THE AMERICAN'S CREED
I believe in the United States of America as a government of the people, by the people, for the people; whose just powers are derived from the consent of the governed; a democracy in a republic; a sovereign nation of many sovereign states; a perfect union, one and inseparable; established upon those principles of freedom, equality, justice and humanity for which American patriots sacrificed their lives and fortunes. I therefore believe it is my duty to my country to love it; to support its constitution; to obey its laws; to respect its flag, and to defend it against all enemies.

GOVERNMENT AIDING WHEAT GROWERS IN HARVEST CRISIS

LABOR DEPARTMENT MAKES EFFORT TO FURNISH MEN IN WESTERN STATES

AGENTS ARE WORKING HARD

Director Says Grain Crop Will Be Gathered Despite Shortage of Labor

Washington.—The Government, through the Labor Department, is making a determined effort to furnish hands to harvest the wheat and corn crops in the West, where farmers are already depressed because of recent successive drops in the grain market.

A cure is also being sought by various Government agencies for the general farm labor shortage, which is rapidly becoming a serious national problem.

Francis I. Jones, director of the employment service of the Department of Labor, is superintending the drive to secure farm hands in the West. Working under him are thirty field agents, who follow the harvest and co-operate with the farmers. Bureaus are located at central points and serve as clearing houses.

"The crop is going to be harvested all right," Jones said, speaking of the coming harvesting in North and South Dakota and Montana, where serious labor shortages have been reported. "We will get the hands. I'll guarantee the job will be finished."

The harvesting has already been practically completed in the Southern and middle States of the wheat belt and is now well under way in Nebraska. Jones called attention to the success in Kansas, in spite of distressing conditions brought about by the floods.

He is now centering his efforts in the Dakotas and Montana, where work will soon begin. Special bureaus have been established in these States. If necessary, extra field workers will be added, Jones said.

Efforts of the I. W. W. to hold up harvesting will not hinder the job being completed, he said. The I. W. W. has asked $5 a day. As yet, no general price has been fixed in the northern States, Jones said. The pay was $4 in Kansas and Nebraska. The Labor Department does not interfere with wage fixing, Jones said, however, that workers will be secured even if the I. W. W. holds its men out.

BAKER SAYS EUROPE SET FOR WORLD WAR

Fires First Gun in Attempt to Get Nation League Signers

Cleveland, Ohio.—Europe is now more nearly ready for world war than it was in 1914. Newton D. Baker told an audience of women gathered here to hear the former Secretary of War and others outlined the purposes of the League of Nations Nonpartisan Association. It was the first gun fired here in an attempt to obtain signers to a petition that the United States enter a League of Nations.

"When we present to the President and Senate 10,000 names, or 100,000 names, or 1,000,000 names of those who want America to join a League of Nations they will listen," Mr. Baker declared.

"Europe is now more nearly ready for world war than it was in 1914, so far as underlying causes are concerned," Mr. Baker added. "I can not see how it can be prevented, unless some substitute is found."

"If the devil has it in his heart to let forth upon the human race more deadly instruments of destruction than were used in the last terrible war, it means international suicide so far as the civilized nations are concerned."

"America must do her part in a big way in concert with the other nations of the world to prevent an international war. I believe that way will be the League of Nations, with reservations to protect the liberty of the United States."

Slays Jews in Thracean Fight. Athens.—Six Jews have been killed in eastern Thrace in clashes with Turks. It has been reported here. Inquiry Requested. Port Arthur, Texas.—Investigation into alleged mistreatment of members of the transport workers' division of the I. W. W. here was requested of State officials about ten days ago by John Shruskie, New York secretary of the transport workers' organization. His request is based on reports that John Holland, an organizer, and one or two other members of the I. W. W. had been mistreated by a mob.

WHEAT GROWERS PROBLEM DISCUSSED

Agriculture Secretary Declares Overproduction Cause of European Farmers

AGENTS ARE WORKING HARD

Director Says Grain Crop Will Be Gathered Despite Shortage of Labor

Wichita, Kan.—The remedy for the unfavorable conditions existing among wheat growers must come through diversification of farming and not through legislation. J. C. Mohler, secretary of the State Board of Agriculture, told hundreds of farmers from five hard-wheat producing States in session here.

The only hope for the wheat grower, who now is facing an over-supplied market, is to lessen the supply, Mohler declared.

Overproduction, he said, can be laid largely at the door of the European farmer, who turned to wheat growing during the war.

"The European market has diminished and the hope to increase domestic consumption to absorb the realization is futile," Mohler said. "Therefore, the only hope of the farmer is through effective management of his land."

Statistics show that wheat farmers in Kansas alone during the last ten years have sown 19,245,000 acres of wheat that was never harvested, the agricultural head said. This loss, added to the others when prices drop below cost of production, proves too great a burden for the farmer to bear.

Mohler believes the existent price of wheat will eventually act as a regulator for the extent of production, but said this will take time.

"Legislative enactments can not fully remedy the trouble," Mohler said. "National and State policies of administration may lessen it, but they can not cure. Co-operation is a corrective, but can not alone reach the seat of trouble. Special campaigns to induce larger home consumption can have little visible effect, and all of these agencies, working together, can only modify the symptoms."

Delegates considered the suggestion of Gov. Jonathan Davis of Kansas, that farmers urge a "sell-off strike," but no definite plans for complying with it were formed.

Farm clubs, granges, co-operative associations and other farm organizations of Kansas, Texas, Oklahoma, Nebraska and Colorado were represented at the meeting.

NEFF AND PARKER ARE HOLDING CONFERENCE

Governors of Texas and Louisiana Will Discuss Boll Weevil.

New Orleans, La.—The first important conference since the nationwide fight on the boll weevil was planned will be held when Gov. Pat Neff of Texas and Gov. Parker of Louisiana meet the Louisiana Bankers' Association committee and others interested in the campaign at the Cotton Exchange.

Gov. Neff has just arrived from Cuba. His State is the biggest cotton producer in the Union and he is interested in the fight.

Claude Reeves, president of the Bankers' Association, will preside at the meeting. The Louisiana bankers conceived and are directing the campaign, which is receiving the attention of important commercial interests all over the world.

The conference which will be held in preliminary to the big convention which will be held in New Orleans Sept. 19 and 20. This convention is expected to sound the death knell of the weevil, which has threatened to destroy the cotton industry of the South. The cotton business so widely affects the nation at large until public officers, bankers, farm implement manufacturers, planters, brokers, shippers, spinners and many other interests from one end of the nation to the other have signified their intention to come to the convention.

Board to Receive High Salary. Austin, Texas.—A misapprehension exists as to the pay to be received by the board to codify the laws of Texas. The chairman will be paid at the rate of $7,500 per annum and the other two members $4,000 yearly. The first amount is more than any of the higher court judges receives and will be drawn by Charles H. Jenkins, now an Associate Justice of the Third Court of Civil Appeals. The board will meet in Austin on the first Monday of August and the salaries are to run two years.

