Primitive-Missionary Baptist Debate

Who Are the Primitive Baptists? Is the Question to Be Debated by the Primitive and Missionaries Begin June 17

"We the Primitive Baptists affirm that we are the Primitive Baptists and are identical with the Apostolic Church in faith and practice.

"J. S. Newman affirms, "Dr. Jarrell denies.

"Dr. Jarrell affirms that we, Missionary Baptists, are identical in doctrine and practice with the Apostolic Church, "J. S. Newman denies."

So reads the challenge as delivered and accepted by both churches.

This debate is the culmination of an assertion made by the Missionary Baptists during their Fifth Sunday Meeting, held at Tahoka, in March. In their program, which was printed in this paper, was the following:

"Saturday March 29, 1914
2:00 p. m. Primitive—Pertaining to the beginning or origin; early times; original; first. Who are the Primitive Baptists?—J. T. Nicholson, L. T. Grumble and others."

As would be expected the Old Baptists attended that service in mass. Among those present were men high up in their church and you may count on it they gave the Missionaries an attentive ear. The Missionaries, to their own satisfaction, proved that they were the Primitive Baptists; and in their report, written by one of the brethren and published in the News, they had the following to say in regard to the matter:

"The program of Saturday, March 29th, was very interesting. Quite a number of the Old Baptists attended the 2 p. m. service led by J. T. Nicholson. Subject, 'Who are the Primitive Baptists?' Strong arguments were made which resulted in the proof that the Missionaries are the original Primitive Baptists. This was proven by the Scriptures and also by the Minutes of the Old Baptists adopted by their association."

These assertions, jointly and severally, were denied by the Missionaries; and after much discussion the challenge was written and dispatched to the Missionaries, who, after some deliberation, accepted.

Immediately after the challenge was accepted, each church looked about for the ablest man of their faith; the result being the selection of the above named gentlemen.

The debate will continue six days beginning promptly at 10 o'clock a. m. Tuesday after the 30th of May in June. Each church will occupy the floor three days on the affirmative the other three on the negative, as a result of the challenge will show. This will be one of the largest meetings ever held in Tahoka. Primitive Baptists are expected to fill over West Texas and

New Mexico and Oklahoma; and the Missionaries are confident of fully as many adherents. Also members of other denominations are expected.

The religious and commercial interests have joined forces and will build a union tabernacle capable of seating over 1500 people and expect to have it completed by the date set for the debate.

MERCHANTS DOUBLE PREMIUMS FOR TAHOKA'S 2ND TRADES DAY

FOR JUNE 2TH, TAHOKA'S 2ND SECOND MONDAY TRADES DAY OUR MERCHANTS OFFER TWICE THE INDUCEMENTS, IN PREMIUMS, BARGAINS AND AMUSEMENTS, TO BRING THE PEOPLE BACK AGAIN

On the 12th day of this month there was held in the town of Tahoka a Second Monday Trades Day, which as there were many inducements offered and these various inducements were well advertised by The News, by circulars, by placards and by word of mouth, the promoters of the project expected a big crowd of people to be here on that day. The people were here. Even the most sanguine never dreamed there would be such a crowd as came in on that day. There are a few doubters yet who say, "you had a big crowd this month, but you will fall down next month." Why should we? Next Second Monday, the 9th of June we will offer twice as many premiums, they are twice as good and there will be twice people here from outside the county as there was before; for nothing succeeds like success and we made a grand success this month so there is no reason why we should not make another one next month.

The Second Monday in June from eight o'clock in the morning until noon will be devoted to trading exclusively. After dinner every minute will be taken up with amusements and in the competing for the various prizes. There will be the prettiest baby show; the fattest baby show; the best lemon pie; the best plain cake; the best cake; the best flower display; the best yearling mule; the best mule colt; a prize for a mile foot race; a prize for a wheelbarrow race; a prize for the woman or girl who can saw a 2x12 through first, and many others that have not been turned over to the committee yet.

