boosts for Tartaria's bonds.

She kisses him and a bond issue is floated. Kisses him again and both become utterly miserable because of the social gulf between them. There is plenty of entertainment for those who witness their dilemmas and in the unanticipated turns in the plot which solves their difficulties. Miss Sydney is very, very charming as the Princess; and very, very funny as the actress. And Cary Grant is said never to have put more genuine spirit and vitality into a role. The story by Clarence Budington Kelland is intrinsically good and might have been made into a good picture with any cast; with these stars and their supporting cast it rates top excellence.

"Itchy-Scratchy" is the tragic-comedy of the screen most lovable character, a mischievous little bear cub whose natural curiosity packs his little saga with laughs and thrills and causes an unlikely end to a life not lived in vain, since his antics reveal a gold mine, thus repaying the kindness of his human friends. Every member of the family will love "Itchy-Scratchy". Incidentally, this road show program is all-family entertainment.

Other popular characters in the program are Popeye the Sailor and the little pig that went to market.

SILVERTON, Ore. (UP)—The Dionne quintuplets admittedly are entitled to international acclaim, but local folk believe the twin cubs belonging to Harry Sannerud, farmer, should be publicized too. Twin cubs are rare. Like the quintuplets, the twin stallions are progressing nicely too.

PRINCESS AND PUBLISHER

Sylvia Sydney and Cary Grant, as pinch-hitter for royalty and newspaper publisher, respectively, are principals in "Thirty Day Princess," feature unit of a new R & R Super Road Show current at Ritz Theatre. This is their second joint appearance in romance roles. The first was "Madame Butterfly."

Roosevelt Administration Approved By Over 3 To 2 In Final Returns Of Literary Digest New Deal Poll

More than 3 out of 5 are in favor of the New Deal, as shown by the final returns of The Literary Digest's nationwide poll on Roosevelt's acts and policies, the tabulation of which will be published tomorrow's issue of the magazine. Vermont is the only one of the forty-eight states registering disapproval which it does by the majority of 53.62 per cent.

The number of votes cast totals 1,772,163, which are reported received from every section in the nation, including the District of Columbia. The final vote is 1,063,732 for the New Deal to 688,411 against it.

A comparison of the ratio of the final returns in favor of Roosevelt's acts and policies with the popular vote ratio he received officially in 1932, indicates that he has increased his strength 3.83 per cent since his election.

The voters in the poll were asked to indicate for whom they voted in 1932. 459,338 of the poll voters indicate that they have changed their minds about Roosevelt since his election. An analysis of this switching shows an average gain for Roosevelt in the forty-eight states of 5.38 per cent.

The same analysis indicates that Roosevelt has incurred net losses of support among the voters in this New Deal Poll in twenty states and net gains in the other twenty-eight states since 1932.

The larger losses are tallied in the south and in the agricultural sections while the larger gains are noted in the New England and eastern industrial states and those on the Pacific coast. The greatest switch from Roosevelt is shown in South Carolina and the greatest switch to him, over 14 per cent, in California.

In the six special polls that The Literary Digest conducted among bankers, clergy, business men, educators, lawyers and physicians, all groups vote in favor of Roosevelt's acts and policies except the bankers.

The bankers vote 13,795 to 12,525 against the New Deal.

Of the 24,859 votes received from the ministers of the nation, 13,513, or 54.36 per cent, mark their ballots in favor of Roosevelt's acts and policies "on the whole."

The poll of the business men shows 56.23 per cent of the 54,658 voting as in favor of the New Deal. 67.20 per cent of the 18,953 educators, 53.19 per cent of the 45,605 lawyers and 56.83 per cent of the 43,728 physicians forwarding "straw" ballots also vote in support of the New Deal.

Another special poll conducted among the undergraduates of seventeen American colleges and universities gives a majority of 64.35 per cent, for the New Deal.

An analysis of how the same students voted in 1932 shows that Hoover "carried" thirteen of the seventeen colleges, as against Roosevelt "carrying" all of them now. "Since the last report," The Literary Digest will state in its columns tomorrow, "the ratio of 'Yes' ballots for the president has increased in 15 states. The list of 'marginal states' which give Roosevelt less than a 5 per cent, margin of approval in The Literary Digest Poll now includes 10 states: Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, South Dakota, Illinois, Nebraska, Colorado, Maine, Massachusetts, and New Hampshire.

Seven of those states are on the edge in the final report: Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, South Dakota, Maine, Massachusetts, and New Hampshire, South Dakota is still nearest the line with a favorable ratio of 80.28—0.47 per cent, less than last week.

Vermont still stands alone in opposition with her 53.62 ratio of disapproval toward the president's policies.

"A total of 1,702,562 of those who have voted in the current Literary Digest Poll indicated on their ballots how they had cast their votes in the 1932 presidential election.

who voted in the 1932 presidential election, 6,683 voted for Roosevelt in 1932, and 8,960 voted for Hoover. In the current Literary Digest-College Newspaper poll, 16,293 undergraduates vote 'Yes' on the Roosevelt policies—9,625 vote 'No.' That reversal gives Roosevelt a favorable ratio of 64.35 per cent, in the final report on the seventeen colleges—2.85 per cent, behind the favorable ratio returned by the educators.