Showers at Tlago. Tlago, Grayson Co., Texas.—Light showers over this locality relieved the intense heat and will be of vast benefit to cotton and corn.

Mexicali, Lower California.—Orders from the Federal Court at Tia Juana, Lower California, for the arrest of Mayor Juan Loera and all of his political supporters, who were involved in the shooting affray in the city hall of Mexicali recently, when three members of the police department were killed and several other persons wounded, including Loera, has been received here.

PRES. HARDING SEES MIDNIGHT SUN

Inspects Reindeer, McKinley Park, Drives Gold Spike at Tanana Rail Keystone

Fairbanks, Alaska.—President Harding has reached a point further north than any other American President has ever been, with his arrival in Fairbanks, he was within 150 miles of the Arctic circle. His arrival here marked the end of a two and one-half days' ride over the government railroad from Seward.

The weather was ideal on the last day of the 450-mile rail trip, the warm July sun bringing the temperature above 80. The sun was still shining brightly when the party arrived here and the members came to a full realization that they were in the land of the midnight sun, as daylight is continuous here at this time of year.

The day's ride started at Broad Pass, on the summit of the Alaska range, where the train had been parked overnight. After leaving Broad Pass, Mount McKinley came into view, its lofty white crest rising in majestic grandeur above the other peaks and dominating the landscape, although 60 miles distant from the railroad.

The peak, which is higher than any other on the continent, was seen to the best advantage, amid a cloudless sky.

Arriving at Cantwell, the party left the train and soon over a nearby hill appeared a herd of 1,000 reindeer, a portion of the 300,000 which have been developed in 25 years by the bureau of agriculture from the original 1,000 imported from Siberia and Lapland. President and Mrs. Harding, viewing the sight, said "that herd would gladden the hearts of the American children and pull all Santa Claus' sleighs to their homes on Christmas."

Passing along the edge of McKinley Park, the train arrived late in the day at the Tanana bridge, where President Harding drove a gold spike, significant of the connection of steel joining the Pacific and Arctic oceans, through navigation of the Yukon river.

Acting Governor Davidson sent a cordial invitation to General J. J. Associate Justice Jenkins, named to head the board to codify the laws of Texas, said the board will have its first meeting in Austin on Aug. 6 and arrange to start the work. It has two years to complete the codification. The last revisions were made in 1911 and 1895.

Acting Governor Davidson says he would issue some pardons, a few; but that he had not granted any thus far. He has been besieged the last two days by five Governors have, by persons seeking pardons. His announcement is the first intimation that he would grant any pardons during his temporary incumbency.

Comptroller Smith said he did not know who asked the Attorney General for an opinion as to whether the State Board of Education must meet on the 10th of each month, but as a member of the board, he would say that it is not going to meet until Gov. Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Health Worcester, Mass.—"I had a trouble caused by a female weakness and got so weak and thin that I could hardly stand on my feet. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as I call it, helped me. I opened to my friend who had taken it, and she told me to try it. I would try it. I took it for a week and now I feel fine and am doing all my household, including washing, ironing and house cleaning. I have renewed my vigor and I am willing to say as a testimonial, as I would like to see any one suffering the way I did, to get a weakness."—Mrs. Della Hicks, 5 Lindlow St., Worcester, Mass.

Baby Ceased to Fret After He Had Teething

"When my baby began to cut teeth he was so fretful and feverish I couldn't do a thing with him. I took all my time to nurse him. I couldn't look after my husband and my baby. I bought a box of Mott's Teething Tablets. I gave him Teething Tablets and he stopped fretting and has given me little trouble since."

Teething is far superior to using syrups and similar preparations for quieting a fretful child. It contains no opiates and is therefore perfectly harmless. Weak, fretful children thrive on it and doctors recommend it.

Teething can be had at six stores or send 30c to the Mott's Teething Tablets, Columbus, Ga., and receive a large package and a free copy of Mott's Illustrated Baby Book (advertisement).

However, the other men laughed.—Exchange.

American Surgeon Honored in Europe

Dr. William J. Mayo, famous surgeon and head of the Mayo clinic at Rochester, Minn., is over in Europe this summer, attending surgical conventions, receiving honorary degrees and enjoying himself generally. Before he sailed he visited Montreal, where he was given the degree of Doctor of Laws by McGill university. At Trinity college, Dublin, he was made a Master of Surgery; and the University of Leeds gave him the degree of Doctor of Science. In London he attended the surgical congress of the Royal Society of Medicine, and later he read a paper on modern surgery before the International Surgical congress.

Interviewed on reported cures for cancer, Dr. Mayo said: "We oftentimes hear of so-called cures, but absolute cure is still far ahead. Few things, however, are improbable. There may eventually be a relief has not been reached. The span of life in the last sixty years has increased from forty to fifty years on the average," said the surgeon. "An increase of twelve years in span. As cancer usually strikes the body after forty years of age this fully accounts for the seeming increase of cancer. Heretofore people died of ailments before forty, or before the time when cancer usually begins to show."

Selected the Third Bishop of Washington

In his earlier years a railway accountant, Rev. Dr. James E. Freeman was elected, at the age of fifty-five, to be the third bishop of Washington, a place of high honor for which fellow ministers and the Protestant church generally think he well qualified. In his new position he will be the head of the wonderful cathedral which is being built in the city capital.

Bishop Freeman was born in New York and after passing through the schools he spent fifteen years in the legal and accounting departments of the Long Island and New Central railways. The late Bishop C. Potter of New York had a great interest in the young man and induced him to enter the ministry, personally supervising his studies in that direction. In 1894 he was ordained deacon and the next year made a priest, and after two years as assistant in St. John's church, Tonkers, he became rector of St. Andrew's Memorial church of that city. From 1910 until 1921 he was rector of St. Paul's church in Minneapolis, and then went to Epiphany church, Washington. During the years of his ministry Bishop Freeman has done a lot of notable work and founded and developed workingmen's clubs and has served as arbitrator in various labor disputes. He is also the author of several volumes of sermons and poetry.

Gayety Girl, Now in Parliament

Not so many years ago one of the popular young women of the Gayety theater in London was Mabel Russell, known as "the girl with the prehistoric eyes." The other day, as Mrs. Hilton Phillipson, she took her seat in the house of commons—the seat from which her husband, Captain Phillipson, had been ousted because his agent had violated the corrupt practices act in the campaign.

The former Gayety girl had counted a lot on being the wife of a successful politician, and when the Captain was ousted, through no fault of his own, she determined to keep the career in the family. So she went to the Conservative headquarters in London, presented her case to her old friend, Col. Leslie Wilson, chief whip of the party, used her "prehistoric eyes" and her famous smile, and won the support of the party. In the election she was victorious over two opposing candidates and she did it! There were white Peter Pan collars. There was, too, a knowledge of men and women, and a social ability of no mean order, which, having served its purpose on the stage, was now to find expression in life.