Look over the advertisements of the merchants and business men and there you will find the real meat in the nut; in the bargains given by the different houses you will find something you need and likely must have, that you can save money on. Remember that in the ordinary everyday course of business the prices Tahoka merchants make can hardly be equaled and in no case bettered within a radius of 50 miles. So the Trades Day special bargains give you a big opportunity to save money. Come to Tahoka June the 9th, and buy guaranteed goods at less than mail order prices; goods that you can examine, select the color and quality you prefer and can have wrapped up and take right home with you.

Come in early and do your trading so you can enjoy the afternoon. Bring in your trading stock, your produce, and if you have anything you want to sell to the highest bidder, bring it in and we will have it auctioned off for you absolutely free of charge.

You cannot afford to stay at home Second Monday from a business or social standpoint, no not even to fight the weeds in your crop, for you will have to come in a few days or a week anyhow, and come too when there are no premiums, no special bargains and no fun. Come to Tahoka anyway. Remember our slogan is, "Nothing short about Tahoka but it's past."

The live stock sanitary commission shall have power to quarantine premises or pastures located in such special quarantined districts, and the domestic live stock therein situated in such quarantined districts or elsewhere when, to their knowledge, such pastures or premises or the live stock thereon are infected with or have been exposed to a contagious, infectious or communicable disease or the infection thereof, and no live stock shall be moved to or from such special quarantined district, pastures or premises in a manner, method or other condition other than those prescribed by the Live Stock Sanitary Commission. It will be the duty of the Live Stock Sanitary Commission to prescribe methods for dipping or otherwise treating or disinfecting such premises and the live stock thereon as in their opinion are necessary for the eradication of the disease or the infection of the disease for which they are quarantined and when any person, company or corporation, owning, controlling or caring for such live stock, shall fail or refuse to dip or otherwise treat such live stock

BORDEN COUNTY

THE CITIZEN:

Monday about 2 p. m. a stranger drove into town and said to some men, "My wife is in the wagon dead." A crowd gathered around and found it to be true, they got a vacant house and carried her to it, and the women of the town gathered in and prepared the body for burial while the men made the coffin and dug the grave.

The man said his name was Ryan, that he has a home in Anson, Jones county, he said his wife took sick with tuberculosis last June, that in January the Dr. told him to take her to Mexico so he went to the Capitan Mts. with her but she gradually grew worse so he started home with her and she died about ten miles from here.

THE HESPERIAN:

The Bosley blacksmith shop had a good specimen in its repair department, the earlier part of this week, of the devilishness of some folks. Some young fellow had gone to the Literary Society meeting at Sandhill last Friday night and while he was in taking in the entertainment, some fellow with a sharp knife proceeded to make strings out of the cushion seat, back and top of his new buggy.

At first thought it would seem apparent that such little devilishly mean tricks as this would have been left back in the sticks, from whence most of us migrated, but it seems here is one fair to middlin' good example of the devel-

YOAKUM COUNTY

THE NEWS:

Tom Ivey moved a herd of cattle, which he had been feeding in Lynn county, back to his ranch this week.

We learn that part of the commissioners have expressed a willingness to take up the question of improving the Plains and Brownfield road at a special term of court to be held next week. We believe that a liberal expenditure of money on that piece of road will be generally endorsed by the people of the county.

T. M. Bartley, representative in the legislature, has moved his family back to Tahoka where he will remain until the meeting of the legislature in July. Mr. Bartley has been mentioned as a candidate in the next campaign for Land Commissioner. Should he conclude to make the race for that office, in no other county in the state will he receive a heartier support than in Yoakum. Our people will remember the good and effective work he did for them in getting the school land bill passed by the legislature.

The eleven-year-old son of S. S. Sloneker had a narrow escape from death yesterday afternoon. #### TEXAS SPUR:

Wednesday of this week Driller Minnihan of the Spur deep well informed the Texas Spur that he had reached a depth of 4,489 feet, and that the drilling with small exception continued in the hard flint rock encountered several months ago. Recently a thin strata of shale and dirt was passed through but the hard rock was again struck the first of the week and the drilling is now being done in the granitelike formation.