"In 1932, The Literary Digest presidential poll proved to be 88.65 per cent, accurate in forecasting Roosevelt's popular vote. "Now, in 1934, The Literary Digest poll on the acts and policies of Roosevelt's first year has been completed and the returns indicate: "The president receives a vote of confidence from more than 3 out of 5 of the 1,772,163 Americans who have returned ballots in the current Literary Digest Poll."

"Further, The Literary Digest poll has revealed the trend, the shift among those voters in the current Literary Digest poll who have changed their minds about the Roosevelt policies since they cast their ballots in the presidential election of 1932."

"The New Deal won majorities among the bankers in only seven states, among the lawyers in twenty-four states, among the business men in thirty-four states, among the clergy in thirty-five states and among the physicians in thirty-five states. The educators in every one of the forty-eight states and in the District of Columbia returned majorities of 'Yes' ballots.

"Hand in hand with the educators, undergraduates among the seventeen colleges have returned a high ratio of approval for the New Deal. An analysis of the ballots in this special Literary Digest-College Newspaper poll based on the answers to the question, 'how did you vote in 1932?' shows that Hoover carried thirteen of the seventeen colleges. Today, the Roosevelt policies have 'carried' all seventeen of those colleges.

SPORT SLANTS

By ALAN GOULD

Most if not all of the spring chickens in major league baseball have come home to roost in the full roar of the pennant battles.

They were critical of the way Bill Terry conducted his training campaign down in Miami Beach, where he worked his lads twice daily under a hot sun and drove them constantly, but the payoff is that the Giants are still the team to beat in the National League.

The brothers Dean loudly proclaimed their intention to win at least 45 games for the Cardinals this year, on the family theory that Paul was fully prepared to keep step with Jerome, the not-so-dizzy-one.

For a time this spring it looked as though the anvil chorus had gone into action too quickly on the subject of Connie Mack's pitching staff but, as we suggested, they have turned out mostly to be a lot of fellows named "Joe" and the A's can have no hopes whatever of finishing higher than sixth place.

Even with the one and only Babe Ruth definitely out of the race for clouting honors this year, the home run derby is one of the closest and most interesting in years of major league bombardment.

For one thing, National League sluggers are enjoying the benefits of the livelier ball. For another, the insertion of new blood such as Bob Johnson of the Athletics and Zeke Bonura of the White Sox has added zest to the proceedings.

By bouncing to the top of the heap this June, Johnson combines with the 1933-34 home run champion and his team-mate, Jimmie Foxx, to give the Athletics the newest set of thumping twins. They can never hope to rival the glamour of the old pair, Ruth and Gehrig, but they can help Connie Mack save some prestige from the wreck of his championship club.

Foxx will be the man to beat down the stretch, for Jimmie has the power and stamina to carry him through the heat and strain of the stretch drive. He won't feel the pressure so much as Johnson and Bonura, but he will have his hands full topping Gehrig, who shows no signs of cracking under the iron-man record he is adding to every day he steps on the field.

On the other side of the fence, Chuck Klein of the Cubs and Mel Ott of the Giants are the two big National League guns. If they could play all their games at home, they would be hard to beat but on the road they have some tough targets.

ROUGH ON HURLERS
The American League's pitching as most everyone has observed, has fallen off sharply all along the line this year. With a few notable exceptions, such as Gomez of the Yankees, Weaver of the Senators and the stars of the Detroit and Cleveland staffs, the hurlers have been treated very roughly indeed.

Joe McCarthy, the pilot of the Yankees, doesn't think it can all be blamed on age, sore arms or more mysterious ailments. He attributes at least part of the difficulties to the fact the new uniform ball has less prominent seams, thereby compelling pitchers to use more finger pressure to get the proper grip and causing a heavy crop of blisters. This, says Joe,

Gibbons Brothers Pull Together In Politics

ST. PAUL, (AP)—Tommy Gibbons, famous heavyweight boxer of the rich Dempsey-Tunney era, is a candidate for sheriff here and his chief "second" in the political fight is his brother Mike, the old St. Paul phantom.

Tommy and Mike were not on speaking terms during the former's years as a fistie headliner, but have decided to forgive and forget. Mike has lost the fortune he made in the ring but Tommy, who fought Jack Dempsey in the famous Shelby, Mont., financial failure and who suffered his only knockout at the hands of Gene Tunney, is well off financially.

Cool Suggestions for

WARM WEATHER MEALS

Menus Of The Day

SATURDAY NIGHT FOR STEAK
Give your steaks a bath before you broil them, to make them juicy and flavorful. A famous chef recommends putting them in a "marinade" for a half hour before broiling. A marinade is simply a combination of oil and acid and seasoning; he suggests a combination of lemon juice and mayonnaise, with salt, pepper and a dash of Imperial sugar.