She wore the same frock, the same Peter Pan collar when she was introduced into the house of commons. Lady Astor gave her a reassuring smile, but she never laughed and called across to the peer's wife: "Over up."

Explorer of the Chaco Canyon

Merton Judd, director of the Buhlton expedition of the National Geographic society, has resumed the exploration of the prehistoric ruins of Chaco Canyon, New Mexico. The expedition was directed to determine the supply of this aboriginal civilization. The house of 900 rooms, containing the most important remains of the United States. The expedition is also seeking to learn the reasons why the ruins were abandoned. The village, now 40 miles distant from the site, has been dated as being several years before Columbus discovered America. If all rooms were occupied, it housed between 1,500 and 2,000 persons.

Judd, who was born in New York in 1887 and was educated in New York and George Washington university, is one of the leading archeologists of America. After engaging in various expeditions in Utah, Arizona and New Mexico, he joined the staff of the National Geographic society and became successively its assistant secretary and curator of American archeology. He was also the director of the Navajo National Monument in Arizona in 1918, and has conducted various expeditions with

Dr. William J. Mayo, famous surgeon and head of the Mayo clinic at Rochester, Minn., is over in Europe
this summer, attending surgical conventions, receiving honorary degrees and enjoying himself generally. Before he sailed he visited Montreal,
where he was given the degree of Doctor of Laws by McGill university. At Trinity college, Dublin, he was made a Master of Surgery; and the University of Leeds gave him the degree of Doctor of Science. In London he attended the surgical congress of the Royal Society of Medicine, and later
he read a paper on modern surgery before the International Surgical congress.

Interviewed on reported cures for cancer, Dr. Mayo said:

"I've oftentimes heard of so-called cures, but absolute cure is still far ahead. Few things, however, are improbable. There may eventually be a cure. As far as I know, this relief has not been reached.
The average life in the last sixty years has increased from forty to fifty-five years. An increase of twelve years is not a small thing. As cancer usually strikes the body after forty years of age this prolongation of life is a very important factor. Heretofore people died before forty, or before the time when cancer usually begins

Third Bishop of Washington

Dr. James E. Freeman
passed, at the age of fifty-
three, the third bishop of Washington and the Protestant episcopate generally think him a great loss. In his new position as the head of the wonderful church which is being built in the capital.

Dr. Freeman was born in New York after passing through the college he spent fifteen years in the Long Island and New York railroads. The late Bishop C. Peter of New York had great interest in the young man and induced him to enter the ministry. In 1884 he was ordained and the next year became a priest, and after two years in St. John's church, Yonkers, he became rector of St. Anthony's church of that city. From 1910 until 1921 he was rector of St. Ignace church in Minneapolis, and then went to Epiphany church, Washington. In the years of his ministry Bishop Freeman has done a lot of notable work and developed workmen's clubs and has served as arbitrator in labor disputes. He is also the author of several volumes of poetry.

Gaiety Girl, Now in Parliament

Not so many years ago one of the popular young women of the Gaiety
theater in London was Mabel Russell, known as "the girl with the prehensive eyes." The other day, as Mrs.
Hilton Phillipson, the seat from the house of commons—the seat from which her husband, Captain Phillipson, had been ousted because his agent had violated the corrupt practices act in the campaign.

The former Gaiety girl had counted a lot on being the wife of a successful politician, and when the Captain was unseated, through no fault of his own, she determined to keep the career in the family. So she went to the Conservative headquarters in London, presented her case to her old friend, Col. Leslie Wilson, chief whip of the party, used her "prehensive eyes" and her famous smile, and won the support of the party. In the election she was victor over two oppositionists in the world did she do it? There were two Pan collars. There was, too, a knowledge of men and women, and a desire of no mean order, which, having served its purpose on the stage, found expression in life.

During the last season Queen Mary privately told the Duchess of Con-

The duchess thereupon arranged a grand reception at which the news was prince, instead of coming, sent the Duke of York, to whom he said:

am here; but if they must have a

Explorer of the Chaco Canyon

Dr. Fredson T. Bowers, director of the

Dr. Bowers was born in Ne-

ENGLAND WORRIES OVER HER BACHELOR HEIR APPARENT

by JOHN DICKINSON SHERMAN
HERE is a short cablegram
from London that might be expanded to a page article, since it deals with a situation that quite up-sets the Britishers and is causing an international comment.

"A flurry of criticism
was aroused today by an exhibition of caricatures by Max Beerboom. One depicted the Prince of Wales, aged and bearded, marrying the daughter of an English lordly. The time of the supposed marriage was set in 1972. It is entitled:
"Long choosing and beginning late."

"The basis for the caricature is the Prince of Wales' apparent aversion to marriage. There was, however, a storm of protest from press and public and the caricature was withdrawn."

The Weekly Aux Ecoutes of Paris
prints a story in which it says on "inside authority" that the Prince of Wales has decided to renounce the throne in favor of the Duke of York.
"Wed? Not even for a crown!" is practically the attitude of the Prince of Wales, according to Aux Ecoutes, which says, among other things:

"Queen Mary is insistent that he marry, but the prince will not. He especially since during his voyage to India his parents married off his sister, Princess Mary, whom he desired practically the wife of his friend and comrade, Lord Louis Mountbatten, to Lord Lascelles. The prince did not even send a wedding present to his sister.

And so on to a revue, some bright and tuneful mental narcotic. One show, called the 'Nine o'Clock Revue,' he has seen 16 times in three months, always sitting in the stalls and never in a bers of the company, or else standing sip-ping at the bar. All excellent stuff, but think of Buckingham palace! Twelve young actress, such as Beatrice Lillie.

All excellent stuff—but think of Buckingham palace! And so to bed, sometimes in St. James' palace, sometimes

Of course all this has its amusing side, especially to an American. "Still,"
says the New York Times, "one cannot avoid the fact that the Prince of Wales is half-apparent to the throne of some importance in the world," and the Times goes on to say:
"The Duke of York has lived hitherto with his parents. The prince has traveled, perhaps too much. Never resting, the restless instinct has been overdeveloped. For years at a time he has wandered homeless, doing his bit. He is so utterly popular, in the public esteem, there are now no new worlds for him to conquer. He has already exhausted all the first thrills of kingship. He has passed beyond the illusions."
So, under the circumstances, it is not to be wondered that the British public is asking in whispers: "What is behind it all?"
It's a fair question. Is this young prince, who seemed destined to be the idol of his countrymen, merely a lightweight, an idler? Those who know him well say he is not. They assert that he's the stuff of which real leaders are made. Why, then, his shirking of his obvious duty, as the British public sees that duty?
London sees no answer to this question. It whispers about a possible unfortunate affair of the heart,
but cannot find the lady in the case.
Finally, the speculation gets down
to this: Does His Royal Highness
the Prince of Wales really want to ascend the throne?