The well is now near unto one mile in depth and considerably the deepest in the state, and in all probably the deepest in the United States. The drilling will continue indefinitely unless a flow of artesian water, oil or gas is encountered.

This project is being financed by S. M. Swenson & Sons, of Wall Street, New York, and their success in the undertaking to secure a flow of artesian water for Spur will be of inestimable value to both town and county.

Boost and your neighbor will help you. Knock and you soon will have no neighbor.

The saying that "Ever knock is a boost" is alright, provided it comes from an outsider, remember.

Did you ever make a good trade by knocking your own horse? You can't make a good town by knocking it either.

An exchange says: The only man who gets what he wants without advertising for it is the one who is looking for trouble. There is not as much truth in the above as one might think just at a glance. For he must advertise the fact that he is looking for trouble before he finds it.

This thing of a red handed murderer "getting religion" after he has been apprehended for his crime and his earthly doom is sealed by the process of law, is a most sickening farce, and we believe the law should prohibit any public display by those who would give him a pass port to the pearly gates of the beyond. If a man truly repents and makes his peace with God, it is all right, nobody would forbid, but for a preacher to come forward and say to the world that the criminal awaiting execution has been washed white and is on his way to glory, is thoroughly disgusting. The Herald don't believe a word of it—Hamilton Herald.

It seems as though it is the publicity given to the story by the preacher, rather than the murderer's profession of faith that the Herald objects to it as follows: "If a man truly repents and makes his peace with God it is all right." We know of no one who needs to repent more than the "red-handed murderer" and if he is about to pay the penalty for his crime, it seems to us as though it was a very proper time to get busy with the repenting act. If about to die where would be the benefit in claiming salvation if he does not feel that he is saved? And if he feels this is true why not say so? As for us we can believe the condemned murderer as he goes to the grave easier than we can some church members whose life does not conform with their professions.

THEREFORE SPARE THE CAT

Usefulness of Pussy in Nature is Here Demonstrated in a Large Number of Ways.

A lover of cats makes a new plea for them. He tells us that cats kill the field mice that rob the nest of bumblebees, and the bumblebees fertilize the blossoms of the clover, which feeds the cows that give us milk. Such is the chain of nature that the loss of any link may do grave damage. This is the way of it:
 This is the babe that mother loved.
 This is the milk that nourished the babe that mother loved.
 This is the clover that fed the cow that gave the milk that nourished the babe that mother loved.
 This is the bee that saved the clover that fed the cow that gave the milk that nourished the babe that mother loved.
 This is the mouse that killed the bee that saved the clover that fed the cow that gave the milk that nourished the babe that mother loved.
 This is the cat that ate the mouse that killed the bee that saved the clover that fed the cow that gave the milk that nourished the babe that mother loved.
 Therefore, will mother protect the cat or she will incur a dearer loss than that of the malt in the house that Jack built.—New York Independent.

KNEW HOW TO INTEREST BOY

Such is Youth, That Father's Appeal Was Naturally More Potent Than the Physician's.

"The boy is all right," said the doctor, "but you want to talk to him and arouse his ambition. Promise him that you will take him somewhere when he recovers sufficiently to go out. Talk to him about playing hockey with the fellows. There are lots of ways in which you can interest him."
 Then the doctor addressed the little chap, who was just recovering from the fever, saying:
 "Come, Billy, cheer up. Wouldn't you like to go out and slide on the ice with the other kids?"
 A faint smile stole over the boy's face, but that was all.
 "Wait a minute, doc—I'll rouse him," interrupted the kid's father. "Look here, Bill, how would you like to go out and steal milk bottles off the neighbors' porches, drink all the milk and then smash the bottles in the street so that the automobile tires will explode?"
 The child sat up and asked for his trousers.

THROWN AT HIM

"Fruit is considered healthful."
 "When I was on the stage I occasionally received some that had a very bad effect upon me."