FOR THE ANTI-PARSLEY FACTION
If you are one of those diaphanous who still objects to the inevitable sprig of parsley stuck on top of every conceivable dish, you will enjoy this new garnish especially good with some kinds of meat. Cut pitted pasteurized dates from end to end but not entirely through. Spread apart and put a slice of apricot in each one. Press together and put in lettuce cups around the meat.

STRING ALONG WITH BEANS
The next time you serve string beans—and it will be soon if you know your dietary rules—top them with a mayonnaise cream sauce, for color and flavor. To make it blend 2 tablespoons flour with 2 tablespoons mayonnaise (which has been heated in a double boiler). Add a cup of milk gradually, stirring constantly, and cook over water until smooth. Add salt and pepper, remove from fire, cool a little, then add mayonnaise slowly, stir to desired consistency.

ROUTINE-RELIEVERS
Biscuits make a good top layer for casserole dishes. Grated cheese sprinkled over the spinach tempts the family. Noodle nests filled with peas and corn and served with a butter sauce are a good entrée. A modern spring tonic is pasteurized dates; eat them "raw" or put them in a salad.

Lima beans baked with strips of bacon and marshmallows on top will bring forth compliments. If you plan to eat the skins of baked potatoes, brush the potatoes with mayonnaise when you put them in the oven, to keep the skins tender. Orange and onion slices, with French dressing, make a salad menu like.

A tablespoonful of karo in a glass of milk doubles the energy value and improves the taste. Canned Florida orange juice is a wife-saver at breakfast time. Good for frosted beverages too.

ored coconut, dust the date with Imperial granulated sugar.

SUGGESTIONS FOR SIMPLE SUMMER SUPPERS
Creamed dried beef on toast with tea; Cold cuts, cabbage-saute-and salad, crackers, milk; Fried tomatoes with cheese sauce, bread and butter sandwiches, beverage; Peanut butter-date-orange juice sandwiches, chocolate milk shake; Gingerbread (made with Washington-recipe mix), whipped cream, coffee; Canned vegetable soup, crackers, frozen fruit salad, coffee.

SUMMER COLLECTION
Set the style in salads with this "summer collection" of fruits as decorative as flowers. 3 fresh pears 2 grapefruit 1 No. 1 can shredded Cream cheese pineapple 1 pt. strawberries 3 seedless oranges Lettuce

French Dressing Wash and hull strawberries, sprinkle with Imperial powdered sugar and let stand in refrigerator until thoroughly chilled. Peel and halve pears, allowing 1-2 pear for each serving. Fill hollows in pears with shredded pineapple which has been mixed with French dressing and place a ball of cream cheese, (rubbed to a paste with cream) on top of each fruit-filled pear and serve on lettuce leaf. Surround with rings of strawberries and radiating sections of orange and grapefruit.

GOOD TASTE
You may lose of good taste in your dressing (with apologies to Emily Post) if you try this new salad dressing on your greens: Rub a clove of garlic into slice of dry toast and allow to remain on toast 1-2 hour; crumble toast in tiny pieces and add to can of tomatoes, drained from juice. Mix with 2 tablespoons mayonnaise and 2 tablespoons vinegar, and season to taste. Serve with lettuce, romaine or endive.

DID YOU GET YOUR SIXTY BANANAS?
About seven billion bananas were eaten in these United States last year, which, as those fond of figures will tell you, means that you (and maybe you) ate sixty bananas apiece! Imports of the luscious fruit continue to be as plentiful, so you can get ready for your full share again this year.

Why "such popularity must be deserved" is a question that will bring you more answers than a sieve has holes. Your Junior and Jane will tell you "because they taste good," retailers will point out their economy value and the scientists will say that the real reason is the new public appreciation of the banana as a "protective food" and because it contains five of the six known vitamins.

Silhouette-watchers will praise their value in the slimming diet and the underweight will point to their food value. But the fact remains—as a nation we like bananas!

Yes, We Have Bananas
How will you eat your sixty bananas? There are, according to homemakers, some twenty ways of serving them. They may be served with milk or cereals; in fruit cocktails; with fruit juices; in salads, sandwiches, puddings; in cakes, pies and pastries; in waffles, doughnuts, muffins and fritters; in ice cream and frozen desserts and drinks; as a vegetable and as a meat accompaniment! Which way you choose depends on your mood at the moment, but let these tested recipes guide your selection.

Banana Pie
1 baked pastry shell (or 6 tart shells), 3/4 cup Imperial sugar, 1-3 cup flour, 1-8 teaspoon salt, 2 eggs, 2 cups scalded milk, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 3 sliced bananas, 3-4 cup cream, whipped.

Mix sugar, flour and salt. Add eggs, slightly beaten, and pour on gradually scalded milk. Add flavoring and cook fifteen minutes in double boiler, stirring constantly until thickened, then occasionally. Put in shell, cool, add bananas and cover with whipped cream.

Banana and Ham Sandwich
Mix 2 1/2 ounces can deviled ham and 2 1-2 crushed bananas thoroughly. Spread mixture between buttered slices of bread, with or without lettuce leaves. Makes 6 to 8 sandwiches.