Blackberry Plants Need Cultivation in Summer

Blackberry plants should be kept cultivated during the entire summer and where they are kept cultivated the sprouts will be kept down in the middle of the row.
If you have not already begun to top
the young shoots or canes of the blackberry plants you should do so when they reach a height of two and a half or three feet. This can be done readily by going through the patch and pinching out the tops while the sprouts are young and tender. It will be necessary to go through the patch several times during the summer in order to pinch
the plants back when they have reached the proper height.
This pinching back will cause the plants to branch and be stocky, better able to resist the winds, and will increase the fruiting wood for another year.
The canes which bear the fruit any one season die at the close of the harvest. The time to remove these old canes depends on the location or ex-posure of the planting. Ordinarily the recommendations are to remove the old canes at the end of harvest, but practice has demonstrated that in exposed windy localities the old canes protect the young tender shoots from injury
by the wind. In cases other than this, remove the old canes at the close of harvest.—By D. C. Mooring, Extension Horticulturist, Oklahoma A. and M.
College.

Spray for Cherry Slugs

With Arsenate of Lead

The eggs from which the slugs that infest the cherry and plum leaves hatch are deposited by a black four-winged fly about as large as a common house fly. The eggs are laid one in a place and are then thrust just beneath the epidermis of the leaf, making a pimple about the size of a small pinhead.
The slugs are easily destroyed by spraying with arsenate of lead, or white hellebore, as soon as they begin to appear. If there are cherries I would not advise using the arsenate of lead late in the season, on account of the danger of poisoning those who eat
the fruit. The white hellebore, lightly dusted over the leaves, or put in water in the proportion of an ounce to 3 gallons, and sprayed on the leaves, will kill the slugs and not poison those who eat the cherries.
The slugs may also be killed by spraying with Black-Leaf 40, a good poisonful to a gallon of water, or a pint in 100 gallons.—C. P. Gillette, Colorado State Entomologist.

Fourth Spray Helps in Controlling Apple Pest

R. S. Mackintosh, specialist in horticulture for the agricultural extension division of Minnesota university, sends out notice that the fourth spray
to assist in controlling the apple mag-got should be applied about July 20.
As the adult flies do not all appear at the same time, it is necessary to keep the foliage covered with poison.
Ordinarily it is advisable, says Mr.
Mackintosh, to leave a few trees un-sprayed in order to check up results,
but with the apple maggot it is safer to spray all the trees. If there is sufficient arsenate of lead present,
the insects are killed.
Minnesota orchardists are showing a preference for the standard liquid lime sulphur, says Mr. Mackintosh.
"One of our orchardists used the liquid last season while his neighbors used the dry," he says, "but they lost
so much from the scab that this year they are using the liquid. It has been found necessary in Michigan orchards to use five or six pounds of the dry per 50 gallons of water to equal the liquid."

Proper Thinning Tends to Improve Apple Crop

Proper thinning reduces the number,
but the remaining fruit becomes so much larger in size that the yield is practically as much. Besides this the fruit is nearly all marketable at a good price.
Thin apples when about one inch in diameter, removing all apples at the ends of branches. Where two or more apples are attached to the same fruit
spur, only the best one should be left.
If the spurs are too close together, remove all the apples from some of them, so that the fruit is five, six and sometimes eight inches apart. Always remove the smallest and most inferior fruit.
Some do all the thinning by hand,
twisting the apples off backward, being careful not to injure the one that remains. This tedious job is aided by a pair of thinning shears, especially when the fruit is thick, as the apples can be clipped off without disturbing others.

Potatoes Help Trees

If you can possibly spare them, put a few potatoes under each tree around the roots. The rotting potatoes furnish moisture and some plant food.
They grow, let them, but do not attempt to dig the potatoes.

Central Fire Blight

Fire blight is easier to control than most people believe, only it requires the utmost vigilance and careful watching, together with the prompt removal of all blighted limbs as soon as they appear.

A KNOCKER

When the creator had made all things, there was still more work to do, so he made the beasts and reptiles and poisonous insects, and when he had finished he still had some scraps that were too bad to put into the rattlesnakes, the hyena, the scorpion, and the skunk, so he put these together, covered it with suspicion, wrapped it in jealousy, marked it with a yellow streak and called it—A KNOCKER.

Twenty years ago Henry Ford was a man without means or influence, but he designed and made a little Ford car for the poor folks and today he is, perhaps, the richest man in the world and if every voter who rides in a Ford car should vote for him next year he will come near being elected President of the United States. No one can tell what the future holds for the boy of today who has grit, determination and stickability.—Panhandle Herald.

Three or four cows, two or three good brood sows and a hundred or so hens and the farmer has his living at home, with the crops on the side for velvet.—Littlefield Leader.

The hen, cow and sow program is the Scurry county program. Some twelve months ago the Snyder Chamber of Commerce set this as its slogan "100 hens, three cows, and four sows," as its aim. Since then hundreds of towns have adopted this slogan and are boosting the hen, cow and sow program. The real idea is more living at home. Diversification is being pushed more and more in this country. Diversification will lift the farmer from a state of dependency to one of independence. The hen, cow and sow go fine on the farm, they are the foundation of the farmer's living.—Snyder Times.

When the citizens of Lynn County built the splendid Court House that stands as a beautiful monument to their sagacity, why did they saddle a bonded indebtedness upon the next generation to pay for it? How much of the indebtedness for the erection of your well-appointed public school building will the next generation have to settle? May not similar questions be asked regarding payment for all of your public buildings and utilities? No sane-thinking man questions the wisdom that you manifested in extending payment for these things over a long period of years. Why not? Simply because only the investment of immediately available funds would not provide for present needs, much less for future needs. It would be a serious reflection on our wisdom, and criminal injustice to your children to not anticipate their needs, even if they do have to help pay the indebtedness entailed.

When we build permanent buildings in which to worship God, are we not proving the above scripture, and emphasizing the fact that we are criminally short-sighted? Is it any greater crime to let the coming generation help pay for the erection of adequate church buildings, than to bond them to help pay out other public enterprises? When your children come to consider your wise provision in providing these public utilities, will they be impressed that you have sought first the Kingdom of God, both for yourselves and for them, or will it be just the reverse? Remember that your impressions upon them are indelible.—Rev. J. T. Howell in Tahoka Methodist.

The Harvester Company's attitude in regard to the petition just filed against it by the government in the United States district court at St. Paul, Minn., is set forth in a statement by Alexander Legge, President of the company, which has been received by Mr. W. A. Fisk, Branch Manager of the International Harvester Company of America in Amarillo, Texas. Mr. Legge's statement says: "This petition is a continuation of the suit brought against us eleven years ago. Upon the hearing of that case, held more than nine years ago, the Harvester Company was acquitted, both by the findings of the court and by the attorney general's admission of any wrongful dealings or unfair practices toward customers or competitors, but, to insure the fullest competition, a decree was entered in 1918 requiring the company to sell to competitors certain complete lines of harvesting machinery, and to limit its sales representation to a single dealer in any one town.