DUTY OF PARENTS.

Summarizing the parents' duties, a writer in the Mothers' Magazine says:
 "To that child they owe the daily revelation of the best of their natures. The child must see that unfaithfulness to its own, to the stranger, to the state and to God is the real working purpose of life, and that love is the handmaiden of loyalty. Then shall constancy unfold within its heart, open with the undying fragrance of the roses of unyielding faith in all that is true."

BURIAL PLACE OF COLUMBUS

Santo Domingans Declare Great Discoverer's Ashes Lie in Their Country.

Santo Domingo expects that it will get a share in the great international commerce that will move through the Panama canal, writes William Joseph Showalter in the National Magazine. Not only will it afford a great highway for its exports and imports, but it will also constitute an important port of call for many kinds of ships.

Here one may see the house of Columbus, and if the conclusions of the priests of Santo Domingo are to be believed, his brother and his son were interred in the cathedral. In after years it was decided to remove the ashes of the discoverer to Havana.

When the Spaniards were fighting in the Spanish-American war they took the bones at Havana back to Spain and interred them there. It is claimed that it has since been demonstrated that those are the bones of his brother.

The Santo Domingans afterwards opened up a leaden casket and in it found the inscription, "Cristobal Colon, first admiral." Other evidence substantiates the claim and was strong enough to convince Secretary Knox that the Dominicans actually possess the real bones of Columbus.

QUESTION OF CHARACTER.

The best farmers in the United States started with less than $1,000—in most cases with less than $20. They were the Irish and German immigrants who went straight from the ship to work as hired men on farms. One of the $15 or $20 a month they got in addition to their board they saved enough to buy a few acres of land. Is the city man of the present generation too weak in fiber, too infirm of purpose, too lacking in endurance and initiative for this process?—Collier's Weekly.

CURIOUS.

 "Strange, when it is such a seine proceeding."

On Cleanup Day!

"Swat the fly" will of course continue to be in order, but the cleanup idea is more of a beginning at the beginning in that the removal of filth and rubbish where flies breed and feed will reduce the number to be swatted, besides improving the appearance and sanitary conditions of any community.

HOW IT BEGAN

A NAKED savage found himself in the greatest danger. A wild beast, hungry and fierce, was about to attack him. Escape was impossible. Retreat was cut off. He must fight for his life, but how? Should he bite, scratch or kick? Should he strike with his fist? These were the natural defenses of his body, but what were they against the teeth, the claws and the tremendous muscles of his enemy? Should he wrench a dead branch from a tree and use it for a club? That would bring him within striking distance, to be torn to pieces before he could deal a second blow.

There was but a moment in which to act. Swiftly he seized a jagged fragment of rock from the ground and hurled it with all his force at the blazing eyes before him, then another and another until the beast, dazed and bleeding from the unexpected blows, fell back and gave him a chance to escape. He knew that he had saved his life, but there was something else which his dull brain failed to realize.

HE HAD INVENTED ARMS AND AMMUNITION!

In other words, he had needed to strike a harder blow than the blow of his fist at a greater distance than the length of his arm, and his brain showed him how to do it. After all, what is a modern rifle but a device which man has made with his brain, permitting him to strike an enormously hard blow at a wonderful distance? Firearms are really but a more perfect form of stone throwing, and this early cave man took the first step that has led down the ages to present day arms and ammunition.

This strange story of a development that has been taking place slowly through thousands and thousands of years, so that today you are able to take a swift shot at distant game instead of merely throwing stones—this story we shall briefly tell.

The Earliest Hunters. The cave man and his descendants learned the valuable lesson of stone throwing, and it made hunters of them, not big game hunters—that was far too risky. But once in a while a lucky throw might bring down a bird or a rabbit for food. And so it went on for centuries perhaps. Early mankind was rather slow of thought.

At last, however, there appeared a great inventor—the Edison of his day. He added the second link—the sling.