Bananas and Bacon
6 bananas, 1-4 pound bacon. Roll half lengths of peeled bananas in strips of bacon. Secure with toothpick. If necessary, broil under flame or bake in oven-proof dish in a hot oven (450 Degrees Fahrenheit) about fifteen minutes, or until bananas are tender and bacon crisp. Bake at least once during the baking. Whole bananas may be wrapped in bacon and cooked in the same way.

Banana-Tomato Salad
6 lettuce leaves, 2 tomatoes, 2-3 ripe bananas, 1-4 cup French dressing, mayonnaise. Arrange the lettuce on a platter. Place on each leaf a thick slice of peeled tomato and on this arrange sliced bananas. Cover with French dressing and garnish with mayonnaise. Serves 4.

Banana Cake
1-2 cup shortening, 1 1/2 cups Imperial sugar, 2 eggs, 2 cups flour, 1-2 teaspoon baking powder, 1/2-4 teaspoon soda, 1-2 teaspoon

The world's first complete sleeper planes will go into service between Chicago and New York on July 8, according to an announcement made last night by Lester D. Seymour, president of American Airlines. First flight, westbound, from New York, will be from Newark airport at 12:35 a. m., July 8. The planes will be operated nightly over American's Chicago, Detroit, Buffalo, New York route and will make the flight in about six hours.

Like railway sleepers, the aerial berth planes will be ready for occupancy at 10 p. m. each night, although the plane will not leave Chicago until 11:05 p. m. C. S. T. In New York berths will be ready for passengers at the same hour, although departure will not take place until 12:35 a. m.

The new sleeper planes, latest achievement of the aircraft industry, are manufactured by the Curtiss-Wright Airplane company, St. Louis, are of the biplane type, powered by Wright F 2 engines, of 730 horsepower each, and have a top speed of 190 miles and a cruising speed of 160 miles an hour. The interior of the new 12-passenger planes are divided into six sections of two seats each. These sections are quickly convertible, either on the ground or in flight, into comfortable upper and lower berths, one inch longer than the standard railway sleeping berth. Each compartment is provided with windows in both upper and lower berths, each having individual reading lights, clothes hammocks and hangers. The planes are air conditioned, complete change of air being made every three minutes. Individual vents in each berth permit passengers to control the extent of the warm and cold air each requires. When on the ground a portable ventilating unit is attached to the outside of the plane and washed warm or cold air is forced into the plane by means of large blowers.

A completely equipped wash room occupies a section in the rear of the cabin and is furnished with mirrors, running water and other modern conveniences.

Crews on the sleepers will comprise two pilots and a stewardess. The latter, due to the facility with which berths may be arranged, being able to make up the berths in flight as passengers may direct. Call buttons at the head of each berth make attendant instantly available during flight.

Planes of the sleeper plane type have been in service for three months on American's Southern Transcontinental route, between Los Angeles and Dallas-Ft. Worth. Company officials report capacity loads, the sleeper service being particularly popular with members of the Hollywood movie colony. Under present schedules, Mr. Seymour said, eastbound planes will stop at Detroit at 1:57 a. m. E. S. T. and Buffalo at 3:49 a. m. Westbound planes will stop at Buffalo at 2:45 a. m., and Detroit at 4:45 a. m.

'Tough' Oklahoma Links Ready For Western Golfers

OKLAHOMA CITY, (AP)—A field of golf stars probably headed by Lawson Little, British amateur champion, and George T. Dunlap, Jr., national amateur title holder will find a longer, tougher Twin Hills course when they start play for the Western amateur championship here July 10.

Numerous improvements have been made in the course for the tournament, which is now 6,500 yards and a difficult par 70. The layout winds over rolling hills, with thick woods waiting to catch shots that wander from the fairways.

A barbecue for visiting golfers on the clubhouse lawn on the eve of the tourney is scheduled to open the festivities in connection with the tournament. Stuffed Baked Apples
1 1/2 cups Imperial sugar, 1-4 cup water, 6 apples, 1 or 2 bananas, 1 tablespoon butter, 6 marshmallows. Make a syrup by boiling sugar and water together three minutes. Core apples and pare tops. Fill cavities with thinly sliced bananas and arrange in a baking pan. Pour syrup over them and bake about half an hour, until tender, in moderate oven (350 Degrees F.). When done, dot each apple with a little butter and baste well with remaining syrup; then place marshmallow on each and put back into oven to brown. Serves 6.

MURDER AT MOCKING HOUSE

BY WALTER C. BROWN

Chapter 53 RECONCILIATION

Harper put Aline Croyden's ring away in the pocket that held the little key to Richard Croyden's pains. The artist's renunciation of his beloved instrument had been a poignant gesture. Indeed, justly or unjustly, the dead ride hard! Harper meditated sourly to himself as he mounted the stairs to spread his thankless news through the house. He tapped on the door of Mrs. Dufresne's room, deciding that she was entitled to be told first.