"That decree further provided that at the end of at least period which has now expired the government might ask the court to determine whether or not the free competition contemplated by the Sherman law exists in the farm implement industry. This step the government has now taken.

"As we understand it, the sole issue raised by the present petition relates to competitive conditions with respect to harvesting machines only. It does not charge the company with unduly raising the price of harvesting machinery to the grave injury of the American farmer, as was charged in 1912, but it does charge that the company has been unduly depressing the price of harvesting machinery, particularly since 1920, to the injury of its competitors.

"Without attempting to argue our case at this time, it seems fair to say that the unfortunate condition in which manufacturers of harvesting machines, and in fact of all other farm implements, find themselves, is due to the serious business depression that affected the entire country beginning in the fall of 1920.

"During the last few years the whole farm implement industry has been in an abnormal and distressing situation which directly reflects the situation of the farmer. High costs of labor, material and transportation have burdened it with high manufacturing costs, while on the other hand low prices for agricultural products have left the farmer unable to buy his normal and needed requirements of farming machinery.

"We are confident that the hearing on the present petition will clearly show that the Harvester Company is not in any way responsible for these conditions in the farm implement industry. Prices of harvesting machinery are the result of vigorous competition, exactly the kind of competition which the Sherman law was enacted to preserve, and are fairly comparable with the prices of other implements which the government concedes were fixed by normal competition."

C. J. CAMPBELL'S BARN DESTROYED BY FIRE

The News covers Lynn County like a blanket. Your advertising gets results. Help boost Lynn County by becoming a reader of the News.

Just as the News goes to press this Thursday morning, we learn that the barn and contents belonging to C. J. Campbell, a few miles southeast of Tahoka, was totally destroyed by fire. In conversation with Mr. Campbell, he stated that it was not known just how the fire started, as none of the family had been about the barn for several hours. The fire broke out in the center of building and spread both ways. Nothing was saved except a large stallion, which Mr. Campbell managed to get out, but not until after the horse was severely burned, which Mr. Campbell stated might result in his death. The contents, which included grain, harness, saddles, etc., was valued at around $1,000.00, and the structure was valued at $250.00. Two hundred dollars insurance was all Mr. Campbell carried on the building.

W. A. Stricklin, an employee of the City Barber Shop underwent an operation for a cyst on his neck at Lubbock Monday. The operation was successful and he will be back at his regular position in a few days.

Ford Cars Increasing Abroad Detroit, Mich.—Everywhere abroad there is an increasing demand for products of the Ford Motor company and it includes the whole Ford line, cars, trucks and Fordson tractors.

In the same months, Fordson tractor or sales amounted to 4,534, more than twice those of last year when 1,894 Fordsons were sold in foreign markets.

Photos From Scene of Bandit Activity in China

Dispatches from Peking say the government has sent Dr. Sun Yat Sen and his troops out to put a stop to further operations of the bandit bands. Smashing Up Discarded Vessels

This interesting photograph shows how United States ships which have been sold for junk are being smashed to smithereens in a few minutes at the yards of the Western Marine and Salvage company at Alexandria, Va. The large ball is raised to a height of 75 feet by a huge electro-magnet, and then when the current is cut off the two tons of steel drops with terrific force, breaking the hulls into fragments of commercial size.

TO TREAT DEAF PRINCE

Dr. Curtis H. Muncie of Brooklyn, N. Y., widely known as a specialist in diseases of the ear, has come to Europe, and admits he is going to treat "a well-known case of very severe deafness, given up by specialists in Europe." It is known that the patient is none other than Don Jaime, second son of King Alfonso, who has been deaf since birth. Dr. Muncie also accepted invitations to demonstrate his new method of "manipulative surgery" or "reconstruction of the Eustachian tube" before leading medical associations in London, Paris and Glasgow. He uses no instruments in his treatments of the deaf.

Peg Leg Bossy of Lima, Ohio

When old Bossy lost her right foreleg, amputated because of an infection, her owner, Dr. H. F. Fallor, a veterinary surgeon of Lima, Ohio, decided that a mere missing foreleg shouldn't cause him to destroy an otherwise perfectly serviceable cow. So he rigged up an artificial limb and now Bossy stumps around quite handily on her peg leg.

The Spend

Some folks waste their time, others waste their money, some waste food, others waste power. And we all waste strength. And out of a country one of the greatest universal wastes (I-A-N) believe the worst spending the person who wastes his life.

How many of us are giving our opportunities? mean letting them slip by did not see them. In such is some excuse. We mean around for years and following good opportunities and to learn things, and go to waste right before we know it all the time. some other day, I can go other time, I can learn to. But do we!

If it will not make you gusted with yourself, buy a pencil and a piece of paper. In ten minutes of the time otherwise throw away an invoice of the opportunity allowed to go to waste. Oh no, you can not think in ten minutes but that long as you will want to at one time. Begin when were a boy. We say "he" til very recently boys have the very fact that they proof that they should careful with them. And are saying these things, hope the boys and girls will not throw away the opportunities as so many folks have done.

But listen, boy! I have heard a man say the boys and girls throwing away and more opportunities parents ever had. How that mean you? Why opportunities today? or mother had yesterday reason for everything, the chief reason for it because you are going training and more going a full, useful, active, than then. If so, how able to live such your opportunities to build up a healthy body and to prepare useful, profitable world?

We do not ask any us but we believe a girl also should be teens how to make if they are spared should be taught by one thing well enough from temptation themselves should lives demand it. Of this world that some of us to live cause a few of us do a thing well. we wanted, our cause we never learn how to do. Right here in average school. The time is here. The Spendthrift of Opportunity

By Phebe K. Warner

Some folks waste their money while others waste their time. Some women waste food, others waste their clothes. Men waste machinery and grain and power. And we all waste our energy and strength. And out here in our country one of the greatest and most universal wastes is LAND. But we believe the worst spendthrift of all is the person who wastes his opportunity.

How many of us are guilty of wasting our opportunities? We do not mean letting them slip by because we did not see them. In such cases there is some excuse. We mean just sitting around for years and years and allowing good opportunities to do things, and to learn things, and to have things go to waste right before our eyes and we know it all the time. "I can do that some other day. I can get that some other time. I can learn that any time." But do we?

If it will not make you feel too disgusted with yourself suppose you get a pencil and a piece of paper and take ten minutes of the time you would otherwise throw away and make an invoice of the opportunities you are allowed to go to waste in your life. Oh no, you can not think of all of them in ten minutes but that is about as long as you will want to think about it at one time. Begin back when you were a boy. We say "boy" because until very recently boys had more opportunities to waste than girls had. But the very fact that they had more was proof that they should have been more careful with them. And one reason we are saying these things is because we hope the boys and girls of this day will not throw away their greatest opportunities as so many of us older folks have done.