The Use of Slings. The new weapon worked with great success, and a little practice made expert marksmen. We know that most of the early races used it for hunting and in war. We find it shown in pictures made many thousands of years ago in ancient Egypt and Assyria. We find it in the Roman army, where the slingman was called a "funditor." We find it in the Bible, where it is written of the tribe of Benjamin: "Among all these people there were seven hundred chosen men left handed; EVERY ONE COULD SLING A STONE AT AN HAIR BREADTH AND NOT MISS." Surely, too, you remember the story of David and Goliath when the young shepherd "prevailed over the Philistine WITH A SLING AND WITH A STONE."

Something Better. Yet they had their drawbacks. A stone sling might kill a bird or even a man, but it was not very effective against big game. What was wanted was a missile to pierce a thick hide. So through long years of groping for "something better" the bow and arrow was evolved and played a most important part in the development of arms and ammunition in many lands.

A Shooting Machine. But the age of machinery was coming on. Once in a while there were glimpses of more powerful and complicated devices to be seen among the many forms in which the bow and arrow were constructed.

A new weapon now came to the center of the stage. It was the crossbow, the first real hand shooting machine. This was another big step toward the day of the rifle. The idea was simple enough. Wooden bows had already been made as strong as the strongest man could pull, and they wished for still stronger ones—steel ones. How could they pull them? At first they mounted them upon a wooden frame and rested one end on the shoulder for a brace. Then they took to pressing the other end against the ground and using both hands. Next it was a bright idea to put a stirrup on this end in order to hold it with the foot. Still they were not satisfied. "Stronger, stronger!" they clamored. "Let us try mechanics!"

So they attached levers, pulleys, ratchets and windlasses until at last they reached the size of the great siege crossbows, weighing eighteen pounds. These sometimes needed a force of 1,200 pounds to draw back the string to its catch, but how they could shoot! Notice the pictures of the crossbows and you will see that now the weapons began to look a little like guns as we know them. They had shoulder pieces.

And Now For Chemistry. Human muscle seemed to have reached its limit, mechanics seemed to have

THE ROMANCE OF MODERN ARMS

A Refusal and What Came of It.

TWO men, a smith and his son, both named Elphalet Remington, in 1816 were working busily one day at their forge in beautiful Ilion gorge when, so tradition says, the son asked his father for money to buy a rifle and met with a refusal. The request was natural, for the surrounding hills were full of game. The father must have had his own reasons for refusing, but—IT MADE REMINGTON ARMS!

Elphalet junior closed his firm jaws tightly and began collecting scrap iron on his own account. This he welded skillfully into a gun barrel, walked fifteen miles to Utica to have it rifled and finally had a weapon of which he might well be proud.

In reality it was such a very good gun that soon the neighbors ordered others like it, and before long the Remington forge found itself hard at work to meet the increasing demand. Several times each week the stalwart young manufacturer packed a load of gun barrels upon his back and tramped all the way to Utica, where a gunsmith rifled and finished them. At this time there were no real gun factories in America, although gunsmiths were located in most of the larger towns. All

ANNUAL CLEANUP CAMPAIGN IS A NEW FORCE FOR IMPROVEMENT

"Banish Dirt and Starve the Fly!" What Some Cities Have Accomplished by Their Crusades
 Is the Slogan of the Movement. on Waste Materials.

BANISH dirt and starve the fly! That is the slogan of the new "annual cleanup" movement, which already has been productive of great good in many towns and cities and is rapidly assuming national proportions.

Among the large cities which have put the cleanup idea into effect this year with pronounced results are New York, Washington, Philadelphia, Chicago and St. Paul. Each had a cleanup week, during which the citizens literally rolled up their sleeves and made the dirt fly.

The cleanup activities, however, have not been confined to large cities. Scores of communities from cities to hamlets have gone systematically about beautifying and purifying the places that were eyesores and breeders of germs, and children as well as older folks have taken part in the work.