After that painful interview he sought out the master of the house and found him in the upstairs library, the scene of his mocking challenge of the evening before. Pierre Dufresne was staring moodily out the window when the detective entered. His face, too proclaimed the stress and strain of restless hours that should have been devoted to sleep.

In plain, unadorned phrases Sergeant Harper told the story of the murders. As he talked, Pierre Dufresne paced up and down, exclaiming, interrupting with questions, struggling from its own unjust but hard-spurred woes. At times he could hardly credit the tale.

"Wait! Wait!" he cried, poured himself a drink and downed it at a gulp. Then he resumed his nervous pacing, firing questions again and again at the detective.

"When he had finished his story, Harper said, 'Now, Mr. Dufresne, perhaps you will explain your own movements after you got out of the Austerlitz? I know you had every intention of murdering the man whom you suspected was meeting your wife in this house. What happened?'"

Dufresne flung himself into a chair. "You were right, Harper. I got out of the Austerlitz as you described. Between the alibi, I had prepared and the letters I had written to myself I felt quite certain that I would never be suspected, no matter what happened.

"I took a taxi and got out some distance from here. I had been keeping watch on that sand-urn and I knew a meeting had been arranged for that night. I walked past the house. There was no light, no sign of life and there were no foot-prints leading up to the door. I hid behind a wall, watching. It was quite dark.

"I waited, but nothing happened. I was furious because I had been outwitted again. Then I saw a policeman coming along the street. He was the first person I had seen in the street at all. To my astonishment he turned in at the gate as though he had business here.

"He went up the steps and entered the house, although I couldn't see who had opened the door. I was greatly puzzled. I watched and waited, but the policeman didn't come out. I don't know how long I hid behind the wall, but it must have been quite a while, for I began to get stiff with cold.

"Suddenly, the front door began to bang in the wind. When that kept up I grew frightened at the prospect. I knew that something unusual must have happened and I wanted to keep clear of it. How could I have explained my absence from the hotel? So I left my hiding place and walked until I caught a taxi that brought me back to the center of the city. I had not been in very long before you arrived.

"When you brought me up here to view the bodies I couldn't understand half of what I saw and heard and I've been trying ever since to figure out what really took place in that room."

Harper nodded. "That shows what totally different meanings can be drawn from the simplest things. The notes left in that urn were construed in a different manner by every one who found out about them.

"Only Mrs. Croyden and your wife knew the real truth about them. At any time a frank discussion would have cleared it all up. Instead, it was allowed to fester in secrecy. Richard Croyden, the real victim of the whole intrigue, didn't know of their existence until much later."

The detective looked Pierre Dufresne squarely in the eyes. "I am going to lay aside my role as police officer for a few seconds," he stated, "and take the liberty of talking to you as man to man. You may resent what I am going to say but I shall not apologize for my presumption. You know now that you gravely misjudged your wife. Had you acted with the slightest degree of sanity and understanding both of you would have been spared a great deal of suffering."

Harper flung out his hand to check Dufresne's rising retort. "Wait until I have finished. I talked with her just before I came to this room and she explained to me all that she knew. She had brooded and worried over her sister's plight until she was nearly frantic, not knowing what would happen next. Loyalty to her sister's secret kept her silent and your unaccountable attitude made it impossible to turn to you for help. Knowing the truth of it herself, she never dreamed that you had found out about the notes and were accusing her in your mind.

"When you telephoned and told her about the ambush she was terrified. She thought that this H. D. was at the bottom of it. From her sister's account she knew that he was capable of nearly anything. She saw that a terrible crisis was at hand, but she didn't know what to do nor which way to turn. She knew about the meeting that night, but this other thing arose too suddenly for her to formulate any plans.

"Then came the fire at Mrs. Morlock's house and she saw the opportunity to slip away unobserved in the confusion. Without thinking, she dashed blindly out of the house and even properly dressed against the storm. It was a gesture of panic and it came to nothing. The wind,

He put down the glass un-tasted and rose from his chair with ill-concealed resolution.
"Will you wait here for a few minutes, Harper? I want to go down town with you, to arrange things for Richard and give him what help I can."
"I'll wait for you," Harper promised.
Although the "few minutes" lengthened considerably and the master of the house had not returned the detective was not impatient. The delay, he mused, was in a good cause.
He browsed along the bookshelves and taking out one of the volumes, sat down on the broad window-seat. The morning sun began to edge its way through the leaded glass panes as he idly turned the page.
Harper looked up at the sound of footsteps, but it was old Andrews, and not Dufresne, who entered the room. The gray-haired butler had a message for him. "Mr. Dufresne said he would be ready in a minute, sir."
Andrews hovered over the tray by the armchair, where Dufresne's last drink stood untouched. "Shall I remove this, sir?"
"Yes, Andrews—and I think it will be quite all right to take the decanter along with it."
They smiled at each other in sudden understanding. Then the old man bowed to Sergeant Stephen Harper and it was not the stiff nod by which he drew the line between his master's world and everything that lay outside.

moratorium on foreign debt payments. Because the subject is not kosher in diplomatic circles Hull didn't mention the Jewish question specifically. He was careful to point out, though, that German policies have created such opposition elsewhere in the world as to seriously impair Nazi trade. This was a polite way of reminding Berlin of the Jewish boycott against German goods. Notable cases in the United States of objection to Hitler's anti-Semitic policies are Woolworth's and Macy's. Whether there are enough such in America to make enormous inroads on German export trade is perhaps debatable, but a favorable balance of from $7,000,000 to $100,000,000 would amply take care of interest and amortization on all German obligations to the U. S. A. Lack of this balance was the basis of Hitler's decision to renege.