But listen, boys! Listen, girls! We heard a man say the other day that the boys and girls of today were throwing away and absolutely wasting more opportunities now than their parents ever had. How about it? Does that mean you? Why have you more opportunities today than your father or mother had yesterday? There is a reason for everything. And we believe the chief reason for this condition is because you are going to need more training and more preparation to live a full, useful, active, happy life now than then. If so, how are you going to be able to live such a life if you waste your opportunities to get an education, to build up a healthy mind in a healthy body and to prepare yourself for some useful, profitable service in this world?

We do not ask any one to agree with us but we believe every boy and every girl also should be taught in their teens how to make a living. And then if they are spared to grow older they should be taught how to do at least one thing well enough to protect them from temptation and to provide for themselves should the future of their lives demand it. One thing that all this world that makes it so hard for some of us to live happily in it is because so few of us were ever trained to do a thing well. Now was this because we wasted our opportunities or because we never had an opportunity to learn how to do so very much?

Right here is something for the average school trustee to think about. The time is here. The children are here. The work is here to be done. More children drop out of school because the school does not fit their needs than for any other reason. Then whose business, whose opportunity is it to provide the kind of education the world is demanding today? It is the school trustee's opportunity to make the schools of today fit the needs of today. How many of them are doing it? Not many. Most of them are still clinging to the old-fashioned system of education that has been driving boys out of school for the past quarter of a century and refuse to change the system because it is more trouble and possibly a little more expense.

Perhaps in no other thing have we all neglected and wasted our opportunities so recklessly as in education. This will not apply to the men who were boys forty and fifty years ago. Many of them had no chance to go to school but how about today with free schools every where and 90 percent of our children out and gone from school forever before they even reach the free high school? We believe our greatest wasted opportunities as a nation is in education. The government provides some kind of education for all the children but only a small percent are getting it.

Another awful waste of opportunity throughout our nation is HEALTH. How people do squander their physical assets. And when health is swept away it carries every other opportunity with it. Why do we go on neglecting our teeth, our eyes, our ears, our feet, our back, our heart and stomach when we have the opportunity every day to have something done for them? And oh, how we suffer and suffer over our wasted opportunities for our children after it is too late.

Then there are business opportunities and professional opportunities and domestic opportunities and civic and national opportunities that come to us not only individually but collectively. Who is to blame when the town or community, the county or State lets an opportunity pass by unheeded. How many of us are guilty of not doing our civic duty when the occasion presented itself? And what was the result when enough of us failed to go to the polls and cast our judgment into the ballot box for the good of some common cause?

Some of these days the people of Texas are going to have a chance to vote on a highway amendment that is intended to give the State a better system of public highways. And this amendment will mean several millions of Federal funds for the purpose of building a highway system through the State. How many of us will be ready to vote intelligently on that amendment when the time comes? How many of us will go to the trouble of going to the voting place that day and register our wishes for better roads and $30,000,000 Federal aid for our State? Or will we say, "Oh, my vote won't amount to anything. One vote either way won't make much difference." Let a few hundred thousand voters act on this plan and the measure would be lost. Lost by indifferent friends who threw away their opportunity to do a good thing for their State when they had a chance.

The election for this amendment has been put off and will not take place July 28 as first planned but it will be long until the election will be called for again. Let's get ready in the meantime and be prepared intelligently when the time comes. Whatever else we waste, let's not be spendthrifts of our opportunities for some day we may have to give an account of how we used our opportunities the same as how we used our time and money.

WHAT'S WRONG WITH THE WOMEN?

If Christ should visit the earth in this hectic era of jazz and flappers and bootleggers gone mad what would he see and what would be his reactions to it all?

That, in a broad way, is the theme of David Carson Goodman's stupendous drama of human passions "What's Wrong with the Women?" presented by a brilliant all star cast at the Star Theatre where it will have an engagement 2 days beginning Thursday, a huge canvass of cyclonic emotions. His characters are real, flesh and blood men and women, most of whom move in the swift set of the world's fastest and most furious metropolis. But he deals not merely with individual. With the facility of the master story teller, Mr. Goodman takes a great world problem, goes right to the core of his subject and treats it in a big and inspiring manner. It is in no way an attack on womanhood. It is no way a sermon. But in the very magnitude of its treatment it drives home a lesson the whole world will be better for having seen.

R. William Neil directed the production with fine discrimination. He had splendid support from one of the most brilliant casts ever assembled for a picture. Among those who take part are Wilton Lackaye, Julia Swayne Gordon, Montague Love, Rod La Roque, Huntley Gordon, Barbara Castleton, Constance Bennett, Hedda Hooper, Paul M'Allister and others.

Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Hayes and daughter Junia went to Slaton Sunday afternoon and heard Joe Carzoneri, an Italian tell of his conversion to Protestant Christianity. Mr. Carzoneri is an evangelist singer, connected with the Perry Evans evangelistic party who conducted a revival in Lubbock the past two weeks. Miss Brooks, the pianist, was also present and added greatly to the afternoon program.

C. W. Roberts, formerly of Sea-graves, but who has been attending Baylor University at Waco the past year, was a visitor in Tahoka Saturday. He was enroute to Dawson county on a visit with his parents. Mr. Roberts was a candidate for representative in this district last election, and is quite well known by the voters over Lynn county. He has been engaged to teach in the Toyah public schools during the 1923-1924 term.

his taking my last farthing—on Louisa, because of her airs. Enough, it's done. Sazarc can challenge and be d-d. He can send a second—if he knows a gentleman in the city, which is improbable—when I am sober. My affair is in Langhorne's hands. Now, to bed!"

He staggered along the gallery. But suddenly, with a start, a boy—a face serene in the moonlight—Captain Sazarc addressed him.

"Sir, I am minded to recall my words. Now, I shall claim my wager!" "I say—to bed!" mumbled Carr thickly. He reeled at his door, waved a palsied finger at them and crashed against the furniture within.

Miss Lestron stood at the balustrade of the winding staircase as the stranger was descending. A step below he turned.

"I claim my wager. Let them have a care who put a jest upon me in this town! The sea is near . . . and it is wide. Wide, Mademoiselle, and deep; and far—very far, is the way to its secret places."

"I do not understand." She was watching him intently. He had gone to the next turn of the staircase. The moonlight struck the silver of his sword hilt. She leaned forth, and her eyes struck from his own when he glanced up. "Far?" she whispered: "And it may be beautiful!"

He watched her lips. The perfume of the jasmine wild seemed to rise from the court and engage her; she seemed aloft in a purple sea formed by the shadows. A face, a form luminous in the mists of his dark years of remembrance. The soul of the youth was stirring. . . he had dared all, lost all, in decisions quick, hot, pregnant as this, in days long put behind.