In some places certain holidays were made the occasion of cleanups. An instance of this was in Port Washington, N. Y., where the children made a cleanup day of Arbor day and literally scoured the town. The boy scouts have proved very effective in the annual cleanup work.

A vigorous campaign against dirt was carried on in Philadelphia and adjacent cities. In some of the smaller cities in that district the improvement was truly remarkable.

Attics were depleted of long stored up treasures, such as broken rocking horses, chairs with one leg missing, pieces of broken china, for long years awaiting the mender's magic hand, old clothes, books, toys and dust accumulators of all descriptions.

Cellars were whitewashed and musty corners ventilated. No heaps of ashes were left in the back yards to offend the eyesight, and the prowling cat now seeks there in vain for the friendly pile of tin cans on which to mount as he walls his mournful night song.

Philadelphia's cleanup week were destroyed when the accumulated filth was burned in big bonfires. Tons of waste material were piled on the city dumps, and the fire department was put in charge of the work of burning.

It was thought best to burn up all the waste material at once in order to wipe out danger of infection from disease germs that might spread over the city.

Computations made by employees of the bureau of highways show that the total amount of waste to be removed for the entire week was about 50,000 cubic yards. The usual weekly deliveries at the dump piles from ash and waste collections is about 35,000 cubic yards.

The total extra collections for the first three days of the week were about 8,290 cubic yards of rubbish and ashes. One hundred extra teams were put on and carted away 600 loads of waste one day in addition to the regular collections. Seventy-five extra helpers were needed.

One of the most noteworthy incidents recorded was in Germantown, at the Chelten avenue station of the Pennsylvania railroad. Here are several vacant lots adjoining each other and upon which had been piled waste material from hundreds of nearby homes. An army of citizens attacked the place one morning, and when the sun went down that night women and children were found planting grass seed and flowers.

The area was first denuded of all refuse. Then horses and plows cut long furrows, which were made smooth with harrows.

Another spot renovated was a vacant lot at Hunting Park avenue and Schuyler street, which is owned by the city. It required hours to put the place in condition, and in all more than twenty-five loads of waste materials were carted away.

What St. Paul Did.

The campaign against dirt in St. Paul was especially thorough. Through the co-operation of the civic organizations the city authorities and the schools a transformation was wrought that satisfied the most sanguine promoter of the plan inaugurated to make St. Paul the "Spotless Town" of the great north west. Since then the city officials and the publicity department of the association of commerce have been besieged with inquiries from other cities as to how it was accomplished.

Those in charge of the organization believe that, while it is impossible to overestimate the value of the personal service rendered by the cleanup committee from the various associations, the master stroke was the enlisting of the services of the school children. The publicity committee of the association of commerce obtained permission of the public and parochial school authorities to supply cards to all pupils and posters for all class rooms.

The cards bore a brief cleanup statement and the following items for the children to check off as they did the work around their homes:

- First—Picked up sticks and boards in front and back yards.
- Second—Picked up all cans in front and back yards.
- Third—Picked up all papers in front and back yards.
- Fourth—Raked the front yard and sidewalk strips.
- Fifth—Raked the back yard.
- Sixth—Made one neat pile in the alley of all the rubbish.
- Seventh—Repaired the fence.

These cards were returned to the teachers, who say they got virtually all of them back properly checked and signed by the pupils and their parents. The teachers referred to the virtue and value of cleanliness at the opening exercises each day, and all the time the children had hung before them the cleanup poster in colors, showing the contrast between an ill kept, dirty, disease breeding yard and a profitable back yard garden.

The children's example caused their parents to become interested, and the movement from the schools attained wonderful proportions.

Many Clubs Helped.

The other main agency that contributed to the success of cleanup week was the assistance rendered by the commercial clubs and improvement societies of the city.

In the downtown districts the local division of the Association of Commerce, consisting of 120 members, was formed into a cleanup organization.

MAN PERISHES IN WOODS

Body of Brooklynite Found by Hunters Near Greenwood Lake—Died of Heart Disease.