What burns Hull up more than anything else is the German policy of constantly depreciating its bonds by reports of inability to pay at the same time repurchasing these obligations on a large scale at 50 and 60 per cent of value. In the United States—and most other countries—a banker who engaged in such practices could be convicted of fraud and lodged in the bastille. We haven't permitted such carryings-on since the good old piratical days of Jay Gould and Jim Fiske.

The State Department is cognizant of prolonged official German propaganda about inability to pay—while the Reichsbank has repurchased everything it could lay its hands on, provided the price was low enough.

The American investor has been the Santa Claus to Germany with the longest whiskers. Secretary Hull has an uphill road to pull in protecting more than a billion dollars we have sunk. Those holding the bag may get some comfort from knowing Hull is really mad, and when he gets that way he's bad business.

Nazis—Back of Hitler's moves were these outstanding facts: Bruening's trip to London was made to prepare the English for the early change that was expected. Such a change would have speeded negotiations for a loan.

Railway workers were barred from membership in the Storm Troops in order that control of the railways should insure the food supplies of Berlin. That took the military control of the railways from the Brownshirts.

Schacht's resignation on the currency issue was forecast. The political turnover was scheduled either in the next few weeks, before harvest time, or directly after the harvest. Schacht was expected by his friends to emerge again under the new regime.

President Hindenburg had not been "at home" to Hitler, for some time except very briefly. The old general withdrew to Neudeck at an unusually early moment. This maneuver, used in the past to separate the President from former chancellors, was of the utmost significance to Der Fuehrer. The end of the aged statesman is so near that he has little to do but agree with those closest to him. These will now be Hitler men.

Notes

A newspaper man asked Ambassador Trojanovskiy about recent attacks on capitalist countries in Soviet newspapers. "In free countries like Russia and America," said the smiling Muscovite, "the press says what it pleases". AAA receives a stream of kicks from farmers who blame NRA for increased cost of farm machinery and fertilizer. David E. Liffenthal of TVA is the special terror of utility managers who fear spread of government ownership. All the alphabet agencies concerned with drought relief are speeding up under orders from the White House. Mussolini has given notice that there'll be nothing doing in naval agreements unless France agrees to give Italy parity. The California delegation has asked Washington to put a stop to Communist conspiracies to sabotage perishable crops. Farmers are organizing vigilance committees.

NEW YORK

BY JAMES McMULLIN

Meat—Despite advance reports you could have knocked Wall Street over with a feather when Joseph P. Kennedy was chosen for the S. E. C. Not that the boys object. But Kennedy has often been referred to in informed circles as one of the dozen biggest operators in the Street. He's independently wealthy and his associations with Henry Mason Day and Charles M. Schwab (the latter during the war) rank him in Grade A speculative society. Also he was at one time office manager for the important firm of Hayden Stone. He certainly knows what it's all about but comment runs that it's a little like naming a lion to regulate the meat diet of his fellow carnivora.

Realistic

There's no question of Kennedy's sincerity or good faith but New York is busy doing the angles. Political features come in for animated but rosy discussions. Apart from his personal friendship for the President Kennedy is an excellent terms with son James—which is supposed to count. Farley also urged the appointment. And of course local cynics dwell caressingly on Kennedy's contribution to the Roosevelt campaign fund and the fact that the Democratic National Committee still owes him money. More charitable observers remark that Kennedy will be outnumbered four to one by the "liberal" element on the commission—so he could hardly put much sand in regulation's gears even if so minded—while his first-hand knowledge of market mechanics should come in handy. He is not an Exchange man in the strict sense. In general his selection is taken by local big timers to mean that regulation will be realistic but not punitive—which comforts them.

Others

The appointments of James M. Landis, George C. Mathews and Ferdinand Pecora had been discounted well in advance. Wall Street accepts them as rulers with neither enthusiasm nor alarm. It's understood that at least they have no yen to destroy what's left of the securities business.

Robert E. Healy is thoroughly unpopular in utility circles. As counsel for the Federal Trade Commission he acquired the knack of conducting penetrating and sometimes embarrassing probes. Listed corporations are a mite uneasy about his passing for elaborate reports but hopes his colleagues will keep him from running amok in that direction.

Well-known insiders say that Landis will boss the works even though Kennedy has been named official chairman. That means rigorous penalties for funny business but all cards face up on the table from the word go.