"I love you," he said quietly. "You will remember that." "She heard his boot on the stones of the court. He was passing the pomegranate clump when he thought something flashed near him in the moonlight."

A white thing, a light thing—a feather, a petal in the air. But he saw no more, nor heard a sound from above. He went to the untenanted street, wondering if she had waited until his footsteps died away. He wondered why he had spoken; he then he laughed. Sazarc, the packet gamster. . . Jean Lafitte, last of the sea-adventurers—ghost of a vanished life, back to tread the streets where his life was not worth the flicker of a moonbeam in the jasmine screen below her window.

After he had gone, something did stir. A man crawled out from the shadows across the area, went to the garden center of the court and searched under the fig and pomegranate leaves. Presently he muttered and straightened up, a white blossom in his hand.

"Eh?" he said. "A camella. . . It has been in her hair. She was to wear it to the opera, and Carr's orgy tonight prevented. I would have seen her pass. . . she would have thought me a red-eyed beggar standing by the arway, but I would have seen her pass."

John Jarvis stared up at the silent balcony. Then he, too, went his way. "The Cafe la Veau Qui Tete—" he grumbled. "I shall put on my old waistcoat again to get drunk in Sazarc! D—n this Sazarc! A flower from her hair, and the fool did not see it! A flower for Sazarc!"

At the Cafe la Veau he entered by the garden gate and went to sit among the huge vine tuns under the tiled shed. "Three measures of liquor and I could paint a white camella against her hair," he mused; "but the taproom and I together could not paint love in her eye—for me."

After that he sought a bench and slept. Presently in came another and by the same nearly passageway. A huge seaman, this, with broad hairy chest, and itooped arms. He examined the sleeping painter, took off his coat and spread it above him. "He must be kept drunk and asleep," muttered Johnness. "The fool would shout if he returned the town—the Captain Jean returned, and meeting us old ghosts up from the islands! Enter, Old Silt-Nose! None here save John, the taproom avocet. A howl from him and he draws my knife point! Sit quiet and wait. Our host gave me the keys and is abed. . . he prefers not to know what he should not know, like any wise man!"

"Jean, whom I painted at the famous isle! Jean!"

Try This Formula for Feet. Not alone upon the choice of shoes does the comfort of the feet depend. Even perfectly healthy, normal feet need particular daily care. With such care even tender feet become normal. After shopping or walking and at the close of the day, it is an excellent thing to bathe the feet in cold water, Julia Wolfe writes in the Health Builder. If you cannot endure the shock of cold water at first, begin with tepid water and add the cold water gradually. When it is convenient, the faucet—cold water—should be allowed to play upon the feet. The reaction of the cold water side circulation and gives tone to the arteries. Use no soap in the tepid foot bath; free alkali, which might be present in the soap, tends to blister the feet. Use the Health Builder's foot powder. With this treatment (continues) daily, one's feet soon grow healthy and foot troubles are a thing of the past.

JUNIOR TOPIC—What Jesus Did for Matthew. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Matthew Overcomes a Handicap. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Matthew, a Study of Conversion.

1. Who Matthew Was. Or Matthew little is known, even his birth place is concealed. Our first sight of him is seated at the toll booth collecting taxes. The tax gatherer was hated by the people because he collected taxes for the alien government under whose yoke they were groaning. This hate was the more bitter because of the extortion usually practiced by those in rule. From the meager accounts we find that Matthew was:

1. A Man of Decision. We do not know whether he had ever seen or heard of Jesus before this time, but we note that he at once arose and followed Jesus. Without doubt, there were many things to concern him. It was no little task to break off from his business which apparently was very lucrative.

2. He Was a Humble Man. In chapter 10, verse 3, the order in which he gives his own name and the fact that he designates himself a "publican" would show that he did not overestimate himself.

3. He Possessed Force of Character. This is shown in the fact that he gave a feast and invited his friends in to see and hear his Lord. He had two names, Levi, which means "attached" or "joined," and Matthew, which means "gift of Jehovah." Most likely Matthew was the name assumed after his conversion.

11. Matthew's Call or Conversion (Math. 9:9). 1. As Jesus Passed By, He "Saw a Man." He saw the possibilities which were in Matthew. He saw through the hated profession of a tax gatherer the shining possibilities of his manhood and apostleship. He saw in him the man fit to perceive and portray the Messiahship of the Redeemer. The divine grace was revealed in this call. Jesus sees what is in man regardless of name or profession.

2. Matthew's Response (v. 9). He acted with decision and promptness; he left his business behind him. When Jesus said, "Follow Me," Matthew perceived that greater than man had spoken to him. May we yield our selves unto Him and render such simple obedience that our actions may be but the echoes of the divine voice in commanding. Two things in Matthew's compliance prove the genuineness of his conversion: 1. "He Left All" (Luke 5:28). Real conversion always results in the forsaking of all that is contrary to Jesus, such as illegitimate business, wicked associates and worldly pleasures, etc.

2. "Followed." Jesus' following Jesus means the commitment of one's life to Him for full salvation, abandonment of the will to Him to do whatsoever He wills, and a willingness to suffer, and even die, if need be, for Him. 111. Matthew Made a Great Feast (Luke 5:29-32). This feast was made in honor of his newly found Savior. His conversion was so real that he wanted his friends to become acquainted with his Savior. He was not ashamed to confess his Lord before a feast much more readily than they will to a sermon. A great company of sinners came, who doubtless had been Matthew's companions in sin. He now desired them to become his brothers in Christ. The Scribes and Pharisees were astonished with such would appear in company with such a motley crowd of disreputable persons. They were so cowardly to speak to Jesus but they came to the disciples. Jesus championed their cause and battled His adversaries. His reasoning was unanswerable. A physician's place is among the sick. Only those who are diseased should come to the doctor's house. Since spiritual matters are of more importance than physical, Jesus was more than justified in being in the center of those who were morally sick that He might heal them of their maladies. He came to call sinners to repentance.

The KITCHEN CABINET (© 1924, Western Newspaper Union.) Still one thing remains to furnish the House Beautiful, without which guests and books and flowers only emphasize the fact that the house is not a home. I mean the warm light in the rooms that comes from kind eyes, from quick unconscious smiles, from gentleness in tones, from little unpremeditated caresses of manner, from habits of thoughtfulness for one another—all that happy illustration which, in the inside of a house corresponds to morning sunlight outside falling on dewy fields. —William Channing Gannett.

SOMETHING TO EAT Cookies are always an asset in any culinary department. The advantage of cookies over cake is that they do not become dry and stale if kept in airtight cans.

1. Coconut Hermit.—Take one cupful of butter, cream with one cupful of sugar, add one well-beaten egg, and one cupful of coconut, three-fourths of a cupful of dates; mix flour with two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one-half teaspoonful each of salt and allspice and cloves, three-fourths of a teaspoonful of cinnamon. Beat well and drop from a teaspoon onto a buttered sheet. Bake twelve to fifteen minutes in a moderate oven.