Paterson, N. J.—In the thick woods near Greenwood lake, hunters came across the body of Richard Duryea of Brooklyn. Dr. Robert Armstrong, county physician, who viewed the body, said that death was probably due to heart disease and exposure. It is believed that Duryea, who had gone to visit his brother, got off at the wrong station and lost his way.

At first the police were inclined to believe that the man had been slain, but this theory was quickly dispelled when $54 and a valuable diamond ring were found on him. The police then became satisfied that the man had wandered into the woods and had failed to find his way out. The place where the body was found is seldom visited by anyone else than hunters.

Duryea was 49 years old. He lived with his wife, Mrs. Margaret Duryea, at 216 Stuyvesant avenue, Brooklyn.

SYSTEM AT MONTE CARLO

Wells, Accused of Wholesale Swindling, Broke the Famous Bank Ten Times.

Paris.—Counsel for "Monte Carlo Wells," the man who "broke the bank," has told how his client meant to procure the 1 per cent per day he promised to the 1,200 customers of his Rente Himensuelle. In connection with which he is accused of wholesale swindling.

Wells, according to his counsel, noticed that a regular recurring series of reds and blacks at the Monte Carlo roulette tables hardly ever lasted beyond the twentieth time and resolved to back the contrary color the twenty-first time. If he failed he doubled his stake and again backed the contrary color and so on until he won.

A regular series of red and black alternating twenty times very rarely happened, so Wells worked out a table of regular alternations, such as red twice and black once recurring in every twenty times.

His table gave him 12,900 different series of alternations. He used to arrive at the opening of the rooms at Monte Carlo with his secretaries and watch the run of the colors. The moment he saw that one series of alternations indicated in his table had set in, the number of times it came up was noted, and at its twentieth appearance Wells placed his money on the contrary color to that which was due and played until he won. This system, he said, enabled him to break the bank ten times and he won $400,000 in 1891. He also won $35,000 in March last year.

Care in Spraying.

In spraying the cows, be careful that a generous quantity of the solution is put on their backs, especially just behind the shoulders, since at these points it is difficult for the animals to brush off the flies.

BLAME FLEAS FOR REBELLION

Science Spots Real Cause of Mexico's Plight—How Indians Mix Piety With Booze and Roulette.

Mexico City.—Following a line of reasoning based upon many years of experience, scientists announce that the real cause of the revolutionary fever in Latin-American republics is not the desire for glory on the battlefield, but is lodged in the ever-present flea. It is asserted that sleep, undisturbed by ravages of parasites, is practically unknown in Mexico, and the states further south. For this reason, entomologists contend that the explosive temperament of the average Latin-American is in part, if not wholly, due to the fact that restful slumber departed from the country long before the conquest. The scientists assert that no nation can be great whose sleep is broken into fitful snoozes. The average Mexican is certain to arise in the morning nursing a spirit of murder in his heart because his nightly visitants have undetermined his chivalry until he is unconsciously transformed into a fiend incarnate, especially if brought under the influence of Zapata, the so-called Atilla of the South. Americans living in Mexican territory readily subscribe to this theory, as woe of experience has taught them that the habitual loss of sleep is not conducive to the higher life. One of the political slogans of the successful party in the future will be that "the flea and all his tribe must go before peace reigns again."

FLORA BEDS PLANTED

Everything was made clean and beautiful. The grass in all the lawns was mowed, hedges and borders trimmed with nicety and hundreds of flower beds planted. Not a scrap of flying paper nor an unnecessary clod of dirt was left to mar the perfect cleanliness of these progressive towns, which determined to be clean, really and truly clean, and whose citizens, men, women and children, all added their quota to the work of "cleaning up."

The movement was started by a league of prominent residents, who three years ago formed an association having for its object the civic betterment of their respective towns.

Millions of disease germs permeating refuse matter gathered during Philadelphia's cleanup week were destroyed when the accumulated filth was burned in big bonfires. Tons of waste material were piled on the city dumps, and the fire department was put in charge of the work of burning.