Safe

Wall Street professionals have been figuring they had until October for a final fling but now appear doomed to sad disillusion. Insiders got word that one of S. E. C.'s first official acts will be to bespeak immediate compliance from all concerned. While it's true the commission couldn't do much about it at present, if anyone disregarded their plea they could make life plenty uncomfortable for such dissidents later. So—except for plans to laugh off the law via Canada or London—most of the boys will play it safe from now on no matter how it hurts their feelings and pocketbooks.

Together

New York sharps say there's more than meets the eye in the choice of James A. Moffett as housing administrator. Moffett's ready acceptance of New Deal principles for the oil industry caused a breach between him and Walter Teagle and separated him from his job with Standard of New Jersey. He got his reward with Standard of California. Now he draws a key post with the government in a field that's strange to him.

How come? Because the housing program must have hearty cooperation from private industry to succeed and Moffett—aside from being a skilled organizer—has personal contacts with big business that should be valuable. Comment runs that it doesn't matter whether he knows a shingle from a door-knob if he can only figure a way to get producers and consumers together.

Ford

The impending love feast between Henry Ford and General Johnson wasn't Henry's idea—although the overtures came from the motor company. New Yorkers who knew Ford say he was that stubborn he didn't care if he never sold a car to the government. But his dealers weren't so thick-skinned about it. They wanted their share of government cream and kept pestering Henry until he saw things their way. It's rather novel for Ford to be paying any attention to dealers' wishes but times have changed. Insiders state that Ford is personally no fonder of the Blue Eagle than he used to be and that its absence hasn't cramped his sales to the public. Final settlement of the year-old argument will be a compromise. Ford already complies with most auto code provisions. His official agreement to do what he has been doing all along will be so phrased that both he and Johnson can avoid any appearance of surrender. Copyright McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

Four members of the Big Spring Mexican Tiger baseball team were injured Thursday morning when the truck on which they were riding overturned in Lympha Canyon between Fort Davis and Toyahvale. Most seriously injured was Juan Subis, pitcher, who suffered back injuries and painful bruises. He was pinned underneath the truck. Elias Cambon sustained a dislocated shoulder. Inez Mendonca received a dislocated ankle and Raymond Cruz was cut badly over the right eye.

The team was returning from a two day engagement in Marfa and was scheduled to play in Pecos Thursday afternoon. Members of the team returned here Friday morning with the exception of Julian Vega, who brought Subis here by train Thursday night.

Others on the truck when it overturned were Perfidio Fierro, Albert Garcia, Tony Garcia, Martin Parades, Gavriel Lopez, Valentin Moreno of Midland, Lencho Aleman and a woman.

Slaughter, upon Spade, took second place in the cutting contest and split third and fourth money with W. W. Brunson of Midland. He was on Goldust in the second try. Last year Slaughter won first place in the cutting contest. This year he had the distinction of serving as judge together with Tom Hickman and Fred Rhodes.

The Cosden Pipeliner soft ball team, with a fine record in the Foran area, is gunning for bigger and better things. The Pipeliners, headed by L. O. The Humble crew is the only outfit to tame the Cosdenites, but they took a 1 to 0 licking in a return game.

There's no use kidding, the dictators certainly do up things right. Primo Carnera goes and loses his heavyweight championship to Max Baer and what happens? Why Mussolini himself sends an investigator over here to find out how come and why. The investigator, who is questioning prominent experts, viewing pictures of the battle and otherwise disporting himself about the New York metropolis, is Count Francesco Campello, a representative of the Italian Boxing Federation. Count Campello arrived in New York on the liner Conte di Savoia and admitted that he was in this country to learn why Da Preem blew his title.

Mexican, With 3 Cans Of Coffee In Hand, Apprehended

D. C. Maupin of Maupin Grocery, just north of State National bank, was successful in running down a shop-lifter Friday morning about 11 o'clock. Maupin discovered a Mexican, Juan Sanchez, taking three cans of coffee from one of his shelves, and asked him: "If he was going to pay for it, Sanchez ran out of the store with the coffee in a paper sack, and turned west on Second street with Maupin running after him. He finally caught the Mexican near the Service Barber shop, and took the Mexican into custody. He was charged with theft and lodged in the county jail. Maupin said the Mexican came into his store, and began "shopping." He put three cans of coffee in the sack, and when he went over to collect for it, the Mexican began his "riot." Maupin was assisted by others in bringing the Mexican to a halt, when he yelled out: "Stop that man!" "Stop that man!"

Mrs. Ches Anderson, wife of a prominent farmer-ranchman of west Howard county, suffered a broken collar bone Friday morning in a car collision at 13th and Scurry streets. Wood, 'Fair-Haired Boy' Of Tennis, May Save Cup

By JOHN STARR

NEW YORK, (AP)—The figurative and actual "fair-haired boy" of American tennis at last appears ready to fulfill the role various experts have been predicting for him for several years, that of Davis cup retriever.

Ever since Sidney R. Wood won a share in the national boys' doubles championship in 1926 the more analytical critics have been pointing to his game as an embodiment of what it takes to be a real international net hero.