2. Bran Macaroons.—Take one cupful each of flour and bran, one tablespoonful of butter, one tablespoonful of sugar, three-fourths of a cupful of milk, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one egg and a pinch of salt. Cream the butter and sugar, add molasses, milk, and egg lightly beaten. Mix and sift the dry ingredients, combine mixtures, adding the raisins which have been steamed. Turn into a buttered mold and steam two and one-half hours. Serve with any desired sauce.

3. Ham Omelet.—Put cold boiled or baked ham through the meat chopper, using from one-half cupful to a cupful, depending upon the size of the omelet. Beat the eggs, separating the whites and yolks, add as many tablespoonfuls of cold water to the yolks as the number of eggs used, season with salt, fold in the stiffly-beaten whites and cook as usual. Just before folding, sprinkle the top of the omelet with the ham, or grated cheese may be used. Set into the oven to set the top if it does not seem quite cooked; then fold and serve at once.

4. Plum Conserves.—Take one box of occasional use (than a properly blended conserve). This is the time of the year to fill the shelves for the winter. As conserves are a rich preserve very little is needed for a serving. A jelly glass should serve eight to ten people.

5. Strawberry Preserves.—Take a quart of sugar and one cupful of water, boil until it hairs, now add three pints of until it hairs, now add three pints of strawberries and boil fifteen minutes, strain into an earthen dish and let stand overnight. Can cold. Cherries may be canned in the same way.

6. Grape Conserves.—Take seven pounds of grapes, pulp and seed them, return to the skin to the pulp. Grate the rind of four oranges and squeeze the juice, of four oranges and two lemons; boil together for fifteen minutes, add five pounds of sugar, one pound of seeded raisins, one pint of canned-drained cherries, one-half pound of pecan meats. Cook fifteen minutes with one cupful of the cherry juice. Can or put into glasses.

Thousands of women have kidney and bladder trouble and never suspect it. Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease. If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased. Pain in the back, headache, loss of ambition, nervousness, are often times symptoms of kidney trouble. Don't delay starting treatment. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a physician's prescription, obtained at any drug store, may be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions. Get a medium or large size bottle immediately from any drug store. However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Advertisement.

The Romans used quails as well as cocks for fighting. Quail combats were well known among the ancients, and especially at Athens. The Chinese have been always extremely fond of quail-fighting, as appears from many accounts of those people. The Sumatrans likewise use the birds in the manner of gamecocks. Cocks and quail, fitted for the purpose of engaging one another to the last gasp for diversion are frequently compared by the Roman writers to gladiators, remarks the Detroit News. A circle was made in which the birds were placed, and he whose quail was driven out of the circle lost the stake, which was sometimes money and occasionally the quails themselves. Another practice was to produce one of the birds, which being first filled with the middle finger, a feather was then plucked from its head. If the quail bore this operation without flinching his master gained the stake, but lost it if the bird ran away.

American Advertiser for Thrill. The other afternoon a young American rented an airplane at the Bourget field which he will utilize, he declares, to scatter handbills all over Paris, says Le Petit Parisien. A sample of these handbills reads as follows: "An American, for the first time in Paris, would like to lunch at noon next Tuesday with the most interesting anarchist in the capital; Wednesday, with a graduate student of art or music; Thursday, with an actress; Friday, with some lady who intends to commit suicide, and Saturday, with a nobleman."

THOUSANDS ATTEND LEGION BARBECUE AND PICNIC FRIDAY

crowd estimated at from 5000 to 6000 people, attended the American Legion Barbecue and Picnic in Tahoka Friday of last week. The picnic was pronounced a great success from every viewpoint, and hundreds of persons were heard to express their appreciation of the efficient manner in which the affair was held and successfully carried out by members of the local post of the American Legion.

The big parade was scheduled to start at 10 o'clock, but was delayed, as is usually the case with all parades. Led by three bands carrying "Old Glory", followed by the sixty-five piece band of Lamesa, the long line of decorated floats and automobiles of the various firms of Tahoka, also the big army gun, secured by the Legion at the head of the parade, which moved slowly over the streets of the city. Thousands viewed the parade from all sides of the streets, and many compliments were passed on the attractive and various decorated vehicles in the procession.

After the ball games, the crowd assembled at the rodeo grounds immediately west of the park. There were something like 325 automobiles parked in a circle around the rodeo grounds.

First came the goat roping. Tom Standre, of Plainview, won first; time 10 seconds. Oscar Sumner, of Tahoka, second, with second loop; time 20 seconds.

In the wild cow roping contest Tom Standre, Plainview, Texas, won 1st; time 24 seconds. Gray Anderson, 2nd time 28 seconds.

Calif roping: Tom Standre, Plainview, 1st. Oscar Sumner, Tahoka, second. Virgil Mitchell, third.

Wild steer riding: Concho Bill, 1st; Marvin Garrett, 2nd.

Bronco riding: Marvin Garrett, 1st; Floyd, 2nd.

Concho Bill from Concho, entertained the crowd with some trick riding on a wild steer, and it was indeed entertaining, for he rode forwards, backwards, and all over that steer before he had finished.

Then came the main event of the afternoon, the riding of the 1200-pound black horse, known as "Easy Money." Virgil Cooper, of Lamesa, rode this horse and won the $25.00 offered by the Legion for a rider. Although the horse pitched hard and fast, Cooper seemed to set in the saddle with all the ease and grace of an experienced bronc peeler.

The band contest was next in order, which took place on the court house lawn. Four bands entered the contest: Lamesa, Lorenzo, Slaton and Brownfield. The Legion had offered $75.00 and $25.00 first and second prizes for the best band. Lorenzo carried off first prize, while Lamesa took second money. Slaton and Brownfield had splendid bands and many were the compliments heard on the selections rendered by these organizations during the day. The music was instrumental in making the program a huge success.

Only one accident occurred during the day, which was very much regretted. The nine-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Flemming, residing 11 miles east, was run down by an automobile near the Guaranty State Bank building. The car was driven by a lady. It is later learned that the girl was seriously injured internally. It is hoped that her injuries will not result fatally. It is a wonder that more accidents did not occur owing to the jam in traffic on the principal streets.

This celebration tendered by the Marion G. Bradley Post of the American Legion will long be remembered by the thousands in attendance, and also, it left a good impression in the minds of the visitors that Tahoka entertained them royally every minute of their stay here.

Although Tahoka does not give a picnic and barbecue very often, it has long since been learned that she never does anything by halves, and the barbecue only served to prove this assertion.

Tahoka is proud of her Legion men and is every willing and ready to back them up with the coin of the realm in celebration of this kind. Beyond in celebration of this kind. Beyond in celebration of this kind. Beyond in celebration of this kind.