True, he has not compiled long strings of tournament victories—though he won the Wimbledon singles in 1931 through default of Frank Shields in the final—but the sentiment has been that, if he ever began clicking, he'd be just what America needs to regain that glittering bowl.

In his 11-9, 6-0 victory over Shields in the Queens club tourney final, the patient scriveners reared Wood's "arrival" at the peak and many think his emergence as a literal fair-haired boy is at hand.

1931 Interzone Set-Up

The stage very likely may be set for a dramatic "return engagement" of four internationalists in this year's Davis cup challenge round.

Suppose that Wood and Shields are named as America's cup singles players—and also that America wins its way into the challenge round. In that event it would be Wood and Shields vs. Perry and Austin in singles—the same pairings which obtained in the interzone final of 1931!

The result of that 1931 meeting is well known. Wood lost to both Austin and Perry. It marked America's first failure to reach the challenge round, either as defender or interzone final winner, since 1920, when the two Bills, Tilden and Johnston, started their long reign.

No "Tennis Tourist" Wood has always "had the shots" and he has always been far above average in court tactics and strategy. Thin and wiry, he has not engaged in "tennis tournament touring" to the extent that many other high-ranking stars have, which probably accounts for the comparative slenderness of his trophy collection. It is on the strength of his absolute soundness of strokes and a fighting spirit that, while not ever-present, has been known to reach great heights, along with the sage direction of Captain Dick Williams, that the American critics now are expecting Wood to "come through" British observers, too, were impressed by the slender blond's stylish stroking and all-court capability in the Queens club tourney. Fred Perry, ace of the cup defenders, said "Wood's man we must beat to keep the cup."

Circuit Blow Changes Lead

World Championship Giants Score 13-7 Victory Over Dodgers

BROOKLYN—Joe Moore's pinch home run with the bases filled in the sixth inning Thursday provided the big wallop of a 13 to 7 victory of the world champion New York Giants over the Brooklyn Dodgers at Ebbets field. The Dodgers were leading by five runs to three when Moore, pinch hitting for Blondy Ryan, came to bat with two out in the sixth. Moore's blow struck the right field screen, wiped out the Dodgers' lead and started the Giants on their way to victory.

BRAVES IN PHILLIES II PHILADELPHIA—Coming from behind an eighth inning rally, which included homers by Camilli and George Davis, the Phillies out-slugged the Boston Braves to take a 14 to 11 victory Thursday. McManus and Berger hit four-baggers for the Braves.

Personally Speaking

Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Henry are in Big Spring on business for a few days. Mr. Henry is now connected with the Phillips Oil company and is located in Bartlesville, Okla. They are registered at a local hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Scheib and daughter, Vera, Mass., arrived Friday morning from a few days' visit with relatives in Pampa and Amarillo.

Sling Shot Injured Eye KARNES CITY, Texas, (UP)—It was bound to happen sooner or later. Alvin Grimsinger, Jr., 10, was having great fun with a "nigger shooter" at his playmate's expense. EL PASO, Texas (UP)—An ingenious bootlegger used pecan hulls for his still fire because while producing an intense blue flame they gave off neither smoke nor odor. Unfortunately the distilled product retained its tell-tale smell. The bootlegger was arrested.

Chapman's Thefts Not Many, But He's Fast!

NEW YORK, (UP)—Ben Chapman, fleet left-fielder of the Yankees, is not leading the stolen-base parade in the American league this summer but his feats of pedal preciptuousness are drawing repeated cheers, nevertheless.

In one game recently he called upon his natural speed for three exciting excursions around the sacks. First he scored from second on an infield out, a grounder hit to the third baseman.

A little later he made a two-base bunt when the ball slowly rolled past the first-baseman, charging in. Ben topped off the speed show by making three bases on a hit to left field, an unusual effort in any park.

Wherein Dickey Shines As A 'Fifth Infielder'

NEW YORK, (UP)—Catcher Bill Dickey's speed afoot and willingness to play the role of a "fifth infielder" produced one of the most unique plays Yankee stadium has seen.

With Uhalt of the Chicago White Sox on first, Haas rolled a bunt down the third base line. Crosetti came in, scooped up the ball and pegged Haas out by an eye-lash. Uhalt, rounding second, saw third base unguarded and kept right on going.

But Dickey, who had started to chase the bunt, kept on going, too, and he arrived at third just in time to take Gehrig's return throw and tag the sliding Uhalt.

Plane Helps Sportsmen See Two Sport Classics

NEW YORK, (UP)—Three kinds of speed—speed of human afoot, of planes aloft and of roving shells on the water—contributed thrills to an extraordinary day for a few sportsmen and sports scribes.

It worked out when Princeton's great invitation track meet and the famous Poughkeepsie regatta fell on the same Saturday. A number of men, by hopping charred airplanes at Princeton, were able to have seen Glenn Cunningham and Ben Eastman run to new world records in the mile and half-mile and still arrive at Poughkeepsie, more
